Mrs. H. Kotmyer has been visiting Mrs. J. Kotmyer, at Home City.

Jerry Garnett is happy because it is a boy, and Henry J. Aylor, because it is a girl.

F. Russell has been hauling pine timbers to Limaburg to have them sawed into lumber.

Coroner Murat and a jury held an inquest on a floater caught at Taylorsport, the other day.

Our ball team played its first game last Saturday with the Taylorsport team—score, 13 to 10 in favor of Constance.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.
Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.
Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,
MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.
For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

W. N. HIND & Co.
213 W. FIFTH ST.
Cincinnati, O.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitatious. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn St., Chicago.

MADE FAMOUS
In the story of "Jonathan and His Continent," by Max O'Rell. When you want to read a real live newspaper The Hazel Green Herald fills the bill. $1 a year always in advance. The editor is "a free-silver crank," but original and up to date, single copies having sold as high as $1 each. Advertisers are strictly "in it" from the time they secure space. Send subscriptions, and write for ad rates, to—
SPENCE COOPER, Hazel Green, Ky.

A. P. WALTON,
DENTIST.
121 Garfield Place,
Cincinnati, - - Ohio.
First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

Steam :-: Ferry
—AT—
TAYLORSPORT.
I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.
July-2S S. H. GOODIN.

Assignees' Notice.

All persons indebted to W. H. Smith are hereby notified that they must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said Smith must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.
LEWIS RICE, Assignee.

NOTICE.

All persons holding claims against A. G. Fisk are hereby notified that they must present them to me at once proven as by law required, those owing same will please come forward and settle at once. J. M. LASSING,
Assignee.

NOTICE.

J. Wash Watts will stand his horse, JOE J. on Wednesday and Thursday of each week at his stable near Bullittsville, and the remainder of the week at Florence, Ky. Terms—$8 to insure a living colt.

WE Want to be Kept Busy.
It costs us as much to do nothing as to be busy, so that our time may be fully employed we quote the following
—Very Low Prices:—

Stand. Granulated Sugar, 21 lbs.	$1 00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound,	15c
Oil Sardines per can,	3c
Mustard Sardines per can,	5c
Hominy, 3 quarts,	10c
Headlight Oil, per gallon,	9c
Rolled Oats, 3 lbs. for	10c
Ladies Fine Shoes,	$1 00
Gent's Fine Shoes, per pair,	$1 00

Give us a Call W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.
BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,
BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.,
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS,
Notions, Groceries, Etc.
Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!
at Lowest : Cash : Prices.
—TOBACCO CANVASS, CHEAP.—
Market : Price : Paid : for : Produce.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.
The J. L. BILL
Coffee and Tea Co.
THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR,
12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,
COVINGTON, KY.
WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

Come And See
THE QUALITY OF MY GOODS
Then Look at Prices.
A FULL LINE OF TAN SHOES
For Men, Women and Children, at prices
RANGING FROM 40 CENTS UP.
TINWARE Very CHEAP
Our pile of 5 cent Calico has grown and embraces many Beautiful Patterns. Dress Ginghams 6 cents up.
Don't forget that Everybody is Welcome to Inspect Goods
—WHETHER YOU BUY OR NOT.—
Deering Roller Bearing Harvesting Machines are Daisies.
COME AND SEE,
T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Keystone Buggy Company,
CINCINNATI, - - OHIO.
FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS,
—MANUFACTURERS—
Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles.
$67 Like Cut.

Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent
QUALITY AT A VERY LOW PRICE.
Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.
All Jobs Made to Order. Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.
References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sothern, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigler, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Uizinger; Rolla Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Utz, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.
Call on or address,
R. L. BRADFORD, : Hebron, Ky.
Agent for Boone County.
TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

"YOUNG DOC'S" WAGER.

BY PAUL DANBY.

[Copyright, 1897.]

The real beginning of this story was at about midsummer some 13 years ago. Melville Opdyke, who was reading medicine here with old Doc Thomas, had been driving over the hill to the Wilsey settlement pretty regular for some time. One afternoon he started rather earlier than common, and as usual drove straight to Gavin Ingram's. "Young Doc," as we all called Melville then, got to Ingram's just as the old man had comfortably settled himself on his front stoop to enjoy his after-supper pipe. Opdyke tied his horse in front of the house and went and sat down by Ingram, and told him why he had driven over. Ingram smoked hard while the young man was talking. When he had finished the older man took his pipe out of his mouth, threw back his shaggy head and laughed till his big chest heaved like a blacksmith's bellows. When he had got his breath he looked the young man over with great care.

"NO YOUNG PILL-ROLLER WITH SOFT PADDIES CAN HAVE MY LASS."

"I declare, Young Doc," he said at last, in his strong north of Ireland way of talking which I can't quite reproduce, "the very notion is enough to make old Bald Hill turn over between the valleys and snicker. To think of my Meg a-marryin' with a slim young chap like you, that don't do enough work from one year's end to another to make water blisters come in the palms of his hands.

"Nay, nay! No young pill-roller with soft paddies and lace shoes, who wears a white collar all the time as if every day was the Sabbath, can have my lass. It would be as easy for the lunatics that are hankerin' to see the cars here in this valley to get the line of the new railroads changed as for the likes of you to win Meg.

"Take no offence, lad," Gavin Ingram went on commiseratingly, "I don't dislike ye—not I—you can't help it that ye were born to tend sick folks instead of doing good, honest hard work, and of course ye can't help being taken up with Meg, but you must surely get that foolish notion out of your boy's head."

TOOK HIS POSITION RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE LINE.

"Young Doc" heard Gavin through as patiently as Gavin had listened to him. Just as the older man finished, the younger one looked up and saw Meg, pale and with blazing eyes, standing in the door-way. She put her finger on her lips and stepped softly back into the house.

"Well, Gavin Ingram," said Melville, as calmly as he could, "I'm right sorry you feel that way. But I'll tell you one thing. I'll marry Meg and you'll see the railroad trains running through this valley and right across your own flats."

This seemed to amuse Gavin more than ever, and again he laughed long and hearty.

"Well, well," he said after awhile, "we'll see. And I'll make a bargain with you right now, my fine fellow. If the railroad is ever built through this valley ye shall have Meg and welcome, providing she'll have you, unless in the meantime ye've gotten tired of wating. But if it don't then ye must say no more about marrying with her. Ye may come and see her once in awhile, if ye're so minded, for I can trust my lass; but that's all. Is't a bargain?"

"Young Doc" saw that his bluff had been called and he didn't quite see his way clear to back out; so he put out his hand for a shake on the compact, though he was hardly prepared for Gavin's next move.

"Now," said the old man, "we'll call the lass and explain it all to her so that everything 'ill be fair and above board."

She was at first inclined to be indignant at Melville, but she masked her feelings very well, so far as her words were concerned, and it was too late in the evening for her father to read her face. After the situation had been made quite clear, old Gavin went into the house and left the lovers to talk it over together on the porch while the stars came out.

"Young Doc" did not have a long conversation with Meg that evening. There were still traces of tears on her face when he drove away, but her last words to him showed that she was not altogether sure her lover had the worst end of the bargain.

"Well, Melville," she said, "maybe you're right, but suppose you should be wrong? You wouldn't dare break your word to Gavin Ingram!"

"I'll not have to, Meg, never fear, but even if I'm wrong we'll find some way to change his mind."

It was not over the hill and towards the Corners that Melville turned his horse's head when he drove away from Gavin Ingram's that night, but in the direction of Slatertown, where he knew the chief engineer of the new railroad was staying for a few days. The young medical student had chanced to make himself of some service in dressing a sprained ankle for this great personage a few days previous, and therefore had no difficulty in getting him to listen to his story. It was long past midnight when they parted and the "young doc" whistled confidently to himself as he drove over Bald Hill back to the Corners.

A few days later Gavin Ingram, whose opinion of Melville had not been at all increased by the latter's apparent lack of nerve with regard to Meg, was surprised on going to the Wilseyville post office after his mail, by the sight of a placard printed in the blackest of bold faced type.

"Railroad meeting" was its title, and the substance of the bill was a strong appeal to the public spirited citizens of the township to turn out and make one more last effort to procure a change in the route of the new railroad. It had been learned, according to the announcement, that the change could be effected by the securing of a comparatively small stock subscription, a fair percentage of "free right of way," and the bonding of the township for only $25,000. A little group of farmers were talking it over while Gavin read it through and they urged him to support the new movement. It had been discovered through a new preliminary survey, they informed him, that the route around Bald Hill and through the Wilsey settlement to Slatertown was after all more feasible than through Barkley's Corners, on the other side of the hill, and that was why, they said, the amount of bonds demanded by the company had been reduced from $75,000 to $25,000.

TOOK HIS POSITION RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE LINE.

"And I hear, Gavin," said one of the farmers, "that this is all the doin's of young Doc Opdyke, the feller that has just moved down to Slatertown from Barkley's Corners and is readin' medicine now with Doc Silvernail. Great feller that 'Young Doc,' I hear. Going to make a speech to the meetin', I'm told. Better come, Gavin; they say he's got the thing all worked out and that we'll see the railroad a-running right through our farms. For one, I hope we do. We're all a-goin' to sleep as fast as we can here, and the Barkley Corners' folks is crowin' over us in great style."

Gavin was so mad about it that he could hardly talk. Finally he found voice enough to swear he'd never go to the meeting, and then he drove away in a high state of indignation.

Well, the meeting was a great success. Gavin tried to stay away, but he couldn't, though when he got there he did his best first to work up a strong no-railroad sentiment, and then to break up the gathering. But it was of no use. Young Doc had laid his plans too well, and he carried the meeting with him from start to finish. His speech was a masterpiece. He told the assembled farmers all about the natural advantages of their township, and the beauties of their valley. Then he pictured the disgrace it would be to such an enterprising lot of citizens if the road were to be gobbled up by such a backwoods and behind-hand settlement as Barkley's Corners. He had himself left the Corners because of the superior attractions of their township and he was personally so much interested that he would start the subscription with $200, nearly his entire savings from his wages as a school-teacher before he had begun to read medicine. If the others would properly follow suit and then vote the bonds at a special town meeting, to be called some time the next week, the prize would be won.

"Young Doc" must have accomplished a good deal among the farmers before the meeting, as well as in his speech, for the needed subscriptions were all made, and a resolution in favor of bonding at a special town meeting to be held the next month was passed without a dissenting voice, Gavin being too enraged to vote at all. It was then that the real fight began. Although Gavin had been the only one present at the meeting who was opposed to the railroad, there were several others in the township, and they and Ingram strained every nerve to frustrate Young Doc's plan. Gavin did most, of course, & —— And a double motive. He hardly slept until the day of the special meeting, and he called on almost every voter in the settlement. Of course Young Doc didn't rest a minute, and Miss Meg wanted to help, but Gavin, in a voice of thunder, forbade her going out of the house or seeing Opdyke till after the fight was over, and both she and her lover thought it best to heed her father's command.

At the finish Young Doc won. The bonding proposition was carried by a vote of three to one.

Before winter set in grading was well begun in the valley, and by next midsummer the construction train actually crossed the flat lands of Gavin's farm, and the engine seemed to toot a laugh at the old Londonderry man every time the engineer pulled the whistle cord. Gavin made a great stand against the men when they got ready to go to work on his land, taking up his position right in the middle of the line as surveyed, but a dozen of the men picked him up bodily and carried him away roaring with rage, in spite of his frantic struggles. It was a great lesson to him, and he took it to heart most pitifully. For a month or two he managed to avoid Young Doc, but the meeting could not be put off for ever, and one day they ran against one another at Graham's store at Slatertown. Young Doc held out his hand, but for a minute Ingram refused to see it. Then he suddenly changed his mind, and gripped Opdyke's hand till the bones cracked.

"You're a fine lad, Young Doc," said Gavin, "and I'd be pleased to welcome ye at the house whenever ye're minded to come up and set the day. Ye've won yer point, and I'll not gainsay ye yer reward."

It was not till after that that any outsider knew why Young Doc had taken up the railroad fight, but when it got noised abroad it made him more popular than ever, for everybody then thought the building of the railroad would make good-sized towns spring up at every crossroad. Whether it did or not is neither here nor there. For years nobody knew, either, that the railroad men had made up their minds that the Wilseyville route was the better of the two before ever Melville Opdyke went to see the engineer, and that the latter always looked upon Young Doc's bargain with Gavin as an especial dispensation of providence in favor of the railroad company. It's only fair to say, though, that Young Doc didn't know this either.

Gavin Ingram was a great success in his defeat, for he gave his lass and Young Doc such a wedding as the valley had never seen before or since. He insisted on their being married right away after the rails were laid across his farm, and then he forced Young Doc to take enough money to carry him through his course at one of the big medical colleges, for Gavin was well heeled as to the dollars.

That's all there is to the story, but it isn't likely many folks outside the Corners and the Valley have ever before heard that he sought to change the route of a railroad to get his wife.

A Modest Request.

Dear Mr. Punch—Now that we are approaching the glorious event of June next, when, etc., etc. (editorially deleted), I think the time has arrived when an act of, etc., etc. (editorially deleted), should be shown to a most deserving, etc., etc. (editorially deleted) As you know, as at present arranged, the great historical procession which, etc., etc. (editorially deleted), is to travel via the Strand, Fleet street, etc., etc. (editorially deleted). What I would ask, and I ask it as one who has the greatest admiration for, etc., etc. (editorially deleted), is that the procession should pass by Turnham Green. I remain, dear Mr. Punch, yours, not entirely unknown to fame, Turnham Green.—London Punch.

A Queer Story.

"I heard a queer story about that mountain over yonder from our native driver to-day."

"What was that?"

"A young lady and gentleman went out for a walk on that hill; they went up higher and higher and—never came back again."

"Dear me! and what became of the unhappy pair?"

"They went down the other side."—Chicago News.

AGAINST AT HOME DAYS.

Reasons Why the Prevailing Custom Is Not Wholly Agreeable.

It has been said that at home days greatly restrict calling, in so far that to return a card which bears the date of an at home day upon it on any other day of the week shows a disregard of the at home day and an indifference as to whether the person called upon is at home or not, and any inability to return a call on one particular day of the week often occasions it to be delayed in most uncomplimentary manner, or even to be postponed indefinitely; therefore, endeavoring to avoid apparent want of courtesy in one direction brings about a distinct lack of the same in another for which many apologies on some subsequent meeting have to be made, which are rarely too cordially received. One of the advantages, however, of this system of allotting a certain day for a certain purpose is that it leaves the other afternoons of the week free, and insures being at home when friends and acquaintances call.

Introductions are far oftener made on at home days than at afternoon at homes, the reason for this being that early in the afternoon one or two ladies only usually arrive at the same time, and this almost obliges the lady called upon to make a semi-introduction, if not an actual one, between one or two of her visitors, as to render a conversation general between four strangers would be next to impossible, neither could they be allowed to remain seated in silence while the hostess was giving her attention to one or two of her visitors. When, however, she makes no attempt to introduce any of her callers, perhaps not considering it advisable to do so, they invariably take their departure at the earliest possible moment, unless two have arrived together—a mother and daughter or two sisters—in which case they can talk to each other until their hostess is at liberty to say a few words to them or until an acquaintance or two arrives.

To some people introductions occasion little thought or perplexity, others feel rather diffident with regard to making them and refrain from so doing unless absolutely obliged to make the effort. It might be urged that ladies sitting near to each other might reasonably exchange a few words, although not introduced. Sometimes they do so, and a little desultory conversation follows, but oftentimes they do not, and the reason is not far to seek. Although they may have got on well together, yet at any subsequent meeting they may not speak or even bow, they are ignorant of each other's names, and therefore, they remain strangers, with an uncomfortable consciousness that such is not entirely the case.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

FLOUNCES REAPPEAR.

They Are to Be Seen on All New Gowns.

It is perhaps a little premature to recommend flounced skirts. Several have been made, but it seems not yet quite certain whether the idea will take or whether it will remain one among the many experiments tried and dropped every spring. This is a word to the prudent, and having spoken it the conscientious writer may go on to describe what the dressmakers say will be the great rage in the spring.

The flounced skirt is in three stages, or it may be in five. If the material is thick the flounces are cut in godets, that is to say, in a curve, as capes used to be cut, which, when straightened out, gives fullness without gathers. Lay the pattern on the cloth so that the texture will run straight in the front and bias on the sides. The flounces are lined with thin silk before mounting on the skirt. Thus a model is made with the skirt of beige cloth in three flounces. It has a blouse of beige mousseline de soie brocaded with a little meander in white, and a bolero and sleeves of beige velvet. The bolero fits close and fastens invisibly, with the effect of a yoke. Narrow white belt. This gown is made for the Riviera; for a colder climate it may be copied in darker colors.

When the flounces are of thin material they may be cut straightways of the cloth and gathered or plaited. Thus, an all-black dinner gown has the skirt in three plaited flounces of mousseline de soie, with a blouse of velvet and jet and long shirred sleeves of the mousseline. Attention should be called to an innovation in this gown. Little flaps of velvet not more than two or two and a half inches deep are added on below the belt, carrying the blouse down with the suggestion of a basque. They are sewed to the skirt so as not to add thickness round the waist. I have seen a black gown with these little basques made of green velvet, and at the top of the neck band a turnover collar to match.—N. Y. World.

A Few Suggestions.

The wall space above a low divan can be protected by nailing a strip of picture molding across at a height easily above where the head of anyone sitting on the divan would come, and hanging from this by brass hooks almost any stuff that will harmonize with the divan coverlig. Let the drapery fall well below the seat. Matting may be fitted nearly on below the molding if preferred. Above the molding pictures may be hung or two or three irregular book shelves fitted across. This is particularly effective if the divan stands in a niche. In that case the molding should run quite around it. Molding and shelves, if such are used, should be stained or painted to match the woodwork of the room.—N. Y. Post.

Hair Dressing a la Mode.

The ruling tendency in the present mode of hairdressing is to make a full, soft puff all around the head. So the hair is pushed forward and held in place by long side-combs circling in shape to fit the head. Three and four of these are used, and the effect is not always becoming, especially when the locks are not very abundant.—Chicago Tribune.

FUNERALS OF THE HINDOOS.

Rites Observed in India by Relatives and Friends of the Deceased.

When a Hindoo dies the services of an undertaker are not needed, as word is immediately sent to the relatives and friends of the deceased, who meet at the house and attend to all the details of the funeral. Some of them buy at the bazaar the articles necessary for the ceremony, such as a piece of linen, copper pots, pieces of sandalwood, one earthen pot, some "ghee," or clarified butter, rice, a few split chips of bamboo and two strong bamboo poles for the bier. In rainy weather some oil and resin to revive the flames are added to the stock of necessaries.

A sacred grass, the "durbhas," and some "tulsi" leaves are spread over the bier.

It is very necessary that the son of the deceased should perform the ceremony. If he is absent at the time of the death the father or brother of the deceased or some other male member of the family may take his place. When there is no son in the family one is adopted for the purpose. The performer of the ceremony must first bathe, then shave off the mustache and bathe again. The priest constantly recites the "mantras," or sacred hymns, from the "Vedas." A sacred fire is lighted in the earthen pot and the body, after it is washed and bound about the waist with a piece of cloth, is stretched upon the bier and completely covered, save as to the face, which is left exposed. The friends then carry away the bier. The son, who lights the funeral pyre and is the chief mourner, walks ahead with the earthen pot in his hands. Every mourner is bareheaded—it must be so. I have frequently seen such processions in Benares and listened to the sad funeral dirge: "Ram, sri ram, ram volo bhai ram."

When the body reaches the burning ghats the mourners erect a pile after this fashion: Four strong posts about five feet high are firmly driven into the ground, and between them the piles are erected, so as to keep them from falling apart while burning. The body is placed upon the pile when half of it has been laid. During this part of the ceremony the "mantras" are repeated. When the body has been placed upon the pile some of the relatives and friends scatter pieces of sandalwood over the body. "Mantras" and prayers are again repeated and the remaining fuel is placed on the body. Then the chief mourner walks around the pile three times and fires it. Very soon it is a huge flame, and in about three hours the whole body is reduced to ashes. The fire is now put out, every mourner drops some water on the spot, in the name of the deceased, and then all proceed to the river or sea or one of the many tanks that abound in India to bathe. The poor are not forgotten, as alms are distributed. Before the mourners retire to their respective homes they return to the residence of the deceased to look at the lamp that was lighted on the spot where the body was kept.—N. Y. Times.

WORK OF SCIENCE.

Influence of Sanitation and Hygiene Upon City Life.

In a recent lecture on what sanitation has done for human life Prof. Brewer, of Yale university, said that no one doubts that human life has been prolonged by the application of science in the last 50 years. How much, mathematically, this amounts to in years, in per cent., is an unanswerable question. We can never have the data in figures. Even if we had our vital statistics completed for that period men would differ as to the relative values of the several factors in this problem. Our great cities would not exist—they could not exist—without the aids of science. We have had the ancient Egyptian and Greek and Roman civilizations, which were pagan, and later Christian civilization, and all were powerless to control practices. Between the epidemics which raged from time to time and the high death rate in the best years, the population of Europe as a whole probably scarcely increased at all for 1,000 or 1,200 years. This century came in without a single city in Christendom with 1,000,000 inhabitants. Paris had in 1800 but 548,000; London and the suburbs, in 1801, 864,845. The other English cities had less than 100,000. Great cities could not endure then. First, the people could not be fed. Then most of the food had to be produced within 20 miles of the place of consumption. Science has now made it possible to transport food half way around the globe and has discovered new methods of preservation as well. City population was not self-perpetuating. Men died off; the death rate was continually high, and from time to time there was death by pestilence. Even where there were sewers they were to drain the ground of water rather than to carry away sewage. Now cities are made nearly as healthy as the country.—Mining and Scientific Press.

The Shah's Harem.

The shah has an exceedingly small harem for an eastern monarch. There are not above 60 ladies, and he has four sons and 23 daughters. The only occasion any of the shah's wives are to be seen is in the streets of Teheran when they pass in carriages. When the ladies go out driving they are preceded by a gang of farashes, who caper ahead on their horses, shouting: "Go and hide yourselves!" And all men have to scamper up side streets or be thrashed.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Very Ambitious.

"Did you say that boy of yours was ambitious?"

"Ambitious! Well, I should say! Why, that boy does nothing but sit around all day and think of the great things he's going to do!"—Philadelphia North American.

She Recovered.

White—Did old Green recover from that railroad accident yet?

Black—No; but his wife did—to the tune of $10,000.—Twinkles.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

The great oratorical contest at Oberlin college recently was won by William Lee Washington, a colored sophomore from Lexington, Va.

The late Julia Cooper, of New York, left $150,000 to the Cooper union—a sum which will enable the institution to receive 200 more pupils.

Rev. Dr. Bronson, of the First Presbyterian church, Detroit, Mich., has resigned his pastorate to accept a call to the Tenth Presbyterian church of Philadelphia.

The late Charles Willard, a hermit of Battle Creek, Mich., left $40,000 to the public schools of Battle Creek for the erection of a library building, $40,000 to the Young Men's Christian association of Battle Creek for a building, and $40,000 to the Baptist college at Kalamazoo.

The library combination fever has reached Cleveland, O., and an effort is being made there to have the Case library and the public library housed under one roof. The Case library was endowed by one of Cleveland's many liberal citizens, and is open to any resident upon the payment of but one dollar annually. The public library, though not of many years' growth, already contains more than 150,000 volumes, and its circulation last year ranked fourth among the great libraries of the country.

THE FUR SEAL

Its Breeding Grounds, Growth, Home Life and Productiveness.

The male fur seal, or "beachmaster," reaches full maturity at the age of 17 years. At that time his weight is about 400 pounds, being considerably heavier when first in from the sea in the spring or after feeding in the fall than in the intervening period, when he fasts on land, and grows gradually lean and weak. The males vary considerably in color, the general shade being black or dark brown, with longer hair or bristles of yellowish white. These are especially long and numerous on the thickened back of the neck, forming the so-called "wig." The wigged males have a rough, coarse coat, and their skins are without market value. The animal makes its home on the rocky shores of the islands in large, closely-massed bands, forming what are called rookeries. It is extremely gregarious; individuals seldom venturing far from the main body while on land, though wandering about singly in the sea. The female fur seal is much smaller than the male, and has soft, smooth hair of varying shades of brown, under which is the dense, short, brown fur. The female bears her first offspring at the age of three years, but her full growth is not attained till two or three years later. The average weight of the grown female is about 90 pounds. The young, or fur seal, called a pup, is born soon after the arrival of the female. Its weight at birth is about ten pounds. The fur seal is polygamous, each male capable of holding a place on the breeding grounds having from one to one hundred females in his charge, constituting what is known as a "harem," the average number being about 30. But the size of each family is subject to variation, depending not chiefly on the strength of the male, but the preference of the female for a location and on the topography of the ground. The young male is very similar to the female in color and appearance. He is not permitted to enter the rookeries in the breeding season. The old males are very particular in this regard, and the "bachelors," as they are called, are forced to herd by themselves on what is known as the "hauling grounds," located near the breeding grounds, but distinct from them.—Forum.

Diving for a Wife.

In many of the Greek islands diving for sponges forms a considerable part of the occupation of the inhabitants. A visitor to this unfrequented region describes the following rather startling custom. He says: "Himia, which is a little island directly opposite Rhodes, is worthy of notice on account of the singular method by which the Greek inhabitants of the island get their living. On the bottom of the sea in this locality the common sponge is found in greater abundance than in any other part of the Mediterranean. The natives make it a trade to gather these, and their income from this source is far from contemptible. Their goods are always in demand among the Turks, who use an incredible number of sponges in the ablutions prescribed by the Mohammedan ritual. A girl in this island is not permitted to marry until she has brought up a certain number of sponges and given proof of her skill by taking them from a certain depth. But in certain of the islands this custom is reversed. The father of a marriageable daughter bestows her on the best diver among her suitors. He who can stay longest in the water and bring up the biggest cargo of sponges marries the maid."—Boston Post.

A Long-Felt Want.

Candidate—You are a workingman, are you not?

Workingman—I am, sir.

Candidate—Well, I am a candidate for a position of trust, and I wish to say to the sons of toil—

Workingman (who is tired of taffy and disgusted with its results)—I am very busy now, sir.

Candidate—I was merely going to say that if elected I shouldn't do any more for the workingmen than for anybody else, because I don't care a continental for one class more than another, and I don't think there should be any classes in legislation, anyhow.

Workingman (grasping his hand)—You'll get my vote.—N. Y. Weekly.

Unavoidable.

Mrs. Thompkins—You really must get another corner in the office, my dear, if it's so cold where you sit now.

Mr. Thompkins—That wouldn't do any good, love; the whole office is cold. You see, the new typewriter is from Boston.—N. Y. Tribune.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

STABLE DRESSING.

Valuable Hints About Preserving It in Good Condition.

We hear much about the desirability of manure cellars, covered barnyards, manure sheds and other covered quarters for housing dressing until one is ready to apply it to the land; but the fact remains that the average farmer who is not now blessed with one of these means of preserving manure at its best, does not, in nine cases out of ten, see his way clear to provide himself with one of them. The barn that is now without a cellar cannot easily be fitted out with this desirable adjunct. Building additional roofs to cover stable manure is not looked upon with favor in these days when every dollar has its appointed mission marked out for it, even before it is received.

FOUNDATION FOR MANURE HEAP.

It is all very well to describe ideal conditions, but it seems to me that more good is often done in describing conditions that are less than ideal, but still serviceable, practical and easily within the reach of all.

With this end in view, I present a sectional view of a homemade foundation for a manure heap in the open air, which will keep the manure in a condition very nearly at its best. This foundation is made just far enough away from the stable to escape any drip from the eaves. It is made square or round, as may be preferred, and has a rough stone wall about the outer edge extending down below the frost line. Within this, over the surface of the ground, are placed loose stones, lowest in the center, as shown. A coat of cement, two inches thick, is placed over them, the surface thus being made saucer-shaped.

To this foundation is wheeled the manure from the cow and horse stalls, the latter being spread evenly over the former. If the heap should begin to heat, let it be drenched with water, either from a near-by well or from the eaves-trough of the barn. Often the manure heap can be located so that water can be conveyed directly upon it from the pump by means of a spout.

CEMENT AND BOARD FLOOR.

Cow manure is considered cold and slow to heat, but it has been my experience that where all the liquids are saved with the solids, the mass is much more likely to heat. When heat is generated, and water can be turned on as needed, decay will take place very rapidly, and the manure will soon be in a condition to become readily available for the use of plants. With such a foundation, and with water at hand to apply as needed, the dressing will lose little or none of its valuable elements, entirely uncovered as it is.

I present also a diagram showing the plan I have recently adopted in a village stable for saving the solids and liquids without loss. Two cow and two horse stalls occupy a closed room by themselves in one end of the stable. I desired a cement floor here, but could not well make its foundation upon the ground, as the stable sets well up from the ground. I therefore laid a double board floor sloping it toward the rear. Upon this double floor was laid a coat of cement, following the pitch of the floor to a point a little behind the stalls, at A. From that point it pitches the other way till the partition is reached, as shown in the diagram.

The platforms of the stalls are raised several inches above the inclined cement floor. All the liquid that runs through the platforms will be conducted down the inclined cement floor to the point A, where it soaks into a lot of litter, sawdust, etc., with which the floor behind the stalls is kept covered.

I present this plan because it can well be adopted in barns and stables already built, the incline being secured in the coating of cement, since the board floor will be level.

A thin coat of cement behind the stalls would be injured by the sharp shoes of horses, but this will not occur if the cement is kept well covered with absorbents, that are removed as they become saturated. Without some such arrangement as this, a large part of the liquid manure is likely to leak down through the floor and be lost in the ground beneath, or become a menace to health if the stable be adjacent to one's house or well.

Both of these plans that are figured call for no expenditure of money except for the cement hat is needed, and this is not large in amount.—Country Gentleman.

Early Potato Blight.

The early blight of potatoes does not cause the tubers to rot. A more or less rapid drying and curling of the leaves and stems marks the presence of the disease. The edges of the leaves are first visibly affected; the color changes to a yellowish brown, while the central parts of the leaflets gradually become lighter green, or even yellow, and more or less spotted. The early blight of potatoes may be treated with partial success by means of the Bordeaux mixture. The vines should be sprayed when about two-thirds grown, and the application should be repeated as often as necessary, the foliage at all times being well covered with the mixture.—Western Plowman.

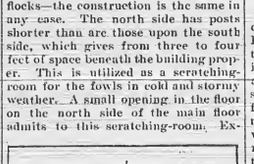
DRINKING FOUNTAINS.

A Homemade Contrivance Which Has Worked Very Well.

In caring for young chickens, ducks, poults, etc., one often has difficulty in keeping water before them in sufficient quantities, and at the same time keep it pure and fresh. Many arrangements have been contrived to obviate the difficulty, all working with more or less success. Probably the most successful is the drinking fountain gotten up on the principle of the siphon. The market is well stocked with several patterns, all on the same general principle, but varying in lesser details.

Probably one of the most popular is the earthen fountain. It has the advantage over some others in having thicker sides and is less liable to be affected by heat or cold. One of the most serious objections we have to this make is the difficulty in cleaning. In this respect there are others far ahead. The earthen fountain will not work successfully during severe weather, especially if it is so situated that there is danger of freezing. Like an earthen crock, a good stiff freeze-up will ruin it.

There is still another make gotten up on the same idea but made of galvanized iron. This one has the advantage over the other during freezing weather, but otherwise the same disadvantage that will apply to one will to the other.



We have noted another make gotten up on the same principle but on an altogether different pattern. This one, which is also made of galvanized iron, has a false cover fitting over the can proper and extends down into the water about the base. Such a fountain has every convenience of the others and the additional advantage of being readily cleaned.

For the past two or three years we have been using one of our own contrivance, which ordinarily works very satisfactory. We used an ordinary crock, boring a small hole through the side about 1½ inches from the top. The crock is then filled with water and a shallow dish placed over the top, with sides sufficiently high to allow the water to rise just above the aperture in the crock. The crock and dish are then inverted and if everything has been done properly, you will have practically just as good a fountain for the ordinary poultry yard as some more expensive ones. This will be found to be very satisfactory in the yard with young stock, especially with young turkeys. By its use the youngsters are not apt to become wet.—C. P. Reynolds, in Ohio Farmer.

ROOMY POULTRY HOUSE.

Its Construction and Advantages Described in Detail.

Where one can build his poultry house upon a southern slope, the plan shown in the accompanying illustration will be found particularly convenient. The building can be of any length desired—to accommodate one or a dozen flocks—the construction is the same in any case. The north side has posts shorter than are those upon the south side, which gives from three to four feet of space beneath the building proper. This is utilized as a scratching-room for the fowls in cold and stormy weather. A small opening in the floor on the north side of the main floor admits to this scratching-room. Extra large windows are placed in the front of this scratching apartment, both for the purpose of giving plenty of light, sunshine and fresh air, and to make access to these low spaces convenient. Any litter, dressing, etc., that one wishes to remove, can be raked to the window from the ontside, and so removed. The windows are hinged at the top, and can be raised from the windows above, by cords. Inside the lower windows are stretched gratings or wire netting. With the window open, the scratching-room has all the advantages of an open scratching shed, so highly recommended of late, without the open scratching shed's disadvantages of becoming filled with drifting snow and of having no protection in cold or raw weather.

PRACTICAL POULTRY HOUSE.

Such a plan, at a very slight added expense, nearly doubles the room in a poultry-house, enabling the owner to keep nearly double the number of fowls under the same roof that he could keep without this added room below.—Country Gentleman.

LIVE-STOCK POINTERS.

If there are ticks on the sheep dip them and the lambs when the shearing is done.

Teach the little pigs to eat as soon as possible and feed them skim-milk, all they will eat.

As a lamb is perhaps the most difficult of all animals to reenperate after once stunted, it pays to keep thrifty.

It is well to remember with all classes of stock that it is better to keep one good thrifty animal than two poor ones.

Wool is a product that does not take fertility from the soil, but actually adds to the value of the soil for grain-growing.

It will be an exceptional case when it can be considered advisable to allow the stock to pasture in the meadows at this time.

Besides the profitableness of growing the better animals, there is the advantage in that there is always a demand for such stock.

While a high-grade animal of any kind may develop into a good-sized, valuable animal, yet for breeding purposes will always lack one essential feature, and that is pedigree.

MINOT'S LEDGE LIGHTHOUSE.

The First One Was Swept Away with Its Occupants.

The first lighthouse on Minot's Ledge was built in 1848. It was an octagonal tower resting on the tops of eight wrought-iron piles eight inches in diameter and 60 feet high, with their onses sunk five feet in the rock. These piles were braced together in many ways; and, as they offered less surface to the waves than a solid structure, this lighthouse was considered by all authorities upon the subject to be exceptionally strong.

Its great test came in April, 1851. On the 16th of that month, two keepers being in the lighthouse, an easterly gale set in, steadily increasing in force. People on shore, and no doubt the keepers themselves, watched the heavy seas sweep harmlessly through the network of piles beneath the house, and feared no harm. On the 15th, however, the wind and sea had greatly increased, and the waves were flung higher and higher toward that tower in the air. Yet, all thought they surely could not reach 60 feet above the ledge!

That night was one of keen anxiety, for the gale still increased; and all through that dreadful driving storm and darkness the faithful keepers were at their posts, for the light burned brightly. On Wednesday, the 16th, the gale had become a hurricane; and when at times the tower could be seen through the mists and seadrift it seemed to bend to the shock of the waves. At four o'clock that afternoon an ominous proof of the fury of the waves on Minot's Ledge reached the shore—a platform which had been built between the piles only seven feet below the floor of the keeper's room. The raging seas, then, were leaping 50 feet in the air. Would they reach ten feet higher?—for if so the house and the keepers were doomed. Nevertheless, when darkness set in the light shone out as brilliantly as ever; but the gale seemed, if possible, then to increase. What agony those two men must have suffered! How that dreadful abode must have swayed in the irresistible hurricane, and trembled at each crashing sea! The poor unfortunates must have known that if those seas, leaping always higher and higher, ever reached their house, it would be flung down into the ocean, and they would be buried with it beneath the waves.

To those hopeless, terrified watchers the entombing sea came at last. At one o'clock in the morning the lighthouse bell was heard by those on shore to give a mournful clang, and the light was extinguished. It was the funeral knell of two patient heroes.

Next day there remained on the rock only eight jagged iron stumps.—St. Nicholas.

RANSOM OF INCAS.

Fabulous Wealth Securely Hidden in the Peruvian Mountains.

Adventurers who seek mere gold without reference to art should turn to Peru. To begin with, the remainder of the incas' ransom is buried somewhere in the mountains between Caxamarca and Cuzco. We may confidently assume that it has not been discovered, for if put into circulation at home the money market would have been convulsed, whereas the finders would have no reason for keeping the secret had they got safely away to Europe.

As for the evidence of deposit, there is Pizarro's official report that his comrades would not wait until the celebrated room was full. They were too impatient to murder their captives, though they knew that the bullion levied upon the temple at Cuzco was on its way, transported by 100,000 llamas, each carrying 100 pounds of purest gold. The figure is not incredible, seeing how much remained when the conquistadores sacked Cuzco. News of the murder reached that precious caravan in the mountains. Forthwith the priests buried their gold and returned. Everyone concerned with the expedition who could be identified was tortured to death, but none would speak. Such is the contemporary account.

But we observe that Sir Clements Markham, president of the Royal Geographical society, obtained some information during his memorable expedition to Peru. He states, as if it were well known in the neighborhood, that the caravan left the highway at a spot called Azanjaro—a name which people derive from the Indian "asuan caran," meaning "more distant." "Away from the road!" cried the priests. "Farther away!" One always feels the strongest reluctance to accept derivations of a place name from a spoken word. But it is not impossible nor improbable that in the course of centuries some hint of a secret which must be known to many Indians should have leaked out. This clew does not carry one far, however, among the peaks and caverns of the Andes, even if it be trustworthy.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Plunder of Spaniards.

In his new history of the British navy H. Oppenheim declares that the plunder during Queen Elizabeth's reign was not so great as is supposed. He says: "So far as pecuniary receipts were concerned, there were only two really great captures during the queen's reign. Her share of the St. Philip, taken by Drake in 1587, was £46,572; Drake's own, £18,225; the lord admiral's, £4,358, and private adventurers', £44,187. A still richer haul was made in the Madre de Dios, taken in 1592, which, by the account of her purser, carried 3,500 quintals of pepper, 900 of cloves, 700 of cinnamon, 500 of cochineal and 150 of other merchandise, besides amber, musk and precious stones to the value of 400,000 cruzados, and some especially fine diamonds."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Exasperating.

Jack—It must be pretty tough to have a highwayman order you to stand, sh?

Harry—I suppose so; but, heavens, 'tis nothing to having a policeman tell you to move on!—N. Y. Truth.

FARO WAS KING.

It Was the Rage in Washington During Buchanan's Term.

Faro was king at the national capital during James Buchanan's term. The most pretentious gambler of them all was Joe Hall, whose midnight suppers Lucullus would have made haste to envy could he have tasted the canvas-back duck stuffed with chestnuts, and the side dish of Virginia hominy done brown, in butter garnished with bacon from Accomac, fed on acorns. Silver goblets like "motley" were the only "wear" for champagne, says a Washington correspondent.

There were no clubhouses, so called, in ante-bellum days in Washington. And here, up to the fall of Sumter, the south and north, no matter how acrid the day's debate in congress, when the members met before Joe Hall's or George Pendleton's green baize table, on Pennsylvania avenue, all on pleasure bent, they "let silence like a poultice fall and heal the blows" of political strife and sound!

Joe Hall, who died very poor, in Baltimore during the war, was in the last generation the most munificent and most continuously successful "high-roller" among the "gamboliers" of America. His horses, with gold-tipped harness, were the eyesore of all eyes.

In Philadelphia he ran a gambling house on Walnut, above Eleventh, north side, from 1858 till the war broke out. Here Thaddeus Stevens, the great commoner of Pennsylvania, hobnobbed with James A. Bayard, of Delaware, and the handsome Ellis Schnable, with "Bill" Witte, of Philadelphia, made two of the best all-round stump orators of whom the Keystone democracy ever boasted.

If stiff and sore, St. Jacobs Oil will cure you. Won't lose a day. The cure is sure.

Some men's only virtue is that they go to bed early.—Washington Democrat.

Just try a 10c box of Cascarets candy cathartic, finest liver and bowel regulator made.

A real trifling man is always weighing himself.—Washington Democrat.

Years of rheumatism have ended with cure by St. Jacobs Oil. Cures promptly.

Anything first-class is hard to equal.—Washington Democrat.

When bilious or costive eat a Cascaret, candy cathartic, cure guaranteed. 10c, 25c.

Saving does not make nearly everybody rich.—Washington Democrat.

It may come last, but St. Jacobs Oil is the best to cure sprains. It ought to be first.

People kick when a show is too long and also when it is too short.—Washington Democrat.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, May 8
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 75	@ 3 25
Select butchers	4 00	@ 4 50
CALVES—Fair to good light	4 50	@ 5 25
HOGS—Common	3 90	@ 3 75
Mixed packers	3 80	@ 3 95
Light shippers	3 85	@ 4 00
SHEEP—Choice	4 00	@ 4 25
LAMBS—Spring	5 00	@ 6 50
FLOUR—Winter family	3 35	@ 3 85
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	91	@ 91
No. 3 red		@ 87
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 24½
Oats—No. 2		@ 21¼
Rye—No. 2		@ 37¼
HAY—Prime to choice	11 75	@12 00
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@10 00
Lard—Prime steam		@ 3 87½
BUTTER—Choice dairy	8	@ 9
Prime to choice creamery		@ 14
APPLES—Per bbl	2 25	@ 2 50
POTATOES—Per bbl	1 00	@ 1 10
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 60	@ 4 85
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n		@ 79¾
No. 2 red	78¾	@ 79¾
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 39¾
OATS—Mixed		@ 23½
PORK—New mess	8 75	@ 9 50
LARD—Western	4 27½	@ 4 30
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 40	@ 4 60
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	89¼	@ 90¼
No. 2 Chicago spring		@ 71¾
CORN—No. 2	24	@ 24¼
OATS—No. 2	17	@ 17¼
PORK—Mess	8 60	@ 8 65
LARD—Steam	4 00	@ 4 02
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 90	@ 4 25
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	78¼	@ 78¾
Corn—Mixed	28¾	@ 28¾
Oats—Mixed	23½	@ 24
LARD—Refined		@11 50
PORK—Mess		@16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 25	@ 4 60
HOGS—Western	4 40	@ 4 50
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 89
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 24
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@ 19¼
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 75	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 92
Corn—Mixed		@ 24
Oats—Mixed		@ 20
PORK—Mess		@ 9 25
LARD—Steam		@ 4 50

The papers are full of deaths from

Heart Failure

Of course the heart fails to act when a man dies, but "Heart Failure," so called, nine times out of ten is caused by Uric Acid in the blood which the Kidneys fail to remove, and which corrodes the heart until it becomes unable to perform its functions.

Health Officers in many cities very properly refuse to accept "Heart Failure," as a cause of death. It is frequently a sign of ignorance in the physician, or may be given to cover up the real cause.

WARNER'S Safe Cure

A Medicine with 20 Years of Success behind it will remove the poisonous Uric Acid by putting the Kidneys in a healthy condition so that they will naturally eliminate it.

THREE HAPPY WOMEN.

Each Relieved of Periodic Pain and Backache. A Trio of Fervent Letters.

Before using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, my health was gradually being undermined. I suffered untold agony from painful menstruation, backache, pain on top of my head and ovarian trouble. I concluded to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound, and found that it was all any woman needs who suffers with painful monthly periods. It entirely cured me. MRS. GEORGIE WASS, 923 Bank St., Cincinnati, O.

For years I had suffered with painful menstruation every month. At the beginning of menstruation it was impossible for me to stand up for more than five minutes, I felt so miserable. One day a little book of Mrs. Pinkham's was thrown into my house, and I sat right down and read it. I then got some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I can heartily say that to-day I feel like a new woman; my monthly suffering is a thing of the past. I shall always praise the Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. MRS. MARGARET ANDERSON, 363 Lisbon St., Lewiston, Me.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of painful menstruation and backache. The pain in my back was dreadful, and the agony I suffered during menstruation nearly drove me wild.

Now this is all over, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's medicine and advice.—MRS. CARRIE V. WILLIAMS, South Mills, N. C.

The great volume of testimony proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a safe, sure and almost infallible remedy in cases of irregularity, suppressed, excessive or painful monthly periods.

The Electric Light of Mowerdom

The pine knot—the tallow candle—the oil lamp—gas—these are stages in the evolution of illumination, which today finds its highest exponent in the electric light.

Similar and no less striking has been the evolution of grain and grass cutting machinery. In 1831 the scythe and the cradle were superseded by the McCormick Reaper. The intervening years have seen many improvements, until now we have that model Harvester and Binder, the McCormick Right Hand Open Elevator, and that veritable electric light of mowerdom, the

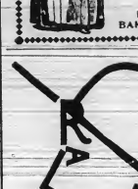
McCORMICK

New 4. It is not only the handsomest mower ever built, but it is, in every sense of the word, the best—and if your experience has taught you anything, it is that there's nothing cheaper than the best.

McCormick Harvesting Machine Company, Chicago.

The Light-Running McCormick Open Elevator Harvester,
The Light-Running McCormick New 4 Steel Mower,
The Light-Running McCormick Vertical Corn Binder and
The Light-Running McCormick Daisy Reaper for sale everywhere.

REASONS FOR USING



Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa.

1. Because it is absolutely pure.
2. Because it is not made by the so-called Dutch Process in which chemicals are used.
3. Because beans of the finest quality are used.
4. Because it is made by a method which preserves unimpaired the exquisite natural flavor and odor of the beans.
5. Because it is the most economical, costing less than one cent a cup.

Be sure that you get the genuine article made by WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd., Dorchester, Mass. Established 1780.

A-head of Pearline?

Never! Not a bit of it! That is out of the question. Probably not one of the many washing-powders that have been made to imitate Pearline would claim to excel it in any way. All they ask is to be considered "the same as" or "as good as" Pearline. But they're not even that. Pearline is to-day, just as it has been from the first, the best thing in the world for every kind of washing and cleaning.

CANDY CATHARTIC

Cascarets

CURE CONSTIPATION

REGULATE THE LIVER

10¢ 25¢ 50¢

ALL DRUGGISTS

ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED to cure any case of constipation. Cascarets are the Ideal Laxative. Pleasant, palatable, potent, never grip or gripe, but cause easy natural results. Sample and booklet free. Ad. STERLING REMEDY Co., Chicago, Montreal, Can., or New York. 317.

GET A HOME

For yourself where land is good and cheap. Where climate is perfect, and the soil is rich. NEBRASKA offers great opportunities to the farm renter who wants to become a farm owner. Send for a free handsome illustrated pamphlet on Nebraska to P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill.

HAY PRESSES!

IMPROVED HUNTER FULL CIRCLE "All Steel" and Wooden (steel lined) shipped on trial to reliable parties. FULLY GUARANTEED. WRITE FOR CATALOGUE AND PRICES.

M. B. LEWIS, Lessee,

Meridian Machine Shops, Box K MERIDIAN, MISS.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

HARTSHORNS SELF-ACTING SHADE ROLLERS

NOTICE

NAME THIS LABEL AND GET THE GENUINE HARTSHORN

PENSIONS for SOLDIERS and WIDOWS

Fee for increase E. Rejected claims reopened. All laws free. 31 yrs. practice. Success or no fee. A. W. McCormick & Sons, Cincinnati, O., and Washington, D.C.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habit cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga.

IT IS THE BEST. YUCATAN.

A. N. K.—E 1656

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, May 12, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS.

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

CROP AND STOCK.

Lambs are selling for five cents per pound for July delivery in Mercer.

Oats are bad in Scott county and a very poor crop is expected among the farmers.

The wheat crop of Illinois is reported as a failure. Two-thirds of the acreage is reported winter-killed and destroyed by water. It is said that not enough wheat for next crop's seed will be harvested in Illinois this year.

The farmer with a yard full of cattle is again "on top." On the other hand the man who sacrificed his cattle when they were cheap, plowed up his blue grass and went to corn-growing, has cribs full of property of little value. 'Twas ever thus. Those who hold fast to good live-stock through good and through evil have their certain reward. What we need on American farms is more steadfastness of purpose, more patience and more faith in our herds and flocks, fewer "booms" and fewer "stampedes."—Breeders' Gazette.

Secretary Wilson, of the Agricultural Department, is going to try a new method of fighting hog cholera. Hog cholera cost the people of Iowa $15,000,000 last year, and other States suffered severely. In a short time three parties will be sent out by the department—one to the North, one to the West and one to the South. Each choose a locality where the disease is breaking out, and proceed in this heroic fashion: Buy up the hogs in the affected districts, kill them and proceed to burn their carcasses, disinfect all the premises, quarantine, then watch the effect. If the treatment appears to check the spread of the contagion, it will then become simply a question of cost.

There seems to be more interest in the horse business than there has been for the past three years. Good driving, saddle and carriage horses are bringing fair prices, and a very good demand for first class stock. If the farmers would pay more attention to individuality in breeding their mares, and pick good sized, well developed horses, with good clean limbs and no blemishes and hereditary tendencies to weaknesses instead of breeding so much on pedigree, speed lines and fast records, as they have done in the past they would get produce that there would be a good demand for, if they failed to develop phenominal speed. Only a very few horses, under the most favorable circumstances, prove to be race horses, and good driving and carriage horses have a fixed and paying value.—Kentuckian.

A correspondent sends the following as a little of the much which might be said in favor of the Guernsey cow:

In appearance she is a fine, rich-looking, deep bodied, sizable cow, with a mild and contented expression and free from nervousness of movement and behavior. There is a marked yellowness of the skin, shown especially inside the ear, about the eye, at the end of the tail, inclining to orange about the udder, teats and hoofs. Her color is usually shaded from light red to fawn, with an occasional brindle, all more or less marked with white, rarely failing to have a white triangle in forehead. Perhaps yellow, fawn and white are the most frequent colors she assumes with a high-class milk escutcheon which is far more important than color.

The mature Guernsey cow upon the island of Guernsey, with very little grain, is expected to produce one pound and two ounces of butter per day for the year, or about four hundred pounds of butter per annum. The extraordinary flavor and richness of the Guernsey butter is at once acknowledged wherever used. It is chemically richer and more valuable than other kinds of butter, and the remarkable trait of the butter retaining its color in winter is a great advantage over any other breed.

In the dairy records of the Guernsey dairymen in Bucks Co., Penn., is mentioned a three-year-old heifer, weighing nine hundred pounds. She gave in twelve months seven thousand, one hundred and thirty-five pounds of milk, averaging for the first month twenty-three and one-half pounds of milk per day, thus holding her milk well through the year, as the breed is given to doing, instead of giving it largely at the time when the milk is worth the least, and then rapidly drying off as many native cows do. From the few tests which have yet been made, it is believed there are as many cows that will give fourteen pounds of butter per week, in proportion to their number, as among any other breed. From some experiments made it is believed that there will soon be a large number of cows which will produce three pounds per day. When you look at a Shorthorn or Hereford you exclaim: What a fine beef animal! When you see a Jersey, your first thought is, what a pretty little beast! But when you meet a Guernsey, the first and last impression upon your mind is, what a splendid milch cow.—National Farmers and Home Magazine.

STATE NEWS.

Junction City will vote on local option May 21.

Mary Green, 18, of Garrard county is under arrest for horsestealing.

Williamstown authorities contracted for an artesian well to supply the town with water.

Rufus Lents, of Glade, Marshall county, is the owner of a pig with six legs. The animal is living and doing well, and uses all six of its feet in walking.

A chicken exhibited by Mr. Dunn, a blacksmith at Clintonville, Bourbon county, has two heads, four feet and four wings which have grown from one body.

Worthington Buck, who shot and killed Lewis Overton in Leslie county 17 years ago is under arrest, in Bell county. He has been living in Tennessee ever since he killed Overton, and he and his wife quarrelled and she gave him away.

The oldest son of William Darby, on Big White Oak, was dangerously wounded by the explosion of a gun, last Friday, while hunting. The breech-pin was blown out and struck him in the forehead, making a dangerous wound.—Greenup Gazette.

The farmers in plowing land this spring report the presence of the tobacco fly in alarming numbers. Many planters have informed us that if all signs do not fail the worm plague will be greater, if possible, this year than last. Tobacco planters in Roading Spring district have agreed to reduce the output of tobacco this season.—Cadiz Telephone.

A plague of mad foxes in the upper end of Tennessee river is reported by people arriving in Paducah during the last day or two, says the News. Old hunters say that foxes, like dogs, cats, wolves and other animals, have been known to turn rabid and, forgetting their natural timidity, attack human beings, cattle and all living creatures that may cross their path. Up the Tennessee it is not quite so bad as all this. Still foxes, evidently suffering from hydrophobia, have entered barnyards in the lowlands and snapped at the farm animals, refusing to retreat, and keeping up their crazed onslaughts until slain. The bodies of many dead foxes have also been found in the bottoms. In the extreme upper end of Cumberland river the evil of rabid Reynards is said to be much worse.

It looks like the press throughout the State have made up their minds as to how the political situation in Kentucky will be two years hence. Hon. William Goebel, the politicai Napoleon of our Commonwealth, it seems, will be banner bearer for the Democracy in that battle, and, as clear as that is to the eyes of all to-day, just so sure is it that he will lead that party to victory in November, 1899. An organizer who has no equal; a lawyer who stands in the front rank of his profession; a legislator of experience and ability; a soldier who never gets out of the saddle until the enemy leaves the field, William Goebel, the young Senator from Kenton, is surely that man—and to make him the Democratic nominee for Governor two years hence would not only be a deserving tribute of his party, but an honor to that party and to the Commonwealth.—Argus.

According to the news sent out from Covington, T. B. Mathews has been telegraphed to come on to Washington, and his friends are very hopeful that his presence at the capital is desired in connection with the Collectorship, which it is hoped the duplicity of some of his supposed friends will not succeed in keeping him out of.

Date of Primary Election Changed to June 5, 1897.

Pursuant to the call of the Chairman of the county Democratic Executive committee, the committee met in D. E. Castleman's law office in Burlington, last Monday afternoon. The following members were present: D. E. Castleman, chairman; B. L. Rice, Secretary, P. E. Cason, proxy for Elijah Parker; Reuben Conner, Richard Stephens, Robt. McGlasson, Geo. Ossman, proxy for J. C. Hughes.

The chairman stated the object of the meeting to be for the purpose of considering the propriety of changing the date of the primary election as fixed at the last meeting. A motion to reconsider the action of the committee on the second Monday in December was made and carried, and the order made on that date is now held tor naught.

It was agreed by the committee to hold a primary election to nominate candidates for the various county offices to be filled at the regular election in November, 1897. It was further agreed that said primary election be held on the first Saturday in June, 1897, and the Executive Committee will meet in the Court-house in Burlington, at 2 o'clock p. m., on Monday, June 7th, 1897, and count the votes cast for each candidate for the respective offices, and the candidate receiving the highest number of votes cast for any office will be declared the Democratic nominee for that office.

The committee adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That all persons who voted for Bryan and Sewall at the last November election, and all persons who did not vote but would have voted for Bryan and Sewall had they voted, and all young men who will be legal voters at the next November election, and will pledge themselves to support the Democratic party and the nominees of said primary election, shall be allowed to vote.

Resolved, That all persons who desire to be candidates before said primary election shall, on or before the 5th day of April, 1897, record their names with the chairman of the county committee, and pay their assessments to him.

Resolved, That only such candidates who pay their assessments to defray the expenses of said primary election, on or before the fifth day of April, 1897, shall be entitled to have their name placed upon the ballots to be voted for.

Resolved, That all candidates for precinct offices and for Coroner who wish their names to appear upon the ballots for said primary, shall pay to the chairman of the county committee one dollar, to help pay the expenses of said primary election.

The chairman and secretary were authorized to assess the candidates to defray the expenses of the primary election.

D. E. Castleman Chairman,
B. L. Rice, Secretary.

Senator Deboe has repudiated the orders which he gave on the Kentucky pie counter at Washington.—Dispatch.

Provided a good-sized purse is raised, it is believed arrangements can be made for a limited-round bout between Mr. Gorman and Mr. Foraker.—Washington Post.

Western firms are employing women as traveling drummers. A pretty girl can make the average man purchase a great many things he doesn't want.—N. Y. Journal.

Senator Foraker has made his maiden speech, and he made it for the special benefit of Senator Gorman and the galleries. Senator Gorman as well as the Government at Washington still lives.—Rochester Times.

NOTICE.

Tucker, will be at Ezra Aylor's on Tuesday morning, at Dony Cook's in the afternoon, Ben Tanner's Thursday morning, and at Geo. Moor's on Friday in each week. JAS. H. AYLOR.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Abel Beemon's Adm'r ... Pltf.
vs
Rachel Beemon, &c. ... Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will hear proof by deposition as to the value of the Missouri land owned by Able Beemon at the time of his death, on Saturday, May 8th, 1897, at the law office of S. Gaines, in Burlington, Ky.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C.

RHEUMATISM LINIMENT.
L. MORELLI,
Box 123, - ERLANGER, KY.
AGENTS WANTED.
☞Price, 50 Cents Per Bottle.

BUY-CYCLES HALF PRICE
HIGH GRADE 1897 MODELS.
Guaranteed first-class materials and work throughout. Morgan & Wright double, or single tube pneumatic tires. Delivered anywhere free of charge. Save money by sending for our cycle Katalog before buying.
POWELL & CLEMENT CO.
418 MAIN ST., CINCINNATI, O.

Subscribe for the Recorder

SEASON OF 1897,
OAK KNOLL STOCK FARM.
UGO,
Chestnut Stallion, 16 hands high, foaled 1892, sired by Simmons 2744, (record 2:28,) sire of 68 in 2:30 list, and 7 in 2:15 list. 1st dam, Thirza by Almont Boy 4308, sire of Grafton, 2:20½, Bessie G. 2:25, etc. 2d dam, Dixie by Norman 25; 3d dam, Mollie Clay by Iron Duke he by C. M. Clay 18.

Ugo is an exceedingly handsome horse, with plenty of size and faultless conformation; he has worked quarters in 40 seconds when 3 years old with six weeks training.

UGO will make the season of 1897, at Oak Knoll Stock farm, 1 mile west of Utzinger, and 3 miles east of Petersburg, Ky., on the Petersburg & Burlington pike. Service fee $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when mare is known to be in foal or parted with. Mares kept on grass at $1 50 per month, accidents and escapes at owners risk.

For particulars address
A. E. CHAMBERS, Jr.,
Utzinger, Ky.

CRESCENT HILL STOCK FARM.
1897. SEASON 1897.
TIMOTHY BOY, No. 27854
Bay horse foaled April 3rd, 1893, 16¼ hands high and weighs 1250 pounds in ordinary condition.

Sired by Wilkes Boy, 2:24; 1st dam, Alga by Artillery, 2:21½; 2d dam, Valdosta by Nutwood, 2:18½; 3d dam, Emma Arterburn by Mambrino Patchen 58, (dam of one and grand-dam of three in 2:30 list); 4th dam, Jennie Johnson by Sweet Owen, thoroughbred, gr-dam of three in 2:30; 5th dam, Thoroughbred, &c.

Wilkes Boy, 2:24, one of the best producing horses in Kentucky, is by Geo. Wilkes. 2:22, dam Betty Brown (dam of Anglin, 2:27½) by Mambrino Patchen, 58.

Artillery, 2:21½ by Hambletonian 10, dam Walls Star (dam of Modestie 2:26½) by American Star, 14, is fast becoming a great sire.

Nutwood, 2:18¾, (out of the dam of Maud S. 2:08¾,) is the sire of more 2:30 performers than any horse living.

TIMOTHY BOY is one of the best bred horses in Kentucky, a horse of great power, fine style and color, a pure gaited trotter, perfectly sound in every particular and should produce horses fit for either track, road or farm.

He will make the season at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when fact is known or mare parted with.

The Fine Black Jack,
MIKE
Will make the season at $8 to insure a colt, money due when colts comes or mare parted with.

Description & Pedigree:

MIKE is a black Jack, white points, 15½ hands high, good heavy bone, large head and ears, well built, good style and color. He is one of the best lookers in Northern Ky., and ought to make a grand breeder.

He was sired by Bill Collins, dam Nell, a fine black jennet 16 hands high, by Sinkhole; 2d dam, Graves' Jenny, by Black Samson, jr.; 3d dam, Jenny by Mogul. Bill Collins is by Bourbon Chief, is 16 hands high and one of the best mule jacks in Central Kentucky, and sold for $1,800.

Timothy Boy and Mike will stand at Daniel Bedinger's farm, 3 miles west of Richwood, Ky., on the Richwood & Beaver pike.

☞Mares kept on pasture at $1.50 per month.

J. C. BEDINGER, Richwood, Ky.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF Wines, Liquors
AND BRANDY.
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
Lexington Pike,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

H. S. STEVENSON.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
DENTIST.
Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.
☞OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE
Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain.
The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.
Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.
Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.
Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

EGGS—Pure barred Plymouth Rock eggs for hatching; pen No. 1, $1.00 per 13; pen No. 2, 50c per 15. Mrs. R. O. Smith, Union, Ky. Stone House.

OUR Doors Stand Open! And we make no bones ☞in giving you prices ☜Openly.
We never felt in better humor for business than now. So we will ask for your attention a little while.

—We Will Sell You—

H. and E. Boston Standard fine Gran. Sugar, per lb	5c	Navy Beans 3 qts. for	10c
Coffees from 12½c to 30c per pound		Dried Peas 2 quarts for	5c
White Satin Flour (extra fine)	5.25	Battle Ax Tobacco, per lb	20c
Essex Soap (best for the money) two bars for	5c	Polar Bear Smoking, 4 pkgs	15c
Baking Powder, from 8c per lb. up		Six for Ten per plug,	15c
Pure Pepper, ground, per lb	15c	Teas from	15 to 80c
Canned Corn, from 5c to 12c		Good Table Peaches, 3 cans	25c
Pearl Barley, 2 lbs. for	5c	N. O. Molasses, two gallons	65c
Evaporated Apples, per lb	5c	Extra Fine Syrup, two gallons	85c
Fine Evap. Peaches, per lb	7½c	H. L. Oil, per gallon	8c
Prunes, per pound, from 5c to 12c		"Crown" Gasoline, per gal	9c
Good Rice, per pound,	5c	Onion Sets, per quart,	10c
Sweet Chocolate, per cake	5c	3 packages Garden Seed	10c
Baker's Chocolate, per lb	40c	Pratt's Poultry Food at list.
Enamiline, per box	4c	6 dozen Cloths Pins for	5c
Rising Sun Polish, 6 for	25c	Rolled Oats, per pound	2c
		Langdon's Bread, 6 loaves for	25c

And Numerous other Good Values that require too much space to quote. Yours Earnestly,

IRA AYLOR, Erlanger, Ky.

C. W. ROBINSON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,
ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,
Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.
GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.
Constance, Ky.

E. H. RIGGS,
—Dealer in—
HARDWATE, STOVES, LIME,
—CEMENT, ETC.—
TIN, IRON AND SLATE ROOFING.
FLY SCREENS NOW ON HAND.
Erlanger, : : : KY.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.
FRY & REIB,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of
Marble & Granite Monuments
HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,
109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K.
Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. { Designs Furnished Upon Application.

PICK THE WINNERS and TAKE THE MONEY!
I To the first Subscriber who guesses the names of all
C the Winners in the Primary Election to be held
K in this County,
JUNE 5th, 1897,
The RECORDER will give $5; to the second correct guesser, $3; to the third correct guesser, $2; to the fourth correct guesser, One Year's Subscription to the
RECORDER.

TO ENTITLE A PERSON TO A GUESS
He must be a new Subscriber for One Year, commencing on or after January 1st, 1897; or One Who Has Paid Up all arrears to January 1st, 1897, and for one year in advance of that period. No one subscribing or paying for less than one year's subscription will be entitled to a guess.

Fill out the following blank and send or mail it to this office, when you comply with the above conditions, and the date of its reception will be marked on it, when it will be preserved until June the 7th, 1897, on which date a committee will be selected to decide who are entitled to the prizes. No guesses received after 12 o'clock noon June 1st. 1897.

I guess the following persons will be nominated at the Democratic Primary, June 5th, 1897, for County Offices:

County Judge.	Assessor.
County Clerk.	Jailer.
Circuit Clerk.	School Superintendent
County Attorney.	Surveyor.
Sheriff.	Coroner.
For Representative
Name }	Rec'd

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MAY 19, 1897. NO. 30.

THE polls at the primary election will open at 7 a. m. and close at 4 p. m. The voters should remember this.

Now if the prison walls and buildings can only be saved during this administration all will be well. —Argus.

THE bill to make women eligible to vote in school elections and to hold the office of school trustee, was killed in the House, last week.

MYERS is the name of the Republican who captured the Newport postoffice. He is a new man to the Rupublicans outside of Newport.

W. A. GAINES, Covington's politician did not get the office of Recorder of Deeds in the District of Columbia. It was given to a North Carolina negro.

THE warden of the Eddyville penitentiary has been absent from his post of duty one-third of the time during the past year, but he has drawn his salary for the full time.

THE Senate discovered 1,200 defects in the Dingley tariff bill as it passed the House, and it has been very busy for several weeks past trying to remedy it by adding that many amendments.

IT has been given out that the "sound money" Democrats in Kentucky are to be rewarded by the Administration for the valuable assistance they have rendered the Republicans in the last few years.

THE negro voters in Bell county threaten to bolt the Republican nominations for county offices because one of their number was defeated for the nomination for jailer. About 200 of them held a meeting and resolved to go it alone.

UNDER the present chair contract at the Frankfort penitentiary the State loses $60,000 annually, for about which amount the prisoners could be maintained in idleness. This was to be a business administration of the State's affairs.

THE Williamstown Courier is all home print now, and its publisher is given more room in which to place the advertisements of the hustling business men of his county who stand by their home paper and give it all their work of whatsoever kind.

THE flattering prospects for another raid on the gold reserve in the treasury are causing President McKinley considerable uneasiness. It was claimed, last fall that his election would restore confidence and there would be no more raids on the gold reserve.

GOV. BRADLEY has not said anything about resigning for about three weeks. Possibly he has concluded to continue business at his present stand since Hanna and McKinley gave him the g. b. as regards Kentucky appointments to be parceled out at Washington.

SENATOR ELLISTON, of Williamstown, Grant county, is tipped as the Republican-gold-bug-Democratic candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Some people think the Senator would do no violence to his record in the past few years if he were to claim the nomination as a straight Republican.

THE Democrats of this county will meet in mass convention in Burlington at 2 o'clock p. m., on the 29th inst., to select delegates to the State convention which meets in Frankfort at 11 a. m., June 2d, to nominate a Democratic candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Boone is entitled to 12 delegates in the State convention.

AS soon as Speaker Blanford heard that the distribution of Kentucky's share of the pie was in progress at Washington, he threw his gavel down and joined Kentucky's unarmed thousands at the national capital, to take part in the clamor for an appointment, and it became necessary for the House at Frankfort to choose another Speaker, the election of whom cost the State about $500.

THE evidence taken by the Senate committee that investigated the management of the Frankfort penitentiary shows up a harrowing state of affairs there. Cruel and inhuman punishment is administered for trivial offenses, while the food provided for the prisoners is often in such a badly decayed condition that they can not eat it. The Governor will have to give the management a shaking up.

THE magnificent court house at Lexington, was destroyed by fire last Friday morning. In the rotunda was Hart's master-piece of sculpture, "Triumph of Chastity," which was destroyed. The piece of statuary cost $6,000 and was bought in Italy.

A Senator who will not promptly and conscientiously devote his time and talents toward hastening a decision upon the tarift question deserves to be dogged to death by increasing hordes of office-seekers.—Louisville Commercial.

Now, Mr. Deboe, what do think of that declaration?

SENATOR LINDSAY has been looking over the political field in this State, and sees a big Democratic victory in store for next fall, an event that is in no wise calculated to redound to the political interests of the Senator, the location of whose vote in the last Presidential contest is not known save to him.

UP to the present time it looks very much like Gov. Bradley has had no say in the matter of federal appointments made for Kentucky, and the lie seems to have been given the statement that he would control the Kentucky patronage. It appears that he and the gum-shoe statesman are very much out in the cold at Washington. Probably Mr. Hanna has decided that they are good men to let severally alone.

GOV. BRADLEY and Senator Deboe do not agree as to the proper person to appoint Surveyor of the Port at Louisville. The Governor, when he supposed he was to preside at the Kentucky pie counter, promised the position to his Adjutant General, Dan Collier, but Senator Deboe has been given control of the entire bakery, and he desires that C. M. Barnett shall be given that place, and the Governor is going to Washington to fight the selection.

SENATOR DEBOE has been so busy distributing pie since his arrival in Washington he has not had time in which to study the tariff bill which the Senate has been remodeling to the very great annoyance of the House. The Senator and his office-seeking constituents are much more interested in the distribution of federal offices than they are in tariff legislation, and until Kentucky's share is handed out Deboe will know very little about any legislation that is being considered.

IF there is not a change in the management of the penitentiaries and other institutions under the Republicans in this State they will be in a most deplorable condition at the close of Gov. Bradley's administration. In selecting wardens for the prisons and superintendents for the asylums, he has been very unfortunate, and in nearly every instance a scandal has been developed under their management. When he looks out over the field there is no wonder the Governor threatens to resign.

STREP, the Scrip-McRea staff correspondent, who has been in Cuban camps for some time, sends an account of terrible suffering and death among the patriots. He says absolute starvation is thinning the ranks of the Cubans—that the suffering from hunger is beyond adequate description, and houses and gardens are converted into hospitals and graveyards. But with all this suffering and no prospect for any change for the better, the Cubans have resolved to continue their fight for liberty, death from starvation being preferable to the Spanish oppression to which they will have to submit if they fail to achieve that independence for which they have made such an heroic effort against tremendous odds in favor of Spain.

The General Assembly did the most important work for which it was called together by passing last week the revenue bill increasing the State revenue rate from 42½ cents on the $100 to 52½ cents, to last for three years, when it will be reduced to 47½ cents. The act provides that the 52½ cents rate shall be apportioned for the following purposes: 15 cents for the ordinary expenses of the government; 5 cents for the use of the Sinking Fund; 22 cents for the support of the common schools; ½ cent for the A. & M. College; and 10 cents for paying claims and interest thereon due from the State at the time it becomes a law. After three years a five cent rate is to be applied for paying outstanding warrahts and interest thereon. Gov. Bradley approves the act. Also the act passed permitting 6 per cent. interest on old and new warrants under certain conditions.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, May 15th, 1897.

The sugar trust controlled the Republican sub-committee which drafted the amendments to the Dingley tariff bill, but all it will be able to get out of the sugar schedule will be the money that has already been made through speculation on the advance knowledge of what that schedule was to be, as a majority of the Senate have made it certain that the sugar schedule cannot be put through, by declaring themselves to be against it. The tariff bill is not likely to be taken up by the Senate on the 18th as agreed upon, but it will not be the fault of the Democrats, but of the Republicans in failing to get a trustworthy comparative statement showing the differences that will be the result of the proposed changes. There is another thing about the tariff bill that can be stated with certainty. There will be an anti-trust amendment adopted before the bill passes the Senate. The necessary votes are promised.

* * *

At last the administration has found out the bunco game that Spain played on the Cleveland administration and has been trying to play on the present one, thanks to the wide-awake reports of Consul General Fitzhugh Lee, and justice is seemingly going to be done to poor Cuba. Mr. McKinley has had a long conference with the members of the Senate committee on Foreign Relations, as to what should be done. The impression is that Senator Morgan's resolution for the recognition of Cuban belligerency hardly goes far enough and that a recognition of independence would be the proper thing, in view of the fact forwarded by Gen. Lee. A public mass meeting of Cuban sympathizers is going to be held in Washington Sunday.

* * *

Albion W. Tourgee will not believe that pie hunting was "a fool's errand" in his case, as he captured a piece of pie that promises to be far more satisfying than "Making Bricks without Straw" was. He has been nominated U. S. Consul at Bordeuax, France. H. P. Cheatem, the negro ex-Congressman from North Carolina also got a good thing in the Recordership of Deeds of the District of Columbia.

* * *

It is hoped that the Senatorial pilgrimage to the tomb of Jefferson, which Senator Hoar is credited with being responsible for, will result in a careful study of Jefferson's life and writings by the Senators. Edification is to be found therein and some of the pilgrims need edification badly upon more than one subject.

In pursuance of the call of the State Democratic Executive Committee, issued April 17, 1897, the Democrats of this county are notified that on Saturday, May 29th, 1897, at 1 o'clock p. m. a mass convention will be held in the town of Burlington to select delegates to the State convention to be held in Frankfort, June 2, 1897, the purpose of which being to nominate a candidate for the office of Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Boone county is entitled to twelve delegates in said State convention.

D. E. CASTLEMAN.
Char. Boone Co. Dem. Ex-Comt.

THERE was some ugly behavior in the Kentucky Senate, Monday for which the Democrats were not blameless, although they may have thought the measure they desired to defeat justified their action which lead up to trouble. It demonstrated one thing, namely that those members calling themselves gold Democrats are working hand in hand with the Republicans, setting up the pins for the race for Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

THE question of the Collectorship in this district remains unsettled, and the man who it was thought a week had a cinch on the office has been unable to land the prize, while opposition to him continues to increase day by day. The Collectorship in this district was placed last fall in making up the race for Congress last fall, but it does not go now promisee then.

THE President sent a message to Congress Monday, recommending an appropriation of not less than $50,000 to assist the suffering American citizens in Cuba. This may lead to something that will assist Cuba along in her struggle for liberty.

THE Louisville base ball club is shooting the chute.

Pith of the Press.

The penitentiary appears to be a free laundry for washing dirty Republican linen.—Dispatch.

Tom Reed and Jerry Simpson held another session of the House Friday.—Omaha World-Herald.

Mr. Gorman is a very impatient man. He touched off Fire-Alarm Foraker the other day merely to gratify idle curiosity.—N. Y. Journal.

And now it is alleged that ex-Ambassador Bayard will ask for naturalization papers when he reaches the United States.—Chicago Dispatch.

Taylor, as well as Dick, must be attended to. Will Mr. Hanna assign him to the permanent management of the Kentucky Republicans?—Enquirer.

At any rate President McKinley doesn't feel called upon to address Mr. Dingley on the alleged perfidy and dishonor of the Senate.—Washington. Post.

"What is that dull and sickening thud?" said Dingley-on-parade. It's another Dingley schedule dropped," the Senate Sergeant said.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

There have been several descriptions given of Senator Deboe, of Kentucky, but we want a real life-size up-right-of-the-bat of Colonel Jack Chinn.—Richmond Times.

The Kentucky Legislature seems to have adjourned in a body and gone to Washington for their reward of merit in electing a Republican to the Senate.—Columbus Dispatch.

A Chicago newspaper calls on President McKinley to resign. Does this editor suppose for one moment that the Major is going to throw away the fruit of his last year's work on his veranda?—Washington Post.

Senator Deboe has packed his grip and will come to Kentucky for a rest. But Lyons will remain on guard and the voice of the senator may even be more piercing in his absence than in his presence.—Commonwealth.

Our Country One Hundred Years Ago.

Every gentleman wore a queue and powdered his hair.

A gentleman bowing to a lady always scraped his foot on the ground.

All the population of a viliage assembled at the inn on "post day" to hear the News.

The church collection was taken in a bag at the end of the pole with a bell attached to arouse sleepy contributors.

An old copper mine in Connecticut was used as a prison.

Imprisonment for debt was a common practice.

There was only one hat factory and that made cocked hats.

Virginia contained a fifth of the whole population of the country.

The stage coaches bore all the travel between New York and Boston.

The Mississippi Valley was not so well known as the heart of Africa now is.

Quinine was unknown. When a man had ague fits he took Peruvian bark and whiskey.

A New England girl was not allowed to marry until she could make a loaf of bread and cut it in smooth, even slices while it was still warm.

There was not a public library in the United States.

Books were expensive the lives of the poets cost $15.

A day laborer received two shillings a day.

A horseman who galloped on a city street was fined four shillings.

Crockery plates were objected to because they dulled the knives.

The people who jeered at the preacher or criticised the sermon were fined.

Dry goods was designated as "men's stuff" or "women stuff."

Stoves were unknown. All the cooking was done before an open fire place.

Six days were required for a journey between New York and Boston.

Many of the streets were not named and many of the houses were not numbered.

The whipping post and pillory were still standing in New York and Boston.

Three-fourth of the books in every library came from beyond the Atlantic.

Twenty days were required for a letter to go from New York to Charleston by land.—Ex.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
—DRUGGIST,—
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

THIRD YEAR.
OF WALTON ACADEMY,
—opens—
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 21st, 1896
AT WALTON, KY.
Three Courses of Study to choose from:
English, Scientific or Classical.
Tuition per month for Higher Branches..... $3.00
Tuition per month for Common School Branches..... 2.50
We will have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for five days.
Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS. CHAS. F. PRIOR. Rev. S. H. MYERS.
Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
N. S. WATON, President, Uzinger, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.
Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.

FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE: ME: A: CALL.

WM. F. GOETZE

Scientific Optician.
Headquarters at Hornberger's Jewelry Store,
LAWRENCEBURG, - - INDIANA.
Your eyes tested free of charge and correct glasses fitted at moderate prices.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
If your eyes are effected in the least, give me a call and don't run chances of ruining your vision by buying from peddlers or quacks.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.
Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.
East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m, 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown...7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown...10:40 a m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m
C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given to Collections entrusted to him. mch23-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
Will be in Lawreneeburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated. All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 5,000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,

DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

TIME CARD OF THE

STEAMER PAULINE.
Leave Petersburg for Lawrenceburg, 6:30 am; 9:00 am; 11:00 am; 1:30 pm; 4:30 pm.
Leave Lawrburg for Pete and Aurora, 7:30 am; 9:30 am; 11:30 am; 2:30 pm; 4:30 pm; 10:30 am; 1:05 pm; 3:30 pm. Leave Aurora for Petersburg only, 5:15 pm.
Leave Petersburg for Aurora, 8:00 am; 10:00 am; 12:30 pm; 3:00 pm; 4:45 pm.
ELIHU ALDEN, Master.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON. : : : KY.

CHIEF JUSTICE STUART and Attorney General Childs, of Minnesota, have rendered opinion that Indians in that state have no right to hunt at will outside of their reservations. This issue was raised over the application of District Attorney Stringer before the board of pardons for the release of two Indians arrested at Wyoming for violating the game laws.

MILITARY engineers are practically agreed that no material for fortification is superior to earth. When clay is not obtainable, as on the seashore, sand is collected into bags and these are laid in regular heaps along the line of the proposed fortification. In such a fortification the balls from the enemy's guns sink without doing damage and shells explode harmlessly.

WOMEN doctors say, and many women prove it in practice, that by going upstairs slowly, with the foot—heel and toe alike—put firmly on each stair, one may arrive at the top of four flights of stairs really rested, instead of gasping for breath as when one runs upstairs. Going upstairs is a good form of exercise, if one gets at it in the right way to get its benefits.

ANTOINE D'ABBADIE, who, 60 years ago, with his younger brother, explored Abyssinia, remaining 13 years in that part of Africa, has just died in Paris at the age of 87. He was born in Dublin, of an Irish mother and a French father. Last year he gave the French Academy of Sciences, of which he was for 30 years a member, a sum yielding $8,000 a year for the preparation of a catalogue of the stars.

MINNESOTA is resolved that Memorial day shall be observed in a spirit worthy of the solemn memories to which it is dedicated. To that end an act recently adopted by the legislature of the state provides that no saloon shall be kept open between 11 o'clock in the morning and 9 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, and that no game of sport shall be played within half a mile of places where memorial services are being held.

FRUIT COMMISSIONER H. E. Dosch, of Oregon, has found that a severe cold snap that came upon the Willamette valley last November, before the sap had returned to the roots of the trees, damaged great numbers of the trees in a curious way, freezing them on one side only. On that side now the bark is black and dead. Many trees were killed. In Washington county 1,000,000 prune trees were killed by the same frost.

CAPT. MALCOLM, of the British barkentine Persia, now in port from Cienfuegos, Cuba, reports that on March 29, during a heavy southeasterly gale, accompanied with heavy rain, off the western end of Cuba, a huge waterspout passed within half a mile of the vessel. The base of the spiral was about the size of a two thousand-ton ship, and it traversed a zig-zag course, beating and tearing the water in a terrible manner.

THE wealthiest church corporation in the United States is Trinity church, New York, which a few years ago celebrated the two hundredth anniversary of its organization. Its wealth, aside from its many church edifices, it is claimed, amounts to more than $20,000,000. The income from this enormous wealth, after the expense of maintaining Trinity is met, is chiefly devoted to helping parishes where there is no wealth.

PROF. LAW, of Cornell university, is very hopeful concerning the eventual victory over tuberculosis. He says: "It may not be accomplished in our day, it may not even be attempted along the lines that would warrant an expectation of speedy success, but as surely as humanity is advancing to a higher and better future, so surely will this 'white plague,' tuberculosis, be eradicated from our herds and finally from our homes."

THOSE who have investigated the subject are of the opinion that the area devoted to wheat-growing is gradually shrinking. It is estimated that the world's crop of 1896 will not be more than 2,368,000,000, as compared with 2,447,000,000 bushels in 1893 and 2,507,000,000 bushels in 1894. There is a decline of the crop in India, the Argentine republic, Austria and the United States. To those who are engaged in wheat-growing these figures and the outlook ought to give some encouragement, the encouragement of better prices.

MME. CARNOT, the widow of the murdered president of the French republic, lives in the deepest retirement. She was absolutely devoted to her husband, and she lives only in the past. Like most French widows, she pays constant visits to her husband's grave, and she has never yet gone to his tomb without taking with her a small bunch of flowers. Mme. Carnot was the daughter of Dupont White, a celebrated economist of British extraction. She married the future president when she was only 17 years of age, and their union proved ideally happy.

RAILROADERS on the Beech Creek line, between Williamsport and Lock Haven, have been frightened by a ghostly figure that flags the midnight express at a lonely gorge in the Alleghenies. Trainmen say that when the express is far down the road a red lantern, swung by an unseen hand, can be seen swinging across the tracks, but before the train reaches the point, lantern and flagman disappear. Watchmen have been placed there, but the ghostly watchman appears just above or below the place where the guard is stationed. Railroaders regard its appearance as a bad omen.

TURKS ADVANCE.

Edhem Pasha's Original Orders Were to Capture Athens—Turkey Hesitates to Submit the Terms of Peace to the Powers.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A dispatch to the World from Domoko, dated Tuesday, says:

The Turks are advancing. At this hour (10 p. m.) the Turkish advance can be seen from the Acropolos, Domoko's highest point. The main body is now only 12 miles distant. Several reconnoitering parties have observed it at close quarters.

It is rumored that the Turkish cavalry have reached the banks of Lake Xenias, in the Greek rear.

Domoko is impregnable from the front. The Turks must attack from the flank. They will probably try to cut off the Greek retreat in the direction of Lake Xenias.

Skirmishing may be expected Thursday and a battle the day after.

The Greek soldiers are patient and apparently, cheerful, though they are almost without food, and seem to be eager to meet the enemy.

The route of the Turkish advance is marked by the smoke of burning villages.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 13.—The Turkish military commander at Janina telegraphs that all the Greek forces in Epirus have fled to Arta, abandoning 3,000 rifles, 300 cases of ammunition and a mountain gun. Seventy-nine Greeks were killed in the recent fighting.

The fourth batch of wounded Turkish soldiers have arrived here.

ATHENS, May 13.—Advices received here Wednesday from the Island of Skiathos, off the east coast of the Volo peninsula, say that the Greek gunboat Penus and the Greek torpedo boat No. 14 captured Tuesday, off the Island of Tenedos, on the west coast of Asia Minor, a Turkish steamer having on board 100 Turkish soldiers, six officers, 300 Martini rifles, several thousand cartridges, six quick-fire guns, various military stores and £4,000 in cash. The money was found upon a Turkish major, who was one of the officers captured. The Greek warships took the prize to the Island of Skiathos.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 13.—The ambassadors of the powers held another meeting Wednesday morning, after which they presented at the palace and to the Turkish government a collective note proposing an armistice pending the negotiations for peace between Turkey and Greece which are now in progress.

The admirals in command of the foreign fleets in Cretan waters have been notified of the mediation of the powers between Turkey and Greece and have been instructed to permit the departure of the Greek troops from the island of Crete.

The ambassadors met Wednesday morning for an exchange of views on the subject of mediation. In the meanwhile the Turks are advancing in Greece, Edhem Pasha's original orders being to march upon Athens.

It is feared that the reported conditions will render an agreement difficult and cause further complications. It is expected Russia may propose concessions to the Macedonians.

The director of the Deutsche bank of Berlin is expected here shortly with proposals to reorganize the Turkish finances, conclude a loan and secure railway concessions.

PHARSALAS, May 13.—Edhem Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief has established his headquarters on a hill opposite Pharsalas.

The Greek irregulars are raiding parts of Thessaly and irregular Greek bands have attempted to cut the Turkish line of communication with Elassona.

Important fighting is expected here between the Turks and Greeks unless an armistice is immediately agreed upon at Constantinople.

ATHENS, May 13.—The fact that there is no news of renewed fighting must be regarded as good news, but an uneasy feeling exists here. The Turks are trying to outflank the Greek position at Domoko, and the delay in the porte's reply is also interpreted to mean that Turkey does not intend to cease hostilities. Telegrams from the front report that both armies are concentrating in anticipation of an engagement.

LONDON, May 13.—The Athens correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "By the czar's express command, Count Muravieff, the Russian foreign minister, has instructed M. De Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador at Constantinople, to insist peremptorily upon a cessation of hostilities by Turkey."

Killed in a Mine.

OXFORD, N. J., May 13.—The bodies of Adam Snyder and Barney Rider were found at the bottom of the zinc ore mine on the Raub farm, about one and a half miles from this place, at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning. The men had been employed by prospectors, and went to work Tuesday evening. At 10 o'clock they were hoisted from the mine and after taking their lunch returned to their work. That was the last seen of them alive.

Bridges Washed Away.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., May 13.—The rain fell in torrents here Tuesday night, doing much damage to the railroads. The Baltimore & Ohio had two bridges washed away at Cairo, east of here, and as a consequence no trains are running Wednesday. The train due here at noon had to be abandoned. Farmers will lose heavily, as nearly all vegetation lands along the Kanawha river was badly injured.

New Trial for Rose.

COLUMBUS, O., May 13.—The supreme court granted James Rose, of Jefferson county, a new trial for killing a white woman. He was condemned to be hanged on June 5, 1896, but was granted a new trial. He is now in prison in Jefferson county.

A Hanging in New Jersey.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., May 13.—Elmer Clawson was hanged here Wednesday in the Somerset county jail. Elmer Clawson was 19 years old. He shot a former employer, Harry Hodgett, a farmer, on the morning of August 27 last.

DISSOLVED.

Steel Boom Pool, Recently Organized, Declared at an End.

All Were of the Opinion That an Open Market Was Best—Beams Will Be Sold Cheaper, But Plates and Angles Will Be Higher.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—A special meeting of the companies interested in the steel beam pool which was organized 14 months ago, was held in this city Thursday, and the pool was dissolved and an open market created. The companies represented at the meeting were: Jones & Laughlin, Carnegie Co., Pencoyd Iron Co., Illinois Steel Co., Phoenix Iron Co., Passaic Rolling Mill Co. and Pottsville Iron and Steel Co.

Percival Roberts, jr., vice president of the Pencoyd company, stated that the meeting was entirely harmonious and that all were of the opinion that an open market was best. He denied that there was any distrust among those comprising the pool, or that the rates on steel beams had been cut. He said: "The fixed price on beams has been maintained, but the companies manufacturing these also make plates, angles, etc. The prices on these latter have been cut owing to competition, and there being no fixed price upon them, it was deemed advisable to have an open market on beams also."

Mr. Roberts does not believe that there will be any general cutting of price, now that the pool is dissolved. "Beams," he said, "will probably be sold cheaper, but then plates and angles will command a higher rate accordingly, so in the average there will be no decrease of prices."

CASINO RAIDED.

Frantic Rush of Society Men and Women—American Girls Caught.

BRUSSELS, May 14.—The police have made a big raid on the casino at Thuin near the French frontier, nine miles southwest of Charleroi, during which 13 females and 117 male players and 30 croupiers were arrested and 90,000 francs ($18,000) in gold and notes seized. All the fair gamblers were women of rank and fashion and they assumed the names of notorious cocottes to avoid publicity, and it is also learned that many of the men were members of some of the "best" families of Europe.

The raid was made by a large force of police sent secretly from this city. They entered the gambling house without attracting attention. Business was in full blast. When the police appeared several of the women fainted. The men made a mad rush for the windows, only to fall into the hands of the police outside.

The prisoners, including two American girls, were fined 100 francs each. Fashionable Brussels is greatly excited over the affair.

LOCKJAW

Caused by a Rusty Nail—The Victim Slowly Dying.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 14.—One of the most pronounced cases of tetanus, or lockjaw, recorded in the city is now under the care of physicians connected with the Indiana Medical college. Lafayette Barrett, plasterer and a man of unusual strong muscular development, stepped on a rusty nail, which penetrated his foot. He paid no attention to the injury, saying there was no danger from a scratch to a man who had his run of accidents. Thursday night the trouble extended to the muscles of his neck and back, and his throat is slowly closing.

At short intervals he is seized with terrible spasms, during which his powerful body is wrenched and twisted into awful contortions. Within a few hours his whole body will be rigid. The physicians have kept him in ignorance of the nature of his complaint, and although he can barely whisper through his nearly closed lips, he is still confident of recovery.

Strawberry Shipments.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 14.—The strawberry shipments Wednesday were the largest of the season. Over 2,700 crates were sent north on a special express train over the Cincinnati Southern. The better varieties of the berries are now coming in, and the recent rains have made them of superior quality. The heaviest shipments will be made about the first of next week. Prices are well maintained, the best bringing from $3 to $3.50 per crate in the northern markets.

Strawboard Trust Alleged to Have Been Organized.

CLEVELAND, O., May 14.—The strawboard manufacturers of the United States held a secret meeting at the Hollenden, and according to the report formed a trust to control the product of the country, though no definite information could be obtained from them. Representatives of firms in Cincinnati, Covington and Binghamton, N. Y., were present. The manufacturers say there will be no immediate change in prices.

Miners Strike.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—A special to the Evening Post from Williamsburg, Ky., says: Four hundred miners of the Pine Knot district are out on a strike. The district comprises the Stranks' Lane and Jo Wad mines. The trouble arose over contracts for 1897-98, which were to have been signed May 1.

President Pulliam's Kick.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—President Pulliam, of the Louisville Baseball Club, has telegraphed President Young complaining of the work of Umpire Jack Sheridan and asking that he be placed somewhere else. There was considerable dissatisfaction on both sides at his work in Monday's game with New York and President Freedman is also said to have complained to Young.

Ex-Senator Coke Dead.

WACO, Tex., May 14.—Ex-Senator Coke died at 1:50 o'clock Friday morning.

AMENDMENTS

To the Tariff Bill Will Be Made by the Democrats—They Will Provide Rates Practically on the Line of the Wilson Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—There is some difference of opinion among the democratic members of the senate committee on finance as to the policy to be pursued in regard to the tariff bill. Some of them, notably Senator Gorman, are of the opinion that the democrats should prepare a substitute bill and introduce it. They suggest that this substitute should embody the democratic idea as to the tariff, giving uniformly lower rates than the republican bill, either as prepared in the house or as amended by the senate committee on finance. They contend that the Wilson law is not a clear embodiment of democratic tariff doctrine, in that it not only does not produce sufficient revenue, but that it carries many features which were inserted at the instance of republican senators in order to secure its passage through the senate. There is, however, quite a pronounced opposition to this programme on the part of many democratic senators, including several members of the committee on finance. They take the position that the safest course for the party is to stand by the Wilson bill, which, while it is not perfect, is still a democratic measure. The party, they say, has taken the position that no tariff legislation is necessary. The campaign was fought on another issue and they hold that to raise the tariff question on their own motion would be inconsistent and unwise. Those who hold to this idea are willing that amendments should be offered covering all the schedules, and it seems likely that this course will be pursued. The amendments will provide rates practically on the line of the Wilson bill.

Broker Elverton R. Chapman, of New York city, will surrender himself to United States Marshal Wilson at three o'clock next Monday afternoon. Positive assurance to this effect was given District Attorney Davis Friday by Chapman's counsel. Chapman will then be escorted immediately to the district jail and begin to serve his sentence for 30 days for refusing to answer the senate sugar trust investigating committee's questions three years ago.

The comparative April statement of the exports and imports of merchandise, gold and silver of the United States, issued by the bureau of statistics, shows as follows:

Merchandise, domestic exports, $76,176,997; increase as compared with April, 1896, $6,775,000.

Imports $101,303,131, of which nearly 50 per cent was free of duty. As compared with April, 1896, there was an increase in dutiable imports of over $26,000,000 and of over $22,000,000 in non-dutiable merchandise. For the ten months the exports of domestic merchandise exceeded those of the same period in 1896 by over $151,000,000. The imports of merchandise during the last ten months, however, were over $65,000,000 less than for the same period last year.

The amount of gold exported during April was $6,629,419 and the imports $619,453. During the last ten months the excess of gold imports over exports was $53,482,106. The exports of silver during April amounted to $4,396,895 and the imports $587,124. For the last ten months the exports of silver exceeded the imports by $42,313,592.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The meeting of the cabinet Friday was devoted almost entirely to the consideration of the Cuban situation. The meeting occurred an hour earlier than usual owing to the importance of the question to be discussed and the fact that the president and the cabinet were to leave for Philadelphia at 12:45. The cabinet discussion of the Cuban situation Friday was upon the advisability of asking congress to provide immediate relief to the Americans who are, according to the reports received from Consul General Lee, penned up in the cities and in actual danger of starvation. It had no bearing upon the policy of the administration toward Spain or the Cuban insurgents except incidentally, but dealt with the direct and immediate question of relieving destitute Americans on the island. Secretary Sherman laid before the cabinet some of the most important documents in the state department about the situation and before the meeting was over, Judge Day, the assistant secretary of state, personally took to the white house some additional papers, for which the secretary had sent. Every phase of the matter was discussed, the advisability of asking congress for an appropriation, Spain's attitude, the methods for distributing relief if it should be decided to enter upon it, the necessity or advisability of having a warship accompany food supplies.

Mallory Elected U. S. Senator From Florida.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 15.—Stephen R. Mallory was elected U. S. senator Friday on the 25th ballot. The vote was: Mallory, 33; Chipley, 44; Call, 1. Chipley led after the roll call on this ballot, but the changing of votes gave the election to Mallory.

Christina Moerlein Dead.

CINCINNATI, May 15.—Christina Moerlein, founder and president of the great brewing concern bearing his name, and one of the best-known men of Cincinnati, died at his home, on Ohio avenue, at 6:30 Friday morning. He was 79 years old Thursday.

Strange Stone Fell.

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind., May 15.—George Woods has in his cabinet of curios a peculiar stone that descended from the clouds during the rainstorm a few days since and fell on the farm of Esquire Probst, south of the city. It is of oblong shape, weighs nearly three pounds, and is of a dark color, with grayish streaks through it, of flinty hardness, and entirely different from any stones found in this locality. Several of Mitchell Bros.' workmen saw the stone strike the earth, and, anxious to ascertain what it was, dug down several feet into the ground before they reached it.

AN OUTBREAK

Of Public Sentiment in Favor of the Cuban Republic.

The Sub-Committee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Makes a Report—Edwin T. Atkyns Closeted With the President.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—There was a sudden and violent outbreak of Cuban sentiment Thursday at the capitol, and during the early hours the drift of opinion was strongly towards speedy and radical action by both congress and the executive, but later there was somewhat of a reaction upon its becoming known that the president, while keenly alive to the situation and anxious to learn everything possible that could guide his conduct of our Cuban and Spanish relations, felt that further information was necessary and that for the immediate present the question was not one of recognition of the belligerency or independence of the Cuban insurgents, but of relief for the American citizens destitute and helpless in the towns of the Queen of the Antilles. The senate foreign relations committee, it should be stated, while agreeing with the necessity for relief of the suffering Americans, is favorable to more radical measures and a number of its members are earnestly desirous of instant action by the executive in aid of the insurgents, but have not succeeded in converting the administration to their views that present action is appropriate and imperative. The event of the day was a report to their colleagues by the sub-committee of the foreign relations committee, which Wednesday examined the state department Cuban reports. This statement, though not given to the public, was so far disclosed in character as to give rise to a good deal of excited comment among senators and members. The report, based upon facts presented by the United States consuls in Cuba, it is said, brings out in strong relief the destitution which exists, not only among the Cubans, but among the Americans and pacificos now on the island, who were driven from their farms and into the towns by Weyler's orders.

For several days past the subject matter of this report has been under discussion quietly among a few of the friends of Cuba in congress, and they have lost no opportunity of impressing upon the president their convictions that it is his duty as the chief executive to delay no longer in taking active steps to terminate the present condition of affairs in Cuba. These representations, however, have not been sufficient to induce hasty action. The president is moving steadily and with all the speed that safety and sound judgment warrant in the collection of facts touching the conditions that exist upon the island to-day.

Thursday the president saw, by appointment, Mr. Edwin T. Atkyns, of Boston, who is largely interested in Cuban sugar plantations. Mr. Atkyns was in Washington on personal business, which brought him in contact with Secretary Long, an old friend. To further Mr. Atkyns' business, the secretary took him to the white house and presented him to the president. The latter, learning that Mr. Atkyns had just returned from Cuba, began to chat with his visitor as to the state of affairs as they revealed themselves to a business man, and Mr. Atkyns gave him a faithful picture of the economic condition that prevailed in Havana and in other portions of the island when he left. His story so interesting that the president summoned Judge Day, assistant secretary of state, across to the white house to hear it. Mr. Atkyns had very little to say about the military situation in Cuba, and what he did utter in that connection did not indicate any leaning on his part either to the Spanish or the insurgent side.

At the Spanish legation the news of the developments at the capitol Thursday was received with composure. Of course the action of the committee could not be openly discussed without violation of the strict etiquette which governs the diplomatic body in its relations to congress, but it was suggested that the fact that the entire attention of the senate for months to come would be engrossed by the tariff bill might have determined the friends of the Cubans to endeavor to secure some sort of action by congress before the tariff debate begins.

President McKinley is now engaged in drafting an important message to congress, which will be sent in on Monday.

The cables between Washington and Havana have been kept working all day, and numerous conferences have been held at the white house and the state department, all bearing on the one important subject. All action in congress has been suspended to give the president an opportunity to take such steps as he may deem wise.

Late Thursday afternoon it was announced that the president had decided to respond to the appeal of the starving thousands in Cuba. If Spain stands in the way of affording the necessary relief, so much the worse for Spain.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Representative Castle, of California, Thursday introduced a joint resolution for the recognition of the belligerent rights of the Cuban. It declares it to be the policy of the United States to recognize the belligerent rights of all oppressed people struggling, for liberty.

Floods in West Virginia.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 14.—It has rained here almost incessantly for 48 hours, and Thursday night the river and creeks are doing immense damage in the lowlands, destroying many acres of farm produce. Reports from many points in central West Virginia show similar conditions.

Bank President Goes to the Pen.

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—President Nicholls, of the Bank of Commerce, convicted of embezzlement, was Thursday, sentenced to three years at hard labor in the state penitentiary. He will appeal to the supreme court.

A Sure Deliverance.

Not instantaneously, it is true, but in a short space of time, persons of a bilious habit are saved from the tortures which a disordered liver is capable of inflicting by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an anti-bilious medicine and aperient of the first rank. The pains in the right side and through the right shoulder blade, the sick headache, nausea, constipation and saffron hue of the skin, are entirely removed by this estimable restorative of tone to the organs of secretion and digestion.

Minnie—"I want to introduce you to a young lady—a very nice young lady—and she's worth her weight in gold." Bob—"Stout girl, I hope."—Tit-Bits.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.

Over 400,000 cured. Why not let No-To-Bac regulate or remove your desire for tobacco? Saves money, makes health and manhood. Cure guaranteed, 50c and $1.00, all druggists.

It is queer that a hard coal burner always goes out in the coldest night of the winter.—Washington Democrat.

"Star Tobacco."

As you chew tobacco for pleasure, use Star. It is not only the best, but the most lasting, and therefore the cheapest.

The people are so hungry for sympathy that no one is ever pleased at being told that he looks well.—Atchison Globe.

Actors, Vocalists, Public Speakers praise Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in One minute.

The great objection we have to the man who blows his own trumpet is in the tune he selects.—N. Y. Weekly.

When bilious or costive eat a Cascaret, candy cathartic, cure guaranteed. 10c, 25c.

They who clamor for their rights, multiply their wrongs.—Ram's Horn.

Pains and aches break down. St. Jacobs Oil builds up and finishes with a cure.

A second-hand store is the loneliest looking place on earth.

Just try a 10c box of Cascarets candy cathartic, finest liver and bowel regulator made.

Men tire of everything else; it is a wonder they do not tire of life.

Don't refuse or excuse—St. Jacobs Oil's the cure for bruise.

Pretend to know and you will become an empty shell.—Ram's Horn.

Cascarets stimulate liver, kidneys and bowels. Never sicken, weaken or gripe. 10c.

A man with two faces never needs but one pair of feet.—Ram's Horn.

Long and Short—years with rheumatism; no time with St. Jacobs Oil—and a cure.

Gorge the memory and starve the understanding.—Ram's Horn.

A Painful Humor

On the Ankle Spread to the Knee and Developed Into Boils—No Trouble Since Taking Hood's.

"I was troubled with a disagreeable itching on one of my ankles. In time it developed into boils of which I had five or six at a time. The humor spread from my ankle to my knee and was very painful. It baffled the skill of physicians. For weeks I could not bear my weight on this foot. An abscess formed and was lanced and the humor broke out on my other ankle and threatened to repeat my former experience. Hood's Sarsaparilla attracted my attention and I began taking it. In six weeks I was better, and began to hope for a permanent cure. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla six months and was entirely cured. I have had no trouble with humor since that time." MRS. M. B. MACINTOSH, Barrington, Illinois. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1: six for $5. Get only HOOD'S.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, indigestion, biliousness. Price 25c.

$75 $50
RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE
Western Wheel Works
MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS
CATALOGUE FREE

GET A HOME For yourself where land is good and cheap. Where thousands have become prosperous. Where the climate is perfect, and the soil is rich. NEBRASKA offers great opportunities to the farm renter who wants to become a farm owner. Send for a free handsome illustrated pamphlet on Nebraska to P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill.

Yucatan, it is perfection.

Weeks Scale Works, HAY, COAL, STOCK, GRAIN AND COTTON SCALES. BUFFALO, N. Y.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY! gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

THE PORTE

Makes Answer to the Note of the Powers.

Turkey Will Agree to an Armistice Under Certain Conditions.

Among Them the Annexation of Thessaly and a £10,000,000 Indemnity—Ports of Volo and Prevesa to Be Kept Open for the Turkish Vessels.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 17.—The porte has replied officially to the note of the powers and declines to agree to an armistice until the following conditions are accepted:

The annexation of Thessaly, an indemnity of £10,000,000 Turkish and the abolition of the capitulations. The porte proposes that plenipotentiaries of the powers should meet at Pharsalas to discuss the terms of peace, and declares that if these conditions are declined the Turkish army will continue to advance.

The demand for the annexation of Thessaly is based upon the fact that the province was originally ceded to Greece on the advice of the powers with the object of ending brigandage and Greek incursions into the Ottoman territory, the porte believing at the time that the cession would attain these objects, but the recent incursions of Greek bands and the events immediately preceding the war have proved to the contrary. This is the substance of the reply.

The ambassadors met Sunday to consider the porte's answer, which is regarded as raising an extremely grave issue. It is believed that representations will be made to the sultan personally to induce a modification of these terms, but it is foreseen that this will be very difficult, owing to the attitude of the powerful old Turk war party.

If the porte should prove obdurate a European conference is not improbable, although at present Russia is opposed to this.

It is regarded as quite certain that the powers will not consent to a retrocession of Thessaly. Even Germany is believed to be resolute on this point because it would involve a violation of the Berlin treaty and imperil the peace of the Balkans.

Altogether the reply of the porte has caused the greatest surprise. It appears that during the discussion of the note from the powers by the council of the sultan's ministers, news reached the council that 3,000 Greeks had landed at Palona and were marching to Janina with the intention of cooperating with other forces from Arta. This created a bad impression among the ministers.

LONDON, May 17.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Constantinople says the porte's reply demands in its concluding paragraph, an extradition treaty with Greece, and that the ports of Volo and Prevesa be kept open for vessels carrying food supplies to the Turkish troops.

ATHENS, May 17.—A private dispatch from Arta just received here says that the Turkish garrison at Prevesa, at the northern entrance of the Gulf of Arta, which has been besieged by the Greek land forces, has sent the Greek archbishop and five notabilities of Prevesa to the commander of the besieging Greek army with a message saying that the Turkish force is ready to capitulate to the regular force of Greece.

FLAGSHIP NEW YORK

To Be Prepared to Go to Sea From New York at a Moment's Notice.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Orders have been sent to Rear Admiral Montgomery Sicard to have his flagship, the New York, made ready to go to sea from New York at a moment's warning, according to a Washington dispatch to the Herald. She is to fill up with coal to her full capacity.

The haste with which she is to prepare for sea may be judged from the fact that although she needs only about 170 tons to fill her bunkers to their full capacity, this amount of fuel will be be hurried on board Saturday and Sunday.

The New York's engines have been taken apart and she is undergoing a general overhauling of her machinery at her moorings off Tompkinsville, L. I., but the engineering force of the cruiser is doubtless already at work putting the engines together, and it is believed she will be ready for the sea by Monday next.

Concerning the flagship's destination nothing can be learned at the navy department, but that their departure from port has any bearing on the Cuban question is denied by them. The belief among navy officers is strong that the New York is to be held in complete readiness to go to Key West at a moment's warning.

Train Goes Over an Embankment.

ARDMORE, I. T., May 17.—Southbound Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe passsenger train No. 1 went through a trestle 16 miles south of here at 5 o'clock Sunday morning and tumbled down a 20 foot embankment. Fifteen passengers and members of the crew were injured, some of them fatally. No one was killed outright.

Cool Weather in England.

LONDON, May 17.—Sunshine, cold winds, frost and the general temperature from ten to fifteen degrees below the average for May, have been the weather conditions prevailing during the past week. The wheat looks fairly well. The season is backward and genial weather is needed. Wheat in the market has been influenced by American advices.

Iron and Steel Workers Want an Advance.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 17.—The scale committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers have decided to demand of the manufacturers an advance in the wages of tin plate workers and an advance in the puddling rate. There will also be a number of demands of minor importance made.

TEN MEN KILLED

And Several Injured in a Tennessee Mine Disaster—A New Tipple, Thought Safe, Fails, With Terrible Results.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 18.—A Florence, Ala., special to the Banner says:

A terrible disaster occurred at Pinkney, Tenn., ore mines, 30 miles from here, Thursday, beginning at 3 o'clock. The new tipple, or ore dump, 60 feet high, fell, killing ten white men and boys outright, and seriously wounding several others. The killed are: Joseph Remington, Cal Kilburn, Will Kilburn, Jim Brown, an 11-year-old son of Jim Brown, Cal Harris, Landin Harris, Richard Hardwick, Mat Crow, Jim Crow.

The seriously injured are: Bill Sims, George Gamble, Cype Gamble, Alex. O'Dill, Will Killpatrick, Joe Newton, Donny Brown, two McElmores, M. Christain.

Of the killed, Remington, Cal Kilburn, Brown, Harris and the two Crows leave wives and from one to five children. Those who are seriously injured have broken legs and arms and crushed hip bones, and internal injuries. At least half of those who are injured will die, but their names can not be learned. All of the killed and wounded were on the top of the tipple when it collapsed. Only two escaped without serious injuries. One young man, seeing his danger in time, jumped 20 feet to a tree and received slight scratches, and another jumped to the ground, turning over several times and alighted on his feet, only spraining his ankle. The cause of the collapse is unknown. The dump was a new one, and was tested with 20 cars of ore less than a month ago. There was only a small weight on it when it fell. The mines where the disaster occurred belong to J. Craig McLanahan. Drs. Arnold and Bramlette went to the scene on a special train Thursday evening, cared for the injured, and returned Friday morning.

THEODORE DURRANT

Asks for a Pardon on the Ground That the Real Murderer of Blanche Lamont Has Confessed His Crime.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—Theodore Durrant, through his attorneys, asked Gov. Budd Friday to pardon him on the ground that the real murderer of Blanche Lamont has at last confessed his crime. The lawyers declare that they have not been hoaxed, nor is it their purpose to impose upon the executive. They insist that in the person of John Rosenberg, convict at San Quentin prison, they have discovered the man who is guilty of the horrors of Emmanuel church.

John Rosenberg has made a sworn confession before a notary public and in the presence of several witnesses that he killed Blanche Lamont at the instigation of a stranger and in consideration of the payment of $700 for his bloody work. It is with this sensation that the attorneys will strengthen their case at Sacramento. The story and its details is one of the most remarkable that has developed in the long case.

Rosenberg is a Russian sailor and arrived in this city on a sailing vessel from Hamburg, Germany, during the last week of March, 1895, or on the first day of April. He is now serving a term for horse stealing and appears to be sane.

Absolutely no credence is apparently placed by any one, unless by the prisoner's attorneys, upon the alleged confession of convict John Rosenburg, who declared he had murdered Blanche Lamont for $700 at the instigation of a stranger. Rosenburg was committed to San Quentin prison ten days after Durrant arrived there.

A COMBINATION

Of Wire Nails, Wire and Rod Manufacturers About to Be Formed.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 15.—Manufacturers of wire nails, wire and rods are about to form a grand combination to control the market for all three products. The originators of the scheme are the wire nail manufacturers, manufacturers of rods, wire and nails, met in New York a week ago and laid the foundation for the plan of organization. The policy outlined will only include a moderate advance in the price of each product, and not the extortionate prices under the regime of the nail pool.

If the new combination is a go it will practically drive out all competition in the manufacture of wire nails.

All the firms which were in the nail pool have signified their willingness to enter the new combination. It is not known whether the Pittsburgh Wire Co. will become a member. This concern was a thorn in the side of the old organization, as was the Bissel interest in Cleveland. The latter became a part of the association just before it went to pieces.

Aged Bank Officials Convicted.

MARION, Ill., May 15.—After being out 18 hours, the jury in the case of Col. Wm. R. Brown and W. P. Bruner, indicted for the embezzlement of money deposited in their bank at Mariopolis prior to its failure two years ago, brought in a verdict Friday of guilty and fixed the penalty at one year in the penitentiary and a fine of $410 each. Great sympathy is expressed for the defendants on account of their age, 70 and 83 years. A motion for a new trial was made.

Death of Max Maretzek.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Max Maretzek, the well-known manager, died at his home on Staten island Friday aged 76.

The Greeks Capture Nikopolis.

PARIS, May 15.—A dispatch from Athens this morning announces that the Greeks have captured Nickopolis, the site of the Turkish fortress on the peninsula upon which Prevesa is situated. Eighty Turks were killed in the engagement. The Greek troops, the dispatch adds, have reoccupied Soulours without opposition.

Earthquake Shock at Reno, Nev.

RENO, Nev., May 15.—A severe shock of earthquake was felt here Friday morning about 5 o'clock, lasting several moments. The vibration was from north to south.

A FORECAST

Of Business to Be Transacted in Congress This Week.

Cuban Question Will Receive Considerable Attention in the House.

Conference Report on the Indian Bill—The Morgan Cuban Resolutions Likely to Pass in the Senate—The Pacific Railroad Land Patents.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The house leaders have not yet decided upon the methods by which they will make their response to the president's message, which will be sent to congress Monday or Tuesday, asking for relief for the starving Americans in Cuba. That the response will be quick and complete, however, there is no reason to doubt. In the present condition of affairs in the house three methods of procedure are open. Ordinarily the message would go to the committee on foreign affairs for consideration, and that committee would report a bill which would come back to the house for action through the regular channels. The speaker could in the present emergency simply appoint this committee and let the whole subject take the regular course. But it is hardly likely that this will be done. The subject is so well understood that it will probably be thought that the members, with the message and the accompanying documents which the president will transmit before them, can act intelligently without a committee report. If the committee is not appointed two other courses will be open. First, after the receipt of the message a bill may be formulated by the leaders and a special order reported by the committee on rules for its consideration. This would bring the whole question at once before the house for action. But this method would be disadvantageous, perhaps, in that both houses, struggling to the same end simultaneously, would act on different bills, thus entailing delay for adjustment of differences in conference. The most likely course is that the house will await the action of the senate if action is had promptly and then consider the senate bill or joint resolution under a special order. The sentiment in favor of recognition of the Cuban insurgents is strong in the house, and a very radical measure might be passed if the house were allowed free action. With a senate measure, dealing only with the question of the relief of the suffering Americans, before the house under a special order, possibility of amendment would be cut off and the house would be compelled to accept or reject it as passed by the senate. The conference report on the Indian bill probably will come before the house this week.

The proceedings in the senate this week are by no means settled. All will depend upon the course the Cuban question may take. Senator Morgan's joint resolution occupies the favored place on the calendar, and there is little doubt that it will be taken up at the appointed hour Monday. Still there is a slight possibility that the expected message of the president may cause a postponement and that the character of his recommendations may have a bearing that will influence the tenor of the resolution that ultimately will be adopted. The Alabama senator will not stand in the way of action in accordance with such a recommendation as the president may make upon this subject, but he will insist that it shall be independent of, and that it shall in nowise interfere with his resolution providing for recognition of Cuban belligerency.

With the Cuban question in its present shape and with no other pressing business before the senate the debate on this subject will be of uncertain duration. It may continue practically all the week and it may come to a very sudden and speedy termination. There is little or no doubt that the Morgan resolution will pass when a vote is reached and the indications are that the majority for it will be the greater for the recent delay. There will continue to be some opposition and this plea will be made that any material change in accordance with executive recommendation is all that can be reasonably expected.

If Cuba does not occupy the entire attention for the week much of the time is likely to be given to the general calendar. Senator Gear will make an effort to have the Pacific railroad bill considered, while Senator Lodge will, if the opportunity offers, make the same effort in behalf of the immigration bill. Senator Pettigrew will call up the resolution for the investigation of Pacific railroad land patents. The Indian appropriation bill will be brought in on a conference report. In it there remains only the one point of difference on the Uncompahgre lands to be settled. The sundry civil conference probably will be postponed until Senator Allison's return to the city. Senator Mallory, the new Florida senator, will be inducted into office early in the week.

Senator Aldrich will make the opening statement in behalf of the tariff bill on the part of the majority of the finance committee on Tuesday, but it will rest with individual senators whether the debate shall be continued beyond this speech at that time. The probabilities are that the statement will produce some badinage and that after this the senate will adjourn until Monday, when the debate will begin in earnest. Senator Aldrich is expected to fully explain the position of himself and colleagues and to make quite an elaborate presentation of the subject.

Six Months for Forgery.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 17.—W. J. Dugn, a well-known city contractor, convicted of forging estimates on assignments of city contracts to the amount of nearly $50,000, was sentenced Saturday to six months' imprisonment in the county jail.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—SENATE.—The Morgan Cuban resolution was discussed at considerable length in the senate Monday. For the first time since the debate began the opposition sentiment expressed itself. The speeches were not of a kind to stimulate the galleries, being in the main dispassionate reviews of the situation in Cuba. Mr. Hale maintained it would be unwise to embarrass the president by the adoption of these resolutions at a time when he was investigating the subject. He intimated also that the adoption of the resolution would lead to the withdrawal of the Spanish minister and the termination of diplomatic relations between Spain and the United States. The senator said few real Americans were imprisoned in Cuba. He had never heard of a genuine Yankee being among them. They were all Sanguillys or Delgados or Ruizs.

HOUSE.—The house Monday resumed the transaction of public business which had been suspended since the Indian appropriation bill was sent to conference three weeks ago. The consideration of the senate amendments to the sundry civil appropriation bill was entered upon a special order providing for a recess each day until disposed of. Mr. Simpson (Kan.) pursued his tactics of the last few weeks, attempting to harrass the majority with points of no quorum, but without success. On the motion of the adoption of the order the democrats divided. Mr. Bailey and his followers voting with the republicans and several of the democrats, including Mr. McMillin and Mr. Blount, with the populists, against the order. The vote resulted 111 to 15. The amendment striking out the paragraph relating to the public building at Topeka was agreed to.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—SENATE.—The Cuban question occupied the entire attention of the senate Tuesday, the debate taking a wider range and at times becoming spirited when comparisons were made between the attitude of the former administration and the present one on the subject of Cuba. Senators Morrill (Vt.) and Caffery (La.) spoke in opposition to the resolution. Senators Gallinger (Mass.) and Foraker (O.) advocated deferring the question until further information could be secured from the state department, and Senators Mills, of Texas, and Allen, of Nebraska, urged the immediate passage of the resolutions. The debate went over until Wednesday. During the day Senator Kyle (pop., S. D.), rising to a question of privilege, disclaimed having sought committee places from republican senators. A partial conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was agreed to.

HOUSE.—The house Tuesday had an interesting debate over the senate amendment appropriating $30,000 for the improvement of Pearl harbor. Mr. Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, moved to non-concur and was warmly opposed by Mr. Hitt, chairman of the last foreign affairs committee, Mr. Sayers, of Texas, and Mr. Bilbom of California, supported Mr. Cannon, while Representatives Cummings, of New York; Simpson, of Kansas, and Henry, of Connecticut, favored the appropriation. Mr. Cummings and Mr. Henry expressed the hope that before McKinley went out of office the United States flag would be flying over Hawaii. By a vote of 99 to 83, the house voted not to concur in the Pearl harbor improvement amendment.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—SENATE.—There was a short session of the senate Wednesday. On Mr. Morgan's request Cuban resolution went over. The senate bill for a public building at Indianapolis Ind., to cost $1,500,000, was passed. The senate then took up the calendar and passed a number of bills. The immigration and the kinetoscope bills were reached, but went over on objection. At 2 o'clock the senate held an executive session, at 3:45 adjourned.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—SENATE.—After a long period of calm, the senate was considerably agitated Thursday, first by a discussion of the senate sugar investigation, and then by a preliminary skirmish on the tariff bill. The Allen resolution to bring Elverton R. Chapman before the bar of the senate, was debated in somewhat monotonous style until Mr. Tillman (S. C.) gave a personal interest to the subject by referring to reports that senators, within the last week, had speculated in sugar stock. After a long discussion the senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—The Indian appropriation bill was disposed of in the house Thursday with the exception of the provision for opening the Utah Gilsonite lands, which was postponed until Monday. The conference report, which establishes an Indian warehouse at Omaha, ratifies the lease of the Seneca oil lands and adds one judge in the Indian territory courts, was adopted by a vote of 84 to 47. Nearly two hours were consumed in a parliamentary squabble on the point raised by Mr. Wheeler, of Alabama, that the rule for semi-weekly sessions was in violation of the constitution. At 3:18 o'clock the house adjourned until Monday.

PAUPER GRAVES.

Most of the Victims of the Leona Fire Will Be Buried in Potter's Field.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Workmen were engaged Tuesday morning in transferring the cargo from the steamship Leona to her sister ship, the Lampassas, which will sail Wednesday in place of the Leona. The living steerage passengers will be sent to their destination on the Lampassas. The bodies of the fire victims are likely to be buried in Potter's field. Most of the unfortunates had no friend in this country.

The investigation into the cause of the fire and the loss of life will be conducted by the United States board of inspectors of steam vessels. Three of the steerage passengers declared that they were abandoned to their fate by the crew, no effort being made to rescue them. It is a matter of fact, however, that the officers saved a number of lives at the risk of their own. Capt. Wilder says every man on the vessel did his duty.

THE LOUBAT

Arrives Safely at Her Destination With the Cleveland Exploring Party.

CLEVELAND, O., May 14.—A New York dispatch from Buenos Ayres announced that United States Minister Buchanan had started an investigation to ascertain what had become of the American sailing vessel Joseph F. Loubat, which, it is feared, had been lost. There need be no concern as to the safety of the expedition. Ex-Mayor Gardner received a letter from his son, Kirk Gardner, who is a member of the expedition, dated Fish Harbor, New Island, March 8, stating that the expedition reached Terra Del Fuego, Sloggets Bay, on February 24, and succeeded in landing all their machinery. He adds that the entire party is in perfect health, though they have experienced many hardships.

Four Killed in a Boiler Explosion.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—A special to the Post from Tiptonville, Ky., says: A saw mill boiler exploded on Reelfoot river several miles from here, killing Ed Patterson and Dink Hodges, white, and two colored men, whose names could not be learned. Three other men were terribly mangled and will die. One man was blown into pieces and the fragments scattered for 300 yards. The mill was a small, portable affair and had just located on the river. It is said the water was run in the boiler while the boiler was too hot.

FEMININE NECKWEAR.

Collars, Collar Bands, Frills, Tucks, and Other Things.

Fashion in collar bands and their decoration still plays an important part in the finish of our costumes, and while they are not so elaborately trimmed as they were in the winter, a frill of some sort, and above all the touch of white, is a positive necessity for the success of a fashionable gown. A short ruche, wider at the back than at the sides, appears on all the half dressy gowns, and this is made of lace or net in any of the bright colors. Deep cream or white is the most becoming, and the net is doubled and plaited in box plaits, but all these ruches are less full than they were and not so wide. A double ruche of black net and an inner one of white lace is very effective on some gowns. These little frills are shown in the shops made of chiffon net and lace all plaited into a band ready to baste inside the collar.

Loops of ribbon are still used at the back of dressy gowns, with the lace ruche falling between, and one pretty neck finish is two quarter of a yard lengths of four-inch black satin ribbon cut with standing ends and plaited on one edge in a small double box plait, forming two little frills meeting in the back, and the lace, which begins narrowly in the sides, falls over these. The tucked collar bands are very pretty with simply the lace ruche in the edge, and the knot effect in front is another fancy this season which is very pretty on some gowns. Linen collars are still worn with shirt waists, but the stock collar of silk, with a narrow turnover collar of linen is by far the most fashionable. This sort of finish is seen on almost every bodice intended especially for morning wear. The narrow linen collar comes in great variety, plain, hemstitched, and with tiny insertion in lines of embroidery a little way from the edge, and trimmed with lace. Then there are various shapes in linen lawn with insertions and edgings of lace, and embroidered edges as well. Stocks made of the silk like the bodice tied in a soft bow with hemstitched ends in front, and a narrow linen collar turned over the edge, are in excellent taste as well as good style. Ribbon is used for stocks, with the order of last season reversed and the bow tied in front, and the same narrow linen collar is the finish, with narrow cuffs to match.—N. Y. Sun.

IN REGARD TO GIFTS.

Random Presents Not as Effective as Systematic Ones.

Loving friends and relatives are apt to give a superabundance of toys to the children in whom they are interested, and a child really becomes fretful and troublesome who has more toys than he needs. Instead of giving the children toys on each birthday, try giving both boys and girls articles in silverware and linen. Present a silver fork, table or teaspoon on each birthday, and have the date clearly engraved on each article. Continue until one dozen spoons or forks have been given, then begin with a different article.

In a family where there are three maiden aunts, a teaspoon, tablespoon and a fork are given upon each birthday to their little niece, so at the age of 15 this little maiden will be the happy possessor of one dozen of each of these articles.

The grandfather presents a handsome piece of linen at the same time, and the little woman is extremely proud of her handsome possessions.

Try this plan. It is far wiser than to spend the same amount upon some toy that will be broken or thrown aside almost before the day is done.—Philadelphia Record.

Kind, Appreciative Words.

I wonder why we are so chary of kind, appreciative words! It costs so little to give encouragement and joy to our fellows. A multitude of appreciative thoughts concerning our friend may be hidden in our hearts, but how seldom do they find expression. We may laud his excellence to others, but never a word of praise reaches his ear. Many a despondent soul would be cheered and helped over a desperately hard place if only some one would whisper a heartening word. It is wonderful how a particularly gloomy outlook may be brightened by a timely appreciation of our struggles and triumphs. I do not mean flattery or fulsome praise, but genuine appreciation. Give expression to your appreciation of the virtues and achievements of your dear ones in the home circle as well as of those outside.—Detroit Free Press.

Character in Children.

Parents sometimes congratulate themselves upon the fact that one child is never self-willed, never passionate or angry, always amiable, contented and calm, seeming to need no discipline and so restraint. And they mourn over the fact that another child is eager, impetuous, willful, troublesome. Yet not infrequently the mourning and the rejoicing ought to change places, if the future life and character be taken into account. The tranquility of the one may be only the outcome of a feeble character, which leans against the nearest prop because it cannot stand alone, while the other, who is so difficult to manage, may contain the elements of a powerful nature, which needs only to be guided aright to become a valuable and a noble man.—N. Y. Ledger.

Fat for Larding.

In larding with pork the fattest piece procurable should be bought (lean salt pork is not available for any use), and the strips always cut from that part between the streak of lean and the rind. This is the only portion firm enough for the purpose. The bits should then be laid in ice water to become crisp before using.—N. Y. Post.

Economy.

Mistress—I'd much rather raise your wages, Bridget, than have you leave us.

Bridget—Well, mum, Oi was thinkin' of marryin'—but wid your good offer, I can save up better for the next proposal.—N. Y. Truth.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—Rev. Dr. S. J. Burrows has been compelled to resign the editorship of the Christian Register, (Unitarian) of Boston, on account of his election to congress.

—Rev. Eugenie St. John, of Kansas, a well-known woman clergyman and advocate of woman suffrage, is going to Europe to study the problem of municipal government.

—Canon Gore, the well-known Anglican clergyman and theologian, has written to say that he will attend the convention of the Episcopal Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which is to be held in Buffalo next October.

—Bishop Doane, of Albany, has written a circular letter to the Episcopalians of his diocese, reminding them that in 1899 he will have been bishop 30 years and appealing for $100,000 as an endowment for the cathedral in Albany, begun by him 20 years ago, but not yet finished.

—Rev. Dr. Newman Smythe, of New Haven, Conn., startled his congregation by refusing to read the governor's proclamation appointing Good Friday as a day of fasting. He explained that he followed this extraordinary course of action on the ground that the day is already hallowed by a higher authority than the chief executive of the state.

—Rev. Dr. Joseph Parker, of the City Temple, London, recently met an Anglican curate, one of the kind that wears a flat hat, who had heard him preach a day or two before at the City Temple. "I liked your sermon," remarked the curate, patronizingly; "I wonder you do not take holy orders. You would be preaching at St. Paul's in a month."

THE JETTIES OF GALVESTON.

Splendid Harbor Improvements of the Texas City.

"There is not in all the world anything in the way of harbor improvements at all to be compared with the great work of jetty construction that the United States engineers have just completed at Galveston," said Congressman Hawley, who hails from that city. Mr. Hawley, who is one of the leading business men in the Island City, was telling some friends about the results of Uncle Sam's munificent expenditure for deep water at his home.

"There are two jetties," said he, "one seven miles in length and the other five, and the distance between them clear out to the open sea is about 7,000 feet. They are built of sandstone and granite in the most thorough and substantial way, and they will stand as an everlasting monument to the skill and wisdom of the engineers. They are an unqualified success. We have now 26 feet of water on the bar, and in a year's time can count on 30 feet, for the work of scouring goes on constantly.

"The practical benefits of deep water are shown in the fact that in 1896 the value of exports from Galveston harbor was 60 per cent. greater than for any year in its past history, despite the low average of prices of all kinds of products. I do not believe, in view of the great tributary country behind it, that it is the view of an enthusiast or visionary when the prediction is made that ere many years Galveston will be one of the greatest marts of commerce in the United States. From this time forward there is no limit to the expansion of her shipping interests, for, with ample sea room and depth of water, she can accommodate the merchant craft of all countries."—Washington Post.

STUPEFYING EFFECT OF COLD.

The Weariness That Precedes Death by Freezing.

One of the most powerful modes of checking the increased action of local inflammation is to diminish the temperature of the parts. Heat to a certain extent is necessary for all vegetable and animal action; increase the temperature and these actions are increased; diminish the temperature and these actions are diminished. That this is the case, we think, is apparent from the influence of the returning spring upon the vegetable kingdom and hibernating animals; they leave their abode and commence a new series of actions; on the return of the winter we find both again shut up in a state of indolence and inactivity. Now, although we are not dormice, we feel the change from heat to cold very disagreeably, and we know that some degrees of cold very much diminish our muscular efforts. When Dr. Solander was with Capt. Cook in his voyage around the world a party landed on some part of North America, among them was the doctor himself. He had just been cautioning them against the benumbing and stupefying effects of cold, and of the danger there was in giving way to such feelings. He had just finished what he had to say on the subject when he was taken in the very way himself. He said: "I am very weary, let me lie down; do let me lie down for a few minutes;" but if they had he would never have raised himself again. The other officers insisted upon his exerting himself, and absolutely drove him before them, and it was with the greatest difficulty that he could reach the ship.—N. Y. Ledger.

There Are Many Flags.

Many people have an idea that a country has only one national flag. This is wrong. For example, Great Britain and her colonies and dependencies own 118—an easy first; Russia coming next with 32 and the German empire third with 25. The German emperor, who is so fond of trappings, should see to this. The United States is content with 17, Spain with 5, Turkey with 3 and Uruguay with 2.—Chicago Chronicle.

Paper Manufacture.

The raw material used in the paper manufacture of the world, including rags, pulp, waste, etc., represents an annual investiment of $100,000,000 and the chemicals used $50,000,000. — Chicago Inter Ocean.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, May 19. 1897.

Advertising Rates:
One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Richwood.

Rev. Davis is visiting in North Carolina.

Jerry Carpenter gave a wood sawing last Thursday.

Miss May Hall, of St. Louis, is visiting Miss Effie Tanner.

Prof. Henry Hill left, last Saturday, for Georgetown, Ky.

Chas. McKinley, of Florence, is doing some carpenter work for G. W. Ransom.

Tilden Richards, aged 22 years, died on the 26th ult. He was a young man that commanded the respect of all who knew him, and the bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community.

Hamilton.

Health of the neighborhood is fair.

Thomas Adams' daughter, Nellie, is sick.

Plowing and planting is the order of the day here.

R. L. Roberts is visiting his son, T. B. Roberts, of Hamilton.

The river is rising, and the potatoes Harry Adams planted under the bank are submerged.

You are never out of sight of a candidate these days—you can find at least one in every hollow, and in every clump of bushes.

It is funny to see: Tom Huff going to the boat when it is raining. Tom Adams working a kicking horse. Harry Adams rocking the cradle. Arthur Pitcher and Bolver Shinkle keeping batch.

Erlanger.

The town trustees elected S. W. Adams town attorney for a term of two years.

At their regular meeting the school trustees reorganized the board be electing George J. Rost chairman; Dr. C. W. McCullum, secretary, and appointed L. Morelli treasurer.

The M. E. Church concert to be given this Saturday evening at the town hall, by the little folks, will prove a surprise to our people. Mrs. Tanner and Mrs. Huber have trained the young folks for the last three months for this occasion.

St. Henry's school children held their May festival at the school house grounds Sundy afternoon, under the direction of Mr. Otto Fritz and Mrs. Kate Triesler. The features of the day were the May pole dance by the little girls, and a sack race by the little boys. The race was won by master Fred Michaels.

Hathaway.

Some few have planted corn.

Cool weather seems as if it can't leave.

The farmers are very much behind with their plowing.

Mrs. Agness Lawell, of Lexington is visiting relatives here.

E. L. Clements, of Rabbit Hash was among the voters here last week.

Mrs. T. L. Utz and children were visiting her husband's father and mother, A. J. Utz and wife, of this place last week.

H. C. Presser and L. W. Stephens sold their crop of tobacco to J. W. Kennedy, of Union, at 3 cents. The Ryle boys sold theirs to same at 4½ cents.

Died, on the 13th inst. at his home near here, Micajah Stephens, aged 85 years. He was about the oldest citizen of the county. He had lived to see his fourth generation, having several grand children, and great-grandchildren as well as great-greatgrandchildren. He leaves a wife and five children—four sons and one daughter, besides many friends to mourn his loss. His remains were laid to rest in the Stephens burrying ground near Union. May his soul rest in peace after the long battle of life.

Constance.

Thos. Slayback is able to be about again.

Mr. Geo Rosen is building a handsome dwelling.

Mr. E Reynolds fell and split his lip. Dr. Murat dressed the wound.

Mr. L. Sprague is putting the finishing touches on Geo. Prable's house.

Lewis Utt's youngest child was buried in the Constance cemetery last Wednesday.

Capt. Kotmeyer has put a force pump and injector on his ferry boat. He believes in improvements.

Rev. Geo. C. Green, of Cincinnati, preached here last Monday, and organized an Endeavor Society.

Harry McGlasson and Miss Katie Reeves married last Wednesday. We wish them much joy and a happy life.

Wm. Tanner and Walter Gordon went to Newport to play with a club at that place, last Friday and Saturday. Mr. Gordon received a black eye from a foul tip.

Mrs. Bamburger, daughter of Mr. Schuster, had the body of the unknown man exhumed to see if it was her father, who has been missing since last November.

Bullittsville.

Mr. Joe Graves, of Missouri, is visiting his brother, Temp, at this place.

Mrs. F. E. Kirtley entertained a number of her friends a few days since.

Mrs. F. E. Kirtley's school will give an entertainment, Friday afternoon, May 21st.

We learn that Miss Sadie Kirtley's school will soon close. We shall be glad to have her among us again.

The meetings held at Mt. Pleasant were well attended and enjoyed; as was also the basket diuner. My, what good things those baskets contained.

Miss Mary Gaines entertained quite a number of the young people a few days ago. Miss Mary is so pleasant and thoughtful that her guests are sure to have a good time.

Misses Lacy Kirtley, Beulah Gaines, Messrs. Will Gaines and Scott Chambers spent Sunday with Miss Bessie Cropper. Miss Bessie is a lovely young lady and her friends are sure of a nice time when they visit her.

There is a young lady in our neighborhood whose name Madam Gossip has been mentioning lately in connection with "bridal wreath and veil and going to another state to live," &c. But please don't try to guess who it is, for if you were to guess Miss——, we might give, without thinking, a little affirmative nod of the head, and then the secret would be out and everybody would say we told it. Just wait until the second week in June if you want to know about it.

Rabbit Hash.

Mrs. Adah Wilson joined the Methodist church at East Bend, last Sunday.

Z. T. Stephens had a nice horse very badly torn up on a wire fence last week.

Peter Bender, our former huckster was visiting E. L. Stephens the first of last week.

Mrs. Bettie Stephens received a telegram from Frankfort informing her that her brother, Lyttleton Hawkins, was very low, and not expected to live.

A few days ago a young horse ran away with Colin Kelly, and running under a peach tree Colin was bruised up considerably about the arms and head.

Ben R. Stephens, while drilling corn for Coon Hoppins, the other, day let his horse run away, tearing the drill to pieces. The horse landed in the mud at the lower ford of Gunpowder, and when found he was down, with a piece of the drill fastened to him.

Last Sunday there was a reunion of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Stephen's family and friends, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Stephens, Miss Hattie Stephens, Bennie Stephens, Sidney J. Stephens wife and children, Filmore Ryle wife and children, Wm. B. Stephens and wife, Hubert Ryle and wife, Rob Aylor, Jay Calvert, Richard and Ben R. Stephens. The artist came in the evening and took their picture.

Bellevue.

We are blessed—no births, marriages or deaths to report.

J. J. Huey & Co., finished unloading two barges of coal last Friday.

C. L. Crisler and F. L. Gordon were among the voters here, last week.

Mrs. Mary Whitehead was visiting her aunt, Mrs. Laura Rogers, last week.

Mrs. T. L. Utz and children are visiting her parents at Florence this week.

O. N. Grant and Willie Huey went to the city last Sunday on their bicycles.

If any of you wish to take lessons on fishing, come down shortly and we will drill you.

Miss Hattie Huey, of Aurora, was the guest of her cousin, Mary Huey, last week.

Farmers still planting corn. No tobacco set yet. Bugs are devouring the potatoes.

Elder Early filled the pulpit at the Christian church, Sunday morning and evening.

A. L. Acra, of Burlington, was here last Wednesday, hunting river turtles to make soup.

W. W. Grant and Doll Allen left last Sunday morning for Hamilton, Ohio, to spend a few days.

Mr. Lou Thorn and Miss Mary L. Wood, passed through here Sunday morning to visit her grandpa.

Al Rogers and wife spent several days in this neighborhood, last week. Al was attending to his crops here.

Joe Love and family, of Rising Sun, were in our midst, last Sunday, visiting Tony Rue. Joe still wears that big smile on his face.

W. L. Acra and family passed through here last Thursday, with their household goods for Rabbit Hash to live with B. C. Calvert.

The watermelon raisers are busy planting the crop. The bugs are waiting for them. The candidates must have plenty of fried chicken at their picnic on the 29th. Do not ask me to bring any, I havn't got'em.

Mrs. Lula Richardson, (nee Conner) and husband, Dr. Richardson, of Cincinnati, came down last Saturday and stayed over Sunday, visiting Mrs. Richardson's grandparents and uncles. The Doctor was well liked by those that had the good fortune to get acquainted with him.

Union.

Mrs. James Kenney, who has been ill is recovering.

Miss Nannie Bristow's school will close on the 22d inst.

Mrs. Revert, mother of Mrs. C. M. McDannold is quite ill.

Mrs. M. E. Smith visited Mrs. J. B. Thornton, in Covington, last week.

Mrs. Lee Gaines, of Kensington, was visiting Mrs. S. C. Hicks, last week.

Mr. Thos. Snodgrass, of Cincinnati, was the guest of J. L. Frazier, last week.

Little Nannie Elizabeth Hney is the victim of a severe attack of whooping cough.

Miss Luella Hogan is recovering rapidly from the painful effects of a dislocated ankle.

Pat Norman is enjoying a siege of malaria, which manifested itself in chills and fever.

W. M. Rachal & Co., are doing a large business, notwithstanding the depression in finances.

Candidates are moving about rapidly and manifesting some anxiety as the decisive day draws near.

J. W. Hogan is an expert huntsman and kills his game in great numbers with a stick and a stone or two.

O. R. Norman spends part of his time fishing and the rest telling of his good luck or giving reasons for bad luck.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Richards lost a grown son recently, and another one is now dangerously ill. They have the sympathy of their friends.

Mrs. Chas. McDannold is in Cincinnati, with her little baby which is being treated by an oculist. The child lost one eye from conjunctivitis, but it is believed the other can be saved.

Mr. Micajah Stephens, an aged citizen, died on the 13th inst. He was a brother of Rev. E. Stephens, of Erlanger, and leaves several children, grand-children, great and great-great-grand-children.

Rev. W. H. Davis will attend the meeting of the general assembly in North Carolina, and Rev. W. T. Spears will fill his pulpits on the 5th Sabbath, preaching at Richwood in the morning and at Union at night.

Messrs. Moses Lane and Burl Conner attended church at Bullittsville, last Sunday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Huey is beautifying her home very much by adding several coats of paint.

Mr. Doyle, a most excellent pianotuner, has improved quite a number of instruments in our village.

Mrs. Wallace Garrison and Mrs. Jno. Garrison spent several days with their parents, Dr. Violett and wife, of Gallatin county.

Rev. H. N. Quisenberry has lately made a flying visit to Mr. J. A. Huey, where his wife has been spending several weeks.

Mrs. Lee Gaines and her mother, Mrs. Hicks, of Kensington, were visiting Mr. J. W. Kennedy and family, one day last week.

Mr. Sumner Houston had his horse to become frightened in the city a short time ago, tearing up things considerably, but no one was hurt.

Quite a number of our young people "did dull care begone" and seek the shady bank of the lake at Kensington, where they try their luck as fishermen.

Walton.

The people of this neighborhood are very much behind with their spring work.

The Brittenhelm Bros., are erecting a planing mill and lumber yard, in addition to their already large grist and corn crusher establishment. Good luck to them.

Some one ought to tell Geo. Blyth and Oscar Gaines that those strauge lights seen around their neighborhood are trying to generate enough heat to sprout their corn.

The people of this place are of a wide awake, business disposition. Everything that will add to the prosperity of this place and community is being pushed forward with great energy.

Mr. Taylor Crow, has returned from the gas regions of Indiana. He has been taking options on drilling machinery, which he expects to bring to Walton to sink several wells to furnish the town with light and fuel.

Who was that talking about letting the longest pole knock the persimmon? We don't know exactly, but it seems to have come from near McCoy's Fork creek. That's right, let the longest pole knock them, always.

Strauge things will happen and it don't make any difference whether the sign is right or not. We had a shower of potatoes along the McCoy's Fork and Walton road. They were nice, large ones, and of the Irish type.

Amid times of financial depression, mingled with snow storms in May, we cannot help thinking of the terrible condition of the country. We sigh for relief. We think of the great calamity that is certain to come if some relief does not arrive soon. We hear of better times, told so plain that we feel that the rising sun of each day will bring with it something that will encourage our almost prostrated minds, and bring happiness, love and prosperity to a tired and struggling people. But let us not ponder longer over the dark side of things, but let us look forward to a bright and happy future. Let us learn to love and respect each other more and more and remember that the Lord does all things for the best.

Mrs. Deen has been quite sick, but is slowly improving.

G. W. Hill filled his appointment at the Baptist church, Saturday and Sunday.

Chas. Lermond had a good hog killed on the Southern railroad, a few days ago.

Mr. Samuel Houston's uncle from Illinois, spent several days with him during the past week.

Mrs. Lermond and Mrs. Ed Holder were visiting their aunt, Mrs. Eliza Tanner, last week.

Misses Mollie and Minnie Ransom, of Williamstown, were visiting their sister, Mrs. Byron Northcutt, Sunday.

W. O. Rouse and wife returned to their home at Zion Station, after a pleasant visit with friends at this place.

The Southern Railroad Co., are making considerable improvements at the depot at this place, having built a park and done a good deal of sodding around the station.

SS

Petersburg.

The wheat and oat prospects were never better.

There is a fine lot of lambs and pigs in this district.

The Carter grocery has put a new awning in front.

R. A. McWethy was in the city buying goods, last week.

Fifteen girls have returned to work in the Aurora match factory at increased wages.

Born on the 10th inst. to Wm. Romines and wife, a 10 pound boy; to John McCool, a girl.

Hon. T. B. Mathews went to Washington, last week, to look after the office of Collector, which we hope he will get.

Mr. Editor, come down after awhile and eat fried chickens. Dr. Tilley's incubator has hatched out 500 chickens, and he has 1,000 eggs incubating, and intends putting another 1,000 in the machine as soon as it can receive them.

Card of Thanks.—We wish to return our sincere and heart-felt thanks to our many friends for their sympathy and kindness shown us during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother; also to the ladies of Petersburg for floral tributes.

George Houze and family.

Mr. Belden has just unloaded 2 small barges of coal.

Thos. Hynes is having good success as agent for W. W. Thomas, of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Rebecca Bush is visiting her brother, Orville Alloway, and others, of this place.

McDonald, of Ind., has been hauling some fine oak logs from Sam'l. Hensley's farm to the river here.

Wm. Sage, of Clevel—O., will soon put monuments at the graves of Reuben Akin and Whit Jarrell.

Mrs. Sage is visiting her grand children at Reuben and Ben Akin's. She is said to be about 80 years old.

The largest excursion ever seen on this river was on the Island Queen last Sunday from Cincinnati to Aurora.

Owing to the feeble health of his father, Howard Fenton is occupying his place as captain of the Workum.

Mrs. Aggie West, of Ludlow, has been visiting her brother, Clay Hensley and other kinfolks, here of late.

Mr. Norman Sebree, of Cincinnati, came down Sunday on the Island Queen to see his relatives and friends.

The inimitable Cy Crisler was canvassing here last Friday. Isn't it a little strange that these fellows don't let up on Friday for luck?

There will be a basket meeting at the Woolper schoolhouse May 30, being an odd Sunday. Rev. Mr. J. A. Kirtley will be there and possibly Rev. T. L. Utz, of Bellevue.

Some of the country boys from near Utzinger have a habit of trying to avoid paying toll at our gate; and some unprincipled fellows from our town have been guilty of crippling fowls near here. If this business is not stopped there will be trouble.

☞Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered.....$5.00.

We are authorized to announce W. W. GRIMSLEY, of Big Bone, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce O. S. WATTS, of Bullittsville, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JAS. N. PEARSON, of Florence, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce F. A. UTZ, of Florence, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce SAM C. JOHNSON, of Walton, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce F. L. GORDON, Jr., of Beaver, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce G. W. HOARD, of Beaver, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce THOS. G. WILLIS, of Bullittsville, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce J. F. BLYTH, of Burlington, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce T. J. ADAMS, of Burlington precinct, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce OSCAR J. RYLE, of Burlington, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce C. L. CRISLER, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce E. L. CLEMENTS, of Rabbit Hash, as a candidate for Superintendent of Schools, of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce L. H. VOSHELL as a candidate for Superintendent of Schools of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce ELMER BEALL, of Burlington, as a candidate for Sheriff of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce M. C. CARROLL, of Big Bone, as a candidate for Sheriff of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JOHN W. BERKSHIRE, of Petersburg, as a candidate for Sheriff of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce ADD RIDDELL, of Beaver, as a candidate for Sheriff, of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce BEN STEPHENS, as a candidate for re-election for County Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce C. C. ROBERTS as a candidate for County Judge of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce W. B. GRUBBS, as a candidate for Representative of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce J. W. KENNEDY, of Union, as a candidate for Circuit Court Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce J. W. DUNCAN as a candidate for Circuit Court Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JOHN M. LASSING as a candidate for County Attorney of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce B. W. ADAMS as a candidate for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For Commonwealth's Attoney.

We are authorized to announce Hon. M. D. GRAY, of Grant county, as a candidate for re-election to the office of Commonwealth's Attorney from the Fifteenth Judicial District, which is composed of the counties of Grant, Owen, Boone, Gallatin and Carroll, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce W. E. VEST as a candidate for County Surveyor of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

MADE FAMOUS

In the story of "Jonathan and His Continent," by Max O'Rell. When you want to read a real live newspaper The Hazel Green Herald fills the bill. $1 a year always in advance. The editor is "a free-silver crank," but original and up to date, single copies having sold as high as $1 each. Advertisers are strictly "in it" from the time they secure space. Send subscriptions, and write for ad rates, to

SPENCE COOPER, Hazel Green, Ky.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

GO TO HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., HEBRON AND CONSTANCE, General Merchants,

A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

BRADFORD BROS.,

—THE—

Carriage Manufacturers,

FLORENCE, KENTUCKY.

HEADQUARTERS FOR VEHICLES of ALL KINDS.

LATEST STYLES

OF BUGGIES

Made at the

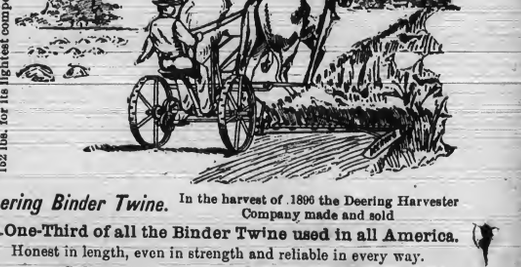
LOWEST PRICES

Consistent with First-class Workmanship and the Best Material.

NOW is a good time to have your Carriage or Buggy Painted. Special attention paid to Ordered Work. Repairing a specialty and neatly executed.

☞Work Guaranteed as Representee.☜

BRADFORD BROTHERS, Florence, Ky.



J. A. HUEY, UNION, KY. R. P. RICE, FLORENCE, KY.

Deering : Ideal : Mowers

—Are the only ones with—

ROLLER : AND : BALL : BEARINGS.

Defeated all competitors in official World's Fair field trials.

Record: 85½ lbs. for 5-foot Ideal against 162 lbs. for its lightest competitor.

Deering Binder Twine. In the harvest of 1896 the Deering Harvester Company made and sold

One-Third of all the Binder Twine used in all America.

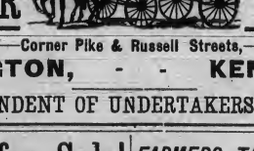
Honest in length, even in strength and reliable in every way.

☞Special Rates to Merchants.☜

RICE & HUEY, Agts., - Florence, Ky.

E. F. HARMEYER,

535 Walnut St. - - CINCINNATI, OHIO.



—IS THE PLACE TO BUY—

PLOWS, HARROWS, CORN DRILLS, CULTIVATORS, HAY RAKES, &c.,

We also have the 'EUREKA' AND OTHER MOWERS.

☞Don't fail to see us if you want anything in our line.☜

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDER-  EMBALMER,

TAKER

—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

Farm for Sale!

CONTAINING SIXTY ACRES

House of 5 rooms, well and cistern, Good Two Story Barn with Covered Drive-Way and Basement, Large Cistern, never failing Stock water. No better Farming Land in Boone County.

Apple Orchard of Selected Trees.

Location, 1½ miles south of Florence, on Lexington pike. All buildings within 50 yards of pike, (formerly owned by John Northcutt.)

For terms and all information call on or address

G. N. BUFFINGTON, Burlington, Ky.

By order of David T. Buffington.

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE

That B. F. ZIMMER is selling the best Grade of Fertilizer in the county for less Money than any other dealer in the county. It will pay you to see him before buying.

Ever sack is sold with a guarantee to be as good as represented.

Constance, Kentucky.

Local News.

W. E. Vest has bought his daughter a piano.

A great-many sheep have shed their coats.

The prospects for a crop of hay are very good.

Read T. J. Hughes' new ad in this impression.

Fine prospects for tobacco plants in Grant county.

Circuit court commenced at Carrollton last Monday.

Seven bicycles in Burlington, two of them owned by ladies.

Garden planting was given another whirl the latter part of last week.

The farmers are awfully busy now, trying to catch up with their work.

I will receive wool at Bullittsville on Tuesday, May 25th. O. S. WATTS.

Two coal oil and gasoline wagons canvass the town every Monday morning.

The local candidates, with one or two exceptions, suspended hostilities last week.

The flower peddler struck the town last week, and found a good demand for his goods.

Cooper Sheep Dip can be had at B. F. Buchanan's Corner Drug Store, Rising Sun, Ind. may12-3t.

What is supposed to be the last eddition of snow-ball winter arrived last Thursday night.

Remember that the polls at the primary election open at 7, a. m. and close at 4 p. m.

Twenty-four of the Gym bicycle club, of Cincinnati, took dinner at Mrs. Cowen's Suuday.

The busy candidate can be found in every part of the county from now until after the primary election.

Fourteen fourth-class postmasters for Kentucky were ground out at Washington, last Wednesday.

Jas. Jones delivered to Thos. Stevenson, last Thursday, 1895-6 crops of tobacco—6,210 pounds at 6c all round.

The farmers have passed the middle of May, and a small per cent. of the corn and potato crops have been planted.

The sudden rise of several feet in the river, last week, was the result of the hard rains that put Licking on a rampage.

Elder Leslie Early will preach at the Florence Christian church on the first Sunday in June at 11 a. m. All are invited.

Land, to satisfy over $10,000 in judgments, is advertised for sale at the court house door on the first Monday in June.

The lamb crop will begin to move in a few weeks, which with the wool clip will bring considerable money into the county.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

Several of the members of Burlington Masonic Lodge visited Bellevue Lodge last Saturday night to see Cadie Maurer ride the goat the last heat.

A turnpike from Burlington to Hebron is being discussed again. If built it would turn about all the travel from the East Bend road and Bellevue pike to the city via Constance.

The dance music for the Candidate Picnic, Saturday, May 23th, will be furnished by Bross' celebrated band of Cincinnati. All the dancers in the county will surely attend.

Croquet, for the want of suitable grounds, has been supplanted by the game of marbles, in which all sizes and ages of players, regardless of previous conditions of servitude, participate.

Some who had commenced planting corn before the last rain, found the last row they planted before being stopped by the rain, up and growing nicely when they went back to begin again, last week.

Jerry Beemon bought the twenty-one acre homestead of his father on the pike near Limaburg, at public sale, last Saturday for $2,875. The 15½ acres on the North Bend road was purchased by Allen Anderson for $545.

J. M. Barlow & Son, G. C. Barlow and J. D. Acra will receive wool at the following places: May 10th at Rabbit Hash, in the morning; at McVille in the after noon; at Burlington, May 20th and at Gunpowder, May 21st.

The State Superintendent has withheld some $17,000 of the Louisville school money until the board shall have corrected its late school census. The board has ordered legal processes to secure the funds from the state.

The weather, last Sunday, was delightful for a basket meeting, and a large crowd assembled at Mount Pleasant and listened to excellent sermons, and partook of a most excellent dinner provided by the excellent cooks of that neighborhood excellent.

The RECORDER acknowledges the receipt of a ticket to the Operetta, "Grandpa's Birthday," by the little folks of Erlanger, at the town hall, next Saturday evening at 8 p. m., for the benefit of the M. E. Church. Admission—adults, 25 cents; children 10 cents.

Mr. Lonnie Acra, of Erlanger, called at the county clerk's office early Monday morning, and obtained license to marry Miss Emma Beemon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Beemon. The wedding occurred yesterday, and here is wishing Lonnie and his bride a happy life.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Candidate Pearson was in town yesterday.

Atty. Thos. Wise, of Covington, was in town Friday.

Eddie Ryle, of Independence, was in town last Friday.

Miss Gussie Kirkpatrick is visiting her relatives here.

Sheriff Roberts has improved some in the last week.

Esq. R. L. Roberts, of Big Bone, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. Joseph Weaver has been seriously sick for several days.

Mrs. F. P. Walton, of Utzinger, was visiting in town yesterday.

Dr. Grubbs, of Taylorsport, attended church here last Sunday.

T. G. Willis passed through town Monday, on a campaign tour.

D. E. Castleman made a business trip to Cincinnati, last Friday.

J. A. Riddell and wife, of Hebron, spent last Sunday in Burlington.

Miss Kate Bradford, of Florence, was visiting Mrs. Lillie Hall, Monday.

Mrs. George Blyth and Mrs Harry Blyth visited Cincinnati, Thursday.

Mrs. B. W. Adams and Mrs J. M. Lassing were in the city, last Friday.

W. M. Rogers, of Walton, attended the basket meeting at Mt. Pleasant, Sunday.

J. C. Revill went to the city, Thursday, and was told by his physician that he is doing well.

W. M. Conner and daughter, of Cincinnati, came out, last week, to visit Mr. Lewis Conner.

M. J. Corbin, of Bellevue, passed through town, one day last week, enroute to Cincinnati.

John Calvert, one of the clever Republicans in the Rabbit Hash precinct, was in town Friday.

Mrs. Ed Huey, of Big Bone, was the guest of her brother, D. E. Castleman, and wife, last Sunday.

Mrs Harry Ryle, of Erlanger, was visiting her mother, at this place, two or three days last week.

Master Commissioner Berkshire was down on Mudlick, last Friday and Saturday, on official business.

Rev. Hoover occupied the pulpit in the Baptist church last Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning.

Capt. Ben Wilson and wife, of Rabbit Hash, were in town, last Friday, on business in the county clerk's office.

Geo. Roberts, of Verona, and J. H. Rogers, of Walton, were visiting sheriff Roberts and family last Sunday.

Dr. Harrison, dentist, arrived early Monday morning. He reported everything unusually quiet in Rising Sun.

Mrs. Hattie Arnold, of Williamstown, was called here last week on account of the illness of Miss Fannie Finch.

Mrs. Sallie C. Anderson and brother, John H. Corbin, of the Gunpowder neighborhood, were in Burlington, one day last week.

Mrs. Kate Lewis and Mrs. George Lamb, and daughter, Mrs. Johns, of Norwood, Ohio, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Rouse's.

Thos. Castleman and wife, of Florence, Mrs. Sarah Huey of Carrollton, and Mrs. Bert Gaines, were guests at D. E. Castleman's, last Sunday.

Mr. Frank McGlasson, president of the North Kentucky Agricultural Association was in town Monday on business pertaining to the next fair.

Dr. T. H. Baker, a native of this county, has flattering prospects of being the next postmaster at Louisville. He has many friends here who hope he will draw the prize.

Our bachelor friend, J. H. Craven, of Verona, has been making extensive purchases of table cutlery recently, and some of his neighbors are guessing as to the date of the happy event.

Hon. J. G. Furnish came home from Frankfort, last Friday and remained until Monday afternoon, when he returned to his legislative duties. He expects the legislature will finally adjourn next Friday.

County Clerk Adams is cultivating a garden, and judging from the number of wires he has strung about his prospective vegetables, he expects to bring electricity to his assistance in performing the labor that will be required.

Col. W. B. Watts, of Francesville, Bullittsville and Utzinger, was in town Monday. The Colonel was not disposed to be in the least communicative on the topics of the day, and his friends were somewhat concerned about this unusual feature in his heretofore sunny disposition.

The regulators are threatening to commence their nefarious work in Gallatin county. The last issue of the Warsaw Indepeudent, says: "We regret to be informed that the spirit of lawlessness which has been manifested in certain quarters of the State of Kentucky, has taken root in our county to a certain degree, and although only threats have as yet been indulged in, we feel that all our God fearing and peace-loving people should do their utmost to nip even these incipient threats in the bud. On last Saturday between one and 6 o'clock p. m., our informant says, a notice was posted on the door of Wm. Dugan's house who lives on the Widow North's place, near Ethridge, stating in very abusive and vile language that if he (Dugan), persisted in raising tobacco, they, the supposed posters of the notice, would proceed to tear up his tobacco beds, burn his barn, etc. Orlando Gardner, Geo. Kelley, Joe Montgomery and Z. T. Gardner have all received similar notices, some of them several."

The sale of the personal estates of the late Wexford Carpenter, of Richwood, and the late Benj. Rice, of this neighborhood, occur next Saturday afternoon.

I will receive wool as follows: At my barn Tuesday, May 25th; at Bellevue Wednesday morning, May 26th, and at Rabbit Hash that afternoon.

F. A. UTZ.

Queen and Crescent Low Rates. Reduced rates are in effect via the Queen & Crescent route from stations in Kentucky as follows:—Grand Encampment I. O. O. F., Louisville, May 19 and 20. Underwriters' Association of Kentucky Lexington, May 20th. Ask agents for selling dates and full information.

A CARD.

I wish to say to the Democrats of the county that sickness for the present compels me to remain at home, but I hope in a few days to be out, and I will then prosecute my canvass to the close of the campaign. Respectfully,

C. C. ROBERTS.

Those candidates who are willing for the rebate that will be due them from the assessments they paid to the chairman of the county committee, to be sent to the flood sufferers in the South, should notify chairman Castleman at once. Some of the candidates have instructed him to dispose of their shares in that manner.

H. W. Harrison, dentist, of Rising Sun, Ind., will be in Burlington on the first and third Monday in each month, to do work for those who wish anything in his line. He will be here two days each visit. He is a son of the late R. F. Harrison, of Carrollton, and a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dentistry at Philadephia. He is highly recommended in his profession.

The receipts of tobacco on the Cincinnati market continued light last week, and with moderate offerings the market was quite strong and active. The opportunity to dispose of old tobacco is being taken advantage of by many of the holders. The indications are that an average crop will be pitched this season, for which there will be plenty of plants unless they are destroyed later on.

Miss Artie Ryle, daughter of W. T. Ryle, had a narrow escape from drowning, one day last week. She was going to John Haldon's, on Woolper creek, and not being aware that the high water during the winter had formed a deep hole of water where the ford was, formerly, she started to cross the creek at the old ford, and about the second step the horse went clear under, and in its struggle threw the young lady, but she held to the saddle and the horse swam out with her.

This is the way the Courier speaks of Rev. Young, who is conducting the protracted meeting at the Methodist church at Williamstown. "Dr. Young is not the handsomest man in the world, but he is a preacher from 'Dan to Bershebee.'" He is a word painter and a sky scraper, a perfect genius in his line. If you haven't any religion go hear him and you will get some. If you have some religion go hear him anyway. He will make your religion pay you some dividends."

The Metbodist meeting will continue over next Sunday. Preaching each day at 3 o'clock and 7:30 p. m. Thursday the 20th will be an all day service. Preaching by Rev. T. W. Barker at 11 o'clock especially for business men of the town. This service will be for only one hour from 11 o'clock to 12 o'clock. All business men are requested to close their houses of business during this hour and attend the services. Children's jubilee services at 3 o'clock p.m. Regular preaching at 7:30 o'clock. All are invited to hear Bro. Barker's excellent singing at each service.

The publishers propose to send a copy of Word and Works five months, from June to October inclusive, to new subscribers only as a trial order, for 25c, and in addition thereto, give each trial subscriber free a copy of a little book of 64 pages, which contains select chapters of a work by Rev. Irl R. Hicks, which is to be the crowning work of his life. This is a rare opportunity for any one to study the storm forecasts throughout the coming season, besides the many other good things in Word and Works of interest to each member of the family. The regular price of this little book alone is 25 cents. Send 25c and your address, to Word and Works Pub. Co., 2201 Locust st. St. Louis, Mo.

Nashville Exposition via Chickamauga.

Buy your tickets to Nashville via Cincinnati and the Queen & Crescent route to Chattanooga. Visit that historic City and the great battlefields of Missionary Ridge and Lookout Mountain; spend a day at the Chickamauga National Park; then, refreshed and ready for new conquests, continue the journey. Low rates to the great Exposition in effect via this pleasant route. The Queen & Crescent train service is perfect, the schedules fast ones, the scenery unsurpassed anywhere. If you want the journey to be a pleasant one, see that your tickets read via Cincinnati and the Queen & Crescent.

W. C. Rinearson, G. P. Agt.,

Program of Boone County Sunday-School Convention at Richwood church June 17th, 1897:

9:00 a. m.—Devotional Exercises—Singing and Prayer.

9:30—Importance of Punctuality and good behavior and how to secure them.—Rev. A. P. Gregory, Richwood.

10:00—Is the old way of teaching with the bible alone, or the new way with lesson papers better?—The old way—Rev. Dr. Adams, Big Bone. The new way—Rev. T. L. Utz, Grant.

10:30—Teachers responsibility.—Rev. Mr. Lee, Erlanger.

11:00—Relation of the family to the Sabbath School and church.—Rev. Jos. Ronnie, Covington.

11:30—Sabbath School finance—State, County and Local.—Ex-President McGlasson.

12:00—Intermission and Lunch.

1:30 p. m.—The best means of securing trained and consecrated teachers.—Mr. D. E. Castleman, Burlington.

2:00—The Sabbath School as a conservator of the Holy Sabbath.—Rev. H. Max Leutz, Florence.

2:30—Home Class Department—its advantages.—Mrs. M. J. Graves, Bullittsville.

3:00—The teacher as a soul-winner.—Rev. Wm. T. Rowland, Carrollton.

3:30—Importance of Teachers' Meeting and Normal Class.—Rev. Mr. Moss, Walton.

4:00—Hear Reports. Elect Officers.

Music will be interpersed through the exercises under the conduct of Mr. B. A. Floyd, chorister of the convention.

W. H. DAVIS, President.

Miss Nannie D. Bristow, Secretary.

Sunday in the Queen City. Sunday rates 30 cts., round trip from Erlanger the Queen & Crescent Route again next Sunday, ball game, Reds vs. Brooklyns, Coney Island, Ludlow Lagoon Chester Park and the Zoo. All summer resorts open. Ask your Agent for particulars.

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church is growing in interest, although up to noon Tuesday there had been but one addition Miss Annie Garrison. Rev Barker is the earnest and indefatigable worker of yore, and he and Rev. Harris make a full team in a protracted meeting. The exercises at the church to-morrow will be made especially interesting. In the afternoon the children's jubilee will be the feature.

The following is the monthly report of Miss Sadie Kirtley's school: Eugene Randall, 94; Paul Randall, 92 1-7; Allie Winston, 93.9; Carrie Black, 94; Luella Fleek, 92; Amanda Terrill, 94; Maud Jarrell, 93 5-9; Willie Hitchfield 93; Lindsay Terrill, 90 4-5; Milton Gaines, 93 2-7; Andrew Gaines, 91; Malcolm Chambers, 95 6-11; Jimmie Terrill, 93; Lawrence Chambers, 93; Prudie Horton, 94 3-5; Robbie Terrill, 90.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.

Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,

MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.

For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

W. N. HIND & CO.

Furniture, Carpet & Stove House

213 W. Fifth St. Cincinnati, O.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn St., Chicago.

NOTICE.

Cincinnati, O., April 5, 1897.

To the Tobacco Growers of Boone County:

I am connected with the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., which includes four houses—the Globe, Morris, Bodmann, Cincinnati Miami. Prize your tobacco and ship it to one of the four houses and receive the highest market price for same. If you have no preference ship it to the Cincinnati Miami, and I will give it my personal attention. Hogsheads and presses furnished. Address me at 110, 112 West Front St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

oct-7 O. W. ADAMS.

A. P. WALTON,

DENTIST,

121 Garfield Place,

Cincinnati, - - Ohio.

First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

JOHN L. VEST,

SURVEYOR

WALTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

Steam :-: Ferry

—AT—

TAYLORSPORT.

I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.

july-28 S. H. GOODIN.

Administrator's Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Benj. Rice, deceased, must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

B. P. RICE, Adm'r.

Assignees' Notice.

All persons indebted to W. H. Smith are hereby notified that they must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said Smith must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

LEWIS RICE, Assignee.

NOTICE.

All persons holding claims against A. G. Fisk are hereby notified that they must present them to me at once proven as by law required, those owing same will please come forward and settle at once. J. M. LASSING, Assignee.

NOTICE.

J. Wash Watts will stand his horse, JOE J. on Wednesday and Thursday of each week at his stable near Bullittsville, and the remainder of the week at Florence, Ky. Terms—$8 to insure a living colt.

WE Want to be Kept Busy.

It costs us as much to do nothing as to be busy, so that our time may be fully employed we quote the following

—Very Low Prices:—

Stand. Granulated Sugar, 21 lbs.	$1 00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound,	15c
Oil Sardines per can,	3c
Mustard Sardines per can,	5c
Hominy, 3 quarts,	10c
Headlight Oil, per gallon,	9c
Rolled Oats, 3 lbs. for	10c
Ladies Fine Shoes,	$1 00
Gent's Fine Shoes, per pair,	$1 00

Give us a Call W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.

BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.,

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS,

Notions, Groceries, Etc.

Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!

at Lowest : Cash : Prices.

—TOBACCO CANVASS, CHEAP.—

Market : Price : Paid : for : Produce.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket to be given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away. Call

The J. L. BILL

Coffee and Tea Co.

THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.

12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,

COVINGTON, KY.

WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

SENSATIONAL BARGAINS!

Clothing Sacrificed! See!

A full Suit of Men's Clothing for only, ...$3.50, worth double, and this is only a sample.

We invite inspection all along the line.....

Shoes, Tinware, Groceries, Dress Goods, Etc.

MILLINERY

Ladies, you will be surprised to see the nice things we have to offer you, and prices are waydown.

In fact we have a full line of General Merchandise, and prices are in keeping with the times.

We Guarantee Quality Also.

COME AND SEE,

T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Keystone Buggy Company,

CINCINNATI, - - OHIO.,

FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS,

—MANUFACTURERS—

Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles,

☞ #67 Like Cut.

☞ Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent

QUALITY AT VERY LOW PRICE.

Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.

All Jobs Made to Order. ☞ Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.

References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sotberu, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigler, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Utzinger; Rolla Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Utz, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.

Call on or address,

R. L. BRADFORD, : Hebron, Ky.

Agent for Boone County.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER

DR. TALMAGE'S

Warning Against All Manner of Dissipation.

Better Late Than Not at All, But in Youth is the Time to Serve God—Solomon's Anatomical and Physiological Discoveries.

Dr. Talmage's text Sunday was: Prov. vii., 23; "Till a dart strike through his liver."

Solomon's anatomical and physiological discoveries were so very great that he was nearly 3,000 years ahead of the scientists of his day. He, more than 1,000 years before Christ, seemed to know about the circulation of the blood, which Harvey discovered 1,616 years after Christ, for when Solomon, in Ecclesiastes, describing the human body, speaks of the pitcher at the fountain, he evidently means the three canals leading from the heart that receive the blood like pitchers. When he speaks in Ecclesiastes of the silver cord of life, he evidently means the spinal marrow, about which, in our day, Drs. Mayo and Carpenter and Dalton and Flint and Brown-Sequard have experimented. And Solomon recorded in the Bible, thousands of years before scientists discovered it, that in his time the spinal cord relaxed in old age, producing the tremors of the hand and head: "Or the silver cord be loosed."

In the text he reveals the fact that he had studied that largest gland of the human system, the liver, not by the electric light of the modern dissecting room, but by the dim light of a comparatively dark age, and yet had seen its important functions in the God-built castle of the human body, its selecting and secreting power, its curious cells, its elongated branching tubes, a Divine workmanship in central and right and left lobe, and the hepatic artery through which flow the crimson tides. Oh, this vital organ is like the eye of God, in that it never sleeps.

Solomon knew of it, and had noticed either in vivisection or post-mortem what awful attacks sin and dissipation make upon it, until the fiat of Almighty God bids the body and soul separate, and the one it commends to the grave, and the other it sends to judgment. A javelin of retribution, not glancing off or making a slight wound, but piercing it from side to side "till a dart strike through his liver." Galen and Hippocrates ascribe to the liver the most of the world's moral depression, and the word melancholy means black bile.

I preach to you the Gospel of Health. In taking a diagnosis of diseases of the soul you must also take a diagnosis of diseases of the body. As if to recognize this, the whole book of the New Testament was written by a physician. Luke was a medical doctor, and he discourses much of physical conditions, and he tells of the good Samaritan's medication of the wounds by pouring in oil and wine, and recognizes hunger as a hindrance to hearing the Gospel, so that the 5,000 were fed; he also records the sparse diet of the prodigal away from home, and the extinguished eyesight of the beggar by the wayside, and let us know of the hemorrhage of the wounds of the dying Christ and the miraculous post-mortem resuscitation. Any estimate of the spiritual condition that does not include also the physical condition is incomplete.

When the doorkeeper of congress fell dead from excessive joy because Burgoyne had surrendered at Saratoga, and Philip V. of Spain dropped dead at the news of his country's defeat in battle, and Cardinal Wolsey faded away as the result of Henry VIII.'s anathems, it was demonstrated the body and soul are Siamese twins, and when you thrill the one with joy or sorrow you thrill the other. We may as well recognize the tremendous fact that there are two fortresses in the human body, the heart and the liver; the heart the fortress of the graces, the liver the fortress of the furies. You may have the head filled with all intellectualities, and the ear with all musical appreciation, and the mouth with all eloquence, and the hand with all industries, and the heart with all generosities, and yet "a dart strike through the liver."

First, let Christian people avoid the mistake that they are all wrong with God, because they suffer from depression of spirits. Many a consecrated man has found his spiritual sky befogged and his hope of Heaven blotted out and himself plunged chin deep in the slough of despond, and has said, "My heart is not right with God, and I think I must have made a mistake, and instead of being a child of light I am a child of darkness. No one can feel as gloomy as I feel and be a Christian." And he has gone to his minister for consolation, and he has collected Flavel's books and Cecil's books and Baxter's books, and read and read and read, and prayed and prayed and prayed, and wept and wept and wept, and groaned and groaned and groaned. My brother, your trouble is not with the heart, it is a gastric disorder or a rebellion of the liver. You need a physician more than you do a clergyman. It is not sin that blots out your hope of Heaven, but bile. It not only yellows your eyeballs and furs your tongue and makes your head ache, but swoops upon your soul in dejections and forebodings. The devil is after you. He has failed to despoil your character, and he does the next best thing for him—ruffles your peace of mind. When he says that you are not a forgiven soul, when he says you are not right with God, when he says that you will never get to Heaven, he lies. If you are in Christ you are just as sure of Heaven as though you were there already. Pet Satan, and tell that he can not keep you out of the promised land of Canaan, has determined that the spies shall not bring you any of the Eschol grapes beforehand, and that you shall have nothing but prickly pear and crab apple. You are just as much a Christian now under the cloud as you were when you were accustomed to rise in the morning at five o'clock to pray and sing "Hallelujah, 'Tis Done!"

My friend, Rev. Dr. Joseph F. Jones, of Philadephia, a translated spirit now, wrote a book entitled "Man, Moral and Physical," in which he shows how different the same things may appear to different people. He says: "After the great battle on the Mincio in 1859, between the French and the Sardinians on the one side and the Austrians on the other, so disastrous to the latter the defeated army retreated, followed by the victors. A description of the march of each army is given by two correspondents of the London Times, one of whom traveled with the successful host, the other with the defeated. The difference in views and statements of the same place, scenes and events is remarkable. The former has said to be marching through a beautiful and luxuriant country during the day, and at night encamping where they are supplied with an abundance of the best provisions and all sorts of rural dainties. There is nothing of war about the proceedings, except its stimulus and excitement. On the other side of the poor Austrians it is just the reverse. In his letter of the same date, describing the same places and a march over the same road, the writer can scarcely find words to set forth the suffering, impaticnce and disgust existing around him. What was pleasant to the former was intolerable to the latter. What made all this difference? asks the author. 'One condition only: the French are victorious, the Austrians have been defeated.'"

So my dear brother, the road you are traveling is the same one you have traveled a long while, but the difference in your physical conditions makes it look different, and therefore the two reports you have given of yourself are as widely different as the reports of the London Times, from the two correspondents. Edward Payson, sometimes so far up on the Mount that it seemed as if the centripetal force of the earth could no longer hold him, sometimes through a physical disorder was so far down that it seemed as if the nether world would clutch him. Poor William Cowper was a most excellent Christian, and will be loved in the Christian Church as long as it sings his hymns, beginning, "There is a fountain filled with blood," "Oh, for a closer walk with God," "God moves in a mysterious way." Yet was he so overcome of melancholy, or black bile, that it was only through the mistake of the cab driver who took him to a wrong place, instead of the river bank, that he did not commit suicide.

Spiritual condition so mightily affected by the physical state, what a great opportunity this gives to the Christian physician, for he can look at the same time both the pulse of the body and the pulse of the soul, and he can minister to both at once, and if medicine is needed he can give that—an earthly and a divine prescription at the same time—and call on not only the apothecary of earth, but the pharmacy of Heaven! Ah, that is the kind of a doctor I want at my bedside, one that can not only count out the right number of drops, but who can also pray. That is the kind of a doctor I have had in my house when sickness or death came. I do not want any of your profligates or atheistic doctors around my loved ones when the balances of life are trembling. A doctor who has gone through the medical college, and in dissecting room has traversed the wonders of the human mechanism, and found no God in any of the labyrinths, is a fool, and can not doctor me or mine. But, oh, the Christian doctors! What a comfort they have been in many of our households! And they ought to have a warm place in our prayers, as well as praise on our tongues.

I bless God that the number of Christian physicians is multiplying and some of the students of the medical colleges are here to-day and I hail you and ordain you to the tender, beautiful, heaven-descended work of a Christian physician, and when you take your diploma from the medical college to look after the perishable body, be sure also to get a diploma from the skies to look after the imperishable soul. Let all Christian physicians unite with ministers of the gospel in persuading good people that it is not because God is against them that they sometimes feel depressed, but because of this diseased body. I suppose David, the psalmist, was no more pious when he called on everything human and angelic, animate and inanimate, even from snowflake to hurricane, to praise God, than when he said, "Out of the depths of hell have I cried unto thee, O Lord;" or that Jeremiah was more pious when he wrote his prophecy than when he wrote his "Lamentations;" or Job when he said, "I know that my Redeemer liveth," than when covered over with the pustules of elephantiasis as he sat in the ashes scratching the scabs off with a broken piece of pottery; or that Alexander Cruden, the concordist, was a better man when he compiled the book that has helped 10,000 students of the Bible, than when under the power of physical disorder he was handcuffed and straitwaistcoated in Bethnal Green insane asylum. "Oh," says some Christian man, "no one ought to allow physical disorder to depress his soul. He ought to live so near to God as to be always in the sunshine." Yes, that is good advice; but I warrant that you, the man who gives the advice, has a sound liver. Thank God for a healthful hepatic condition, for, as certainly as you lose it, you will sometimes, like David, and like Jeremiah, and like Cowper, and like Alexander Cruden, and like 10,000 other invalids, be playing the dead March on the same organ with which you now play a staccato.

My object at this point is not only to embolden the criticisms of those in good health against those in poor health, but to show Christian people who are atrabilious what is the matter with them. Do not charge against the heart the crimes of another portion of your organism. Do not conclude that because the path to Heaven is not arbored with as fine a foliage, or the banks beautifully snowed with exquisite chrysanthemums as once, that therefore you are on the wrong road. The road will bring you out at the same gate whether you walk with the stride of an athlete or come up on crutches. Thousands of Christians, morbid about their business, and morbid about the present, and morbid about the future, need the sermon I am now preaching.

Another practical use of this subject is for the young. The theory is abroad that they must first sow their wild oats, and afterward Michigan wheat. Let me break the delusion. Wild oats are generally sown in the liver, and they can never be pulled up. They so preoccupy that organ that there is no room for the implantation of a righteous crop. You see aged men about as at eighty, erect, agile, splendid, grand old men. How much wild oats did they sow between 18 years and 30? None, absolutely none. God does not very often honor with old age those who have in early life sacrificed swine on the altar of the bodily temple. Remember, oh, young man, that while in after-life, and after years of dissipation, you may perhaps have your heart changed, religion does not change the liver. Trembling and staggering along these streets to-day are men, all bent, and decayed, and prematurely old for they reason that they are paying for liens they put upon their physical state before they were 30. By early dissipation they put on their body a first mortgage, and a second mortgage, and a third mortgage to the devil; and these mortgages are now being foreclosed, and all that remains of their earthly state the undertaker will soon put out of sight. Many years ago, in fulfillment of my text, a dart struck through their liver, and it is there yet. God forgives, but outraged physical law never, never. That has a Sinai, but no Calvary. Solomon in my text knew what he was talking about, and he rises up on his throne of worldly splendor to shriek out a warning to all the centuries.

What? Will a man's body never completely recover from early dissipation in this world? Never. How about the world to come? Perhaps God will fix it up in the resurrection body so that it will not have to go limping through all eternity, but get the liver thoroughly damaged and it will stay damaged as long as you are here. Physicians call it cirrhosis of the liver or inflammation of the liver or fatty degeneration of the liver, but Solomon puts all these pangs into one figure and says, "Till a dart strike through his liver."

Hesiod seemed to have some hint of this when he represented Prometheus, for his crimes, fastened to a pillar and an eagle feeding on his liver, which was renewed again each night, so that the devouring went on until finally Hercules slew the eagle and rescued Prometheus. And a dissipated early life assures a ferocity pecking away and clawing away at the liver year in and year out, and death is the only Hercules who can break the power of its beak or unclench its claw. So, also, others wrote fables about vultures preying upon the liver; but there are those here with whom it is no fable, but a terrific reality.

That young man smoking cigarettes and smoking cigars has no idea that he is getting for himself a smoked liver. That young man had no idea that he has by early dissipation so depleted his energies that he will go into the battle only half armed. Here is another young man who, if he put all his forces against the regiment of youthful temptations, in the strength of God, might drive them back, but he is allowing them to be re-enforced by the whole army of midlife temptations, and what but immortal defeat can await him?

Oh, my young brother, do not make the mistake, that thousands are making, in opening the battle against sin too late, for this world, too late, and for the world to come, too late. What brings that express train from St. Louis into Jersey City too late? They lost 15 minutes early on the route, and that affected them all the way; and they had to be switched off here and switched off there, and detained here and detained there; and the man who loses time and strength in the earlier part of the journey of life will suffer for it all the way through—the first 20 years of life damaging the following 50 years.

Some years ago a scientific lecturer went through the country exhibiting on great canvas different parts of the human body when healthy, and the same parts when diseased. And what the world wants now is some eloquent scientist to go through the country showing to our young people on blazing canvas the drunkard's liver, gambler's liver. Perhaps the spectacle might stop some young man before he comes to the catastrophe, and the dart strike through his liver.

My hearer, this is the first sermon you have heard on the Gospel of Health, and I charge you, in the name of God, and Christ, and usefulness, and internal destiny, take better care of your health. When some of you die, if truthful epitaph, it will read: "Here lies the victim of late suppers;" or will it be: "Behold what lobster salad at midnight will do for a man!" or will it be: "Ten cigars a day closed my earthly existence;" or it will be: "Thought I could do at seventy what I did at twenty, and I am here;" or it will be: "Here is the consequence of sitting a half day with wet feet;" or it will be: "This is where I have stacked my harvest of wild oats;" or, instead of words, the stone cutter will chisel for an epitaph on the tombstone two figures—namely, a dart and a liver.

JAMES H. SMITH, of Oglethorpe, Georgia's greatest farmer, has just broken all records of cotton sales from a single plantation by selling to Macon cotton buyers in one lot over 2,000 bales of cotton of his own raising. The cotton sold on a basis of seven cents for middlings, and when it is all weighed and shipped Mr. Smith will receive a check for $70,000.

THE MAGNETIC HAMMER.

A Traveler's Tale of an Uncommon Episode in a Country Store.

"Standing one day in a country store," said a traveler, "I saw drive up a traveling dealer who carried his stock with him, his turnout being of a kind more commonly seen years ago than now, in these days of easier railroad communication and more frequent drummers. The wagon was big and heavy, but the body hung gracefully on platform springs, the rear hanging a little lower than the forward end. The running part was stout but well designed and finished. The body of the wagon was like a long, deep box, the top being fixed and permanent. For a space of perhaps three feet forward from the rear end the body was built up a little higher with a vertical face at the front down to the roof; it was as though the rear end of the wagon had been carried up a low story higher than the rest. Midway between the face of this higher rear part and the driver's seat there was another higher section extending across the roof from side to side, but narrow.

"The sides of the wagon body were paneled off. The moldings marked the spaces into which the interior was divided, and access to the compartments was had by doors in the sides and the end. The seat at the forward end of the wagon was capacious and comfortable and there was over it a substantial leather top that would keep out any weather. Attached to this wagon there was a pair of big, good-looking, well-fed horses that could haul it anywhere. Take it all together the outfit had an air of solidity, combined with no small degree of rakishness; it was an outfit such as any man might reasonably be proud of.

"I don't remember what he was selling, but it was something packed in boxes. He brought in a sample—he was a rather tall man with a beard, with a good-humored eye, and a quiet manner, and the merchant bought some. Then he went out to his wagon again, and brought in the goods, and he brought with him a cardboard placard which evidently he intended to put up in the store.

"Rising in the center of the store was a large, square wooden pillar supporting overhead a big cross beam upon which, I suppose, the inner ends of the floor beams rested. When he had laid the goods down on the counter he picked up the card that he had brought in with them and turned toward the square pillar in the center of the store; he had located it when he came in, or I guess he knew it; he and the storekeeper didn't talk very much, but I thought they seemed to know each other; no doubt he had been there before.

"The big, square post was covered with just such cards as he had brought in, tacked on all over, all around as high as a man could reach, and I couldn't see where he was going to get his card in; but he walked over to the post just as though there was plenty of room there. He took a paper of tacks out of his pocket and sifted out four into the palm of his left hand and then put them into his mouth. Then he placed his placard against the side of the post and pushed it up until the bottom of it was clear of the top of highest card on that side. He could do this because he was pretty tall, and he was simply building on to his card at the bottom; but I couldn't see how he was going to reach up to tack it at the top.

"But he trued it up on the face of the post with both hands calmly, and then, holding it with one hand he reached into his outside coat pocket for his hammer. It was just a small tack hammer with rather a long handle. He carried the head of the hammer up to his mouth, and when he withdrew it there was a tack sticking to the face of it. The head of the hammer was magnetized, and the smooth, flat top of the head of the tack stuck to its face, the point projecting in line with the hammer's head. All he had to do was to reach up. With a single tap he drove the tack through the card at one corner away up at the top easily. Then he drove a tack through the other upper corner in the same manner, and then he drove in a couple of tacks at the bottom and dropped the hammer in his pocket. Then he went out and got on his wagon and drove off."—N. Y. Sun.

"Who Is Mrs. Jerusalem?"

A good story was told the other day about a bright little girl in this city. She seemed to be in a brown study one afternoon, when she suddenly turned to her aunt and exclaimed:

"Aunt Lucy, who is Mrs. Jerusalem?"

"Don't be silly, obild," said her aunt. "What makes you ask such foolish questions?"

"Why," said the little girl, "this isn't a silly question; don't you sing, 'Oh, Mother Dear, Jerusalem,' and I just wanted to know who Mrs. Jerusalem was. I have been thinking about her for a long time."—Pougkeepsie Star.

An All-Sufficient Reason.

"No, lady," remarked Mr. Waggles, as he dexterously slipped the remainder of the pie into his pocket unobserved, "I can trooly say as I never touches cards now in any form wotever—they're dangerous."

"That is right, my good man," said Mrs. Enaything, earnestly. "And what caused you to give them up? Did you realize that they were leading you to perdition?"

"Worse than that, lady. The last time I played a game o' cards I found a spade in me hand."—N. Y. Journal.

Swedes Make Matches.

Sweden is the greatest match producing country in the world, although the industry is conducted on an enormous scale in the United States and elsewhere.—Chicago Chronicle.

Nursery Schemes.

"Baby's went an' swollered my penny."

"That's all right; let's both cry an' mamma'll give us a nickel."—Chicago Record.

PROSPERITY DELAYED.

Failure of the Republicans to Keep Their Promise.

When the election was over last November the country looked for prosperity. It had been promised. Mr. McKinley had been heralded as its "advance agent." The opportunity to secure it was at hand. The means were perfectly obvious.

The prosperity has not come. The revival that might have been wrought has not been wrought. A new analysis has been inflicted upon industry and new barriers have been erected in the path of commerce.

The fault lies solely with republican mismanagement, with the willful perversion of power from the purposes for which it was conferred to purposes of partisanship.

All conditions were favorable to a great revival of industry. We had been for many months exporting in enormous excess of imports. The "trade balance" was heavily in our favor. Every condition was propitious except one. The revenues were not adequate to meet expenditures.

To remedy this one adverse condition was manifestly to give the country the rest it needed and to bring about an era of prosperity greater than had been known since tariff tinkering for political purposes began. It was only necessary for the republican congress to pass bills which the democratic president would gladly have approved, imposing a small extra tax on beer and possibly some inconsiderable stamp taxes on transactions involving the transfer of wealth.

Had that been done the revenues would have been adequate. There would have been no occasion for an extra session and the country would have had a badly-needed period of rest for recuperation until December next.

But the republicans feared that if revenues should be made adequate without tariff tinkering there would be no excuse for a new tariff, no opportunity to reward campaign contributors with benefits and gratuities to be paid out of the pockets of the people. And so they refused to pass any revenue bills. They deliberately adopted the extra session for tariff-ripping purposes as a policy—resolved to give the country the fourth tariff in seven years.

Instantly when this was understood the activities of the country halted. The merchant refused to order goods, not knowing what duties he might have to pay upon them. The manufacturer curtailed his operations, not knowing under what conditions his products were to be marketed.

Then came the worst blight of all—the threat of retroactive duties. For fear that merchants might import goods or manufacturers bring in raw materials heavily in anticipation of a new tariff bill with enormously increased schedules, the house decreed that all goods imported while the act was pending should be subject later to the duties imposed.

The result was in part that commerce stopped, and in other part that the importers of goods under the existing tariff felt compelled to add to their prices all that the new duties threatened. The manufacturers whose free raw materials were threatened in the same way had to raise their prices accordingly. The people were thus forced to pay a tax not one dollar of which is likely ever to find its way into the treasury.

Thus instead of the prosperity that was so easily within our grasp, we have an industrial and commercial paralysis forced upon us solely for partisan purposes.

It is a betrayal of a trust which the people have already resented in the spring elections, and which they will surely punish with blasting severity in elections yet to come.

The republican promise of prosperity was an easy one to fulfill. It has been deliberately withheld, and the American people perfectly know why.—N. Y. World.

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

——Many people begin to look on Mr. McKinley as the advance agent of adversity.—Louisville Dispatch.

——The reason Mr. Hanna gets along so well with the senate is because he hasn't brought his throttling machine into play.—Atlanta Constitution.

——The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph says that the gold democrats are going to stand together. Yes, and they could do it in the state of Delaware and not crowd the state's line.—Omaha World-Herald.

——The owners of industries to be protected under the new tariff bill have already been raising the prices of their products, but have not said a word about lifting the wages of employes.—Louisville Times.

——If the intelligent farmer will, after the passage of the Dingley bill, sit down on his plow beam and figure out how much more everything he buys will cost him and how little everything he has to sell will be raised in price by it he will have no difficulty in determining who is "protected."—Columbus (O.) Press.

——So long as we are shut in behind the wall of Chinese protection, which not only keeps foreign goods out, but shackles our export trade by keeping our products in, high wages are paid until overproduction and the clogged home market compel the shutting down of the mill. Then there are no wages at all.—N. Y. Times.

——The republican senators who are holding an autopsy on the mangled remains of the Dingley bill appear to have come to one sane conclusion. They have been forced to admit that a prohibitory tariff will not produce revenue. However effective it may be in fostering monopolies it will not cure a deficit. They are therefore compelled to supplement the restrictive tariff with some revenue taxes.—N. Y. World.

TARIFF LEGISLATION.

Foolish Talk of Placing the Measure with a Commission.

Senator Cullom has written a remarkable letter to the tariff commission league favoring the object of the league, which proposes the removal of the tariff question from national politics and placing it in the hands of a commission, whose duty it shall be to supervise the tariff laws and keep congress informed concerning desirable or necessary changes.

Senator Cullom says that something ought to be done "to avoid constant and extreme changes in the tariff legislation—first going so far in the direction of a high tariff, and on the occasion of a change of politics going as far the other way." He wants to prevent the necessity of a change of the whole tariff by the party coming into power, for the reason that the business of the country will not tolerate it.

It is gratifying to hear a republican senator talking of the hardship to business of wholesale tariff tinkering and of the desirability of putting a stop to it. But when he talks of the necessity of such a wholesale change he is talking nonsense, for the republicans found a moderately high tariff law in force when they came into power and could have made it acceptable to the mass of their own partisans and a sufficient revenue measure by very few changes. All of the extreme tariff legislation that has been accomplished has been the work of the republicans.

When the democrats came into power four years ago they found in force an extreme measure, which was almost as roundly abused by the republicans as by the democrats. They were pledged to a reduction of the tariff on a revenue basis, but when Mr. Wilson bill became a law it was still a measure of moderate protection and merely made a start in the direction of a revenue tariff.

To talk, therefore, of the danger and folly of extreme tariff changes is to indict the republicans, who now propose to upset a moderate reduction of an extreme measure by a still more extreme measure. To place this extreme measure in the hands of a commission charged with the duty of keeping it extreme would not take the tariff out of politics. Tariff tinkering for the purpose of enriching one set of citizens at the expense of others on the part of a commission would be more objectionable than tariff tinkering by congress. Until tariffs are levied for revenue and not for robbery it is not worth while to put tariff legislation in the hands of a commission and the tariff question cannot be taken out of politics.—St. Louis Republic.

NECESSITY OF SILVER.

Would Restore the Equilibrium of the Currency.

Discussion of the questions which arise concerning the circulating medium have resulted in so broadening the minds of those opposed to silver that only a few are left whose sole reply to arguments made by an advocate of the white metal is: "You're a crank or a lunatic."

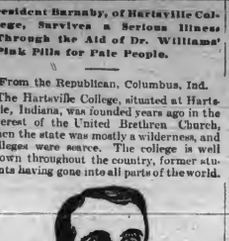
Time was when abuse and ridicule were considered quite the proper thing by goldite editors and spellbinders, but that time has very nearly passed. There are, however, a few narrow-minded men in this country who cling to the old method of procedure, but in their unreasoning abuse they harm no one except themselves and their cause.

Facts are more convincing than fustian, and bimetallists, having the facts on their side, are spreading conviction broadcast among the people. When the fact is stated that all the gold in the world would furnish but $2.50 per capita, the reply discourteous that the man who states the fact is a "crank or a lunatic" loses force. It is not good economy to conduct the business of the world on a limited capital. What would be thought of a merchant who would endeavor to make a success of his enterprise on one-tenth of the amount of capital it required? The goldites would be fully justified in characterizing such a man as a "crank or a lunatic."

For a period of 20 years, the United States has been doing business under conditions the tendency of which has been steadily against the debtor. The increase in the purchasing power of gold has made it out of the question for the debtor to cancel his obligations, because he has been compelled to surrender to the creditor from day to day, from month to month and from year to year all the products of his labor. The price of commodities having fallen steadily, the creditor gets all the benefit, and the dollar a man borrowed last year must be paid this year with the uncarned increment of an appreciating currency added to the original obligation.

We hear a great deal about the dishonesty of the "50-cent dollar" and the wrong its adoption would inflict upon the creditor, but the 50-cent dollar is a myth and the rehabilitation of silver would simply restore the equilibrium of the currency, establish a just relation between debtor and creditor, prevent the pauperizing and enslaving of labor and bring prosperity once more within our gates.—Chicago Dispatch.

Deserted by Its Friends.



However much the country may desire to have the tariff settled and business arranged under its provisions, it is better to have a carefully considered scheme of duties than one rushed through in hot haste which business men will repent at leisure. If the senate were to follow the precedent of the house and jam through the Dingley bill without investigation and discussion it would be a calamity. We doubt if even Mr. Dingley himself would today favor the adoption of his bill as it left the house. Certainly the business interests of the country, however much they may favor a revised tariff, a protective tariff perhaps, do not want the Dingley tariff. That legislative abortion has no friends now.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A SCIENTIST SAVED.

President Barnaby, of Hartsville College, Survives a Serious Illness Through the Aid of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

The Hartsville College, situated at Hartsville, Indiana, was founded years ago in the interest of the United Brethren Church, when the state was mostly a wilderness, and colleges were scarce. The college is well known throughout the country, former students having gone into all parts of the world.

PROF. ALVIN P. BARNABY.

A reporter recently called at this famous seat of learning and was shown into the room of the President, Prof. Alvin P. Barnaby. When last seen by the reporter Prof. Barnaby was in delicate health. To-day he was apparently in the best of health. In response to an inquiry the professor said:

"Oh, yes, I am much better than for some time. I am now in perfect health; but my recovery was brought about in rather a peculiar way."

"Tell me about it," said the reporter.

"Well, to begin at the beginning," said the professor, "I studied too hard when at school, endeavoring to educate myself for the professions. After completing the common course I came here, and graduated from the theological course. I entered the ministry and accepted the charge of a United Brethren Church at a small place in Kent County, Mich. Being of an ambitious nature, I applied myself diligently to my work and studies. In time I noticed that my health was failing. My trouble was indigestion, and this with other troubles brought on nervousness.

"My physician prescribed for me for some time, and advised me to take a change of climate. I did as requested and was somewhat improved. Soon after I came here as a professor in physics and chemistry, and later was financial agent of this college. The change agreed with me, and for a while my health was better, but my duties were heavy, and again I found my trouble returning. This time it was more severe and in the winter I became completely prostrated. I tried various medicines and different physicians. Finally I was able to return to my duties. Last spring I was elected president of the college. Again I had considerable work, and the trouble, which had not been entirely cured, began to affect me, and last fall I collapsed. I had different doctors, but none did me any good. Professor Bowman, who is professor of natural science, told me of his experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and urged me to give them a trial, because they had benefited him in a similar case, and I concluded to try them.

"The first box helped me, and the second gave great relief, such as I had never experienced from the treatment of my physicians. After using six boxes of the medicine I was entirely cured. To-day I am perfectly well. I feel better and stronger than for years. I certainly recommend this medicine."

To allay all doubt Prof. Barnaby cheerfully made an affidavit before
LYMAN J. SCUDDER, Notary Public.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk, or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Lecturer—"The entire history of the world lies moved in cycles." Sprocket—"What make?"—Philadelphia North American.

When a baby smiles in its sleep, its mother says it is talking with the angels, but it is really the colic.—Atchison Globe.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. Cures painful, swollen, smarting feet and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. Greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. Is a certain cure for sweating, callous, hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Lots of women wish there were more days in the week to attend clubs.—Washington Democrat.

A slip—a sprain—lame. St. Jacobs Oil cures it all the same.

Many a train of thought ought to be switched into a siding.—N. Y. Weekly.

Wrinkles come with neuralgia. They go with St. Jacobs Oil's cure of it.

What a dry time some of us would have if we got nothing but our deserts.—N. Y. Weekly.

A THOUGHT THAT KILLED A MAN!

He thought that he could trifle with disease. He was run down in health, felt tired and worn out, complained of dizziness, biliousness, backaches and headaches. His liver and kidneys were out of order. He thought to get well by dosing himself with cheap remedies. And then came the ending. He fell a victim to Bright's disease! The money he ought to have invested in a safe, reliable remedy went for a tombstone.

Warner's Safe Cure

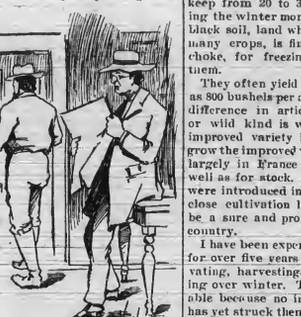
is the only standard remedy in the world for kidney and liver complaints. It is the only remedy which physicians universally prescribe. It is the only remedy that is backed by the testimony of thousands whom it has relieved and cured.

THERE IS NOTHING ELSE THAT CAN TAKE ITS PLACE

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

BAD ROADS EXPENSIVE.

Convincing Talk Between a Farmer and a Money Lender.



The following conversation between a Wisconsin farmer, in Calumet county, and a money-lender, not a regular banker, but one of those men of means who make out all of their own papers and manage to get as much out of a loan as possible, including the highest notch in the matter of interest, is not only of interest to the friends of good roads, but is very convincing.

"I have dropped in to collect the interest on that mortgage, Mr. Williams," remarked the boot-leg banker.

"I'm ready for you, but in order to be ready I had to sell a couple of cows. Here is something I have been reading with a good deal of interest. Look it over while I get the money for you."

When Mr. Williams returned, he asked his neighbor how he liked the article.

"O, I guess it's as good as any of the good roads stuff they are printing these times. I don't take any stock in any of it. The roads are good enough for me. I don't want to be called upon to help make them any better."

LOOK IT OVER WHILE I GET THE MONEY.

"We differ. I take deep interest in the good roads discussion. The roads are not good enough for me. I want to help make them better. If we had good roads the past 25 years I would not now be paying you interest on this mortgage on my farm."

"Talk sense, man. Has this good roads agitation turned your head, too. You talk just as two or three of your neighbors do."

"Thank you; I'm glad to hear it. It is a sign that they, too, have been doing some thinking."

"How would good roads have bettered your condition?"

"I cannot take time to tell you all of the ways in which they would have helped me. Here are a few of the ways: I have owned this farm for 25 years. For 15 years it has been a good farm for you. I have paid you interest enough to have sent my son and daughter through college. You ask what that has to do about good roads. It has this to do: I have figured that if we had maintained a system of good roads it would have cost me half as much to market my products. It would have been done with half of the teams, half of the hired men, less than half of the cost in wagons. The wagous I have wrecked on our bad roads the past 25 years cost me, when new, $1,470. Some of them might have failed on good roads, but it is safe to say that my loss on wagons alone was $1,200 more than it would have been on reasonably good roads. I figure that the extra teams and their living, cost me $3,000, and the hired help—more than I would have had if the roads had been such as that paper tells about—has cost me $4,000. Every man of mature judgment ought to know that if we had good roads about here, and especially between here and the cities to the right and left, where most of our products are marketed, and where we do most of our trading, and in one of which we attend church, and where our sons and daughters go to high school, this farm would be worth double what it is now, and I call it worth $10,000 at present. That is $10,000 more that would have been added to my savings by good roads. That makes my loss over $18,000, a good deal more than I am worth to-day. My bright boy and girl must go without the college education I had hoped to give them and could have given if I had had the benefits to be derived from good roads. I see why you do not want a change. Your business as a money-lender would end with an era of good roads. Farmers would save enough by them to become bank depositors instead of borrowers. I'm anxious for good roads. You, too, would be, I guess, if bad roads had cost you nearly $20,000."

It was an unanswerable argument and the money-lender admitted as much by departing without saying another word.

J. A. WATROUS.

Turnips Hurt Milk Flavor.

At the Iowa station it was found that turnips injure the flavor of both milk and butter. This injury is due to volatile acids, which can be driven off by heating the milk to 160 degrees for a short time. Beets increased the milk and butter product, and caused all the cows, even Jerseys, to lay on fat quite rapidly. When the roots were discontinued butter fat decreased and the cows ceased to gain weight, and it took more pounds of feed (calculated to dry matter) to produce a pound of butter. When turned on pasture there was immediate increase of milk, butter and live weight. Feeding bran during part of the grazing period produced sufficient gain to yield a small profit.

A prominent dairy journal states that "if tuberculosis is a germ disease, as all authorities have come to accept, then it cannot be hereditary."

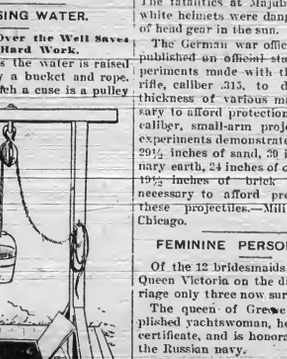
AN EXCELLENT FOOD.

Artichokes Possess More Nutritive Value Than Other Roots.

The wonderful productiveness and ease with which the improved variety can be produced is always a surprise the first time to those who cultivate them. They are an excellent food for cattle, sheep and horses, and one of the cheapest and healthiest hog foods raised, and for milch cows they excel any root I ever fed for increasing the flow and making the milk much richer. Last winter this variety was tested at the Fremont creamery on a small scale and the report was very good. Chemical analysis proves that the artichoke isn't behind in nutrition, compared with other roots:

	Flesh Forms		Fat Forms
Carrot	6	" "	7	"
Parsnips	7	" "	12	"
Sugar beet	8	" "	13	"
Mangolds	4	" "	10	"
White turnip	1	" "	4	"
Artichoke	10	" "	18	"

The above is taken from the American Corn and Hog Journal. The nutrition of an artichoke is in the form of sugar, therefore always ready for use on the part of the eater. One acre will keep from 20 to 30 head of hogs during the winter months. I find that low black soil, land which is too frosty for many crops, is fine soil for the artichoke, for freezing will not injure them.



They often yield on good land as high as 800 bushels per acre. There is a vast difference in artichokes. The native or wild kind is worthless, while the improved variety is of great value. I grow the improved white French, grown largely in France for domestic use as well as for stock. Some time ago they were introduced into this country and close cultivation has proven them to be a sure and profitable crop for this country.

I have been experimenting with them for over five years in the way of cultivating, harvesting, feeding and keeping over winter. They are very profitable because no insect, blight or rust has yet struck them, and the tops make a fodder superior to corn when properly hauled. I find keeping them through winter is a difficult thing to do without having them spoil, unless a person understands it. I will give my method. I pick out a dry spot and dig a pit not over ten inches deep and about five feet wide, and as long as convenient. Then I pile the tubers up to a peak, putting on a shallow layer of straw and not over five inches of dirt. If more dirt is put on they will surely heat and spoil, and if they freeze solid it will not injure the growing or feeding qualities; it makes them sweeter and better.—J. H. Van Ness, in Ohio Farmer.

FOR RAISING WATER.

Pulley Rigged Over the Well Saves Lots of Hard Work.

On many farms the water is raised from the well by a bucket and rope. A great aid in such a case is a pulley rigged above the opening in the platform. These pulleys can be bought for a trifle at the hardware store. The larger the pulley, the easier, of course, will the water be drawn. A light frame-work can quickly be built above the well in the manner shown, for the attachment of the pulley.—N. Y. Tribune.

PULLEY SAVES LOTS OF WORK.

DAIRY SUGGESTIONS.

Continue feeding milch cows for some time after turning on the pastures.

Milk is elaborated from the blood as it passes through the glands of the udder.

Souring milk is a process of thickening, which finds its complete fulfillment in loppered milk.

Oleomargarine has displaced $88,000,000 worth of pure butter in the United States. How much has it enhanced the price of beef tallow, its chief ingredient?

What is claimed as the champion dairy cow of the world is a Shorthorn named Honeycomb, bred by John Lindsay, of Kimble Park, Unamdoran, New South Wales, Australia. The record claimed for her is 84¼ pounds of milk in 24 hours, yielding 4¼ pounds of butter.

Calves intended for the dairy ought never to be fed in such a manner as to accumulate fat or to establish a predisposition to lay on fat. They need food that will form bone and muscle to expand their frames and fit them to take and digest large quantities of food during their future lives.—Rural World.

Trade in Bogus Butter.

The commissioner of internal revenue reports that in nine years 440,000,000 pounds of oleomargarine have been made and sold in this country. This bogus product has taken the place of butter to the value of about $88,000,000. And it is safe to say that nine pounds in every ten have been consumed under the impression that it was butter. Some cattlemen denounce laws restricting the sale and use of oleomargarine and declare that the manufacture of the stuff adds quite a sum to the value of every animal sold. One who can believe that olee has added $88,000,000 to the value of cattle in nine years can believe anything, with or without evidence.—Dakota Field and Farm.

WHEELS AND WHEELERS.

James Michael, the Welsh rider who won the six-days' match in New York city, has been suspended from amateur ranks pending an investigation of charges made against him in England.

The Chicago man who claimed to have ridden 34,000 miles in 1896, "mostly in Texas," and whose claim was rejected, says he will sue for the prize that was denied him.

The English cycling press is very hostile to American wheels, and if one breaks all England hears of it. This is natural enough, but it is a proof that American wheels must be growing in favor in the old country.

The bicycle makes slow progress in Italy. The fashionable women are afraid to ride, for fear of adverse comment, and the men are not as a rule inclined to exercise of any kind. As for the ordinary people, not one in a thousand could save money in ten years to buy a wheel.

As in this country, there is still considerable prejudice in England against cycling. A Dublin judge recently characterized wheelmen as "snakes in the grass," which is picturesque, but severe. In Vienna, where the laws are very strict, a number of wheelmen were arrested in broad daylight for not having their bicycles equipped with lamps.

Arthur A. Zimmerman, who held the championship longer than any other rider, and who won more prizes, will be 26 years of age on June 11. When he joined the professional ranks in 1894 he had in the season before won upward of $34,000 worth of prizes, without a doubt the largest winnings of any man for one season who has followed the cycle path.

WAR AND WARRIORS.

Spain, according to the war office statistics, had sent up to the end of 1896, 198,047 men and 40 generals to Cuba. The deaths in the field and from yellow fever and other diseases were four generals and 22,731 men and officers.

In nearly all the great European wars hostilities have begun without a previous declaration, and the fact is recalled that instead of declaring war against Mexico in 1846, the United States congress declared that a state of war already existed as a result of Mexican aggressions.

As a result of the discovery made in Roentgen ray photography of the identity of actinic rays of light with those which occasion sunstroke, it is proposed to line the British soldier's helmet with a strip of ruby-colored material as the best protection for the brain. The fatalities at Majuba showed that white helmets were dangerous articles of head gear in the sun.

The German war office has recently published an official statement of experiments made with the Mannlicher rifle, caliber .315, to determine the thickness of various materials necessary to afford protection against small caliber, small-arm projectiles. These experiments demonstrated the fact that 29½ inches of sand, 39 inches of ordinary earth, 24 inches of oak timber and 19½ inches of brick masonry are necessary to afford protection from these projectiles.—Military Gazette, Chicago.

FEMININE PERSONALITIES.

Of the 12 bridesmaids who attended Queen Victoria on the day of her marriage only three now survive.

The queen of Greece is an accomplished yachtswoman, holds a master's certificate, and is honorary admiral in the Russian navy.

Mrs. St. John, wife of the ex-governor of Kansas, has been appointed one of the board of regents of the state agricultural college.

Fran Materna, the great Wagner singer, has determined to devote herself hereafter to training pupils for the operatic stage, especially for Wagnerian roles.

Lady Henry Somerset has sent a woman physician and two nurses to attend to the medical wants of the women among the Armenian refugees in Bulgaria.

The young czarina of Russia has just granted a sum of 100,000 rubles toward the erection of residential quarters for the students of the St. Petersburg medical institute for women.

THE MARKETS.

	Cincinnati,	May 18.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 75	@ $ 3 40
Select butchers	4 10	@ 4 50
CALVES—Fair to good light	5 25	@ 6 00
HOGS—Common	3 00	@ 3 55
Mixed packers	3 40	@ 3 65
Light shippers	3 70	@ 3 85
SHEEP—Choice	4 00	@ 4 40
LAMBS—Spring	5 50	@ 7 00
FLOUR—Winter family	3 35	@ 3 65
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 92
No. 3 red		@ 88½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 20½
Oats—No. 2		@ 22
Rye—No. 2		@ 30
HAY—Prime to choice	11 75	@ 12 00
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 9 75
Lard—Prime steam		@ 3 75
BUTTER—Choice dairy	8	@ 9
Prime to choice creamery		@ 16½
APPLES—Per bbl	2 25	@ 2 50
POTATOES—Per bbl	1 00	@ 1 10
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 50	@ 4 90
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 northern		@ 79⅞
No. 2 red	83⅛	@ 84
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 30½
OATS—Mixed		@ 23⅛
PORK—New mess	8 75	@ 9 50
LARD—Western		@ 4 20
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 40	@ 4 60
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 94⅜
No. 2 Chicago spring		@ 74⅝
CORN—No. 2	25½	@ 25⅝
OATS—No. 2		@ 18⅜
PORK—Mess		@ 8 85
LARD—Steam	3 90	@ 3 92½
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 90	@ 4 25
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	80⅜	@ 81
Corn—Mixed		@ 30¼
Oats—Mixed	23¼	@ 24
LARD—Refined		@ 11 50
PORK—Mess		@ 16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 15	@ 4 50
HOGS—Western	4 40	@ 4 45
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 89
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 24
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@ 20½
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 75	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 91
Corn—Mixed		@ 31
Oats—Mixed		@ 20
PORK—Mess		@ 9 25
LARD—Steam		@ 4 50

DOCTORS HAD GIVEN HER UP.

A Convincing Letter From One of Mrs. Pinkham's Admirers.

No woman can look fresh and fair who is suffering from displacement of the womb. It is ridiculous to suppose that such a difficulty can be cured by an artificial support like a pessary.

Artificial supports make matters worse, for they take away all the chance of the ligaments recovering their vigor and tone. Use strengthens; the ligaments have a work to do.

If they grow flabby and refuse to hold the womb in place, there is but one remedy, and that is to strengthen their fibres and draw the cords back into their normal condition, thus righting the position of the womb.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is designed especially for this purpose, and, taken in connection with her Sanative Wash, applied locally, will tone up the uterine system, strengthening the cords or ligaments which hold up the womb.

Any woman who suspects that she has this trouble—and she will know it by a dragging weight in the lower abdomen, irritability of the bladder and rectum, great fatigue in walking, and leucorrhœa—should promptly commence the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If the case is stubborn, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., stating freely all symptoms. You will receive a prompt letter of advice free of charge. All letters are read and answered by women only. The following letter relates to an unusually severe case of displacement of the womb, which was cured by the Pinkham remedies. Surely it is convincing:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier cured me when the doctors had given me up. I had spent hundreds of dollars searching for a cure, but found little or no relief until I began the Pinkham remedies. I had falling and displacement of the womb so badly that for two years I could not walk across the floor. I also had profuse menstruation, kidney, liver, and stomach trouble. The doctors said my case was hopeless. I had taken only four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and one of the Blood Purifier when I felt like a new person. I am now cured, much to the surprise of my friends, for they all gave me up to die. Now many of my lady friends are using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound through my recommendation, and are regaining health. It has also cured my little son of kidney trouble. I would advise every suffering woman in the land to write to Mrs. Pinkham for aid."—Mrs. Emma Panoborn, Alanson, Mich.

ABSENT-MINDED.

This Man Carried a Lighted Lamp Several Blocks.

An amusing case of absent-mindedness was experienced by a young southsider the other evening, says the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph. The young man is usually of a bright nature, but for some time past his friends have been noticing that he does some peculiar things. Not long ago he was at a reception, and a few minutes before closing time he went to the coat box and secured his hat and coat. Then he walked upstairs to the dancing floor and picked up another coat and walked home with it on his arm. Arriving at his home he found that he had one coat on and another on his arm. The next day he found the owner of the extra coat and mutual explanations followed and all was well. But that has been eclipsed by his latest exploits. He had finished his toilet and started for the street. As soon as he made his appearance he was greeted with smiles from everybody who saw him. He walked down the street and could not imagine what made the passersby smile at him. Finally he reached the restaurant where he takes his meals, then he realized that he was carrying something in his hand. He looked at it and found that he had carried the lighted lamp from his room and had walked several blocks along the main street with it in his hand.

Another case is cited concerning the same young man. At the office where he is employed he has occasion to answer many calls at the telephone. One evening he was reading a book in his room when an alarm clock rang in an adjoining room. The absent-minded youth got up and commenced to yell "Hello! Hello!" and when the occupant of the other room inquired as to the cause of the yelling the young man said in a sheepish manner: "Oh, I thought it was the telephone bell ringing."

Melting by Electricity.

Prof. Elihu Thompson, an eminent authority on electric metal-working, believes that there is no doubt whatever of the possibility of melting through masses or iron and steel of even considerable thickness, provided there is time enough to do it and sufficient current is available; but he thinks the paraphernalia which the burglar would have to carry along and have at his disposal for the attempted work would be a sufficient discouragement in itself, while the time required and the risk of discovery would be so great as to remove the operation from among the possibilities.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

When a fellow sets up the drinks, do not be sure that he pays for them. It may come out of you.—Washington Democrat.

Piso's Cure for Consumption has saved me many a doctor's bill.—S. F. Hardy, Hopkins Place, Baltimore, Md., Dec. 2, 1894.

A man who has a job the year round and is earning a living ought to be happy.—Washington Democrat.

A man humps himself with lumbago. He bustles when cured by St. Jacobs Oil.

Why are you afraid in the dark?—Atchison Globe.

WEIGHTY WORDS FOR Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

CANDY CATHARTIC Cascarets CURE CONSTIPATION

REGULATE THE LIVER ALL DRUGGISTS

10¢ 25¢ 50¢

ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED to cure any case of constipation. Cascarets are the Ideal Laxative, never grip or gripe, but cause easy natural results. Sample and booklet free. Ad. STERLING REMEDY CO., Chicago, Montreal, Can., or New York. 811

800 SECOND HAND BICYCLES $5 TO $15— All makes, GOOD AS NEW. Must be closed out. Lists free. L. A. Read Cycle Co., Chicago.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

SILOS HOW TO BUILD ADD WILLIAMS MFG. CO., KALAMAZOO, MICH.

A. N. K.—E 1687

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

Wednesday, May 19, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Mayor Todd, of Louisville, has a colored stenographer.

The Breckinridge Bank has nearly $100,000 of idle money.

Bees stung a child to death on Sabine creek last Tuesday.

The Harrodsburg Democrat notes the sale of 500 bushels of wheat at 93 cents.

The Fleming county grand jury adjourned without finding a single indictment.

Pot hunting dove shooters are causing indignation among Barren county people.

George L. Graves, held to answer at Newport for bigamy, is said to have five wives.

Strawberry growers in Eastern Kentucky report splendid prospects for a good crop.

The Hardshell Baptist foot washing in Graves county Sunday was largely attended.

The blackberry crop, which was unusually short last season, is reported good this season.

Two Morman elders preached from the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church at Hazel Green.

Louisville has 10,000 colored voters and one of the number, Isaac Curtis, wants to be Mayor.

Tom Miller, of Hico, Calloway county, ate some hemlock root through mistake and died.

A county seat war is on in Boyd county, Ashland wishing to wrest the honor from Catlettsburg.

Gov. Bradley declined to pardon Joseph Ludley, who was convicted in Jefferson county of burglary.

The Owensboro census shows a decrease of 373 pupils as compared with census of the last school year.

Owensboro churches are all holding after revival protracted meetings to follow up the Chapman meetings.

Rev. W. T. Goodall, of Rockcastle county, is in jail in Louisville, charged with violating the pension laws.

The McCreary guards have petitioned Capt. Noell Gaines to resign but he refuses to comply with their wishes.

Dan Musick, the wife-murderer, and his brother Lige, were killed by a posse near Prestonburg, while trying to arrest the former.

A suit is on trial at Paducah in which the plaintiff wants $5,000 from an A. P. A. lodge for breaking his leg while initiating him.

The grand jury refused to indict Pete King at Carlisle for murder committed 25 years ago, for which he was recently lodged in jail.

Carey Bragg, of Princeton, has invented a family attachment to a bicycle that enables him to take his three children with him on his wheel.

The last toll-gate in Fleming county has been destroyed by a mob. The inmates of the house were threatened and shots were fired into it.

William Cox, one of Estill county's prominent citizens, and Miss Ella Miller were married last week. The groom is 80 years of age, and the bride 35.

A party composed of a man and two women passed through Bardstown Saturday on bicycles on their way to the Tennessee Centennial. They were from Michigan.

As a result of the legislative investigation of the branch penitentiary at Eddyville, the removal of Warden Happy will probably be demanded by a majority report.

The capital syndicate of the Texas Panhandle recently sold 10,000 steers yearlings, 10,000 twos and 10,000 threes to a northern buyer at $20, $36 and $41 respectively.

T. F. Webb, of Boyle county, caught in the Blue Hole, of Rolling Fork, a bass that measured 23 inches in length and weighed seven pounds. It was weighed in the presence of numerous reliable witnesses.

The school census, as completed at Paducah, showed that there were within the confines of the city 4,647 children in the school age, which is from six to twenty years. This was an increase of 350 over the census of '96.

Dr. McNary, superintendent of Lakeland asylum, died in Louisville of heart trouble. He had been in poor health for some time and the affairs at the asylum had been under the care of Dr. L. E. Goslee, the first assistant physician.

Warden Hancock went on the witness stand at Frankfort to give his side of the scandal in the Frankfort penitentiary. The Warden's admissions showed that the State's business at the prison is run with a carelessness and lack of system that would bankrupt any private concern.

Gov. Bradley signed the $500,000 bond bill, the Court of Appeals bill providing for stenographers for each Judge, the bill changing Pineville from a city of the fourth to the fifth class, and the resolution to investigate the Eddyville penitentiary became a law without his signature.

Mr. Simeon R. Cook, of Lincoln county, has a water pitcher which has been in constant use for 115 years. It is of stoneware, handsomely decorated, and has a silver top which glitters like a new silver dollar. It formerly belonged to his father, who purchased it in his early youth.

William Brumley, the sixteen-year-old boy who held the government contract for carrying the mails on horseback between Albany and Alpha, Clinton county, pleaded guilty in the federal court to opening the mails. He rifled a pouch and stole several books and pamphlets.

The woman candidate for County Superintendent of Schools in Hickman county failed to secure the nomination, but in a card to the Clinton Democrat says: "The cause was lost, but a purpose has been born in the minds of the people, which points to victory for some other woman when the opportunity affords."

At Paris there is a man who is a "gun and lock smith, repairs clocks, gasoline stoves, bicycles, sewing machines, typewriters, wash ringers, umbrellas, tinware, revolvers, rat traps, biscuit machines, sausage grinders and farm machines," so his advertisement says. What is wrong about getting this man to fix up the Republican machinery in Kentucky.

Ike Cooper, colored, of Marion county, claims that John H. Thompson, a prominent farmer near Lebanon, owed him $9,50. Cooper met Thompson and drew on him for that sum with a shotgun. Thompson promptly honored the draft with a check, which Cooper cashed. Cooper was later arrested for an infraction of the law in collecting debt by shotgun draft.

It is reported that the Mason county raiders visited a number of houses and called each farmer to the door for a conversation. The outlaws warned farmers that if they expressed indignation at the doings of the raiders that their property would be dynamited and that they would be killed themselves. It has caused terror among the farmers, and they are afraid to open their mouths about the lawlessness the scoundrels have been guilty of.

CROP AND STOCK.

Hog cholera is very desrtuctive in portions of Madison county.

Horses about Lancaster are suffering from some strange disease.

The army worm has made its appearance in large numbers in many of the wheat fields of McCracken county. It is feared that they will damage the grass and corn crop.

J. Walker Muir, of Bourbon county, got 531 pounds of wool from his 100 Southdown sheep, an average of over five pounds, which is very good, and sold it at 17½ cents.

Dry Ridge can not out do Eagle Creek when it comes to tobacco raising. Adam Chipman of Eagle Creek delivered a crop to Scott & Dickerson a few days ago that is pretty hard to beat. On 2½ acres Mr. Chipman raised 3,398 pounds of tobacco, nearly half of which was bright leaf. He sold his crop for six cents all round. This is a pretty fair average considering that it was grown on hill land.—Courier.

On the farm of J. M. Whitehouse a well-known and prominent farmer, near Waddy, a cow dropped seventy calves. Sixty-nine of them were about the size of rats, but fully developed in every way. They were all marked very much as their mother. They did not live but a short while, but were active while alive. The other one is a full size calf and is living. It seemed as much surprised at the presence of so many brothers and sisters as the people who were attracted to the spot by the unusual occurrence. The happening was so hard to believe the farmers all over the county have visited Mr. Whitehouse's farm to see the litter of calves and be convinced.

It is a shame that the Knox county can not find a better coroner than an ex-convict! Why, the Republican party did not know the mam they nominated in the last primary, or we venture to say that a good citizen would have suffered his right arm cut off rather than to have stamped after the name.—Barboursville Herald.

Date of Primary Election Changed to June 5, 1897.

Pursuant to the call of the Chairman of the county Democratic Executive committee, the committee met in D. E. Castleman's law office in Burlington, last Monday afternoon. The following members were present: D. E. Castleman, chairman; B. L. Rice, Secretary, P. E. Cason, proxy for Elijah Parker; Reuben Conner, Richard Stephens, Robt. McGlasson, Geo. Ossman, proxy for J. C. Hughes.

The chairman stated the object of the meeting to be for the purpose of considering the propriety of changing the date of the primary election as fixed at the last meeting. A motion to reconsider the action of the committee on the second Monday in December was made and carried, and the order made on that date is now held for naught.

It was agreed by the committee to hold a primary election to nominate candidates for the various county offices to be filled at the regular election in November, 1897. It was further agreed that said primary election be held on the first Saturday in June, 1897, and the Executive Committee will meet in the Court-house in Burlington, at 2 o'clock p. m., on Monday, June 7th, 1897, and count the votes cast for each candidate for the respective offices, and the candidate receiving the highest number of votes cast for any office will be declared the Democratic nominee for that office.

The committee adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That all persons who voted for Bryan and Sewall at the last November election, and all persons who did not vote but would have voted for Bryan and Sewall had they voted, and all young men who will be legal voters at the next November election, and will pledge themselves to support the Democratic party and the nominees of said primary election, shall be allowed to vote.

Resolved, That all persons who desire to be candidates before said primary election shall, on or before the 5th day of April, 1897, record their names with the chairman of the county committee, and pay their assessments to him.

Resolved, That only such candidates who pay their assessments to defray the expenses of said primary election, on or before the fifth day of April, 1897, shall be entitled to have their name placed upon the ballots to be voted for.

Resolved, That all candidates for precinct offices and for Coroner who wish their names to appear upon the ballots for said primary, shall pay to the chairman of the county committee one dollar, to help pay the expenses of said primary election.

The chairman and secretary were authorized to assess the candidates to defray the expenses of the primary election.

D. E. CASTLEMAN Chairman,
B. L. RICE, Secretary.

NOTICE.

TUCKER, will be at Ezra Aylor's on Tuesday morning, at Dony Cook's in the afternoon, Ben Tanner's Thursday morning, and at Geo. Moor's on Friday in each week. JAS. H. AYLOR.

BUY-CYCLES HALF PRICE

HIGH GRADE 1897 MODELS.

Guaranteed first-class materials and work throughout. Morgan & Wright double or single tube pneumatic tires. Delivered anywhere free of charge. Save money by sending for our cycle catalog before buying.

POWELL & CLEMENT CO.

418 MAIN ST., CINCINNATI, O.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Abel Beemon's Adm'r — Pltf.
vs
Rachel Beemon, &c. — Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will hear proof by deposition as to the value of the Missouri land owned by Able Beemon at the time of his death, on Saturday, May 8th, 1897, at the law office of S. Gaines, in Burlington, Ky.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C.

RHEUMATISM LINIMENT.

L. MORELLI,
Box 128, ERLANGER, KY.
AGENTS WANTED.
☞Price, 50 Cents Per Bottle.

SEASON OF 1897.

OAK KNOLL STOCK FARM.

UGO,

Chestnut Stallion, 16 hands high, foaled 1892, sired by Simmons 2744, (record 2:29,) sire of 63 in 2:30 list, and 7 in 2:15 list. 1st dam, Thirza by Almont Boy 4308, sire of Grafton, 2:20½. Beesie G. 2:25, etc. 2d dam, Dixie by Norman 25; 3d dam, Mollie Clay by Iron Duke be by C. M. Clay 18.

UGO is an exceedingly handsome horse, with plenty of size and faultless conformation; he has worked quarters in 40 seconds when 3 years old with six weeks training.

UGO will make the season of 1897, at Oak Knoll Stock farm, 1 mile west of Utzinger, and 3 miles east of Petersburg, Ky., on the Petersburg & Burlington pike. Service fee $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when mare is known to be in foal or parted with. Mares kept on grass at $1 50 per month, accidents and escapes at owners risk.

For particulars address
A. E. CHAMBERS, Jr.,
Utzinger, Ky.

CRESCENT HILL STOCK FARM.

1897. SEASON 1897.

TIMOTHY BOY, No. 27854

Bay horse foaled April 3rd, 1893, 16¼ hands high and weighs 1250 pounds in ordinary condition.

Sired by Wilkes Boy, 2:24; 1st dam, Alga by Artillery, 2:21½; 2d dam, Valdosta by Nutwood, 2:18¾; 3d dam, Emma Arterburn by Mambrino Patchen 58, (dam of one and grand-dam of three in 2:30 list); 4th dam, Jennie Johnson by Sweet Owen, thoroughbred, gr-dam of three in 2:30; 5th dam, Thoroughbred, &c.

Wilkes Boy, 2:24, one of the best producing horses in Kentucky, is by Geo. Wilkes, 2:22, dam Betty Brown (dam of Anglin, 2:27½) by Mambrino Patchen, 58.

Artillery, 2:21½ by Hambletonian 10, dam Wallis Star (dam of Modestie 2:26½) by American Star, 14, is fast becoming a great sire.

Nutwood, 2:18¾, (out of the dam of Maud S. 2:08¾,) is the sire of more 2:30 performers than any horse living.

TIMOTHY BOY is one of the best bred horses in Kentucky, a horse of great power, fine style and color, a pure gaited trotter, perfectly sound in every particular and should produce horses fit for either track, road or farm.

He will make the season at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when fact is known or mare parted with.

The Fine Black Jack,

MIKE

Will make the season at $8 to insure a colt, money due when colts comes or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE:

MIKE is a black Jack, white points, 15½ hands high, good heavy bone, large head and ears, well built, good style and color. He is one of the best lookers in Northern Ky., and ought to make a grand breeder.

He was sired by Bill Collins, dam Nell, a fine black jennet 16 hands high, by Sinkhole; 2d dam, Graves' Jenny, by Black Samson, jr.; 3d dam, Jenny by Mogul. Bill Collins is by Bourbon Chief, is 16 hands high and one of the best mule jacks in Central Kentucky, and sold for $1,800.

Timothy Boy and Mike will stand at Daniel Bedinger's farm, 3 miles west of Richwood, Ky., on the Richwood & Beaver pike.

☞Mares kept on pasture at $1.50 per month.

J. C. BEDINGER, Richwood, Ky.

Andy Scheben,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

Wines, Liquors AND BRANDY.

Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.

LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

H. S. STEVENSON.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

DENTIST.

Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.

☞OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE

Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain.

The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.

Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.

Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North. Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

EGGS—Pure barred Plymouth Rock [illegible] for hatching, pen No. 1, $1.00 per 13; pen No. 2, 50c per 15. Mrs. R. O. Smith, Union, Ky. Stone House.

OUR Doors Stand Open!

And we make no bones in giving you prices Openly.

We never felt in better humor for business than NOW. So we will ask for your attention a little while.

—We Will Sell You—

H. and E. Boston Standard fine Gran. Sugar, per lb	5c	Navy Beans 3 qts. for	10c
Coffees from 12½c to 30c per pound		Dried Peas 2 quarts for	5c
White Satin Flour (extra fine)	5.25	Battle Ax Tobacco, per lb	20c
Essex Soap (best for the money) two bars for	5c	Polar Bear Smoking, 4 pkgs	15c
Baking Powder, from 3c per lb. up		Six for Ten per plug	15c
Pure Pepper, ground, per lb	15c	Teas from	15 to 80c
Canned Corn, from 5c to 12c		Good Table Peaches, 3 cans	25c
Pearl Barley, 2 lbs. for	5c	N. O. Molasses, two gallons	65c
Evaporated Apples, per lb	5c	Extra Fine Syrup, two gallons	35c
Fine Evap. Peaches, per lb	7½c	H. L. Oil, per gallon	8c
Prunes, per pound, from 5c to 12c		"Crown" Gasoline, per gal	9c
Good Rice, per pound	5c	Onion Sets, per quart	10c
Sweet Chocolate, per cake	5c	3 packages Garden Seed	10c
Baker's Chocolate, per lb	40c	Pratt's Poultry Food at list.
Enamiline, per box	4c	6 dozen Cloths Pins for	5c
Rising Sun Polish, 6 for	25c	Rolled Oats, per pound	2c
		Langdon's Bread, 6 loaves for	25c

And Numerous other Good Values that require too much space to quote. Yours Earnestly,

IRA AYLOR, Erlanger, Ky.

C. W. ROBINSON,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,

ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,

Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.

GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.

Constance, Ky.

E. H. RIGGS,

—Dealer in—

HARDWATE, STOVES, LIME,

—CEMENT, ETC.—

TIN, IRON AND SLATE ROOFING.

FLY SCREENS NOW ON HAND.

Erlanger, : : : KY.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.

62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,

E. H. BAKER, Proprietor

Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.

Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.

Horses Sold on Commission.

Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.

FRY & REIB,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of

Marble & Granite Monuments

HEADSTONES. CORNER POSTS, ETC.,

109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K.

Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. Designs Furnished Upon Application.

PICK THE WINNERS and TAKE THE MONEY!

PICK

To the first Subscriber who guesses the names of all the Winners in the Primary Election to be held in this County,

JUNE 5th, 1897,

The RECORDER will give $5; to the second correct guesser, $3; to the third correct guesser, $2; to the fourth correct guesser, ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO THE

RECORDER.

TO ENTITLE A PERSON TO A GUESS

He must be a new Subscriber for ONE YEAR, commencing on or after JANUARY 1st, 1897; or One Who Has Paid Up all arrears to January 1st, 1897, and for ONE YEAR in advance of that period. No one subscribing or paying for less than one year's subscription will be entitled to a guess.

Fill out the following blank and send or mail it to this office, when you comply with the above conditions, and the date of its reception will be marked on it, when it will be preserved until June the 7th, 1897, on which date a committee will be selected to decide who are entitled to the prizes. No guesses received after 12 o'clock noon June 1st. 1897.

I guess the following persons will be nominated at the Democratic Primary, June 5th, 1897, for County Offices:

County Judge.	Assessor.
County Clerk.	Jailer.
Circuit Clerk.	School Superintendent
County Attorney.	Surveyor.
Sheriff.	Coroner.
For Representative.

Name..... } Rec'd.....

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, 1897. NO. 31.

THE legislature adjourned at noon last Friday. Its session will be remembered a long time.

SENATOR FORAKER and Hanna do not agree on the Cuban question; but that is not the only question about which they differ.

IT is said that the action of the Senate on the Cuban resolution was not in accord with the President's Cuban policy. If the President has a Cuban policy no one is cognizant of the fact.

THE Cuban resolution recognizing belligerency passed by the Senate has been tied up in the House, and if Speaker Reed is so disposed it will be before that body a long time. Mr. Reed has things done in the House to suit himself.

SENATOR DEBOE went to sleep in the Senate Chamber, one day last week, and disturbed the working members with his loud snoring. The Senator has had only a small amount of time to devote to sleep since he took charge of the Kentucky wing of the pie counter.

IN Bath county, one night last week, the sheriff and his posse attacked a band of toll-gate raiders, and one of the latter, a citizen heretofore of good repute, was badly wounded. Several shots were exchanged before the raiders dispersed. The wounded man was lodged in jail at Owingsville.

WHAT will the Louisville Commercial say about Senator Deboe's vote for Morgan's Cuban resolution? It has been very severe in its denunciation of the resolution and its author, but it seems from the vote in its favor that the Senate is composed largely of men who side with Morgan rather than the Commercial.

IN his testimony before the investigating committee, Auditor Stone, who is ex-officio prison commissioner said: "The commissioners have no copy of the invoice made when Warden Neil succeeded George, and the invoice made by Neil last July just before he died, has been misplaced. The Commissioners have no way of ascertaining exactly how much stock was on hand when Martin secured the contract. I have a printed report, and know nothing about his figures." It is evident that the Frankfort penitentiary is being operated in a very unbusiness-like manner.

THE work of locating the boundary line between Boone and Kenton counties is about completed. At some places the surveyors found the line of 1846 on what was supposed to be Kenton's territory, while at others it cuts off slices of Boone. Mr. J. S. Cullum, who was present when the north end of the line was run in 1846, says the survey made in 1897 a few weeks is in accordance with the old line. The line crosses the Covington & Lexington pike near Florence at a point some distance south of where it was supposed to cross that road. Taken altogether neither county has gained nor lost much territory.

THE editor of the Carrollton Democrat, besides knowing how to get up a good paper, knows how to prevent cut-worms bothering tobacco plants. Here is his recipe: "Take a teaspoontul of Paris green and mix in a gallon of meal. Sprinkle a small portion of the mixture on each tobacco plant and it will slay the cutworm. To apply—Use an oyster can with four nail holes in the bottom, the can having a handle about two feet long. A gallon of the mixture is sufficient for an acre, but after a washing rain it must be applied again. This remedy is sure death to chickens, so they must be kept away."

THE subscribers of the Louisville Dispatch at Burlington, have not received a copy of that paper for about a week. At first the Dispatch arrived here with the same regularity as the other Louisville dailies, but it seems that the conspiracy to boycott that journal numbers among the conspirators those who have the handling of the paper en transit and they manage to sidetrack it somewhere between here and Louisville. The phenomenal growth of the Dispatch subscription list has made the other papers very jealous of it, and they are using their combined influence to induce the business men of Louisville to refuse its advertising columns their patronage. They may succeed in freezing the Dispatch out but at the same time the business interests of Louisville will suffer, because the friends of the Dispatch will resent the boycott in a manner that will be felt there.

A CARD.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF BOONE CO:

I find, on account of my health, the condition of which requires a Special Course of Treatment, that I will not be able again to take an active part in my campaign for the Nomination for County Judge, and, therefore, I earnestly request my friends to take up my work where I have been compelled to leave it. I make this personal appeal because I feel assured, from the warm expressions of friendship lately received, that I have the race won by a nice margin; but will now have to rely on my friends holding me in the lead.

GENTLEMEN:—IF NOMINATED AND ELECTED I WILL BE IN THE OFFICE EVERY DAY IN THE WEEK, SO ALL PERSONS HAVING BUSINESS WITH THE COUNTY JUDGE CAN SEE ME AT ALL TIMES. Very Respectfully,

C. C. ROBERTS.

The Board of Equalization have completed their work, and have given it to the public.

The total assessed valuation was $530,085,353; the equalized value is fixed at $549,409,771. Last year the assessed value was $553,844,329; the equalized value was $570,926,732.

The equalized values this year, therefore, falls short $4,000,000 of the assessed value last year, and $21,000,000 short of the equalized value last year.

The amount of tax derived from this source last year was $2,426,438,74. This year the amount computed at 52½ cents, will amount to $2,884,401,30.

The equalized value of personalty subject to taxation is $56,908,402; that not subject to taxation, $51,383,030. Value of lands, $251,547,491. In Jefferson county the personal property subject to equalization was assessed at $12,404,128, and as equalized, is $12,900,298. Town lots were assessed at $86,252,379, and, as equalized, amount to $87,977,427. Lands as assessed amounted to $11,165,737; as equalized amount to $11,612,366.

The following bills were passed by the legislature at its recent session:

Bill transferring Pineville, Bell county, from cities of fourth class to citie of fifth class.

Bill to prevent the spread of the disease of glanders among horses.

Bill providing the manner of submitting constitutional amendments to a vote of the people.

Bill amending the school law so that in counties containing cities of the first or second classes the county Superintendent shall reside in the county outside the city limits and be elected by the voters outside the city.

Bill authorizing each Judge of the Court of Appeals to employ a stenographer at a salary of $850 per year for two years.

Bill changing time of holding Circuit Court in Anderson County.

Bill to authorize the formation of corporations in counties of less than 100,000 inhabitants, which may do both banking and a trust business.

Bills providing for the payment of the expenses of the committee attending the funerals of Senators Weissenger and Salyer.

Bill to reduce from $2 to $1 50 the Sheriff's fee for selling real estate for unpaid taxes, and requiring the Sheriff to make affidavit that the delinquent had no personal estate out of which the taxes could have been made.

Bill to legalize the borrowing of money by the asylums during the past year.

Bill to pay Lewis Smith for keeping the State House lavatories in order.

Bill changing the time of holding Circuit Courts in the counties of Mercer, Boyd, Lincoln and Garrard.

Bill providing that all cars or barges on which coal or coke mined or manufactured by convict labor is shipped into this state, shall be labeled "convict mined."

Bill to prevent the "egging" or interruption of public speakers.

Bill increasing the rate of state taxation from 42½ cents on the $100 to 52½ cents for three years. After three years the rate to be 47½ cents.

Bill empowering the state to borrow $500,000 by issuing bonds.

Bill authorizing the Coroner of Jefferson County to employ a stenographer.

Bill appropriating $500 per year to prevent the spread of the San Jose scale among fruit trees.

Bill providing for the payment of interest on state warrants.

[Commonwealth]

A venerable citizen and honored jurist has been lost to Kentucky through the death of William Evan Arthur, who died Wednesday afternoon at his residence in this city in the seventy-third year of his age.

He was born in Cincinnati in 1825, and came with his parents to Covington in 1832 and, from early manhood, has been identified with Kentucky honoring and being honored by her. He was a man of rare and never failing courtesy; a gentleman by birth, breeding and instinct a man of parts, of superior eloquence and devotion to principle.

Judge Arthur was educated in the schools of Covington and after a thorough preparation matriculated at old Dartmouth, from which he was graduated in due course and with honor. Entering the law office of Hon. John W. Stephenson judge Arthur studied law and was admitted to practice, and his position at the bar was not long unknown. His rise was rapid and his eloquence at the bar and on the stump, coupled with his intense devotion to Democratic principles and discipline, very quickly brought him into public notice and he entered the political arena equipped for attack or defence, a dangerous antagonist and an invaluable ally.

In 1856 judge Arthur was elected commonwealth's attorney and later served a portion of a term as judge of the criminal court of the district. In 1860 he was an ardent supporter of John C. Breckinridge and was an elector on the Democratic ticket: in 1870 he was elected to congress and again in 1872, serving on the important committee of elections each term.

His service in congress was during one of the most important periods in the history of the country; the southern states were held as provinces and the fearful evils of "re-construction," so called, were blighting the fairest portion of the Union. In his devotion to the Union of the Fathers of the Republic and in his fearless advocacy of the rights of the people judge Arthur was foremost and unyielding.

After his congressional service Judge Arthur resumed the practice of his profession and was elected judge of the Kenton circuit court, serving for six years, again returning to the bar, and dying in harness, respected and venerated by old and young.

At the Southern Baptist Convention, in session at Wilmington, N. C., the trustees of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary submitted a letter to the convention written by Rev. Dr. Whitsett, outlining the doctrinal stand taken by the school, which was endorsed by the trustees. In concluding the letter, Dr. Whitsett said:

"In regard to the articles written as editorials for the Independent, I have long felt that it was a mistake, and the generous action of the board of trustees rendered it easy to make this statement. What I wrote was from a pedo-Baptist standpoint, with a view to stimulating historical research, with no thought that it would injure the Baptists, and with no intention to disparage Baptist doctrines or practices. The article in Johnson's Encyclopedia has probably passed beyond my control, but it will be pleasing to me if I can honorably procure the elimination from it of whatever is offensive to any of my brethren. On the historical questions involved in the discussion I find myself out of agreement with some honored historians, but what I have written is the outcome of patient and honest research and I cannot do otherwise than to re-affirm my convictions and maintain my position."

The board of trustees, by a practically unanimous vote, re-affirmed their confidence in the present administration of the Seminary, and refused to put Dr. Whitsett on trial. When this was announced to the convention Dr. Whitsett was given an ovation. This action of the convention relegates the question to the investigation of scholars.—Georgetown Times.

In pursuance of the call of the State Democratic Executive Committee, issued April 17, 1897, the Democrats of this county are notified that on Saturday, May 29th, 1897, at 1 o'clock p. m. a mass convention will be held in the town of Burlington to select delegates to the State convention to be held in Frankfort, June 2, 1897, the purpose of which being to nominate a candidate for the office of Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Boone county is entitled to twelve delegates in said State convention.

D. E. CASTLEMAN.
Chair. Boone Co. Dem. Ex-Comt.

[Western Recorder]

There is one Mr. W. H. Harris passing through the country claiming to be a preacher. He claims to be deaf and dumb. He first claims to be one thing then another, just according to the company he's in. Last Sunday he was at Corinth and was a Methodist and wanted to preach in the church at night, but when Bro. Cooper the preacher demanded his credentials he became confused and left the town. He struck Williamstown Monday morning claiming to be a Baptist preacher, spunged his way at the hotel, pulled every man for a dime that he could. To some he represented himself as a working man in trouble, to others as a preacher. He would present a letter stating his trouble and at the bottom he would ask for a dime. He wanted to preach in the Baptist church here and take a collection. When I refused him he went to Walton and wrote me an insulting and threatening letter, unbecoming a gentleman much less a Christian. The churches should be on the lookout for him. He is no good. Should he return to Williamstown he would meet with a warm reception from those brethren who were deceived.

Will other papers please copy.

WM. MCMILLAN.

SENATOR STEVENSON is considerably humiliated because he did not succeed in getting his fusion bill passed. It takes men of much greater caliber than Stevenson or any of the Senators who were trying to assist him to run a partisan measure over Goebel and Bronston. But it takes men of Stevenson's intellectual dimensions some time to learn how weak they are when compared to men of brains.

The following are the names of the men appointed to act as election officers for the Democratic primary election for Boone county to be held June 5th, 1897:

Bullittsville—C W Riley and G E McGlasson, Judges; William Clayton, clerk; Bruce Henry, sheriff.

Constance—W E Walton and Leonard Crigler, judges; E W Rouse, clerk; Walter Gordon, sheriff.

Union—James A Huey and J W Conner, judges; J L Frazier, clerk; W W Conner, sheriff.

Florence—Howard Blankenbeker and L M Ware, judges; W P Carpenter, clerk; T B Castleman, sheriff.

Hamilton—John F Green and R L Huey, judges; G M Allen, clerk; A L Miller, sheriff.

Carlton—Charles Craig and W H Nelson, judges; Moses Scott, clerk; Dan Williamson, sheriff.

Burlington—Joseph Lillard and James Clore, judges; N E Riddell, clerk; W J Rice, sheriff.

Petersburg—James W Barnett and Martin Geisler, judges; Ira Wingate, clerk; Clay Hensley, sheriff.

Verona—C W Waller and B S O'Neal, judges; W M Whitson, clerk; L E Persifull, sheriff.

Bellevue—J J Walton and Robert Rice, judges; D M Snyder, clerk; W B Arnold, sheriff.

Beaver—Geo Ossman and Geo Moore, judges; John L Noell, clerk; Omer Cleek, sheriff.

Walton—William Holder and Thomas J Fleming, judges; Bert Coffman, clerk; Jerry Carpenter, sheriff.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
Ch'm Boone Co. Dem. Ex. Com.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.

Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,

MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.

For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

NOTICE.

Cincinnati, O., April 5, 1897.

To the Tobacco Growers of Boone County:

I am connected with the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., which includes four houses—the Globe, Morris, Bodmann, Cincinnati Miami. Prize your tobacco and ship it to one of the four houses and receive the highest market price for same. If you have no preference ship it to the Cincinnati Miami, and I will give it my personal attention. Hogsheads and presses furnished. Address me at 110, 112 West Front St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

oct-7 O. W. ADAMS.

Administrator's Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Benj. Rice, deceased, must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

B. P. RICE, Adm'r.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.

Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
DRUGGIST,
Rising Sun, - Indiana.

Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

THIRD YEAR

OF WALTON ACADEMY,

—opens—

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 21st, 1896

AT WALTON, KY.

Three Courses of Study to choose from: English, Scientific or Classical,

Tuition per month for Higher Branches..... $3.00

Tuition per month for Common School Branches..... 2.50

We will have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2 00 for five days.

Teachers { MRS. S. H. MYERS. CHAS. F. PRIOR. REV. S. H. MYERS.

Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire

INSURANCE COMPANY,

OF BOONE COUNTY,

Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower

Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County

HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE

In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.

N. S. WATON, President, Union, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.

J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.

EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.

R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.

W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.

My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.

Independent of Undertakers' Union.

My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.

FURNITURE

Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.

GIVE : ME : A : CALL.

Wm. F. GOETZE

Scientific Optician.

Headquarters at Hornberger's Jewelry Store,

LAWRENCEBURG, - - INDIANA.

Your eyes tested free of charge and correct glasses fitted at moderate prices.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

If your eyes are effected in the least, give me a call and don't run chances of ruining your vision by buying from peddlers or quacks.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.

Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.

East Bound.

Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m, 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown..7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m

West Bound.

Lve. Georgetown..10:40 a. m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,

Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.

Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mchs-yr.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by maill promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL

LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.

Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.

Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.

Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.

No Poisonous Gasses Used.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.

YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. R. L. RICE.

VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.

Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated. All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.

(Incorporated 1886.)

CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000

Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.

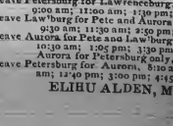
(INCORPORATED 1893.)

ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY

CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 3.000

Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,



DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.

All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.

Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

TIME CARD OF THE STEAMER PAULINE.

Leave Petersburg for Lawrenceburg, 6:30 am; 9:00 am; 11:00 am; 1:30 pm; 4:00 pm; Leave Lawburg for Pete and Aurora, 7:30 am; 9:30 am; 11:30 am; 2:30 pm; 4:30 pm; Leave Aurora for Pete and Lawburg, 8:30 am; 10:30 am; 1:05 pm; 3:30 pm. Leave Aurora for Petersburg only, 5:15 pm. Leave Petersburg for Aurora, 8:10 am; 10:00 am; 12:40 pm; 3:00 pm; 4:45 pm.

ELIHU ALDEN, Master.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON. : : : KY.

By way of maintaining its reputation as a health resort, Los Angeles, Cal., announces the death of one of its citizens at the age of 117 years.

After holding its own for a hundred years the stovepipe hat is threatened with extinction. It is the plug-ugly of the century. Let it go.

Brooklyn became a city in 1834, when its inhabitants numbered 4,500, and it will end its separate history as a municipality next January with a population of 1,142,000.

"We paid last year $1,004,126,360 for drinks," remarks the American Grocer. If the editor of the Grocer keeps it up at that rate very long he will seriously impair his income.

Every year we are duplicating some ancient wonder of the world, and often going it one better. The hanging gardens of Babylon would pale and look faded by the side of the new spring hats.

A woman in Chicago who failed to induce her drunken husband to return home with her threw her wedding ring at him. That's just like a woman. How much better work could have been done by half a brick!

The number of telephone stations in the United States has reached 352,810, or 16,000 more than are found in the whole of Europe, with a population six times as large. There is no delay in this country in recognizing an improvement of merit.

Liquefied air can now be ordered by the dozen bottles in Munich. But just what it can be used for in a general way is in doubt. It is so cold that it blisters the skin at a touch, but its excess of oxygen is a valuable feature. At present chemists are the only customers for it.

Sixty years ago Joseph Gillott was a working jeweler in Birmingham, England. One day he accidentally split one of his fine steel tools, and being suddenly called on to sign a receipt, and not finding a pen handy, he used the split tool as a substitute. This led to making pens of metal.

It is stated that nearly 700 Spanish army officers have died of wounds or disease during the last year, including six generals and 65 officers above the rank of captain. The mortality in the rank and file in the same time is placed at over 25,000. These surprising figures are from Spanish official sources.

Australia is suffering from another season of drought, bringing with it great suffering as well as financial disaster. The antipodeans have certainly had more than their share of misfortune. For three successive years their crops have been ruined and their sheep and cattle have died by thousands.

A poem has been sent in, opening as follows:

"One little foot, so small it can nestle
In one caressing hand."

After a careful reading, and the other foot not showing up, the poem, says the Minneapolis Journal, is held pending an investigation by the police reporter.

Secretary Long has perfected his plan for laying up naval vessels not actually needed at this time, and the necessary orders have been issued. The war ships will be gradually retired from active service, but will always be ready in case of an emergency, while a sufficient number of smaller ships will be kept in commission to perform every duty required of the navy in times of peace.

The anxiety to aid the starving poor of India should not close the eyes of the American people to the fact that there are hundreds of thousands of people in the Mississippi valley who have lost their all in the great floods, and have no hope even of being able to plant a crop this year. They must be fed by the generous people of the country or they will starve. True charity begins at home.

The full name of the king of Siam, who expects to pay a visit to America this year, is Phra Bat Somdetch Phra Paramindr Maha Chulalongkorn Maha Monghut Chow Yun. If he is compelled to attach this signature to all royal decrees and official documents, no wonder that he desires to take a vacation and travel. But he should avoid hotel registers and delegate the formality of recording his name to some member of his suite against whom he has a deep grudge.

April made another good showing in the matter of fire losses. The aggregate for the United States and Canada is reported at $10,832,030, against $12,010,600 for 1896 and $11,018,150 for 1895. The totals for four months ended with April were: 1897, $42,062,400; 1896, $47,620,300; 1895, $49,513,250. This is a steady progression downward, with more than $5,000,000 less in 1897 than in 1896. May the good work go on. The country can well afford to reduce the size of its annual ash heap.

Edison promises to produce in this country by means of the phonograph and the kinetoscope replicas of operatic or dramatic representations of the greatest European stage successes. This will revolutionize operatic matters and make easy the way of the managers. The phonograph will not be affected with tonsilitis at a time when salaries are unpaid, and the orchestra cannot go on a strike for the same reason. The audiences will be spared the jealousies of singers and the managers the humiliation which follows. Edison has promised all this, and what he promises he usually performs.

WHITE FLAGS

Hoisted Along the Lines of Both the Armies—In Spite of This Turks Occupy and Fortify Several Positions.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 22.—The ambassadors are still waiting instructions from their respective governments as to the capacity in which they are to act when presenting the note which it is understood will be presented Saturday, whether as advisers or as negotiators.

It is understood that the powers will consent to the demand of the Turkish government that the gulfs of Volo and Arta be opened for the revictualing of the Turkish troops and that the peace negotiations will be conducted here.

ATHENS, May 22.—A dispatch from Larissa says that white flags have been hoisted along the lines of both armies and that Crown Prince Constantine has formally announced the armistice to his troops.

In spite of the armistice the Turks have advanced to Daitza and occupied and fortified several positions. The government has formally protested against this.

It is said that the Turks are pillaging and burning in all parts of Thessaly. The bonds will be convoked as soon as the terms of peace have been arranged.

Crown Prince Constantine has established his headquarters at Thermopylae with Gen. Smolenski, Col. Vasso and the Garibaldians.

LONDON, May 22.—It is again reported by way of Vienna that serious dissensions have broken out in the Greek cabinet and that the resignation of M. Ralli is probable.

LONDON, May 22.—The Athens correspondent of the London Telegraph says:

Small bodies of the Turkish right wing in Thessaly advanced to-day (Friday) toward the village of Divri. This is a flagrant breach of the armistice. The Turks have also pillaged the estate of the heirs of Photiades Pasha, late Christian governor of Crete, near Sofalis, taking away 35 loads of furniture, burning dwellings, violating women and committing many other acts of pillage and outrage.

CONFESSES THEFT.

The State National Bank of Logansport, Ind., Robbed of $600,000—President Johnson Embezzles and Misappropriates the Bank's Funds to a Large Amount.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., May 22.—Developments in the State national bank failure make it certain that a most stupendous swindle has been perpetrated. President Johnson has admitted that he is guilty of forgery, embezzlement and misappropriation of the funds of the bank to the extent of over $300,000, and later developments show conclusively that not only has he stolen the funds of the bank, but he has also abused the confidence of depositors to the extent of almost $500,000 more, making his probable defalcations $600,000 in the aggregate.

In the presence of National Bank Examiner George R. Caldwell and a part of the directors of the bank Mr. Johnson made a confession of his peculations from the bank, and since the examiner has taken charge and is endeavoring to straighten out the affairs, other matters have come to light regarding President Johnson's private operations.

He has obtained loans on all his personal security which will aggregate $600,000 or more, which shows the confidence and esteem in which he was held by the people. The personal paper is held mostly by farmers over the country, and is generally unsecured.

Examiner Caldwell Friday afternoon filed affidavit and information before United States Commissioner G. W. Funk, charging Johnson with embezzlement, misappropriation of funds and with intention to deceive and defraud the bank and the bank examiner. The paper is in the hands of United States Commissioner George W. Funk, and will be served as soon as a United States deputy marshal can be secured, probably not before Saturday morning.

He will be taken before the commissioner and given a preliminary hearing. His attorneys say he will waive preliminary hearing, and bond will be fixed, failing to give which Mr. Johnson will be taken to Indianapolis and held to await the action of the federal grand jury. United States Marshal Kercheval and United States District Attorney A. L. Wishard have been telegraphed, and will be here in the morning to take charge of the prisoner. Mr. Johnson is under surveillance at his home.

Forgery is also charged to President Johnson, and the examiner thinks that the amount will run up to $301,000.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Resigns.

MADRID, May 22.—The duke of Tetuan, minister of foreign affairs, has resigned as a result of the incident in the senate Friday, when he boxed the ears of Senator Gomas. Senor Canovas, the premier, will take the portfolio ad interim. The liberal senators have decided to attend no more sessions of the senate until full satisfaction has been accorded to Senator Comas and the liberal party by the duke of Tetuan. The duke of Tetuan and Senator Comas have selected seconds as a preliminary to a duel.

Bank to Retire From Business.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Announcement was made Friday that the Third national bank had decided to retire from business and trans er its accounts to the National City bank.

Steamer Florida Sunk in Collision.

CHICAGO, May 22.—During a dense fog the steamer Florida of the Lackawana line was sunk by collision with the steamer G. W. Roby in lake Huron off Middle island Thursday afternoon. The crew of the Florida was taken to Port Huron. A private dispatch from Sault Ste Marie, Mich., corroborates the news of the loss of the Lackawana steamer Florida on lake Huron. The captain of the steamer Glidden which arrived at the Soo Friday morning reports having passed the pilot house and other wreckage from the Florida off Middle island at 5 o'clock Thursday evening.

THE SENATE

Passes the Morgan Cuban Resolutions, Yeas 41, Nays 14.

It Is Thought the Passage of the Resolutions Will Embarrass the President's Negotiations for the Independence of Cuba—House May Not Pass It.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—In the senate Thursday the motion of Mr. Hale to refer the Morgan Cuban resolutions to the foreign relations committee was defeated by the following vote:

Yeas—Allison, Burrows, Caffrey, Davis, Fairbanks, Gear, Hale, Hanna, Hansbrough, Hawley, Hoar, McBride, Perkins, Shoup, Spooner, Wellington, Wetmore, White, Wilson—19.

Nays—Bacon, Baker, Bate, Berry, Butler, Cannon, Carter, Chandler, Chilton, Clark, Cockrell, Daniel, Gallinger, Harris (Kas.), Heitfeld, Jones (Ark.), Kyle, Mantle, Mason, Mills, Morgan, Pascoe, Pettigrew, Pettus, Pritchard, Rawlins, Roach, Stewart, Thurston, Tillman, Turner, Turpie, Walthall, Warren—34.

Mr. Fairbanks (rep., Ind.) then took the floor to deliver a set speech on the Morgan resolution.

The Fairbanks amendment for intervention by this government for Cuban independence, and tendering the good offices of this government to that end, was tabled—35 to 15.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The senate late Thursday afternoon passed the Morgan Cuban resolutions by a vote of 41 to 14. The detailed vote was as follows:

Yeas—Bacon, Baker, Bate, Berry, Butler, Carter, Chandler, Chilton, Clark, Clay, Cockerell, Cullom, Davis, Deboe, Foraker, Gallinger, Gorman, Hansbrough, Harris (Kas.), Heitfeld, Jones (Ark.), Kenney, Lindsay, McBride, Mantel, Mason, Mills, Morgan, Nelson, Pasco, Pettigrew, Pettus, Pritchard, Rawlins, Shoup, Stewart, Thurston, Tillman, Turner, Turpie, Walthall—41.

Nays—Allison, Burrows, Caffery, Fairbanks, Gear, Hale, Hanna, Hawley, Hoar, Spooner, Wellington, Wetmore, White, Wilson—14.

When the presiding officer announced the passage of the resolution the pent-up feeling of the spectators found expression in a noisy and long-continued demonstration. Mr. Chandler, who was in the chair, pounded his gavel and Mr. Hawley, springing to his feet, exclaimed, "I protest against the mob."

A moment later the senate went into executive session and at 5:40 adjourned until Monday.

President McKinley is not likely to be called upon to take action upon the Cuban resolution passed by the senate Thursday for some time and perhaps not at all. The resolution would not be sent to him for his approval until it had been adopted by the house, and whether the house takes it up must be decided hereafter. It is known that Mr. McKinley desires the postponement of final congressional action on the Cuban question until the report of Mr. Calhoun, who is on the island to investigate conditions there, has been made.

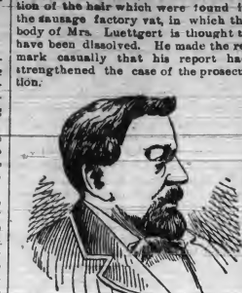
Mr. Hitt, the republican leader in the house said guardedly in the debate Thursday that the adoption of the Morgan resolution at this time might embarrass negotiations which the president has in mind to secure the independence of Cuba, and although Mr. Hitt expressly disclaimed that he spoke by authority, it was well known that he had been in consultation with the president on Cuban affairs and his utterance was taken as a reflection of the wish of the executive. The senate resolution can be brought before the house only by a special rule and Speaker Reed is known to be opposed to its adoption at this time.

There may be much pressure brought to bear by the republicans who think early action on the Cuban question advisable to have the resolution adopted by the house, but so long as the leaders consider that it may embarrass President McKinley's plans, it is likely to lie on the table.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Speaker Reed ruled the house Thursday morning with an iron hand and despite the efforts of Messrs. Bailey, Simpson and others, refused to listen to any motion except that made by Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania, from the committee on rules to pass the senate Cuban relief resolutions. Mr. Reed has shown his power before, but never until Thursday did he exercise it so strongly or refuse even a hearing to the leader of the minority. Backed by the republican majority, with the single exception of Colson of Kentucky, the speaker carried his plans through, refusing to allow Mr. Bailey even to present a minority report on the Cuban resolution. In vain did young Mr. Bailey protest and appeal, and even Jerry Simpson's endeavor to filibuster was like chaff before the wind. Mr. Reed was determined that the house should consider the relief resolution only, and by the aid of the party he succeeded. There was a large crowd gathered in the galleries in anticipation of a big day in the house and what was more to the point, there was a quorum on the republican side, and seeing this, Mr. Reed did not falter. The resolution of the committee on rules to take up the senate resolution appropriating $50,000 for the relief of Americans in Cuba and debate it for two hours, was adopted, and after the debate it was passed by the house.

Strikers Go Back to Work.

NEWARK, N. J., May 21.—The 400 plumbers and steamfitters who have been on strike since May 1 for an eight-hour day at the same rate of wages paid for nine hours' work, have surrendered and will return to work under the old schedule. The masons, carpenters, tinsmiths and lathers have all been granted the eight-hour day.

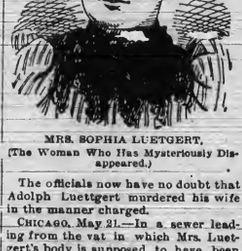


Volunteers From America.

LONDON, May 21.—A dispatch to the Standard from Athens says that 500 Greek volunteers from America arrived there Thursday.

ALL DOUBTS

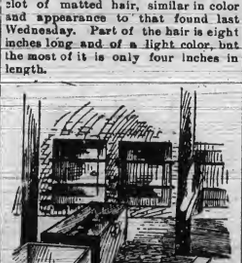
Removed From the Minds of the Chicago Officials in Regard to the Murder of the Wealthy Sausage Maker's Wife.



CHICAGO, May 22.—Prof. De La Fontaine, the chemist, has completed his analysis of the fluid, and his examination of the hair which were found in the sausage factory vat, in which the body of Mrs. Luettgert is thought to have been dissolved. He made the remark casually that his report had strengthened the case of the prosecution.

ADOLPH L. LUETGERT,
(The Man Who Is Said to Have Killed His Wife.)

Prof. De La Fontaine pronounced the hair unmistakably human and said the fluid given him for analysis proved beyond question that flesh had been boiled in the vat.



An important find was made Thursday in the vat where the rings were found. Between the [illegible] was found a part of a set of false teeth. It is known that Mrs. Luettgert had an upper set of false teeth.

MRS. SOPHIA LUETGERT,
(The Woman Who Has Mysteriously Disappeared.)

The officials now have no doubt that Adolph Luettgert murdered his wife in the manner charged.

CHICAGO, May 21.—In a sewer leading from the vat in which Mrs. Luettgert's body is supposed to have been destroyed the police Friday found a clot of matted hair, similar in color and appearance to that found last Wednesday. Part of the hair is eight inches long and of a light color, but the most of it is only four inches in length.

IN THE SAUSAGE FACTORY.
X Denotes the Vat in Which the Rings Were Found.)

Dr. Carl Klein, Mrs. Luettgert's dentist, reported that he was unable to identify the porcelain tooth found Thursday by the police. If the plate, which he says would withstand the action of acid, is discovered Dr. Klein will be able to say whether it is the one he made for Mrs. Luettgert.

A ROBBER.

Who Attempted to Hold Up An Electric Car, Shot Dead—Passengers Wounded.

TACOMA, Wash., May 22.—A single robber Friday afternoon held up and attempted to rob a car on the Steilacoom electric line. As he got on the platform he pulled a mask down over his face, produced a revolver and ordered Superintendent Dame of the motor line, and Motorman Wellman, to a compartment in the rear of the car. They complied with alacrity. The robber then ordered the passengers to hold up their hands and commenced relieving them of their valuables. Superintendent Dame drew his gun and fired through the compartment door at the robber, who returned the fire. The robber dropped dead with bullets through his lungs and heart. Dame was shot in the arm and Jewett Smith, a passenger, received a ball in the leg.

Death of Father Kneipp.

LONDON, May 22.—A dispatch to the Daily Chronicle from Paris says that Father Sebastian Kneipp, well known throughout the world because of his water cure, is dead.

Money for Suffering Americans.

HAVANA, May 22.—An installment of the $50,000 appropriated by congress for the relief of suffering Americans in Cuba has been received by Consul General Lee per treasury cable transfer, and is now on deposit with J. Lawton Childs & Co., the local American banking house.

Popocatapetl Bonded.

MEXICO CITY, May 22.—The volcano Popocatapetl has been bonded to an American syndicate, the object being to exploit its sulphur, bring ice and wood to this city and carry tourists up to the crater.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—SENATE—Cuba engrossed the attention of the senate Monday. First came the question of relief to destitute and starving Americans in Cuba, and as two bolders Mr. Morgan's resolution caused spirited debate. The first question was presented in the president's message as soon as the session opened. Immediately following its reading Mr. Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, presented a favorable report on a joint resolution originally introduced by Mr. Gallinger appropriating $50,000 for relief of American citizens in Cuba. Promptly at 2 o'clock the Morgan Cuban resolution was taken up and debated at length, but no vote was taken. During the session bills were passed as follows: Appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Salt Lake City, Utah; conferring jurisdiction on the court of claims in the case of book agents of the M. E. church south against the United States; appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Abilene, Tex., and e like amount for Aberdeen, N. D.

HOUSE—The house confronted the Cuban question Monday, made a party issue of it, and adjourned without taking any action. President McKinley's message was received without demonstration, and on its basis Mr. Hitt asked unanimous consent for consideration of a bill in response to the president's request. Mr. Bailey, of Texas, asked for consent to consider in connection with the bill amendment embodying Senator Morgan's resolution for recognition of the Cubans as belligerents. Mr. Dingley would not consent to consider the amendment nor Mr. Bailey to consider the bill without the amendment, so, for the time, the question was side-tracked. Then the house devoted two hours to debate on the conference report on the feature of the Indian appropriation bill opening to settlement the Gilsonite lands on the Uncompahgre Indian reservation in Utah, refused to accept the compromise agreed on by the conferees and asked for another conference with the senate on the bill. In the meantime the senate resolution, practically identical with Mr. Hitt's bill, had been sent to the house and Mr. Hitt asked unanimous consent for its consideration. The deadlock between Mr. Dingley and Mr. Bailey was re-enacted and while Mr. Bailey was endeavoring to get consent for the consideration of the two Cuban propositions together Mr. Dingley put in a motion to adjourn. This motion was carried by a vote of 90 to 69, 13 answering present. Under the rule for bi-weekly sessions recently adopted the adjournment carries the question over to Thursday.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—SENATE—The Cuban question occupied the attention most of the day on Tuesday. It drew large crowds to the galleries and brought two notable speeches, one by Mr. Mason, of Illinois, in favor of the Morgan resolution, and the other by Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, in opposition to it. The Illinois senator pictured in fervid terms the distress in Cuba, dwelling particularly on the starving condition of 500 United States citizens, as reported by the president, and called upon the senate to throw off its lethargy and pass the Morgan resolution. During the morning hour several bills were passed, among them the following: Appropriating $10,000 for a quarantine station at Astoria, Ore.; authorizing a bridge across the Red River of the North, at Fargo, N. D. The conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was presented and agreed to. At 4:40 the senate adjourned.

HOUSE—Not in session.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—SENATE—Another stirring debate on Cuba occupied the senate. It was of the give and take order, with sharp parliamentary fencing. The main speeches of the day were made by Senators Forsker (O.), Cannon (Utah), Lindsay (Ky.) and Hoar (Mass.). It was the first speech of any length made by Mr. Forsker since he entered the senate, and in addition to this the Ohio senator is one of the ablest debaters in the senate. He is one of the members of the sub-committee of the committee on foreign relations. He spoke in favor of a reference of the resolution to the committee, but on the general question declared his purpose of supporting the resolution recognizing Cuban belligerency when it should be reported by the committee. Mr. Cannon was bitter in his denunciation of Spanish atrocity, characterized the captain general of Cuba as "that mad dog Weyler." Mr. Lindsay declared if the information furnished by United States consuls was so shocking as to subject them to danger of assassination if their names were disclosed, it was time to send warships to Cuba to examine into all diplomatic relations with that country. No action on the resolution was taken, but Mr. Morgan said he hoped to secure a vote Thursday on Mr. Hale's motion to refer. He declared to do this he said, in order that the Cuban reso ution might not antagonize the tariff bill on Monday.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—SENATE—The long and exciting debate on the joint resolution, recognizing a state of war in Cuba and declaring that serial neutrality shall be maintained by the United States, passed the senate by the decisive vote of 41 to 14 at o late hour Thursday afternoon. The announcement of the vote was received with tumultuous applause and drew from Senator Hawley an emphatic protest against "mob demonstration." The resolution as passed is as follows: "Resolved, etc., that a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba, and that the United States of America shall maintain a strict neutrality between the contending powers, according to each all the rights of belligerents in the ports and territory of the United States." Adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE—Cuban affairs furnished the house with a day of bitter partisan debate. The resolution appropriating $50,000 for the relief of American citizens was adopted without a dissenting vote, but the democrats endeavored to forge consideration also of the Morgan resolution for recognition of the belligerency of the insurgents. They accused the republicans of endeavoring to evade this issue but the dominant party through its spokesman, Mr. Hitt, made the important announcement that the republicans decided not to embarrass negotiations which were being projected by President McKinley to secure the independence. The house resolution, the third conference report on the opening of the Utah Gilsonite lands, and instructed its conferees to support a plan proposed by Mr. Lacey (Iowa) by which the secretary of the interior would lease the lands, the government receiving a royalty and provisions against a monopoly being made.

World's Record for Four Miles.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 21.—Lucretia Borgia, brown colt, four years old, by Imp. Brutus out of Ledette, bred and owned by Wm. Boots & Son, of San Jose, now holds the world's record for four miles. Lucretia Borgia covered the distance Thursday in the wonderful time of 7:11 and that too in the face of a strong wind blowing down the back stretch. The record for four miles against time has stood for 21 years, having been made by Ten Broeck, the celebrated distance horse, on September 27, 1876, at Louisville, Ky.

Natural Gas Explosion.

BRADFORD, Pa., May 21.—Near Sugar Grove, Warren county, a test well drilled for oil was being shot with a torpedo. There was no flow of oil, but natural gas in great quantities gushed from the casing. A speculator wanted to light a cigar and the flame from his match ignited the gas. There was a terrific explosion which scattered the spectators in all directions.

Postmaster Dalton, Dr. Kelly, L. W. King, and two persons named King were frightfully burned about the head, face and hands. Several others were slightly burned.

Cascarets stimulate liver, kidneys and bowels. Never sicken, weaken or gripe, 10c.

When a man is trying to experiment he does not want to be asked about it.

If stiff and sore, St. Jacobs Oil will cure you. Won't lose a day. The cure is sure.

Some men do business as they trade horses.—Atchison Globe.

When bilious or costive eat a Cascaret, candy cathartic, cure guaranteed. 10c, 25c.

The weakness of others increases our confidence in ourselves.—N. Y. Weekly.

Knocked out by lumbago? It's because you don't cure it with St. Jacobs Oil.

When some folks do not know what to say they quote Latin.

Can't Sleep, Because the nerves are weak and easily exhausted and the body is in a feverish and unhealthy condition. Nerves are fed and nourished by pure, rich blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives sweet, refreshing sleep because it purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the system.

Why?

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists, $1, six for $5. Get only Hood's.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

FULL of HEALTH

Every ingredient in Hires Rootbeer is health giving. The blood is improved, the nerves soothed, the stomach benefited by this delicious beverage.

HIRES Rootbeer

Quenches the thirst, tickles the palate; full of snap, sparkle and effervescence. A temperance drink for everybody.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia.
A package makes five gallons.

$25.00 Chicago to California

And $23.00 from ST. LOUIS, is the rate that will be made by the

Santa Fe Route

For the Christian Endeavor Convention in July. It will also apply to intermediate points, and in the reverse direction.

Have you wished to visit the SOUTHWEST? Its remarkable health resorts; the irrigated farms and orchards; the new mining camps now attracting a multitude of gold-seekers; the towering Rockies; the stupendous chasm of the Grand Canon of the Colorado River; the far-famed mesas of perpetual sun and valley on that western shore where the blue Pacific rolls? Then take this opportunity. You may learn all about it by addressing any agent of the Santa Fe Route, or the undersigned.

W. J. BLACK, G. P. A., A. T. & S. F. Ry. Room 1644 St. Nicholas Bldg., Topeka, Kan.

C. A. HIGGINS, L. P. A., A. T. & S. F. Ry. Room 1644 St. Nicholas Bldg., Chicago.

EARN A BICYCLE

We will give a responsible agent in each town a bicycle for distributing catalogues and introducing our goods. Write at once for our special offer.

L. B. READ CYCLE CO., Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

HARTSHORN'S SELF-ACTING SHADE ROLLERS

NOTICE MARK THE LABEL ON THE GENUINE HARTSHORN

Stewart Hartshorn

$75 $50 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE

Western Wheel Works MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS

CATALOGUE FREE

HAY PRESSES!

IMPROVED HUNTER FULL CIRCLE "A" Steel and Wooden (steel lined) stirrups on trial 12 reliable parties. FULLY GUARANTEED. WRITE FOR CATALOGUE AND PRICES.

M. B. LEWIS, Lessee.

Meridian Machine Shops, Box K MERIDIAN, MISS.

SILOS

HOW TO BUILD ASK WILLIAMS MFG. CO., KALAMAZOO, MICH.

PENSIONS for SOLDIERS and WIDOWS. Fee for increase $2. Rejected claims prepared. All laws free. 31 yrs. practice. Success or no fee. L. W. Reichwald & Sons, Cincinnati, O., and Washington, D.C.

Weeks Scale Works, HAY, COAL, STOCK, GRAIN, AND COTTON SCALES. BUFFALO, N. Y.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habit cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

OH, YES; WE USE IT. YUCATAN.

A. N. K.—E 1668

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

AVOID INTOXICANTS.

Save Your Money Carefully and Become a Capitalist.

Billions of Dollars Wasted Wages Hardly Earned Thrown Carelessly Into a Bag With Holes—Dr. Talmage's Timely Sermon to Working men.

The text of Dr. Talmage's sermon Sunday was: Haggai i., 6: "He that earneth wages, earneth wages to put it into a bag with holes."

In Persia, under the reign of Darius Hystaspes, the people did not prosper. They made money, but did not keep it. They were like people who have a sack in which they put money, not knowing that the sack is torn or eaten by moths, or in some way made incapable of holding valuables. As fast as the coin was put in one end of the sack it dropped out of the other. It made no difference how much wages they got, for they lost them. "He that earneth wages, earneth wages to put into a bag with holes."

What has become of the billions and billions of dollars in this country paid to the working classes? Some of these moneys have gone for house rent, or the purchase of homesteads, or wardrobes, or family expenses, or the necessaries of life, or the humble comforts in old age. What has become of other billions? Wasted in foolish outlay. Wasted at the gaming table. Wasted in intoxicants. Put into a bag with a hundred holes.

Gather up the money that the working classes have spent for drink during the last 30 years, and I will build for every workingman a house and lay out for him a garden, and clothe his sons in broadcloth, and his daughters in silks, and place at his front door a prancing span of sorrels or bays, and secure him a policy of life insurance, so that the present home may be well maintained after he is dead. The most persistent, most overpowering enemy of the working classes is intoxicating liquor. It is the anarchist of the centuries, and has boycotted, and is now boycotting, the body and mind and soul of American labor. It is to it a worse foe than monopoly and worse than associated capital.

It annually swindles industry out of a large percentage of its earnings. It holds out its blazing solicitations to the mechanic or operative on his way to work, and at the noon spell, and on his way home at eventide; on Saturday, when the wages are paid, it snatches a large part of money that might come into the family, and sacrifices it among the saloon keepers. Stand the saloon keepers of this country side by side, and it is carefully estimated they would reach from New York to Chicago. "Forward march," says the drink power, "and take possession of the American nation!"

The drink business is pouring its vitriolic and damnable liquids down the throats of hundreds of thousands of laborers, and while the ordinary strikes are ruinous both to employers and employes, I proclaim a strike universal against strong drink, which, if kept up, will be the relief of the working classes and the salvation of the nation. I will undertake to say that there is not a healthy laborer in the United States who, within the next ten years, if he will refuse all intoxicating beverage and be saving, may not become a capitalist on a small scale. Our country in a year spends $1,500,000,000 for drink. Of course the working classes do a great deal of this expenditure. Careful statistics show that the wage-earning classes of Great Britain expend in liquors £100,000,000 or $500,000,000 a year. Sit down and calculate, O workingmen! how much you have expended, and realize that instead of answering the beck of other people you might have been your own capitalist. When you deplete a workingman's physical energy you depiete his capital. The stimulated workman gives out before the unstimulated workman. My father said: "I became a temperance man in early life, because I noticed in the harvest field that, though I was physically weaker than other workmen, I could hold out longer than they. They took stimulants; I took none." A brickmaker in England gives his experience in regard to this matter among men in his employ. He says, after investigation: "The beer drinker who made the fewest bricks made 679,000, and the abstainer made the fewest bricks 740,000. The difference in behalf of the abstainer over the indulger, 61,000."

When an army goes out to the battle the soldier who has water or coffee in his canteen marches easier and fights better than the soldier who has whisky in his canteen. Drink helps a man to fight when he has only one contestant, and that at the street corner. But when he goes forth to maintain some great battle for God and his country he wants no drink about him. When the Russians go to war a corporal passes along the line and smells the breath of every soldier.

If there be in his breath a taint of intoxicating liquor the man is sent back to the barracks. Why? He can not endure fatigue. All our young men know this. When they are preparing for a regatta, or a ball club, or for an athletic wrestling, they abstain. Our working people will be wiser after awhile, and the money they fling away on hurtful indulgences they will put into co-operative association, and so become capitalists. If the workingman put dow his wages, and then take his expenses and spread them out so they will just equal, he is not wise. I know workingmen who are in a perfect fidget until they get rid of their last dollar.

The following circumstances came under our observation: A young man worked hard to earn his $600 or $700 yearly. Marriage day came. The bride had inherited $500 from her grandfather. She spent every dollar of it on the wedding dress. Then they rented two rooms in a third story. Then the young man took extra evening employment, almost exhausted with the day's work, yet took evening employment. It almost extinguished his eyesight. Why did he add evening employment to the day employment? To get money. Why did he want to get money? To lay up something for a rainy day? No. To get his life insured, so that in case of his death his wife would not be a beggar? No. He put the extra evening work to the day work that he might get the $160 to get his wife a sealskin coat? The sister of the bride heard of this achievement, and was not to be eclipsed. She was very poor, and she set up working nearly all the night for a great while until she bought a sealskin coat. I have not heard of the result on that street. The street was full of those who are on small incomes, but I suppose the contagion spread, and that everybody had a sealskin coat, and that the people came out and cried, practically, not literally: "Though the Heavens fall, we must have a sealskin coat!"

I was out west, and a minister of the gospel told me, in Iowa, that his church and the neighborhood had been impoverished by the fact that they put mortgages on their farms in order to send their families to the Philadelphia centennial. It was not respectable not to go to the centuniial. Between such evils and pauperism there is a very short step. The vast majority of children in your alms houses are there because their parents are drunken, lazy or recklessly improvident.

I have no sympathy for skinflint saving, but I plead for Christian prudence. You say it is impossible now to lay up anything for a rainy day. I know it, but we are at the day-back of national prosperity. Some people think it to mean to turn the gas low when they are out of the parlor. They feel embarrassed if the door bell rings before they have the hall lighted. They apologize for the plain meal, if you surprise them at the table. Well, it is mean if it is only to pile up a miserly hoard. But if it be to educate your children, if it be to give more help to your wife when she does not feel strong, if it be to keep your funeral days from being horrible beyond all endurance, because it is to be the disruption and the annihilation of the domestic circle—if it be for that, then it is magnificent.

There are those who are kept in poverty because of their own fault. They might have been well off, but they smoked or chewed up their earnings, or they lived beyond their means, while others on the same wages and on the same salaries went on to competency. I know a man who is all the time complaining of his poverty and crying out against rich men, while he himself keeps two dogs, and chews and smokes and is full of the chin with whisky and beer. Wilkins Micawber said to David Copperfield, "Copperfield, my boy, one pound income, expenses 20 shillings and sixpences; result, misery. But Copperfield, my boy, one pound income, expenses 19 shillings and sixpences; result happiness." But, Oh, working man, take your morning dram, and your noon dram, and your evening dram, and spend everything you have over for tobacco and excursions, and you insure poverty for yourself and your children forever.

If by some generous fiat of the capitalists of the country or by a new law of the government of the United States, 5 per cent., or 50 per cent., or 100 per cent were added to the wages of the working classes of America it would be no advantage to hundreds of thousands of them unless they stopped strong drink. Aye, until they quit that evil habit, the more money, the more ruin, the more wages, the more holes in the bag.

My plea is to those working people who are in the discipleship to the whisky bottle, the beer jug and the wine flask. And what I say to them will not be more appropriate to the working classes than to the business classes, and the literary classes, and to the professional classes, and all classes, and not to the people of one age more than of all ages. Take one good square look at the suffering of the man whom strong drink has enthralled, and remember that toward that goal multitudes are running. The disciple of alcoholism suffers a loss of self-respect. Just as soon as a man wakes up and finds that he is the captive of strong drink, he feels demeaned. I do not care how reckless he acts. He may say, "I don't care;" he does care. He can not look a pure man in the eye unless it is with positive force of resolution. Three-fourths of his nature is destroyed; his self-respect is gone; he says things he would not otherwise say; he does things he would not otherwise do. When a man is nine-tenths gone with strong drink the first thing he wants to do is to persuade you that he can stop any time he wants to. He can not. The Philistines have bound him hand and foot, and shorn his locks, and put out his eyes, and are making him grind in the mill of a great horror. He can not stop. I will prove it. He knows that his course is bringing ruin upon himself. He loves himself. If he could stop he would. He can not. Perhaps he could three months or a year ago, not now. Just ask him to stop for a month. He can not; he knows he can not, so he does not try.

I had a friend who was for 15 years going down under this evil habit. He had large means. He had given thousands of dollars to Bible societies and reformatory institutions of all sorts. He was very genial, very generous, and very lovable, and whenever he talked about this evil habit he would say, "I can stop any time." But he kept going on, going on, down, down, down. His family would say, "I wish you would stop." "Why," he would reply, "I can stop any time if I want to." He is dead now. What killed him? Drink! Drink! And yet among his last utterances was, "I can stop at any time." He did not stop it. Oh, he could not stop it. Oh, there is a power in inebriation beyond which if a man goes he can not stop!

One of these victims said to a Christian man, "Sir, if I were told that I couldn't get a drink until to-morrow night unless I had all my fingers taken off, I would say, 'Bring the hatchet and cut them off now.'" I have a dear friend in Philadelphia whose nephew came to him one day, and when he was exhorted about his evil habit said, "Uncle, I can't give it up. If there stood a cannon and it was loaded, and a glass of wine were set on the mouth of that cannon, and I knew that you would fire it off just as I came up and took the glass, I would start, for I must have it." Oh, it is a sad thing for a man to wake up in this life and feel that he is a captive! He says, "I could have got rid of this once, but I can't now. I might have lived an honorable life and died a Christian death; but there is no hope for me now; there is no escape for me. Dead, but not buried. I am a walking corpse. I am an apparition of what I once was. I am a caged immoral beating against the wires of my cage in this direction; beating against the cage until there is blood on the wires and blood on my soul, yet not able to get out. Destroyed without remedy!"

I go on and say that the disciple of rum suffers from the loss of health. The older men may remember that some years ago Dr. Sewell went through this country and electrified the people by his lectures, in which he showed the effects of alcoholism on the human stomach. He had seven or eight diagrams by which he showed the devastation of strong drink upon the physical system. There were thousands of people who turned back from that ulcerous sketch, swearing eternal abstinence from everything that could intoxicate.

God only knows what the drunkard suffers. Pain flies on every nerve, and travels every muscle, and gnaws every bone, and burns with every flame, and stings with every poison, and pulls at him with every torture. What reptiles crawl over his sleeping limbs! What fiends stand by his midnight pillow! What groans tear his ear! What horrors shiver through his soul! Talk of the rack, talk of the inquision, talk of the funeral pyre, talk of the crushing Juggernaut—he feels them all at once. Have you ever been in the ward of the hospital where these inebriates are dying, the stench of their wounds driving back the attendants, their voices sounding through the night? The keeper comes up and says, "Hush, now be still! Stop making all this noise!" But it is effectual only for a moment, for as soon as the keeper is gone they begin again: "Oh, God! Oh, God! Help! Help! Drink! Give me drink! Help! Take them off me! Take them off me! Oh, God!" And then they shriek, and they rave, and they pluck out their hair by handfuls, and bite their nails into the quick, and then they groan, and then they shriek, and they blaspheme, and they ask the keepers to kill them. "Stab me! Smother me! Strangle me! Take the devils off me!" Oh, it is no fancy sketch! That thing is going on now all up and down the land, and I tell you further that this is going to be the death that some of you will die. I know it. I see it coming.

Again, the inebrinte suffers through the loss of home. I do not care how much he loves his wife and children, if this passion for strong drink has mastered him he will do the most outrageous things; and, if he could not get drink in any other way, he would sell his family into eternal bondage. How many homes have been broken up in that way no one but God knows. Oh, is there anything that will so destroy a man for this life, and damn him for the life that is to come! Do not tell me that a man can be happy when he knows that he is breaking his wife's heart and clothing his children with rags. Why, there are on the ronds and streets of this land today little children barefooted, unwashed and unkempt—want on every patch of their faded dress and on every wrinkle of their prematurely old countenances, who would have been in churches to-day, and as well dressed as you are, but for the fact that rum destroyed their parents and drove them into the grave. Oh, rum, thou foe of God, thou despoiler of home, thou recruiting officer of the pit, I hate thee.

But my subject takes a deeper tone, and that is, that the unfortunate of whom I speak differs from the loss of the soul. The Bible intimates that in the future world, if we are unforgiven here, our bad passions and appetites, unrestrained, will go along with us and make our torment there. So that, I suppose, when an inebriate wakes up in that world he will feel an infinite thirst consuming him. Now, down in this world, although he may have been very poor, he could beg or he could steal five cents with which to get that which would slake his thirst for a little while; but in eternity where is the rum to come from?

Oh, the deep, exhausting, exasperating, everlasting thirst of the drunkard in hell! Why, if a fiend came up to earth for some infernal work in a gronshop, and should go back taking on its wing just one drop of that for which the inebriate in the lost world longs, what excitement would it make there! Put that one drop from off the fiend's wing on the tip of the tongue of the destroyed inebriate, let the liquid brightness just touch it; let the drop be very small, if it only have in it the smack of alcoholic drink; let that drop just touch the lost inebriate in the lost world, and he would spring to his feet and cry, "That is rum, that is rum!" And it would wake up the echoes of the damned—"Give me rum! Give me rum! Give me rum!" In the future world I do not believe that it will be the absence of God that will make the drunkard's sorrow. I do not believe that it will be the absence of light, I do not believe that it will be the absence of holiness, I think it will be the absence of rum. Oh, "look not upon this wine when it is red, when it moveth itself aright in the cup, for at the last it biteth like a serpent and it stingeth like an adder."

HENRY DOEL is the oldest actor in the world. He acted for 65 years, and will be 93 on his next birthday. He saw Napoleon on the quarter deck of the Bellerophon in Plymouth sound when he was a child.

FATAL FIRE.

Two Persons Are Dead and Three Seriously Injured.

Several Others Narrowly Escaped Death in the Panic That Ensued.

He Thought the Fire Started From the Carelessness of a Belated Tenant in Tossing the Self Boring Match Away—Pecuniary Loss Small.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Two persons were killed and three seriously injured in a fire which started shortly after 4 o'clock Sunday morning in the four story and basement brown-stone building at 149 west 33d street. Several persons narrowly escaped death. The dead are: Mrs. C. Therine Mossway, 38 years, died at hospital from burns and suffocation; Beatrice Mossway, 4-year-old, daughter of the former, suffocated in her room. The injured: Mrs. Mary C., or Carrie Bowles, boarding house keeper at 28 Pellis street, Boston, dangerously hurt by jumping from a window on the third floor; Miss MacDonald, slightly burned on face; F. S. Phapes, slightly burned on face.

The building was occupied for both business and dwelling purposes. In the basement is an all-night eating house. The Weser Piano Co., occupy the first floor, and the upper part of the building is a furnished room establishment conducted by Mrs. Curtis. Before the firemen reached the scene, the building was filled with flames. The hallways from the first floor to the roof was in flames and escape by the front was cut off. Panic seized the inmates of the house. While a tenant named La Mont was crawling along the sill to reach the adjoining house, the body of a woman struck a large sign which hung on the outside of the building, and to which he clung for support. The sign was torn from its fastenings and fell with a crash to the street. The woman was Mrs. Bowles, who had precipitated herself from the third floor to the street below, when she found that egress from the house by way of the stairs was checked by the flames. She was picked up and taken to a hospital. La Mont did not fail to the street.

On the top floor the wildest sort of panic had seized the tenants, among whom were Mrs. Mossway and her daughter. Most of the tenants, including Miss MacDonald and Mr. Phaps, had escaped to the roof.

Mrs. Mossway, who lost her life, was sleeping with her little daughter, when she was aroused by the smoke. She ran into the hall and gave the alarm and then went back after her daughter. When she started to return the smoke and flames drove her again to her room. She attempted to open the window, but it did not yield readily and she broke the glass with her hands. The window would not open, and even if it had, there would have been little chance for her, as it is protected on the outside by iron bars. When the fireman searched the house they found the little girl dead in bed, the mother lying on the floor blistered by heat and almost dead from suffocation. She was removed to a hospital, where she died three hours later.

Late Sunday afternoon Mrs. Bowles recovered consciousness at the hospital, but no hopes are entertained of her ultimate recovery. She arrived in the city three days ago from Boston on a shopping tour. She is about 35 years old.

The origin of the fire is not known, but it is believed that a belated tenant lit a match in the hallway to see his way and carelessly tossed the still burning match away. The fire started at the foot of the stairs and the light wail acted as a flue to carry the flames to the roof instantly. The damage was about $2,000.

A New Canadian Line.

OTTAWA, May 24.—Sir R. Cartwright announces that the contract entered into by the Dominion government with Peterson, Tait & Co. of Newcastle for a fast Atlantic line of steamers to run between Canada and Great Britain has been approved by the home authorities. The vessels are to be of the very finest patern and must make an average speed of 20 knots. For this service the Dominion government is to pay an annual subsidy of $500,000 and the imperial government $350,000. It is expected that the service will be begun in 1898.

No Credence Given Bryant's Story.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—Absolutely no credence is given by either police, public or press to the sworn statement of W. T. Bryant, of the Colorado Soldiers' home, in which he seeks to implicate Pastor Gibson in the murder of Blanche Lamont. It is supposed he is either demented or a crank with an abnormal thirst for notoriety. Gov. Budd is quoted as having said that he would not interfere until sufficient new testimony were adduced to warrant a court in giving the murderer a new trial or setting him free.

Spanish Opinion of the Morgan Resolutions.

MADRID, May 24.—The newspapers here consider the adoption by the United States senate of Senator Morgan's belligerency resolution to be a very grave step. They say it will tend to strengthen the premier, Senor Canovas del Castillio, respecting the proposed liberal attack on the ministry.

Father Kneipp is Not Dead.

WORISHOFFEN, Bavaria, May 24.—There is no truth in the report which originated in a dispatch from Paris to the Daily Chronicle of London Saturday, saying that Father Kneipp, famous throughout the world for his water cure, is dead. Father Kneipp is still alive and somewhat better.

Fatal Card Game.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 24.—A fight over a game of cards Sundays at Snowden, a mining town in this county, resulted in the murder of Albert Grier by George Douglass, both colored.

NEGOTIATIONS

For Peace May Be Made Between Turkey and Greece.

An Armistice of Seventeen Days Agreed to Between the Turkish and Greek Troops in Thessaly—Greians Decide to Act With the Admirals.

BERLIN, May 24.—A telegram received here from Constantinople Thursday afternoon says that the attempt of the Turkish commander in Epirus to treat with the Greeks for an armistice has resulted in failure, owing to the Greeks having ignored the flag of truce and to their having attempted Wednesday with two battalions of troops to make a fresh incursion into Turkish territory. The Greeks, it is further stated, also shelled the Turks' position.

In conclusion the Constantinople dispatch says the Turkish government disclaims all responsibility for what may follow.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 21.—At 6 p. m., Thursday, an armistice was also formally concluded Thursday, for 17 days, between the Turkish and Greek troops on the frontiers of Epirus.

ATHENS, May 21.—An armistice between the Turkish and Greek troops in Thessaly to extend over a period of 17 days, was formally concluded Thursday.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 21.—Although it is not definitely decided, it is thought the peace negotiations will be conducted between Turkey and Greece direct and that afterward, following the precedent of the treaty of St. Stephano, the terms will be submitted to a European conference, which will probably meet in Paris.

LONDON, May 21.—A special dispatch from Canea, Island of Crete, says that the Cretans have decided to co-operate with admirals commanding the fleets of the foreign powers in the work of organizing a government for the island.

LONDON, May 21.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says he learns on unquestionable authority that the powers have agreed upon the chief conditions of peace, namely indemnity to the amount of five millions of pounds guaranteed by a control of the Greek customs and the rectification of the frontier, details as to which have not yet been settled.

ATHENS, May 21.—M. Rallis, the premier, in the course of an interview Thursday said:

"The indemnity which Greece will pay to Turkey will be in proportion to the resources of Greece and her financial position. The cession of territory is out of the question. Greece can not accept a modification of the strategetic frontier which would render easy the raiding of Greek territory by armed bands and which would compel Greece to maintain a numerous army in order to prevent such incursions."

COURTHOUSE BURNED.

The Public Building at Beverly, Randolph County, W. Va., in Ashes.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 20.—A special to the Intelligencer from Elkins, W. Va., says:

Randolph county, the largest county in the state, is without a courthouse. The building, which was a large brick one, was completely ruined by fire Thursday afternoon. It was located at Beverly, seven miles south of this city. The janitor was burning up the garbage in the closets located in the basement, and saturated the refuse with four or five gallons of lamp oil, and touching a match to it left the building, and it was soon in flames.

All the official records of the county, which is over 100 hundred years old, are contained in the vaults, and the general impression is that they are not secure enough to resist the fierce and extremely hot flames. The building was a new one and of very fine material. The loss to the building and furniture will aggregate $50,000, with no insurance.

IN MEXICO.

The Passage of the Cuban Resolutions by the United States Senate Creates Great Interest.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 21.—The news of the passage of the Cuban belligerency resolutions by the United States senate created great interest here, where the anti-Spanish sentiment is still growing stronger and where the people resent the interference with the native press by the Spanish diplomatic representatives under its right to demand the suppression of newspaper attacks on Spain couched in violent language. The recognition of Cuban belligerency by the United States is likely to lead to similar recognition by the leading Latin-American countries except Chili. The pro-Cuban sentiment in Central America is very strong and the governments there are only awaiting the initiative of the United States.

Wind and Rain Storm at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21.—A severe wind and rain storm passed over this city at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. For a time the wind blew at the rate of a mile a minute. Lightning was severe and wrecked a large window in the north end of the capitol. No one was injured. A large number of roofs were lifted in different parts of the city. The most severe damage was done at the corner of Pratt and Illinois streets, where a horse and dog show was being given under a large tent. The tent was leveled and the hundreds of spectators were panic stricken.

New York Capitol Endangered by Fire.

NEW YORK, May 21.—A temporary roofing over the east approach to the capitol caught fire at 1 o'clock Thursday. A stiff east wind was blowing, and in five minutes the entire capitol was filled with stifling smoke. Great excitement was occasioned throughout the departments. The structure, which is burning, is directly in front of the private rooms of the judges of the court of appeals, which are filled with valuable law libraries and documents. The fire was put out with hand extinguishers, after a half hour's work without having done any damage to anything but the roofing and some scaffolding.

CONGRESSIONAL

A Forecast of Business to Be Transacted This Week.

Senator Aldrich Will Call Up the Tariff Bill in the Senate.

The Democratic Amendments Will Be Introduced by Senator Vest—The Morgan Cuban Resolution Will Not Be Acted Upon This Week.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—On Tuesday next, ten weeks and a day after the beginning of the session, the senate will take up the tariff bill, for the passage of which the session was especially called. The bill was to have been called up on Monday, but the death of Senator Earle, of South Carolina, will render necessary an adjournment for a day. Senator Aldrich will call up the bill, move its consideration and make a speech in its support. The democratic amendment striking out the internal revenue features of the bill will be introduced by Senator Vest.

After this the course of procedure is somewhat indefinite. The democrats are not clear as to whether they will permit the immediate taking up of the schedules or will demand an opportunity to make set speeches bearing upon the general policy of the bill. The prevailing opinion among the democratic leaders is against the policy of general speeches at the beginning of the discussion, but they will not attempt to restrain individual senators who may wish to be heard. There are some democratic senators who are disposed to discuss the general features of the bill and who incline to the opinion that the best time for such speeches is while the debate on the bill is young. Senator Vest does not expect to make a speech in representing the motion to strike out the revenue features, but the motion may lead to immediate debate, and in case exception is taken to it, the Missouri senator will be heard from. The silver republicans and populists will seek opportunity during the pendency of the bill to present some remarks of a political nature and some of them may be heard during the week. The general sentiment among straight republicans is adverse to the encouragement of any general discussion of the bill or long speeches on schedules, but no party policy has yet been decided upon. A caucus has been called for this purpose to be held Monday afternoon. There will undoubtedly be strong opposition to some of the schedules on the part of republican senators, and amendments will be firmly pressed. Some of these amendments will be offered to the chemical schedule, the first of the list, and they will probably be reached during the present week. Other features of the bill which republican senators will attack are those affecting the sugar and wool duties and taking hides from the free list. Senator Pettigrew's amendment against trusts is also certain to prove fruitful of much general debate when reached.

Senator Aldrich says he will not speak to exceed an hour on Tuesday. He will give, for the first time, the estimate of the republican members of the finance committee of the amount of revenue the bill will produce and will explain the committee's plan of action, giving the reasons for some of the more important amendments made. His statement is anticipated with interest.

In reply to a question, Mr. Aldrich, who will have charge of the bill on behalf of the republican side of the senate, said Sunday that when the bill was once taken up he would press consideration to the exclusion of all other business except the conference reports until it should be finally disposed of.

The conference report on the sundry civil appropriation bill probably will be considered some time during the week. The conference committee has practically agreed upon a compromise on the Forestry reservation provision, which they hope will prove satisfactory to all parties, but whether it will or not can only be determined when the report is presented to congress.

The Morgan resolution recognizing the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents, which passed the senate on Thursday, will not be acted upon by the house this week. That is the decision of the republican leaders. They have decided to block the resolution until the plans of the president, which are now maturing, are formulated. There will doubtless be a demand on the part of the minority for immediate action, but they are powerless to secure consideration unless the rules committee will report a special order. This the rules committee will not do. The majority will antagonize any attempt at consideration with a motion to adjourn until Thursday. On Thursday the conference report on the Indian or sundry civil bill may be ready. If one or the other is not read the house will adjourn until the following Monday.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—In the office of the assistant attorney general, Luther R. Smith, of Alabama, was Saturday reinstated as assistant attorney general. Salary $2,000 per annum.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—A telegram was received at the state department Saturday morning from Consul General Lee indicating that the number of Americans in need of relief in Cuba is much larger than was supposed at first. The consul general says that the number may reach 1,200. The consul at Matanzas reports 250 there and the consul at Sagua 450.

Mysterious Death at Brazil.

BRAZIL, May 24.—Harry Corbin, aged 22, son of a prominent farmer south of the city, was found dead in his father's woodshed. He had been absent from home only a short time when his body was discovered. The cause of his death is being investigated.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, May 26, 1897.

Advertising Rates:
One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
W. L. RIDDELL. - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Erlanger.

Capt. John Daniels and wife, Frank Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Dieckman, of Walnut Hills, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Morelli.

Mr Fred Eicholz, of this place, and Lizzie Kroeger, of Florence, were married by Father Kolby at St. Henry's church. We wish them a happy future.

The entertainment for the benefit of the M. E. church proved a genuine success. The recitations and songs were all good, and the cantata, Grandpa's Birthday, was well done by the children.

Lafayette Lodge K. of P. will elect new officers for the ensuing 6 months, on this Friday evening, and a good natured race will be had for Chancellor, and vice-Chancellor Commander stations.

Hathaway.

Mrs. Myrtle Clements is very sick.

Miss Nannie Conley, of Gallatin, is visiting relatives here.

T. J. Stephens made a business trip to Erlanger last Thursday.

The farmers have been busy planting corn and shearing sheep.

Miss Grace Neal was visiting Miss Daisy Rouse, of Pleasant Ridge, last Saturday night and Sunday.

Cage Stephens and sister spent Saturday night and Sunday with Wood Stephens and wife, at Waterloo.

Mrs. Agnes Lavell, of Lexington, after a three weeks' visit with relatives here, left for home last Thursday.

The women are as backward about their house cleaning as the men are about their corn planting, all owning to the cool weather.

Several from here are talking of attending the picnic at the Harvest Home grounds the 29th, and are looking forward to a big time.

Rabbit Hash.

Wallace Stephens has the mumps.

Sid J. Stephens is repairing his dwelling house.

The farmers have a move on them this week and all the corn is about planted.

One of E L. Clements' little boys is very sick. It is supposed he has the measles.

A number of candidates have been around interviewing the voters the past week.

Died, Saturday evening the 18th inst. near Frankfort, Ky., Mr. Joseph L. Hawkins, brother of Mrs. Bettie Stephens.

The Union Sunday School was organized at Rabbit Hash in the K. of P. hall last Sunday. George Ward is superintendent.

A party from Indiana visited Big Bone springs last Saturday and two or three couples visited Bob Wilson that evening and Sunday.

Died, on the 13th inst. in Kansas City, Kansas, Mrs. Birdie Robbins, daughter of Mrs. Nettie Phipps (nee Calvert) and niece of John and Jay Calvert.

Gunpowder.

The apple crop will be a short one.

The farmers are about done planting corn.

Some frost last Friday night, but no damage done.

Tobacco plants are small and scarce. There will be a light crop set.

Barlow & Co., received about 12,000 pounds of wool last week.

Those on the sick list are Fredrick Tanner and Miss Lydia Beemon.

Born, to L. P. Aylor and wife, a son. Mother and babe doing well.

W. P. Beemon was doing some excellent work on the roads, last week.

W. N. Surface received one car-load of salt, last week.

H. O. Rouse and wife, J. S. Robbins and wife, and F. Borders and family, were visiting H. L. Tanner, Suuday.

There was a quiet wedding on the 18th inst., at Mr. R. O. Beemon's. Mr. Lonnie Acra, of Erlanger, and Miss Emma Beemon, were the contracting parties. Rev. H. Max Lentz officiated. We wish the bride and groom a long and happy life.

Bellevue.

Mrs. Ann Wingate, of Petersburg, is the guest of Mrs. Michael Clore.

A. Corbin is yarding a barge of coal, making a total of 40,000 bus in town.

Mrs. T. L. Utz has returned home after a pleasant visit to her parents at Florence.

W. B. Grubbs gave us a call, last week, being the first candidate who has no opposition, to visit our district.

The yellow leggins are still occasionally seen in our community. They will be a thing of the past after the 5th day of next month.

The boys are catching some nice fish, Chas. Maurer in the lead with a 6½ lb. cat next, but not least, is J. T. Marshall with a water-dog 18 inches long.

The writer undertook agriculture recently, and had some frightful experience. Having repaired to an isolate spot, hard by the town, where horse-weeds grow to the height of 17½ feet, we began to plow, and what should we encounter but an adder 2½ feet loug, and before proceeding much farther we struck an animal, known, I presume, from his appearance as the land-Terrapin, going on we next came to another adder of same size and two more of the above mentioned animals, when conciuded our landlord had made a mistake, and had previously leased the grouud to some one for a Zoological garden, but learning from the owner we had the first right, with pitchfork and plow, at it we went and we succeded in holding possession, resulting in the capture of three terrapins, two adders, six coobers and musk-cats in abundance. Mr. Editor, this would seem like a case of "snakes in the boots," but when we arrived home, we found none, but our socks were turned over with the heels on the matep.

Utzinger.

Will Fenton has the job of painting the roof the Str. Workum.

We are for John S. Gaunt for congress and Goebel for governor.

H. L. Hensley set 13,000 sweet potato to plants and will set 6,000 cabbage.

Congress should make an appropriation for suffering Americans at home.

Mr. L. Nichols, who was so badly hurt some time ago, is still walking on crutches.

Farmers in the Laughery bottoms are behind with their work on account of the back water.

J. F. Cason, of Ludlow, was visiting here last Sunday. He will move back here in the spring.

If heaven is a place where people all attend to their own business some folks will be out of a job.

James Jarrell has been employed to clean up the cemetery, and it adds very much to its appearance.

Scott Chambers, who has been staying with Dewitt Collins, near Ludlow, is at home for the present.

All the Boone county boys that went to Louisville several years ago are prosperous and well to do citizens.

T. B. Mathews has had a nice monument placed at the grave of his little son, Henry, who died last winter.

Wheat looks promising; oats nearly a failure; corn coming up nicely and tobacco plants are waiting a season.

J. B Tolin, Mrs. Nannie Baker, Chas. Shipman and Miss Ida Hoffman, spent Sunday with friends at Hartford, Ind.

Jones Stephens went to Lawrenceburg, last Saturday evening, and came back with a grand new buggy of the latest pattern.

M. C. Carroll, F. L. Gordon, Sam. C. Johnson, W. W. Grimsley and Add Riddell were here last week, calling on the dear people.

A great many contemplate going to Aurora on decoration day to join their comrades over there in decoratiug the soldier's graves.

Hunters from Lawrenceburg are killing a great many squirrels in this vicinity. Grey squirrels will soon be extinct as fox squirrels are taking their place.

The first Sunday in June has been known to many as show day, and on that day the ladies of this vicinity will come out all decked in the most beautiful colors of the rain-bow; and the head gear will be marvelous. The gents will also be on dress parade

Two of our colored citizens met at the store Saturday night, when the following conversation took place between them: "Hello Sam, I hear you have another fine boy at your house?" "Yes, Tom, dat's right." "What you gwine to name dat boy, Sam?" "We's gwine to call him Dingley Bill." See?

Richard Lacy and wife gave a party to their numerous friends, last Saturday night week, and about 20 beautiful ladies and twice that number of gallant gentlemen responded to invitations. The may-pole dance was one of the features of the occasion, and Jack Moreland and Mount Slayback had some diversity of opinion as to who, for her beauty and gracefulness, was entitled to the honor of being May Queen, and they adjourned to the front yard, a beautiful lawn, and then and there decided to settle the matter by the rough-and-tumble route. They did not go through the preliminaries of shaking hands, but commenced to kick, scratch and bite one another instantur. Moreland finally landed one just above Slayback's eye that caused that member to go into mourning. Then another bite and scratch act took place. Finally Moreland bumped himself, sprang at Slayback, and landed one on his mouth, which knocked him clear out of sight, and it was a long time before those standing around conld realize what had become of him, and it being dark some thought he had taken to his heels and fled for safety. After hunting around for some time they heard the sound of water splashing, and going to the cistern near by, which had been left uncovered, they found that he had been knocked into it. He was fished out and his clothes wrung out. They repaired to the house and the dance went merrily on.

Petersburg.

Mrs. Emily Rucker attended church Sunday.

Esquire Green was mixing with the people here last week.

Mr. Randall has been under the weather considerably of late.

Uncle Elijah Grant has had his house painted and it is a beauty.

Mr. E. M. Holton shipped a nice bunch of hogs to the city Monday.

Arthur (Podg) Alloway is playing ball with the Evansville club this season.

Mr. Pearson and Mr. Grimsley, candidates for assessor, staid in town one or two nights last week.

Rev. Leslie Early preached at the christian church Sunday morning and Sunday night.

The City of Louisville and the Sunshine landed here about same time last Friday evening.

The house in which Mr. Woodruff lived on Mr. Appleton's place was destroyed by fire and almost everything had burned up.

Mrs. Keene and others will hold a meeting at the christian church next Thursday at 2 o'clock p. m., to consider missionary work.

The statement last week in the article from this place concerning Reuben Akins' and Whit Jarrell's monuments was misleading. It should have been the graves of their wives.

The Christian Sunday school at Lawrenceburg Ind., visited the school at the christian church here last Sunday. They were delighted with their visit, although the rain rather frightened some of them.

Bullittsville.

Meeting at the christian church at this place on the 5th Sunday in this month May 30th, Rev. Watkins, of Lexington, will conduct the services.

Misses Zayda Gaines, May Cropper, Messrs. Edwin Gaines and J. Duncan spent Saturday and Sunday with Lee Gaines, of Kensington.

Quite a number of persons from this place went fishing last Thursday. We have not learned whether or not they had fish for sale.

The punils of Hadge Grove Academy gave a most delightful entertainment last Friday. The house was filled to overflowing with au appreciative audience. The pupils all played their parts excellently.

Commissioner's Sale.

J. H. Lawell, Pltf.
against Equity.
J. H. Walton's, Adm'r, &c. Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the court-douse door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder at public auction, on at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being county court day, upon a credit of 6, 12, 18 and 24 months, the following described property, to-wit:

Monday, June 7th, 1897,

Two tracts of land lying and being in Boone county, Ky., and bounded thus: First tract—Beginning at a stone on the east side of the Burlington and East Bend road a corner with Daniel Lawell; thence with his line s 73½ e 15.29 chs to a Walnut tree; thence s 52½ e 4.26 chs to a stone; thence s 74 e 15.76 chs to a stone a corner with Daniel Lawell in a line of the Ryle tract; thence with a line of said tract n 17½ e 27.25 chs to a point in the center of a branch; thence up said branch with its meanders n 38½ w 1.06 chs n 22 w 1.50 n 15 2.89 chs to a stone in a line of Harvey Marshall; thence with his line n 72½ w 16.80 chs to a stone in the Burlington & East Bend road; thence with said road s 711 w 3.50 chs s 58½ w 2.55 chs to a stone in said road a corner with Harvey Marshall; thence with his line n 72½ w 57 75 chs to a stone in a line of the Akin tract of land; thence with a line of said tract s 23½ w 14 25 chs to a stone a corner with the Jonas Clore tract; thence with the lines of said tract s 31 e 2.08 chs to a stone; thence s 60 e 46.50 chs to a stone on the aforesaid road; thence with the road s 22½ w 1.43 chs to the beginning, containing 204a. 0r. 0p.

Second tract—Beginning at a stone in the Burlington and East Bend road a corner with James Lawell and the George Walton tract; thence with the line of James Lawell s 73½ e 5.75 chs to a stone; thence s 47½ e 17.09 chs to a stone; thence s 54½ e 14 25 chs to a corner of James Lawell and Jonas Clore; thence with a line or Jonas Clore's s 55½ e 11.62 chs to a Beech tree; thence s 72½ e 17.50 chs to a corner with the L. Acra tract of land; thence with a line of said tract s 18 w 18.25 chs to a corner in Lick creek between 2 Sycamore trees; thence down the creek s 77½ w 5.12 chs n 79½ w 2.98 chs s 55½ w 16.87 chs n 88½ w 3.25 chs s 37½ w 6 75 chs s 53½ w 6.41 chs to a stone in said creek between a Sycamore a Elm tree near the mouth of a branch; thence up said branch with the lines of the —Walton tract of land n 22½ w 7.22 n 72½ w 4.50 chs n 58½ w 14 85 chs to a stone on the south side of said branch; thence leaving the branch and running with the line of Joseph Walton s 18 w 1.75 chs to a stone; thence n 73½ w 6 58 chs to a stone; thence n 15 e 10.09 chs to a stone; thence n 78½ w 1.17 chs to a stone in the aforesaid road; thence with the road n 10½ e 10.70 chs n 1½ e 4.15 chs n 39½ e 9 25 chs n 17 e 5.50 chs to the beginning, containing 203 acres, 2 roods and 0 poles.

Possession will be given of the land sold March 1st, 1893. I will first offer the second tract herein described, if this does not bring a sufficiency to pay the whole debt, interest and cost, I will then offer the first tract.

For the purchase price the purchaser with approved security or securities, must execute bonds, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale $5,719 21

J. B. BERKSHIRE, Master Com.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Louisa Carder, Pltf.
vs.
Chas. Regenbogen, Deft.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of Sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder, at Public Sale on Monday the 7th day of June, 1897, at one o'clock p. m. or there about, being County Court day, on a credit of 6 and 12 months, the following described property to wit:

Two tracts of land lying and being in Boone county, Ky., on the waters of Elijah's creek and bounded thus: First tract beginning at the corner of Harrison Carder with Columbus Quick's land in a line of Wm Tanner; thence with Tanner's line 51 poles to where it strikes the road from Elijah's creek to the North Bend road running between said Carder and Quick; thence following said road 18p to a stone; thence following said road still 24p; thence with said road 14½ poles to the line between Carder and Quick; thence with Quick's line 18½ poles to the beginning containing 3 acres, 1 rood and 33 poles be the same more or less.

Second tract, beginning at a stake in a clay bank Cornelius Quick's most easterly corner in a line of Mrs Carder's dower; thence s 67½ e 64 poles to a beech tree and stake a corner to the dower in Hankin's line; thence n 84½ w 86½ poles to a stone said Hankin's corner in Wm Tanner's line; thence s 46 w 17 poles to a corner of Austin Anderson's lot in Tanner's line; thence with the lines of said lot s 29 e 5½ poles to a stake on the south side of a branch; thence s 25 w 16½ poles to two stumps; then ce s 34½ w 18½ poles to a stone on a road; thence with a line of a four acre tract s 34½ e 32½ poles to a stone near a beech tree and stump; thence s 47 w 20 poles to a stone in C. Quick's line; thence with said line s 84½ e 34 poles to the beginning, containing 23½ acres.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made. For the purchase price of said land the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale, $484 92.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C.

NOTICE.

J. Wash Watts will stand his horse, JOE J. on Wednesday and Thursday of each week at his stable near Bullittsville, and the remainder of the week at Florence, Ky. Terms—$8 to insure a living colt.

☞Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered.....$5.00.

We are authorized to announce W. W. GRIMSLEY, of Big Bone, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce O. S. WATTS, of Bullittsville, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JAS. N. PEARSON, of Florence, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce F. A. UTZ, of Florence, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce SAM C. JOHNSON, of Walton, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce F. L. GORDON, Jr., of Beaver, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce G. W. HOARD, of Beaver, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce THOS. G. WILLIS, of Bullittsville, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce J. F. BLYTH, of Burlington, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce T. J. ADAMS, of Burlington precinct, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce OSCAR J. RYLE, of Burlington, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce C. L. CRISLER, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce E. L. CLEMENTS, of Rabbit Hash, as a candidate for Superintendent of Schools, of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce L. H. VORHELL, as a candidate for Superintendent of Schools of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce ELMER BEALL, of Burlington, as a candidate for Sheriff of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce M. C. CARROLL, of Big Bone, as a candidate for Sheriff of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce ADD RIDDELL, of Beaver, as a candidate for Sheriff, of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce BEN STEPHENS, as a candidate for re-election for County Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce C. C. ROBERTS as a candidate for County Judge of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce W. B. GRUBBS, as a candidate for Representative of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce J. W. KENNEDY, of Union, as a candidate for Circuit Court Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce J. W. DUNCAN as a candidate for Circuit Court Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JOHN M. LASSING as a candidate for County Attorney of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce B. W. ADAMS as a candidate for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For Commonwealth's Attoney.

We are authorized to announce Hon. M. D. GRAY, of Grant county, as a candidate for re-election to the office of Commonwealth's Attorney from the Fifteenth Judicial District, which is composed of the counties of Grant, Owen, Boone, Gallatin and Carroll, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce W. E. VEST as a candidate for County Surveyor of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

MADE FAMOUS

In the story of "Jonathan and His Continent," by Max O'Rell. When you want to read a real live newspaper The Hazel Green Herald fills the bill. $1 a year always in advance. The editor is "a free-silver crank," but original and up to date, single copies having sold as high as $1 each. Advertisers are strictly "in it" from the time they secure space. Send subscriptions, and write for ad rates, to—

SPENCE COOPER, Hazel Green, Ky.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky

Simons Baldon's Adm'r. Plaintiff,
vs
Parthena Baldon, &c.. Defts.

This cause is now refered to the Master Commissioner of the Boone Circuit Court with the following directions: 1st. He will advertise in the Boone Co. Recorder the time and place of his sittings and he will hear proof of and receive claims against the estate of the decedent Simons Baldon. 2d. He will audit and settle the accounts of the administrator, John D. Baldon. 3d. He will ascertain what property the decedent owned at the time of his death, and he will report his actions herein at the August term, 1897, of the Boone Circuit Court.

Given under my hand as clerk of said court, this May 12th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

Subscribe for the RECORDER

GO TO HANKINS, DAVIS & CO.,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,
General Merchants,

A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

BRADFORD BROS.,
—THE—
Carriage Manufacturers,
FLORENCE, KENTUCKY.

HEADQUARTERS FOR VEHICLES of ALL KINDS.

LATEST STYLES
OF BUGGIES
Made at the
LOWEST PRICES
Consistent with First-class Workmanship and —:-:-the Best Material-:-:—

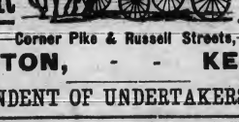
NOW is a good time to have your Carriage or Buggy Painted. Special attention paid to Ordered Work. Repairing a specialty and neatly executed.

☞Work Guaranteed as Representee.☜

BRADFORD BROTHERS, Florence, Ky.

J. A. HUEY, Union, Ky.
R. P. RICE, Florence, Ky.



Deering : Ideal : Mowers
—Are the only ones with—
ROLLER : AND : BALL : BEARINGS.
Defeated all competitors in official World's Fair field trials.

Record: 85¾ lbs. for 5-foot Ideal against 162 lbs. for its lightest competitor.

Deering Binder Twine. In the harvest of 1896 the Deering Harvester Company made and sold One-Third of all the Binder Twine used in all America.
Honest in length, even in strength and reliable in every way.
☞Special Rates to Merchants.☜
RICE & HUEY, Agts., - Florence, Ky.

E. F. HARMEYER,
535 Walnut St. - CINCINNATI, OHIO.
—IS THE PLACE TO BUY—
PLOWS, HARROWS, CORN DRILLS, CULTIVATORS, HAY RAKES, &c..
We also have the 'EUREKA' AND OTHER MOWERS.
☞Don't fail to see us if you want anything in our line.☜

JOHN ALLISON,
UNDER-TAKER

EMBALMER,
—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,—
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

Farm for Sale!
—o—
CONTAINING SIXTY ACRES
House of 5 rooms, well and cistern, Good Two Story Barn with Covered Drive-Way and Basement, Large Cistern, never failing Stock water. No better Farming Land in Boone County.
Apple Orchard of Selected Trees.
Location, 1½ miles south of Florence, on Lexington pike. All buildings within 50 yards of pike, (formerly owned by John Northcutt.)
For terms and all information call on or address
G. N. BUFFINGTON, Buffington, Ky.
By order of David T. Buffington.

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE
That B. F. ZIMMER is selling the best Grade of Fertilizer in the county for less Money than any other dealer in the county. It will pay you to see him before buying.
Ever sack is sold with a guarantee to be as good as represented.
Constance, Kentucky.

Local News.

Some meadows have a great many weeds in them.

There was a heavy fall of hail here last Sunday night.

Considerable hail fell in the Union neighborhood, Monday.

The rain Sunday afternoon and that night was needed by vegitation.

Foxes are devastating the hen roosts of W. T. Smith and Charles Hughes.

J. C. Revill sold a cow and young calf to Sam Ackmyer, last week, for $50.

J. M. Barlow and company received about 7,000 pouuds of wool here last Thursday.

The hail did considerable damage to Perry Cason's garden, Sunday night—no insurance.

There were niue applicauts for teachers' certificates examiued last Friday and Saturday.

Remember that Hillis Bros. are in town ever Friday morning with a lot of uice river fish.

Every candidate in the field claims to be sanguine of success on the 5th day of June next.

Cilla Aylor, colored, who died at Erlanger last Wednesday night, was buried here last Friday afternoon.

Cooper Sheep Dip can be had at B. F. Buchanan's Corner Drug Store, Rising Sun, Ind. may12-3t.

If you have harness that needs repairing take them to John Smith, the shoemaker, who is prepared to do that kind of work.

Owing to the continued rains this spring there is very little grease on the wool, and it weighs about one-fifth less than last year.

James Hensley, of Petersburg, was around last Monday delivering the history of Odd-Fellowship he had sold some of the members here.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

Rev. S. M. Adams, of Big Bone, will preach at the Baptist church here next Saturday night, Sunday morning and Sunday night. All are invited.

June 1st, and 2nd, the Frankfort & Cincinnati Ry. will run three trains each way between Paris and Frankfort to accommodate visitors to the conveution,

The dance music for the Candidate Picnic, Saturday, May 28th, will be furuished by Bross' celebrated band of Cincinuati. All the dancers in the county will surely atteud.

Several of the local admirers of the national game visited the Cincinnati ball park, last week, and saw the Cincinnati team assisted by the umpire, defeat the Baltimores on two occasions.

Frankfort, June 2nd. Tickets via the Queen and Cresent Route and Georgetowu one fare the round trip June 1st and 2nd, good to return until June 5th. Ask Q. & C. agents for further particulars.

The horse ridden by Miss Edith Kendall, fell wheu passing over a bad place in the road near W. J. Rice's last Friday morning, and had to be assisted out by digging away the dirt that held its feet higher than its back.

Wanted—Good men in every town to introduce the Aeratiug Churn, Centrifugal Ice-Cream Freezer. Will freeze cream in one minute. Self-heating Iron, Enterprise Dish Washer. Address
Enterprise M'f'g. Co.,
322 W. 3d St., Cincinuati, O.

Sheriff C. C. Roberts left for Cincinnati, Monday morning, to have an operation performed, hoping thereby to be relieved of the trouble that has caused his iutense sufferiug this spring. His friends here—and that luciudes everybody—will be glad to see him return lu a few weeks fully restored to health.

A large crowd attended the sale of the late Benjamin Rice, last Saturday afternoon, and things brought good prices. Corn, 28 to 30 cents; milch cow, $33; hog, $6; horses, $52; meat—hams, 8 cents; shoulders and middlings, 5 cts. Farming implements and furniture sold well. The sale was ou a credit of six months.

The children's exercises under the direction of Rev. Barker, at the Methodist church last Thursday afternoon, were very interesting, and the programme was executed in a manner most gratifying to all. Rev. Barker is a very successful instructor of the young and soon gets them interested in any work he lays out for them, hence his great success along that line.

H. W. Harrison, dentist, of Rising Sun, Ind., will be in Burlington ou the first and third Monday in each month, to do work for those who wish anything in his line. He will be here two days each visit. He is a son of the late R. F. Harrison, of Carrollton, and a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dentistry at Philadephia. He is highly recommended lu his profession.

A subscriber at Verona sends this recipet for English Plum Pudding: "Soak one pound of prosperity in a quart of hot confidence and let it stand and cool. When cool add to it one-half pound over production and the yelks of four years stagnation beaten to a cream, one pound sound money chopped fine and salted, one glass coin bonds payable in gold. Beat the whole well together and as the last thing add the cries of idle workingmen beaten to a stiff froth, pour into a cloth previously prepared by Grover Cleveland, tie the cloth firmly, leaving room for the pudding to swell; give to Wm. McKinlep and the Republican party to boil four years. Serve with over-production and confidence sauce. It is best to prepare the ingredients thirty years before and cover closely."

Boone Co. Colony in Tennessee.

J. M. Lassing returned from a ten day's stay in and about Nashville, Tennessee, Saturday. He reports the Exposition the greatest—barring the World's Fair—ever held in this country. He visited all the Boone county boys and the news he brings is certainly gratifying to their friends and relatives here.

J. B. Sanders, one of the first to settle there from this county, has grown rich in the practice of medicine, lives in elegance and ease, but hasn't forgotten the hard knocks he had here in Boone, nor the many friends whom he left behind.

Geo. W. Brown no longer stands behind the counter as he did at Constance nor follows the plow, but sits back in the real estate office of G. W. Brown & Co., and takes life easy. He has built up a good business and owns some choice property in Nashville.

Will Bradford, who like the Patriarch of old, went back to the land of his fathers to get his wife, is the proprietor of the largest grocery and general merchandise store in North Nashville—employs four clerks and his brother Carl, and is certainly making money. Carl has developed into an all around hustler.

Henry C Lassing's shingle as attorney at law, is hanging out in the Chamber of Commerce building; he is getting a good practice and doing his best to keep out of politics.

L. J. Setters, who lives eleven miles from town on Little Marrow Bone Creek, and has charge of the 5,000 acre tract of land owned by himself and J. J. Rucker, is giving the natives new ideas in developing the natural resources of that country and the neighborhood round about him is rapidly being transformed from a vast forest luto comfortable farm houses.

Wm. Setters has charge of the County Work House and inmates, a very responsible position—having control of about 200 prisouers, and is making money and taking care of what he makes. His position gives him a big political pull and he knows how to use it.

Bob Jones and Nat Cox are operating a big saw-mill in partnership with L. J. Setters.

Van Rusk is farming on an extensive scale and making money.

Minule Jones is married to a prosperous German who owns a good farm and also operates a country store at Settersville.

Rucker & Setters are selliug land in quantities to suit: the purchaser at $10 to $15 per acre in the timber. It is naturally a quick soil and raises anything—but corn, wheat, tobacco, potatoes and small fruit to perfection.

Rusk, Jones & Setters were handling their strawberry crop while Lassing was there. They disposed of their entire crop at Nashville at from $3 to $6 per bushel, according to quality, and frequently a one horse load would realize from $50 to $60 net.

All of the Boone county people who have tried farming there are more than satisfied and John himself was carried away with the country and the cordial reception. In honor of his visit L. J. Setters gave him a big banquet at which a barbecued hog (native) was served up together with a profusiou of fish, frog, fowls and fruits indigiuous to the soil, and an abundance of liquid refreshments. All of the Boone couuty colonist were present and it was very appropriately styled the Boone County Tennessee Reunion.

Nathaniel Cox, who has been in Tennessee but a few months, seuds us as a witness of his experience with an immense rattler, 11 rattles and a button he took from his first victim.

PERSONAL MENTION.

M. S. Rice, jr., is visiting his brothers here.

Mr. F. Dickey, of Richwood, was in towu Monday.

Leslie Clutterbuck is spending a few days at home.

Esq. H. Banuister, of Union, was in town Saturday.

Atty. A. G. Winston, of Hebron, was in town Monday.

Mike Cahill and wife, of Florence, were in town Monday.

Mr. J. W. Duncan was out on an electioneering tour, last week.

D. E. Castleman and Geo. Biyth attended church at Bellevue, last Sunday.

Rev. C. C. Conner, of La Crosse, Wisconsin, is at the bedside of his sick father.

W. M. Rogers, of Walton, was visiting C. C. Roberts and family, last Suuday.

Our handsome correspondent at Florence, made us a brief call Monday morning.

D. Beall and wife and Ezra Aylor and wife were guests at Elmer Beall's last Sunday.

G. M. Riley, jr., who has been in Anderson, Indiana, for some time has returned home.

Ollie Wean, of Loveland, Ohio, returned yesterday after a few days' visit with his relatives here.

J. M. Conner and wife and Dr. Richardson and wife, of Cincinnati, were visiting O. P. Conner's last Sunday.

Hon. J. G. Furnish reached home Saturday evening, the legislature having adjourned siue die at noon the day before.

Edson Riddell went to Frankfort last Friday to argue the case of the Union News Company vs. Morrow in the court of Appeals.

B. W. Adams went to Beaver last Saturday and brought his saddle horse home with him. He says he will be in the saddle from now until the race is concluded.

This office is under obligations to Prof. D. M. Snyder for a box of delicious strawberries, his own production. He has several varieties of very fiud strawberries.

Dudley Rouse and wife and Mrs. Johns and Arthur Rouse, and Harry Blyth and wife spent last Sunday with F. P. Walton and wife, of the Utzinger neighborhood.

Rankin Revill and a couple of friends came out from Covington on their wheels, Sunday. The rain that afternoon caused them to make the return trip, as far as Erlanger, in the mail wagon.

A CARD.

To the voters of Boone county:—There is being a report circulated over the county to the effect that F. L. Gordon, jr., sold a farm to one O. P. Kite upon which one R. B. Brown, of Wawaw, held a mortgage, and that said F. L. Gordon, jr., refused to raise said incumbrance, in consequence of which said Kite was likely to loose his purchase. This is a willful and malicious lie, and we think done to injure said Gordon in the pending primary election.

O. P. KITE,
F. L. GORDON, jr.

Attest:—J. K. Glore.

A CARD.

To the voters of Boone county:—On account of ill health I have not been able to make as thorough a canvass of the county as I should have done; therefore, I have decided to withdraw my name as a candidate for the office of County Assessor at the coming primary electiou, and I wish to leave the field open to all. Thanking my friends for all favors shown me I am very respectfully, G. W. HOARD.

The revival at the Methodist Church rolls on with increased interest; congregations good; singing is excellent from Life and Light Song Books. Sunday was a high day. Bro. Barker preached at 11 a. m., on the Love of God. At 3 p. m., the children's Jubilee was held. It was one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held in Burlington. At the close of this service Bro. Barker gave a talk and the Epworth League and called for names, Rev. Harris acted as secretary and enrolled forty-six names. The following were elected as officers: President, Mrs. Carrie Gaines; 1st Vice, Mrs. Frank Hall; assistants, Mrs. Mary McKim, Miss Mamie Hawes and Mrs. Dudley Rouse; 2nd Vice—Mrs. Laura Riddell; assistants, Mrs. B. W. Adams, Mrs. Nettie Hughes and Miss Annie Cowen; 3d Vice—Mrs. Carrie Riddell; assistants, Miss Olga Kirkpatrick, Miss Catharine Winston and Mr. J. C. Revill; Secretary—Miss Annie Garrison, assistant, Mrs. Lizzie Berkshire; Treasurer, Miss Martha Winston; Organist—Miss Katie Huey; Song Leader—Miss Elia Duncan, assistant, Mrs. W. L. Riddell. The devotional meeting are to be held at 3.30 p. m., every Sunday; Literary meetings will be held every second Friday of each month; Business meetings are also to be held monthly. Bro. Barker says this is one of the best Leagues he has ever assisted in organizing. He adds, "it is the very cream of the town."

During the meeting quite a number have been at the alter and one has joined the church.

Rev. E. S. Fogg arrived Mouday evening, and is assisting in the meeting.

Democrats! June 1st aud 2d, tickets will be sold by Queen & Crescent and F. & C. Rys., to the State Conventiou, Frankfort, and return, at one fare, limited to 5th. Ask for tickets "via Georgetown"—the only quick connection.

Beaver.

Miss Katie Code is very low with pneumonia.

County Clerk Adams attended Sunday School here Sunday.

G. M. Moore shipped a nice bunch of hogs to the city, last Thursday.

Wm. Wilson lost a valuable cow last week, from eatiug too much clover.

F. D. Grubbs, our leading carpenter and builder, has the contract of putting up Samuel Taylor's house.

B. B. Hume aud wife, G. E. Carroll and wife aud Ed Slayback aud wife were visiting T. J. Coyl, of Crescent Spriugs, last Suuday.

Verona.

L. J. Hume's dwelling is nearly completed.

Thos. G. Willis was mingliug with the voters last week.

W. H. Adams is a famous rat slayer. He killed 108 rats in one single day.

Our friend, Hodge Hudsou, will begiu selling religious books lu a few days.

Edgar Powers contemplates erecting a dwelling on the farm lately purchased of his father.

We had the pleasure of meeting E. L. Clements, candidate for school superintendent. He was among the voters here.

The Christian Endeavor will meet at the Christian Church at Beaver to organize a society at that place lu the near future.

Messrs. Hume and Kennedy, our wool dealers, have received a large amount of wool in the past two weeks at 17 cts. per pound.

W. Bernard O'Neal came home last Saturday from El Paso, Texas, where he has been employed as operator in constructing a new railroad.

Mr. Wallace, editor of Warsaw Independent, Dr. Yager aud L. M. Breeden of Glencoe, and Captain Baker, of Erlanger, met here on the 10th of May to organize a deposit bank. After some discussion it was deemed prudent to postpone the organizatiou until times improve, or, in other words, money becomes more plentiful.

Since our last communication there has been some change made in the contract for erecting a public school building here. Mr. Northcutt, of Dry Ridge, who was first awarded the contract, claimed he had made a mistake against himself of several hundred dollars and declined the work. The Board of Education gave the contractors another chance to bid and Wm. Jacobs, of Dry Ridge, was the successful bidder at $2,125.

Walton.

Farmers are about done plauting corn. The new planing mill is nearing completion.

The prospects for tomato plants are not as good as usual.

Mrs. Sleet is expecting her son, Mont, home in a few days.

Mrs. Fannie Johnson returned to her home at Zion, Saturday evening.

R. C. Green has moved into the Ed Stamler house near the Southern depot.

A number of our citizens are improving their residences with a coat of new paint.

The Walton base ball nine played Erlanger Sunday and won by a score of 25 to 9.

Omer Whitson and wife, of Verona, were visiting Dr. and Mrs. Jones, last Sunday.

Mrs. Beatrice Rickets, of Sulphur, Henry county, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Botts, the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Riddell, of Burlington, were the guest of Mrs. Riddell's sister, Mrs. Everett Stephens, Sunday.

The contract for the Snyder Co.'s new buildings at this place has been awarded to L. P. Hazen & Co., of Cincinnati.

T. J. Crow has commenced work on a well between the railroads. His object is to bore for natural gas. He will dig down until he comes to rock, then he will use the drill.

A new fence is badly needed around the cemetery at this place. It certainly seems from the price which lots sell, there ought to be money enough to keep the fencing in repair.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Lottie Morhead and Mr. James Powers to take place at the residence of Mrs. Morhead at Key West, on June 2d, 1897, at high noon. The bride-elect has the best wishes for her future happiness and prosperity by a host of friends at this place.

The final examination of the Walton Academy will begin Wednesday, June 2d. Public oral examinations will be held in the afternoon of Wednesday and Thursday. The examinations are to be followed by an entertainment on Friday evening. No pains are being spared to make this entertainment a credit to the school and a source of enjoyment to the public.

This weather is n. g. for garden truck.

This is certainly about the last cool spell for this spring.

T. H. Baker's chances for the Louisville postoffice are good.

Miss Fanule Finch is visiting her grandparents in Williamstown.

Two candidates have cards in this issue, and Mr. Hoard, who has been a candidate, publishes a card withdrawing from the race for assessor.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

L. Dwyer's Adm'r., &c. vs Pltfs.
L. Dwyer's creditors, &c., Defts.

This cause is now referred to J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this county, who will ascertain and report the amount, kind and value of the estate of the decedent, whether real, personal or mixed and where the same is located. He will ascertain and report what debts, if any were owing by decedent at the time of his death and to that end all persons holding claims against said estate will present same to said Berkshire proven according to law on or before August 1st, 1897, and said Berkshire will give due notice of the time and place of his sittings through the Boone Co., Recorder. He will also settle the accounts of Mellison R. Dwyer, administratrix, and report among other things the cost of administration.

Witness my hand as clerk of said court, this April 30th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

James Rogers, &c., Com., vs equity. Pltfs
S. C. R. Corwine, &c., Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of Sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder, at Public Sale on Monday the 7th day of June, 1897, at one o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being County Court day, upon a credit of six and twelve months, the following described property, to-wit:

A tract or parcel of land lying and being in Boone county, Kentucky, and bounded thus: Adjoining the town of Florence on the Burlington turnpike road aud beginning in the center of said road a corner of lots 68 and 9 in the division of the lands of the late John Stephens; thence n 54½ e 45 poles to a stake in the center of Pike street, at the termination of Center street in Florence; thence s 88¼ w with said st., 38 poles and 5 links to another stake in the Burlington road; thence s 46¾ west 15 poles to another stake, corner of lot No. 9 in said division; thence s 44 east with a line of lot No. 9, 38 poles and 7 links to the beginning, containing 5a, 3r and 7 poles and being lot No. 4 in said division.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made. For the purchase price the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a Judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms

Amount to be made by sale $636 25,

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C.

W. N. Hind & Co.
213 W. Fifth St. Cincinnati, O.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn St., Chicago.

A. P. WALTON,
DENTIST,
121 Garfield Place,
Cincinnati, - - Ohio.
First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

WE Want to be Kept Busy.

It costs us as much to do nothing as to be busy, so that our time may be fully employed we quote the following

—Very Low Prices:—

Stand. Granulated Sugar, 21 lbs.	$1 00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound,	15c
Oil Sardines per can,	3c
Mustard Sardines per can,	5c
Hominy, 3 quarts,	10c
Headlight Oil, per gallon,	9c
Rolled Oats, 3 lbs. for	10c
Ladies Fine Shoes,	$1 00
Gent's Fine Shoes, per pair,	$1 00

Give us a Call W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.

BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,
BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.,
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS,
Notions, Groceries, Etc.
Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!
at Lowest : Cash : Prices.
TOBACCO CANVASS, CHEAP.
Market : Price : Paid : for : Produce.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.

THE J. L. BILL
Coffee and Tea Co.
THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.
12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,
COVINGTON, KY.
WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

SENSATIONAL BARGAINS!
Clothing Sacrificed! See!
A full Suit of Men's Clothing for only, ...$3.50,
worth double, and this is only a sample.
We invite inspection all along the line.....
Shoes, Tinware, Groceries,
Dress Goods, Etc.

MILLINERY
Ladies, you will be surprised to see the nice things we have to offer you, and prices are waydown.
In fact we have a full line of General Merchandise, and prices are in keeping with the times.
We Guarantee Quality Also.
COME AND SEE.
T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Keystone Buggy Company,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.,
FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS,
—MANUFACTURERS—
Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles,
as 467 Like Cut.

Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent
QUALITY AT VERY LOW PRICE.
Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.
All Jobs Made to Order. } Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.
References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sothern, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigler, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Utzinger; Rolia Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Utz, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.
Call on or address,
R. L. BRADFORD, : Hebron, Ky,
Agent for Boone County.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER.

IN the shade of the towering mountain,
In the beautiful valleys of sun,
Kissed by the mists of the fountain
And close to the rivers that run
With a mystical song to the ocean,
Past cypress and hemlock and yew,
At rest from turmoil and commotion,
Are sleeping the campers in blue.

No dreams of the cannon's death rattle,
No visions of charge and foray,
Although where they stood in the battle
Not a few are still camping to-day;
Oft an arrow of sunlight discloses
The camps of the gallant and true,
And shines on the chaplet of roses
That cover the campers in blue.

By thousands they sleep in their glory
'Neath the beautiful flag of the free,
And retold and rehearsed is their story
By millions from sea unto sea;
Aye, above them the robin is calling
Her dirge of the gladdening day,
And the treasures of nature are falling
Everywhere in the camps of the blue.

They sleep side by side in the meadows,
They are comrades still under the pines,
From the sunshine deep into the shadows
Stretch Glory's magnificent lines;
From Arlington's cedars of beauty
To the fair lands of orange and yew,
Resting ever from well-performed duty,
Lie the thrice laureled campers in blue.

At the fringe of the foe-haunted thicket,
Where the challenge is heard nevermore,
Shine the stars upon vidette and picket,
The nights of their long vigils o'er;
And the drums for them no longer rattle
And silent is even's tattoo,
No more sounds the onset to battle
For the rose-covered heroes in blue.

Love fashions the wreath for their bosoms
In the heart of the southland to-day,
And the fields of the north give their blossoms
Alike for the blue and the gray;
It is o'er, the flow of war's river,
For all to one banner are true,
And peace will reign sweetly and ever
In the multiplied camps of the blue.

Let them sleep by the musical river,
Let them rest in the shadow of tree,
Their fame is our heritage ever
'Neath the star-sprinkled flag of the free;
So long as devotion's sweet story
Thrills hearts that are lofty and true,
So long will our banner in glory
Wave over the camps of the blue.

T. C. HARBAUGH.

TOLD BY THE BATTERED CANNON

I AM only a rusty and dilapidated old cannon, a relic of the war, placed on this lawn to recall to this generation the deeds of the past. It was a glorious past, too, though red with other things than the rust which gives me my dull, swarthy hue. They have spruced me up a little with paint that I might be in keeping with other park accessories, but you may observe that there is rust in my throat, while its marks show roughly through the thin coat of paint which but half conceals the ravages of time. I may look grim, but am not so savage as I might at first impression appear.

"When the war began I was young and handsome, not the battered veteran of these later years. The gunners were proud of my trig and trim appearance, and groomed me as carefully as if I were a prince out on parade. You should have seen me as, with other guns of my caliber and class, I started for the front in response to the first call for volunteers issued by Abraham Lincoln in 1861. Polished until every piece of metal about me shone, waited upon by brave men in uniforms as striking as my own, I attracted admiring attention from multitudes all along the line. There were six of us, all exactly alike, and we spoke with one voice when called upon to respond to the ardor of those men starting toward the front.

"It was not long before we were in the rush and war of battle. Where we were could be found the very craters of the war volcanoes, reddened with our lurid fires, enlivened by our bulldog bark, reddened sometimes with a deeper crimson than that of flame. We were sons of thunder and hurled thunderbolts, shooters of lightnings which struck with deadly effect. Our throats were often parched and our iron constitutions racked and strained, but we obeyed orders, and sullenly served Death until told to desist. They were brave men who handled us in the very center of the carnivals of blood and fire, and ever above us floated proudly our gallant comrade, the old flag, often tattered and torn, singed and ragged, but its stars shining ever as stars of promise on their firmament of good union blue. Not less courageous were the men in gray who fought under what is now the conquered banner. Even our iron souls and hearts of steel thrilled with honest admiration of their dauntless bravery. What a pity that such men must be swayed in deadly conflict, one against the other. Thank God, that is all past now, and the old flag, well beloved north and south, floats in love and protection over all Columbia's braves. If the men in gray were mistaken they atoned for their fault in countless ways known only to brave hearts who meet defeat. We love them for their courage and devotion, hail them as brothers true for evermore. But this is a digression. Old cannon, like other old warriors, become garrulous when they recall the days which tried men's souls and burned out the dross in the crucibles of affliction.

"You think my language rather choice for a grizzled warrior accustomed to camp and field? Well, I was a West Point graduate, if you please, and once shone resplendent among the ordnance aristocrats of that eminent institution of learning.

"It was at a battle on the mountain, near the sea, fighting bravely at close quarters on a ridge overlooking a deep, wooded ravine that I was disabled. There was opposed to us a battery of heavier caliber, and, after our men were nearly all down, dead or wounded, a heavy ball struck me directly in the muzzle, broke this jagged piece from my side, dismounted me and hurled me headlong into the ravine. It was a dizzy somersault, and I was made useless by many wounds, so I was permitted to lie there. The battle went on above, branches flew in the air, trees were cut in two, and into that ravine crept scores of brave men for shelter, some to recover later, but more to die. What do the nattily-dressed pleasure seekers, who promenade in this park and gaze curiously at us veterans, realize of such scenes as those I describe so imperfectly?

"At eve the battle lulled, and there crept to me where I lay, finally propping themselves against me and against each other, two badly wounded men, one in blue and one in gray. I gathered from their slow conversation that they were from the same village in Maryland, schoolmates once, friends always. They talked of other days, of the familiar home scenes, of their wives and babes, and then when the quiet stars came out and the moon lighted the scene of carnage they slept clasped closely in each other's arms. But it was the sleep that knows no waking. For these men peace had come, honorable peace, the din and danger of battle past forever. Very calm and tranquil seemed the pallid faces in the moonlight, and on each was imprinted the friendly smile of the boyhood days of which they had conversed ere they sank into perfect and dreamless repose.

"Next morning the detail of weary men burying the dead bore them away together, and gathered up letters and photographs to send home to the loved ones they would meet and greet no more.

"Years passed, time healed the scars in the landscape war had made. Not far away, on the height, national and confederate cemeteries adjoining were laid out and beautified. I still lay where I fell, reddening with rust, but I saw what was going on, and was often inspected curiously by visitors to the cemeteries and the battlefield. I could see the cemetery on the opposite declivity, its flag floating proudly as it rose each day at sound of the sunrise gun. I loved to see the care expended upon the rows of graves marked with snowy headstones, and knew by a sort of intuition where, in one corner, lay near together the schoolmates who had died that night by my side. On Memorial days there were ceremonies worth seeing, soldiers marched, sweet-faced and sweet-voiced children sang, eloquence recalled the war and its lessons, and each grave became an emerald altar on which soft-eyed blossoms breathed fragrant incense, their scented prayers rising toward heaven.

"On one Memorial day, 20 years after the war, there strolled into the ravine late in the afternoon a young man and woman. I knew them for lovers before I clearly saw their faces, for she leaned toward him as they walked with the unconscious naturalness and grace of a vine reclining toward its supporting tree. On they came through the laurels and seated themselves, with their backs against me, much as did those soldiers of 20 years ago. She was a fair-faced blonde, graceful as a fawn, dimples in her peachy cheeks, loyalty in her true blue eyes. He was dark, stalwart, manly, with the form of an athlete and the eyes of a born protector of truth and innocence. Even before they spoke I knew them, through intuition, to be the son and daughter of the men who had died where they now sat absorbed in love's young dream. As they sat there, her head on his shoulder and his arm where it should be, around her taper waist, punctuated with kisses, I heard their story and more than I had learned before of the men whose children they were. Birds chattered about them, gaudy butterflies fluttered in their faces, vines festooned like wedding decorations in dim church aisles waved lazily in the caressing breezes above, and they leaned against me as confidingly as if I belonged in love's bowers instead of in the brunt of battles. I was their friend. The brave are ever tender hearted. Iron cannon thrill to magnetic currents with greater readiness than many softer things.

"Nor did I look grim and forbidding. Roses of the woods had crept over me and wreathed me with bloom. Laurels leaned lovingly over me, and vines trailed in slender grace and beauty over my rusted form. I was a picture of peace, where "Winds blew sweet kisses from the scented south,

Flowers waved love-signals from the cannon's mouth.

"They talked of their parents, of their own forthcoming marriage, of affairs at home, of some property trouble wherein missing papers played an important part, which meant heavy loss to them, and of the thousand and one nothings, all somethings to young lovers, which interest those whose hearts have been touched by Cupid with the true gift of seeing. A million things deemed important by time-hardened worldlings, are less so than the gossamer filaments and trifles which love turns to threads and ingots of gold. "They bring exquisite happiness to young hearts, and happiness is not a trifle.

"Suddenly Inez, that was her name, uttered a little exclamation and pointed to my muzzle. There, framed in roses, sat a small red squirrel intently regarding the invaders. Her quick motion startled him, and with a brisk chirp he whisked out of sight, taking refuge in the department of the interior. The young girl poked into the aperture with a birch wand she had cut further in the wood, and there was great commotion within. A whole family of squirrels, some of them juveniles, dashed out helter skelter, frightening the pretty damsel into a leap and scream, followed promptly by pleased laughter from the young people.

"Her lover poked farther with the rod, and little by little drew out a nest. It was made mostly of leaves, but here and there were blades of grass, floss of the milkweed, scraps of paper, and among the latter one of considerable size which the young folks eagerly opened and read. Strange and mysterious are the ways of Providence. It was the missing memoranda needed to establish the girl's title to extensive plantations, and brief messages from the parents of both, written in blood, bidding their loved ones good-by and detailing the manner of their death. I had guarded their secret well. Why should I not now yield it gladly to those to whom it rightfully belonged?

"AS THEY SAT THERE I HEARD THEIR STORY."

"Long they talked of their wonderful find, of the goodness of God, of the parents they both loved, and their sentiments were union sentiments of the strongest kind, emphasized and strengthened by the memory of the great conflict in which their fathers together died. Ere they walked away in the twilight they had planned to buy me, and transfer me to their native town, not far away, and the fair maid actually hugged and kissed me as she bade me a temporary farewell. There were pearly drops of moisture on me and the roses which covered my roughness, as she turned away, that were not distilled from dew or sprinkled by the long familiar rains. In old-fashioned times Cupid accomplished his best surprises with bow and arrow, but now, if you please, he can use cannon, old, rusty, rheumatic and broken, just as well. I may be an old bore, but I can do as useful things as many people who look more gracious and less grim. Never judge an old veteran's heart by his rusty exterior and time-worn marks of wind, weather or war. Rough oyster shells hide more pearls than the smoothest shells glistening on tropic beaches do.

"Well, they secured a permit from Uncle Sam to remove me, and here I am, the observed of all observers, a properly certified relic of the war. I like it, too, though I sometimes sigh moodily for the sheltered ravine and its wildwood roses. Somehow these carefully groomed roses in the park have never seemed as free and fragrant. They are too prim and precise, like spinsters on parade. And as for the laurels of praise? What are they to the laurels which rubbed their pink cheeks lovingly against me in the shaded ravine, under the canopy of vines? But they make much of me here, installed me with music and speeches, garland me with flowers on Memorial days, laud me to the skies. Lovers lean against me in the summer evenings, and whisper their dearest confidences, relying upon my discretion, and old soldiers pat me lovingly, and they tell of stirring scenes in which I and my kind played star parts and made the welkin ring. Near me stands the soldiers' monument, and nearer still the tall staff from which floats the glorious star spangled banner for which I fought and fell.

"I saw my young folks (have not I the right to call them mine?) wed and made one. They paused to greet me on their way to the church near by, and I saw through the open door the dear little bride with canopies of flags and flowers above her shapely head, and sunbeams colored gayly by stained glass windows crossing her golden hair in tinted benediction. She stopped to pat me lovingly as she leaned on her noble husband's arm returning homeward, and I verily believe they look upon me as a sort of cast-iron shrine, for they often come to see me and exchange confidences, talking to me as to a friend of the family whom they consider quite one of themselves.

"One day, about a year after the wedding, Inez brought a pudgy, small, rather shapeless copy of herself to see me, introduced us and bespoke lasting vows of fidelity between the young patriot and myself. He is about six years old now, comes to see me, hand in hand with a smaller sister, and they both sit in my lap and take liberties with me unrebuked. He once filled me with firecrackers on the Fourth of July and set them off. It took me several days to overlook that prank, for the crackers were imported Chinamen, and I did not like their weak, sputtering travesty of real explosions. On the whole, however, we get along very well. He cannot pull my hair, as he does his father's, nor poke his prying young fingers into my eyes. As to my mouth, that is toothless, and barks only at enemies of my country and flag.

"Near by, visible across a corner of the park lawn, is their home. On the wall is a framed picture, the portrait of the two dead soldiers, one in blue and one in gray. Over it are crossed peacefully the swords they wore, in token of lasting peace as well as lasting remembrance, and draped above it a silken flag, the beautiful flag of our country, its stars bright, its hars typical of the red blood shed for its sake. Very lovingly it droops over the portraits, and its folds seem to cling as caressingly about the man in gray as about the man in blue. In that home there is love and respect for the soldiers of north and south. Peace, blessed peace, reigns supreme.

"This is the eve of Memorial day. I am garlanded with flowers and have been honored as a brave veteran should be by those he served and saved. The sun is setting, and not far away, on the beach, I see the family group, Inez, the husband, Inez, the two playful children, and in addition a sweet-faced babe in arms. The sea is like a mirror of molten gold, but near the shore its surface dimples into smiles and it lisps loving nothings to the listening sands. Outlined against the glorified sky, with its wondrous panorama of crimson and gold, pearl and amber, fleecy outlines made of angel plumage, tall pinnacles tipped with flame, floats proudly the flag we love. And far away on a distant hill, where rows of tombstones gleam whitely, I see the two headstones which point like finger-posts toward heaven, punctuating the beauty of love and friendship. It is a picture of quiet peace, the calm after the storm, the tranquil sequel to the tempest and turmoil of war. Noting the headstones in the confederate cemetery which adjoins the other I see that they also are covered with flowers, placed there by those who decorated the grassy couches of the sleeping boys in blue. God rest their souls! Lord keep their memories green!"

I. EDGAR JONES.

In Tents of Green.

In tents of green our heroes sleep,
Their slumbers undisturbed and deep;
The flag triumphant waves
Where comrades pass with solemn tread,
Sweet bloom of May again to spread
Above our honored braves.

All silent there, in calm repose,
They reck not friends, they fear not foes;
Their grounded arms are mute;
No drum's redoubling beat they hear,
No stern command, no victor's cheer,
Or sentry's quick salute.

In faded blue or faded gray,
The truce of God is theirs to-day,
So let them calmly rest;
Who won the field with sure renown,
A starry flag, a floral crown,
Above each hero's breast.

—Ruth Raymond, in N. Y. Ledger.

A Terrible Shock.

Great Editor's Wife—I regret to say, sir, that my husband is sick, and cannot see anyone.

Caller (sympathetically) — What seems to be the matter?

"I don't know; he has not uttered a word since he came in; he has received some terrible shock."

"Ah, I see. He probably ran across some man who never heard of his paper."—N. Y. Weekly.

A New Conjugation.

Wilkins—How do you conjugate the verb "move"?

Harleni—I move, thou movest, he or she moves; we swear, you swear, they swear.—N. Y. Truth.

In Chicago.

Ella—Fred says that if he had the world he would gladly lay it at my feet.

Stella—What would happen if you moved your feet?—Philadelphia Press.

BRYAN ON THE BONDS

The Free Silver Champion Replies to Chairman Dingley.

In a letter from Lincoln, Neb., on May 10, to the New York Journal, William J. Bryan reviews the statements of Chairman Dingley, of the ways and means committee, made in a late interview for the Journal. The following is Mr. Bryan's letter in its entirety:

"Chairman Dingley, of the ways and means committee, in his interview prepared for the Journal, reiterates the charge frequently made by the republicans during the past four years—namely, that the bonds were issued because of a deficit in the revenues, and he holds out the hope that the drain upon the gold reserve will cease when the deficit ceases.

"I do not believe that his theory will explain the drain upon the gold reserve, nor do I think that the hopes are well founded. While it is true that a large part of the money received from the sale of the bonds was used in making good the deficit in the revenues, yet at no time did the deficit cause the issue of bonds.

"Instead of being an injury, the deficit was during that period a benefit, because the money which accumulated from the sale of bonds could not have returned into the channels of commerce but for the deficit. It is probable, the gold would have been drawn out, even if the revenues of the government had equalled its expenses, then that money would have been held in the treasury, and business would have been crippled more than it was.

"The fact that gold withdrawals began before there was a deficit and ceased while the deficit was increasing shows that there is no necessary or intimate connection between the revenues and the withdrawals. If gold is needed for export it will be drawn out, no matter whether there is a current deficit or surplus, so long as the treasury stands ready to furnish gold on demand. The recent withdrawals of gold took place just at a time when for the first time in several years, the revenues exceeded the expenditures.

"The press dispatches did not attribute the late withdrawals to a deficit, nor did they attribute them to a loss of confidence. The reason given was that a new demand for gold had sprung up in Japan and Austria.

"If gold is desired for hoarding, or for the purpose of forcing an issue of bonds, it will be withdrawn, whether there is a surplus or a deficit, unless the secretary protects the government by exercising his option and redeeming in silver. When plain prices make ordinary loans unsafe and ordinary investments unprofitable the holders of idle capital are apt to advocate an issue of bonds for the purpose of securing a safe investment, and when the desire for bonds becomes strong enough they can draw gold from the treasury by presenting greenbacks and treasury notes and then use the gold to purchase the bonds issued.

"That such a plan has been contemplated by New York financiers cannot be doubted. Some three or four years ago one of the New York dailies declared that in case congress refused to retire the greenbacks with an issue of gold bonds the people who wanted greenbacks retired should systematically present them for redemption until they were all locked up in the treasury.

"That the New York financiers have used their power to discredit government paper is evident from the fact that when an attempt was being made to repeal the Sherman law they presented treasury notes for redemption. When they desired to force a retirement of greenbacks they presented greenbacks for redemption. So long as the secretary of the treasury surrenders to the holders of government paper the right to choose the coin in which payment is to be made, so long will it be possible for the financiers to present either treasury notes or greenbacks and draw out the gold.

"Mr. Dingley is in error in supposing that the redemption of $50,000,000 of greenbacks or treasury notes would make such a scarcity of small notes as to prevent further withdrawals of gold. We have sometimes had during the last four years considerably more than $50,000,000 of these notes locked up, and yet gold has been withdrawn.

"There has been a well-founded suspicion that much of the gold drawn out by the presentation of greenbacks and treasury notes was drawn out for the purpose of forcing a retirement of all government paper. If the financiers conclude to bring their influence to bear upon the present administration as they did upon the last they will have no difficulty in forcing an issue of bonds, unless the new secretary of the treasury shows more power of resistance than the last one.

"If the national banks succeed in securing the law which they have advocated for some years—namely, the law permitting the issue of bank notes up to par and reducing the tax on circulation from one per cent. to a quarter at one per cent. they may become interested in having more bonds issued to furnish a basis for bank notes. If they do, the process is very easy. All they have to do is to present greenbacks and treasury notes and draw down the gold reserve, then raise the alarm and proclaim that the credit is in danger.

"If the secretary of the treasury yields, as there is no reason to doubt he would, they could buy the bonds with the gold drawn out, and then issue notes upon the bonds purchased. By this simple process the banks would be able to secure a safe investment for their money, and then by issuing notes up to the face of the bonds would be able to use the money besides.

"It is difficult to conceive of a more advantageous transaction than that. Usually a man can either eat his cake or keep it; it is left to the national banker to both eat his cake and keep it. While others must be content to use their money, or if they invest in bonds must be satisfied with the interest on the bonds, the national banker can, by investing in bonds, enjoy the interest upon the bonds and then by issuing notes enjoy the use of the money also.

"I have referred to the fact that gold may be withdrawn expressly for the purpose of purchasing bonds. The records of the treasury department show that $18,000,000 were withdrawn for the purpose of paying for the first $50,000,000 of bonds issued, and the proportion has sometimes been greater than that. No one except a gold standard financier has been able to see the wisdom of a policy whereby bonds are issued to buy gold and then gold furnished to the purchasers to be returned to the treasury in exchange for the bonds.

"If the Dingley bill, as finally passed, yields a considerable surplus over and above the expenditures of the government, that surplus can be converted into greenbacks, and the greenbacks withheld from circulation, but if the surplus is used to purchase and retire government bonds, the greenbacks will go into circulation again. In other words, the greenbacks can only be kept in the treasury by a contraction of the currency, unless bank notes are increased as rapidly as the greenbacks are drawn in.

"It is true that when gold is exchanged for greenbacks the gold so paid out replaces the greenbacks in the circulation, but if bonds are issued for the purchase of gold the proceeds must be paid into the treasury if the revenues exceed the expenditures. If the secretary of the treasury continues to pay gold on demand and stands ready to replenish the reserve by bond issues, it will be possible for the national banks to lock up all the government paper in the treasury vaults, making, if they so desire, corresponding increase in the volume of national bank notes.

"The national banks want to retire the greenbacks. The question is: Will they demand the passage of a law providing for the retirement of greenbacks, or will they use the power which they now have to lock the greenbacks up in the treasury and burn them afterward?

"It is to be regretted that the republicans do not announce their policy upon the currency question. There is no doubt that many of the leading republicans favor a retirement of the greenbacks, and the president's inaugural address hinted at that policy, but there has been no formal announcement of it. It would be better if the people were advised in advance of the policy to be pursued, so that they could be considering it; but it has been the almost universal custom to rush through, with limited debate and with as little public discussion as possible, the measures which are a part of the gold standard policy.

"Mr. Cleveland urged through congress the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, although no party had advocated that measure before the people. After the unconditional repeal had been secured he recommended the retirement of greenbacks by an issue of gold bonds. That, too, was a measure which was never discussed by the public.

"From present indications the republicans intended to appoint a commission to consider the currency question and then push through, if possible, a bill providing for the retirement of the greenbacks after a commission of "eminent financiers," selected for the purpose, has reported in favor of such a plan."

THE "ENDLESS CHAIN."

Currency Reform Side-Tracked by the Republicans.

Now that gold to the amount of millions has just gone out of the country, and that more millions are likely to follow those that are gone, to the depletion of the gold reserves, perhaps the new administration will begin to understand that the currency question is not settled yet, and that there is not likely to be much security or confidence until it is settled, and settled in the right way. It was a nice thing to sit down in fancied security and let the single gold standard take care of itself, while congress was whiling away its time in promoting a scheme of tariff robbery, but now that the money power has grown tired of neglecting its opportunities out of consideration for those who strengthened its hold on the country's money of redemption, perhaps the administration will get up and stir itself. The "endless chain" has been turned loose on the treasury again, and there's trouble ahead.

The republican organs are trying to make it appear that there is no reason for apprehension; that there is no significance in this new gold drain, and that all will be well; but they made a great fuss over a similar state of affairs under the late administration and predicted all sorts of disaster as the result. Some of them now declare that trouble can easily be averted through a bond sale, but there was nothing too bad for them to say about bond sales some months ago. They seem to wish to imply that the fact that the republican party is in power and that it is pledged to maintain the single gold standard constitute all the security the public needs, but the public finds it hard to understand why keeping gold out of circulation to enable the money jobbers to speculate in it is all right with one party in power and a great evil under the rule of another party.

It was understood during the presidential campaign that reform of the currency system was absolutely necessary and that it would be forthcoming. The republican leaders deemed it emergent, however, to sidetrack the promised reform in order to give the campaign contributors the first call. They forgot, however, that the money power is not in business for purely hygienic purposes and that the single gold standard cannot be made to work to the general satisfaction by simply letting it alone. The laws of nature and those of finance won't suspend operation merely because an administration is tagged "republican."—Binghamton (N. Y.) Leader.

Sliding Into the River.

The village of Saint-Pierre-Livron, near Caylus, France, which is built on rocks overhanging the Bonnette river, has begun to slide slowly but steadily toward the foot of the valley. So far almost the entire village has advanced 300 feet. Four houses have entirely collapsed and the church of the village is now threatened. Military authorities at Montauban have been called upon for assistance, and have ordered the evacuation of the village since the sliding movement continues. Several hundred people are homeless and great suffering is entailed upon the inhabitants of the district.—Philadelphia Record.

Field for Inventive Genius.

The thing for inventors to produce is either a substitute for wood which will be as light and as inexpensive, or some uneostly process whereby wood can be made practically as impervious to fire as asbestos. When one reflects upon the many millions of dollars' worth of property which goes up in smoke every year solely because of the woodwork contained in the burned structures, it will be seen how great a need there is for such a discovery or invention as we have described, and how great a reward there would be for him who evolves it.—Pittsburgh Times.

—The confession that the Dingley bill as it came from the house, stamped with the McKinley administration's approval, fails as a revenue measure leaves protection standing naked before the country. It is thus revealed that the purpose of protection as it is upheld by the party in power is not to fill the national treasury, but to turn the stream of wealth which should go there from the custom house into the pockets of the citizens who are in the enjoyment of republican favor.—N. Y. Journal.

—The iniquity of protection is demonstrated by the fact that its advocates all want the tariff taxes put on the things they have to sell, while they are free traders when it is proposed to tariff the things they have to buy. Witness the kick Senators Lodge, Hoar and other representatives of the New England shoe and leather industry are making against the little matter of 1½ cents tax on hides.—Grand Rapids Democrat.

A railroad man in Topeka has confessed that he was responsible for one of the airships, having sent up a kite with two lanterns attached, as a joke. This accounts for one, but can it not be arranged to have a single confession cover the entire fleet?

PLAYED FOR A WIFE.

A NEW JERSEY WOMAN BETS HERSELF IN A POKER GAME.

A few years ago South Jersey had a well-known poker player in the person of Sophia Lee. Sophy she was called for short. She was a woman of masculine characteristics. She always declared that she was able to take care of herself under any and all circumstances, and she proved it by doing so.

She was born and bred in Cape May county. Her father fished for a living the year round in Delaware bay and the inlets on the east coast. Sophy was an only child, and from early girlhood until her father went to the bottom of the sea in his fishing boat during a southeast gale she was his companion on land and water. She knew the waters of Delaware bay and the east coast by heart, could take up a pound net as well as a man, and there wasn't a point about handling a boat with which she was not familiar.

After her father's death she took possession of his nets and boats and set about earning a living for herself, which she did easily. The woman was taught to play poker by her father, who was looked upon as the stiffest player in South Jersey. He was always at it when not at work, and the pots he lost were not to be compared with the number he won. His success at holding cards won for him the name of Lucky Job Lee, or abbreviated, Lucky Job.

When 18 years of age Sophy could play as clever a game as any of the old-timers, and at the age of 23 there wasn't a poker player in the county who hankered after taking a hand with her. She seemed to have inherited her father's luck, and, besides, she had the courage to meet all kinds of bluffs half way and did not hesitate to make one herself when she was satisfied that she could carry it through successfully.

Job Lee had a friend of the name of William Eaton. Eaton was 20 years older than Sophy, but he was anxious to have her for his wife. When he made the proposition to Job his answer was: "Go win her if ye can, Bill; she's big enough ter know whether she wants ter marry ye or not, an' ef she don't I ain't goin' ter make her."

Eaton mentioned the matter to Sophy, but she wasn't disposed to tie up to any man, and plainly told him so. But that didn't cool his (Bill's) ardor. He pressed his suit persistently, and Sophy as persistently refused him. Eaton was a lucky poker player himself, and he frequently sat in a game with Lee and his daughter. It happened that about a year after her father's death Sophy dropped into the tap room of Munson's tavern at Goshen one night. When she found Eaton and two of his friends engaged in a game she asked if she might take a hand.

She was welcomed to the game. The men saw an opportunity, they thought, to get back some of the money she had taken from them in times gone by. But Sophy had her luck with her, and she handled the cards carefully. In a short time Eaton's friends were broke and dropped out of the game. Bill was holding his own, and that fact evidently nettled Sophy, who began to put a dash into the game unusual for her.

Neither of the players was able to get very much the best of the game. Luck was about evenly divided. Finally Sophy started a jack pot, and, after the cards had been dealt a dozen times without the pot's being opened, the spectators began to get interested in the game.

At last Eaton opened the pot on Sophy's deal.

"I'll let ye in cheap, Sophy," said he, as he shoved $20 to the center of the table.

"I'm in," replied Sophy, putting up the money. "How many cards?"

"Two," replied Eaton.

Sophy dealt the cards and laid the pack on the table.

"Hain't you goin' ter take enny?" asked Eaton.

"I'll stand pat," replied Sophy.

"Bluffin' agin, eh?" said Eaton, with a grin, as he picked up his cards and looked them over. "Waal, I can't lay this hand down now. I'll bet $50 it's good." He put up the money.

"I'll bet $50 more you're beat," said Sophy, laying down $100 on the pile of paper and coin.

"I'll raise that $50," said Eaton, after carefully consulting his cards.

The betting went on until neither player had money. Eaton had raised Sophy's last bet, and the woman had no money to meet it.

"Bill," said she, looking across the table at her opponent, "you've wanted me ter marry yer for a long time, an' I hain't never wanted ter do it, and I don't now. I'll tell yer what I'll do ef yer think ye've got the best hand: I'll bet myself agin your sloop Marthy that I can beat ye, an' if I don't I'll marry ye to-night, right here, ef it can be done."

"I'll call ye," cried Eaton, almost before Sophy had finished speaking.

"Four kings," said Sophy, spreading out her cards.

"Four aces," said Eaton, spreading out his.

"I'm yourn," calmly remarked Sophy.

Eaton was wild with joy over his good luck, and a messenger was at once dispatched for Horace Trimble, a justice of the peace, to come to the tavern and marry the couple. Trimble was quickly on the ground. No marriage license was required in New Jersey, and he was ready to tie the knot. Eaton was making ready to have it done right away, but Sophy appeared to be deeply thinking about something. Finally she said to the justice of the peace:

"Trimble, you knowed my father, an' you've knowed me ever since I was a baby, an' father wus always your friend I'm goin' ter marry Bill, but I reckon we won't git along very well tergether, an' some day I may have ter look out fer myself agin. I don't perpose that Bill shall hev my boats an' things, so I want ter give 'em ter you, an' want you ter promise me that ef I ever want 'em back you'll give 'em ter me; will ye?"

"Here's my hand on it," said Trimble, grasping Sophy's hand.

Eaton was not pleased with this move. Sophy's boats and nets were valuable, and he especially desired to have control of them.

"That hain't fair ter me, Sophy," he said.

"Hain't it me and not my property ye want?" asked Sophy, gazing at Eaton.

"I want both," replied Bill Eaton.

"Ye don't git 'em," said Sophy. "I'm goin' ter give my boats an' nets away."

"Look here, Sophy," said Eaton, "you belong to me, don't ye? I won ye fair, didn't I?"

"Yes," replied Sophy.

"Then I'll tell ye what I'll do. I'll bet you against yer boats an' nets that I can git a better hand'n you can on a cold deal, an' we'll let Trimble deal the cards."

"You're playing in big luck to-night, Bill," said Sophy.

"I know I be," replied Eaton, "an' I want you an' your boats, too. Ye dasn't do it."

That challenge went to the mark.

"I'll do it, Bill Eaton," cried Sophy, "ef I die for it. Trimble, deal them cards."

The entire population of Goshen was in the tap room by this time, and the spectators crowded around the players in their eagerness to see the game in which a woman was playing for her freedom. Trimble dealt the cards.

"I don't believe I'll draw enny," said Eaton, with a grunt of triumph, as he spread his hand out on the table. He had three queens and a pair of jacks.

"Give me five cards," said Sophy. "I reckon 'tain't no use ter go against Bill's luck to-night."

Trimble threw down the cards face up. The first was a queen, the next a deuce, then two more deuces fell. Another deuce would beat Eaton's full hand. For the first time in her life Sophy showed signs of excitement. She chewed her lip till it bled.

"Hold on, Trimble," said she, "let's all have somethin' ter drink afore you throw that last card."

"Go on with the deal," cried Eaton.

Everybody's sympathy was with Sophy, and Trimble quietly said: "I'm handling these cards, Bill Eaton, an' I'll throw the last one when I get ready."

Everybody filled his glass.

"Now, boys," said Sophy, standing up, "ef ye ever prayed for anything in yer life, pray for another deuce."

"Here's hopin' fer a deuce," cried the men in a chorus, and then poured the liquor down their throats.

"All ready?" said Trimble.

"Ready," answered Sophy.

Trimble turned the fifth card, and it was a deuce. Sophy had won herself away from Eaton, who went angrily out of the room, with nothing more substantial than about $300 of Sophy's money.

That was a memorable night with the people of Goshen. The spigots in the tap room were turned on at Sophy's expense, and everybody celebrated in royal fashion.

That was the last time that Sophy ever gave a player an opportunity to win her hand in marriage at a game of cards. She remained single to the day of her death, which occurred in the fall of 1863, while she was attempting to rescue the crew of a bark that had foundered in a storm on the east shore, and her body was never recovered.—Cleveland Leader.

The Tame Fox.

Southey's story is of a tame fox at Bridgewater which had been brought up from a cub to run in the wheel as a turnspit. One day, however, his vagabond instincts proved too much for him and he determined to take a holiday. The fleshpots of his Egypt were as dust and ashes to his palate compared with the chickens of his own selection. Unfortunately he chose the hunting season for his excursion and soon came in contact with his hereditary persecutors. He evidently determined to give them a good run, for he took them twice through a stream called Parrot, after a grand circumtendibus, which involved a chase of nearly thirty miles; he made his way back with hounds in full cry and, reentering the kitchen, resumed operations in the wheel with as much unconcern as though he had never left it. The fat cook, with whom he was a great favorite, succeeded in beating the hounds off until the arrival of the huntsman, who humanely assisted in saving a life which, if sagacity and ingenuity be virtues, well deserved to be spared.—New Illustrated Magazine.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

A woman gets her ideal of nobility from men and a man gets his from women.

The longer a man studies women the more he likes them when they are little girls.

There are more ways than one to make women love you, but there's only way for each woman.

You can always tell whether a couple are married by the way they don't talk to each other in a restaurant.

After she has spent a certain amount of time with a man a girl always considers it wasted unless he has proposed to her.—N. Y. Press.

—It is a question which a boy hates worse: a wasp or a spider.

TREES AND FLOWERS.

Growers of hyacinths know what sweetness is.

The Baldwin apple has lost many of its friends of old.

The plants for next winter's window garden had better be now provided.

Why is the famous "Jaeque" rose a past number for winter forcing? Because Meteor, at one-fourth the cost, so well takes its place.

Thousands have been bitten. The peddler of rhododendrons, and blue roses, and everbearing strawberries, etc., had better be avoided.

Teach your children to plant trees. What a privilege it is, that any man may plant a tree that shall grow into a noble specimen, to adorn and bless this earth after the planter is gone.

Lilacs.—Not one or two plants of one or two kinds, but we like to recommend a mass of a dozen or a score of plants, in as many kinds. They never fail to give satisfaction.

Date Seeds.—Do your readers know that these start quite readily in a brisk hotbed? Sow the seed, and presently you have young palms, valuable for the window.

Sometimes we forget the part that plants play as useful medicines. As early as 1658 the faithful old diary-keeper, Evelyn, made this entry, June 10: "I went to see ye medical garden at Westminster, well stored with plants, under Morgan, a very skilled botanist."

Brooklyn, N. Y., has a tree-planting and fountain society. It exists for a purpose. It is faithful in the least as well as in greater things, for it is taking active steps against that common sin against the trees, viz., using them for bill-posting. There is a law against the practice in Brooklyn, as there is in many places. The society referred to is enforcing the law, and thus places that city ahead of most others.—Vick's Guide.

IN THE MAILS.

Germany will imitate the example of other European nations, and issue a different set of stamps for each of her colonies.

The prince of Wales is interesting himself in raising a hospital fund, and to help it along an English paper suggests that a special postage stamp be issued to commemorate it.

Portugal will issue a series of commemorative stamps upon the occasion of the quadricentenary celebration of the departure of Vasco de Gama on his famous voyage to the Indies.

The commemorative stamps issued last year by Bulgaria and commonly known by the name of Boris stamps were withdrawn from circulation on February 14, the first anniversary of their issue.

Two years ago some 20-cent St. Louis stamps were discovered, and the dealers promptly priced them at $2,000 each. At a recent auction sale one of these stamps sold for $300. That shows the difference between common sense and fancy prices.

The most northern postoffice in the world has recently been established by the Norwegian government on the island of Spitzbergen, off the north coast of Norway. There are practically no inhabitants in the vicinity, but the office is established for the convenience of excursionists who go there during the summer months.

One of the curiosities noted recently is a letter on which there were seven addresses. It was originally mailed from Seattle, Washington, to a party in Yokohama, Japan; but they left before the letter reached there. A label was pasted on it, with the address at the next station, and, not being received it followed to a number of other towns in Japan and China. At each station a new label was put on it, but the party was too far in advance, having in the meantime sailed for home and the letter was subsequently returned to the sender. There were on it three stamps, a number of labels and 13 postmarks.

RAILROAD ITEMS.

Nine-tenths of the railroad passengers in England travel third-class.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company has secured possession of dock property at Chicago and Milwaukee for the new lake line from Fairport.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, May 2:
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	2 85	@ 3 50
Select butchers	4 15	@ 4 75
CALVES—Fair to good light	6 00	@ 6 75
HOGS—Common	3 01	@ 3 60
Mixed packers	3 65	@ 3 75
Light shippers	3 55	@ 3 70
SHEEP—Choice	4 75	@ 4 85
LAMBS—Spring	6 00	@ 6 60
FLOUR—Winter family	3 35	@ 3 65
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 89½
No. 3 red	0 00	@ 81½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 29½
Oats—No. 2		@ 22
Rye—No. 2		@ 36
HAY—Prime to choice	11 75	@ 12 00
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 9 6.½
Lard—Prime steam		@ 3 65
BUTTER—Choice dairy	6	@ 8
Prime to choice creamery		@ 15½
APPLES—Per bbl	2 25	@ 2 50
POTATOES—Per bbl	1 00	@ 1 10
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	4 55	@ 4 87
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n		@ 94¾
No. 2 red	78½	@ 79¾
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 39¾
OATS—Mixed		@ 22½
PORK—New mess	8 75	@ 9 50
LARD—Western		@ 4 45
CHICAGO
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 60	@ 4 70
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 87
No. 2 Chicago spring	71¼	@ 72¾
CORN—No. 2	34½	@ 34¾
OATS—No. 2	18¾	@ 19
PORK—Mess	8 35	@ 8 40
LARD—Steam	3 80	@ 3 82½
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 90	@ 4 25
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	78½	@ 79
Corn—Mixed	29¾	@ 29½
Oats—Mixed	24	@ 24
LARD—Refined		@ 11 50
PORK—Mess		@ 16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 15	@ 4 50
HOGS—Western	4 40	@ 4 45
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 89
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 24
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@ 20
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 75	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 91
Corn—Mixed		@ 31
Oats—Mixed		@ 20
PORK—Mess		@ 9 25
LARD—Steam		@ 4 50

American Ingenuity.

American ingenuity has always been a wonder to foreigners. We know of no better illustration of it than is displayed in the manufacture of guns. For instance, the repeating shot gun made by the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Ct., which retails for about $20, will outshoot foreign hand made guns costing 20 times as much. This has been demonstrated time and time again. The leading shots of the country appreciate this and have put aside their expensive guns for the less costly but better shooting Winchester. The large illustrated Winchester catalogue is sent free upon request.

Thankfulness is always becoming. Most people have at least 100 reasons for being thankful to one for being sad and melancholy.—N. Y. Weekly.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

There is one thing that is always an alleviation of our wrong doings, and that is to hold others responsible for them.—N. Y. Weekly.

Dishonored Drafts.

When the stomach dishonors the drafts made upon it by the head of the system, it is necessarily because its fund of strength is very low. Toned with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, it soon begins to pay out vigor in the shape of pure, rich blood, containing the elements of muscle, bone and brain. As a sequence of the new vigor afforded the stomach, the bowels perform their functions regularly, and the liver works like clock work. Malaria has no effect upon a system thus reinforced.

Most men do not tell their wives about their business affairs until they get stuck.—Washington Democrat.

Shake into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. Cures painful, swollen, smarting feet and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. Greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. Is a certain cure for sweating, callous, hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Address Allen S. Olmstead, Le Roy, N. Y.

The world is full of miserable people who are so by reason of trying to get more than the world gives.—N. Y. Weekly.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.

Over 400,000 cured. Why not let No-To-Bac regulate or remove your desire for tobacco? Saves money, makes health and manhood. Cure guaranteed, 50c and $1.00, all druggists.

The trimmings on the summer hats are so heavy that a woman now says she weighs so-and-so "with my hat on."

"Star Tobacco."

As you chew tobacco for pleasure, use Star. It is not only the best, but the most lasting, and therefore the cheapest.

A mechanic has a great contempt for anybody who cannot do the same bit of work as well as he does.

I am entirely cured of hemorrhage of lungs by Piso's Cure for Consumption.—Louisa Lindaman, Bethany, Mo., Jan. 8, '94.

Most of us regret that we can't think of real mean things to say in a quarrel.—Washington Democrat.

Any kind of a bruise St. Jacobs Oil will cure at any time—no matter how bad.

Some people owe their good reputation to the loyalty of their friends.

"For 6 years had neuralgia." You haven't used St. Jacobs Oil to cure it.

The wasted mental force would do all the work in the world.—Ram's Horn.

Just try a 10c box of Cascarets candy cathartic, finest liver and bowel regulator made.

When a man gets a shave and a hair cut, he looks as good as new.—Atchison Globe.

"Can't cure my rheumatism!" You can, you must use St. Jacobs Oil.

Give a boy a dog and he will have a good time.—Washington Democrat.

It may come last, but St. Jacobs Oil is the best to cure sprains. It ought to be first.

Never beat a carpet when it is down.—Up-to-Date.

A GREAT deal of nonsense has been written—and believed, about blood purifiers. What purifies the blood? . . . .

THE KIDNEYS PURIFY THE BLOOD

AND THEY ALONE.

If diseased, however, they cannot, and the blood continually becomes more impure. Every drop of blood in the body goes through the kidneys, the sewers of the system, every three minutes, night and day, while life endures.

Warner's Safe Cure

puts the kidneys in perfect health, and nature does the rest.

The heavy, dragged out feeling, the bilious attacks, headaches, nervous unrest, fickle appetite, all caused by poisoned blood, will disappear when the kidneys properly perform their functions.

There is no doubt about this. Thousands have so testified. The theory is right, the cure is right and health follows as a natural sequence. Be self-convinced through personal proof.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

WHY SO MANY REGULAR PHYSICIANS FAIL

To Cure Female Ills—Some True Reasons Why Mrs. Pinkham is More Successful Than the Family Doctors

A woman is sick; some disease peculiar to her sex is fast developing in her system. She goes to her family physician and tells him a story, but not the whole story.

She holds something back, loses her head, becomes agitated, forgets what she wants to say, and finally conceals what she ought to have told, and thus completely mystifies the doctor.

Is it any wonder, therefore, that the doctor fails to cure the disease? Still, we cannot blame the woman, for it is very embarrassing to detail some of the symptoms of her suffering, even to her family physician.

It was for this reason that years ago Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., determined to step in and help her sex. Having had considerable experience in treating female ills with her Vegetable Compound, she encouraged the women of America to write to her for advice in regard to their complaints, and, being a woman, it was easy for her ailing sisters to pour into her ears every detail of their suffering.

In this way she was able to do for them what the physicians were unable to do, simply because she had the proper information to work upon, and from the little group of women who sought her advice years ago a great army of her fellow-beings are to-day constantly applying for advice and relief, and the fact that more than one hundred thousand of them have been successfully treated by Mrs. Pinkham during the last year is indicative of the grand results which are produced by her unequaled experience and training.

No physician in the world has had such a training, or has such an amount of information at hand to assist in the treatment of all kinds of female ills, from the simplest local irritation to the most complicated diseases of the womb.

This, therefore, is the reason why Mrs. Pinkham, in her laboratory at Lynn, Mass., is able to do more for the ailing women of America than the family physician. Any woman, therefore, is responsible for her own suffering who will not take the trouble to write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

MILLIONS NOW USE PEARLINE

REASONS FOR USING

Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa.

1. Because it is absolutely pure.
2. Because it is not made by the so-called Dutch Process in which chemicals are used.
3. Because beans of the finest quality are used.
4. Because it is made by a method which preserves unimpaired the exquisite natural flavor and odor of the beans.
5. Because it is the most economical, costing less than one cent a cup.

Be sure that you get the genuine article made by WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd., Dorchester, Mass. Established 1780.

The Monarch Bicycle

$100 A marvelous example of skillful workmanship—The only bicycle with absolutely true bearings.

$60 Saving in cost of machinery and labor enables us to furnish '96 patterns of Waverleys, improved and perfected, for $60.

Catalogue free from us or the dealer.

INDIANA BICYCLE CO., - - Indianapolis, Ind.

The Man who is Raising a Big Crop

—realizes that the harvest time is ahead. Ideal farming comprehends not only the growing of the tallest grain—the most tons-to-the-acre of hay; the best farming—the farming that pays—must contemplate something more than this; for there is a harvest time, and just in proportion as a crop is saved successfully, speedily and economically, in just that proportion may be measured the season's profit or loss.

McCORMICK

Harvesting Machines are the profit-bringing kind; they are built for long wear, hard work, light draft, and in short, to satisfy. There are other kinds that don't cost as much, but there's nothing cheaper than the best.

McCormick Harvesting Machine Company, Chicago,

The Light-Running McCormick Open Elevator Harvester,
The Light-Running McCormick New 4 Steel Mower,
The Light-Running McCormick Vertical Corn Binder and
The Light-Running McCormick Daisy Reaper for sale everywhere.

CANDY CATHARTIC

Cascarets

CURE CONSTIPATION

REGULATE THE LIVER

10¢ 25¢ 50¢ ALL DRUGGISTS

ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED to cure any case of constipation. Cascarets are the ideal laxative and cathartic; they never gripe or cause any natural results. Sample and booklet free. Ad. STERLING REMEDY CO., Chicago, Montreal, Can., or New York. 317.1

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

Wednesday, May 26, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Lexington's new court house will be fire proof.

Crows are worse in Western Kentucky than they have been for a long time.

The State administration ran behind during 1896 in the sum of $750,000.

It is said that Senator Lindsay will be allowed to name the postmaster at Frankfort.

Local fishermen say Dix river is full of fish and the sport is better than for many years.

According to the city assessor Georgetown's population has decreased 219 during the last year.

A mad dog near Uniontown bit four boys, who were taken to Henderson for the application of a madstone.

Rev. Geo. O. Barnes and Miss Marie are holding a meeting in Bowling Green court house with large crowds attending.

After four weeks of wedded bliss, Harry Clay, of Owensboro, told his wife he had a wheel loose in his head and disappeared.

The night raiders have notified the farmers of Clark County that they must not raise more than six acres of tobacco this season.

Governor Bradley pardoned two Christian county men who bet on the election on the condition that the money be devoted to charity.

J. J. Hetsch, the embezzling Newport ex-postmaster, pleaded guilty and was released on $10,000 bond, pending an appeal for pardon.

The Lesley meeting at Danville closed with 200 conversions and santifications; he advised his converts to join the church of their choice.

The legislative committee that investigated the Eddyville penitentiary demands the removal of warden Happy for incompetency and negligence.

Gov. Bradley refused to allow Dora Creech, a twelve-year old girl convicted of perjury in Owsley county and sentenced for one year to come to the penitentiary.

David Beckham, aged 15, who accidentally shot and killed his playmate Basil Abbott, at Henderson, was sentenced to ten days in jail for careless handling of fire arms.

Livingston don't want any saloons and don't intend to have them. This town is under the prohibitory law known as the five county act, and is glad of it.—Colonel.

The biggest revival ever held in the mountains is being conducted by Evangelist E. C. Tinsley, of the Christian Church, at Salyersville. More than 200 conversions have taken place.

Miss Emma Guy, the State Librarian, and Mr. William Cromwell, the lawyer and chief clerk of the Senate, will be married in the Methodist church at Bowling Green Tuesday, June 1.

Fifty barrels of varnish is used per month in the prison, and the State is paying 20 cents on each gallon in excess of any other manufacturer in the country. This is $20 per day on this item alone.

Mrs. Minnie Carlin, aged 43, daughter of Eldred Crabtree, of Daviess county, eloped with Geo. W. Shepherd, a 19 year old farm hand. Her father was the wealthiest farmer in Daviess county. She left a note telling her husband she would live with Shepherd the rest of her life.

Lincoln county's candidate for Judge, Mr. J. E. Lynn, has the advantage of most men in that he can appear to be in two places at one time, says the Interior Journal. He is a twin and is so much like his brother, John G. Lynn, that many cannot tell them apart. He can therefore go one way electioneering and send his brother another way, and thus get in double work without many people catching on.

The school census of Lexington, which the State Superintendent recently charged had in past years been padded, has just been completed for this year. It shows 1,581 school children less this year than last, but the School Board is not satisfied with the test, and asks the State Superintendent for time in which a systematic census may be taken. Total number of school children this year, black and white, falls below 9,000.

Convict Sinclair, who testified before the Senate Prison Investigating Committee that he had raised lumber tickets while acting as bookkeeper at the Frankfort penitentiary, made his escape one night last week. Officers have been sent in search of him. Sinclair was a trusty and Warden Hancock is being severely criticised for allowing him to remain such after the exposures concerning his part in the lumber steal. He was a very important witness for the State.

The Baptists of Kentucky will meet in the sixtieth annual session of their general association in Georgetown, Ky., Wednesday morning, June 16, at 10 o'clock. The annual sermon will be preached at night by the Rev. E. V. Baldy, of Bowling Green. The Kentucky Baptists ministers' meeting, of which the Rev. Dr. Joseph M. Weaver, of Louisville, is President, will meet Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, June 16, in the First Baptist Church, Georgetown, Ky. Mr. Mason W. Sherrill, of Louisville, is the only one living who was a member of the general association when it organized sixty years ago. Although in feeble health, he will probably attend this session.

CROP AND STOCK.

J. C. Caldwell, of Boyle county, sold 800 head of cattle at $4 65 per hundred. The total sale will amount to $50,000.

John Patten, of Todd county, has a cow that gave birth to a calf that had two heads, six legs and two tails. It didn't live.

Fred Harris has sold to Jas. H. Gentry his farm of 205 acres, about one mile from Danville, on the Lebanon pike, for $20,500.

In Boyle county Anderson & Spilman bought of Farris & Whitley four hundred acres of the growing crop of wheat at 65 cents per bushel.

The Commissioner of Agriculture estimates the condition of the wheat crop May 1, at an average of 95. In May '96 the condition was averaged at 74.

POLITIAL.

Hon. William B. Smith, of Richmond, and the only successful Bryan Elector in Kentucky, has announced himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

The term of Senator Wm. Lindsay will not expire until March 1901. One half of the State Senators (the holdovers) elected in November will vote for his successor. The members of the House, elected at the same time, will have no voice in the matter.

The negroes of Bell county, incensed at the white Republicans for refusing to support one of their number for a county office have organized a Democratic club one hundred and fifty strong. They say they are tired of doing all the voting, while the white Republicans get all the offices.

In response to the question if he would be a candidate for Governor next time, Gen. Hardin told a Cincinnati Enquirer reporter; "If the cordial greetings I get from our Democratic constituents are a fair criterion, I will not have to be a candidate, and my nomination will come spontaneously from the people."

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

There are more widows in Williamstown, in proportion to its size, than any town in Kentucky. There are thirty widows and only two widowers according to the Courier's count.

Three young strips of lads amused themselves one night last week throwing eggs, of various ages, at the colored preacher. The next day Judge White fixed the price at $5.00 and cost per throw.

Grant county has more men who are over six feet in hight than almost any other county in the State.

The primary election will be pulled off one week from next Saturday.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court.

Noah Sebree's Adm'r. Pltf.
vs
Mary A. Sebree, &c., Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court house door in Burlington, Boone county, Ky., to the highest bidder at Public Sale on Monday, the 7th day of June, 1897, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being County Court day, upon a credit of 6 and 12 months, the following described property, to-wit:

A parcel of land lying and being in Petersburg, Boone county, Kentucky, and known on the plat of said town as the south one-half of lot No 100 fronting 85 feet on Third street and running back at right angles 90 feet.

For the purchase price the purchase, with approved security or securities must execute bonds, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

J. B. BERKSHIRE,
Master Commissioner.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Ben F. Walnecott, Pltf.
vs } Equity
Garnett M. Riley, &c., Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in Burlington, Boone county, Ky., to the highest bidder, at public sale on Monday, the 7th day of June, 1897, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being County Court day, upon a credit of 6 & 12 months, the following described property, to wit:

A tract of land lying and being in Boone county, Ky., and bounded as follows: On the north by the Ohio river, on the east by the heirs of Lavina Adams, south and west by R E Kirtley and more particularly described thus: Beginning at a stone on the bank of the Ohio river the lower corner of Lavina Baisly's land; thence down the river s 55 w 49 poles to a stone, corner of George Baisly; thence with his line s 20½ e 200 poles to a stone in the line of G H Baisly's dower; thence with her line n 53 e 35 poles to a stone corner also of said Lavina Baisly; thence with her line n 27 w 200 poles to the beginning, containing 51½ acres more or less and being the same property described in a deed from Wm H Vaugn and Emily, his wife, to Sarah Montague now deceased, as recorded in deed book No 23 page 254 of land records of Boone county, Ky. I will first offer the undivided ½ interest in the above described tract or sufficiency thereof to satisfy the debt, interest and cost of plaintiff, Ben F Walnecott; if any remains of said undivided ½ interest, I will then sell said remainder and apply the proceeds to the debt, interest and cost of Harriet T Dwyer; I will then offer the remaining undivided ½ interest or a sufficiency thereof to satisfy the debt, interest and cost of Harriet T Dwyer.

Ben F Wainscott's debt, interest and cost, $1,991.89; Harriet T Dwyer's debt, interest and cost, $1,220 30.

For the purchase price the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bonds, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C.

NOTICE.

TUCKER, will be at Ezra Aylor's on Tuesday morning, at Doby Cook's in the afternoon, Ben Tauner's Thursday morning, and at Geo. Moor's on Friday in each week. JAS. H. AYLOR.

BUY-CYCLES HALF PRICE

HIGH GRADE 1897 MODELS

Guaranteed first-class materials and work throughout. Morgan & Wright double, or single tube pneumatic tires. Delivered anywhere free of charge. Save money by sending for our cycle catalog before buying.

POWELL & CLEMENT CO.

418 MAIN ST., CINCINNATI, O.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Abel Beemon's Adm'r Pltf.
vs
Rachel Beemon, &c. Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will hear proof by depositions as to the value of the Missouri land owned by Able Beemon at the time of his death, on Saturday, May 8th, 1897, at the law office of S. Gaines, in Burlington, Ky.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C.

RHEUMATISM LINIMENT.

L. MORELLI,
Box 123, - ERLANGER, KY.
AGENTS WANTED.
☞Price, 50 Cents Per Bottle.

Assignees' Notice.

All persons indebted to W. H. Smith are hereby notified that they must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said Smith must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

LEWIS RICE, Assignee.

Steam :-: Ferry

—AT—

TAYLORSPORT.

I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.

july-28 S. H. GOODIN.

SEASON OF 1897.

OAK KNOLL STOCK FARM.

UGO,

Chestnut Stallion, 16 hands high, foaled 1892, sired by Simmons 2744, (record 2:28,) sire of 63 in 2:30 list, and 7 in 2:15 list. 1st dam, Thirza by Almont Boy 4308, sire of Grafton, 2:20½, Bessie G. 2:25, etc. 2d dam, Dixie by Norman 25; 3d dam, Mollie Clay by Iron Duke he by C. M. Clay 18.

UGO is an exceedingly handsome horse, with plenty of size and faultless conformation; he has worked quarters in 40 seconds when 3 years old with six weeks training.

UGO will make the season of 1897, at Oak Knoll Stock farm, 1 mile west of Utzinger, and 3 miles east of Petersburg, Ky., on the Petersburg & Burlington pike. Service fee $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when mare is known to be in foal or parted with. Mares kept on grass at $1 50 per month, accidents and escapes at owners risk.

For particulars address
A. E. CHAMBERS, Jr.,
Utzinger, Ky.

CRESCENT HILL STOCK FARM.

1897. SEASON 1897.

TIMOTHY BOY, No. 27854

Bay horse foaled April 3rd, 1893, 16¼ hands high and weighs 1250 pounds in ordinary condition.

Sired by Wilkes Boy, 2:24; 1st dam, Aiga by Artillery, 2:21½; 2d dam, Valdosta by Nutwood, 2:18¾; 3d dam, Emma Arterburn by Mambrino Patchen 58, (dam of one and grand-dam of three in 2:30 list); 4th dam, Jennie Johnson by Sweet Owen, thoroughbred, gr-dam of three in 2:30; 5th dam, Thoroughbred, &c.

Wilkes Boy, 2:24, one of the best producing horses in Kentucky, is by Geo. Wilkes, 2:22, dam Betty Brown (dam of Anglin, 2:27½) by Mambrino Patchen, 58.

Artillery, 2:21½ by Hambletonian 10, dam Walls Star (dam of Modestie 2:26½) by American Star, 14, is fast becoming a great sire.

Nutwood, 2:18¾, (out of the dam of Maud S. 2:08¾,) is the sire of more 2:30 performers than any horse living.

TIMOTHY BOY is one of the best bred horses in Kentucky, a horse of great power, fine style and color, a pure gaited trotter, perfectly sound in every particular and should produce horses fit for either track, road or farm.

He will make the season at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when fact is known or mare parted with.

The Fine Black Jack, MIKE

Will make the season at $8 to insure a colt, money due when colts comes or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE:

MIKE is a black Jack, white points, 15½ hands high, good heavy bone, large head and ears, well built, good style and color. He is one of the best lookers in Northern Ky., and ought to make a grand breeder.

He was sired by Bill Collins, dam Nell, a fine black Jennet 16 hands high, by Sinkhole; 2d dam, Graves' Jenny, by Black Samson, jr.; 3d dam, Jenny by Mogul. Bill Collins is by Bourbon Chief, is 16 hands high and one of the best mule jacks in Central Kentucky, and sold for $1,800.

Timothy Boy and Mike will stand at Daniel Bedinger's farm, 3 miles west of Richwood, Ky., on the Richwood & Beaver pike.

☞Mares kept on pasture at $1.50 per month.

J. C. BEDINGER, Richwood, Ky.

Andy Scheben,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

Wines, Liquors AND BRANDY.

Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.

LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

H. S. STEVENSON.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

DENTIST.

Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.

☞OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE

Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain. The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN. Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.

Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North. Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

EGGS—Pure barred Plymouth Rock eggs for hatching; pen No. 1, $1.00 per 13; pen No. 2, 50c per 15. Mrs. R. O. Smith, Union, Ky. Stone House.

OUR Doors Stand Open! And we make no bones ☞in giving you prices ☜Openly.

We never felt in better humor for business than NOW. So we will ask for your attention a little while.

—We Will Sell You—

H. and E. Boston Standard fine Gran. Sugar, per lb	5c	Navy Beans 3 qts. for	10c
Coffees from 12½c to 30c per pound		Dried Peas 2 quarts for	5c
White Satin Flour (extra fine) 5.25		Battle Ax Tobacco, per lb	20c
Essex Soap (best for the money) two bars for	5c	Polar Bear Smoking, 4 pkgs	15c
Baking Powder, from 8c per lb. up		Six for Ten per plug	15c
Pure Pepper, ground, per lb	15c	Teas from	15 to 80c
Canned Corn, from 5c to 12c		Good Table Peaches, 3 cans	25c
Pearl Barley, 2 lbs. for	5c	N. O. Molasses, two gallons	65c
Evaporated Apples, per lb	5c	Extra Fine Syrup, two gallons	35c
Fine Evap. Peaches, per lb	7½c	H. L. Oil, per gallon	8c
Prunes, per pound, from 5c to 12c		"Crown" Gasoline, per gal	9c
Good Rice, per pound	5c	Onion Sets, per quart	10c
Sweet Chocolate, per cake	5c	3 packages Garden Seed	10c
Baker's Chocolate, per lb	40c	Pratt's Poultry Food at list.
Enamiline, per box	4c	6 dozen Cloths Pins for	5c
Rising Sun Polish, 6 for	25c	Rolled Oats, per pound	2c
		Langdon's Bread, 6 loaves for	25c

And Numerous other Good Values that require too much space to quote. Yours Earnestly,

IRA AYLOR, Erlanger, Ky.

C. W. ROBINSON,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,

ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,

Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.

GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.

Constance, Ky.

E. H. RIGGS,

—Dealer in—

HARDWATE, STOVES, LIME,

—CEMENT, ETC.—

TIN, IRON AND SLATE ROOFING.

FLY SCREENS NOW ON HAND.

Erlanger, : : : KY.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.

62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,

E. H. BAKER, Proprietor

(o)

Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.

Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.

Horses Sold on Commission.

Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.

FRY & REIB,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of

Marble & Granite Monuments

HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,

109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K

Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. } Designs Furnished Upon Application.

PICK THE WINNERS and TAKE THE MONEY!

PICK

To the first Subscriber who guesses the names of all the Winners in the Primary Election to be held in this County,

JUNE 5th, 1897,

The RECORDER will give $5; to the second correct guesser, $3; to the third correct guesser, $2; to the fourth correct guesser, ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO THE.....

RECORDER.

TO ENTITLE A PERSON TO A GUESS

He must be a new Subscriber for ONE YEAR, commencing on or after JANUARY 1st, 1897; or One Who Has Paid Up all arrears to January 1st, 1897, and for ONE YEAR in advance of that period. No one subscribing or paying for less than one year's subscription will be entitled to a guess.

Fill out the following blank and send or mail it to this office, when you comply with the above conditions, and the date of its reception will be marked on it, when it will be preserved until June the 7th, 1897, on which date a committee will be selected to decide who are entitled to the prizes. No guesses received after 12 o'clock noon June 1st. 1897.

I guess the following persons will be nominated at the Democratic Primary, June 5th, 1897, for County Offices:

County Judge.	Assessor.
County Clerk.	Jailer.
Circuit Clerk.	School Superintendent
County Attorney.	Surveyor.
Sheriff.	Coroner.

For Representative.....

Name..... } Rec'd.....

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 2, 1897. NO. 32.

BUSINESS is very, very dull in Louisville. A saloonkeeper made an assignment there, one day last week.

FOR each Palmer and Buckner Democrat in Kentucky there are twenty-six straight-out-from-the-shoulder, regular Democrats.

WHAT has become of the Hon. William Lyons of the city at the mouth of the Licking? Has he dropped through a knot hole in the floor?

THERE are five Republican candidates for the nomination to fill the vacancy in office resulting from the death of Congressman Holman, of Indiana.

IT looks very much like Senator Deboe has the ear of the administration, and that the official patronage in Kentucky will be distributed according to his directions.

IT is said that Senator Elliston, of Grant county, will be a candidate for renomination and election by the Democrats. The Senator is not posted as to the sentiment in his district.

GOV. WORTHINGTON increased the number of vacant cells in the penitentiary while Gov. Bradley attended the Nashville exposition, last week. He is quite a pardon mill, and when set going grinds them out pretty fast.

THE State Department has been officially informed that the Sultan of Zanzibar Seyyid, Hamoud Bin Mahomed Bin Said, has abolished slavery. While in the business the Sultan ought to have abolished about four-sixth of his own name.

MR. LEIBERTH has not got the Collectorship nailed down yet, and the opposition to his appointment increases as the days roll by. The last to enter the contest is D. B. Wallace, editor of the Warsaw Independent and a good man for the place.

THOSE Louisville fellows who have been advocating Democratic harmony for several months past want 130,000 Democrats to allow the 5,000 who voted for Palmer and Buckner to dictate to them the terms upon which they are to unite.

JOHN HODGE and Geo. Washington are candidates for Circuit Judge in Campbell county. Judge Helm was not allowed the privilege of dictating to the Democrats of Campbell the platform on which to place the candidate and he withdrew from the race.

THE canvass for the Democratic nominations for county offices now drawing to a close has been long and active, and, it is a pleasure to say, a good natured one on the part of the aspirants. The bitterness that usually crops out during a campaign has not appeared, and it is to be hoped will not show itself this late in the day. The conduct of the campaign is a credit to the candidates and their friends.

GOV. BRADLEY has refused to approve the April pay-roll for the Eddyville prison on the ground that the expense for guards exceeds the limit fixed by the Prison Commissioners, and that the pay-roll included full pay for Warden Happy, although the Warden had been absent half the time. The Governor is doing the correct thing, and is entitled to praise for calling to time his subordinates who are disposed to rob the State.

STRONG influence was brought to bear upon Gov. Mount, of Indiana, to induce him to delay the special election to fill the vacancy in the office of representative of the Fourth Indiana Congressional District, but seeing that times have not improved, as promised, since the election of McKinley he said to those urging a late election: "If we could not carry the district last fall how can we expect to carry it this year, when the conditions are far less favorable? I do not see what is to be gained by having a late election; nor is there any advantage in holding it at a date earlier than the middle of August, and not then if there is not a decided change in conditions confronting the interests of the farmers. The date of the election is not what concerns the advantage of this or that party. It relates solely to the convenience and wishes of all the people of the district. To take any other view of it, and acting thereon, would be prostituting the office of Governor for party ends, and that I will not do."

A CARD.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF BOONE CO:

I find, on account of my health, the condition of which requires a Special Course of Treatment, that I will not be able again to take an active part in my campaign for the Nomination for County Judge, and, therefore, I earnestly request my friends to take up my work where I have been compelled to leave it. I make this personal appeal because I feel assured, from the warm expressions of friendship lately received, that I have the race won by a nice margin; but will now have to rely on my friends holding me in the lead.

GENTLEMEN:—IF NOMINATED AND ELECTED I WILL BE IN THE OFFICE EVERY DAY IN THE WEEK, SO ALL PERSONS HAVING BUSINESS WITH THE COUNTY JUDGE CAN SEE ME AT ALL TIMES. Very Respectfully,

C. C. ROBERTS.

The Democrats of Boone county met in mass convention at the court house at 2 p. m., last Saturday to select delegates to attend the convention that meets in Frankfort to day to nominate a candidate for clerk of the court of appeals. The convention was called to order by D. E. Castleman, chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee, who stated the object of the convention. W. L. Riddell was elected secretary. The following committee was appointed to select twelve delegates and twelve alternates to cast Boone's votes in the State convention at Frankfort: Chas. Schramm, B. W. Adams, J. B. Tolin; and the committee reported the following delegates and alternates:

Delegates—S. W. Tolin, J. G. Furnish, J. M. Lassing, N. S. Walton, R. A. Brady, J. S. Clutterbuck, P. E. Cason, W. B. Grubbs, A. B. Rouse, W. L. Riddell, Ira Wingate, Harry Adams.

Alternates—Tom Watts, J. T. Dempsey, John Finch, J. E. Botts, J. G. Kennedy, F. L. Gordon, J. L. Fraizer, John F. Green, L. C. Cowen, Dr. Williamson, J. B. Tolin, J. C. Revill.

The report of the committee was adopted.

The following resolutions were adopted: Resolved—

1. That the Democracy of Boone county, in mass convention assembled, heartily reaffirms its adherence to the principles embodied in the platform of the recent Democratic national convention when convened at Chicago.

2. That we commend the course of the Democratic members of the present legislature, and particularly the efficient service of the Hon. J. G. Furnish, the member from Boone.

3. That to all true Democrats and to all other persons who desire to obtain political enlightenment and a correct statement of current events, we earnestly recommend the Louisville Dispatch, the organ of the Democratic party in the South, which we esteem to be a great newspaper and an able exponent of true Democracy.

4. That the delegates selected at this meeting be instructed to vote as a unit on all matters pertaining to the convention, and in case the full number of delegates or alternates is not present at the State convention, that those who are present shall have the authority to cast the entire vote of the county.

5. That it is the desire of this meeting to have the vote of Boone county cast for Robert L. Green for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, and the delegates having the authority to cast said vote are instructed to vote for him as long as his name is before the convention.

The following preamble and resolution were adopted:

Whereas, At the coming State convention to be held in Frankfort, Ky., June 2d, 1897, it becomes necessary to re-organize the Democratic party of the State, and we, the Democracy of Boone county, having always been faithful both to the principles of Democracy and the nominees of the party, and having always maintained a Democratic majority not surpassed by any county in the State, in proportion to the total vote, and believing that such faithful service and uniform strength worthy of recognition,

Resolved, That we believe J. M. Lassing a suitable and worthy person to be a member of the State Central Committee for the Sixth District of Kentucky, and we recommend him for said place and ask the Democracy of said district to give us the honor in his selection, and we instruct our delegates to use all honorable means in securing his recognition.

Pith of the Press.

Mr. Hanna will discover that he made a mistake when he said that the financial question was settled.—Rochester Times.

Dr. Hunter, Dr. Deboe and Dr. James have taken charge of Republican politics in Kentucky. The coroner's name has not yet been mentioned.—Chicago Dispatch.

Kentucky manhood has certainly degenerated as exemplified in the Legislature when the members condescend to use their fists. What has become of the old-fashioned hip-pocket fire-arm?—Indianapolis News.

Of course Mr. Wanamaker's remarks amount to nothing, but you have observed, perhaps, that they are calling forth a whole lot of denunciation and explanation from his fellow Republicans.—Omaha World-Herald.

Henry Watterson's announcement that Grover Cleveland is a candidate for a third term does not astonish us. We reserve our astonishment for the announcement that Mr. Cleveland is not a candidate for a third term.—New Haven Register.

It is reported that Senator Deboe offered to pay one Kentucky office-seeker the amount the salary of the office would net him if he would quit and go home. Suppose the members of the Kentucky Legislature had made such a proposition to Mr. Deboe?—Washington Post.

Mr. Foraker succeeded in unearthing some information that is by no means creditable to Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Olney. It is quite likely that Mr. McKinley will advise Mr. Sherman that it is not safe to give Mr. Foraker the run of the State Department.—Toledo News.

It is too bad that the Southern people decline to take Hon. William D. Bynum and his crusade for sound money seriously. When a man like Mr. Bynum makes such great sacrifices for the good of his fellow countrymen they should at least refrain from laughing at his efforts.—N. Y. Journal.

If a mosquito bite is really an accident, as decided by a Kentucky court, it is certainly time that we knew it. Think of the cases some of us have had against summer resort hotel proprietors without ever knowing it! We might have recovered a small part of the board bill in damages.—Chicago Post.

Secretary Alger should bear in mind that he is at the head of the War Department and not an authority on finance. A man who could be bilked out of a small fortune by purchasing a hand-painted hillside in the belief that it was a coal mine is not capable of teaching the American people the rudiments of finance.—Omaha World-Herald.

Madison county claims the distinction of having within its borders the oldest burying ground in Kentucky, says a Richmond special. It is known as the Holly graveyard, and is located on Dr. McGuire's farm, 11 miles north of Richmond, at Shearer's Station, and but two miles from the site of the old fort at Boonesborough, many of whose former pioneer inmates are buried there. There are perhaps 30 headstones still standing, dispite the ravages of over a century. One of these is that of Mrs. Holly, wife of Frank Holly, a companion of Boone who, according to the inscription thereon, was interred in 1778.

The last company of Indian soldiers in the service of the government was mustered out at Fort Sill on May 31. The red man is a very poor soldier; he will not endure discipline and cannot be taught regular habits. The United States has been engaged in the experiment for six years, and has finally abandoned the attempt in making soldiers out of the Indians. The red man positively refuses to obey the reveille call in the morning and will not go to bed when taps are sounded at night. His untutored mind cannot comprehend the usefulness or necessity of army regulations and no amount of punishment can make him amenable to orders. He has been a great success as a scout on some go-as-you-please expedition, but he cannot be tied down to the hum-drum drill and dull routine of camp or garrison duties. He will not perform guard duty at all and looks with contempt upon the little services that are expected of enlisted men in the regular army. It was hoped by many humanitarians that a useful career might be found for the Indians in the military service of the United States, but the utter failure of the experiment is freely admitted and it is doubtful if it will ever be tried again.

Election Officers.

The following are the names of the men appointed to act as election officers for the Democratic primary election for Boone county to be held June 5th, 1897:

Bullittsville—C W Riley and G E McGlasson, Judges; William Clayton, clerk; Bruce Henry, sheriff.

Constance—W E Walton and Leonard Crigler, judges; E W Rouse, clerk; Walter Gordon, sheriff.

Union—James A Huey and J W Conner, judges; J L Frazier, clerk; W W Conner, sheriff.

Florence—Howard Blankenbeker and L M Ware, judges; W P Carpenter, clerk; T B Castleman, sheriff.

Hamilton—John F Green and R L Huey, judges; G M Allen, clerk; A L Miller, sheriff.

Carlton—Charles Craig and W H Nelson, judges; Moses Scott, clerk; Don Williamson, sheriff.

Burlington—Joseph. Lillard and James Clore, judges; N E Riddell, clerk; W J Rice, sheriff.

Petersburg—James W Barnett and Martin Geisler, judges; Ira Wingate, clerk; Clay Hensley, sheriff.

Verona—C W Waller and B S O'Neal, judges; W M Whitson, clerk; L E Persifull, sheriff.

Bellevue—J J Walton and Robert Rice, judges; D M Snyder, clerk; W B Arnold, sheriff.

Beaver—Geo Ossman and Geo Moore, judges; John L Noell, clerk; Omer Cleek, sheriff.

Walton—William Holder and Thomas J Fleming, judges; Bert Coffman, clerk; Jerry Carpenter, sheriff. D. E. CASTLEMAN,

Ch'm Boone Co. Dem. Ex. Com.

SOME of the banks of this State, in order to avoid the oppressive effect of the recent decision of the Court of Appeals in reference to taxing banks, have determined to reduce their capital stock to such an amount as can be profitably employed, notwithstanding the decision of the court, but the Secretary of State holds the opinion that none of the banks of the State can pursue that course, except such as have filed with the Secretary of State, their acceptance of the provisions of the present constitution; and that such acceptance must have been filed before the present corporation act went into effect. The Secretary of State is reported as basing his opinion upon section 570, Kentucky Statutes. That section provides that no law shall be passed for the benefit of any corporation theretofore organized under the laws of this State, or of anyother State, and that no corporation shall avail itself of the benefit of said act unless the corporation shall previously have accepted the provisions of the constitution in the manner provided by the act. It will be seen by reading said section carefully, that it fixes no time within which such acceptance of the provisions of the constitution must be made. By section 537 it appears that the provisions of all charters obtained by special act or under the general law so far as inconsistent with the present incorporation law will stand repealed after the 28th of September, 1897; and that after that date the provisions of the present incorporation law shall apply to all corporations created or organized under the laws of this State, provided said provisions would apply to them if organized under said act. The constitution provides, section 190, that no corporation in existence at the time of the adoption of the constitution shall have the benefit of future legislation without filing with the Secretary of State its acceptance of the provisions of the constitution, but it is silent as to within what time the acceptance shall be filed. The last paragraph of section 537 before referred to is, seemingly, intended to put all corporations under the general law after September 28th, 1897, whether they accept the constitutional provisions or not; but the provisions of section 190 of the constitution declares that no corporation shall have the benefit of future legislation without such acceptance—a seeming conflict. The provisions of the statute and constitution, bearing upon the acceptance of the constitution by corporations antedating the constitution, provide no limit to the time in which such acceptance must be made.

It is said that President McKinley has decided to appoint H. D. Tinsley, a South Dakota Democrat, to an important position in the Treasury Department at the request of Senator Kyle. The latter's vote is absolutely necessary to the Republicans if the tariff bill is to be passed in the Senate, and gossip has it that Mr. Kyle will demand a pretty liberal share of Federal patronage.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

THIRD YEAR.
OF WALTON ACADEMY,
—opens—
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 21st, 1896
AT WALTON, KY.
Three Courses of Study to choose from:
English, Scientific or Classical,
Tuition per month for Higher Branches..... $3.00
Tuition per month for Common School Branches..... 2.50
We will have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected. Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for five days.
Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS. CHAS. F. PRIOR. Rev. S. H. MYERS.
Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
N. S. WATON, President, Ulzinger, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.
Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.
FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE : ME : A : CALL.

Wm. F. GOETZE

Scientific Optician.
Headquarters at Hornberger's Jewelry Store,
LAWRENCEBURG, - - INDIANA.
Your eyes tested free of charge and correct glasses fitted at moderate prices.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
If your eyes are effected in the least, give me a call and don't run chances of ruining your vision by buying from peddlers or quacks.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.
Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.
East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m, 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown...7:20 a. m, 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown...10:40 a. m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m
O. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch19-93.

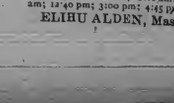
W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.



W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 3.000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,

DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

TIME CARD OF THE

STEAMER PAULINE.
Leave Petersburg for Lawrenceburg, 6:30 am; 9:00 am; 11:00 am; 1:30 pm; 4:00 pm.
Leave Lawrenceburg for Pete and Aurora, 7:50 am; 9:30 am; 11:30 am; 2:50 pm; 4:30 pm; Leave Aurora for Pete and Lawrenceburg, 8:30 am; 10:30 am; 1:05 pm; 3:30 pm. Aurora for Petersburg only, 5:15 pm.
Leave Petersburg for Aurora, 8:40 am; 10:00 am; 12:40 pm; 3:00 pm; 4:45 pm.
ELIHU ALDEN, Master.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

A good many people have been talking and writing about "marriage a failure," but it is to be observed that the list of men who have more than one wife seems to be increasing.

Vermont's governor adds to his salary of $1,500 by tapping 45,000 maple trees and marketing 12,000 pounds of sugar annually. There is no need to talk up forestry to that governor.

The farmers' products make up the great bulk of American exports. Last year the United States exported $569,000,000 worth of products, and $504,000,000 of it was from American farms.

Mayor Strong, of New York, in an interview says he obtained 1,000 bricks from the old tomb of Gen. Grant in order to present them to the grand army posts and other organizations throughout the country.

A company has been formed in Maine to make silk from spruce trees. If the woods are to furnish the world with fine wearing apparel as well as paper, the cause of forestry should receive increased attention.

The British government has settled the indemnity claim made by President Kruger, of the Transvaal republic, for $1,000,000. Kruger wanted some $15,000,000, but he concluded to climb down as he knew he couldn't get it.

By the narrow majority of 479 votes in a total of 32,000 Toronto has voted to have its street cars run on Sunday for the next three years. This odd election is held every three years, but the last two decided against the Sunday cars.

It is safer to travel in England than to stay at home. Out of 930,000,000 passengers carried by the railroads of Great Britain last year, 386 were killed, while 586 were killed in London by falling from buildings and out of windows.

Nowadays, when women are just venturing to ride horseback astride, it is interesting to know that Queen Anne, consort of Richard II. of England, was the first woman to ride a side saddle, previous to that women riding as did the men.

In south Florida, which was once a vast orange grove, a large crop of tobacco will be raised this year, and its quality is said to be equal to that of Cuba. The freezing of the orange trees has taught the people of Florida much about their other resources.

The extent of the swindle perpetrated upon English and French investors in South African mining shares is suggested by the fact that in 1895 41 mining companies sold at a valuation of $610,000,000, and the present valuation of these mines is $215,000,000—a decline of 65 per cent. in 18 months.

American manufacturers, encouraged by the fact that paper railroad rails have been successfully introduced in Germany and Russia, are experimenting along the same lines. Paper car wheels have given satisfaction for many years, and results so far attained indicate that rails made from the same material will be equally desirable.

Military men claim to have made the curious discovery that the most powerful modern guns do not send a shot through an embankment of sand 30 feet thick. The projectile, following the line of least resistance, curves upward through the sand and is rendered harmless. If the theory is confirmed coast defense will be cheap and easy.

A paper at Union Point, Ga., says: "A girl in this place says her mother has promised to give her $1,000 if she will get married and keep quiet about the whole affair until it is over. The young lady herself offers to give $500 of the amount to the gentleman who will take her. Step up, boys; she's all right, and pretty as a peach." Has Cupid been driven into the brokerage business in Georgia?

Dr. J. Mount Bleyer, of New York, has invented an instrument for photographing sound vibrations in the atmosphere. He considers the invention of equal importance with the discovery of the Roentgen rays. Dr. Bleyer was associated with Mr. Edison in perfecting the phonograph, and it was then that he conceived the idea of recording the vibrations of the human voice by means of photography.

With what rapidity the "boys of 1861" are passing away is shown by the report and estimate prepared by Col. Ainsworth, chief of the record and pension office of the war department. There are now 1,095,628 survivors of the soldiers of the civil war, and Col. Ainsworth estimates that the number in 1900 will be but 999,939; in 1905, 820,687; in 1910, 626,231; in 1920, 251,727; in 1930, 37,033; in 1940, 340, and in 1950, none. The debt which the nation is paying its defenders in the form of pensions will be lessened in like ratio.

If results of scientific research be accepted, it is doubtful if the Noachian deluge caused as much damage to property as the floods this spring in the Mississippi valley. The losses in the states of Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas alone are estimated at $10,000,000. While the figures in such a disaster represent a rough computation, and must include indirect as well as direct damage, there is little reason to challenge the count. The flood has passed, but possibilities of repetition are too strong to permit abatement of the inquiry into the best means of prevention.

THE CAPITAL.

The Marietta, on Her Trial Trip, Made 12.8 Knots Per Hour.

Whitelaw Reid Pays a Hurried Visit to the Capitol—Bill for Taxing Certain Occupations Introduced in the House —Representation at the Jubilee.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The navy department has given orders that the new gunboat Helena be put in commission on the 15th of next month at New York instead of the gunboat Annapolis, that is, if there shall be only enough men for one crew, the Helena will take them. The boat is to be employed in the patrol of the Florida coast instead of two revenue cutters now serving in that capacity. The Helena is chosen because she is of lighter draft.

A telegram received at the navy department from the builders of the gunboat Marietta, which has been engaged in making her first trial trips off the California coast, states that the ship made 13.8 knots per hour for four hours Wednesday. She was required to make not less than 13 knots. There is no provisions for premium for speed.

Hon. Whitelaw Reid paid a hurried visit to the capitol Thursday, arriving here Thursday morning and taking his departure Thursday afternoon. During the day he called at the white house and had lunch with the president. Mr. Reid's visit was for the purpose of talking over with Mr. McKinley the proffer made to him Wednesday of accepting the honor of special ambassador of the United States at the queen's jubilee. Before leaving for New York he accepted the mission and will represent the United States on that occasion.

Representative Wheeler, of Kentucky, introduced a bill in the house Thursday for taxing certain occupations. The taxes proposed are based on the amount of capital invested. Companies engaged in petroleum business in any form are to be taxed from $500 on $100,000 to $25,000 on $5,000,000. Other branches of business to be taxed are iron and steel railways and street railways, banks, stock exchanges and glass, wool, silk, paper, leather and sugar manufactrers.

The president has still under consideration the question of representation of the United States at the queen's jubilee next month. He has already provided for the representation of the army by Maj. Gen. Miles, and of the navy by Adm. Miller, and the question that remains to be settled is whether or not a special civilian ambassador shall be appointed in addition or whether Ambassador Hay with the aid of a set of special credentials shall be allowed to act for his government. The precedents of the department and the inclination of the officials are in favor of the latter course, but it appears that most of the great powers of the world will send special ambassadors to do extraordinary honor to her majesty, so that it may be that rather than stand apart in this matter and appear to be lacking in consideration the president will conform to the general rule. In this case the name he has under consideration is that of Whitelaw Reid, of New York.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The United States civil service commission will hold an examination in all the large cities in the country on June 26 to establish a register of eligibles for the position of inspector of woolens in the quartermaster's department, U. S. A. There is at present a vacancy in the position of inspector at Philadelphia, the salary of which is $1,500 per annum.

The commission will also hold an examination in all the large cities throughout the country, where there are applicants, on June 26, to establish a register of eligibles for the position of engineer and electrician. There is at this time a vacancy in the position of engineer and electrician at the Rosebud agency boarding school at Rosebud, S. D., the salary of which is $1,000 per annum.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Representative Lewis (dem., Wash.) endeavored to bring the Cuban question before the house Thursday as a privileged question on the ground that it concerned our foreign relations. He offered a resolution declaring it to be the sense of congress that the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents should be recognized. Speaker Reed declared it out of order and on appeal the house, by 91 to 57, sustained the speaker. The house then adjourned until Monday.

Christian Mission Attacked.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Private advices per the steamer Glenavon which arrived Thursday from Yokohama state that the province of Kweichasan, China, was the scene of an attack upon the Christian mission recently, and it is rumored that Rev. Father Mazell, who was in charge of the chapel at Lolli, was murdered. It is feared that other whites were massacred. Owing to the remoteness of the scene it was impossible to obtain any details of the affair.

Earthquake Shock in Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 28.—There was an earthquake shock here Thursday night at 10:15. From the time the rumble was perceptible till the shock was over was 65 seconds. The shock itself lasted ten seconds. There was also a seismic rumble at 10:46, but no shock. Both the Queen's theater and the Theater Francaise were crowded, and the audiences were considerably frightened.

Street Preacher Fined.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 28.—James Hoskins, a preacher of the Free Thinker faith, who has been holding forth on the streets of the city for 30 nights, was tried in the police court Thursday and fined. His arrest was caused by the vicious terms with which he characterized Christ, denouncing him as a hypocrite, liar and a pretender. The preaching created general indignation and many complaints were made. Hoskins was warned to desist, but refusing to do so he was arrested. Only a nominal fine was assessed as Hoskins promised to discontinue his sermons.

SMALL RIOT

In Columbia, S. C., in Which a Policeman was Knocked Senseless and a Student's Head Was Crushed.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 28.—While two companies of local militia were standing their annual inspection on the athletic grounds here Friday afternoon, a foul ball struck by a student engaged in a game of baseball at the other end of the grounds, struck the horse of Maj. B. B. Evans, an officer on Adj't Gen. Watt's staff. The militia had been given permission to use only half of the grounds, but Gen. Watt's immediately requested the ball players to withdraw until the troops could march past to leave the field. This the students refused to do; and the police declining to interfere, Gen. Watt ordered the troops to advance. The students resisted and some broke through the line. A general riot followed, in the course of which a policeman was knocked senseless and a student named McColl had his head crushed, from the effects of which he may die. Professor of History R. Means Davis, interfering, was knocked down by a student and as were also two soldiers. The soldiers were hardly to blame; they obeyed orders.

The police being powerless, the faculty finally quieted the students and the soldiers were marched back to their armories.

THE PORTE

Consents to Negotiate Terms of Peace With the Powers—The Greek Commanders Must First Sign the Armistice.

LONDON, May 29.—The porte has consented to negotiate terms of peace with the powers, provided that the Greek commanders first sign the armistice, and that the treaty be signed by the Turkish and Greek ministers in Thessaly.

The Daily Mail here says: The question of giving up Thessaly to Greece is rapidly becoming more serious in Constantinople. The ministers and civil, military and religious officials—all classes from the palaces to the street porters—are against the withdrawal of the troops. Every imaginable influence is being exerted on the sultan to have him retain the conquered territory. He alone does not show his hand. The Sheikh-Ul-Islam declares it impossible for Islam to abandon without war, territory conquered from infidels.

Exalted Ottoman officials build much on Germany's jealousy of Russia, and assert, apparently with truth, that the German emperor is straining to oust Russia from her position of confidential advisor to the sultan.

SAUSAGE FACTORY MURDER.

More Damaging Evidence Against the Defense—The State Rests its Case.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Prof. Mark Delafontaine, the expert chemist, has made a discovery in his investigations into the contents of the vat in the Luettgert sausage factory which is considered by the prosecution to be of a nature most damaging to the defense. In the sediment not only has he found traces of teeth, but also a number of flakes of a composition only found in the human tooth.

This together with the broken false tooth found by the police near the vat, is looked upon by the prosecution as the strongest kind of evidence to establish the corpus delecti, which the defense has maintained was wanting in the state's case.

The state rested its case Friday with the evidence of Prof. Delafontaine and Dentist Klein. Noeffort will be made to call any other witnesses except in rebuttal, and then only in case an effort is made by the defense to go into expert testimony.

A HORRIBLE CRIME

Committed Near Selma, Ala.—An Ishuman Grandmother.

SELMA, Ala., May 29.—A horrible crime was committed four miles from Selma Wednesday. Early in the forenoon a 4-year-old child of Bill Griffin went to the house of its grandmother, Millie Griffin, and, seeing a hoecake on a griddle, helped itself to a piece. This enraged the old woman.

She procured an empty oat sack, and, putting the child into it, tied up the sack and hung it on a pair of pot hooks up the chimney. The woman, who is 70 years of age, then gave positive instructions that the child should not be released by other hands than her own, and went to the field to work.

A few hours later an uncle of the child heard groans in the cabin and went to investigate. To his surprise he found that the sack had caught fire and the child had been literally roasted to death.

New Treatment For Lockjaw.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29.—A new treatment for lockjaw or tetanus has just been successfully tried at the German hospital under the direction of Dr. Conrad Weil. The patient who owes his life as the physicians believe, to the new treatment, is Edmund Shein, now about 23 years old, who received an injury to his thumb about a month ago. Within 48 hours under the new treatment signs of improvement began and at the end of a week the patient has been pronounced out of danger. The new treatment consists of injections of a tetanus antitoxine similar in its source to the anti-toxine of diphtheria.

Prunes Killed Him.

RICHMOND, Ky., May 29.—Wm. Pinkston, residing at Union City, this county, ate a quantity of prunes, which made him sick, and a few hours later he was a corpse.

The Sandusky Shoplifting Cases.

SANDUSKY, O., May 29.—The preliminary examination of Mrs. Jay Smith, Mrs. Leuzier and Miss Maggie Gaw, charged with shoplifting, was resumed Friday morning. D. C. Powers, the dry goods merchant, occupied the witness stand, and testified that he was one of a party of four merchants and two officers who visited the houses of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Leuzier with search warrants, and that they found concealed in bureau drawers and under the beds in boxes, large quantities of goods which he and the other merchants identified as having been stolen from their stores.

SENOR PALMA,

Head of the Cuban Junta, at the State Department.

The Patriots Are Willing to Purchase Their Freedom at a Reasonable Price —The Necessary Funds Can Be Easily Secured to Float the Bonds.

NEW YORK, May 31.—A special to the World from Washington, says: For the first time a representative of the Cuban junta has been received at the state department.

Senor Tomas Estrada Palma, head of the Cuban junta in New York and chief delegate in the United States of the Cuban government, called at the department.

Secretary Sherman, in extending the invitation to Senor Palma, was obliged to do so unofficially and to receive him as an American citizen. The president was also "unofficially" aware of his visit.

The proposition that the Cubans buy the island was discussed by Secretary Sherman, Assistant Secretary Day and Senor Palma. It was intimated by Senor Palma that the insurgents are willing to purchase their freedom at a reasonable price. A full understanding prevailed that the necessary funds could easily be secured to float the bonds whenever Spain agrees to enter into negotiations looking to a sale of Cuba. The sanction of the junta was given to the proposed institution of correspondence having in view the relinquishment of control in Cuba by Spain for a monetary consideration. The amount which the Cubans are willing to pay, if discussed, was not divulged.

THE SULTAN

Objects to Receiving James B. Angell as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary.

NEW YORK, May 31.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says: The sultan of Turkey objects to receiving James B. Angell as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States in Constantinople. Though as a rule, a government is not bound to state reasons for considering a minister person non grata, the objections against Prof. Angell are said to be based upon his connection with missionary societies in this country. Indeed, it is understood that Moustapha Bey, the Turkish minister here, informally lodging the protest of the sublime porte against the reception of Prof. Angell with the secretary of state, said that the objections of the sultan were based upon Minister Angell's "membership in a Christian order whose animosities against the Mohammedan religion are extreme." It is not known which "order" Moustapha Bey referred to. It is likely that in Constantinople, or possibly in the mind of the Turkish minister here, some confusion exists as to the true nature of the work of the missionary societies in which Prof. Angell has for many years past exhibited a lively interest.

Prof. Angell is in town now and has been at the white house in consultation with the president. Presumably an attempt will be made to remove the unfavorable impression created in the mind of the sultan and his advisers by the selection of Minister Angell, and to convince him that, though a friend of missionaries, the appointee of President McKinley is an experienced diplomat, a man of affairs and a gentleman. If the attempt to remove this prejudice against Minister Angell should prove unsuccessful, there is no remedy for him.

ON THE CROSSING.

Four Children Killed and Several Others Seriously Injured by a Train.

DENVER, Col., May 31.—At 3 o'clock Sunday evening a spring wagon driven by Henry Marsau, a carpenter, and containing eight children ranging in age from three to nine years, was struck by a special train on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, and four of the children are dead and the others are terribly injured, two so badly that they will die. Marsau, with his three children had been spending the day at the home of Christopher Schoeneweiss, in the southern portion of the city. When ready to start for home, he took a load of children gathered up in the neighborhood, for a short ride. It is claimed by the police that Marsau was intoxicated and paid no attention to the signals of the engineer, but drove upon the track while the train was in plain sight and but a few feet away. The engine struck the wagon, demolishing it and crusing and mangling the children in a horrible manner.

Henry Marsau, the driver, sustained a severe scalp wound.

Memorial Day in Boston.

BOSTON, May 31.—The special feature of the Memorial day observance in Boston was the unveiling of the statue of Col. Robert Gould Shaw on the common, opposite the state house, in the forenoon, followed by literary exercises in music hall, over which Gov. Wolcott presided. The oration was by Prof. William James, of Harvard, and the response, on behalf of the colored veterans, by Prof. Booker T. Washington, of Tuskegee, Ala. The parade in connection with the unveiling ceremonies were participated in by 19 companies of state militia, the Seventh regiment of New York, detachments from the United States ships Massachusetts and New York, beside local organizations.

Farmer Murdered by Burglars.

WARREN, O., May 31.—Isaac J. Hill, a farmer living at Farmington, was murdered Saturday night by burglars. Hill lived with his aged mother. The robbers broke into the house and after binding and otherwise maltreating the old woman they went upstairs where Hill slept. They first clubbed Hill over the head and then shot him. There were ovidence in the house Sunday morning of a terrible struggle, which goes to show that Hill made desperate resistance. So far as known the robbers got nothing, as Mrs. Hill says there was no money in the house. There is no clew to the murderers.

TAX ON BEER.

An Amendment to the Tariff Bill Against Its Increase—Provision to Make Tax on All Distilled Spirits 70c a Gallon.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Senator Cullom Friday presented an amendment to the tariff bill which proposes to strike out the provision of the bill increasing the tax on beer and inserting a provision making the tax on all distilled spirits 70 cents a gallon. It provides that the tax shall be levied on spirits in bond at the time the law goes into effect or may be then or thereafter produced in the United States.

Senator Jones, of Nevada, chairman of the committee on contingent expenses of the senate, has not yet called a meeting of his committee for the purpose of considering the Tillman resolution making sensational charges in relation to the sugar schedule of the tariff bill. It is believed to be probable that the resolution will be reported back to the senate, and that the senate will order an investigation. There may be some delay on the part of the committee in acting on the resolution, but the presumption is that if a report is not soon forthcoming a motion will be made to discharge the committee and bring the resolution before the senate. That would mean a direct vote and it is believed probable that on such a proposition the senate would vote to consider the resolution and order the investigation. An effort to discourage an inquiry is being made and it is quite apparent that many senators do not want any, but if there is an insistance upon an investigation, it scarcely can be avoided. The declaration of Senator Aldrich that the members of the sub-committee on finance courted the fullest investigation, is regarded by some senators as a challenge which must be met and which can be met only with an investigation.

The senate Friday confirmed the following nominations: James Edmund Boyd, North Carolina, assistant attorney general; Francois S. Jones, of Louisiana, to be secretary of the legation of the United States at Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic Commander Charles O'Neil, U. S. N., to be chief of the bureau of ordnance in the navy department.

The cabinet meeting Friday partook more of a routine character than usual, being largely devoted to a discussion of small matters of departmental business. For the first time in many weeks Cuba was not mentioned at the meeting. Gen. Lee's advices to the effect that he had a sufficient store of food and supplies for immediate necessities going a great way to allay the demand for speedy action.

Estrada Palma, of the Cuban junta, called at the state department Friday and had a short interview with Assistant Secretary Day. He was introduced to Judge Day by Third Assistant Secretary Cridler in a purely personal capacity, and it was stated positively that the call had no connection with any propositions for the purchase of Cuba or indeed with the politics of the situation at any point.

The president has added another member to the special embassy which will attend the sixtieth celebration of the accession of Queen Victoria to the British throne in the person of Ogden Mills, of New York. Mr. Mills goes in the capacity of secretary and attache to the special embassy. The commissions for the members will be beautifully engrossed and altogether the occasion is special in every respect so far as the state department is concerned. Whitlaw Reid bears the title of special ambassador on special mission as the representative of the president, and Gen. Miles and Adm. Miller will have special commissions. The ambassador himself will carry for presentation in person to the queen a letter from the president, which in general terms will be similar to that addressed to her upon the occasion of her jubilee celebration ten years ago. It is formal, yet kindly in tone and expresses the appreciation of the president of the great good that has followed the long reign of her majesty and hopes of a continuance of her health.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, has introduced a resolution in the senate for the appointment of a special committee of five senators to inquire into recent reports of speculation by senators in sugar stock and as to advance information by New York speculators as to the cugar schedule of the tariff bill.

Also to continue the investigation made in 1894. The resolution recites that one man is serving a sentence in jail and that another was Thursday acquitted on a technicality, and provides for conducting the investigations of all questions shall be pertinent.

Senator Frye, in the chair, promptly referred the resolution to the committee on contingent expenses. Mr. Tillman was allowed to speak on the subject by unanimous consent.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The senate committee on public buildings and grounds Friday agreed to report favorably the bills for public buildings at Baltimore, Md., to cost $1,500,000; Burham, N. C., $125,000; McKeysport, Pa., $200,000; Washington, Pa., $75,000; Wilkesbarre, Pa., $225,000; Butte City, Mont., $300,000, and Aberdeen, S. D., $100,000.

Rock Castle Springs Sold.

RICHMOND, Ky., May 29.—Rock Castle springs, a resort in the Eastern Kentucky mountains, costing originally $20,000, was sold this week by Attorney W. B. Smith, of this city, to T. W. Bush, a Cincinnati man, for $4,400.

World's Bowling Record Lowered.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 29.—Mr. Frank Senn, of the West End Bowling club, lowered the world's bowling record here Thursday night at Byrnes' bowling hall. Mr. Senn made 20 successive "strikes" before leaving the alley. The previous world's record was 18 successive "strikes."

Swindler Sentenced.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Chester H. McLaughlin, one of the Valentine gang of swindlers who operated by means of forged checks over a portion of the United States and Canada was Friday sentenced to the Elmira reformatory.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. Cures painful, swollen, smarting feet and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. Greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. Is a certain cure for sweating, callous, hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Address Allen S. Olmstead, Le Roy, N. Y.

Dyspepsia

is weakness of the stomach. It is the source of untold misery. It may be cured by toning and strengthening the stomach and enriching and purifying the blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Many thousands have been cured by this medicine and write that now they "can eat anything they wish without distress." Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier

Hood's Pills act easily, promptly and effectively. 25 cents.

How to Do more Business

It is our business to help business men to do more business

Drop a Postal to

Fowler Correspondence College of Advertising

Tribune Building, New York City

$25.00 Chicago to California

And $23.00 from ST. LOUIS, is the rate that will be made by the

Santa Fe Route

For the Christian Endeavor Convention in July. It will also apply to intermediate points, and in the reverse direction. Give you a chance to visit the SOUTH-WEST, the remarkable health resorts; the irrigated farms and orchards; the new mining camps now attracting a multitude of gold seekers; the Rocky Mountains; the stupendous chasm of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River; the ever-famed marvels of mountain and valley on that vast area where the blue Pacific rolls? Then take this opportunity. You may learn all about it by addressing any agent of the Santa Fe Route, or the undersigned.

W. J. BLACK, G. P. A., A. T. & S. F. Ry., Room 148, 9th & Jackson Sts., Topeka, Kan.

C. A. HIGGINS, G. P. A., A. T. & S. F. Ry., Room 1316, Monadnock Block, Chicago.

$75 $50

RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE.

Western Wheel Works

CHICAGO MAKERS ILLINOIS

CATALOGUE FREE

For One Day's Work

THIS WATCH FREE!

No Money Required.

We give this nickel-plated stem winding and stem setting watch that will prove a good timekeeper for 10 years, to Boys and Girls for selling two dozen packages of Bluing. Send your full address by return mail and we will forward Bluing and our large premium list, postpaid. BEHAR ECONOMICAL BLUING CO., Evansville, Ind.

EARN A BICYCLE

$50 Second Hand Wheels, $15 to $25. New High Grade '96 models, fully guaranteed, $21 to $35. Special Clearing Sale. Ship anywhere on approval. Write at once for our special offer. Write us if you see anything you want in each town next year if sample wheel is introduced there. Our proposition is not known throughout the country. Write at once for our special offer.

L. S. HEAD CYCLE CO., Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

GET RICH QUICKLY. Wanted. Send for "200 Inventions Wanted." Edgar Tate & Co., 245 B'way, N. Y.

USE NO OTHER THAN YUCATAN.

CONTRARY WINDS.

Many Persons Are Under the Disadvantage of an Unfortunate Name.

Others Labor Under the Misfortune of Incomplete Physical Equipment—Dr. Talmage's Beautiful Sermon of Encouragement to Struggling Souls.

Dr. Talmage took for his sermon the subject "Contrary Winds," and the text Matthew xiv., 24, "The winds was contrary."

As I well know by experience on Lake Galilee, one hour all may be calm and the next hour the winds and waves will be so boisterous that you are in doubt as to whether you will land on the shore or on the bottom of the deep. The disciples in the text were caught in such a stress of weather and the sails bent and the ship plunged, for "the wind was contrary." There is in one of the European straits a place where, whichever way you sail, the winds are opposing. There are people who all their life seem sailing in the teeth of the wind. All things seem against them. It may be said of their condition as of that of the disciples in my text, "the wind was contrary."

A great multitude of people are under seeming disadvantage, and I will to-day, in the swarthiest Anglo-Saxon that I can manage, treat their cases not as a nurse counts out eight or ten drops of a prescription and stirs them in a half glass of water, but as when a man has by a mistake taken a large amount of strychnine or paris green or belladonna, and the patient is walked rapidly round the room and shaken up until he gets wide awake. Many of you have taken a large draught of the poison of discouragement, and I come out by the order of the Divine Physician to rouse you out of that lethargy.

First, many people are under the disadvantage of an unfortunate name given them by parents who thought they were doing a good thing. Sometimes at the baptism of children while I have held up one hand in prayer I have held up the other hand in amazement that parents should have weighted the babe with such a dissonant and repulsive nomenclature. I have not so much wondered that some children should cry out at the christening font as that others with such smiling face should take a title that will be the burden of their life-time. It is outrageous to inflict children with an undesirable name because it happened to be possessed by a parent or a rich uncle from whom favors are expected or some prominent man of the day who may end his life in disgrace. It is no excuse, because they are Scripture names, to call a child Jehoiakim or Tigiath-Pileser. I baptized one by the name Bathsheba. Why, under all the circumambient heaven, any parent should want to give to a child the name of that loose creature of Scripture times I can not imagine. I have often felt at the baptismal altar, when names were announced to me, like saying, as did Rev. Dr. Richards, of Morristown, N. J., when a child was handed him for baptism and the name given, "Hadn't you better call it something else?"

Impose not upon that babe a name suggestive of flippancy or meanness. There is no excuse for such assault and battery on the cradle when our language is opulent with names musical and suggestive in meaning, such as John, meaning "the gracious gift of God," or Henry, meaning "the chief of a household," or Alfred, meaning "good counselor," or Joshua, meaning "God, our salvation," or Ambrose, meaning "immortal," or Andrew, meaning "manly," or Esther, meaning "star," or Abigail, meaning "my father's joy," or Anna, meaning "grace," or Victoria, meaning "victory," or Rosalie, meaning "beautiful as a rose," or Margaret, meaning "a pearl," or Ida, meaning "godlike," or Clara, meaning "illustrious," or Amelia, meaning "busy," or Bertha, meaning "beautiful," and hundreds of other names just as good that are a help rather than a hindrance.

But sometimes the great hindrance in life is not in the given name, but in the family name. While legislatures are willing to lift such incubus, there are families which keep a name which mortgages all the generations with a great disadvantage. You say, "I wonder if he is any relation to "So-and-so," mentioning some family celebrated for crime or deception. It is a wonder to me that in all such families some spirited young man does not rise, saying to his brothers and sisters, "If you want to keep the nuisance of sensalization of a name, I will keep it no longer than until by quickest course of law I can slough off this gangrene." The city directory has hundreds of names the mere pronunciation of which has been a lifelong obstacle. If you have started life under a name which either through ridiculous orthography or vicious suggestion has been an incumbrance, resolve that the next generation shall not be so weighted. It is not demeaning to change a name. Saul of Tarsus became Paul the Apostle. Hadassah, "the myrtle," became Esther, "the star." We have in America, and I suppose it is so in all countries, names which ought to be abolished and can be and will be abolished for the reason that they are a libel and a slander. But if for any reason you are submerged either by a given name or by a family name that you must bear, God will help you to overcome the outrage by a life consecrated to the good and useful. You may erase the curse from the name. If it once stood for meanness, you can make it stand for generosity. If once it stood for pride, you can make it stand for humility. If it once stood for fraud, you can make it stand for honesty. If once it stood for wickedness, you can make it stand for purity. There have been multitudes of instances where men and women have magnificently conquered the disasters of the name inflicted upon them.

Again, many people labor under the misfortune of incomplete physical equipment. We see by our Creator so economically built that we can not afford the obliteration of any physical faculty. We want our two eyes, our two ears, our two hands, our two feet, our eight fingers and two thumbs. Yet what multitudes of people have but one eye or but one foot! The ordinary casualties of life have been quadrupled, quintupled, sextupled, aye, centupled, in our time by the civil war, and at the north and south a great multitude are fighting the great battle of life with half or less than half the needed physical armament. I do not wonder at the pathos of a soldier during the war, who, when told that he must have his hand amputated, said, "Doctor, can't you save it?" and when told that it was impossible, said, with tears rolling down his cheeks: "Well, then, good-by, old hand. I hate to part with you. You have done me a good service for many years, but it seems you must go. Good-by."

A celebrated surgeon told me of a scene in the clinical department of one of the New York hospitals, when a poor man with a wounded leg was brought in before the students to be operated on. The surgeon was pointing out this and that to the students and handling the wounded leg, and was about to proceed to amputation when the poor man leaped from the table and hobbled to the door and said, "Gentlemen, I am sorry to disappoint you, but by the help of God I will die with my leg on." What a terrific loss is the loss of our physical faculties!"

Yet how many suffer from this physical taking off! Good cheer, my brother! God will make it up to you somehow. The grace, the sympathy of God, will be more to you than anything you have lost. If God allows part of your resources to be cut off in one place, he will add it on somewhere else. As Augustus, the emperor, took off a day from February, making it the shortest month in the year, and added it to August, the month named after himself, so advantages taken from one part of your nature will be added on to another. But it is amazing how much of the world's work has been done by men of subtracted physical organization. S. S. Preston, the great orator of the southwest, went limping all his life, but there was no foot put down upon any platform of his day that resounded so far as his clubfoot. Beethoven was so deaf that he could not hear the crash of the orchestra rendering his oratorios. Thomas Carlyle, the dyspeptic martyr, was given the commission to drive can't out of the world's literature. Rev. Thomas Stockton, of Philadelphia, with one lung raised his audience nearer Heaven than most ministers can raise them with two lungs. In the banks, the insurance companies, the commercial establishments, the reformatory associations, the churches, there are hosts of thousands of men and women to-day doubled up with rheumatism or subject to the neuralgias or with only fragments of limbs, the rest of which they left at Chattanooga or South Mountain or the Wilderness, and they are worth more to the world, and more to the church, and more to God than those of us who have never so much as had a finger joint stiffened by a felon.

Put to full use all the faculties that remain and charge on all opposing circumstances with the determination of John of Bohemia, who was totally blind, and yet at a battle cried out, "I pray and beseech you to lead me so far into the fight that I may strike one good blow with this sword of mine!" Do not think so much of what faculties you have lost as of what faculties remain. You have enough left to make yourself felt in three worlds, while you help the earth and balk hell and win Heaven. Arise from your discouragements, O men and women of depleted or crippled physical faculties, and see what, by the special help of God, you can accomplish! The skilled horsemen stood around Bucephalus, unable to mount or manage him, so wild was the steed. But Alexander noticed that the sight of his own shadow seemed to disturb the horse. So Alexander clutched him by the bridle and turned his head away from the shadow and toward the sun, and the horse's agitation was gone, and Alexander mounted him and rode off, to the astonishment of all who stood by. And what you people need to do is to have your sight turned away from the shadows of your earthly lot, over which you have so long pondered, and your head turned toward the sun—the glorious sun of gospel consolation and Christian hope and spiritual triumph.

And then remember that all physical disadvantages will after awhile vanish. Let those who have been rheumatismed out of a foot, or cataracted out of an eye, or by the perpetual roar of our cities thundered out of an ear, look forward to the day when this old tenement house of flesh will come down and a better one shall be builded. The resurrection morning will provide you with a better outfit. Either the unstrung, worn out, bluntued and crippled organs will be so reconstructed that you will not know them, or an entire new set of eyes and ears and feet will be given you. Just what it means by corruption putting on incorruption we do not know, save that it will be glory ineffable, no limping in Heaven, no straining of the eyesight to see things a little way off, no putting of the hand behind the ear to double the capacity of the tympanum, but faculties perfect, all the keys of the instrument attuned for the sweep of the fingers of ecstacy. But until that day of resumption comes let us bear each other's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ.

Another form of disadvantage under which many labor is lack of early education. There will be no excuse for ignorance in the next generation. Free schools and illimitable opportunity of education will make ignorance a crime. I believe in compulsory education, and those parents who neglect to put their children under educational advantages have but one right left, and that is the penitentiary. But there are multitudes of men and women in midlife who have had no opportunity. Free schools had not yet been established, and vast multitudes had little or no school at all. They feel it when as Christian men they come to speak or pray in religious assemblies or public occasions, patriotic or political or educational. They are silent because they do not feel competent. They owe nothing to English grammar, or geography, or belles letters. They would not know a participle from a pronoun if they met it many times a day. Many of the most successful merchants of America and men in high political places can not write an accurate letter on any theme. They are completely dependent upon clerks and deputies, and stenographers, to make things right. I knew a literary man who in other years in this city made his fortune by writing speeches for congressmen or fixing them up for the Congressional Record after they were delivered. The millionaire illiteracy of this country is beyone measurement.

Now, suppose a man finds himself in midlife without education, what is he to do? Do the best he can. The most effective layman in a former pastoral charge that I ever heard speak on religious themes could within five minutes of exhortation break all the laws of English grammar, and if he left any law unfractured he would complete the work of lingual devastation in the prayer with which he followed it. But I would rather have him pray for me if I was sick or in trouble than any Christian man I know of, and in that church all the people preferred him in exhortation and prayers to all others. Why? Because he was so thoroughly pious and had such power with God he was irresistible, and as he went on in his prayer sinners repented and saints shouted for joy, and the bereaved seemed to get back their dead in celestial companionship. And when he had stopped praying and as soon as I could wipe out of my eyes enough tears to see the closing hymn I ended the meeting, fearful that some long winded prayer-meeting more would pull us down from the seventh heaven.

Not a word have I to say against accuracy of speech or fine elocution or high mental culture. Get all these you can. But I do say to those who were brought up in the day of poor schoolhouses and ignorant schoolmasters and no opportunity: You may have so much of good in your soul and so much of Heaven in your everyday life that you will be mightier for good than any who went through the curriculum of Harvard or Yale. Yet, yes, you are graduated in the school of Christ. When you get up to the gate of Heaven, no one will ask you whether you can parse the first chapter of Genesis, but whether you have learned the fear of the Lord, which is the beginning of wisdom, nor whether you know how to square the circle, but whether you have lived a square life in a round world. Mount Zion is higher than Mount Parnassus.

But what other multitudes there are under other disadvantages! Here is a Christian woman whose husband thinks religion a sham, and while the wife prays the children one way the husband swears them another. Or here is a Christian man who is trying to do his best for God and the church, and his wife holds him back and says on the way home from prayer meeting, where he gave testimony for Christ: "What a fool you make of yourself! I hope hereafter you will keep quiet!" And when he would be benevolent and give $50 she criticises him for not giving 50 cents. He must do justice and publicly thank God that I never proposed at home to give anything for any cause of humanity or religion but the other partner in the domestic firm approved it, and when it seemed beyond my ability and faith in God was necessary she had three-fourths the faith. But I know men who, when they contribute to charitable objects, are afraid that the wife shall find it out. What a withering curse such a woman must be to a good man!

Then there are others under the great disadvantage of poverty. Who ought to get things cheapest? You say those who have little means. But they pay more. You buy coal by the ton; they buy it by the bucket. You buy flour by the barrel; they buy it by the pound. You get apparel cheap because you pay cash; they pay dear because they have to get trusted. And the Hible was right when it said, "The crying curse such a woman must be to a good man!

Then there are others under the great disadvantage of poverty. Who ought to get things cheapest? You say those who have little means. But they pay more. You buy coal by the ton; they buy it by the bucket. You buy flour by the barrel; they buy it by the pound. You get apparel cheap because you pay cash; they pay dear because they have to get trusted. And the Hible was right when it said, "The crying curse such a woman must be to a good man!

Then there are those who made a mistakes in early life, and that overshadows all their days. "Do you not know that that man was once in prison?" is whispered. Or, "Do you know that that man once attempted suicide?" Or, "Do you known that that man once absconded?" Or, "Do you know that that man was once discharged for dishonesty?" Perhaps there was only one wrong deed in the man's life, and that one act haunts the subsequent half century of his existence.

Others have unfortunate predominance of some mental faculty, and their rashness throws them into wild enterprises, or their trepidation makes them decline great opportunity, or there is a vein of melancholy in their disposition that defeats them, or they have an endowment or overmirth that causes the impression of insincerity.

Others have a mighty obstacle in their personal appearance, for which they are not responsible. They forget that God fashioned their features, and their complexion and their stature, the size of their nose and mouth and hands and feet, and gave them their gait and their general appearance, and they forget that much of the world's best work has been done by homely people, and that Paul the Apostle is said to have been humpbacked and his eyesight weakened by ophthalmia, while many of the finest in appearance have passed their time before flattering looking glasses or in studying killing attitudes and in displaying the richness of wardrobes—not one ribbon or vest or sack or glove or button or shoestring of which they have had brains to earn for themselves.

TWELVE thousand feet of lumber were unloaded from a railroad car and piled up in 20 minutes at Gardner, Me.

IN CONGRESS.

Remarkable Progress Made on the Tariff Bill in the Senate.

The Hawaiian Question Will Probably Come to the Front in an Amendment Providing Continuance of Reciprocity Treaty With the Islands.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The impression was general about the senate at the close of the first weeks discussion of the tariff bill Saturday that the sugar schedule would be reached towards the close of the present week. The progress so far made, while it was much less marked Saturday than on previous days is generally regarded as little less than phenomenal as modern tariff debates go. Senator Vest declares that the present bill is as far advanced now as was the Wilson bill after five weeks discussion, while Senator Jones, of Arkansas, asserts that as much of the bill was passed over the first day of consideration as was disposed of in the Wilson bill in three weeks. The republicans generally concede that good progress has been made, but they are not inclined to fellcitate themselves too much until they see what policy is to be pursued when questions of more general interest are reached than have yet been broached.

The sugar schedule in all probability will excite more prolonged and animated debate than any other in the bill. The democrats are making very extensive preparation for the discussion of this schedule and several set speeches will be made upon it. The indications are that various other questions of general interest will be considered in connection with the sugar duty. Senator Pettigrew is contemplating presenting his amendment against trusts in this connection, and it is certain that the Hawaiian question will come to the front in an amendment providing for the continuance of the reciprocity treaty with the Hawaiian islands. With reference to the Hawaiian treaty, there is no longer much room for doubt that provision will be made to continue the present treaty in effect. It is probable that this will be done by a direct declaration that nothing in the bill shall be construed as abrogating the treaty. The republican members of the committee are contemplating this change. If Senator Pettigrew insists upon offering the trust amendment to this schedule he will precipitate one of the most interesting debates of the session. The republicans are not yet decided whether they will caucus on the sugar schedule, but there is more or less talk to this effect.

There are two schedules to be considered after the conclusion of that under present discussion before the sugar schedule can be reached. These are the metal and wood schedules. The metal schedule is not especially objectionable to the democrats, containing as it does many of the Wilson law rates, but it is more or less complicated and will necessarily consume time. The wood schedule will develop no little antagonism on account of the duty on lumber. There will be a quite determined effort to restore white pine lumber to the free list.

The Tillman resolution for a sugar investigation probably will be reported to the senate Tuesday. It will be passed without difficulty when taken up, according to the present outlook; but Senator Tillman will find opportunity to make another speech if there is any apparent effort at delay. The senate will not be in session Monday, having adjourned over on account of Decoration day.

The attempt to embarrass Speaker Reed for the programme of inaction pursued by the majority has become the settled policy of Representative Simpson and other members of the minority and the sessions of the house this week will witness a continuation of these tactics. The conference reports on the sundry civil and Indian appropriation bills are ready for consideration and this week the leaders would like to dispose of them. But the difficulty now is that many of the members have gone home and at present there is no quorum in the city. This will interfere with the desire of the leaders to recess until Tuesday, when the house meets Monday, and compel an adjournment until Thursday. On that day, if a quorum is present, the house will proceed with these two conference reports and also the bill carrying a special appropriation for the government printing office.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The U. S. civil service commission again announces that on June 8 an examination will be held at Washington and other cities to establish an eligible register for the grade of hospital steward in the United States marine service. There are now several vacancies, one of which is at San Francisco. All of these vacancies will be filled with the eligibles resulting from this examination. The salary of the position ranges from $480 to $720 per annum, with subsistence, quarters, fuel and light. Unmarried men, or men with small families, preferred.

The Matter Settled.

MIDDLETOWN, O., May 31.—The city council confirmed the nomination of Night Police Captain Ure and Patrolman Jewel. The council has been divided on the matter for some time. The resignation of John Proctor as bridgetender was not accepted.

Memorial Day in Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Memorial day was fittingly observed here and throughout the state Saturday. The day will be celebrated in nearly if not all the other states in the union Monday, but the law in Pennsylvania provides that when legal holidays fall on Sunday their observance shall be on the Saturday preceding. In consequence of the conflict with the observance of the day in other states a bill is now pending in the legislature which provides that when the day hereafter falls on Sunday the legal holiday shall be on Monday.

ANOTHER CLEW.

A Piece of a Slipper Found Under the Sausage Vat.

The Alleged Wife-Murderer Will Take the Stand to Explain His Presence in the Sausage Factory on the Night of the Murder, May 1.

CHICAGO, May 28.—It is now generally understood that Adolph Luettgert, the alleged wifemurderer, will take the stand to explain his presence in the sausage factory on the night of May 1. Wednesday, for the first time, he authorized his attorneys to give out a statement of the defense he will make if it shall be necessary for him to testify.

Luettgert admits sending Bialk, the night watchman, to the drug store for mineral water twice on the night his wife was last seen. The sausage maker admits turning on the steam that night, as he was conducting some experiments in the drying room in the basement.

Justice Kersten, State's Attorney Deneen, Assistant State's Attorney McEwen, the police and Messrs. Vincent and Tripp, of the defense, besides others, visited the factory Wednesday. While they were showing the justice the places referred to in the evidence a discovery was made of a piece of leather, evidently the heel of a felt slipper, which had been taken from under the middle vat. Mrs. Luettgert was known to have worn felt slippers when she was last seen.

The prosecution intends to find the woman seen at Kenosha, Wis., on May 5, four days after the supposed murder, and attempt to prove that the defense was working on a blind lead when it claimed that the woman was Mrs. Luettgert.

SHOOTING AFFRAY

In Which Two Men Were Killed and Two Fatally Wounded and One Seriously Injured.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 28.—The little town of Oakman, Walker county, was the scene of a desperate shooting affray Thursday afternoon. The following are the dead and wounded:

Dead—Isaac Appling, aged 50, mayor of Oakman and leading merchant of this place. Charles Williams, aged 30, a machinist. Wounded—Andrew Richards, clerk in the store of Appling Bro.'s shot in the head; will die before morning. Montgomery Appling, brother and business partner of Mayor Appling, shot in the body; wound not necessarily fatal. William Duncan, an Englishman, shot in the head and back; will die.

The two Appling's, Duncan and Richard's were shot by Williams. The latter was slain by Montgomery Appling. Williams was a traveling machinist who recently came to Oakman from Mississippi to secure work at the coal mines. Thursday while intoxicated he entered the house of Appling brothers, the largest business house at Oakman and became very boisterous. Mayor Appling, after ordering him, but was about to call a policeman when Williams drew a revolver and opened fire on Appling, who fell dead at the first shot with a bullet in his heart. Montgomery Appling, who was standing behind the counter only a few feet away, snatched up a Winchester rifle and began firing on the murderer. Williams received two rifle balls in his body but after he had fallen, continued firing until he had emptied his pistol. Andrew Richards, a clerk, was shot in the head by Williams while trying to escape from the place. Wm. Duncan, an Englishman, who has been prospecting in Walker county, was shot in the leg and back. Montgomery Appling was also wounded. It is thought both Duncan and Richards will die before Friday.

THE BANK WRECKER.

John F. Johnson May Plead Not Guilty and Go Into a Trial.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 28.—It was the intention to arraign John F. Johnson, the Logansport bank-wrecker, in Judge Baker's court Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, but the plan was changed, and he will plead Friday morning at that hour. When the grand jury returned the bills against Johnson Wednesday afternoon, Judge Baker did not discharge the jury, but told the members to remain within call. Thursday morning they reconvened to consider further indictments against Johnson. The indictments found Wednesday are enough for a plea of guilty, but should it be necessary to go to trial there might be some little technicality that would prove as a loop-hole for escape. U. S. District Attorney Wishard will have a bill returned, that will stand the attack of the defense if Johnson does not plead guilty. It is said that Johnson was not counting on a long term in prison and that he may, at the last moment, decide to plead not guilty, and thus the government would have to go into a trial.

Havemeyer Set Free.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—There was a notable falling off in the attendance in Judge Bradley's courtroom the third day of the trial of Henry O. Havemeyer, charged with contempt of the senate. Judge Bradley granted the nonsuit motion Thursday afternoon in the Havemeyer case and the sugar king will not have to go to jail for refusing to tell the United States senate how much money the sugar trust contributed to political campaigns.

Durrant's Appeal.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Durrant, the convicted murderer of Blanche Lamont, has written to Gov. Budd, asking for an interview. He claims that he can prove to the governor's satisfaction that he was at the college lecture at the time of the murder of Miss Lamont. It is not believed that the governor will interfere in the case.

Black Measles Among Hogs.

WRIGHT, Ky., May 28.—Black measles among hogs has been raging throughout the Kentucky and Virginia mountains for a month, and thousands of fine hogs are dying.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—SENATE—The debate on the tariff bill began in the senate Tuesday with crowded galleries and a large attendance of senators and the tariff leaders of the house. Minor business claimed attention up to 2 p. m., when Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, in charge of the tariff bill, had the measure laid before the senate and took the floor for the opening speech. Mr. Aldrich spoke for almost an hour and a quarter, adopting an easy, conversational style. His speech was the official utterance of the finance committee, and in a sense of the republican side of the chamber. Without making invidious distinctions between the two bills, Mr. Aldrich clearly stated as the belief of the finance committee that the house bill would not yield revenue adequate for the needs of the government. Mr. Vest (Mo.), one of the democratic members of the finance committee, followed with a statement in opposition to the bill. He spoke of the futility of piling up taxes on an overburdened people when there was a balance of $129,000,000 in the treasury. He criticised the schedules in detail, declaring that some of them were designed to be prohibitive. He severely attacked the increase in the lead duty, declaring it was for the benefit of the "Cormoranta" of monopoly and against the people. Mr. Cameron, a new republican, closed the debate for the day by urging that the protection should be distributed so as to aid the farmers. Early in the day Mr. Mallory, the new senator from Florida, was sworn in and took his seat.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—SENATE—The first vote on the tariff bill was taken in the senate Wednesday. It came after a two hours' debate on the item of boracic acid, which, although comparatively unimportant, afforded an opportunity for the first alignment of the various elements. Mr. Vest (Mo.), a democratic member of the finance committee moved to strike out the duty of one and three cents instead of five cents per pound as provided by the committee. This presented a direct issue between the committee and the opponents of high duties. The amendment was defeated—yeas 20, nays 34. The vote was largely on party lines. The affirmative was made up of 19 democrats and one populist—Heitfeld. The negative was made up of 29 republicans, two democrats—McHenry (La.) and White (Cal.)—two silver republicans—Cannon (Utah) and Jones (Nev.)—and one populist, Stewart (Nev.). The debate was participated in by Senators Vest, Jones (Ark.), Aldrich, Perkins, White, Cadfrey, Gray and Stewart. Mr. White, a democratic member of the finance committee, opposed Mr. Vest's amendment, urging that the California industry required the rate allowed by the committee. Seven paragraphs of the bill were considered during the day, the committee being sustained in each instance. The resolution was agreed to authorizing the secretary of the navy to employ any suitable ship in forwarding relief supplies to India.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—SENATE—The senate made good progress on the tariff bill Thursday, disposing of about ten pages. Several votes were taken, the committee decisions being sustained in each case by majorities varying from 6 to 15. The drug schedule was under discussion and the debate was largely technical. Occasionally, however, it branched off to general phases of the tariff, although at no time during the day was there a speech of more than five minutes duration. Before taking up the tariff bill the final conference report on the sundry civil bill was agreed to, including the provision suspending until March 4 next the executive order creating extensive forest reserves.

HOUSE—There was an attempt to bring forward the Cuban question in the house Thursday as soon as the journal had been read. Mr. Lewis, democrat, Washington, shouted "a question of privilege" and sent to the clerk's desk a resolution for the recognition of the belligerency of the Cubans. Mr. Dingley made the point that this was not a privileged question. Speaker Reed permitted resolutions to be read, and then declared them out of order. From this ruling Mr. Lewis appealed and Mr. Dingley's motion to table the appeal was carried, 91 to 87. Messrs. Cooper (Wis.), Linney (N. C.), Mahany (N. Y.) of the republican, and Berry, (Ky.), Meyer (La.), McClellan (N. Y.), Settle (Ky.) and other democrats refrained from voting. On a roll call the speaker was sustained 88, to 31, present and not voting 17, and he announced "no quorum." Immediately Mr. Dingley moved to adjourn, and several democrats shouting for recognition, the motion was carried by a party vote and at 12:55 p. m. the house adjourned to Monday.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—SENATE—After a long period of silence, Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, startled the senate Friday by a speech no less dramatic in its delivery than sensational in its allegations. He preceded it by offering a resolution for the appointment of a special committee of five senators to investigate charges of speculation by senators while the tariff bill was before the finance committee. In advocating the resolution, Mr. Tillman threw aside the usual conventionalities of the senate, and with a pungency of speech seldom heard upon the floor of congress, called on his associates to investigate the published charges of senatorial speculation, and if found true, purge the senate of those who defamed it. Mr. Aldrich, in charge of the tariff bill, answered Mr. Tillman in a sweeping denial. The Tillman resolution was referred to the committee on contingent expenses of the senate. Considerable progress was made on the tariff bill, 13 pages being covered. Several votes were taken during the day, but the finance committee had a majority in each instance. The democratic members of the finance committee made a strong effort to reduce the rates on window glass, but their amendments to this effect were defeated. The bill will be considered Saturday, the usual Saturday recess being abandoned.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—SENATE—Progress on the tariff bill in the senate was checked Saturday, seven more paragraphs only being a source of controversy lasting throughout the day. As a result little more than a page of the bill was disposed of. The finance committee was confronted with difficulties in defeating proposed amendments from democratic members of the committee, although each amendment was debated to great length. An exciting debate occurred during the afternoon, when Senator Morgan (Ala.) was called to order by Mr. Gallinger, who was temporarily in the chair, for severely criticising the inaction of the house of representatives. Adjourned until Tuesday.

HOUSE—Not in session.

To Irrigate Colorado Land.

DENVER, Col., May 31.—James A. Roberts, controller of the state of New York, and Henry Koons, a capitalist of Buffalo, stockholders in the Colorado Land & Water Co., are perfecting arrangements for an irrigation project which will be worth many millions of dollars to the state of Colorado. Their company has secured control of Twin lakes, in Lake county, for reservoir purposes, and will begin at once the erection of a dam to increase their capacity as a reservoir. About $130,000 will be spent.

Chinese Girl to Marry an American.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—The announcement is made in this city that on June 4 next another of the beautiful daughters of the wealthy Chinese merchant of Honolulu, Au Fong, is to marry an American. The prospective groom is William A. Hezzhall, formerly of this city, and one of the most prominent lawyers of the Hawaiian capitol. Miss Helen Au Fong is said to be even more beautiful than her sister whose marriage to Capt. Whiting of the United States navy created a profound sensation in naval circles some two years ago.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 2, 1897.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50

W. L. RIDDELL. - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Limaburg.

Frost here on the 31st ult.

There will not be a full crop of fruit.

Corn is all planted and some has been plowed.

Henry L. Tanner and family were visiting Jas. W. Utz, Sunday.

Some spring lambs have been sold at $3.75 per head around here.

R. S. Richardson and wife, of Kenton county, were visiting Henry Clore and wife, Sunday.

Owen Watts, candidate for assessor, dropped into town Monday morning, looking after his political fences.

Union.

Our boys took in the picnic, but were not in the convention.

Mrs. Elizabeth Huey and Mrs. Dr. Crouch made a short visit to relatives at Bullittsville over Sunday.

Bro. Spears filled the Presbyterian pulpit Sunday evening. He was welcomed by a large crowd.

J. A. Huey and wife, Dr. Crouch and wife attended the funeral of their grandfather, M. J. Williams, at Glencoe, last Wednesday.

Mr. Wm. Grimsley and Harry Adams passed through here from the picnic, Saturday evening. Uncle Billy looked tired. He said that he made the boys a speech, but it was all lost in smoke.

Richwood.

Mr. Sam Taylor is building a new barn.

Clum Bedinger is spending his spare time breaking his colt.

Senator Conner has purchased a nice herd of Shorthorn cattle.

Will Wilson is building a barn for Mrs. Sallie Anderson, of Union.

M. A. Gadday, of Milford, Ohio, was visiting relatives here, last week.

Daniel Bedinger has returned after an extended trip through Northern Texas.

Tom Cleek and wife, of Shelby county, Mo., are visiting friends and relatives in this county.

Rev. W. T. Spears, former pastor of the P. E. Church of Richwood, preached here Sunday morning. There was a large crowd in attendance.

Constance.

Dr. Grubbs, of Taylorsport, was in town Tuesday.

There is some talk of having the town incorporated.

J. C. Hankins & Co., are unloading a large barge of coal.

The elite of Constance took in the show at Hebron Saturday night.

Mrs. T. Fox and daughter, Laura, of Riverside, were visiting Mrs. Murat, last week.

The man found in the river at Taylorsport, was recognized as Geo. Brunner, of Cincinnati.

Mr. Pete Williams, a fisherman saved two men from drowning last Sunday. Their boat had capsized.

The citizens, generally, took in the picnic at Harvest Home, last Saturday. Your correspondent could not attend on account of illness in the family.

Mrs. Hanna Volising died last Wednesday of pneumonia, and was buried in the Hebron cemetery. She was a devoted mother, a kind and obliging neighbor and liked by everyone who knew her. Funeral sermon by Elder Duncan, of Ludlow.

Gunpowder.

W. H. Garnett and Frank Borders are on the sick list.

Crows are causing considerable trouble for the farmers by pulling up corn.

At the recent examination D. Irvin Tanner was grauted a certificate to teach school,

H. L Tanner and family, and W. H. Rouse and family were visiting J. W. Utz, last Sunday.

Chas. Hankins and family, of Ludlow, spent a few days with relatives at this place, last week.

J. S. Surface, Miss Susan House and J. S. Rouse each lost a milch cow last week, supposed to be caused by eating white clover. Will some reader please tell some remedy for it?

Hopeful Sunday-school completed its organization last Sunday by electing the following officers. B. A. Floyd, Superintendent; J. S Surface, assistant-Supt.; Irvin Tanner, Sec't'y; H. L. Tanner, Treas.; Organist, H. F. Utz and Ezra K. Tanner, chorister.

The members of our church are glad to hear that Rev. Dr. Siffert, of Newark, Ohio, will assist in the protracted meeting to be held in August.

The Missionary Society has arranged to have a "Pink Tea" at the parsonage June 12th.

Hathaway.

Miss Carrie Woods spent several days with Mrs. J Q Elston, last week.

The farmers took advantage of the rains, last week, and there was a lot of tobacco plants put out

Quite a crowd was present at our meeting at Big Bone church last Sunday morning and evening.

Frank Rue is getting along nicely with his same foot, and is able to go around on his crutches.

A. J. Utz and wife and E. E. Utz and wife attended the fish fry at Dr. Adams' last Wednesday at Big Bone.

Miss Daisy Rouse, of Pleasant Ridge, was the pleasant guest of Miss Grace Neal, last Saturday night and Sunday.

Several of our boys attended the supprise party at Mode Scott's, of Rabbit Hash, last Thursday night, and reported a splendid time.

Mr. Noel, candidate for magistrate, was canvassing this part of the country last week. He hitched his horse to one of our blacksmith shop doors and the animal scared and pulled the door down, tearing it to pieces. Mr. Noell was very nice about it, and proposed to make a new door if our blacksmith would furnish the material.

Rabbit Hash.

Cut worms are at work again.

Some tobacco plants have been set.

Trustees are having the school house painted.

F. N. Stephens shipped 14 nice hogs Tuesday night.

R. H. Stephens received wool here last Thursday.

T. C. S. Ryle sold his last year's crop of tobacco for 8 cents all round.

Miss Maud Ryle is spending the summer with her uncle Dick Ryle in Cincinnati.

The fourth Sunday was children's day at the M. E. Church and quite a crowd attended.

Fred Utz, assisted by Bob Wilson, received wool here last Wednesday and shipped it Thursday.

Miss Alta Kelly left for Glencoe, last Sunday, where she will spend a month or two with her aunt.

Quite a number from this place attended the picnic at the Harvest Home grounds, last Saturday.

The Str. Workum has changed her time from Tuesday morning to Monday evening. The change is quite a disappointment to some.

Last Thursday evening quite a number of Mr. Frank Scott's young friends went in and gave him a surprise, as it was his birthday. Those present were, Misses Stella Rice, Lulah and Minnie Ryle, Addie Stephens, Alice and Lutie Stephens, Effie Stephens, Purcie and Mabel Ryle; Messrs. Lewis Stephens, Solen Stephens, Colin Kelly, Raymond Smith, Early Conley, Cage Stephens, Frank Scott, Lessie Wingate, Hogan Ryle and a few old folks.

North Bend.

The first of June found some of us planting corn.

The corn that is up does not look very well.

No tobacco set in this neighborhood. The plants are large enough, but the ground is not ready for them.

Joe Kennedy and John Green shipped about 80 nice hogs to the Covington yards one day last week, for which they received $3 75 per hundred.

There seems to be quite a demand for pigs these days. Every man wants one or two to "put in the pen."

We hear that our bachelor friend, A. B. Whitlock, is getting tired of doing his own cooking. Really, I do not think he deserves much sympathy while there are so many beautiful young ladies in the country, who would be glad of a chance to do his cooking and house keeping.

The strawberry and ice cream festival to be given by the Baptist Sunday School, June 4th, promises to be well attended by the young people from Boone. Doors open at 7:30 p. m. No admission charged.

Florence

Geo. W. Crouch has returned from a visit to his parents at Warsaw, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cleek, of Missouri, are visiting Mrs. Pat Hampton.

Mr. Arthur Rouse, of Burlington, passed through this place on a wheel Sunday.

Mrs. Katie Corwin, of Covington, was visting Miss Bess Crigler, Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Mae Carpenter, of Chicago, will be the guest of her grand mother, Mrs. Price on Tuesday.

Miss Alice Cloud was the guest of her aunt, Mrs Mary Cloud near Hebron, Saturday night and Sunday. Mr. John Cloud accompanying her home.

There will be a festival at Mrs. Crigler's Friday evening, for the benefit of the Methodist church. There will be music by Prof. Bristow, of Covington. Every one invited and assured of a good time.

Verona.

Miss Lizzie Roberts has returned from Covington, where she has been visiting Dr. Robson, for several days.

Dr. B. K. Menafee and family have moved to Crittenden to make their future home. We are sorry to lose them, as they will be greatly missed. Our best wishes go with them.

Miss Elms, of Chicago, will give a lecture Thursday evening, June 10th, at 3 o'clock, on the "Higher Physical Culture of Woman." The lecture is for the benefit of the ladies only, including Misses fourteen years of age. All are cordially invited—lecture free of charge.

Erlanger.

The tin wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Buchanan, of Commonwealth Avenue. was celebrated last week by a lawn fete.

The public school closed Friday with a public examination in the morning and an outing at Woodside Park in the afternoon.

Sir Knights from Covington and West Covington gave Lafayette Lodge a very creditable drill at their hall on last Saturday evening, after which a banquet was served to visiting Knights and ladies.

Lafayette Lodge elected the following officers: C. C., Chas. W. Zumbiel; V. C., Anton Miller; Prelate, Dr. McCullum; M. of W. John Zumbiel; M. at A. Walter Withrow; Trustee, John Zumbiel; Representative to Grand Lodge, Geo. J. Rost and John Zumbiel.

Bellevue.

W. T. Ryle and Charley Craven were in town Sunday.

W. W. Grant and wife have returned from a visit of several days to Hamilton, Ohio.

J. G. Jones, of Gunpowder, was in town Saturday.

The parents of your scribler were visiting him and their son at McVille, last Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Robert Clore and her mother, Mrs. Huey, were visiting Robt. Huey, last Friday and Saturday.

B. W. Adams and W. L. Riddell, of Burlington, were among us last Thursday. I think Bluffe was laying up the last rails in his political gap. We will try and keep them up until after next Saturday evening.

We had a light tobacco season here last Friday.

You can vote from 7 a. m. until 4 p. m., at the primary election next Saturday.

Commissioner's Sale.

J. H. Lawell, Pltf.
against Equity.
J. H. Walton's, Adm'r, &c. Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the court-douse door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder at public auction, on

Monday, June 7th, 1897,

at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being county court day, upons credit of 6, 12, 18 and 24 months, the following described property, to-wit:

Two tracts of land lying and being in Boone county, Ky., and bounded thus: First tract—Beginning at a stone on the east side of the Burlington and East Bend road a corner with Daniel Lawell; thence with his line s 73½ e 15.29 chs to a Walnut tree; thence s 52½ e 4.25 chs to a stone; thence s 74 e 15.76 chs to a stone a corner with Daniel Lawell in a line of the Ryle tract; thence with a line of said tract n 17½ e 27.25 chs to a point in the center of a branch; thence up said branch with its meanders n 38½ w 1.08 chs n 22 w 1.50 n 15 2.89 chs to a stone in a line of Harvey Marshall; thence with his line n 72½ w 16.80 chs to a stone in the Burlington & East Bend road; thence with said road s 711 w 3.50 chs s 63½ w 2.85 chs to a stone in said road a corner with Harvey Marshall; thence with his line n 72½ w 37.75 chs to a stone in a line of the Akin tract of land; thence with a line of said tract s 23½ w 14 25 chs to a stone a corner with the Jonas Clore tract; thence with the lines of said tract s 31 e 2.06 chs to a stone; thence n 60 e 46.50 chs to a stone on the aforesaid road; thence with the road s 22½ w 1.53 chs to the beginning, containing 204a, 0r, 0p.

Second tract -Beginning at a stone in the Burlington and East Bend road a corner with James Lawell and the George Walton tract; thence with the line of James Lawell s 73½ e 6.75 chs to a stone; thence s 47½ e 17.09 chs to a stone; thence n 54½ e 14 25 chs to a corner of James Lawell and Jonas Clore; thence with a line or Jonas Clore's s 55½ e 11.62 chs to a Beech tree; thence s 72½ e 17.50 chs to a corner with the L. Acra tract of land; thence with a line of said tract s 18 w 18.25 chs to a corner in Lick creek between 2 Sycamore trees; thence down the creek s 77½ w 5.12 chs n 79½ w 2.98 chs s 55½ w 16.87 chs n 88½ w 3.25 chs s 37½ w 6.75 chs s 53½ w 6.41 chs to a stone in said creek between a Sycamore & Elm tree near the mouth of a branch; thence up said branch with the lines of the Walton tract of land n 23½ w 7.22 n 72½ w 4.50 chs n 58½ w 14.85 chs to a stone on the south side of said branch; thence leaving the branch and running with the line of Joseph Walton s 18 w 1.75 chs to a stone; thence n 73½ w 6 58 chs to a stone; thence n 15 e 10.00 chs to a stone; thence n 73½ w 1.17 chs to a stone in the aforesaid road; thence with the road n 10½ e 10.70 chs n 1½ e 4.15 chs n 39½ e 9.25 chs n 17 e 5.50 chs to the beginning, containing 203 acres, 2 roods and 0 poles.

Possession will be given of the land sold March 1st, 1898. I will first offer the second tract herein described, if this does not bring a sufficiency to pay the whole debt, interest and cost, I will then offer the first tract.

For the purchase price the purchaser with approved security or securities, must execute bonds, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale $5,719.21

J. B. BERKSHIRE, Master Com.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Louisa Carder, Pltf.
vs.
Chas. Regenbogen. Deft.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of Sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder, at Public Sale on Monday the 7th day of June, 1897, at one o'clock p. m. or there about, being County Court day, on a credit of 6 and 12 months, the following described property to wit:

Two tracts of land lying and being in Boone county, Ky., on the waters of Elijah's creek and bounded thus: First tract beginning at the corner of Harrison Carder with Columbus Quick's land in a line of Wm Tanner; thence with Tanner's line 51 poles to where it strikes the road from Elijahs creek to the North Bend road running between said Carder and Quick; thence following said road 18p to a stone; thence following said road still 24p; thence with said road 14½ poles to the line between Carder and Quick; thence with Quick's line 131 poles to the beginning containing 3 acres, 1 rood and 33 poles be the same more or less.

Second tract, beginning at a stake in a clay bank Cornelius Quick's most easterly corner in a line of Mrs Carder's dower; thence s 67½ e 64 poles to a beech tree and stake a corner of the dower in Hankin's line; thence n 84½ w 86½ poles to a stone said Hankin's corner in Wm Tanner's line; thence s 46 w 17 poles to a corner of Austin Anderson's lot in Tanner's line; thence with the lines of said lot s 29 e 5½ poles to a stake on the south side of a branch; thence s 25 w 16½ poles to two stumps; thence s 34½ w 18½ poles to a stone on a road; thence with a line of a four acre tract s 34½ e 32½ poles to a stone near a beech tree and stump; thence s 47 w 20 poles to a stone in C. Quick's line; thence with said line s 34½ e 34 poles to the beginning, containing 25½ acres.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made. For the purchase price of said land the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale, $484 02.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C.

JOHN L. VEST,

SURVEYOR

WALTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

Announcement of candidates for office, cash when ordered.....$5.00.

We are authorized to announce W. W. GRIMSLEY, of Big Bone, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce O. S. WATTS, of Bullittsville, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JAS. N. PEARSON, of Florence, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce F. A. UTZ, of Florence, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce SAM G. JOHNSON, of Walton, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce F. L. GORDON, Jr., of Beaver, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce G. W. HOARD, of Beaver, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce THOS. G. WILLIS, of Bullittsville, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce J. F. BLYTH, of Burlington, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce T. J. ADAMS, of Burlington precinct, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce OSCAR J. RYLE, of Burlington, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce C. L. CRISLER, as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce E. L. CLEMENTS, of Rabbit Hash, as a candidate for Superintendent of Schools, of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce L. H. VOSHELL as a candidate for Superintendent of Schools of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce ELMER BEALL, of Burlington, as a candidate for Sheriff of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce M. C. CARROLL, of Big Bone, as a candidate for Sheriff of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JOHN W. BERKSHIRE, of Petersburg, as a candidate for Sheriff of Boone County, subject to the actiou of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce ADD RIDDELL, of Beaver, as a candidate for Sheriff, of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce BEN STEPHENS, as a candidate for re-election for County Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce C. C. ROBERTS as a candidate for County Judge of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce W. B. GRUBBS, as a candidate for Representative of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce J. W. KENNEDY, of Union, as a candidate for Circuit Court Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce J. W. DUNCAN as a candidate for Circuit Court Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JOHN M. LASSING as a candidate for County Attorney of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce B. W. ADAMS as a candidate for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce W. E. VEST as a candidate for County Surveyor of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

THE YOUNG TROTTING HORSE,

RICHWOOD, JR.,

Will make the season of 1897, at my stable ¼ mile from Hebron, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.

Richwood, jr., is a beautiful bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, fine style and action, large bone. He captured first premium at all the fairs last year. He was sired by Richwood 10403; he by Squire Talmage 668; first dam, Lady Clay by C. M. Clay, jr., 22. Richwood Jr.'s dam Ned Forrest; 2d dam, Bellfounder.

The Fine Norman Stallion.

FLEETWOOD,

Will make the season at the same time and place, at $8.00 to insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Fleetwood is a steel gray, 16½ hands high, a good worker and kind disposition. He is a good breeder and his colts are all gentle and kind. Fleetwood was sired by Albatros 905, dam, Ned Forrest. Care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.

JOHN W. CLORE, Hebron, Ky.

NOTICE.

Cincinnati, O., April 5, 1897.

To the Tobacco Growers of Boone County:

I am connected with the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., which includes four houses—the Globe, Morris, Bodmann, Cincinnati Miami. Prize your tobacco and ship it to one of the four houses and receive the highest market price for same. If you have no preference ship it to the Cincinnati Miami, and I will give it my personal attention. Hogsheads and presses furnished. Address me at 110, 112 West Front St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

O. W. ADAMS.
oct-7

GO TO

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,

HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,

A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

BRADFORD BROS.,

—THE—

Carriage Manufacturers,

FLORENCE, KENTUCKY.

HEADQUARTERS FOR VEHICLES of ALL KINDS.

LATEST STYLES

OF BUGGIES

Made at the

LOWEST PRICES

Consistent with First-class Workmanship and the Best Material.

NOW is a good time to have your Carriage or Buggy Painted. Special attention paid to Ordered Work. Repairing a specialty and neatly executed.

Work Guaranteed as Represented.

BRADFORD BROTHERS, Florence, Ky.

J. A. HUEY, Union, Ky.

R. P. RICE, Florence, Ky.

Deering : Ideal : Mowers

—Are the only ones with—

ROLLER : AND : BALL : BEARINGS.

Defeated all competitors in official World's Fair field trials.

Record: 85½ lbs. for 5-foot Ideal against 152 lbs. for its highest competitor.

Deering Binder Twine. In the harvest of 1896 the Deering Harvester Company made and sold

One-Third of all the Binder Twine used in all America.

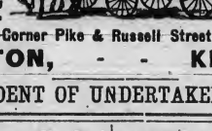
Honest in length, even in strength and reliable in every way.

Special Rates to Merchants.

RICE & HUEY, Agts., - Florence, Ky.

E. F. HARMEYER,

535 Walnut St. - CINCINNATI, OHIO.



—IS THE PLACE TO BUY—

PLOWS, HARROWS, CORN DRILLS, CULTIVATORS, HAY RAKES, &c.,

We also have the 'EUREKA' AND OTHER MOWERS.

Don't fail to see us if you want anything in our line.

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDER-  EMBALMER,

TAKER

Corner Pike & Russell Streets,

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

Farm for Sale!

CONTAINING SIXTY ACRES

House of 5 rooms, well and cistern, Good Two Story Barn with Covered Drive-Way and Basement, Large Cistern, never failing Stock water. No better Farming Land in Boone County. Apple Orchard of Selected Trees.

Location, 1½ miles south of Florence, on Lexington pike. All buildings within 50 yards of pike, (formerly owned by John Northcutt.)

For terms and all information call on or address

G. N. BUFFINGTON, Buffington, Ky.

By order of David T. Buffington.

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE

That B. F. ZIMMER is selling the best Grade of Fertilizer in the county for less Money than any other dealer in the county. It will pay you to see him before buying.

Ever sack is sold with a guarantee to be as good as represented.

Constance, Kentucky.

Local News.

Monday was decoration day.

May gave this country the cold shoulder.

Business around the court house was very quiet all last week.

Ice-cream and strawberry festivals are running full time now.

Those local candidates who have opposition were astir all last week.

The chinch bug is destroying the wheat in some parts of the State.

The first home-grown strawberries were sold on the streets last week.

Some of the candidates will geta blow on the solar plexus, next Saturday.

Considerable work has been done on the public roads in the past two weeks.

Remember that the polls open at 7 a. m. and close at 4 p. m., next Saturday.

Asa Cason has purchased of Robert Bradford, of Hebron, a handsome buggy.

Some tremendously large fish have been seen in Gunpowder creek this spring.

There is no political scrapping of consequence over the postoffices in this county.

Tolin and Lassing are demolishing some of the buildings on the Sandford property.

Master Commissioner Berkshire has several big land sales to make next Monday.

This is the last week in which to convince the voters that you are the man to nominate.

Vegetation has done very little growing so far this spring. Some corn has begun turning yellow.

If all the friends of the several candidates turn out next Saturday, a heavy vote will be polled.

It is very probable that the RECORDER will be able to give you a list of the nominees next week.

Look out for election lies this week. Right on the eve of an election is when the liars get in their work.

J. E. Rouse, of Limaburg, sold one day last week, to John H. Aylor, a fine Thurlind boar. Price, $25.

Fifteen bicyclists took dinner at Mrs. Cowens' Sunday. After dinner seven of them went to Rising Sun.

Each and every candidate is certain of success next Saturday, and is anxious that his friends shall not faulter.

Last Saturday was the regular examination day for colored applicants for certificates to teach. None on hand.

After this week the defeated candidate can retire to the quiet precincts of his corn field and figure on how it was done.

The convention to nominate a Democratic candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals will be held in Frankfort to-day.

Next Monday will be a lively day in Burlington. The result of the primary election will be officially announced that day.

The convention to nominate a Democratic candidate for the 26th Senatorial District will be held in Williamstown on August 11th.

The voter must remember that he has to make a cross in the square opposite the name of each candidate for whom he desires to vote.

Judge James O'Hara, of Covington, has been appointed Commonwealth's Attorney at Covington to succeed the late W. W. Cleary.

Rain enough fell last Friday in the Waterloo neighborhood to make a tobacco season, and tobacco plants were being set out Saturday.

Very little tobacco set in this county, but from now on until the crop is put out it will receive attention on every occasion that is favorable.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

W. C. C. Rouse, of Limaburg, had a fine young mare to get her leg broken by a kick from another mare, one day last week. She had to be killed.

Several kinds of strange grasses or weeds have made their appearance in the Limaburg neighborhood this spring. Stock will not eat any of them.

Our thanks are due W. C. C. Rouse, of Limaburg, for a quart of his extra large, delicious strawberries. He has several varieties of excellent berries.

John H. Aylor, of the Gunpowder neighborhood, sheared from one of his best yearling Oxford Down Rams, last week, a fleece that weighed 31½ pounds.

Dr. Sam Adams and two little boys, were guests of B W. Adams from last Saturday until Monday morning. He preached three good sermons while here.

The ladies of the Florence Methodist church will give a church supper and musical at the residence of Mrs. W. Y. Crigler on Friday evening, June 4th. Tickets, 25 cents.

That harness of yours needs repairing—take it to John Schmidt, the shoemaker, who is prepared to do that kind of work. Boots and shoes made to order, repairing a specialty.

The State Board of Equalization increased the taxable property as follows in this county: Land, 6 per cent.; town lots, 15 per cent.; other property subject to equalization, 6 per cent.

In selecting delegates to the convention at Frankfort to-day, the convention here, last Saturday, was decidedly partial to the town of Burlington. It gave her seven of the twelve delegates.

The Predestinarian Baptists will hold their annual meeting at Gunpowder church on the second Saturday and Sunday following in this month.

W. T. Riddell, son of J. A. Riddell, of Hebron, fell 40 feet through an elevator shaft in Cincinnati, one day last week. A broken toe is his only injury.

After this week the yellow legging brigade will be mustered out of service and the weather beaten warriors can take their time for "cussing" the fellows who promised and failed to fulfill.

A paper is in circulation soliciting money with which to do some very necessary repairing on the Methodist church. The work which it is proposed to do should have been done long since.

There should be no trouble in casting a vote next Saturday. All that is necessary is to put the cross in the square opposite the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote.

Sunday, June 6th is the next date for Queen & Crescent cheap excursion to Cincinnati. Rates and schedules same as usual. All summer resorts now open. Ask agents for particulars.

James Clore, who has lost $100,000 on refreshment stands at picnics and fairs in the last ten years, has embarked in the business again this year, and his familiar face was noticed in the stand at the picnic last Saturday.

A weed that some call horse sorrel has made its appearance in abundance in many of the blue grass pastures in this county. Stock will not eat it and the farmers are anxious to know how to eradicate it without plowing the land.

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church, conducted by Revs. Harris and Barker closed last Wednesday night. There were three additions, Master Willie Ryle, Miss Annie Cowen and Mrs. Nettie Hughes. Prof. Fogg was present and assisted in the services for two days.

Myrix J. Williams, of Gloncoe, grandfather of D. E. Castleman of this place, died in his 86th year on Tuesday of last week. He had been a resident of Gallatin county for about 65 years, and was honored and respected by all her citizens. He had been a mason since 1837, and 1865 he was Grand Master of the State. He was buried by that order.

The candidates' picnic was attended by a fairly good crowd last Saturday. Everything passed off quietly, and the candidates were a very busy set of men until the crowd had about all left the grounds. The young people put in the time dancing, which amusement was kept up until about night. About noon a good dinner was spread, and everybody invited to partake.

H. W. Harrison, dentist, of Rising Sun, Ind., will be in Burlington on the first and third Monday in each month, to do work for those who wish anything in his line. He will be here two days each visit. He is a son of the late R. F. Harrison, of Carrollton, and a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dentistry at Philadephia. He is highly recommended in his profession.

Miss Katie T. Smith, who for the past eighteen months has been a most pleasant visitor in York the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. H. Coleman, left Monday morning for her home in Burlington, Ky. Her departure had been looked forward to, and was attended with, much regret, for during her stay here Miss Smith made everybody her fast friend. Her many amiable qualities, loveliness, charming manners and sweet disposition won for her a never to-be-forgotton place in the heart of our people, and in her going away social circles in our little city sustain a loss indeed great. Memories of Miss Katie fond and most pleasant will ever linger in York, and a repetition of her visit is looked forward to with eager and delightful anticipation.—Sumter County (Ala.) Sentinel.

About one o'clock last Thursday a couple of carriages came into town from toward Petersburg. In one of the vehicles were three gentlemen, and in the other, one gentleman and two ladies. One of the men who appeared to be the utility man, asked for County Attorney Lassing. Mr. Lassing was close at hand, and was soon in consultation with the spokesman, and in a few minutes he conducted the gentlemen to County Clerk Adam's sanctum, where a license was issued authorizing the marriage of U. G. Mulford, of Dillsboro, Ind., and Miss Emma Pate, of the same State. The parties were delighted when they found there would be no hitch in obtaining the desired documents, the only trouble being the absence of anyone authorized to perform the marriage ceremony. After a sojourn of about an hour in town, during which they took dinner at Mrs. Cowens, the party left for the residence of Rev. Ed Stephens, near Elanger, where the two young people were started on the journey through life as man and wife.

Entertainment and Strawberry, Ice-cream Festival at Hebron Town Hall, Saturday evening, June 5th, 1897. The exercises consists of a three act drama entitled "Fruits of the Wine Cup." Synopsis:—Play opens at the home of Hamilton, a rich and generous merchant, addicted to driuk. Andrew and the Baileys present. Temperauce convention. The Washingtonians. Andrew has bought notes of Hamilton and Ransom and lutends to ruin Mr. Hamilton. Speculation, who is the Ransom of the firm, turns up just in time to detect Andrews stealing $5,000 from Hamilton's room. He compels Andrews to divide. The Hamilton's reduced to beggary and Mr. Bailey refuses to allow his son Charles to marry Kate Hamilton, the drunkard's daughter. Hamilton arrested and taken to prison. Is saved from a second arrest by Speculation, who pays a claim of $1,000 for him. Andrews abducted Kate. Speculation tracks her and she is rescued. Exciting finale. The village Jonah. Jeremiah and Mary spice the play with droll humor.

Between acts and scenes music and recitations will be introduced. After the play a supper of strawberries, ice-cream and cake will be served. Come everybody and enjoy the evening. Admission, 25c; children under 12 years, 15c. Proceeds for benefit of Hebron church. To begin at 8 o'clock.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Edward Clegg, of Gunpowder, was in town last Thursday.

D. Beall and daughter, of Hebron, were in town, yesterday.

Calvin Jack, of the Big Bone neighborhood, was in town Thursday.

James Carroll and Robert Jump, of Big Bone, were in town Monday.

Mr. Samuel Pope, of the Waterloo neighborhood, was in town Monday.

It is settled that D. N. Comingore is to be the next Collector in this district.

F. L. Gordon and Sam C. Johnson, candidates for assessor, were in town Thursday.

Mrs. J. F. Weaver and Mrs. R. J. Underbill, we are glad to report are getting better.

Add Riddell, candidate for sheriff and Sam Johnson, candidate for assessor, were in town Monday.

Thos. H. Baker has been appointed postmaster at Louisville, and all his friends in Boone are rejoicing.

R. P. Rice and L. M. Ware, of Florence, passed through town Friday behind a double team of steppers.

Mr. Edward Gaines, of Mt. Ashby, was the guest of his son, Atty. S. Gaines, last Friday and Saturday.

Miss Tudie Runyan, who has been attending school at Versailles for the past year, returned home last Wednesday.

D. E. Castleman went to Glencoe, Gallatin county, last Wednesday to attend the funeral of his venerable grandfather, M. J. Williams.

Mrs. Carrie Fish, who had been visiting her father at this place for several weeks, left for her home in Atlanta, Georgia, last Saturday.

Gus W. Richardson, of Meade county, candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, was in town last Wednesday, in the interest of his canvass.

Our young friend, Ome Rogers, graduated at the Cincinnati Law School, last week. He is a bright young man, and will make a success of his profession.

The many friends of C. C. Roberts will be glad to hear that Dr. Walker, his attending physician, now pronounces him out of danger. He will return home next Saturday to vote.

The Bulletin (Cairo, Ill.,) pays the following high compliment to Capt. B. B. Bradley, of that city, well known in this county. "In 1890, B. B. Bradley, the subject of this sketch, built a boat especially for the service, and began the business of river transferring in earnest. To-day he operates two towboats: 'The Fred Hartweg' and 'The Fritz,' one of which cost him $40,000. Mr. Bradley was born in Petersburg, Ky., and came to Cairo from Rising Sun, Ind., seven years ago. He came here as the representative and agent of the Huntington and St. Louis Towboat Company, and served in that capacity one year. He has been on the river all his life, and on the 4th of September, 1896, he was issued his nineteenth license as master and pilot. No more agreeable gentleman nor more absolutely honest and reliable business man can be found anywhere."

A CARD.

To the Democrats of Boone county: There has been a report circulating that I, if elected, could not execute bond for the office of sheriff. I want to say to my friends that this report is entirely without foundation. I have my bond ready for execution if elected, and all I ask of the voters of Boone county is to elect me sheriff and I will make the bond. M. C. CARROLL.

A CARD

To the voters of Boone County.

I desire to denounce the report that was being put in circulation Monday morning that I have withdrawn from the race for Assessor, as an infamous falsehood for which there was not the slightest foundation. I shall remain on the track until the close of polls next Saturday, despite the schemes of would be political tricksters. I am confident that I will be nominated.

SAM C. JOHNSON.

A CARD.

To the voters of Boone county:—There is being a report circulated over the county to the effect that F. L. Gordon, jr., sold a farm to one O. P. Kite upon which one R. B. Brown, of Warsaw, held a mortgage, and that said F. L. Gordon, jr., refused to raise said incumbrance, in consequence of which said Kite was likely to loose his purchase. This is a willful and malicious lie, and we think done to injure said Gordon in the pending primary election.

O. P. KITE,
F. L. GORDON, Jr.

Attest:—J. K. Glore.

Petersburg.

Wingate & Thompson received a lot of wool here last week.

Several of our citizens attended the candidates' picnic, last Saturday.

J. W. Kennedy, candidate for Circuit Clerk, was in our neighborhood, last Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Knipfer and daughter, Lizzie, have been under medical treatment for several days. They are better.

Information has just reached here that Mr. Norman Sebree, of Cincinnati, is dangerously sick with pneumonia.

Mrs. Lemmings, of Illinois was here last week superintending the erection of a monument over the graves of her husband Wm. Lemmings and their little daughter.

Perry Rice moved from this place, last Saturday, to his father's farm. We have lost a quiet, good citizen and the best wishes of a good many friends go with him and his family.

Saturday was observed here as Decoration day and a large number of people showed their sympathy for departed friends by decorating their graves with beautiful boquets.

Charles and William Sage, of Cleves, Ohio, and Will's wife and daughter, visited Ben Akin's family Sunday, where Will and Charley's mother has been quite sick for a week or more.

Last Friday Mrs. Weisicle, of Bellevue, fell out of a wagon and was unconscious until Saturday morning. Dr. Grant at first thought her recovery doubtful, but later on thought she might get up again. She is at the home of her son, John Deck, on Woolper.

Wm. Snyder and wife, Lizzie Weindel and Ed Keim and a number of others from this place attended the basket meeting at Woolper last Sunday. It was regarded as a very nice meeting—preaching in the morning by Rev. Dr. Kirtley and after dinner by Rev. Utz. There was an abundance of provisions provided for the occasion. The school house is not built in a very attractive place for meetings, but it is a great place for large crowds to gather.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.

Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,

MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.

For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

L. Dwyer's Adm'r., &c. Plffs.
vs
L. Dwyer's creditors, &c., Defts.

This cause is now refered to J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this county, who will ascertain and report the amount, kind and value of the estate of the decedent, whether real, personal or mixed and where the same is located. He will ascertain and report what debts, if any were owing by decedent at the time of his death and to that end all persons holding claims against said estate will present same to said Berkshire proven according to law on or before August 1st, 1897, and said Berkshire will give due notice of the time and place of his sittings through the Boone Co., Recorder. He will also settle the accounts of Mellison R. Dwyer, administratrix, and report among other things the cost of administration.

Witness my hand as clerk of said court, this April 30th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky

Simons Baldon's Adm'r. Plaintiff,
vs
Parthena Baldon, &c.. Defts.

This cause is now refered to the Master Commissioner of the Boone Circuit Court with the following directions: 1st. He will advertise in the Boone Co. Recorder the time and place of his sittings and he will hear proof of and receive claims against the estate of the decedent Simons Baldon. 2d. He will audit and settle the accounts of the administrator, John D. Baldon. 3d. He will ascertain what property the decedent owned at the time of his death, and he will report his actions herein at the August term, 1897, of the Boone Circuit Court.

Given under my hand as clerk of said court, this May 12th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

James Rogers, &c., Com., Plffs
vs equity.
S. C. R. Corwine, &c., Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of Sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-House door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder, at Public Sale on Monday the 7th day of June, 1897, at one o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being County Court day, upon a credit of six and twelve months, the following described property, to-wit:

A tract or parcel of land lying and being in Boone county, Kentucky, and bounded thus: Adjoining the town of Florence on the Burlington turnpike road and beginning in the center of said road a corner of lots 58 and 9 in the division of the lands of the late John Stephens; thence n 54¾ e 45 poles to a stake in the center of Pike street, at the termination of Center street in Florence; thence s 36¼ w with said st., 98 poles and 5 links to another stake in the Burlington road; thence s 46¾ west 15 poles to another stake, corner of lot No. 9 in said division; thence s 44 east with a line of lot No. 9, 33 poles and 7 links to the beginning, containing 5a, 3r and 7 poles and being lot No. 4 in said division.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made. For the purchase price the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a Judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms

Amount to be made by sale $636 25.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C.

W. N. Hind & Co.

213 W. Fifth St. Cincinnati, O.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn St., Chicago.

A. P. WALTON,

DENTIST,

121 Garfield Place,

Cincinnati, - - Ohio.

First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

WE Want to be Kept Busy.

It costs us as much to do nothing as to be busy, so that our time may be fully employed we quote the following

Very Low Prices:

Stand. Granulated Sugar, 21 lbs.	$1 00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound,	15¢
Oil Sardines per can,	3c
Mustard Sardines per can,	5c
Hominy, 3 quarts,	10¢
Headlight Oil, per gallon,	9c
Rolled Oats, 3 lbs. for	10c
Ladies Fine Shoes,	$1 00
Gent's Fine Shoes, per pair,	$1 00

Give us a Call W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.

BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.,

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS,

Notions, Groceries, Etc.

Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!

at Lowest : Cash : Prices.

TOBACCO CANVASS, CHEAP.

Market : Price : Paid : for : Produce.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.

The J. L. BILL

Coffee and Tea Co.

THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.

12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,

COVINGTON, KY.

WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

SENSATIONAL BARGAINS!

Clothing Sacrificed! See!

A full Suit of Men's Clothing for only, ...$3.50,
worth double, and this is only a sample.

We invite inspection all along the line.....

Shoes, Tinware, Groceries, Dress Goods, Etc.

MILLINERY

Ladies, you will be surprised to see the nice things we have to offer you, and prices are waydown.

In fact we have a full line of General Merchandise, and prices are in keeping with the times.

We Guarantee Quality Also.

COME AND SEE,

T. J. HUGHES, BEAVER LICK, KY.

Keystone Buggy Company,

CINCINNATI, - - OHIO.

FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS, MANUFACTURERS

Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles.

No. 467 Like Cut.

Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent

QUALITY AT VERY LOW PRICE.

Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.

All Jobs Made to Order.

Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.

References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sothern, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigler, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Utzinger; Rolla Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Utz, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.

Call on or address,

R. L. BRADFORD, : Hebron, Ky.

Agent for Boone County.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

The Fall of the Elect.

BY DOROTHY CONYERS.

"I do hope, my dear, that she is not one of those dreadful new women."

"I trust not, indeed."

The dean of Chirchester peppered his chop with a thoughtful air, and Mrs. Carberry poured out his tea with a hand which absolutely shook with apprehension. Chirchester was a cathedral town which had not traveled apace with the rest of the world. The Chirchestrians prided themselves on their conservative ideas; they disapproved even of tennis, except when played mildly on private grounds, and had played croquet steadily when croquet was dead, with a lordly disregard as to their guests' amusement. Now that it had come in again, they played it joyfully, but still with the old light mallets and wide hoops of their youth. The mothers of Chirchester read the new library books with horror-stricken looks, and little trickles of guilty enjoyment. Cricket, hunting, and the new "hiking" were things their daughters might not do; riding gently along the roads was ladylike and permissible, but the archdeacon's wife actually blushed when a thoughtless person asked her what safety habit her daughter wore, for Louisa Holroyd's pretty figure was hidden in an ample garment made by the local tailor, the skirt of which came well below her deepest grievance, her tiny buttoned boots. The archdeacon's wife was the sternest and most unbending of the "elect," as the country people dubbed the church circle.

The bishop and his fat, merry wife had no children, and were given to laughing leniently at the vagaries of the new woman. So it fell on the archdeacon and the dean to keep the select circle together, and, though there was a twinkle in the handsome dean's eye and a swing of his broad shoulders that hinted he had sometimes played brighter games than croquet, that, as Rudyard Kipling would say, was "another story," and, so far he and the archdeacon had been equal to their task.

To-day the dean was disturbed as he looked on an open letter on the table. The letter was from a cousin who was obliged to go abroad for an indefinite time on business, and had written asking the dean if he would give his only daughter a home during his absence. "A bright, pleasant, girl; I feel sure you would like her as a companion to your own girl," and if the dean consented she was to come in a week. How was he to say no? He was to be liberally paid for his guest, and her father was an old friend. He must write to say he would be delighted.

"I am glad," said Mrs. Carberry, nervously, "that Cissie is away; very glad. More tea, dear?" And in sheer absence of mind she watered the teapot from the hot milk jug and handed a cup of the strange liquor to the dean, who looked at it resignedly and rose, for he was an equably tempered man.

"Yes," he said, "it is an excellent thing, for then, if the girl is at all advanced, there will be time to get her out of our way before Cissie returns."

A week later. The dean and Mrs. Carberry stepped nervously forward as the mail thundered in from London and discharged its living freight on the platform; then their eyes its joyously on a girl clad in the quietest of traveling costumes, who was evidently their guest.

"Are you Helen Adair?"

"Ah, yes, and you are Mrs. Carberry?" The girl held out her hand, dexterously evading the affectionate peck which the elder lady would have bestowed on her. She was a tall, slim girl, with big, mischievous gray eyes and peculiarly dainty hands and feet.

"Such a tiresome journey!" she said. "Would you see to my things for me, Mr. Dean? Here is the list," and she vanished in the crowd. The Dean made his way to the luggage compartment, and had just finished his task when Helen's voice sounded sweet and low at his elbow.

"Everything's there, I see. Would you get a special messenger to wheel this up, or shall I ride it?" She had her hand on a smart bicycle, which she was rolling tenderly through the crowd.

If the box next to him had not been a wicker one the Dean would have sat on it and gasped; as it was he gasped standing.

"My dear, a bicycle," he said, weakly. A bicycle in the innermost circle of the select!

Helen Adair caught the stony despair in Mrs. Carberry's eyes, and saw the Dean's flushed cheek, and her eyes danced suddenly as she took in the situation.

"Don't you ride one, either of you?" she said, sweetly. "Perhaps I'd better side it up; I'm very precious of it."

A girl on a bicycle following the Deanery carriage! The Dean gasped again and gave some hasty orders to a porter, and Helen was bundled into the wagonette, her eyes looking somewhat anxiously back at her precious wheel.

Between her natural kindliness and her horror at receiving a new woman into her home, Mrs. Carberry spent a restless evening, for they soon gathered that Helen hunted and fished and shot, and yet she spoke of none of those things, but drew the Dean into an animated discussion on the Transvaal question at dinner, and told Mrs. Carberry of the latest things in clothes afterward. The Dean could not help thinking he had not spent such a pleasant evening for a long time, and Mrs. Carberry would have agreed with him had it not been for the metal steed reposing in the front hall. As it was she thought of the austere archdeacon and his wife, of Mrs. Green, the doctor's wife, and others, and she sighed occasionally.

Mrs. Holroyd hastened to call next day, and came in with heightened color, having passed the wheeled monster in the hall.

"You must put your foot down," she said, sternly, drowning some weak defense of Mrs. Carberry as to every one riding now. "Remember, my dear, no half-measures; she must not use it here."

Then Helen came in, and matters might have run smoothly had they not begun to discuss with bated breath one of the newest books, and Helen joined in carelessly. "It's rather clever," she said.

Mrs. Holroyd dropped her glasses with a clatter. "You—have—read—that—book," she said, dropping each word out slowly.

"O, yes," Helen smiled. "It's a very ordinary book, you know. I rather agree with the authoress."

Mrs. Holroyd rose slowly; she could only show shocked she was by withdrawing her stately presence. "No, thank you, Mrs. Carberry," she said; "I cannot stay for tea this evening. Good afternoon, Miss Adair. I cannot understand what your father must have been thinking of to allow you even to hear that book's name." And, not without an inkling that her last sentence was slightly overdrawn, she withdrew, leaving Helen to laugh muchly at her antiquated ideas. And cowardly Mrs. Carberry forgot to defend her.

There gradually came a rift from that time among the select; the girls murmured openly because they were not allowed to ride bicycles; they groaned enviously when they saw Helen's numerous tennis prizes. And Louisa Holroyd was said to have wept bitterly when she saw Helen riding in a smart covert-coating habit, and caught a glimpse of the neat "tops" which just showed below the skirt. The elders, to quell the rebellion, were stricter even than usual to their daughters, and prided themselves more than ever on their customs not being as other men's.

Mrs. Carberry was "at home" to the surrounding country and town; croquet was being played on the trimly-kept lawn, archery, bowls, even Aunt Sally in a far-away corner, where shouts of unseemly laughter were smothered by surrounding shrubs. Every one had come, the day was cloudless, and Mrs. Carberry felt it was all a tremendous success.

"ARE YOU HELEN ADAIR?"

Nearly everyone had gone in to tea; only Helen and two flannel-clad young men were on the croquet lawn, aimlessly hitting the balls about. They had voted the tea-room too hot to bear.

"Stupid game, isn't it?" said one of the men, as he missed a hoop and hit the ball away in disgust.

"Yes, isn't it?" said Helen; "and," regretfully, "what a lovely cricket-ground it would make! I haven't played for ages—no one does here."

"O, lots of the county girls do. Look here. I came on from a cricket practice. I've bats and a ball stuck in the trees over there; let's have up these hoops, and I'll bowl to you."

Helen was delighted, and in a moment walking-sticks and an umbrella represented the wickets, and Helen was hitting distinctly easy balls in all directions. The dean's portly figure appeared at the end of the walk. He stood still, amazed.

"Cricket, Helen!" he exclaimed, laughing. "If Mrs. Holroyd saw you! Have you seen a parasol anywhere? Old Lady Damer sent me to look for hers; it's all real lace, and she's anxious about it."

"No, I haven't. I say, Uncle Jos (she had long ago said Mr. Dean was too formal), bowl me a ball; they can't get me out," nodding contemptuously at the two officers. A distinctly ungrateful speech, considering they had been only endeavoring to leave her in.

The dean's fingers closed mechanically on the leather-covered ball which Capt. Elton handed to him. The trim lawn faded away, and he heard again the triumphant yells of his side at Oxford, when, with the victory apparently a certainty for the others, he had bowled three men for three balls (commonly called the "hat trick"), and had left his side victors by two runs. He stepped carefully up to the walking-stick which marked the second wicket, flourished his arm once or twice, and bowled. It was a nasty, slow ball, breaking in, and Helen's off-stump went down with a crash.

"What a splendid ball!" exclaimed the two men, and Helen clamored for more, "for practice." The dean laughed triumphantly. Then Helen suddenly exclaimed: "Let's have a match, Uncle Jos, Church versus State; I'm sure we could beat those two;" and, before the dean knew where he was, they had tossed for going in, and he found himself bowling vigorously at Capt. Elton, who, armed with a rake handle, was at the wickets.

"It is very hot," he gasped; and, looking round guiltily, he quickly flung his black coat on the grass and flew to try to catch a ball which Capt. Elton had returned to him. Then he stood appalled, for the bishop's voice came to his ears, and, turning, he saw the bishop and his wife standing close behind him. "Cricket!" The bishop's pale, intellectual face was full of laughter as he saw the dean, coatless and breathless, flying for the ball. "I thought this was strictly forbidden."

"O, my lord, come and umpire; we want one badly," called Helen, quite unabashed, and the dean who had stood still, horror-stricken, picked up the ball again when he saw the lenient expression on the episcopal face, and saw the bishop move in to umpire, while Mrs. Howard sat down on a bench and absolutely shook with merriment. Cricket in the dean's garden, it was too amusing!

By dint of what Helen called poking, the two soldiers had made 15 runs, and then Helen took her place at the wickets. She was really a fair lady cricketer, and, as fielders were scarce, she ran up the score to 11 in a few minutes, retiring with a cry of disgust as Capt. Elton ran out cleverly with his left hand.

"Now, Mr. Dean, the bishop's wife called out impatiently, as the dean stood hesitating; "go in; there's no one to see."

And the dean went in. A rakehandle is not the best of bats, but the dean made a mighty smite, caught the ball on the half volley, and away it went over all the heads into a clump of bushes. Once, twice, thrice did the dean fly to the stick and back — his breath was gone, his face scarlet—four times.

"I can't go again," he gasped pitcously.

"You must!"—Helen had set her heart on winning. "One more and we win; run, Uncle Jos, run!" But the delay was almost fatal, for, as the dean turned to run back, Capt. Elton flung in the ball.

"Run on!" cried the bishop's wife. "Oh, do hurry!"

"Out!" cried Mr. Ely, hauging down a walking stick.

"O, no; in!" said Helen.

The dean had no breath to argue with.

"In or out, my lord?" the rivals appealed both together to the bishop, who was holding his sides as he laughed; but then, what a sight met their eyes as they turned! The whole of the dean's large party stood looking on, on the edge of the ground, led by Mrs. Holroyd; and what had they seen as they came up? The dean, their dean, flying coatless and hatless, up and down, playing cricket on the sacred precincts of the deanery, and the bishop cheering him and laughing. How could the select ever hold up their heads again, and before all the county, too —the county which they had so often lectured on its advanced ways? Mrs. Holroyd looked round in stony despair, words that were too bitter to utter trembling on her lips.

The dean hurriedly picked up his coat and hid as much of his breathless person inside it as was possible. The bishop had decided that he was fairly in, so his triumph enabled him to face without flinching the glare in the eyes of his circle and his wife's piteous face.

"My parasol, Mr. Dean?" said Lady Damer, smiling; "you appear to have forgotten it."

"I am so sorry," stammered the dean; "it wasn't here, and I—"

Lady Damer put up her pince-nez doubtfully. "I really believe," she said; "yes, indeed—why, you were using it for a wicket," and she fished the middle stump, which was adorned with lace, out of the ground.

Mrs. Carberry groaned audibly.

"It was my fault," exclaimed Helen; "I never looked at it."

"Never mind, my dear," said the old lady, laughing; "you must come out and play cricket with my grandchildren. We'll get up a match, Mrs. Carberry, as you don't object to cricket now. Let me see, shall we say next week—Thursday?" and Mrs. Carberry said: "Yes."

"The fall of the select was complete, for they picked sides and played more cricket that same afternoon (minus the dean); Mrs. Holroyd accepted her defeat, and was silent even when Alicia Holroyd announced openly that she must come up to try a ride on Helen's bicycle. Only Louisa Holroyd sat away and spoke no rebellious words, but she was deciding what color her new habit would be, and whether she would buy brown top boots or black.—Sketch.

"Gone to the Dogs."

A missionary bishop who had been six weeks in coming to the convention at Winnipeg, most of the way in a canoe, began his address by saying that he would speak for himself and for a brother bishop who unfortunately could not be present. He was sorry to say that his brother's diocese had gone to the dogs! A general gloom followed these words. He went on to say that the bishop had found so many inquirers after religion among the Eskimos north of Hudson bay that he had to build a church. As there was no wood, he used whales' ribs for rafters, covering them with tanned walrus hide, and so made a church to hold 80 persons. All went merry as a wedding bell for a time, until—the dogs grew famished and ate the church!

They Had One.

Mr. Tenspot—I don't think I would put in so much time hunting up genealogies, my dear. Adam and Eve had no family tree.

Mrs. Tenspot—My impression is that they had.

"Indeed?"

"Yes; the apple tree."—N. Y. Journal.

SUGAR IN THE SENATE.

The Fine Hand of the Trusts in the Dingley Bill.

The man who does not recognize the fine Italian hand of the trusts in the senate amendments to the Dingley bill must be the blind man of the proverb, who does not want to see.

We are told that on a "rough estimate" the senate schedule will yield from sugar a revenue of $90,000,000 a year. The figure is so full one looks for confirmation of so great expectations. The full text of the sugar schedule is not given, but from the synopsis telegraphed it appears that reduced to an ad valorem rate the senate proposes to tax sugar 75 per cent, as compared with 72 per cent. in the Dingley bill, and 40 to 44 per cent. in the Wilson bill. The McKinley act let sugar in free. It is also stated that the senate bill is so drawn as to place the regular duty on Hawaiian sugar.

The senate hardly has put an ad valorem duty on sugar. The report is merely an estimate of an ad valorem rate. The original Dingley bill taxes sugar not above 16 D. S. in any shape one cent per pound testing not above 75 degrees by the polariscope, and for every additional degree three-hundredths of one cent per pound. On sugar above 16 D. S., and on all refined sugars, the rates made were to be 1.375 cents per pound. The highest rate possible on sugar below 16 D. S. under the Dingley bill would be 1¾ cents per pound. It was estimated that the revenue derived would be about $50,000,000. But there was no intention to collect duty on Hawaiian sugar.

If the senate bill is to produce $90,000,000 a year, there must be contemplated a stiff advance over the rates provided for under the home schedule.

The sugar trust is, of course, at the bottom, and deep down under the foundation of this policy. It seems to have taken the senate a willing captive. The projected abrogation of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty seems to be a part of the same monopoly-inspired raid on the rights of the people. Sir Claus was the original instigator of that treaty, and he has prospered under it in the twenty odd years of its operation to the tune of many millions. His contracts with the island sugar planters are about to expire. Some are already at an end, we believe. Hence this pronounced interest in American industries demanding that the treaty cease. If behind this little game the heavy trump up Mr. Spreckles' sleeve is the limiting of California beet sugar reduction, why, it would be better for the country to go on losing the revenue on Hawaiian sugar.

But sugar is not the only sweet morsel in the senate bill. The hand of the trust and of the monopoly did not grow weary when that piece of work was done. Its skill and cunning are shown broadcast in all the schedules, any report of which has reached here. Taking the reported ad valorem estimates, it appears that lead ore was raised to 94.74 per cent. from 62½ in the house bill, 49.37 in the Wilson act and 83.73 in the McKinley act. When we get to wool, a product of the farmer, and where the interest of the eastern high tariff monopolist lies in getting it as cheap as possible, this trust-ridden senate committee has lowered the rate from 50.82 per cent. in the house bill, the same as in the McKinley act, to 43.37 per cent. But spun yarn, in which the monopolist has put some of his money, is raised from 40 per cent. in the Wilson bill to 90.87 per cent. in the senate bill. It was only 50.61 in the McKinley act. The Dingley schedule made the duty on yarns run from 15 to 18 cents per pound.

On machinery generally the house schedule of 35 per cent. is made 45 per cent. in the senate bill. Both the Wilson and McKinley acts made the rate 45 per cent.

On hops, a direct product of the farm, the house rate of 67.20 per cent. is lowered to 53.76. Still wines are dropped from 92.29 to 46.35 per cent. Hemp comes down from 70.52 to 16.41 per cent.

This is as far as the republican members of the ways and means committee of the senate, who alone are responsible for all changes made in the bill sent up from the house, consented to let the people know what they have done. The rest of the bill is kept locked up in the star chamber secrets, under which the work of revision was carried on. They are probably letting us down easy. And if the rest of the changes manifest the same subservient regard for monopoly interests as these, and the same blind indifference to the interests of the farmers and consumers of the country, they had better let us down very easy. A little of this sort of thing makes a heavy burden of bad news.—Los Angeles Herald.

PARAGRAPHIC POINTERS.

——In this Cuban affair McKinley was expected to checkmate the king, and all he has done is to capture a pawn.—Chicago Tribune (Rep.).

——In the bright lexicon of the republican party civil service reform means turning out competent and faithful democratic officials to put in republican campaign leaders.—Atlanta Journal.

——It was the law-defying trusts, the political corruptionists, the unfaithful public officers and the tax-dodging millionaires who fed the fires of Bryanism last year—and who are adding fresh fuel to the fire now.—N. Y. World.

——President McKinley is said to be ambitious to restore peace and prosperity to Cuba. The country will wish him success in the undertaking, even though he did make a failure of that job of prosperity restoring at home.—N. Y. Journal.

——The republican papers are bitterly lamenting the heavy imports for March and April, which, they argue, will not only diminish the revenue after the new tariff goes into effect, but will retard the return of prosperity. The republicans in congress ought to have thought of all this before they framed their outrageous bill.—Rochester (N. Y.) Herald.

THE PROTECTIVE SYSTEM.

McKinleyism Is Too Slow for the People.

The protective system is subject to one peculiar disadvantage. Its beneficent effects are cut off at both ends, while by a malign perversity of nature the damning results of free trade extend themselves fore and aft, miraculously untedating their cause and persisting long after that cause has disappeared.

The McKinley law was passed in October, 1890. The next month the people rose up and smote it under a misapprehension, as its friends explained, caused by the fact that it had not yet had time to produce its intended effects. In 1891 these effects had still failed to arrive to a sufficient extent to mollify the popular resentment, and in 1892 the country was so far from recognizing their presence that it elected the celebrated Grover Cleveland, then a statesman of much eminence as a tariff smasher, to clear the protective incumbrance out of the way.

It was about this time, according to the theories of the high tariff school, that the McKinley law should have been getting fairly to work, but the mere threat of its repeal in the future involved in the election of a hostile president and congress, paralyzed its delictae mechanism. For more than 21 months after the presidential election the McKinley law remained in full force, but its usefulness was gone. The people continued to pay the mountainous duties, but their magical power to compel prosperity had disappeared. The vague shadow of a possible but unknown low tariff in the distant future was more potent than the actual workings of a high tariff in the present. Thus it resulted that, although the McKinley law was in force for nearly four years, it never once got a chance, according to its friends, to show what it could really do. It went to its grave, a mute, inglorious Milton, with all its brilliant possibilities buried under the clods of adverse circumstances.

The Wilson tariff experienced no such delay in getting under way. It began its deadly work, as the McKinley professors of economies have frequently explained, more than a year before it was born, and it has continued its baleful activity ever since.

And now there is to be a new and more stringently protective tariff, but it has none of the preliminary effects that protectionists credited to the Wilson bill when it was still without form and void. Mr. Dingley explains that his tariff cannot be expected to bring good times before it is passed, or even immediately after. He thinks that it will take about a year after its passage to get into good running order. And if by that time we have a series of democratic victories, the melancholy history of the McKinley law may be repeated. The advance agent of prosperity works only by sample, and there is no assurance that he can deliver his goods in cloudy weather.

It really seems hardly worth while to try to build up a protective system in this country. The vicissitudes of politics are so frequent here that a policy whose usefulness is killed by an adverse verdict at the polls, and which can never begin to produce its promised effects until after the people have had time to blast it at the next election, is a fabric too delicate to be of any practical use. We might as well try to raise palm trees out of doors in a Canadian winter.—N. Y. Journal.

WILL GET THEIR SWAG.

Goldbug Democrats Will Not Be Forgotten.

Let the "gold democrats" hold their peace. Their pound of flesh will be paid them in due time by the McKinley administration. Their clamor for currency reform based upon the Indianapolis plan is to have weighty consideration by the powers that be. The Times-Herald, of Chicago, which is generally considered one of the inspired mouthpieces of the "Advance Agent of Prosperity," tells its allies not to be downcast, "where two have to ride one horse, one must ride behind." After those who fried the fat so liberally last fall, in the interests of McKinley and his henchmen, get their share of plunder and of tariff concessions to them, then will come the day for the auxiliaries, who are to reap the reward for their perfidy to democratic principles, in the shape of a retirement of greenbacks, substituting therefor bank bills based upon the single gold standard, a standard which is the shuttlecock for other nations to play with.

The Times-Herald says "that McKinley has expressed his concurrence with the Indianapolis plan, and when the proper time comes will do his whole duty towards its adoption." This is certainly very candid and very fair. The republican party believes in living up to its agreements with those whom it wishes to make use of on a future occasion, and so will its democratic allies receive savory recompense to their hearts' content, if they will but exercise a little patience. — Buffalo Times.

——The Dingley bill went to the senate with raw wool taxed and outrageous duties on woolens, but with hides on the free list. The cattle trust did not propose to stand that, and through two or three western senators threatened to kill the bill if a duty was not put upon hides. The republicans in the senate responded to this hold-up by giving the cattle trust what it asked. So it turns out that shoes and all other manufactures of leather must be taxed because wool is to be taxed and the duty on woolens increased.—Atlanta Journal.

——The manufacturing interests of the country are rapidly discovering that the way to build up a great trade is to be freed from customs restrictions. The United States cannot do business with a commercial enemy, and protection makes enemies faster than any scheme of reciprocity can make friends.—Kansas City Times.

PITH AND POINT.

—"Miss Smiley has a retreating forehead." "Yes; it's quite Grecian."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

—"Her fiance is such a stickl How can she bear him?" "Perhaps she'll employ a caddy."—Detroit Journal.

—Not the Same.—"Your daughter seems perfectly at home on her wheel." "Oh, no; when she is at home she never smiles like that."—Chicago Record.

—A Sure Case.—Wiggins—"What makes you so certain of Bawler's patriotism?" Boggs—"Why, he just boils over with indignation when he hears of the wrongs of foreigners that we have no interest in."—Truth.

—"Where is that son of yours, Mr. Mulrany, that went to London?" "Well, sir, they tell me he is carrying all before him." "Indeed! What is his profession?" "I's a waiter, sir."—Tit-Bits.

—"I had the inflammatory rheumatism so bad once," said the elderly boarder, "that they had to call in a consultation of four physicians." "Sort of joint commission, eh?" asked the Cheerful Idiot.—Indianapolis Journal.

—One Recommendation.—Fair Young Creature (after some recitations)—"Do you think I would do for a Juliet?" Manager (anxious not to hurt feelings)—"Um—er—well, you'd look very pretty in the tomb."—N. Y. Weekly.

—Left Behind.—During the first month of Della's service in her new place there was nothing but praise for her good qualities. But one evening the mistress, entering the kitchen suddenly, discovered the traditional "cousin" hidden in one of the closets. "How is this, Della—a man here?" "Troth, ma'am, I don't know what to make us it. Shure he must have been forgotten by the cook that was here before."—Brooklyn Life.

CLOISTERED NUNS.

Sixty Women Who Are Practically Buried Alive.

Archbishop Corrigan not long ago paid his annual visit to the Corpus Christi monastery of Dominican nuns at Hunt's Point, N. Y. Strange as it may seem, in this institution, something like 60 women are sealed in a cloister which they will never leave until they are carried out for burial. It is now two years since the heavy wooden doors leading from the monastery chapel to the cloister were sealed for all time, at least upon the 60 inmates who are devoting their lives to prayer and fasting.

The cloister door is secured by two heavy locks, and as long as the monastery stands and is used by the nuns no visitors will be allowed to pass through that door. It will be opened only to receive a new member of the community. Even Archbishop Corrigan goes into the cloister only once a year, when he makes his annual visitation. He must be accompanied by two or more priests then. Whenever any of the nuns are taken sick the physician who is to attend the patient, in order to enter the cloister, must have a permit from the archbishop and the superioress. Even when a nun is on her deathbed her relatives will not be allowed to go into the cloister to see her.

Cloistered communities like that of the Dominican nuns of the Perpetual Adoration are very scarce in this country. The Carmelite nuns, the first order of religious women established in this country, and the Trappists have rigorous and severe rules like those of this order, the American branch of which was established in Newark about 13 years ago by nuns who came from France at the request of Bishop Corrigan.

Their superioress was the present prioress of Hunt's Point monastery. The Newark community has prospered, and has its full quota of 60 nuns. The life of the nuns is of remarkable severity. They rise at 5:30 a. m. and are in the chapel at six a. m., when they say that part of the office called "prime" and "tierce." Meditation and mass occupy the time until eight o'clock, when they have a light breakfast. From that time until 10:30 a. m. they are engaged in making various articles for use at the altar.

As the nuns never eat meat and have a long fast from September to May, their diet is very simple. The hour of recreation after dinner is followed by an hour of profound silence. Each nun sleeps on a board about five feet six inches in length by three feet in width. The habit of the order is worn during sleeping hours.—St. Louis Republic.

Good Advice.

He seemed very disconsolate, and when they asked him what the trouble was he took them all off into a corner and looked about him nervously before replying.

"I don't suppose any of you boys are married," he said.

"Right you are," they returned.

"Then there is yet time to impress the lesson upon you," he went on. "You see, I sent word home last night that I was detained at the office, which wasn't so."

"What has that to do with us?" they demanded.

"Nothing much," he replied, "only I thought you might take a lesson from me and never marry a mindreader. My excuse was all right, but—"—Chicago Post.

Election of Delaware's Governor.

Delaware now elects its governor on the day of the presidential election, and he serves four years. A strong movement is on foot in the state to change the date of the election so that it shall occur between the national contests, as used to be the case before the death of Gov. Marvil caused a special election which was for a full term.—Chicago Tribune.

Dangerous.

Mr. Spratts—If there are microbes in kisses what disease do they produce?

Miss Killuff — Palpitation of the heart.—Philadelphia Press.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

HEAVIEST OF TAXES.

An Eloquent and Convincing Talk on Mud, Money and Dust.

It was Gen. Phil Sheridan, in one of his great battles in the Shenandoah valley, who rode along the line and gave orders to this effect: "Do not shoot over their heads. This is not going to be a play battle. Shoot to hit, and have it tell." That was good advice in war. It is equally good in civil life. This contest for good roads, a contest that means much for the millions and hundreds of millions of profit to the millions, is not a play contest, a battle for amusement. It is a contest in which the best minds and the best hearts of the nation are becoming interested; in which men engaged in all branches of trade are becoming interested; in which every farmer, every laborer, every man and every woman in the country will yet become deeply interested. As this is true, every orator who talks on good roads at farmers' institutes, county and state fairs, and on other occasions, should not talk over the heads of the people; every editor and correspondent who writes on the subject should write with a distinct purpose in view. They should not write over the heads of the people; they should speak and write for the minds and the hearts of the people, yea, and for their pockets as well; they should write and speak distinctly, bravely, honestly, practically, in such a way as to turn the attention of the millions to the great question; in such a way as to set hundreds of thousands to talking about good roads where thousands now are talking about them; in such a way as to arouse enthusiasm, bring about organization, lead to practical work, to the actual building of good roads.

MUD, MONEY AND DUST.

That is what I am going to try to do in this article, not to shoot over the heads of the people, but right into their hearts, their minds, their pockets.

A gentleman who has had much experience in traveling over dusty as well as muddy roads has figured on the cost of both dust and mud. Let him deal with dust now. He estimates that the damage to harness from dust is $5 per team, or $15,000,000 annually, and to vehicles double that, or $30,000,000. His estimate of damage to clothing is an average of $10 to every man and woman obliged to encounter dust clouds and storms, which means that the 7,000,000 of people lose $70,000,000 each year from flying dust. He expresses the belief that thousands of people every year receive injury to their eyes from the same cause, requiring a large outlay of cash, not to mention suffering, inconvenience and loss of time.

These figures are well calculated to cause thoughtful men and women to stop and count the cost of bad roads in other respects. A loss of $115,000,000 from one result of poor roads is worth looking into.

For a century the people have been suffering from dusty roads certain portions of the year. Probably not one in 50,000 people from the birth of the republic until now has ever stopped to consider the question of damage from dust, while all have groaned over its inconvenience and annoyance.

It is easy to figure up the billions of dollars that have been lost from that one cause the past century. The average good road affords but little dust.

Some one asks how shall we get good roads? Begin by agitating. Agitate in the home circle, in the everyday walks of life, in public meetings, through the press, in farm institutes, at county and state fairs, in the debating societies, anywhere, everywhere, and when public sentiment has reached the right stage it will do the rest—get good roads. Agitate it practically; antagonize no element; interest all elements; make it plain that good roads are in the interest of all from a money standpoint; from the standpoint of comfort, convenience and economy.

Such agitation, on such a question, in such an age ought to be easy. Go at it.
—J. A. WATROUS.

Value of Cottonseed.

Those who have made a study of the proper methods for the perfect cultivation of cottonseed claim that if proper apparatus were introduced in the south the value of the produce could easily be doubled, and reach not less than $100,000,000 annually, an amount equal to one-third of the cotton crop itself. As it is, the processes in the manufacture of cottonseed oil are very crude, and much that is useful is wasted. The charge of carelessness in manufacture seems strange in view of the fact that most of the $30,000,000 invested in cottonseed oil manufacture is northern capital, and the managers are northern men.

A Good Man to Know.

The man who appreciates the difference between good and bad roads may be said to have "horse sense."

Too Soft for Any Use.

This is a great country but some parts of it are too soft.

FEEDING MILK COWS.

Liberal Rations Are Necessary to Secure Satisfactory Results.

The character of the feed determines to a very considerable extent the quantity and quality of the milk and butter from a good cow. An extra yield of butter will naturally follow the use of a richer ration, but this is not always the case with a common cow. So there is something in the breed as well as in the feed.

The dairyman who is seeking the best results at the lowest cost should satisfy himself as to what are the best kinds of feed, considering the cost, that will produce the most and the best milk. Generally a combination of feeding materials will give the best results, as certain elements wanting in some food will be supplied by others. Succulent food increases the flow of milk, but does not materially increase the proportion of water in it. Still, feed often does make a change in the dry substance of the milk.

A ration rich in albuminoids will make a richer milk, and the relative proportions of fat and casein are changed to a very considerable extent by a change in the ration. Another point that is well settled is that certain kinds of food will produce changes in the composition of milk not indicated by chemical analysis. Succulent food is productive of the largest quantity of fat in the milk, and also has the effect of causing the cream to separate more readily from the milk and the butter globules from the cream leaving less fat in the buttermilk.

For a dry feed a combination of four parts of wheat bran, two of cornmeal and one of linseed oil makes one of the best, especially during the winter. If any change is made in summer it would be from corn to ground oats. This, with good pasture, makes a complete ration for a milch cow during the summer. When the pasturage cannot be supplied, some good soiling crop that can be cut off and fed green may take its place.

Liberal feeding is always necessary with the dairy cow, as it is only the surplus over and above what is necessary to sustain life and thrift that is used for milk. If the cow is kept up to her full capacity she must have all the appetizing, milk-producing food she will consume. It is only this kind of feeding that makes a good profit in dairying.—St. Louis Republic.

GARDEN AND ORCHARD.

A low, spreading tree is least affected by the winds.

The kind of soil has much to do with the quality of fruit.

Always remove dead or decaying wood from growing trees.

It is not too late yet to fill vacant places in the orchard.

A fast-growing tree is not apt to produce very much fruit.

All superfluous branches are a needless drain upon the resources of the tree.

In pruning the grapes it is a good plan to allow five canes to each post, cutting back yearly.

Red clover is one of the best plants for orchards, it keeps the ground loose and enriches the soil.

Pruning is done for two reasons: To make symmetrical, long-lived trees and to cause fruitfulness.

Got ice? Got ensilage? Why not? Ice is good all summer and ensilage supplements early spring pasture.

The most important thing in pear culture is good, well-drained soil. Train the trees carefully while young.

If grape vines are expected to bear well to a good old age they must be intelligently pruned from the first.

A well-grown, thrifty tree, well established, may survive a few years of neglect, while a younger tree would soon die of such treatment.

When trees are badly infested with bark lice, one of the best remedies is to wash them with a strong solution of tobacco, to which is added the same quantity of soap suds.—St. Louis Republic.

HUMANE MANAGEMENT.

A Most Excellent Device for Breechy Cows and Horses.

There is needless cruelty in the usual devices for keeping cows and horses from jumping fences. This cut shows a humane and very effective method. A head halter has its strap, or rope, pass down between the forelegs, where it is attached to a surcingle. It is held close to the throat by a strap about the neck midway. The animal thus cannot get his feet over the rope when feeding. A bit of rope about the neck will answer. Make this harnes fit so the animal can raise his head to a level with his body—a natural position—but no higher. He must throw his head back in order to jump.—N. Y. Tribune.

HARNESS FOR FRISKY COWS.

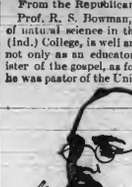
Suggestions on Creaming.



Gravity creaming in the private dairy loses more fat than most farmers dream of. If ice is used at once after milking to reduce the water round the cans to about 40 degrees Fahrenheit, the fat will rise, leaving not more than one-fifth of one per cent.; and if the water is at 60 degrees or above, one per cent. or more will be left in the skimmilk. This one or more per cent is one-third or a half of all the fat in the milk. This suggests the putting up of ice by the private dairyman. The climate of Kansas provides for this, and it is a greater boon than many imagine.—Prof. James Wilson.

PHYSICIANS BAFFLED.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, Instructor of Natural Science in Huntsville College, Cured of a Severe Illness by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People After Physicians Failed.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, the able instructor of natural science in the famous Huntsville (Ind.) College, is well and favorably known, not only as an educator, but also as a minister of the gospel, as for a number of years he was pastor of the United Brethren church at Charlotte, Mich., before coming to Huntsville.

PROF. R. S. BOWMAN.

Some time ago he had a severe illness which was cured almost miraculously. A reporter, hearing of this, interviewed him regarding his experience. Prof. Bowman was in the midst of his work when the reporter called, but he cheerfully gave him a hearing.

"A year ago last fall," said the professor, "I broke down with nervous exhaustion, and was unable to properly attend to my duties. I tried different physicians but with no relief, and also used many different proprietary medicines, spending almost fifty dollars for these medicines alone. I then succumbed to a siege of the grip in the middle of winter, and was left in a much worse condition. My kidneys were fearfully disordered, and my digestion became very poor. I was indeed in a bad condition.

"A minister in conference learning of my condition advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had heard much about the wonderful curative powers of this medicine, but it was with reluctance that I was finally persuaded to try it, as it seemed that nothing could do me any good. However, I procured three boxes of pills and took them strictly according to directions. By the time the last dose was taken I was almost cured, and in better health than I had been for years. I continued using the pills awhile longer and was entirely cured. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Such was Professor Bowman's wonderful story, which was further endorsed by the following affidavit:

HARTSVILLE, Ind., March 16, 1897.

I affirm that the above accords with the facts in my case.

R. S. BOWMAN.

Subscribed and sworn before me this 16th day of March, 1897.

LYMAN J. SCUDDER, Notary Public.

STATE OF INDIANA, ss.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Nouvelle Richesse.—Hostess—"I want to give a large party. What would you advise, gentlemen, a the dansant or a cafe chantant?"—Fliegende Blaetter.

Cascarets stimulate liver, kidneys and bowels. Never sicken, weaken or gripe. 10c.

A little girl gets mad quickest when a boy she meets doesn't tip his hat.—Washington Democrat.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, May 31.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 60	@ $ 3 35
Select butchers	4 00	@ 4 25
CALVES—Fair to good light	5 50	@ 6 00
HOGS—Common	3 10	@ 3 35
Mixed packers	3 40	@ 3 50
Light shippers	3 75	@ 4 10
SHEEP—Choice	3 75	@ 4 15
LAMBS—Spring	6 25	@ 6 35
FLOUR—Winter family	3 25	@ 3 85
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 78
No. 3 red		@ 70½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 25½
Oats—No. 2		@ 25
Rye—No. 2		@ 35
HAY—Prime to choice	11 75	@ 12 00
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 9 37½
Lard—Prime steam		@ 3 42½
BUTTER—Choice dairy	6	@ 8
Prime to choice creamery		@ 17
APPLES—Per bbl	2 50	@ 3 25
POTATOES—Per bbl	1 00	@ 1 10
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	4 60	@ 4 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n	79¾	@ 80½
No. 2 red		@ 77½
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 28½
OATS—Mixed		@ 21½
PORK—New mess	8 50	@ 9 00
LARD—Western	3 80	@ 3 82½
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 60	@ 4 70
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	75½	@ 80½
No. 2 Chicago spring	69½	@ 70¾
CORN—No. 2		@ 23¼
OATS—No. 2		@ 17½
PORK—Mess	7 95	@ 8 00
LARD—Steam		@ 3 57½
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 90	@ 4 25
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 75½
Corn—Mixed	23½	@ 23¾
Oats—No. 2 white	29	@ 29½
LARD—Refined		@ 11 50
PORK—Mess		@ 16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 15	@ 4 50
HOGS—Western	4 50	@ 4 80
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 80
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 24
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@ 20
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 75	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 92
Corn—Mixed		@ 24
Oats—Mixed		@ 21½
PORK—Mess		@ 9 00
LARD—Steam		@ 3 87½

He Disliked Egotism.

"What is the matter with you?" asked the wife of the peculiar man.

"I'm feeling lonely," was the reply.

"Don't you like the city?"

"I don't like this earth."

"What's the objection to it?"

"People are too egotistical.—If there's anything I hate it's egotism. And when I see kings going ahead confidently and doing things wrong, and diplomatists trying all sorts of insincere tricks with complete effrontery, and lawyers seeking applause for arguing on the wrong side of a case, and everybody displaying utter selfishness without a blush, I am forced to the conviction that I am the only consistent, high-toned and moral gentleman on this globe. And it makes me feel lonely."—Washington Star.

His Sad Fix.

"Yes, sir, I repeat that in my opinion Jonathan Doxey is a ruined man, and that he is merely keeping up appearances in order to try to find some way of getting out of his present difficulties."

"You surprise me! What has led you to this conclusion?"

"I asked him for his daughter's hand in marriage yesterday, and he gave his consent without a murmur. What would you do if you were in my place—run away, or stay here and try to live it down?"—Cleveland Leader.

It Meant Something.

"Now," said the fussy old gentleman, putting one of the biggest berries in his mouth and picking up another, "what is the sense of having that sign read 'fresh strawberries for sale?' Don't you know that 'fresh strawberries' would be enough? Don't you suppose everybody knows they are for sale?"

"I dunno," answered the grocer. "Some folks seem to think I am givin' them away," and then the old gentleman put the berry back in the box.—Indianapolis Journal.

Niagara Excursion.

The annual excursion this year will be run by the C., H. & D. Ry. on July 8. Trains will leave Cincinnati about noon and Indianapolis about 10 a. m.—Tickets will be good five days. The rate will be $7.00 from Cincinnati and Indianapolis, $6.50 from Dayton, $8.00 from Decatur and Peoria and $14.25 from Chattanooga, good seven days. The route is via Toledo, Detroit and the Michigan Central railway through the best part of Southern Canada, direct to the Falls. The only line passing close to the brink, from which a full and complete view of both the American and Canadian Falls can be seen to advantage. Niagara is one of the greatest wonders on the globe—every body knows of Niagara, and everybody wants to go there. The C., H. & D. R'y was the first to inaugurate these cheap excursions, and always has the best accommodations provided for its patrons. Persons desiring full information about this excursion, should address the nndersigned and a descriptive circular will be mailed you.

D. G. EDWARDS,
Pass'r Traffic Mg'r C., H. & D. R'y,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Just as sure as a woman forgets to take her handkerchief with her, some one tells her a tale of woe, and she is compelled to weep under such embarrassing circumstances that she doesn't enjoy it.—Atchison Globe.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A woman wearing a sealskin sacque and chewing gum looks just as bad as if she had on an old faded shawl.—Washington Democrat.

Patronized by the Government.

The U. S. Government is a big customer of the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Conn. The authorities appreciate that Winchester rifles and ammunition are the best made. The 10,000 rifles just made for the Navy by the Winchesters are the best military arm in the world. The Government is constantly buying large quantities of all kinds of ammunition of the Winchesters on account of its superiority. In buying guns or ammunition it is safe to follow the Government experts as they know which make is the best. Send for a Winchester catalogue. They are sent free.

One reason why all of us down in our hearts have unbounded respect for an old woman's cures is that she never charges three dollars a visit, and her sympathy never sounds like the clinking of coin.—Atchison Globe.

A Veil of Mist

Rising at morning or evening from some lowland, often carries in its folds the seeds of malaria. Whoever malaria dwells in no one is safe, unless protected by some efficient medicinal safeguard. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is both a protection and a remedy. No person who inhabits, or sojourns in a miasmatic region or country, should omit to procure this fortifying agent, which is also the surest known remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, kidney trouble and rheumatism.

Rural Teacher—"What current event of great interest can you give me this morning?" Small Girl (eagerly)—"My ma has just made 20 tumblers of jell."

Just try a 10c box of Cascarets candy cathartic, finest liver and bowel regulator made.

"You can't do that again," said the pig, when the boy cut off his tail.

Motherhood.

A mother who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution.

The child fairly drinks in health from its mother's robust constitution before birth, and from a healthy mother's milk after.

Is not that an incentive to prepare for a healthy maternity?

Do you know the meaning of what is popularly called those "longings," or cravings, which beset so many women during pregnancy?

There is something lacking in the mother's blood. Nature cries out and will be satisfied at all hazards.

One woman wants sour things, another wants sweets, another wants salt things, and so on.

The real need all the time is to enrich the blood so as to supply nourishment for another life, and to build up the entire generative system, so that the birth may be possible and successful.

If expectant mothers would fortify themselves with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for twenty years has sustained thousands of women in this condition, there would be fewer disappointments at birth, and they would not experience those annoying "longings."

In the following letter to Mrs. Pinkham, Mrs. Whitney demonstrates the power of the Compound in such cases. She says:

"From the time I was sixteen years old till I was twenty-three, I was troubled with weakness of the kidneys and terrible pains when my monthly periods came on. I made up my mind to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was soon relieved. After I was married, the doctor said I would never be able to go my full time and have a living child, as I was constitutionally weak. I had lost a baby at seven months and a half. The next time I commenced at once and continued to take your Compound through the period of pregnancy, and I said then, if I went my full time and the baby lived to be three months old, I should send a letter to you. My baby is now seven months old and is as healthy and hearty as one could wish.

"I am so thankful that I used your medicine, for it gave me the robust health to transmit to my child. I cannot express my gratitude to you; I never expected such a blessing. Praise God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and may others who are suffering do as I did and find relief, and may many homes be brightened as mine has been."—Mrs. L. Z. Whitney, 5 George St., E. Somerville, Mass.

In the Department Store.

Customer (who has purchased a pair of kid gloves)—They will do very well, though they are a trifle large.

Saleswoman—But then, your hands are so small! Is there anything else?

"Yes; there are a few things I wanted. Let me see—oh, yes; a gallon of molasses, a pound of tenpenny nails and a hindquarter of lamb."

"Will you take them with you or have them sent?"

"Perhaps you may as well send them, as I am not going directly home."—Boston Transcript.

The Expert's Quandary.

Paulpry—I hear that you have made a careful examination of the blood stains found at Badlot's barn. What do you make of them?

Serum (an expert)—It is impossible for me to say just at present whether the stains are human blood or the blood of a horse. You see, I may be engaged by the government, and I may be engaged by the defense.—Boston Transcript.

Impressing Him.

"Well, you had quite a siege with that real estate agent. I never saw a man gesticulate so violently. What ailed him?"

"Oh, the fellow has just heard of that German professor's theory that the Garden of Eden was located in the United States, and now he claims that he has seen the impression of Adam's fall on a rock in the neighborhood of the land he had to sell."—Jester.

He Knew.

"The usual seats?" asked the gentlemanly box office attendant.

"Er—no; give me something cheaper in the pit."

"Here you are. Thanks. Glad your wife got safely home from her trip."—Detroit Free Press.

A Sad Prospect.

Mr. Rooney—So yer poor bye, Mike, was sint up for life, Missis McCafferty. Sure, that do be a long sintince!

Missis McCafferty—Yis, Misther Rooney, but he do be that delicate in hilth I don't think he'll live ter complate it.—Twinkles.

Good Shot.

"Do you think I'd better challenge him?" asked the man who thought he had a grievance, referring to the editor.

"No," returned the man of the world. "You might aim at him and miss him, but when he gets a pen in hand and aims at you he never misses. I wouldn't stir him up any more."—Chicago Post.

Splendid Economy.

Mrs. Sweet—Do you find it economical to do your own cooking?

Mrs. Burnem—Oh, yes; my husband doesn't eat half as much as he did when we had a cook.—Judy.

The Ruling Passion.

"I bet that girl's always borrowing trouble. She has such a sad face!"

"Yes, she's probably looking for a sorrow to match."—Detroit Journal.

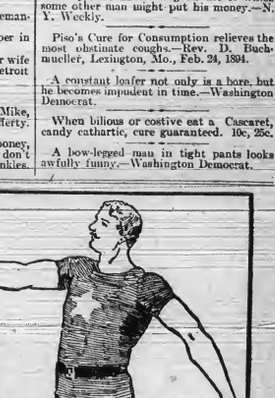
No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.

Over 400,000 cured. Why not let No-To-Bac regulate or remove your desire for tobacco? Saves money, makes health and manhood. Cure guaranteed, 50c and $1.00, all druggists.

Probably no man in the world ever had among his women relatives two who agreed upon what was his duty.—Atchison Globe.

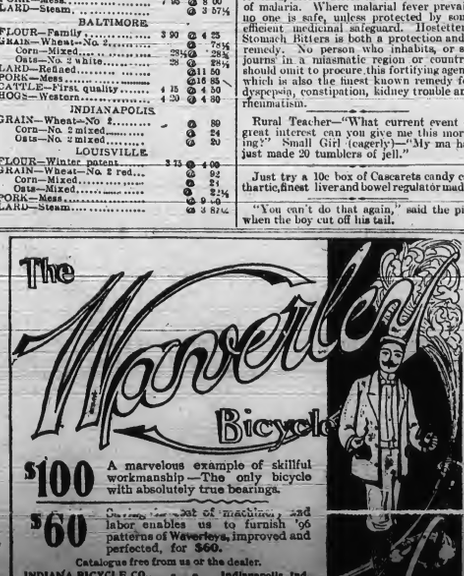
"Star Tobacco."

As you chew tobacco for pleasure, use Star. It is not only the best, but the most lasting, and therefore the cheapest.



Every man knows a good use to which some other man might put his money.—N. Y. Weekly.

Piso's Cure for Consumption relieves the most obstinate coughs.—Rev. D. Buchmueller, Lexington, Mo., Feb. 24, 1894.



A constant loafer not only is a bore, but he becomes impudent in time.—Washington Democrat.

When bilious or costive eat a Cascaret, candy cathartic, cure guaranteed. 10c, 25c.

A low-legged man in tight pants looks awfully funny.—Washington Democrat.

WEIGHTY WORDS FOR AYER'S PILLS.

$100 A marvelous example of skillful workmanship—The only bicycle with absolutely true bearings.

$60 Combination of machinery and labor enables us to furnish '96 patterns of Waverleys, improved and perfected, for $60.

Catalogue free from us or the dealer.

INDIANA BICYCLE CO., - - Indianapolis, Ind.

CANDY CATHARTIC
Cascarets
CURE CONSTIPATION
REGULATE THE LIVER
10¢ 25¢ 50¢
ALL DRUGGISTS
ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED to cure any case of constipation. Cascarets are the Ideal Laxative. Never grip or gripe, but cause easy natural results. Sample and booklet free. 46 STERLING REMEDY CO., Chicago, Montreal, Can., or New York.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

SILOS HOW TO BUILD. ADDRESS WILLIAMS MFG. CO., KALAMAZOO, MICH.

A. N. K.—E 1660

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 2, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Junction City went "dry" by 15 majority.

Pikeville is scourged with typhoid fever again.

Jas. Minks was crushed to death by a log in Casey county.

Dynamiters killed hundreds of pounds of fish in the lakes below Paducah.

J. M. Piercey, of Barren county, dug up a briar root which weighed fourteen pounds.

Chas. R. Turner, the noted Bourbon county Jack dealer, has assigned. Liabilities $30,000.

Jonas Flora, a prominent farmer of Robertson county, dropped dead while feeding his stock.

Clarence Vinegar, colored, has been sentenced to hang at Georgetown for the murder of his wife.

"Uncle Zi" Allen, of Hopkins county, seventy, years old, shaved the other day for the first time in his life.

Wm. Finley was killed and Frank Keisheimer injured by a piano falling on them at Corinth, Grant county.

About as much tobacco as usual will be put out this season in Kentucky. Reports show no decrease in acreage.

While Harrison county farmers were serving on the grand jury, miscreants destroyed their tobacco beds with hoes.

Mrs. Mary H. Deane, candidate for Superintendent of Common Schools in Jessamine county, has taken the stump.

The whisky trust sold the Winchester Distillery, at Dayton, Ky., which cost $75,000, for $15,000 at a sale held last week.

It is believed at Frankfort that Convict Sinclair, the important witness in the penitentiary lumber steal, wants to be paid to return.

The Louisville banks will ask the Federal Court to enjoin the State from collecting bank taxes under the recent decision of the Court of Appeals.

Dr. Cartledge and twelve other physicians removed a 245 lbs. tumor from Mrs. Meeks, of Shelby county. The shock of the operation killed her.

Black measles among hogs has been raging throughout the Kentucky and Virginia mountains for a month, and thousands of fine hogs are dying.

Judge Marshall Buford, of Lexington, committed suicide by drowning. At one time he was a leading lawyer of this State. His remains were cremated in Cincinnati.

William Easley, of Todd county, and his wife, who has been living in Indiana, have been reunited after each had lived for nearly half a century in the belief that the other was dead.

A Lincoln county man makes affidavit that he set a hen on nine duck eggs and that she hatched therefrom ten ducks, a guinea and chicken, and yet local option prevails in that section.

Mr. A. T. Herd, of Lexington, denies the charges of E. W. Jackson that he misappropriated funds, and says the charges were cooked up by political enemies to beat him for Chief Deputy Marshal.

Woodford county farmers have put on foot a movement to organize a farmers' trust for the regulation of the price of wheat and protection of agricultural interests. They expect to hold a convention at Louisville about July 1.

Mrs. Georgia Sapp, of Bath county, is seeking employment as toll-gate keeper in districts where men are afraid to collect toll. She killed two men several years ago, who with others, were trying to "regulate" her domestic affairs.

A petition more than equal to 15 per cent. of the vote cast at the last election has been filed with the Boyle County Court, asking for an order of election to take the sense of the taxpayers with regard to free turnpikes.

Caleb Parker, sent to the Penitentiary from Georgetown for 13 years for killing Sedocia Connellee, has been pardoned. At his first trial Parker was condemned to be hanged, but later got off with a prison sentence.

The Northern Bank of Kentucky, one of the strongest banking institutions in the State, has applied to the corporation department of the Secretary of State's office, as a step toward the reduction of its capital stock from $1,800,000 to $900,000.

It has been proven that Gov. Bradley is a member of the A. P. A. senator Deboe confesses that he is a member, and Mayor Todd is striving with might and main to have Sapp, head of the organization in Kentucky, made collector of internal revenue in this district.—Louisville Times.

A rush is being made on the Auditor by parties holding old State warrants. The new law provides that all old warrants shall be cancelled and new warrants bearing 6 per cent. interest from the date of issue be issued in their stead. The parties holding the old warrants seem very anxious to have the interest begin as soon as possible.

Gov. Bradley refused to honor the requisition of Gov. Mount, of Indiana, for John Spaulding, a white man who is wanted in that State for the alleged murder of a young girl. The Governor's reasons for refusing the requisition are that Spaulding was taken several weeks ago in Union county and tried before Judge Flournoy, and was released. The Indiana authorities then applied to Gov. Bradley, with the above result.

James Coons, who lives near Muir Station, in Fayette county, lost by death his thirty-seven year old mule, says the Herald. He was a bright sorrel in color, sixteen hands high, spirited and powerful. He was used in the cavalry service of Gen. John H. Morgan, serving through the entire war. He was never struck by a bullet and came out of the conflict sound and all right. He became the property of Coons' family shortly after the war and has remained in that family ever since. He was perhaps the oldest mule in the State.

"Gee, Whilakin, but Hardin county is a big one," is what a native of that great county declared the other night in discussing the different counties of Kentucky. Harden county, he said, was the greatest and best; that it was 600 miles long and 300 wide, and had more Democratic voters to the square inch than any county in the State. Whereupon a man of some 50 years arose and said: "Mister, excuse me, but I was born on the banks of the Cumberland in the great county of Whitley. I got nothing to do with your great Democratic counties, but I do say that I live in the greatest county in the State of old Kentuck. It is six thousand miles long and three thousand miles wide, and I do say she has got more Republican voters in her borders to the square quarter of an inch than any county in the old State. Why, for certain, boys, the Democrats had to import a few just for seed, and I am willing to back from a free-silver dollar to the muzzle of a Winchester, not meaning you or your county any harm, mister." Whereupon, the Hardin county man subsided, but before doing so he handed to the Whitley county man an ancient brass button that he said was delivered to his great-grandfather, by him to his grandfather and his grandfather to his father and his father to him, with this injunction: "If you ever see a bigger liar than you are, deliver this button to him with compliments of your ancestors."—Corbin News.

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

The streets of Williamstown were again the scene of a runaway team on last Saturday morning, vehicles were torn up, horses thrown down and turmoil and excitement added confusion to the wreck. The mare of Bud Vanleuven was left standing on the streets unhitched. She concluded to run away and did so. The big wagon behind her demolished everything it struck. In front of Barbour's millinery store the runaway mare and wagon collided with the horse and buggy of Mrs. Sam Bonar and all were piled up in the streets in inextricable confusion. Mr. Vanleuven's team was not injured, but the buggy of Mr. Bonar was a complete wreck. The mare of Mr. Bonar was seriously hurt is almost a miracle. The streets were crowded with horses, vehicles and pedestrians. Mrs. Bonar had just alighted from her buggy and barely got into the house out of the way before the collision came.

The postoffice at Corinth continues to be a pie for which our loyal Republicans are eagerly fighting. The contestants are in no wise abating their efforts, but are each striving to win the goal. Strange to say all of them have a cinch, and unless the unlucky ones are pacified by consulships or some minor office, there will be "trouble in the land."

Farmers are having an up-hill time in getting their corn planted this spring.

CROP AND STOCK.

There is a scant locust bloom this spring.

The acreage of tobacco in Owen county this year will be much smaller than usual.—Owen News.

Raiders are trying to force Woodford tobacco growers to decrease their tobacco crops one-half.

Wheat prospects in Scott county are very promising, and the harvest will be on hand earlier than usual.

The chinch bug has made its appearance in Nelson county and is destroying much of the growing wheat.

Several cases of glanders, the disease so deadly among horses, have been discovered on the farm of Lee Clark, near Louisville.

William Jennings, a gardener living in Carlisle county, grows a new variety of strawberries that only eighteen are required to fill a quart measure.

Senator John D. Harris will cultivate this year about 350 acres of corn, besides about 400 acres of wheat and 125 acres of tobacco.—Richmond Climax.

In some localities bugs are damaging the plum trees. They appear on the leaves and remain there until the leaf begins to roll up, covering the bugs completely and finally causing the tree to wither and die.

The supply of cattle in Eastern Kentucky is not equal to the present demand. Purchasers are canvassing the country closely, and where a cow is well bred her produce is sold at $10, the purchaser taking all risks. Cattle in Eastern Kentucky have been greatly improved, and hence the unusual demand. There is also a great demand for hogs, but both hogs and cattle are scarce.

Date of Primary Election Changed to June 5, 1897.

Pursuant to the call of the Chairman of the county Democratic Executive committee, the committee met in D. E. Castleman's law office in Burlington, last Monday afternoon. The following members were present: D. E. Castleman, chairman; B. L. Rice, Secretary, P. E. Cason, proxy for Elijah Parker; Reuben Conner, Richard Stephens, Robt. McGlasson, Geo. Ossman, proxy for J. C. Hughes.

The chairman stated the object of the meeting to be for the purpose of considering the propriety of changing the date of the primary election as fixed at the last meeting. A motion to reconsider the action of the committee on the second Monday in December was made and carried, and the order made on that date is now held for naught.

It was agreed by the committee to hold a primary election to nominate candidates for the various county offices to be filled at the regular election in November, 1897. It was further agreed that said primary election be held on the first Saturday in June, 1897, and the Executive Committee will meet in the Court-house in Burlington, at 2 o'clock p. m., on Monday, June 7th, 1897, and count the votes cast for each candidate for the respective offices, and the candidate receiving the highest number of votes cast for any office will be declared the Democratic nominee for that office.

The committee adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That all persons who voted for Bryan and Sewall at the last November election, and all persons who did not vote but would have voted for Bryan and Sewall had they voted, and all young men who will be legal voters at the next November election, and will pledge themselves to support the Democratic party and the nominees of said primary election, shall be allowed to vote.

Resolved, That all persons who desire to be candidates before said primary election shall, on or before the 5th day of April, 1897, record their names with the chairman of the county committee, and pay their assessments to him.

Resolved, That only such candidates who pay their assessments to defray the expenses of said primary election, on or before the fifth day of April, 1897, shall be entitled to have their name placed upon the ballots to be voted for.

Resolved, That all candidates for precinct offices and for Constable may wish their names to appear upon the ballots for said primary, shall pay to the chairman of the county committee one dollar, to help pay the expenses of said primary election.

The chairman and secretary were authorized to assess the candidates to defray the expenses of the primary election.

D. E. CASTLEMAN Chairman,
B. L. RICE, Secretary.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court.

Noah Sebree's Adm'r. Plff.
vs
Mary A. Sebree, &c., Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-house door in Burlington, Boone county, Ky., to the highest bidder at Public Sale on Monday, the 7th day of June, 1897, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being County Court day, upon a credit of 6 and 12 months, the following described property, to-wit:

A parcel of land lying and being in Petersburg, Boone county, Kentucky, and known on the plat of said town as the south one-half of lot No 109 fronting 85 feet on Third street and running back at right angles 60 feet.

For the purchase price the purchase, with approved security or securities must execute bonds, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

J. B. BERKSHIRE,
Master Commissioner.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Ben F. Walnscott, Plff.
vs } Equity
Garnett M. Riley, &c., Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in Burlington, Boone county, Ky., to the highest bidder, at public sale on Monday, the 7th day of June, 1897, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being County Court day, upon a credit of 6 & 12 months, the following described property, to wit:

A tract of land lying and being in Boone county, Ky., and bounded as follows: On the north by the Ohio river, on the east by the heirs of Lavina Adams, south and west by R E Kirtley and more particularly described thus: Beginning at a stone on the bank of the Ohio river the lower corner of Lavina Baisly's land; thence down the river s 55 w 49 poles to a stone, corner of George Baisly; thence with his line s 29½ e 200 poles to a stone in the line of C H Baisly's dower; theuce with her line n 53 e 35 poles to a stone corner also of said Lavina Baisly; thence with her line n 27 w 206 poles to the beginning, containing 51¼ acres more or less and being the same property described in a deed from Wm H Vaugn and Emily, his wife, to Sarah Montague now deceased, as recorded in deed book No 28 page 254 of land records of Boone county, Ky. I will first offer the undivided 1 interest in the above described tract or sufficiency thereof to satisfy the debt, interest and cost of plaintiff, Ben F Walnscott; if any remains of said undivided ½ interest, I will then sell said remainder and apply the proceeds to the debt, interest and cost of Harriet T Dwyer; I will then offer the remaining undivided ½ interest or sufficiency thereof to satisfy the debt, interest and cost of Harriet T Dwyer.

Ben F Walnscott's debt, interest and cost, $1,991.36; Harriet T Dwyer's debt, interest and cost, $1,220 30.

For the purchase price the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bonds, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a Judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C.

Steam :-: Ferry
—AT—
TAYLORSPORT.

I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.

july-as S. H. GOODIN.

Andy Scheben,

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

Wines, Liquors AND BRANDY.

Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.

LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

H. S. STEVENSON.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. DENTIST.

Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.

OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of Woodford Carpenter, deceased, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

LEWIS RICE, Adm'r.

OUR Doors Stand Open!

And we make no bones in giving you prices Openly.

We never felt in better humor for business than NOW. So we will ask for your attention a little while.

—We Will Sell You—

H. and E. Boston Standard fine Gran. Sugar, per lb.	5c	Navy Beans 3 qts. for	10c
Coffees from 12½c to 30c per pound		Dried Peas 2 quarts for	5c
White Satin Flour (extra fine)	5.25	Battle Ax Tobacco, per lb.	20c
Essex Soap (best for the money) two bars for	5c	Polar Bear Smoking, 4 pkgs.	15c
Baking Powder, from 8c per lb. up		Six for Ten per plug,	15c
Pure Pepper, ground, per lb.	15c	Teas from	15 to 80c
Canned Corn, from 5c to 12c		Good Table Peaches, 3 cans	25c
Pearl Barley, 2 lbs. for	5c	N. O. Molasses, two gallons	65c
Evaporated Apples, per lb.	5c	Extra Fine Syrup, two gallons	35c
Fine Evap. Peaches, per lb.	7½c	H. L. Oil, per gallon	8c
Prunes, per pound, from 5c to	12c	"Crown" Gasoline, per gal.	9c
Good Rice, per pound,	5c	Onion Sets, per quart,	10c
Sweet Chocolate, per cake	5c	3 packages Garden Seed	10c
Baker's Chocolate, per lb	40c	Pratt's Poultry Food at list.
Enamiline, per box	4c	6 dozen Cloths Pins for	5c
Rising Sun Polish, 6 for	25c	Rolled Oats, per pound	2c
		Langdon's Bread, 6 loaves for	25c

And Numerous other Good Values that require too much space to quote. Yours Earnestly,

IRA AYLOR, Erlanger, Ky.

C. W. ROBINSON,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,

ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,

Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.

GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.

Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.

62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,

E. H. BAKER, Proprietor

Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.

Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.

FRY & REIB,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of

Marble & Granite Monuments

HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,

109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K.

Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. Designs Furnished Upon Application.

SEASON OF 1897.

OAK KNOLL STOCK FARM.

UGO,

Chestnut Stallion, 16 hands high, foaled 1892, sired by Simmons 2744, (record 2:23,) sire of 63 in 2:30 list, and 7 in 2:15 list. 1st dam, Thirza by Aimont Boy 4308, sire of Grafton, 2:20½, Bessie G. 2:25, etc. 2d dam, Dixie by Norman 25; 3d dam, Mollie Clay by Iron Duke he by C. M. Clay 18.

Ugo is an exceedingly handsome horse, with plenty of size and faultless conformation; he has worked quarters in 40 seconds when 3 years old with six weeks training.

UGO will make the season of 1897, at Oak Knoll Stock farm, 1 mile west of Utzinger, and 3 miles east of Petersburg, Ky., on the Petersburg & Burlington pike. Service fee $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when mare is known to be in foal or parted with. Mares kept on grass at $1.50 per month, accidents and escapes at owners risk.

For particulars address
A. E. CHAMBERS, Jr.,
Utzinger, Ky.

NOTICE.

TUCKER, will be at Ezra Aylor's on Tuesday morning, at Dony Cook's in the afternoon, Ben Tanner's Thursday morning, and at Geo. Moor's on Friday in each week. JAS. H. AYLOR.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE

Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain. The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN. Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.

Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North. Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass. Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

CRESCENT HILL STOCK FARM.
1897. SEASON 1897.

TIMOTHY BOY, No. 27854

Bay horse foaled April 3rd, 1893, 16¼ hands high and weighs 1250 pounds in ordinary condition.

Sired by Wilkes Boy, 2:24; 1st dam, Alga by Artillery, 2:21½; 2d dam, Valdosta by Nutwood, 2:18¾; 3d dam, Emma Arterburn by Mambrino Patchen 58, (dam of one and grand-dam of three in 2:30 list); 4th dam, Jennie Johnson by Sweet Owen, thoroughbred, gr-dam of three in 2:30; 5th dam, Thoroughbred, &c.

Wilkes Boy, 2:24, one of the best producing horses in Kentucky, is by Geo. Wilkes, 2:22, dam Betty Brown (dam of Anglin, 2:27½) by Mambrino Patchen, 58.

Artillery, 2:21½ by Hambletonian 10, dam Walls Star (dam of Modestie 2:26½) by American Star, 14, is fast becoming a great sire.

Nutwood, 2:18¾, (out of the dam of Maud S. 2:08¾,) is the sire of more 2:30 performers than any horse living.

TIMOTHY BOY is one of the best bred horses in Kentucky, a horse of great power, fine style and color, a pure gaited trotter, perfectly sound in every particular and should produce horses fit for either track, road or farm.

He will make the season at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when fact is known or mare parted with.

The Fine Black Jack,

MIKE

Will make the season at $8 to insure a colt, money due when colts comes or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE:

MIKE is a black Jack, white points, 15½ hands high, good heavy bone, large head and ears, well built, good style and color. He is one of the best lookers in Northern Ky., and ought to make a grand breeder.

He was sired by Bill Collins, dam Nell, a fine black jennet 16 hands high, by Sinkhole; 2d dam, Graves' Jenny, by Black Samson, jr.; 3d dam, Jenny by Mogul. Bill Collins is by Bourbon Chief, is 16 hands high and one of the best mule jacks in Central Kentucky, and sold for $1,800.

Timothy Boy and Mike will stand at Daniel Bedinger's farm, 3 miles west of Richwood, Ky., on the Richwood & Beaver pike.

☞Mares kept on pasture at $1.50 per month.

J. C. BEDINGER, Richwood, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Benj. Rice, deceased, must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

B. P. RICE, Adm'r.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 9, 1897. NO. 33.

THE Cuban war with its attendant butcheries does not abate in the least.

THE Nashville exposition is now under way in good shape, and is drawing large crowds.

THE convention at Frankfort, last week, was a regular, old-fashioned Democratic love-feast.

THE Democratic ticket to be voted for on the 2d day of next November will be found in another column.

COL. JERRE LILLARD, of Owenton, denies the statement of the Owen News that he wants to become a Democrat again.

THAT mob that hung the negro at Urbana, Ohio, last Thursday, understood the business as well as a Kentucky crowd.

JOE PUGH, Covington's chief of police, has the highest position in the Democratic organization in this part of the State.

THE seat of no delegation from the Sixth district was contested in the convention at Frankfort, last week. Such a thing was never known before.

THE Democratic convention at Frankfort, last week, did not recede in the slightest from the articles of faith enuciated by the State convention at Lexington, last year.

IN this issue appears the full text of the new mob law. It is a good law if enforced, but how are you to get the members of a mob under the new law any easier than under previous laws under which they could be punished.

SOME of the Republicans are attributing Wannamaker's denial of the return of prosperity to this country to his recent defeat for United States Senator. There is certainly something the matter with Wanna.

THE Whalen committee that proposed to run the Democratic party in Louisville and Jefferson county in spite of the action of the higher political power in the State, was knocked out in the first round by the State convention. They were told to depart for they were known not.

THE Democrats of the fourth Indiana Congressional District nominated F. M. Griffith, of Switzerland county, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. W. S. Holman. He is forty-seven years old, and has had eight years experience as a lawmaker in the Indiana legislature.

THE State of Tennessee enlisted 115,000 men in the Confederate service. She built a home for those of this number who became disabled so as to render them destitute, at an expense of $40,000, But to-day out of all who did service in the war of the Rebellion only 87 are partaking of the generosity of the State and every man of these are totally disabled. This is evidence of the independent spirit of the men who fought for the Post Cause.

THE Frankfort Capital repudiates the idea that the majority in the Kentucky legislature was composed of representative Republicans. The Capital should bear in mind that Kentucky's Republican legislators have never been accused of representing anything except a desire for office. The Capital says:

"It would be an inexcusable mistake for President McKinley to suppose that the control of a majority of the Republican members of the last General Assembly, means control of the Republican party in Kentucky. The Republican members of the General Assembly represents nothing but the accident nomination made when there was no hope of success. The conduct of a large part of this disgraceful representation was merely the result of bribery by the promise of office or other thing of value, and these creatures do not voice any sentiment but that of hungry and unprincipled greed of which the President will do well to be forewarned."

THE MOB LAW.

Every Citizen Should Read and Study This Law.

An act to prevent lynching and injury to, and destruction of, real and pessonal property in the Commonwealth at the hands of mobs and other riotous assemblages of persons, and to prescribe penalties for the enforcement of its provisions:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

Section 1. That if any two or more persons shall confederate or band themselves together for the purpose of intimidating, alarming, disturbing or injuring any person or persons, or to rescue any person or persons charged with a public offense from any officer or other person having the lawful custody of such person or persons, with a view of inflicting any kind of punishment on them; or with the view of preventing their lawful prosecution for any such offense, or to do any felonious act, they, or either of them shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be confined in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than five years.

Sec. 2. If any two or more persons shall confederate or band together and go forth, for the purpose of molesting, injuring or destroying any property, real or personal, of another person. persons or corporation, whether the same be injured, molested or damaged, or not, they shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be confined in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than five years.

Sec. 3. If an injury shall result to the person or property of any person or persons by reason of any unlawful acts denounced in the preceding sections of this act, the person or persons engaged in participating, or any of them, or any one aiding or abetting such unlawful act, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be confined in the State penitentiary not less than one nor more than fifteen years, unless death should result, in which case the penalty for such offense shall be as now proscribed by law. It shall be no mitigation of the offense for any one, upon his trial for violation of the provisions of this section, that he may have acted through heat of passion, or that he may have acted without malice; and the judge trying the case shall so instruct the jury in writing. The persons composing such mob or riotous assemblage shall be individually and collectively liable for damages to the owner or owners of property so damaged or destroyed, to be recovered by suit at law in any court having jurisdiction of the amount in controversy.

Sec. 4. Any officer or person having the custody of the person or persons charged with a public offense shall have the power, and it shall be his duty to summon to his aid as many of the able-bodied male citizens of his county, between the ages of twenty-one and fifty years, as may be necessary for the protection of any such person or persons in his custody, and every such person who shall fail or refuse to obey such summons or verbal notice of such officer shall be fined in any sum not less than $100 nor more than $500. Any officer having knowledge or reasonable grounds to believe that an effort will be made to rescue, injure or kill any person or persons in his custody charged with a public offense, shall immediately provide such means as may be necessary to prevent any such unlawful act or acts; any officer who may be in charge of any jail in this Commonwealth, in which is incarcerated any such person or persons charged with a public offense when he has reasonable grounds to believe that said jail will be attacked by a mob or persons confederated or banded together for the purpose of inflicting violence upon any inmate of said jail, may, in his discretion, arm said threatened inmates with a view to their own protection.

Sec. 5. That upon information being lodged with any county judge in the Commonwealth by any reliable and credible person or persons, stating under oath that he has information or knowledge that causes him to believe, and that he or they actually believe, that two or more persons have banded or confederated together, or are about to do so, for the purpose of injuring or destroying any property, real or personal, toll gate, toll gate house, bridge or other property of any person, turnpike or railroad company or other corporations in the county or for the purpose of intimidating or preventing the keeper of any toll gate or bridge from collecting toll, and shall describe the said property or persons threatened, it shall be the duty of the said county judge or circuit judge to at once order the sheriff or any constable of the county to summon a posse of not less than two nor more than ten discreet, able-bodied men, between twenty-one and fifty years of age, for each piece of property threatened with injury or destruction, to be placed at or in such property, armed with guns and ammunition, until the judge is satisfied the cause no longer exists, not to exceed thirty days at any one time: Provided, however, at the expiration of thirty days, if the court is satisfied, from information from a reliable source, that if said guard or guards are removed the property will be injured or destroyed, he may continue the guards for a period of thirty days longer, and so on thirty days at a time, until he is satisfied that there is no further necessity therefor.

Sec. 6. If the county judge, circuit judge or other peace officer shall refuse or fail to discharge any of the duties imposed upon him by the provisions of this act or shall be guilty of a dereliction of duty as such officer in the premises, he shall upon conviction, be fined not less than one hundred or more than five hundred dollars, and shall forfeit his office as a penalty, in addition to the payment of said fine.

Sec. 7. That the officer for summoning the guards, shall be paid a fee of fifty cents for summoning said guard, and each guard shall be paid two dollars, or at that rate for each day he is on duty, to be paid upon the warrant of the county judge out of the county treasury and levy for that year. If a person should serve over ten hours on any one day, for such excess of service he shall be paid extra in proportion to the time of such extra service. Any guard summoned by the officer, who fails or refuses to act without good cause being made known at the time, shall be liable to a fine of not less than five nor more than fifteen dollars for each day said guard shall be in default.

Sec. 8. For the purpose of more effectually enforcing the provisions of this act the Governor is hereby authorized to offer a reward for the apprehension and conviction of any offender of this law in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and he shall be authorized to appoint detectives, in his discretion, for the ferreting out and apprehension and conviction of any offender, not exceeding two at any one time, provided the cost thereof shall not exceed three thousand dollars in any one year. The judge of the county court of any county in which this law is violated shall have power to offer a reward not exceeding two hundred dollars, or supplement the Governor's reward, for the arrest and conviction of any person violating this act. The rewards offered by the Governor shall be paid out of the Treasury of this State, those offered by the county judge shall be paid by the county.

Sec. 9. If any person shall send, circulate, exhibit or put up any threatening notice or letter, signed with such person's own or another's name or anonymously, he shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not less than one hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars, and imprisoned in the county jail not less than three months or more than twelve months.

Sec. 10. In any prosecution under this act it shall be no exemption for a witness that his testimony given by the witness shall be used against him in any prosecution except for perjury, and he shall be discharged from all liability for any violation of this act so necessarily disclosed in his testimony.

Sec. 11. As mobs and riotous assemblages of persons in certain counties of this Commonwealth for several months past have engaged, and are now engaged, in injuring and destroying real and personal property, and the good name of the Commonwealth demands that such unlawful conduct should be stopped as soon as possible, it is hereby declared that an emergency exists, and this act shall take effect when approved by the Governor.

THOSE Louisville papers that have left the Democratic party are having a great deal to say about Mr. Goebel being made temporary chairman instead of Mr. Bronston. Those rank outsiders would have said the same had Bronston been chosen instead of Goebel. But then it matters not what they say, very few people will ever read it.

Now pull for the nominees.

THE PLATFORM

Of the Kentucky Democracy, Adopted at the State Convention, June 2, 1897.

Resolved, That we hereby reaffirm our faith in the principles set forth and enunciated in the platform adopted by the Democratic party in the National Convention held at Chicago in July, 1896, as the platform of the Democracy of Kentucky.

Second, That the principles adopted and set forth in that platform are the true principles of Democratic faith, and we urge upon true Democrats to stand by them at all times and under all circumstances and conditions.

Third, We endorse the canvass made by William J. Bryan, the nominee of the Democratic party for the presidency in the last election. We commend its wisdom, approve it as just and fair to all parties and all interests of our common country. We recognize in him the fearless orator and statesman and the great champion of the people's rights against the money power, the monopolists, the syndicates and trusts. We pledge the support of united Democracy in our State.

Fourth, We condemne, the dishonesty, corruption and incompetency of the present State administration. It has resulted in disorder, encouraged crime and increased the burden of an already overtaxed and oppressed people.

Fifth, The Democratic party has always been and is still the friend and protector of the laboring man, whether in the field, mine, or workshop, and we recommend the passage of such laws that will prevent any competition of products of convict labor against the products of free and honest labor.

Sixth, We remember with pride the heoric effort of our late Senator, J. C. S. Blackburn, and those who nobly stood by him in the recent contest, to prevent our State from being misrepresented in the Senate of the United States, and we commend the Democratic members of the legislature for the successful defeat of the iniquitous measure to change the election laws of the State in the interest of fraud and corruption.

IT is reported that Gov. Bradley is predicting a Democratic victory in Ohio this fall. It is doubtful if he is guilty of the charge.

THE free silver Republican convention in Chicago, will be a big gathering, and it will be a great disturber of the g. o. p.

THERE are some good provisions in the mob law enacted by the legislature if they are enforced.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

County Judge—Benjamin Stephens.
County Clerk—B. W. Adams.
County Attorney—J. M. Lassing.
Sheriff—C. C. Roberts.
Jailer—C. L. Crisler.
Assessor—R. A. Brady.
Coroner—A. A. Murat.
Superintendent Schools—L. H. Voshell.
Surveyor—W. E. Vest.

RAILROAD COMMISSION:

John C. Wood, Chairman; J. F. Dempsey, H. S. Irwin, Secretary—Samuel Brown.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Judge—John W. Green.
Clerk—J. W. Duncan.
Commonwealth's Attorney—M. D. Gray.
Master Commissioner—J. H. Berkshire.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

Courts are held in the months of March, June, September and December, as follows:
District No 1.—O. W. Gaines, fourth Saturday; J. B. Crigler, Constable.
District No. 2.—M. B. Green, first Saturday; Jake Cook, Constable.
District No. 3.—R. L. Roberts, wednesday after third Monday; T. M. Rich, Constable.
District No. 4.—H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday; Add Rice, Constable.
District No. 5.—T. E. Roberts, fourth Monday; J. H. Watson, Constable.
District No. 6.—Joseph Waggstaff, third Saturday; Simeon Tanner, Constable.

STATE DIRECTORY.

Governor—W. O. Bradley.
Lieutenant Governor—W. J. Worthington.
Secretary of State—Charles Finley.
Assistant Secretary of State—E. D. Guffy.
Attorney General—W. S. Taylor.
Auditor—Samuel H. Stone.
Assistant Auditor—Frank Johnson.
Treasurer—George W. Long.
Sup't of Public Instruction—Geo. M. Davidson.
Register Land Office—Charles O. Reynolds.
Deputies—Stanley D. Brown, Sam S. Shepherd.
Insurance Commissioner—D. M. Comingore.
Adjutant General—D. R. Collier.
Assistant—Walter Forrester.
Supt. Arsenal—Capt. David O'Connell.
State Inspector—C. W Lester.
Commissioner Agriculture—Lucas Moore.

COURT OF APPEALS.

Chief Justice—W. S. Pryor. Judges—Geo. Du relle, J. R. Grace, T. H. Payater, B. L. D. Guffy, J. H. Hazelrigg, J. H. Lewis.
Reporter—E. W. Hines. Clerk—A. Adams.
Sergeant—W. S. B. Hill. Tipstaff—C. C. Turner.
Librarian—Mrs. Mary Brown Day.
Inspector of Mines—C. J. Norwood.

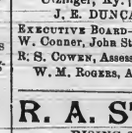
STATE PRISON OFFICIALS:

Frankfort Prison—Warden, Henry George; Deputy Warden, M. A. Rooney.
Eddyville Prison—Warden, L. C. Curry; Deputy Warden, Ward Linn.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of Woodford Carpenter, deceased, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

LEWIS RICE, Adm'r.



S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

THIRD YEAR.
OF WALTON ACADEMY,
—opens—
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 21st, 1896
AT WALTON, KY.
Three Courses of Study to choose from: English, Scientific or Classical,
Tuition per month for Higher Branches..... $3.00
Tuition per month for Common School Branches..... 2.50
We will have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for five days.
Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS. CHAS. F. PRIOR. REV. S. H. MYERS.
Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
N. S. WATON, President, Uzinger, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.
Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.
FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE : ME : A : CALL

Wm. F. GOETZE

Scientific Optician.
Headquarters at Hornberger's Jewelry Store,
LAWRENCEBURG, - - INDIANA.
Your eyes tested free of charge and correct glasses fitted at moderate prices.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
If your eyes are effected in the least, give me a call and don't run chances of ruining your vision by buying from peddlers or quacks.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.
Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.
East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m, 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown...7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown...10:40 a m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m
C. E. DENNAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt. Frankfort, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL,..... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 3.000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,

DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

A. P. WALTON,
DENTIST.
121 Garfield Place,
Cincinnati, - - Ohio.
First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE RECORDER

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BUBLINGTON. : : : KY.

JUNE—1897.

Sun.	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thur.	Fri.	Sat.
....	....	1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30	....	....	....

New York is the latest state to make Lincoln's birthday, February 12, a legal holiday.

"A pretty old trio that," remarked a Farmington (Me.) man as two gentlemen, aged 94 and 82 years respectively, rode behind a horse that had seen 34 summers.

In some places in the east farms are supplied with the telephone at $15 per year. It saves lots of running to town, and the time is coming when we shall have more of such service.

It is estimated that foreign immigration to the United States will be 100,000 less than in 1896. The agitation against the more undesirable class of immigrants has largely reduced it.

Some of our lady friends who delight in flower gardens say that there are some hens who, when they get into a new flower bed, act mean enough to have been hatched out of bad eggs.

Europe is just beginning to appreciate the value of American corn for bread. Since the beginning of the year, the United States has exported 76,000,000 bushels of corn, and more going.

The Universal Postal union has admitted China, Korea and the Orange Free State to membership, which completes its organization throughout the civilized world. About 80 nationalities are represented in the union.

An electrician says it costs no more to transmit electric power over an overhead wire than along a third rail, and that the wire has as great a conducting capacity as the rail. The wonders of the current are unlimited.

Mrs. Amelia E. Barr, the authoress, is quoted as saying: "There is going to be a reaction from the aggressive, athletic, sporty woman to the old-fashioned woman, and when the old-fashioned woman comes in again she will stay in."

A seven-dollar bill has come into the possession of the Westmoreland national bank, Westmoreland, Pa. It is about 3x3½ inches in size and in a good state of preservation. It was issued by resolution of congress sitting at Philadelphia in 1778.

A Kansas man has patented a device which will enable a man to stop his bicycle and stand still without dismounting. By pressing a lever two steel supports, one at either side of the rear wheel, do the bracing. When the wheel is started again the supports drop out of the way.

A great many men resolve to take time to enjoy home and domestic life and practice the humanities as soon as they can get rich. But when that time has been reached they find that the bent of mind and their lives have made the carrying out of the resolve wholly impracticable. "Waiting until they were rich" has hopelessly wrecked the happiness of millions. The moral is plain—don't do it.

It is a fact, though not generally known, that the president and vice president of the United States never travel by rail together. It is one of the precautionary measures that hedge about the lives of the two foremost men in the national government, the idea being that if an accident upon the rail should cause the death of one of the illustrious men the other would still be spared to the country.

Cincinnati has opened a new bridge across the Ohio river to Newport, which is an elegant combination of the virtues and improvements in modern bridge building. It is a massive system of three bridges combined in one. It gives large and solid passage to an asphalt footway, to two railroad tracks, to two street railroad tracks, and to a roomy wagonway. It is owned by the Louisville & Nashville railroad.

Workmen have begun to remove one of the historic landmarks of New York city, the Tombs prison. This remarkable structure, built in the Egyptian style of architecture, is one of the city's most noted sights. It has sheltered nearly all of the great criminals of the country at some time or other, and its massive walls could tell wondrous tales of crime and misery were they supplied with tongues as well as ears.

In addition to fresh American meats and fresh American fruits the people of London now have the advantage of getting American game and poultry sent over in a frozen state and sold in the markets at from six to nine pence per pound. This industry, which was only started a few months ago, has proved wonderfully successful, and the birds are said to be received in fine condition. The Londoner's are said to be very fond of a certain class of American game, which they are now enjoying at home for the first time. Some of our American fish, unknown to English palates, might also be exported profitably.

HANGED TO A TREE.

After a Night of Rioting and Bloodshed at Urbana, O.,

A Mob Takes Click Mitchell From Jail and Strings Him Up—The Sheriff and Captain, Who Are Responsible for Firing on the Mob, Flee for Their Lives.

URBANA, O., June 4.—"Click" Mitchell, by his own confession, stands convicted of one of the most heinous and revolting crimes a human being can be charged with.

Immediately after dinner Thursday Judge Heiserman instructed Sheriff McLain to impanel a grand jury at once to consider the case against Mitchell. In the absence of the Prosecuting Attorney, S. S. Deaton, who is away on legal business, the court appointed Attorney George Waite assistant prosecuting attorney to conduct the proceedings before the special grand jury.

The sheriff was just 12 minutes in impaneling the jury. At 2:30 the jury was sworn in by Judge Heiserman, whose charge was brief, but to the point, and related entirely to the Mitchell case.

The jury, after examining Dr. Robert Henderson (Mrs. Gaumer's physician), Bruce and Charles E. Gaumer, adjourned at 4 o'clock until 7:30 Thursday evening. At 8:30 the grand jury returned an indictment for criminal assault against Charles Mitchell.

The grand jury had scarcely left the courthouse until arrangements were completed for the arraignment and trial of young Mitchell. All the principal doors in the house were locked and bolted, and members of the guard were stationed in the halls at the same on the inside. All the other members of Company D were lined up on the outside ready to repulse any attack. Mitchell was brought from the jail to the courthouse in the custody of Sheriff McLane and Deputy Kirby, surrounded by a square of the guards.

He was hustled upstairs into the courtroom without the knowledge of the thousands of men who stood outside. Death-like silence prevailed during the proceedings, which did not last five minutes. Mitchell remained standing, and was evidently quite scared.

The court then appointed Mr. Flaugher to defend him. In response to the question of the court as to whether the defendant would waive the reading of the indictment, Mitchell's attorney answered in the affirmative.

Mitchell pleaded guilty. The court then at once sentenced him to 20 years' confinement in the Ohio penitentiary, the limit of the law.

Mitchell was hurried back to jail and the infuriate crowd on the outside was none the wiser of what had taken place. It was part of the plan of Sheriff McLain and his deputy, Harry Kirby, to spirit Mitchell into a carriage and drive him to Hagenbaugh station or Woodstock, and there board the eastbound Pan-handle, which arrives in Columbus at about midnight.

The exciting incidents of the last two days had an unfortunate and deplorable culmination at 2:30 Friday morning. The disorganized mob of 1,500 stood on the streets all night yelling and perfectly willing to lynch a brute in human form guilty of a fiendish crime.

The mob had been slowly advancing all night nearer and nearer to the jail. The guards were crowded closer to the building as the night advanced. Finally a dozen men or more got onto some steps leading to the back entrance in the jail.

A fellow with a big sledge hammer, he had been carrying all night under his coat, blazed away at the door, knocking it in. At that instant the guards, who were stationed inside the building, opened fire, and at least 20 shots were poured promiscuously into the crowd.

The man who carried the sledge hammer escaped without injury, but a young man named Higgins or Hagans dropped dead, shot through the body. The crowd scattered instantly. During the few seconds in which the firing took place some deplorable work was done. Harry Bell, son of Smith Bell, of this city, and the man Higgins, whose identity can not be established, died almost instantly.

The following were wounded: Zach Wank, of Urbana, shot in the hip, his wound considered fatal; Dr. Charles Thompson, of North Lewisburg, shot in the forehead; Dennis Graney, of Urbana, shot in the right foot; Sherman S. Deaton, the prosecuting attorney, shot in the hip; Wesley Bowen, of Cable, shot in the hip; Gus Weiser, Urbana, face wound; Geo. Ellicott, superintendent electric light plant, face wound; Ray Dickerson, living east of town, shot in the shoulder; Ray McClure, Urbana, shot in the right arm; Ralph McComb, shot in the arm.

Most of those injured were standing in the street and were spectators.

Gov. Bushnell has just ordered one of the Springfield companies here. Quiet prevails here now.

COLUMBUS, O., June 5.—A special to the Dispatch from Urbana says:

"Click" Mitchell, the Negro brute, has paid the penalty of his foul crime with his life. An outraged people have taken the law into their own hands and meted out to Mitchell the punishment he so richly deserved, and have obeyed the command and wish of his prostrate, and as is announced, dying victim.

The sensational and unfortunate events of the night intensified the feeling against Mitchell, if that was possible, and the determination became general that the brute should never leave the town alive.

After the firing of the military on the crowd of spectators during the early morning hours, Gov. Bushnell ordered Company B, Third infantry, of Springfield, to come here at once. The Springfield militia arrived here at 7:10 Friday morning and left their special train on the outskirts of the city, or near the water works. The company, 86 strong, under Capt. Bradbury, marched up town to the jail, where they found 2,000 people surrounding the jail.

The company marched into the jail yard, and were met by Hon. M. Lewis, who said to Capt. Bradbury:

"We don't want you now."

"Who are you?"

"I am the deputy sheriff," replied Lewis.

"There is the sheriff over there."

Pointing to Mayor Ganzon, who at that particular moment came forward from the crowd on the courthouse steps and proceeded to address the militia and the crowd. The mayor assured the militia that their services were not wanted; that the people were law-abiding and would assist him in preserving order; that the company could leave the courthouse yard and when their services were needed he would send for them. The Springfield company, without waiting for further orders, marched down street to the depot without as much as the sheriff seeing them. The local military company had previously refused to serve longer and went to the second story of the sheriff's residence and tried to sleep.

With no resistance offered, the crowd at once made a rush for the side door, two strong and determined men kicked it down in short order, and gained admission to the jail, the crowd following. There were plenty of sledge hammers, chisels and other tools in the crowd, and the men went to work.

Part of the crowd had previously forced themselves upstairs into the private apartments of the sheriff, and after looking about found a bunch of keys, which had been hid away and which proved to be the keys to the jail. The crowd got into the jail in short order. They did not wait to unlock the door to Mitchell's cell, but burst the lock with a sledge hammer and the door soon flew open. Mitchell was standing in his cell and offered no resistance and did not utter a word. Some one in the crowd had a rope and it was placed over the brute's neck, and the crowd made for the door, Mitchell following at the end.

In going down the steps on the outside of the jail, Mitchell fell down and the rope slipped off his neck. The crowd surrounded him, jumped on him like a thousand hungry dogs after one bone.

The brute was kicked, beaten and almost killed right then and there. The rope was quickly slipped over his head again and a rush was made for a tree in the southeastern corner of the courthouse yard in front of the courthouse. The end of the rope was thrown over a good strong limb and a thousand willing hands pulled the wretch up. The end was tied to the iron fence and Mitchell was left hanging there in full view of several thousand people, to die the death he had brought upon himself.

All this was done in shorter time than it actually takes to tell the story. The lynching took place at about 7:20 Friday morning. The men taking part in it made no attempt to disguise themselves, but it is not known who did the work, and the person who attempts to find out will get himself into serious trouble. This much is known, however, they did their work well and that is all the people wish to know.

It is doubtful if Mitchell died from the effects of the hanging. His miserable life had been almost kicked out of him when he fell down. Many life remained in his carcass it was strangled out. It is the general opinion that he was unconscious when strung up. His body was left hanging for an hour or more and the people of the city flocked to see it. All classes of people came to witness the spectacle. It was finally cut down and placed in an undertaker's box and left lying in the courthouse yard open to public gaze.

COLUMBUS, O., June 5.—A special to the Dispatch from Urbana, O., says:

Sheriff McLain says he telegraphed to Gov. Bushnell at 10 p. m. Thursday night for more military. The governor replied that local power must be exhausted first. After the shooting the sheriff asked again for help. He received no reply, but learned that a Springfield colored company had been ordered to come. The sheriff had the colonel at Springfield order a white company in place of the Negroes.

Gov. Bushnell returned here at 2:30 p. m. Friday. He exhibits telegrams showing he ordered support to Urbana when asked for it.

URBANA, O., June 5.—Four prisoners escaped while the mob was taking Mitchell out to hang him.

The coroner returned a verdict in the case of Mitchell that he "came to his death by hanging in the courthouse yard at the hands of an infuriated mob, whose names are to me unknown."

At 3 p. m. the body of the Negro was removed from the courthouse yard in Undertaker Humphrey's wagon, and the information was given out that a Dr. Meyers would be here from Columbus after him for one of the medical colleges.

CINCINNATI, June 5.—After a thrilling ride through a gauntlet of people who sought his life Capt. Leonard who commanded the company of militia at Urbana, arrived in this city Friday evening.

A great deal of bitterness exists in Urbana over the killing of the people on whom the militia fired, and Capt. Leonard thought it best to leave for a time. He took a buggy from Urbana to Springfield, and upon arriving there found an immense crowd which had been informed of his coming.

The crowd was very demonstrative and for a time it looked as though violence would be done Capt. Leonard.

DAYTON, O., June 5.—Sheriff McLain, of Urbana, arrived in this city Friday night at 8 o'clock, and was met at the depot by his brother-in-law, Mr. A. J. Weaver, of Linden avenue, and was driven to the home of the latter. The fact of his presence in the city and his whereabouts were not ascertained, however, until a late hour.

He said that he left Urbana at the urgent solicitation of personal friends, who insisted that his life was in peril. He said that he had no personal fears, and thought he had demonstrated that by his conduct in the outbreak of the mob spirit. He had finally deferred, however, to the solicitations of his friends and left.

WOOSTER, O., June 5.—Gov. Bushnell, while here Friday morning, heard of the lynching in Urbana. In speaking of the conduct of the sheriff, Gov. Bushnell said he had told that official that the law must be obeyed. Asked if he would take any steps toward punishing the mob, the governor replied that he had nothing to say.

MRS. GAUMER,

The Victim of Negro Click Mitchell, in a Woeful Condition.

COLUMBUS, O., June 5.—A special to the Dispatch from Urbana, O., says:

Mrs. Gaumer, upon whom the Negro committed the assault which led to the lynching, is lying at her home in a woeful condition and is praying for death to relieve her from what she considers disgrace. There is no doubt of the Negro's success in accomplishing his purpose and it was said Friday that she is afflicted with the most dreaded form of venereal disease which intensifies the horror of the affair. Rape was the sole object of the assault and there was no attempt at robbery, that story having been circulated to spare Mrs. Gaumer's feelings.

She is completely prostrated from the nervous shock and is in a hysterical condition but it is thought she will recover. It is understood she was in the man's power for over a half hour and was prevented from crying out to the neighbors by a shawl which he wrapped around her head when he first attacked her. He tore her clothing off and in the struggle scratched and bruised her badly. He also bit her about the neck and breast. She is said to be about 45 years old, small and handsome, and is well spoken of by everybody here as a lady of culture and character. She can not be seen, but her son Charles, who is about 20, states that she received the news of the lynching with every manifestation of satisfaction, but she expressed regret for the killing of innocent people at the jail Thursday night.

THE GREEKS

Will sign a Sea Armistice on Certain Conditions—Requiem Mass Celebrated Over Foreign Volunteers Killed in the War By Turks.

ATHENS, June 5.—The cabinet decided Friday evening to sign a sea armistice on the following conditions:

"The Greek fleet will quit Ottoman waters. Vessels under Turkish or neutral flags, bound or returning from Turkish ports and vessels north of the armistice line, will be examined. Vessels carrying troops and munitions for the Turkish army will not be allowed to enter ports north of the line. The Turkish fleet must not leave the Dardanelles. The dispatch of reinforcements to garrison towns in the archipelago is prohibited." The armistice permits the revictualling of Turkish troops by way of ports south of the armistice line on condition that the vessels may be visited by consuls of the powers residing in the nearest town. The entry of Greek men-of-war into the Ambracian gulf is also permitted.

A requiem mass was celebrated in the Catholic church Friday morning for the repose of the souls of the foreign volunteers killed in the war with Turkey. A magnificent catafalque, upon which was a sarcophagus enveloped with palms and Greek flags, occupied the center of the aisle near the main altar. The sarcophagus was surmounted by the sword of the Italian, Santa Rosa, who fought in the war of Greek independence. Many members of the diplomatic corps were present in addition to an enormous gathering of Garibaldians and other foreign volunteers, who also furnished the guard of honor for the occasion.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 5.—The following is the text of the telegram sent by the Emperor Nicholas to the sultan on May 17 after the fall of Domokos:

"Your majesty will not be surprised if our relations of sincere friendship and neighborly feeling induce me to appeal to your noblest sentiments and inspire me with the firm hope that you will not fail to crown the success achieved by your valued armies in heroic struggle by a fitful ambonee to the moderate and pacific intentions which your majesty proclaimed at the beginning of the war.

"By concluding an armistice and by a favorable reception of the mediation of the powers your majesty would acquire a fresh title to the high esteem you now enjoy and would accomplish an act of profound wisdom, an act which I personally should always retain in remembrance.

"I beg your majesty to believe in my unchanged friendship.

"NICHOLAS."

GEN. I. P. JONES.

Southern Soldier and Newspaper Man Dies in Covington, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 5.—Gen. Ira P. Jones, an old and well known citizen of Nashville, died Friday in Covington, Tenn., aged 68 years. Gen. Jones was a member of Gov. Isham G. Harris' staff during the war, has served in the legislature, but was more generally known because of his connection with the newspapers of Nashville. He was editor of the patriot in 1862, the Union and American, was business manager of the American for years and editor of the morning and evening Banner. For a number of years he had not been engaged in active journalism. He was one of the charter members of the Tennessee Press association. was its second president and at the time of his death chairman of the executive committee. His death removes one of the landmarks of Tennessee journalism. A large family survive him.

A Prospective Groom.

URBANA, O., June 5.—Harry Bell, who had the top of his head blown off in the riot Thursday night, was engaged to a young lady employed in Mayor Good's greenhouse at Springfield. The marriage was to have taken place next month.

INSANE FATHER

Kills Two of His Children, Wounds a Third and Dies at a Fourth Child—Then Fatally Wounds Himself.

BALTIMORE, June 3.—Edgar Harris, letter carrier, 32 years of age, living at 1724 Ashland avenue, Wednesday shot and killed his 12-year-old son George and his six-year-old daughter Ada. He wounded his daughter Ella, aged 14, and then turned the pistol on himself. He is now lying at the point of death in Johns Hopkins hospital.

Little Edgar Harris, jr., aged nine, was the only member of the family who escaped uninjured. He was lying in bed beside his brother George in the front second-story room. His father fired at him, but the bullet missed his head by half an inch, and buried itself in the pillow. The insane father then rushed into the back room to kill the girls, and the little fellow ran down the stairs and escaped.

Harris is thought to have been mentally unbalanced by the recent death of his wife, to whom he was deeply devoted. He had always been a devoted husband and father.

A letter was found among Harris' effects in which he clearly indicates his intention to kill himself and his four children. In it he gives a list of all his property, makes provisions for its distribution and, in a rambling, incoherent manner, asks that all five be buried in one grave.

SPANISH CRISIS.

The Premier Tenders to the Queen Regent the Resignation of the Cabinet.

MADRID, June 3.—The Premier, Senor Canovas del Castillo, has tendered to the queen regent the resignation of the cabinet, owing to the difficulty the ministers experience in carrying on the government in view of the parliamentary situation caused by the refusal of the liberals to take part in the deliberations of the cortes. This attitude of the liberals is due to the personal encounter between the duke of Tetuan, the minister for foreign affairs, and Prof. Conas, a liberal senator, on May 21, when the duke slapped the face of the senator after a heated debate on the Morgan belligerency resolution adopted by the United States senate.

The queen regent will hold a cabinet council Thursday in order to discuss the situation.

The queen regent has accepted the resignation of the cabinet of Senor Canovas del Castillo. It has caused a profound sensation. Before finally taking this step her majesty begged Senor Canovas to remain in office until Thursday in order that she might have another opportunity to consider the matter in council, but this only meant that the resignation would be accepted.

CHLORINE TREATMENT

For Diphtheria by Inhalation Being Tested in Jersey City.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The board of health of Jersey City, at the suggestion of and at the personal expense of ex-United States Senator McPherson, is testing the chlorine treatment for diphtheria by inhalation, as given to the medical world by Dr. Brocolin in the published formula in the medical Journals of the country. Mr. J. J. Russell, of Chicago, has been co-operating with the health officer and physicians in applying the new remedy, the contention being that it is superior to the anti-toxine given to the medical fraternity through the German specialists. The morning papers of this city Wednesday morning printed in detail the results of the official tests now being made and cite that several remarkable cures have been made where the anti-toxine remedy had failed. Mr. John D. Crimmins, of this city, has made an offer to supply certain of the New York city hospitals with the chlorine for experimental purposes, but thus far they have declined on the ground that they are entirely satisfied with anti-toxine treatment.

MINERS' CONVENTION.

A Division on the Question of a Strike for the Sixty-Nine Cent Rate.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 3.—All the mines in the Pittsburgh district were represented at the Coal Miners' convention here Wednesday to consider the advisability of ordering a strike of the 23,000 miners in the district for the restoration of the 69 cent mining rate. Nothing was done at the morning session, which was taken up in perfecting an organization. The sentiment on the strike question is divided, many of the delegates have been instructed to insist upon the 69-cent rate, while others are opposed to a strike unless the Ohio miners join in the demand for an advance. National President Ratchford is here and is counseling moderation, and advising against a strike at the present time.

To Reorganize the Bank.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., June 3.—The citizens Wednesday completed the subscription of $200,000 necessary to reorganize the recently failed State national bank, and restore the impaired capital and the bank will be reorganized. This is the institution of which John P. Johnson, who was sent to prison last week, was president.

Fell From Her Chair Dead.

LIMA, O., June 3.—Wednesday evening while sitting on the porch of her home Mrs. Nutting, wife of Charles Nutting, a passenger engineer on the Lake Erie & Western, fell from her chair dead.

Durrant Will Appeal to the Supreme Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Murderer Durrant's first effort to gain a respite by appealing to the federal courts has failed, United States Circuit Judge Gilbert having refused Wednesday to issue the write of habeas corpus for which his attorneys applied. Notice of the intention to appeal to the United States supreme court has been filed and Thursday application for leave to appeal will be made formally. This, however, may be refused, as in the Butler case, although Durrant's attorney's are confident that the leave will be given.

A Blind Man's Sagacity.

A story was told the other day by a lawyer of an experience that a brother of his, a blind man, had a few days since while he was in the city from a small town in Jersey, where he resides. On the day mentioned the blind man was without a guide and stood on the corner of Twenty-third street and Broadway, wishing to cross the street. While debating with himself as to whether he would try it alone or call a policeman, a woman came up and addressed him, saying: "Mister, would you be kind enough to help me across the street? There is such a jam of trucks and carts that I am afraid to try to cross alone." "Certainly, with pleasure, madam," he responded, and offering her his arm, they started across Broadway, crossing in safety. "Thank you, very much!" said the woman. "No, madam. It is I who am thankful, for I am blind and you helped me to avoid that dangerous crossing very nicely," said the man. "Oh!" said the woman in reproachful tones. "You horrid man! Why, I ought have been run over."—N. Y. Times.

Are Particular Buyers.

The leading steel men agree that the most particular buyers in the country are the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Ct. This company will only accept the most perfect of selected lots. Such information is not surprising to any one who owns a Winchester gun, for its strength and fine finish is very apparent. The Winchesters are just as particular about everything that is used in making guns and ammunition as they are about steel. For this reason when you buy Winchester goods you can be sure of getting the best in the world. They cost no more than poor makes. Send for a large illustrated catalogue free.

A Misunderstanding.

Customer (looking in mirror)—Great scissors, barber! You've gone to work and peeled my head of every dern hair there was on it.

Barber—Isn't that just what you told me to do?

"Told you to do? Why, man, I told you I wanted it cut a la mode."

"Beg pardon. I thought you said you wanted it all mowed."—Boston Courier.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, {Seal} Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The Report Sufficient.

"Well, little chap," said the stranger in the family, picking up one of the children, "what are you going to be when you're a man?"

"Nuffin'," said the child.

"Nothing? Why so?" asked the stranger.

"Because," said the child, "I'm a little irl."—Fun.

A Stout Backbone

Is as essential to physical health as to political consistency. For weakness of the back, rheumatism, and disorders of the kidneys, the tonic and dietetic action of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the one thing needful. The stomach is the mainspring of every other organ, and by invigorating the digestion with this preparation, the spinal column, and all its dependencies, are sympathetically strengthened. The dyspeptic and bilious will find it a pure vegetable stimulant and tonic.

His Misfortune.

"Yes," he said, "I am up to my neck in debt, but it is my misfortune, not my fault."

"Your misfortune?"

"Yes. You see, I have a faculty for making such an excellent impression upon people that they still persist in trusting me."—Chicago Post.

Summer Vacations.

Interesting illustrated booklets pertaining to Massachusetts Seashore, Ocean, Inland and Inland Resorts, are issued by the passenger department of the Fall River Line, the famous route between New York and Boston, Newport, Cape Cod, Martha's Vineyard, Nantucket, Bar Harbor, the White Mountains, etc., etc., etc. List of the booklets will be mailed upon receipt of one-cent stamp. Address O. H. Tinker, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Fall River Line, New York.

An Obstruction.

Telescope Proprietor—Step up, ladies and gents, and view the planet Mars. One penny, mum."

Old Lady—Oh, law! Hain't it round and smooth?

"Will the bald-headed gent please step away from in front of the instrument?"—London Tit-Bits.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous, hot, tired, aching feet. Try it today. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Write Allen S Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

Not His Leg.

"Five dollars, please," said the fashionable dentist, after extracting the tooth.

"Tut, doctor," protested the victim; "I only came here to have my tooth pulled."—Philadelphia North American.

"Star Tobacco."

As you chew tobacco for pleasure, use Star. It is not only the best, but the most lasting, and therefore the cheapest.

The unhappy man who is enabled to give to his fellow beings, has at his command the source of great happiness.—N. Y. Weekly.

DROPSY treated free by Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, of Atlanta, Ga. The greatest dropsy specialists in the world. Read their advertisement in another column of this paper.

Nothing makes a woman madder than to have her husband hurry her when she is late.—Washington Democrat.

Piso's Cure is the medicine to break up children's Coughs and Colds.—Mrs. M. G. Blunt, Sprague, Wash., March 8, 1894.

In this world there is nothing except hypocrisy and lying.—N. Y. Weekly.

Nervous Weak Tired Thousands are in this condition.

They are despondent and gloomy, cannot sleep, have no appetite, no energy, no ambition. Hood's Sarsaparilla soon brings help to such people. It gives them pure, rich blood, cures nervousness, creates an appetite, tones and strengthens the stomach and imparts new life and increased vigor to all the organs of the body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

FALLING WALLS.

The Lives of Three Firemen Crushed Out at San Francisco

Fireman Mahoney Badly Injured By a Falling Stick of Timber.

Two of His Comrades Ran to His Assistance, When the Walls Fell and Three Were Crushed to Death—The Financial Loss, $100,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—A fire in the southeastern part of the city at noon Sunday cost three firemen their lives and entailed a property loss of $100,000. Killed: John Mahoney, of chemical engine No. 6; Frank Keller, steward of hose cart No. 2; James Halliman, driver of truck No. 1.

The fire started mysteriously in the four-story brick building owned by Schroth & Westerfield and leased to the Standard Biscuit Co. Work in the factory ceased for the week at 5:30 Saturday afternoon and so far as known the only occupants of the building Sunday morning were John Erwin, the bookkeeper, and W. Cook, the cashier; who were at work in the office. Cook departed at 11, and Erwin was still occupied with his books at noon when a fireman rushed in conveying the information that the building was ablaze in the upper stories.

A stiff breeze fanned the fire within the brick walls and caused it to spread with extraordinary rapidity, and it was soon apparent that the interior of the structure would be entirely destroyed. Adjacent to the brick factory was a row of old wooden buildings, including a branch of the Salvation barracks and the Southern police station. These seemed doomed.

Floor after floor of the cracker factory fell in, rendering the walls unsafe. The east wall of the factory soon toppled over and then a waving sheet of flames spread over the area adjoining. With the crash of the east wall occurred the tragedy of the conflagration. A score of firemen were in an adjoining paint shop, endeavoring from that spot to check the spread of the flames. A falling timber struck Fireman Mahoney on the leg, breaking it He refused to allow his comrades to carry him away in their arms, insisting that he must be borne out on a shutter. All but two of the band of firemen ran to procure a shutter, and just as they left their injured comrade the wall fell, burying beneath a mass of brick and mortar Mahoney and his faithful friends. By dint of much dangerous labor the three bodies were recovered and sent with a police escort in as many patrol wagons. The loss to the brick building is estimated at $40,000, with $60,000 loss on the contents, consisng of machinery and stock. The damage to the Salvation Army barracks was $1,000, and to the police station the damage was nominally. The biscuit factory was operated by a corporation organized a year ago and reputedly transacting a large and prosperous business. The cause of the fire is as yet unknown.

GEN. WEYLER

Almost Certain to Be Recalled From Cuba—Campos in Madrid.

NEW YORK, June 7.—A special to the Journal from Madrid says:

The recall of Capt. Gen. Weyler from Cuba is almost certain, as the liberals have decided to take this step if Sagasta assumes office. Senor Pidal, president of the cortes, Saturday advised the queen regent to reform the conservative cabinet in the direction of honestly implanting reforms in Cuba, recalling Weyler and sending Campos to the island.

Campos himself advised the queen not to form an intermediate cabinet, but to trust the government to the party which offers the best and most definite solution for Cuba, and one which is most calculated to insure good relations with the United States, while being consistent with national dignity.

In addition, according to the Correspondencia de Espana, he advised the queen to recall Weyler.

Flood in Southeastern France.

PARIS, June 7.—A cloudburst in the Hill country in the province of Isere, in Southeastern France, has caused the overflow of the river Morge and the destruction of a number of paper mills and silk factories, as well as houses along the banks. At the towns of Voiron and Moirans, the river rose 20 feet. One person was drowned and the loss to property is estimated at 40,000,000 francs. Four thousand factory operatives are thrown out of employment.

Sunday Baseball in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Sunday baseball was inaugurated in this vicinity Sunday by a game between the Cleveland, of the National league, and a picked nine. The contest occurred at Riverside park, a resort about two miles below Alexandria, Va. It resulted in a victory for the league club by a score of 13 to 1. The attendance was very small, only about 600 persons being present.

Western League.

Innings.....	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9—R.	H. E.
Milwaukee....	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	0—2	7 2
Detroit.....	0	0	0	2	0	2	0	0	0—4	7 2

Batteries—Jones and Speer; Hahn and Frost. Umpire Haskell.

Innings.....	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9—R.	H. E
Columbus....	3	0	4	0	1	3	1	1	0—13	14 2
Kansas City...	2	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0—	3 9 5

Batteries—Keener and Buckley. Barnett and Blandford.

Died at the Age of 105.

BOSTON, Mass., June 7.—Mrs. Charity Green, 105 years of age, an inmate of the Home for Aged Colored Women, died Sunday. Mrs. Green was born a slave at Portsmouth, Va. She came to Boston in 1854 and became a free woman.

Richard Nevins Dangerously Ill.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Richard Nevins, former state printer of Ohio and publisher of the Ohio Statesman, is said to be dangerously ill at Hotel Gerard.

S. J. SHACKELFORD

Democratic Nominee for Clerk of Court of Appeals.

The Davies County Man Receives the Nomination on the Tenth Ballot—The Chicago Platform Adopted by the Kentucky Democratic State Convention.

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 3.—The silver democratic state convention convened at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday. About 1,000 delegates and spectators are in attendance. There are no gold democrats among the delegates and scarcely any among the spectators. The issues, with the exception of contested delegations from Louisville and the nomination of appelate court clerk, were settled in advance. State Chairman Johnson, in calling the convention to order, made a vigorous speech, in which he advised more justice than harmony. His speech was devoted mostly to an argument on the methods by which the humbler voters are disfranchised by unscrupulous committeemen. State Senator Goebel was elected temporary chairman by acclamation, and in his speech said that this convention would deserve and win success in November by its action Wednesday, and that a part of that action would be the reaffirmation of the Chicago platform. This reference brought a storm of applause that showed plainly the complexion of the convention.

The convention then adjourned for a recess to give the committees time to prepare their reports.

The convention nearly split wide over the election of a permanent chairman and over a question of upon what ballot the hindmost candidate should begin to be dropped. The platform adopted in part was as follows:

Resolved, That we hereby reaffirm our faith in the principles set forth and enumerated in the platform by the democratic party in national convention, held at Chicago in July, 1896, and we adopt said platform of the democracy in Kentucky.

Second, That the principles adopted and set forth in that platform are the true principles of democratic faith and we urge upon all true democrats to stand by them at all times and under all circumstances and conditions.

Third, We indorse the canvass made by Wm. J. Bryan, the nominee of the democratic party for the presidency in the late election. We commend its wisdom, approve it as just and fair to all parties and all interests of our common country. We recognize in him the fearless orator and statesman, and the great champion of the people's rights against the money power, the monopolists, the syndicates and trust We pledge him the support of united democracy in our state.

The remaining half of the platform is devoted to a denunciation of the republican state administration, to a denunciation of allowing convict made goods to compete with free labor, and to a felicitation of Senator Blackburn and those who lead in his two senatorial fights.

There was one dissenting vote out of 1,000 to the adoption of the report.

On motion of Hon. John Gaunt, of Carroll, a call of the districts for the naming of candidates for appellate clerk took place.

Ollie James, of Crittenden, presented the name of James D. Watson, of Graves.

H. D. Allen, of Union county, named Samuel J. Shackleford, of Daviess.

James L. Wood, of Taylor county, named Gus W. Richardson, of Meade.

Hon. P. Wat Hardin, of Mercer, put the name of W. B. Mason before the convention.

W. G. Ramsey, of Bath, named S. King Ford, of Montgomery county.

A. O. Stanley, of Fleming, closed the list with the name of Robert L. Green, of Breckenridge.

The vote in the first ballot resulted as follows, in round numbers: Green 223, Shakleford 173, Richardson 163, Mason 120, Ford 300, Watson 170, Friel 14, Landrum 7: Necessary to a choice 548. The ballot is not significant, the stronger candidate throwing votes to the weaker by way of compliment.

Adjourned until 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 4.—The democratic state convention reassembled at 9:30 Thursday morning. Chairman Fulton made a strong appeal for harmony, and urged that the scenes of Wednesday night be not repeated.

The third ballot was ordered, and resulted as follows: Greene 224, Watson 174, Shackleford 169, Ford 170, Richardson 191, Mason 128, Friel 27.

During the fifth ballot Willis Ringo withdrew Friel's name and cast Boyd county's vote for Greene.

Mason was dropped after the sixth ballot, under the rule to drop the lowest man on each ballot after that number. Ford was dropped on the seventh ballot and Green continued to gain on his lead.

The convention adopted a resolution declaring a game chicken rooster in the act of fighting, as the party voting device

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 4.—In the wildest confusion that had lasted a day and night the silver democratic state convention nominated Sam J. Shackelford, of Owensboro, for court of appeals clerk, defeating Greene, the Blackburn candidate, against whom Shackelford, Richardson and Ford reportedly combined for the division of the office and its emoluments.

CORRESPONDENCE POINTS.

Write legibly; if you cannot, you should learn to do so. Practice makes perfect.

To write a good hand is an essential accomplishment which every woman should acquire.

Answer every note or letter, except such as may be impertinent or insulting, as these are not worthy your notice.

Place the postage stamp in a straight, that is, vertical position, in the upper right hand corner of the envelope. It argues great carelessness to put the stamp on in any sort of a fashion.

A FORECAST

Of the Proceedings in Congress During the Week.

Tariff Bill Will Be the General Topic of Discussion in the Senate.

The Great Bone of Contention Will Be the Sugar Schedule—The Tobacco and Agriculture Schedule Will Follow the Sugar Schedule—The House.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—While the tariff will continue the general topic of discussion in the senate during the present week, there is no certainty as to what portion of it will receive especial attention. This uncertainty is due largely to the difficulty of determining when the sugar schedule will be taken up. It is so generally understood that this schedule will consume consideration time, that there is no effort to outline beyond it the course of proceeding. The wood schedule will afford a brief respite Monday before reaching the sugar question, as that subject was left undisposed of when the senate adjourned on Saturday. Senator Allen probably will enter a motion that may lead to other speeches than his own.

Whether the sugar schedule will be taken up in order is still undetermined. There are no differences of opinion on the subject, but the prevailing desire is to get the schedule out of the way as soon as possible. This is the case on both sides of the chamber, but it is especially true of the republicans, as the responsibility for action rests there. Still there is a desire among republican senators that there should be absolute agreement among themselves on the rates of this schedule before entering upon its discussion in the senate, and it is realized that this may be difficult of attainment without a further exchange of opinions than has yet been permitted. There is no doubt in any event of a postponement until Senator Aldrich's return to the senate. He is still confined to his room, but is expected to be out early in the week. That the Hawaiian treaty will be protected by the finance committee is considered settled, but a caucus may be necessary to determine whether other changes should be made. Senator Pettigrew has decided definitely to offer his anti-trust amendment in connection with this schedule, but beyond the fact that it will lead to a number of speeches there is no certainty as to its course or its fate.

The tobacco schedule immediately follows the sugar schedule, but if it should be reached on Monday it would be necessary also temporarily to pass it over, as the committee has promised the tobacco men a hearing on Monday night. They will ask for two dollars on wrapper and 35 cents on filler tobacco. There is also an inclination to return to the language of the Wilson law on this subject. This is understood to be the wish of both the importers and the tobacco growers.

There are many sharp contests ahead on the paragraphs of the agricultural schedule, which is next after tobacco, including those on rice, on which there will be an effort to secure a return to the house rates; on cattle, on which it will be claimed there should be an ad valorem, rather than a specific duty, and on fish, fruits, chicory and salt. The innovation of a duty on tea is also proposed on this schedule, but it is practically certain that this provision will be withdrawn by the committee. Thus what would have been one of the severest contests over the bill will be avoided. The cotton and spirit schedules, will, it is now thought, excite comparatively little debate.

The house has no work ahead of it this week and it is the intention of the majority leaders to adjourn Monday until Thursday and from Thursday until Monday. Mr. Simpson and other members of the minority doubtless will essay the usual manoeuvers with the purpose of embarrassing the republicans, but in the present condition of the house their latitude is narrow and they easily can be overborne by their adversaries.

TORPEDO BOAT PORTER,

Her Final Trial Trip Will Take Place on Tuesday.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The United States torpedo boat Porter came out of dry dock Saturday afternoon with new paint on her steel bottom, which had been swept bare within three weeks by friction of water occasioned by her remarkable speed. Her final trial is understood to have been fixed for Tuesday, June 8. Sunday Lieut. Fremont, in command, took her down around Scotland lightship and back again. The stretch from the Battery to Scotland lightship is 21 miles; the round trip is 42 miles, and the time in which the Porter traveled this distance was 1 hour and 55 minutes. And she did it easily, for at no time was more than 300 pounds of steam pressure developed, and that for only a short time.

Double Tragedy at Cairo, Ill.

CAIRO, Ill., June 7.—Richard Caldwell, of Memphis, shot and killed Mary Jenkins Sunday afternoon because he was jealous of the favors she had bestowed upon others. Immediately after the shooting he fled to a lumber yard back of town, where he was found two hours later by the officers. He was ordered out with some difficulty, when he opened fire on the officers. His first shot passed through the wrist of Deputy Sheriff George W. Moore, who returned the fire, killing Caldwell instantly. Moore was acquitted of all blame by a coroner's jury Sunday evening.

Found Dead in a Bath Tub.

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—Thomas W. Booth, ex-president of the Merchants exchange, president of the J. W. Booth Commission Co., and one of the best known men of St. Louis, was found dead in the bath tub at his residence by his wife Sunday. He had been suffering from a complication of diseases.

THE CAPITAL.

Extension of the Parcel Post Favored by Many Foreign Delegates.

The President Modifies the Plans of His Trip to Nashville—Will Leave Washington June 10 Instead of June 9—He Will Return on June 15.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—There was no meeting of the Universal Postal congress or its committees Thursday and most of the delegates took a rest after their labors and arranged for their trip about the country, to begin from here Friday.

A number of the foreign delegates called on Postmaster General Gary Thursday afternoon and exchanged views on the parcels post. The delegates from Austria-Hungary, France, England, Germany and Belgium favored extension of the system and would like to have parcels post agreements between this and their respective governments. The United States has been frequently asked to join in these arrangements with various countries, but with a few exceptions as to certain countries has objected to new treaties on the score of competition with the express companies.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The president has modified the plans for his trip to the Nashville exposition so as to leave here at noon on Wednesday, the 9th, instead of 9 a. m., June 10, as originally planned. This is to allow him to be at Nashville on Ohio day. The special train will leave over the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, stopping over Wednesday night at Hot Springs and will reach Nashville at 7:30 a. m., June 11. Returning, the party will leave Nashville via the Southern railway at 4 p. m., on Saturday, the 12th, reaching Chattanooga at 9:30 p. m., spending Sunday there. The special will leave Chattanooga at 12:10 a. m., Sunday night, arriving at Asheville, N. C., at 10 a. m., Monday, leaving there at 5 p. m., and reaching Washington about 7:30 a. m., on June 15.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Brig. Gen. John K. Mizner, recently promoted from colonel of the Tenth cavalry, has filed his application for retirement on account of service. The application will be granted and the nomination of his successor as brigadier general, who will be Col. Henry C. Merriam, of the Seventh infantry, probably will go to the senate next week.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Mr. Perry (dem., Ark.) Thursday endeavored to get the Cuban question before the house as a privileged question by offering a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the house that the foreign affairs committee should be appointed to consider the matter. By a vote of 90 to 65 the house sustained the speaker's ruling that the resolution was not privileged. Consideration of the Frye bill to prevent collision on harbors, rivers and inland waters of the United States was then begun.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Acting Secretary of War, Meiklejohn, Thursday announced that appointments have been made to the command of two of the great army departments of the country. Brig. Gen. Wade has been assigned to the department of Dakota at St. Paul and Brig. Gen. Graham to the department of Texas, San Antonio. This leaves vacant the department of the Columbia, which will be assigned to Col. Merriam when he shall have been promoted next week to be brigadier general.

A sub-committee of the senate committee on foreign relations Thursday had an official of the Cuban army before it giving a statement of the situation in Cuba. All members of the sub-committee refused to say anything concerning the hearing.

The Frye bill to prevent collisions in harbors, rivers and inland waters of the United States passed the house Thursday.

The conference report on the Indian appropriation bill has been adopted by the house.

BRITISH SHIP

Zeilika Lost at Sea, and Twelve Men Drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—The loss of the British ship Zeilika, bound from New York to Wellington, N. Z., resulted in the death by drowning of 12 men. The disaster to the ship was reported by cable, but at the time of the message was forwarded no details of the loss of life had been received. The steamer Mariposa from Sidney Thursday brought particulars of the disaster. The Zeilika went ashore at midnight on Good Friday in Pallizer bay on a rocky shore. The disaster occurred during a gale, and the first news of it reached Sidney by carrier pigeon released from a passing government steamer, which sighted the Zeilika ashore but could not possibly render any assistance. The crew numbered 21, of whom nine managed to reach shore.

Another Crooked Bank Official.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 4.—The mystery of the disappearance of the sum of $18,600 from the National German-American bank in this city, on Saturday last, was cleared up Thursday evening, when Assistant Paying Teller Tzschau, who was arrested Wednesday, confessed to the theft. Tzschau had a confederate, George K. Jackson, a salesman, who is under arrest. Seven thousand nine hundred dollars of the stolen money was recovered.

Accidentally Killed His Two Sisters.

GREENE, Ia., June 4. The 15-year-old son of I. Schwartz, while attempting to unload a gun, discharged the weapon, killing his two sisters. The bullet passed through the neck of one sister and struck the other sister just above the heart.

Test of Plumbers' Law.

COLUMBUS, O., June 4.—Initiatory steps have been taken to test the constitutionality of the plumbers' license law. A test case will be brought here within a few days and rushed through to the supreme court as soon as possible.

KING GEORGE

Yields Several Points With a View of Hastening Peace and Bringing About the Turkish Evacuation of Thessaly.

LONDON, June 3.—The Turks have promised to sign the extension of the armistice at Rawn Wednesday, and it is expected that peace negotiations will begin promptly at Constantinople.

King George, it is understood, has yielded several points with a view of hastening the negotiations and of bringing about the Turkish evacuation of Thessaly. In this matter it is said the Russian government has promised to support Greece. The Turkish military commission continues to hold long sittings at the Yildiz Kiosk, and it is very evident that the general impression in Constantinople is that the peace negotiations will collapse and that the war will be renewed. The plan of sending Crown Prince Constantine to London has been abandoned as the trip might be interpreted either as a desertion from his post in time of danger or as a removal from the chief command and consequently a disgrace. The likelihood is that Prince Nicholas will go in his stead.

Both King George and the crown prince have offered to forego a portion of the civil list, in view of the straightened finances of the country.

CANEA, Crete, June 3.—Hadji Michalis, ex chief of the Cretan insurgents, has issued a proclamation calling upon the Cretans to elect a general assembly, to resume their ordinary, everyday functions and respect the lives and property of the Musulmans.

LONDON, June 3.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Berlin says that the Turkish government has opened negotiations with an English firm for overhauling the entire Turkish fleet. All the ironclads will be reconstructed and six new men-of-war built.

BOOTY GALORE

Discovered in a Robbers' Cave Near Jackson, O.

JACKSON, O., June 3.—A remarkable discovery, which will serve to throw some light upon an organized band of robbers which, a few years since, infested the lower part of this county, was made on the farm of Isaac Blake. George Newcomb, a farmhand, was sinking post holes, when he found that the ground under him was loose as though it had been undermined.

Further investigation showed that directly under the place was a tunnel, whose entrance began at a spot entirely hidden by a dense growth of underbrush, and ran back to a distance of 40 or 50 feet. The roof of the tunnel was supported by pillars, after the manner of a mine entry. Newcome secured a lantern, and, together with Mr. Blake, started to explore the cave, and after entering some 30 feet they found large bundles containing clothing and silverware.

Robbed, Murdered and Cremated.

STERLING, Ill., June 3.—Robbed, murdered and Cremated. That tells the awful fate of George Kauffmann. He stood guard over his father's granary to protect it from thieves, who killed him at his post and sought to wipe out the evidence of their fiendish cruelty with fire. Wednesday all there remained of him was a corpse, with its throat cut, its skull crushed and its head bullet-pierced, a charred lump of flesh. There is no clew to the murderers who committed the crime, but bloodhounds are on the trail.

The Charges Dismissed.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—The judicial council of the American Medical association, at a meeting called for that purpose this afternoon, dismissed the charges which have been pending for three years against the Cleveland Medical society, of Cleveland, O., deciding that the charges were not such as could be taken cognizance of by the association. All the delegates from the Cleveland Medical society were then received into full standing by the association.

Gasoline Explosion in a Tent.

LYNN, Mass., June 3.—Six persons were seriously and two of them probably fatally burned at Lynn Beach Wednesday evening by an explosion of gasoline in a tent of a show which is exhibiting here. The tent was well filled and its occupants became greatly excited and attempted to get out. Before they could do so the table by a door was overturned by the excitement of a panic among the animals in the zoo. In the rush of people to get out a cage of lions was overturned, but no damage was done.

Filibusters Arraigned.

KEY WEST, Fla., June 3.—The 33 men found on the Dauntless were arraigned Wednesday before United States Commissioner Otto charged with unlawfully and feloniously beginning to set on foot, provide or prepare means for a military expedition against Spain. Col. Nunez, their spokesman, pleaded not guilty and the case was postponed until the 9th. Each person is held under a bond of $100, furnished by Carlos Recio.

Destructive Blaze at Alexandria, Va.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 3.—Fire broke out about half-past twelve o'clock Wednesday night in the wharf property along the river front and up to this time has done damage to the extent of about $50,000. The chief sufferer is Capt. Herbert Bryant's fertilizing stores, where damage amounts to $30,000, fully insured. At half-past one o'clock the fire was not under control. An engine came from Washington to render assistance to the local companies.

Riot Over a Corpse.

HAZLETON, Pa., June 3.—One man was shot; several injured and the coffin overturned during a riot at a wake in Hollywood. A feud between four families was the cause. Tom Early heard that enemies were at the wake and he went. A man named McMonigle was shot in the shoulder in the fight.

Blind Graduates.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 3.—The 53d annual commencement exercises of the state blind institute were held Wednesday. The principal address was by Gov. Mount. There were 12 graduates.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—SENATE—Progress on the tariff bill in the senate was checked Saturday, the plate paragraphs proving a source of controversy lasting throughout the day. As a result little more than a page of the bill was disposed of. The finance committee succeeded without difficulty in resisting proposed amendments from democratic members of the committee, although each amendment was debated at great length. An exciting incident occurred during the afternoon, when Senator Morgan (Ala.) was called to order by Mr. Gallinger, who was temporarily in the chair, for severely criticising the inaction of the house of representatives. Adjourned until Tuesday.

HOUSE—Not in session.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—SENATE—The senate made good progress on the tariff bill Tuesday advancing to the important metal schedule. During the day the paragraphs covering marble and stone, china, glass, brick and tiles were completed with a few minor exceptions. Messrs Vest and Jones, of Arkansas, in behalf of the minority of the finance committee proposed numerous amendments which were defeated by majorities of eight to fourteen. The votes were on party lines in the main, although Messrs Rawlins and White, democrats, voted with the republicans to increase the rate on onyx, and Mr. McInery, democrat, voted with the republicans against Mr. Jones' proposition for a reduction on china. As a sequel to the recent sensational speech of Mr. Tillman, Mr. Smith, of New Jersey, rose to a question of personal privilege, while the tariff debate was proceeding, and made a brief but pointed denial of all speculation in sugar stock, either recently or at any time when sugar was the subject of legislation. Mr. Tillman was among those who heard the denial, but he made no comment on it. Senator McLaurin, of South Carolina, was sworn in early in the day, raising the membership of the senate to 89.

HOUSE—There was a lively session of the house Tuesday at which the policy of Speaker Reed and the Republican majority was again made the subject of attacks by the leaders of the minority. Mr. Richardson (dem., Tenn.) and Mr. Simpson (pop., Kan.) led the onslaught for the minority. The majority position was ably defended by Mr. Henderson (rep. Ia.) and Grosvenor (rep., O.). The appeal of Mr. Lewis (dem., Wash.) taken last Thursday from the decision of the chair that a resolution relating to foreign affairs did not constitute a question of privilege, was laid on the table, and after the skirmish over the methods of procedure three special orders were successively adopted by two, of which the senate bills making special appropriation for the government printing office and for erecting the several parts of the navy authority to contract with any two vessels to carry contributed supplies to India were passed. The one provided for the consideration of the Frye bill to prevent collisions upon harbors, rivers and inland waters of the United States connected with the ocean. Dick (rep., N. Dak.), in charge of the latter bill, was forced to abandon it for the day to avoid the point of no quorum. The conference report on the sundry civil bill was adopted. Adjourned until Thursday.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—SENATE—The senate made greater progress on the tariff bill than in any day since the debate opened, completing more than one-half of the important metal schedules. The speaking was by the democratic senators, the republican senators taking no part in the debate except at rare intervals, to answer questions. They would expedite the advance of the bill. Messrs Jones (Ark.) and Vest urged numerous amendments embodying in the main the Wilson rates, but they were rejected by a majority of exception. This exception related to anvils, on which Mr. Vest secured a reduction of the committee rate of 2 to 1¾ cents per pound. It was the only change made without the assent of the committee, and it was due mainly to the listless manner of many senators in voting. Early in the day Mr. Tillman (dem., S. C.) moved the adoption of a resolution directing the judiciary committee to inquire into the recent decisions against the South Carolina dispensary law, with a view to reporting such legislation as might be desirable.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—SENATE—The senate again made good progress on the tariff bill Thursday, completing ——— pages of the metal schedule and almost completing it. The formal contest against the measure was maintained, but all amendments tending to change the bill as reported were voted down, and the finance committee rates stood. The debate was mainly of a technical character, the republican senators continuing the policy of refraining from making speeches. Before the tariff bill was taken up Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, gave the senate another hour of exciting controversy over the proposed sugar investigation. He charged that Mr. Havemeyer published charges relative to his administration of the governorship of South Carolina, and then moved that the committee having charge of the sugar investigation be discharged from further consideration of it, thus bringing the subject directly before the senate. After a long and bitter debate Mr. Tillman withdrew his resolution.

HOUSE—The house proceedings Thursday were enlivened by a single incident, the attempt of Mr. Terry (dem., Ark.) to secure consideration as a privileged matter of a resolution for the immediate appointment of the committee on foreign affairs. It was ruled out of order, and an appeal taken from the decision of the chair was laid on the table by a strict party vote. Mr. Simpson, populist leader, was absent and several bills passed by unanimous consent. The Frye bill to prevent collisions on certain harbors, rivers and inland waters of the United States and the senate resolution for the relief of the El Paso flood sufferers were recommended as was the appropriation of $10,000 available out of the unexpended balance of the appropriation for the Mississippi flood sufferers, were passed, and the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was adopted. Adjourned until Monday.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—SENATE—The senate had a period of speech making Friday and as a result little progress was made on the tariff bill. The advance covered about two pages or seven paragraphs and brought the senate to the wool schedule, the first item of which was considered but not completed. Mr. Mantle (Mont.) spoke for two hours on the wool schedule, urging increased rates for the woolgrower and Mr. Butler (N. C.) made a plea in behalf of income tax.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

The Tug Andrew H. Green Wrecked and the Crew of Five Men Blown to Atoms.

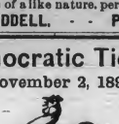
CHICAGO, June 5.—The tug Andrew H. Green was blown to atoms at 1:45 o'clock Saturday morning by the explosion of her boiler just after having passed through the Rush street draw with three mud scows in tow. The explosion was heard for a great distance and all the buildings in the vicinity were shaken to their foundations. No trace of any of the crew can be found and there seems to be no doubt that all on board the ill-fated vessel lost their lives. Five men are known to have been on board.

Ant-Kinetoscope Picture Bill Passed.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 5.—There was a lively discussion in the senate on the bill to prohibit the exhibition or importation of kinetoscope pictures of prize fights under a penalty of $5,000. The bill was rejected and the opposition senators then proposed amending clauses to prohibit Canadian newspapers publishing descriptions of fights, to prohibit the entry of foreign papers containing such, and to prohibit people talking about fights at all. The first two amendments were adopted. The penalty was then reduced to $1,000 and the bill reported to the house of commons.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 9, 1897.



Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Democratic Ticket.

November 2, 1897.

For Clerk Court of Appeals,
SAM'L J. SHACKELFORD.

For Representative,
W. B. GRUBBS.

For Circuit Judge,
JOHN W. GREENE.

For Commonwealth's Attorney,
M. D. GRAY.

For Circuit Clerk,
J. W. DUNCAN.

For County Judge,
C. C. ROBERTS.

For County Attorney,
J. M. LASSING.

For County Clerk,
B. W. ADAMS.

For Sheriff,
ELMER BEALL.

For Assessor,
T. G. WILLIS.

For Jailer,
T. J. ADAMS.

For County Superintendent,
L. H. VOSHELL.

For Surveyor,
W. E. VEST.

For Coroner,
A. A. MURAT.

Neighborhood News.

Limaburg.

Born, on the 5th inst. to Hubert Rouse and wife, a bouncing boy.

Owen Aylor was elected school trustee by 18 votes to J. W. Utz's 3. The vote on the shool tax was 23 against to none for.

Harvey Baker has returned from school at Lexington to spend vacation.

John O'Brieniand wife, of Cincinnati and Mrs. Gray, of Birmingham, Ala., are guests of Ezra Rouse's.

If your cow has bloat from eating clover. fill an empty egg shell with pine tar and force it down her throat.

Dr. Scott Cole and family, of Columbus, Ohio, have been guests of Mr. G. E. Rouse for a few weeks.

Hathaway.

Every one is about done planting corn.

Every one around here was greatly excited over the election, which is now a thing of the part.

T. J. Stephens and R. L. Huey have hands at work on the roads and the prospect are fair for good roads in the future.

Mrs. Inez Conley's barn was burnt last Monday night, with her only horse and buggy and harness, farm gear, hay rake and some bread stuff. It was a great loss. It was insured for $100 which will not pay the loss. How it caught fire is a mystery.

Rev. J. Presser returned from Louisville college, last Saturday, a graduate. He has the best wishes of his many friends, and may God be with him in his ministry, and may his welcome be on the last great day, "well done thou good and faithful servant, enter into the joys of thy Lord."

Rabbit Hash.

Mrs. E. P. Stephens is expected home again right soon.

Miss Melia Stephens is visiting her friends and relatives here.

Miss Maggie Scott spent last Sunday with Joe Stephens and wife.

Ben Bob Stephens let a hogshead of tobacco fall on his foot, mashing it badly.

Lawrence Phipps and John Calvert made a flying trip to Patriot, Ind., last Tuesday.

B. Hade Stephens and wife, of Big Bone, were visiting R. H. Stephens and last Sunday evening.

Married, on the 3rd inst. at Rising Sun, Ind., Will Hodges and Miss Sallie Douglass. We wish them much happiness in their future life.

A. G. McConnell and wife celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their wedding day, May 31st. Those present were, Mrs. Mary McConnell, Miss Myra McConnell, Will McConnell and family, John McConnell and family, Willie Craig, Ben Ryle, wife and son, Ben Calvert and Ben C. Stephens and wife.

Florence

Mr. Henry Oelsner sailed for Germany last week.

Miss Neli Crigler is at home for the summer vacation.

Mrs. Jessie Corwin and daughters of Covington are visiting relatives here.

Mr. Geo. W. Crouch left Saturday for Union to meet his mother who is visiting there.

A broken pedal caused a painful accident to Miss Sue Coe while cycling near here Saturday morning. Mr. Elmo Mayberry gallantly came to the rescue and brought the disabled wheeler home.

The Methodist lawn fete was quite a success. Among the visitors present were Prof. Fogg and Bristow from Covington Mr. and Mrs. Porter, and Miss Edmonia, Mrs. Bob Pearson, Mrs. Tom Stevenson Misses [illegible] Aldress and Lue Coe, Messrs Smith, Roy Wilbur and Harry Ingram of Erlanger. Arthur Rouse and Andy Collins of Burlington.

After a delightful five o'clock picnic dinner in the woods at the Stevenson place Mrs. Ed Porter, the genial hostess, entertained the dinner party with a dance in the evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. McCormic Mrs. Rob Pearson Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson Misses Sue Coe, Katie Corwin Bess and Neli Crigler Alice Cloud Messrs Chas Coe Will Smith E. Green and M. Green, Chester Souther and Roy Wilbur.

SS

Bellevue.

Ome Rogers came home to vote.

There was frost here on the 31st of last month.

Born to Perry Clore and wife on the 6th inst., a boy.

Mrs. A. R. Corbin has a bed of the prettiest pinks in town.

Mrs. Emily Campbell, of Carrollton, is the guest of relatives at this place.

Mrs. L. L. Snyder has just returned from a visit to her sister at Petersburg.

Ed Maurer has been off duty for a week because of a couple of boils on his hand.

Miss Ella Drake, of Rising Sun, has been the guest of B. G. Drake and wife the past week.

On the morning of the 6th T. L. Utz, was call to preach the funeral of Mrs. Jesse Bachelor, who died near Waterloo.

The Baptist church here has changed the hour of its business meetiug from 11 a. m., to 3 p. m. on the Saturday before the fourth Suuday in each month.

Joseph Maurer & Sons are working to fill an order of 30 dozen clothes baskets for a firm in Chicago; also an order for 25 dozen market baskets for a Cincinnati firm.

Sandy Douglas, the noted horse-thief who was captured here years ago, and shot while attempting to escape, recently stole a horse from one Turner, who lives opposite here in the Hoosier State. We were informed by a gentleman from that side of the river that Douglas has stolen three or four hundred horses since he last escaped from the pen.

On the morning of the 5th the community was shocked by the sudden death of Mrs. M. B. Green, which took place some time duriug the previous night, she having retired in apparently her usual health. After funeral service on the 6th inst. at the home, conducted by Rev. T. L. Utz, the remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground.

Petersburg.

Everett Helms works extra help on Saturdays.

Miss Lou Hensley has been quite poorly with a bad throat.

Marcus Raudall graduated at the Aurora High School this year.

Not less than six candidates were here last Tuesday night aud Wednesday.

J. W. Sebree and family, of Double Lick, visited Mr. T. Hyne and family, last Sunday.

Messrs. John aud Lee Cropper shipped 48 nice hogs from the mouth of Garrison, Monday week.

Joe Weiudel and Will Dick Alloway went to Chicago, a few days ago to work in the furniture business.

Mrs. Wesicle, who fell from a wagon as reported a couple of weeks ago, died June 2d and was buried at Bellevue, Friday the 4th.

The Workum went to the city Saturday evening for the purpose of taking an excursion of colored people to New Richmond on Sunday.

Will Mahan, Joe Weindel, Jno. Pease and Harry Lyons returned from Uniontown, last week, where they had been makiug whisky barrels for a month.

A great many bees have swarmed in these parts this season already. The services of James Jarrell are in great demand in that kind of business—quite a bee king.

Charley Finn, of Woolper, was playing with his little boy, last Thursday, when the lettle fellow's head struck Charley's nose and broke it. He had a stickiug plaster applied, and it was doing finely at last accounts.

One of the largest fish and beer parties ever given in these quarters took place last Thursday night. It was given for the benefit of Tom Willis and the large vote which he polled proved the success of the undertaking.

Bob and Bill McMurray were down to Hamilton, last Monday, and found their skiff that had broken loose from the mouth of Garrison, where they lived. It had been run over by a steamboat and had a considerable hole knocked in it.

Little Florence McWethy, daughter of Smith and Rena McWethy, died last Friday morning about 8 o'clock. She had had a sore throat for some time before making it known, and it got such a hold that it could not be controlled. The family have the deepest sympathy of their many friends.

Some writer, last week, asked for a remedy for the swelling of cattle from eating clover Here is Manlius Cave's remedy: Take a stick about a foot or a foot and a half long and two or three inches thick and put it in the animal's mouth. Tie a string to each horn and also to the stick thus holding the stick in the mouth.

Walton.

The election passed off quietly here.

Miss Allie Wilson, of Bank Lick, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Botts.

Dr. H. H. Roberts and wife, of Paris, are visiting Mrs. Mary Roberts.

Dr. Ambrose and wife were the guests of his brother Friday night.

Miss Dasie Brand and Hope Whitson were visiting Mrs. Jones, Friday.

B. L. Northcutt and wife were visiting his brother at Covington, one day last week.

F. E. Curley departed for Indianapolis, Sunday, where he will engage in the practice of law.

Wm. Brittenhelm and wife are rejoicing over the advent of a baby boy at their house which arrived last week.

T. F. Curley, who has been attending college in Cincinnati, graduated with high honor, receiving his diploma on the evening of May 26th.

Miss Adah Lermond returned home after a long continued visit to her aunt, Mrs. B. S. Lermond, of Bowling Green, last Thursday. She was accompanied by her aunt, who will visit relatives at this place.

Quite a number of the young people attended the wedding of Mr. Jas. Powers and Miss Lottie Morehead at Key West, last Wednesday. Frank Curley was lucky enough to get the ring which was in the bridal cake. According to tradition, he will be the next to embark on the sea of matrimony.

A man, the name of whom your correspondent has been unable to learn, was arrested within the incorporation limits on Sunday afternoon for beating his wife. The parties were traveling in an open wagon and claim to be from Covington. The citizens paid the woman's way on the train back to Covington and the man is in jail awaiting trial.

Last week was the closing week of the Walton Academy. The attendance at the examinations and closing exercises attested the lively interest the people have in the institution. Of the examinations the history, primary reading, geology and greek classes received especially high commendation. Walton is justly proud of the thorough, substantial work the academy is accomplishing, and the reputation it is establishing, not only at home, but also in the surrounding territory. The closing exercises were held in the Baptist church, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Several people coming late found the seats so crowded they went away. The vocal music reflected much credit on the instructor, Miss Ailie Platt. The recitations were of the highest character and reudered very artistically. The Academy will have a graduating class next year and every indication points to a greatly increased attendance.

Taylorsport.

Crops of all kinds are looking badly.

Born, to Tom Clore and wife, June 1st, a girl.

Children's day was observed at Point Pleasant.

James Hood, who has been sick, is able to be out again.

Jim Conner, of Cincinnati, passed through town Saturday.

Rev. Reed preached at the Methodist church Sunday eveuing.

If reports are true we will have a wedding in this vicinity soon.

Bruce Thornton, of Covington, was in these parts, last week, selling fruit trees.

Dr. A. H. McGlasson came up from Madison Saturday on a visit to his parents.

The cylinderhead was blown out of the ferry boat Friday eveuing. Fortunately no one was hurt.

Erlanger.

Frank Daniels and Miss Attlia Cantaba, of Walnut Hills, came out on a visit to Mrs. L. Morelli on their wheels.

Eastern Star Lodge have decided to give a picnic the last of this month.

The M. E. church is having a revival conducted by Rev. Davis, which is proving successful. Large attendance and good sermons.

The Crescent Springs Electric Railway Co., visited this place Thursday evening and spoke for one hour before the Improvement Association, but they not having anything definite no stock was subscribed by the Erlanger citizens. A committeee was appointed to look into the matter of the Crescent Springs Co., and report to the Association.

North Bend.

The showers last Wednesday night were hailed with joy by most every one, especially those who had tobacco to set.

The indications at present cause us to think that summer is here at last.

Moles are destroying a great deal of corn in this neighborhood.

Lee Pepper lost a good cow last week aud Charlie Scothorn lost a nice colt.

The cherry crop will not be large, Strawberries and candy-dates (candidates) are about all gone.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Juue 5th, 1897.

Republicans pretend to pooh-pooh Senator Morgan's deliberately made charge that the action of the House is unconstitutional and that Congress is not legally in session, but in reality it is worrying them no little. The matter has been discussed at a cabinet meeting and the Attorney General is preparing an opinion on the subject to be submitted to the Cabinet.

The Senate has adopted a resolution offered by Senator Tillman, requesting the Judiciary Committee to report what legislation is necessary to enable the State of South Carolina to control the liquor traffic within its territory. The resolution is intended to meet the decision of the Federal Court that the present dispensary law of S. C. is in conflict with the interstate commerce law.

It looks now as though there would be no sugar investigation. Had a vote been taken on Senator Tillman's resolution when it was first offered it would have been adopted, but having conferred together the Republican Senators have recovered their nerve and it is now announced that they will vote against the resolution.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, doesn't believe in straddling any question. Two Democratic Senators voted with the Republicans for duty on onyx because of the existence of onyx quarries in their States, and Senator Perkins said he was surprised that Senator Jones did not do so in order to help develop the large onyx deposits known to exist in Arkansas. Mr. Jones said in reply. "There is no justification for tariff taxation, except for the purposes of revenue, and it will not support an excessive tax, even for the benefit of my people. Taxation for private benefit is robbery, pure and simple.

Jerry Simpson may not be able to cope with Speaker Reed, but he made Representative Stone sorry he interrupted him to ask if there was any greater demand for the passage of a bankruptcy bill now than there was during the last Congress, by replying: "Why certainly there is; your promised prosperity has not materialized and the people now seek relief in bankruptcy courts."

If the words of the Washington judge who presided over the court that tried and acquitted Havemyer and Searles, the president and secretary of the sugar trust, were anything to be [illegible] relating to the business of the sugar trust. If this is good law, the laws of the country cannot be too soon amended as to give Congress the right to investigate the business of the sugar trust, and of all other trusts, whenever there is occasion to do so in the interest of the public.

It is a guilty conscience which has caused Speaker Reed to be guarded by detectives, for fear that somebody will do him bodily injury as a result of the public indignation at his methods of muzzling the House. He has received threatening letters, but they were written by a man in Washington merely to cause a sensation. There isn't the slightest probability that anybody will kill Mr. Reed, or even hurt him. The people know that their remedy lies in the ballot box, and they will wait until the Congressional elections next year to apply it.

Secretary Gage has let the secret out that Mr. McKinley expects this session of Congress to give him authority to appoint a currency commission. The House will, of course, do whatever Mr. McKinley wants it to do, provided that Mr. Reed's consent be obtained, but the Silver Senators haven't the slightest idea of giving Mr. McKinley authority to pick a currency commission, but they will insist that its members shall be selected by the President, Senate, aud the House, in order that the silver men may have a fair representation thereon.

Some are not done planting corn.

The cut worms are not doing much damage this spring. They were nearly all drowned.

Robt. Wilson is milking a cow which he says when milked dry there is nothing of her left save the hide, which he throws out on thegrass, and in the morniug he finds the hide again filled with the lacteal fluid. Mr. Wilsou is all right ou the milk problem.

RHEUMATISM LINIMENT.

L. MORELLI,
Box 123, - ERLANGER, KY.
AGENTS WANTED.
Price, 50 Cents Per Bottle.

THE YOUNG TROTTING HORSE,

RICHWOOD, JR.,

Will make the season of 1897, at my stable ½ mile from Hebron, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.

Richwood, jr., is a beautiful bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, fine style and action, large bone. He captured first premium at all the fairs last year. He was sired by Richwood 10403; he by Squire Talmage 668; first dam, Lady Clay by C. M. Clay, jr, 22. Richwood Jr.'s dam Ned Forrest; 2d dam, Bellfounder.

The Flue Norman Stallion.

FLEETWOOD,

Will make the season at the same time and place, at $8 00 to insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Fleetwood is a steel gray, 16½ hands high, a good worker and kind disposition. He is a good breeder and his colts are all gentle and kind. Fleetwood was sired by Albatross 98, dam, Ned Forrest. Care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.

JOHN W. CLORE, Hebron, Ky.

NOTICE.

Cincinnati, O., April 5, 1897.

To the Tobacco Growers of Boone County:

I am connected with the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., which includes four houses—the Globe, Morris, Bodmann, Cincinnati Miami. Prize your tobacco and ship it to one of the four houses and receive the highest market price for same. If you have no preference ship it to the Cincinnati Miami, and I will give it my personal attention. Hogsheads and presses furnished. Address me at 110, 112 West Front St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

oct-7 O. W. ADAMS.

NOTICE.

All persons holding claims against F. A. Tanner are hereby notified that they must present them to me at once proven as by law required, those owing same will please come forward and settle at once.

W. A. TANNER, Adm'r.

Mc ELREE'S
Wine of Cardui

has demonstrated ten thousand times that it is almost infallible

FOR WOMAN'S PECULIAR WEAKNESSES,

irregularities and derangements. It has become the leading remedy for this class of troubles. It exerts a wonderfully healing, strengthening and soothing influence upon the menstrual organs. It cures "whites" and falling of the womb. It stops flooding and relieves suppressed and painful menstruation. For Change of Life it is the best medicine made. It is beneficial during pregnancy, and helps to bring children into homes barren for years. It invigorates, stimulates, strengthens the whole system. This great remedy is offered to all afflicted women. Why will any woman suffer another minute with certain relief within reach? Wine of Cardui only costs $1.00 per bottle at your drug store.

For advice, in case requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Rev. J. W. SMITH, Camden, S. C., says: "My wife used Wine of Cardui at home for falling of the womb and it entirely cured her."

GO TO
HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,

A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

BRADFORD BROS.,
THE
Carriage Manufacturers,
FflorENCE, KENTUCKY.

HEADQUARTERS FOR VEHICLES of ALL KINDS.

LATEST STYLES

OF BUGGIES

Made at the

LOWEST PRICES

Consistent with First-class Workmanship and the Best Material.

NOW is a good time to have your Carriage or Buggy Painted. Special attention paid to Ordered Work. Repairing a specialty and neatly executed.

Work Guaranteed as Represented.

BRADFORD BROTHERS, Florence, Ky.

J. A. HUEY, Union, Ky.
R. P. RICE, Florence, Ky.

Deering : Ideal : Mowers

Are the only ones with

ROLLER : AND : BALL : BEARINGS.

Defeated all competitors in official World's Fair field trials.

Record: 85½ lbs. for 5-foot Ideal against 152 lbs. for its lightest competitor.

Deering Binder Twine. In the harvest of 1896 the Deering Harvester Company made and sold

One-Third of all the Binder Twine used in all America.

Honest in length, even in strength and reliable in every way.

Special Rates to Merchants.

RICE & HUEY, Agts., - Florence, Ky.

E. F. HARMEYER,
535 Walnut St. - - CINCINNATI, OHIO.
IS THE PLACE TO BUY

PLOWS, HARROWS, CORN DRILLS, CULTIVATORS, HAY RAKES, &c.,

We also have the 'EUREKA' AND OTHER MOWERS.

Don't fail to see us if you want anything in our line.

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDER-  EMBALMER,

TAKER

Corner Pike & Russell Streets,

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

Farm for Sale!

CONTAINING SIXTY ACRES

House of 5 rooms, well and cistern, Good Two Story Barn with Covered Drive-Way and Basement, Large Cistern, never failing Stock water. No better Farming Land in Boone County. Apple Orchard of Selected Trees.

Location, 1½ miles south of Florence, on Lexington pike. All buildings within 50 yards of pike, (formerly owned by John Northcutt.)

For terms and all information call on or address

G. N. BUFFINGTON, Buffington, Ky.

By order of David T. Buffington.

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE

That B. F. ZIMMER is selling the best Grade of Fertilizer in the county for less Money than any other dealer in the county. It will pay you to see him before buying.

Ever sack is sold with a guarantee to be as good as represented.

Constance, Kentucky.

Local News.

It's all over now.

There was not a very large crowd in town Monday.

A fine rain visited this section last Wednesday night.

What will you talk about now, the election being over?

Insects injured the corn considerably during the cold weather.

The rain Monday kept a great many people from attending court.

The earthquake on the first inst., was not noticed in this immediate locality.

Strawberries have been plentiful on the local market since they began to ripen.

The indications are there will be an unusually large crop of blackberries this year.

Dr. Furnish purchased of Robt. B. Brown, of Warsaw, a good saddle and harness mare.

This will be a good honey year, as there is an abundance of bloom for the bees to work on.

No locust bloom of any consequence this spring, and on its failure some base their prediction of poor crops.

Saturday opened beautiful and bright, not a cloud could be seen, except in the political horizon of several candidates.

S. Gaines, J. B. Berkshire and N. E. Riddell went down on Gunpowder, last Thursday afternoon to fish. They had the usual luck.

Up to the present time the prospects for crops this year are not at all flattering. There has been too much rain followed by cool weather.

The Hillis Bros., had the finest load of fish in town last Friday morning they ever had here. Come in and buy fish of them every Friday morning.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

Mrs. Bachelor, of the Waterloo neighborhood, was buried in the Odd-Fellows' cemetery at this place, last Sunday afternoon. She was formerly a resident of Ludlow.

Henry Hoffman, of Petersburg, claims to have the oldest pipe in the county. It was the property of an Indian and Henry says it was plowed up where an oak tree had stood.

The Louisville Daily Dispatch put in in its appearance at the Burlington postoffice again, last Thursday, after an absence of two weeks. The patrons here were growing very impatient.

The ladies of the Pt. Pleasant church will give an entertainment and supper consisting of strawberries, cake and ice-cream at the residence of B. F. McGlasson on Friday evening, June 11th. Admission, 25 cents.

Uncle Fred Tanner, of the Limaburg neighborhood, aged 83, was found dead in his bed last Saturday morning. He had been suffering of dropsy for some time, but was thought to be better than for some time on Friday, having done some work on that day.

Some of our young lady friends sent in a poem for publication, which if put in print might result in an editor's funeral, and we are satisfied they do not desire to be instrumental in bringing such a disaster upon the country, consequently the poem is not published.

E. W. Rouse, one of the strawberry growers of the Limaburg neighborhood, left a box of very fine berries at this office last Friday morning. They were very large, perfect and fine flavor. At the proper time he can furnish you all the plants of that variety you desire.

The many friends of Esq. M. B. Green, of Bellevue, will be sorry to hear of the death of his wife, who was found dead in bed last Saturday morning. She had been afflicted with heart disease for some time, but she was not complaining when she retired last Friday night.

Martin Grant, a traveling man from Michigan, while at Covington, last week, was handed two letters at post office. The first announced the death of his mother; the second that his home had burned down, and in the afternoon another came announcing the death of his only child. He was completely prostrated.

H. W. Harrison, dentist, of Rising Sun, Ind., will be in Burlington on the first and third Monday in each month, to do work for those who wish anything in his line. He will be here two days each visit. He is a son of the late R. F. Harrison, of Carrollton, and a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dentistry at Philadephia. He is highly recommended in his profession.

Low Rates Queen & Crescent.

Y. M. C. A. Summer School Knoxville, June 18-27; Y. W. C. A. Summer School, Asheville, June 15-25; Junior United American Mechanics, National Council, Pittsburg, Pa., June 15-19; East Tennessee Educational Association, Sweetwater, Tenn., July 28-30. Superb vestibuled trains of the Queen and Crescent Route carry the only through Pullman to Asheville from the North. Double daily train service from Cincinnati and Louisville. Low rates for the Summer Schools.

Jule Hoffman, the snake charming boy of Petersburg, was severely bitten a few days ago by one of his reptiles, but the wound produced no serious results, and he continues to amuse himself handling every specie of snake he can get hold of. That he possesses a wonderful power over all reptiles is shown by his immediately taming every serpent he touches and putting the heads of the most poisonous and dreaded species into his mouth and other feats equally as dangerous and daring. Although often bitten by his venomous pets no apparent injury results from the bites.

The executive committee met at the court house Monday at 2 p. m., and proceeded to count the vote cast for each candidate at the primary election last Saturday. The committeemen from Beaver and Walton and Verona precincts were not present and Jerry Carpenter, Geo. Ossman and Geo. Roberts were chosen to witness the count in their stead. About two and a half hours were consumed in making the court and passing upon a few ballots which the officers of election had returned. The officers of election at Walton burnt all the ballots and stubs, and returned only a certificate of the vote as cast for the several candidates. The committee decided to accept the certificate after having it identified by the officers of election present. The following is the official count:

For County Judge—

	Stephens	Roberts
Burlington	98	160
Florence	165	69
Bullittsville	149	64
Petersburg	91	123
Constance	41	47
Bellevue	63	51
Rabbit Hash	92	68
Big Bone	48	128
Verona	59	120
Walton	102	95
Beaver	60	64
Union	79	103
	1032	1092

Robert's majority, 60.

For Assessor—

	Grimsley	Willis	Johnson	Pearson	Waits	Utz	Gordon
Burlington	51	111	26	12	34	10	13
Florence	47	18	22	82	10	44	6
Bullittsville	1	92	5	1	118	0	2
Petersburg	12	166	6	1	24	0	0
Constance	1	25	2	8	38	11	8
Bellevue	18	49	25	8	5	6	12
Rabbit H	26	16	14	25	54	8	8
Big Bone	110	20	4	3	19	1	23
Verona	86	13	58	0	4	0	20
Walton	19	18	126	5	10	4	12
Beaver	25	5	46	0	0	1	50
Union	56	37	45	11	22	19	3
	452	573	379	156	336	104	157

Willis' plurality, 121.

For Jailer—

	Blyth	Adams	Ryle	Crisler
Burlington	110	79	16	40
Florence	54	94	8	59
Bullittsville	71	88	5	44
Petersburg	83	84	12	22
Constance	9	52	5	21
Bellevue	26	75	7	8
Rabbit Hash	12	92	38	7
Big Bone	16	117	14	18
Verona	23	107	0	37
Walton	30	100	11	40
Beaver	15	91	3	11
Union	18	119	26	29
	467	1098	182	336

Adams' majority, 213.

For Sheriff—

	Beall	Berkshire	Carroll	Riddell
Burlington	152	51	21	31
Florence	103	22	74	30
Bullittsville	129	61	24	8
Petersburg	39	150	13	16
Constance	57	10	21	8
Bellevue	21	71	7	25
Rabbit Hash	20	52	43	40
Big Bone	30	8	124	18
Verona	24	38	44	66
Walton	67	26	53	43
Beaver	16	18	46	42
Union	21	28	57	85
	679	535	527	412

Beall's plurality, 144.

For School Superintendent—

	Voshell	Clements
Burlington	104	115
Florence	122	74
Bullittsville	142	54
Petersburg	99	95
Constance	50	31
Bellevue	23	78
Rabbit Hash	17	127
Big Bone	67	89
Verona	52	98
Walton	100	55
Beaver	61	46
Union	118	67
	955	929

Voshell's majority, 26.

The candidates for circuit clerk received the following vote: J. W. Duncan, 1278; J. W. Kennedy, 605.

Adams', county clerk, 1648.

Lassing, county attorney, 1475.

Vest, surveyor, 1423.

Grubbs, representative, 1542.

Murat, coroner, 1123.

Justices of the peace and constables were nominated as follows:

First district—Clinton Gaines, justice of the peace and James T. Grant, constable.

Second district—M. B. Green, justice and Wm. Hensley, constable.

Third district—B. H. Pyle, justice of the peace and James W. Aylor, constable.

Fourth district—J. Sam Noell, justice of the peace and W. B. Allstock, constable.

Fifth district—J. C. Byland, justice of the peace and J. H. Watson, constable.

Sixth district—J. H. Walton, justice of the peace and T. J. Brown, jr., constable.

NOTES:

A big vote was polled.

It was a fair day and big vote.

Several of the races were close.

Dr. Smith received one vote for coroner.

Thos. A. Adams made a remarkable race.

Monday was a bad day for the river excursion to start.

Of the 35 who guessed on the winners only three picked the ticket.

2,236 of Boone's unterrified cast their ballots in Saturday's primary election.

In the race for jailer Adams distanced all competitors. Adams is a runner from way back.

The next fiscal court will be composed of entirely new members except Esq. M. B. Green.

After the nominees had been declared they were called, and those present responded in short speeches of thanks.

The race between Voshell and Clements was too close for comfort. The result was not known certain until Monday morning.

The Steamer Primary, Sailing.

The Salt River Excursion left on the Steamer Primary at 6:30 p. m., last Saturday. The excursionists were provided with everything to make their trip and soujourn pleasant. The following passengers were on board.

W. W. Grimsley, captain; Benjamin Sterhens, clerk; J. F. Biyth, pilot; C. L. Crisler, mate; M. C. Carroll and O. S. Watts, cooks, with the following passengers on board: J. W. Berkshire, Add Riddell, F. L. Gordon, S. C. Johnson, J. N. Pearson, F. A. Utz, E. L. Clements, O. J. Ryle, J. W. Kennedy, and all the defeated candidates for constable and justices of the peace.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. B. Tolin, of Utzinger, was in town yesterday.

F. M. Howlett, of Big Bone, was in town yesterday.

Rev. Hixon is the guest of Rev. Hoover and wife.

Mrs. B. W. Adams is visiting in the Big Bone neighborhood.

T. D. Goodridge spent a few days, last week, with Mr. and Mrs. S. Gaines.

Mrs. F. P. Walton and Mrs. Clinton Gaines, of Utzinger, were in town, last Friday.

James A. Duncan and Miss Fannie Willis, were guests at J. M. Lassing's Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Stephens, of Walton, were guests at Judge Riddell's last Saturday.

J. M. Conner came down and spent last Saturday in the Locust Grove neighborhood.

Master Coleman Lassing was the guest of his brother, J. M. Lassing, a few days last week.

Master Shelby Cowen has gone to Dr. L. C. Cowen's at Rabbit Hash, to spend the summer.

D. Beall and wife and J. A. Riddell and wife, of Hebron, were guests of Elmer Beall, Monday.

Mrs. H. W. Ryle, of Erlanger, was visiting relatives in Burlington from Saturday to Monday.

Master Willie Duncan, of Walton, spent last week with his grandfather and aunt at this place.

Harry Fisk and wife and Mrs. H. G. Fisk, of Florence were guests of Mrs. B. S. Kirkpatrick, Monday.

L. W. Sandford, of Covington, was in town Monday. He is employed at Alms & Doepke's, Cincinnati.

H. W. Smith and Master Miles, of Cincinnat, were guests of Dr. J. F. Smith and wife, last Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. B. F. McGlasson, Mrs. W. E. Walton and Miss Clementine Walton, were guests of Mrs. W. L. Riddell Monday.

S. A. Palmer and family, of Lawrenceburg, passed through town Tuesday morning on their return from a visit to Walton.

J. M. Lassing, S. W. Tolin, J. S. Clutterbuck and W. B. Grubbs were the only delegates from Boone present at the State Convention, last week.

Miss Kittie Gaines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Gaines, left last Friday morning for a three months' visit with relatives at Crawfordsville, Indiana.

Wesley Underhill brought to this office a combination bouquet, last Friday. It was composed of red roses and large, luscious strawberries, a very attractive combination.

J. M. Lassing was made a member of the Democratic Executive Committee by the convention at Frankfort, last week. He succeeds Joseph L. Elliston, of Covington.

Mr. William Wilkie, of Union, an old and honorable citizen died last week. He was one of those who went to California in 1849 when the gold fever was raging.

Miss Katie Smith has returned from her visit to her sister, Mrs. Coleman, of Alabama. She was delighted with her visit and the people with whom she formed an acquaintance in the sunny South.

Devotional department of Epworth League will meet in the Methodist church next Sunday at 7:45 p. m.

The Methodists are going to repair their church, drain foundation, repair back wall and repaper and repaint.

The Methodists held their Third Quarterly Meeting at this place, last Saturday and Sunday. Rev. R. M. Lee preached in place of Rev. J. R. Deering, Presiding Elder, who could not be present. The occasion was a pleasant and profitable one.

The Literary Department of the Epworth League will meet at 7:45 p. m., at the Methodist church, Friday evening, June 11, 1897. The following is the program: Opening song by League; Address, J. C. Revill; Extract of the life of Whittier, Mrs. C. C. Hughes; Poem by Whittier, Katie Runyan; Song by children; Select Reading, Mrs. W. L. Riddell; Organ Solo, Herbert McKim; Recitation, Lottie Hall; Dialogue, Annie and Lottie Garrison; Essay, Miss Katherine Winston; Recitation, Essie Barker. Organ Solo, Jennie Blyth; Song by children; Recitation, Birdie Martin; Solo, Mrs. Lizzie Berkshire; Address by President; Closing Song by League.

A CARD OF THANKS.

We desire, through the columns of your paper to extend to our neighbors and friends our kindest thanks for the kind sympathy shown us in our sad affliction in the loss of a wife and mother. M. B. Green and family. Grant, Ky., June 5th.

Rev. H. N. Brown will preach at the Universalist church in Burlington, next Sunday morning and evening, June 13th.

The personal estate of the late F. A. Tanner will be sold at public sale at 1 o'clock Thursday, June 17th.

Quarterly court was in session yesterday with a small docket.

COUNTY COURT.

W. A. Tanner was appointed administrator of F. A. Tanner, deceased. Benjamin Surface, B. A. Floyd and John Surface were appointed appraisers.

Mike Cahill was granted license to keep tavern in Florence with the privilege of retailing spirituous, vinous and malt liquors.

On motion of Henry Phipps, R. A. Brady, O. P. Conner and Charles Kelly were appointed commissioners to view a proposed change in the Middle creek church road.

On motion of James Taylor, W. W. Grimsley, Samuel Ewalt and G. M. Allen were appointed commissioners to view a proposed change in public road near James Taylor's

A miserable impostor is working his game on some of the neighboring cities selling from house to house a salve which he guarantees to cure warts All sensible people know that the only way to remove a wart is to rub it with a half raw potato, which is afterwards to be buried by a cross-eyed negro in the northwest corner of a graveyard at midnight in the dark of the moon. As the potato decays the wart will disappear. This wart salve put up in tin boxes is a delusion and a snare.

We, M. T. Garnett and J. C. Revill appointed by W. L. Riddell to examine the guesses on the recent election for the prizes offered by the RECORDER, find that but three made correct guesses, viz: First—B. F. Kelly, April 13th; second—J. L. Jones, May 3d; third—J. E. Smith, May 28.

J. C. REVILL.
M. T. GARNETT.

The prizes are ready for the successful guessers, when called for.

M. C. Carroll was made cook on the Salt river packet at his especial request. He says he has had so much good eating during the past few months that he believes himself fully qualified to fill the position to the entire satisfaction of all the passengers.

Elmer Beall lost his K. P. watch charm somewhere out on the Bellevue pike Tuesday morning. The finder will please return it to this office.

The Burlington ball team did up the Erlangers, the other day, by a score of 27 to 13.

For sale—Some high bred Durham heifers. W. L. Gaines, Richwood.

Some tobacco was moving towards the market Tuesday.

It is time you were getting that tobacco set out.

The rain, Monday, made the roads mudy again.

The blue-grass is a rank growth this season.

Geo. Heard got two votes for assessor

Lots of chickens are dying.

There are some cherries.

Fishing not good.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.
Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.
Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,
MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.
For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.
L. Dwyer's Adm'r., &c. Plffs.
vs
L. Dwyer's creditors, &c., Defts.

This cause is now refered to J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this county, who will ascertain and report the amount, kind and value of the estate of the decedent, whether real, personal or mixed and where the same is located. He will ascertain and report what debts, if any were owing by decedent at the time of his death and to that end all persons holding claims against said estate will present same to said Berkshire proven according to law on or before August 1st, 1897, and said Berkshire will give due notice of the time and place of his sittings through the Boone Co., Recorder. He will also settle the accounts of Mellison R. Dwyer administratrix, and report among other things the cost of administration.

Witness my hand as clerk of said court, this April 30th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

W. N. HIND & CO.
213 W. FIFTH ST.
CINCINNATI, O.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn St., Chicago.

Andy Scheben,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF Wines, Liquors
AND BRANDY.
Old Bourbon, $2.00 Per Gallon.
LEXINGTON PIKE,
ERLANGER, - - - KY.
Near Town Hall.

Subscribe for the RECORDER

WE Want to be Kept Busy.

It costs us as much to do nothing as to be busy, so that our time may be fully employed we quote the following

—Very Low Prices:—

Stand. Granulated Sugar, 21 lbs.	$1 00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound, -	15c
Oil Sardines per can, - -	3c
Mustard Sardines per can, -	5c
Ladies Fine Shoes, - - -	$1 00
Gent's Fine Shoes, per pair,	$1 00
Headlight Oil, per gallon, - -	9c
Binding Twine per 100 lbs. -	$5.75

Give us a Call W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.
BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,
BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.,
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS,
Notions, Groceries, Etc.
Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!
at Lowest : Cash : Prices.
Lime and Cement always on hand.
Market : Price : Paid : for : Produce.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.
The J. L. BILL
Coffee and Tea Co.
THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.
12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,
COVINGTON, KY.
WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

SENSATIONAL BARGAINS!
Clothing Sacrificed! See!
A full Suit of Men's Clothing for only, ...$3.50,
worth double, and this is only a sample.
We invite inspection all along the line.....
Shoes, Tinware, Groceries, Dress Goods, Etc.
MILLINERY
Ladies, you will be surprised to see the nice things we have to offer you, and prices are waydown.
In fact we have a full line of General Merchandise, and prices are in keeping with the times.
We Guarantee Quality Also.
COME AND SEE,
T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Keystone Buggy Company,
CINCINNATI, - - OHIO.,
FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS,
—MANUFACTURERS—
Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles.
As $67 Like Cut.

Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent
QUALITY AT A VERY LOW PRICE.
Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.
All Jobs Made to Order. Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.
References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sothern, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigler, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Utzinger; Rolla Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Utz, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.
Call on or address,
R. L. BRADFORD, Hebron, Ky.,
Agent for Boone County.
TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : KY.

WHEN PETER SANG.

When Peter sang the rafters rang,
He made the great church reel;
His voice it rang a clarion clang,
Or like a cannon's peal.
Yes, Peter made the rafters ring
And never curbed his tongue;
Albeit Peter could not sing,
Yet Peter always sung.
Ah, wide did he his wild voice fling
Promiscuous and free;
Despite the fact he could not sing,
Why, all the more sang he.
With clamorous clang
And resonant bang
His thunders round he flung;
He could not sing
One single thing;
Yet Peter always sung.

The choir sang loud and all the crowd
Took up the holy strain;
But Peter's bawl rose over all
Tempestuously plain.
The organ roared and madly poured
Its music flood around,
But Peter drowned its anthem loud
In cataracts of sound.
The people hushed, the choir grew still,
Still grew the organ's tone,
Then Peter's voice rose loud and shrill,
For Peter sang alone.
His clamorous shout
Had drowned them out
And silenced every tongue:
He could not sing
One single thing,
Yet Peter always sung.

When Peter died the people cried,
For Peter he was good,
Although his voice produced a noise
Not easily withstood.
Though many cried when Peter died
And gained his golden lyre,
They nursed a heartfelt sympathy
For Heaven's augmented choir.
They knew where'er his soul might be
Loud would his accents ring,
He'd sing through all eternity
The songs he could not sing.
The heavenly choir
He'd make perspire
And Heavenly arches ring;
Though he can't sing
One single thing
Forevermore he'll sing.
—Sam Walter Foss, in N. Y. Sun.

In the Days of Old.

BY EVERETT T. TOMLINSON.

(Copyright, 1897.)

"WE couldn't move the old fellow, Tom. He's as obstinate as a mule."

"I didn't think you could get him. He isn't that kind."

"So much the worse for him. We've been up to his place twice to-day. We offered him a good position and promised him protection, but he never answered a word. I'm sorry for the old man, but to-morrow he'll have to take the oath or swing for it."

"He'll swing, then, for he'll never take it. I know Judge Williams—he's got his mind made up, and that's the end of it."

"Well, it's his own choice; he has nobody to blame but himself."

The speaker turned and left the two boys with whom he had been talking. He was a sergeant serving under Tarleton, who had dispatched a band of a hundred men to scour that portion of South Carolina in the summer of 1780 and drive out the whigs or compel them to take the oath of allegiance to the British king. They had encamped for the night under the shelter of a hill, on the summit of which was the home of Judge Williams, a stalwart whig, and their two visits to him that afternoon had not availed to shake the old man's resolution.

The two boys to whom the young sergeant had been relating the story of the fruitless attempts were Tom Crowell and John Blake. Tom's mother was a widow, and when a detachment of Tarleton's men had stopped at her home on the preceding day and offered him his choice between leaving the country or joining their band, one look at the children and one thought of the suffering which his mother might be compelled to undergo had decided him. Forgetting loyalty to country for the sake of his mother and the children, he had yielded. A similar offer to his friend and neighbor, John Blake, had made him yield also; and much against their will the two boys found themselves serving under the British flag. They were not given much liberty, however, and soon saw that they were regarded with suspicion in spite of the oath they had taken.

"I say, John," said Tom, soon after the interview with the sergeant, when both boys lay wrapped in their blankets on the ground, "I wish we'd done as Judge Williams has. That's what my sister Nancy wanted me to do all the time."

"We couldn't help it," replied John. "What could two boys only 18 years old do, I'd like to know?"

"Oh, we had to do it, I reckon. Still, somehow, I wish we hadn't. I wonder what the judge will do now?"

"Sh!" whispered John. "Here comes the guard." And both became silent and were soon asleep.

Meanwhile Judge Williams was doing his utmost to answer Tom's question. He fully realized that the morrow would see the matter decided, and he knew too much about the sufferings of his whig neighbors to be long in doubt as to what would happen. The energetic old man promptly decided that it would be better for him to act than to leave it all with Tarleton's men, and accordingly, soon after sunset, he sent his faithful servants in every direction to summon those of his neighbors upon whom he knew he could rely. Slowly the men began to gather at his home. They came singly, or by twos or threes, and every man had his flintlock. A whispered word from the judge explained the purpose of the call, and a decided nod was the reply of each as he took his seat and waited in silence.

By midnight 25 men were there. An hour later five more had arrived. They waited another hour; then, as only three more had come, the judge decided that it was time for action. Thirty-three men against a hundred! What could they hope to do?

No time was allowed for thinking out such problems, however, and the determined band passed silently out into the darkness. Not a word was spoken except by the leader, and like moving shadows they advanced slowly down the hill towards the camp of Capt. Eddy. There were faint streaks of light in the eastern sky when they halted and crept forward on their hands and knees to within a few yards of Tarleton's men. Then, at a signal from the leader, they all arose and stood together, waiting for the final word. The gray of the dawn had already appeared. They could discern the forms of the guards as they paced back and forth near the camp, and the outlines of the tents.

"All ready," said the judge, in a low voice. "Now, then!"

A shout from the united band broke upon the stillness of the early morning. There was a swift rush forward and the calls and cries were redoubled. To the startled band in the camp it seemed as if bowling enemies were on every side of them. They leaped to their feet and made a rush for their guns. Before these could be reached, however, a volley rang out. The startled men no longer sought their guns. They darted into the woods in every direction, intent now only upon their own safety. But not all went. There were cries and groans, and many fell to the ground.

"Are you hit, Tom?" said John. The boys had been startled with the others, and, crouching low, had started to run from the camp.

"No," replied Tom. "Are you?"

"No. Drop to the ground. Pretend you're hit. Maybe we can get away. Quick. Lie on your face." And in a moment both fell prostrate on the ground and lay still. Over them swept pursuers and pursued. Others lay on the ground close by, but with them there was no deceit. Some were groaning or crying, some would never speak again. Above all sounded the shouts of the soldiers farther and farther away.

For half an hour the boys did not move, even to raise their heads. Some one might be watching, and the slightest sign might mean for them a real, not a feigned death. But at last Tom heard a party approaching. Slowly he turned his head. Yes, there they were, a dozen at least, and he thought they wore no uniforms. It must be that the attacking party were now returning. So thought Tom, and suddenly standing upright, he called to his companions: "Come on, John, we're all right now. They've driven the tories off and we're among friends again."

Suddenly he stopped and looked in confusion at the men before him. He had made a mistake; they were not the men who had made the attack. There was the young sergeant, and beside him were some of Tarleton's men whom he recognized at once.

EACH GRAVE WAS SURMOUNTED BY A TINY FLAG.

In confusion he was about to turn and run, when he was suddenly surrounded; before he could offer any resistance his hands and feet were securely bound, and he was thrown heavily upon the ground. John was served in a similar manner. Then the young officer said: "Yes, you're among friends; you are, indeed. We'll do you a friendly turn, we will. You young rascals, probably you helped set this party on us. They scattered us a bit, but we've got together again now, and they're the ones that are running. As soon as Capt. Eddy comes we'll attend to you fellows."

John made no reply. What could he say? He knew only too well what in all probability was before him. Tom was silent, too; with hopeless eyes they looked about them in their despair.

Hark! Some one was coming. Tom looked up and saw Capt. Eddy and a band of his men. Their faces were flushed, and as they came into the camp the boy could see that he was almost beside himself with rage.

The young sergeant stepped up to the captain and said a few words which Tom could not hear; but there was no doubt about their effect. Suddenly Capt. Eddy turned, and approaching the prisoners [illegible] "They did, did they? String 'em up! String 'em up on the first tree!" In a moment the boys were lifted from the ground and carried by the angry men to a tree by the roadside, the captain leading the way. There they halted.

Two days afterwards an old man, bent and gray and marked by suffering, crept up to the door of Mistress Crowell's home and rapped.

"My good woman," he began when the door was opened.

"Mercy on us!" exclaimed the woman. "It's Judge Williams."

"I was Judge Williams once. Now I'm an outcast. I've been in the woods two days and two nights. This morning I came out; and there, hanging from a long limb which reached out over the road, were two bodies."

The woman was gazing at him now with an expression of agony on her face. She tried to speak, but the words would not come.

"Was one of them Tom?" It was Nancy, Tom's sister, who was speaking, and her voice was low and firm.

"Yes," replied the judge, softly. "I thought you ought to know."

"I'm going there," said Nancy, firmly.

"No, no!" interrupted the judge, quickly. "There's a placard warning everyone against cutting him down or giving him Christian burial. Oh! It's horrible, horrible! Were ever such villains on earth before?"

"I'm going there," repeated Nancy, quietly. "Come Betty, you come with me. Mother, you'd better lie down while I'm gone. I'll be back soon."

The judge stopped as he entered the road and watched Nancy and her younger sister as they passed out of sight.

On went the girls, neither speaking, until at last they came in sight of something that caused them both to stop. A sob which Nancy could not check escaped her, and she covered her face with her hands.

"I'm afraid, Nancy," whispered Betty. "Let's go home."

"No," replied Nancy, firmly, "we'll go on now."

The resolute girl went through her terrible task almost unaided. A shallow grave just within the borders of the forest was dug, and there both the young soldiers were laid for their final rest.

"Where you going now, Nancy?" inquired Betty, when, after their return to the house, Nancy started forth again.

"I'm going there with these." She held up two little flags which one of Sumter's men had given her not long before. Flags were scarce in those days, and Nancy had prized them the more highly in consequence. She would put these to a good use. The head of each grave was soon surmounted by a tiny flag. A wreath of wild summer roses was made and reverently placed on each mound. Then, satisfied that her duty was done, Nancy stepped out into the road, to return.

"Nancy, there's a red coat," whispered Betty, pulling at her sister's dress.

Nancy glanced up and saw a soldier standing before her. Without doubt he had been watching her all the time, and as she thought of the warning of the placard her face grew pale.

"What have you been doing?" asked the soldier.

"Decorating the graves of my brother and his friend, whom you hung."

He looked at her a moment in silence; then turning, left her without a word. And Nancy, never knowing that she had just been doing a deed which almost a hundred years later the new nation would take up and make a national custom, also turned, and in silence sought her home, to comfort her heart-broken mother.

All the Same.

A young doctor who had begun practicing in his native county was one day called in to visit an old man.

"Oh, you be Maister N., be you?" said the patient.

"Yes, I am."

"Well, to be sure, now! I remember traipsing to Bodmin to see your grand'fa'r hanged."

"Did you, though?"

"Yes, I did; I remember it as well as if 'twas only yesterday."

"Well," said the doctor, "you are partly right, but only partly. It was my grandfather who was murdered, and two young fellows named L—— who suffered for it."

"Ay, that's just what I said," remarked the old man.—Pall Mall Magazine.

Unlicensed Dogs.

In Larned, Kan., not only is the life of an unlicensed dog forfeited, but its owner must pay a fine.

SERMON TO PHYSICIANS.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Points Out the Good That Can Be Done

By the Medical Profession, and Testifies to Their Great Work for Mankind—King Asa Called Upon Earthly Physicians, But God He Hated and Defied.

Dr. Talmage's text Sunday was: II. Chron. xvi. 12, 13: "And Asa, in the thirty and ninth year of his reign, was diseased in his feet until his disease was exceeding great; yet in his disease he sought not the Lord, but to the physicians. And Asa slept with his fathers."

At this season of the year, when medical colleges of all schools of medicine are giving diplomas to young doctors, and at the capital and in many of the cities medical associations are assembling to consult about the advancement of their profession, I feel this discourse is appropriate.

In my text is King Asa with the gout. High living and no exercise have vitiated his blood, and my text presents him with his inflamed and bandaged feet on an ottoman. In defiance of God, whom he hated, he sends for certain conjurers or quacks. They come and give him all sorts of lotions and penaceas. They bleed him. They sweat him. They manipulate him. They blister him. They poultice him. They scarify him. They drug him. They cut him. They kill him. He was only a young man, and had a disease which, though very painful, seldom proves fatal to a young man, and he ought to have got well; but he fell a victim to charlatanry and empiricism. "And Asa, in the thirty and ninth year of his reign, was diseased in his feet, until his disease was exceeding great; yet in his discase he sought not the Lord, but to the physicians. And Asa slept with his fathers." That is, the doctors killed him.

In this sharp and graphic way the Bible sets forth the truth, that you have no right to shut God out from the realm of pharmacy and therapeutics. If Asa had said: "O Lord, I am sick; bless the instrumentality employed for my recovery!" "Now, servant, go and get the best doctor you can find"—he would have recovered. In other words, the world wants divinely physicians.

There are a great many such. The diplomas they received from the academies of medicines were nothing compared with the diploma they received from the Head Physician of the universe on the day when they started out and He said to them: Go heal the sick, and cast ont the devils of pain, and open the blind eyes, and unstop the deaf ears." God bless the doctors all the world over! and let all the hospitals, and dispensaries, and infirmaries, and asylums, and domestic circles of the earth respond, "Amen."

Men of the medical profession we often meet in the home of distress. We shake hands across the cradle of agonized infancy. We join each other in an attempt of solace where the paroxysm of grief demands an anodyne as well as a prayer. We look into each other's sympathetic faces through the dusk, as the night of death is falling in the sick room. We do not have to climb over any barrier to-day in order to greet each other, for our professions are in full sympathy. You, doctor, are our first and last earthly friend. You stand at the gates of life when we enter this world, and you stand at the gates of death when we go out of it. In the closing moments of our earthly existence when the hand of the wife, the mother, or sister, or daughter, shall hold our right hand, it will give strength to our dying moment if we can feel the tips of your fingers along the pulse of the left wrist. We do not meet to-day, as on other days, in houses of distress, but by the pleasant altars of God, and I propose a sermon of helpfulness and good cheer. As in the nursery children sometimes re-enact all the scenes of the sick room, so to-day you play that you are the patient and that I am the physician, and take my prescription just once. It shall be a tonic, a sedative, a dietetic, a disinfectant, a stimulus, and an anodyne at the same time. "Is there not a balm in Gilead? Is there not a physician there?"

In the first place, I think that all the medical profession should become Christians because of the debt of gratitude they owe to God for the honor he has put upon their calling. No other calling in all the world, except it be that of the Christian ministry, has received so great an honor as yours. Christ himself was not only preacher, but physician, surgeon, aurist, ophthalmologist, and under his mighty power optic and auditory nerve thrilled with light and sound, and catalepsy arose from its fit, and the club foot was straightened, and anchylosis went out of the stiffened tendons, and the foaming maniac became placid as a child, and the streets of Jerusalem became an extemporized hospital, crowded with convalescent victims of casualty and invalidism. All ages have woven the garland for the doctor's brow. Homer said:

A wise physician, skilled our wounds to heal,
Is more than armies to the public weal.

Cicero said: "There is nothing in which men so approach the gods as when they try to give health to other men." Charles IX. made proclamation that all Protestants in France should be put to death on St. Bartholomew's day, but made one exception, and that the case of Pare, the father of French surgery. The battlefields of the American revolution welcomed Drs. Mercer, Warren and Rush. When the French army was demoralized at fear of plague, the leading surgeon of that army inoculated himself with the plague to show the soldiers there was no contagion in it; and their courage rose, and they went on to the conflict. God has honored this profession all the way through. On the advancement from the days when Hippocrates tried to cure the great Pericles with hellebore and flaxseed poultices down to far later centuries when Haller announced the theory of respiration, and Harvey the circulation of the blood, and Ascell the uses of the lymphatic vessels, and Jenner balked the worst disease that ever scourged Europe, and Sydenham developed the recuperative forces of the physical organism, and cinchona bark stopped the shivering agues of the world, and Sir Astley Cooper and Abernethy, and Hosack, and Romeyn, and Dr. Gibson, and Valentine Mott of the generation just past, honored God, and fought back death with their keen scalpels.

If we who are laymen in medicine would understand what the medical profession has accomplished for the insane, let us look into the dungeons where the poor creatures used to be incarcerated. Madmen chained naked to the wall. A kennel of rotten straw their only sleeping place. Room unventilated and unlighted. The worst calamity of the race punished with the very worst punishment. Then come and look at the insane asylums of Utica and Kirkbride—sofaed, and pictured, libraried, concerted, until all the arts and adornments comes to coax recreant reason to assume her throne. Look at Edward Jenner, the great hero of medicine. Four hundred thousand people annually dying in Europe from the smallpox. Jenner finds that by the inoculation of people with vaccine from a cow the great scourge of nations may be arrested. The ministers of the Gospel denounced vaccination; small wits caricatured Edward Jenner as riding in a procession on the back of a cow; and grave men expressed it as their opinion that all the diseases of the brute creation would be transplanted into the human family; and they gave instances where, they said, actually horns had come out on the foreheads of innocent persons, and people had begun to chew the cud! But Dr. Jenner, the hero of medicine, went on fighting for vaccination until it has been estimated that one doctor, in 50 years, has saved more lives than all the battles of any one century destroyed!

Passing along the streets of Edinburgh a few weeks after the death of Sir James Y. Simpson, I saw the photograph of the doctor in all the windows of the shops and stores, and well might that photograph be put in every window, for he first used chloroform as an anaesthetic agent. In other days they tried to dull human pain by the hashcesh of the Arabs and the madrepore of the Roman and the Greek, but it was left to Dr. James Simpson to introduce chloroform as an anaesthetic—Asa for the writhing subjects of surgery in other centuries! Blessed be God for the wet sponge or vial, in the hand of the operating surgeon in the clinical department of the medical college, or in the sick room of the domestic circle, or on the battlefield amid thousands of amputations. Napoleon after a battle rode along the line and saw under a tree, standing in the snow, Larrey, the surgeon, operating upon the wounded. Napoleon passed on, and 24 hours afterward came along the same place, and he saw the same surgeon operating in the same place and he had not left it. Alas for the battlefields without chloroform.

But now, the soldier boy takes a few breathes from the sponge and forgets all the pang of the gunshot fracture, and while the surgeons of the field hospital are standing around him he lies there dreaming of home, and mother, and Heaven. No more parents standing around a suffering child, struggling to get away from the sharp instrument, but mild slumber instead of excruciation, and the child wakes up and says: "Father, what's the matter? What's the doctor here to-day for?" Oh, blessed be God for James Y. Simpson and the Heaven-descended mercies of chloroform.

The medical profession steps into the conrtroom, and, after conflicting witnesses have left everything in a fog, by chemical analysis shows its guilt or innocence of the prisoner, as by mathematical demonstration, thus adding honors to medical jurisprudence.

This profession has done wonders for public hygiene! How often have they stood between this nation and Asiatic cholera, and the yellow fever? The monuments in Greenwood, and Mt. Auburn, and Laurel Hill tell something of the story of those men who stood face to face with pestilence in Southern cities, until, staggering in their own sickness, they stumble across the corpse of those whom they had come to save. This profession has been the successful abosess of ventilation, sewerage, drainage and fumigation, until their sentiments were well expressed by Lord Palmerston, when he said to the English nation at the time a fast had been proclaimed to keep off a great pestilence: "Clean your streets or death will ravage, notwithstanding all the prayers of this nation. Clean your streets and then call on God for help."

See what this profession has done for human longevity. There was such a fearful subtraction from human life that there was a prospect that within a few centuries this world would be left almost inhabitantless. Adam started with a whole eternity of earthly existence before him; but he cut off the most of it, and only comparatively few years were left—only 700 years of life, and then 500, and then 400, and then 200, and then 100, and then 50, and then the average of human life came to 40, and then it dropped to 30. But the medical science came in, and since the 16th century the average of human life has risen from 18 years to 44; and it will continue to rise until the average of human life will be 50, and it will be 60, and it will be 70, and a man will have no right to die before 90, and the prophecy of Isaiah will be literally fulfilled. "And the child shall die a hundred years old." The millenium for the souls of men will be the millenium for the bodies of men. Sin done, disease will be done—the clergyman and the physician getting through with their work at the same time.

But it seems to me that the most beautiful benediction of the medical profession has been dropped upon the poor. No excuse now for any one not having scientific attendance. Dispensaries and infirmaries everywhere under the control of the best doctors, some of them poorly paid, some of them not paid at all. A half-starved woman comes out from the low tenement house into the dispensary, and unwraps the rags from her babe, a bundle of ulcers, and rheum, and pustules, and over that little sufferer beads the accumulated wisdom of the ages, from Esculapius down to last week's autopsy. In one dispensary, in one year, 150,000 prescriptions were issued. Why do I show you what God has allowed this profession to do? Is it to stir up your vanity? Oh, no. The day has gone by for pompous doctors, with conspicuous gold-headed canes and powdered wigs, which were the accompaniments in the days when the barber used to carry through the streets of London Dr. Brockelsby's wig, to the admiration and awe of the people, saying: "Make way! here comes Dr. Brockelsby's wig." No, I announce these things not only to increase the appreciation of laymen in regard to the work of physicians, but to stir in the hearts of men of the medical profession a feeling of gratitude to God that they have been allowed to put their hand to such a magnificent work, and that they have been called into such illustrious company. Have you never felt a spirit of gratitude for this opportunity? Do you not feel thankful now? Then I am afraid, doctor, you are not a Christian, and that old proverb which Christ quoted in his sermon may be appropriate to you: "Physician, heal thyself."

Another reason why I think the medical profession ought to be Christians, is because there are so many trials and annoyances in that profession that need positive Christian solace. I know you have the gratitude of a great many good people, and I know it must be a grand thing to walk intelligently through the avenues of human life, and with anatomic skill poise yourself on the nerves and fibers which cross and recross this wonderful physical system.

I suppose a skilled eye can see more beauty even in malformation than an architect can point out in any of his structures, though it be the very triumph of arch and plinth and abacus. But how many annoyances and trials the medical profession have. Dr. Rush used to say, in his valeditory address to the students of the medical college: "Young gentlemen, have two pockets—a small pocket and a big pocket; a small pocket in which to put your fees, a large pocket in which to put your annoyances."

In the first place, the physician has no Sabbath. Busy merchants, and lawyers, and mechanics, can not afford to be sick during the secular week, and so they nurse themselves along with lozenges and horehound candy until Sabbath morning comes, and then they say, "I must have a doctor." And that spoils the Sabbath morning church service for the physician. Besides that, there are a great many men who dine but once a week with their families. During the secular days they take a hasty lunch at the restaurant, and on the Sabbath they make up for their six days' abstinence by especial gormandizing, which before night makes their amazed digestive organs cry out for a doctor and that spoils the evening church service for the physician.

Then they are annoyed by people coming too late. Men wait until the last fortress of physical strength is taken, and death has dug around it the trench of the grave, and then they run for the doctor. The slight fever which might have been cured with a foot bath has become violent typhus, and the hacking cough killing pneumonia. As though a captain should sink his ship off Amaganastt, and then put ashore in a yawl, and then come to New York to the marine office and want to get his vessel insured. Too late for the ship; too late for the patient.

Then there are many who always blame the doctor because the people die, forgetting the Divine enactment: "It is appointed unto all men once to die." The father in medicine who announced the fact that he had discovered the art by which to make men in this world immortal, himself died at 47 years of age, showing that immortality was less than half a century for him. Oh, how easy it is when people die to cry out, "Malpractice."

Then the physician must bear with all the whims, and the sophistries, and the deceptions, and the stratagems, and the irritations of the shattered nerves and the beclouded brain of women, and more especially of men, who never know how gracefully to be sick, and who with their salivated mouth curse the doctor, giving him his dues, as they say—about the only dues he will in that case collect. The last bill that is paid is the doctor's bill. It seems so incoherent for a restored patient, with ruddy cheeks and rotund form, to be bothered with a bill charging him for old calomel and jalap. The physicians of this country do more missionary work without charge than all the other professions put together. From the concert room, from the merry party, from the comfortable couch on a cold night, when the thermometer is five degrees below zero, the doctor must go right away; he always must go right away. To keep up under this nervous strain, to go through this night work, to bear all these annoyances, many physicians have resorted to strong drink and perished. Others have appealed to God for sympathy and help, and have lived. Which were the wise doctors, judge ye?

THE feat of the Baltimore bicycler, who rode 170 miles in 12 hours and 314 miles in 24 hours, seems to show that the new motor is superior to the horse in more ways than one. It is not only insensible to fatigue, but is superior in point of both speed and endurance. Possibly the best record ever made by a horse was that by the animal ridden by Count Stahrenburg, in October, 1882, which covered the distance from Vienna to Berlin, four hundred miles, in 71 hours and 34 minutes. This was far inferior to the 314 miles made by human muscle with the aid of the machine in 24 hours.

JINGO AND TARIFF TINKERERS.

Blindness of the Republican Leaders in Congress.

There is no doubt that action or non-action of congress is making the state of business and industrial affairs worse day by day. At least the antics of the reckless partisan and jingo politicians are preventing all tendencies toward a general trade and labor revival.

Congress in both branches seems to be utterly insensible to the fact that the disturbance in values caused by the menaces of tariff legislation and that the insecurity of investments caused by the feverish war talk at Washington are the causes of continued business depression and of all the evils that have been perpetrated by hard times. There should be a change of some kind—a wave of popular influence or a political shock—that would bring congress to its senses.

This is the sentiment of all the men in business and in the employ meats of industry. A representative business journal, the Financial Chronicle, speaking of the senate action regarding Cuba, says:

"Every senator who is not given over to silver and who has any regard for our suffering country must feel that such proceedings are in every way detrimental, delaying business revival and destroying every hope of speedy recovery. It is foolish amid such goings on to talk about signs of business improvement, as some are trying to do. There are no such signs and can be none until our legislators in Washington stop playing the fool and go to work earning their wages like the rest of us, trying to build up instead of pull down."

But what can be expected? A report of a conversation with Senator Morgan, the Cuban leader in the senate, says that he was asked as to the prospects of war with Spain if the United States should recognize the indepcndence of Cuba. "War will come," he is said to have replied in an airy way. "How long will it last?" he was asked. "Twenty-five days," he replied. "How much will it cost?" added the interviewer. "Oh, about $50,000,000," said the Alabama jingo statesman. "But," he is said to have added, "war will help the country, and bring better times."

This is preposterous. A war with Spain would be mostly at sea, and would be most especially destructive on the highways of our sea coast commerce. Spanish cruisers, perhaps privateers, swarming out of all the ports of commerce, would sweep American merchant commerce from the seas off our southern Atlantic and gulf coasts.

The coastwise commerce of the United States is all that we have of value. Our trans-Atlantic commerce is mostly carried in foreign ships. Our navigation laws exclude foreign shipping from the commerce between our own ports. But a few fast armored vessels, such as Spain could buy and put into service in ten days, the guerillas of the sea, could drive our coastwise shipping into port and keep it there.

This is what the jingo leader calls "helping business." A few southern cruisers during the civil war damaged our commerce to the extent of hundreds of millions of dollars. A similar result would follow war with Spain.

An attempt to land a formidable American army in Cuba would be to court disaster. It might be met by an attempt of Spain to land its Cuban army on our soil. At any rate it would be attended by immense loss of life and other horrors of war. A senator who indulges in inflated persiflage on such a subject is an enemy to the country.

It is singular that the men at Washington cannot read the most obvious signs of the times. The republicans in congress—those engaged in tariff legislation and those who follow the jingo lead of Morgan—are inviting a new Bryan crusade, and its defeat would be a far more difficult task in 1900 than that of 1896.—Chicago Chronicle.

OPINIONS AND POINTERS.

——Protection, according to the new formula, is relied upon to put revenue into private pockets, and internal taxation to make good the shortage in the vaults of the treasury.—Philadelphia Record.

——The agricultural department is out with a brochure on the yellow-billed cuckoo. This is a handsome recognition of the assistance Mr. Cleveland's friends rendered during last year's campaign.—N. Y. Journal.

——The disposition to take part in the high tariff grab in order that every section may share the plunder is called a growth of protection sentiment. It is the sort of growth that will prove fatal to the whole scheme of robbery.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

——Strange to say, no member of the senate proposes to clear its reputation by proposing an inquiry. Senator Hoar, who upholds the contention that the senate has not degenerated, ought to be among the first to ask for an inquiry or at least for a coat of whitewash.—Baltimore.

——There is only one thing that stands between this country and a revival of prosperity. It is the United States senate, which, taking care of the interests of the sugar trust and other private concerns, commits the government to continued bankruptcy and the people to prolonged poverty.—N. Y. Press (Rep.).

——The American people consume annually about 2,000,000 tons of sugar, for which they pay, approximately, $90,000,000. "If the high duties proposed in either the house or the senate bill should be adopted," are the words of Senator Aldrich, "the annual cost of sugar to consumers would be more than $160,000,000." That is the proposition in its baldest terms and in his own language.—St. Paul Globe.

——Dingley's claim that his tariff bill was intended to increase the revenue was so palpably false that even the republicans of the senate finance committee were compelled to expose it and to offer 800 amendments to prevent the government [illegible] bankruptcy. The senate amendments show that the Dingley bill is intended to increase the revenue, but not the revenue of the government.—Louisville Post.

SUGAR TRUST STEAL.

Public Sentiment Strong Against "Sweetened" Legislation.

Mr. William L. Wilson, author of the Wilson tariff bill, figures out that the protection which the sugar trust will receive from the Aldrich (or senate) bill is $12,983,948, all of which will go into the pockets of half a dozen millionaires, who have already grown rich out of the favors allowed them.

"This," says Mr. Wilson, "is the amount which that bill will compel the American consumers to pay the trust in excess of what they would have to pay to foreign refiners for that quantity of sugar, and it must be increased one-fourth—namely, to $16,229,935—to show the full protection or bounty to be taken by law from consumers for the benefit of the entire refining industry of the country."

No fact stands more clearly proved than that the senate tariff bill is framed in the interest of the sugar trust, if not prepared by the trust itself. the committee being merely its organ in laying its demands before congress. We are glad that the issue is thus clearly joined and the contest made between the people and the trust.

It is said in Washington some of the Louisiana growers are disposed to favor the senate bill, on the ground that the trust is certain to win this time, as it always has done in the past, and that it is the wrong policy to antagonize it. This is, we think, a mistake. The trust has never shown itself thoughtful of the sugar growing interests, but always thoroughly selfish, and willing to sacrifice every other interest to advance its own profits. While it is true that the trust has nearly always succeeded in the past in making congress, and particularly the senate, carry out its orders, the chances were never so good for defeating it as now. The sugar growers would be benefited by getting out of the way this ogre, which has done much to bring discredit on the sugar industry, and has seriously crippled it at times.

The chances were never before so good for its defeat, for the issue is now so clearly made that each senator will be compelled to say whether he is for the trust or for the people; and, in the light of the facts recently brought out, it will be no pleasant matter for senators to declare that they will carry out the trust's orders. So at least the Herald's interviews showed, when only six senators were willing to declare that they belonged to the trust.

We believe the public sentiment on this subject is strong enough to defeat this attempt to rob the American people of some $13,000,000 a year in the interest of half a dozen millionaires.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

SENATOR JONES.

The West Has a Strong and Able Defender.

It happens fortunately for the western states that, in the closing discussion of the pending tariff bill, a western senator happens to hold the balance of power. More opportune, still, it happens that fortune's selection in this instance is a man of rare individuality. Inasmuch as McKinley's administration, in stolid forgetfulness of the calamity that the McKinley tariff of 1890 brought upon the party, has nevertheless resolved to force a high protective tariff upon the country, there is nothing inconsistent in the efforts of the advocates of the tariff for revenue to obtain in behalf of the sections they respectively represent the largest possible share of the inevitable imposition.

The eastern manufacturers and things pretty much their own way under the bill as it was passed by the house. Very positive discrimination against the farming interests of the country was a conspicuous characteristic of the Dingley bill as it came to the senate. Raw materials, as, for instance, wool and hides, and productions such as citrus fruits, were awarded but scant recognition. Especially were the producers of the lower grades of wool and the producers of hides delivered over to the mercy of the New England manufacturer. The home producers in these articles could not compete with the volume of trade from the steppes of Asia and the llanos of South America. Nevertheless the manufacturers from these materials were enormously protected.

This was the aspect of the tariff bill, in which particulars it was but slightly modified in the senate committee until Senator Jones, of Nevada, came to the rescue. Fortunately, as stated, he holds the balance of power, and is in nowise backward in exercising his prerogative in favor of extending protection as well to the producer as to the manufacturer. The senator's demands in this direction will largely increase the duty upon the lower grades of wool, upon hides, upon lead ore, upon beet sugar and upon citrus fruits and bottled olives.

Upon these latter items Senator Jones came to the aid of Senators White and Perkins and practically secured by the force of circumstances what the latter would probably have failed to obtain as a matter of simple justice. It is very gratifying to have the assurance now that if high tariff must be the policy of the country it will not be a purely sectional affair, with California excluded.—Los Angeles Herald.

——Notwithstanding the fact that the borax trade is practically in the hands of a monopoly and enjoys a tariff of 62½ per cent., Senator Aldrich has increased the Dingley schedule on that article by more than doubling the proposed tariff of 80 per cent. This will produce a revenue of about $180,000, which, instead of cheapening the product to the consumers, will swell the profits of the trust.—Chicago Chronicle.

——Mr. Dingley may find before many years that he unwittingly did a great work for free trade by demonstrating the wrongs and injustice of a protective tariff.—Louisville Dispatch.

PROFLIGACY OF WRITING.

It Is No Longer a Distinction to Be an Author.

This is an age of vigorous intellects but not of great minds. This is as evident in science as in the arts. It is the motto which every publisher should paint over his door. There were never so many vigorous intellects. The schoolgirl has one; your office boy affronts you with his vigorous intellect. It is the stigma of the age. The result has been a general leveling up—and down. There is less scholarship and more intelligence. There is less genius and more talent.

Fifty years ago it was in the way of being a distinction to have written a book. Authors were pointed out on the streets; poets had hats doffed to them. The female novelist was an exceptional person. Amazement waited upon her public appearances, as though she had been a white crow. To-day a fur surer anodyne to oblivion is to be nodded at as the man who has never written a book or a letter to a newspaper. The cause of all this profligacy of writing is not far to seek. The world is democratic, education of a sort is universal, the printing press has become a fecund and impersonal breeding monster. Of old it sat like a hen and hatched out a dozen novels in a twelvemonth; now it is an incubator, which has practically no limitations. It can hatch its thousands as easily as its scores.

Production is at the cheapest. The most anaemic schoolgirl can publish her novel for a few hundred dollars, even if the speculative publishers reject it. And literature—who used to be a retiring and august dame—has gone down into the highways and byways. She may be found in the boudoir and in the nursery, on the race track and in the barber shop. If you are beset now and again by a curious, eager wish to look into the future, you have often asked yourself what the outcome of this is to be. It is evident that literature is coming home to men's bosoms and business. There can be no question of this fact. Most of us write, and all of us read. The wisdom that used to be kept in the jars of the pundits has been spread thin over the whole generation. No one of us is very wise, but, taken all together, we know more than our ancestors. Wisdom was a five-pound note, which one man carried in his pocketbook; to-day it is changed into coppers, and each one has his tuppence.

Books are cheap—even good books are wantonly cheap. For $50 you can buy a better classical library than Christopher North could have bought for $500. More than that, for a few cents you can buy a newspaper containing more sound literature than your grandfather could have got for twice as many dollars. The popularization of literature is the most notable fact of to-day—more notable than the mechanical progress of which it is the exponent. It is inevitable that the average should be low. You cannot get quantity and quality. The machine which makes things cheap and plentiful makes them insignificant. Books are set up and printed by machinery. Some of them are not even written by hand—Mr. Howells uses a typewriter. This is natural. There is an immense market, which can only be supplied by tireless machinery. In this race to supply a demand the man of genius goes under. There is no place for him.

None of the books written to-day will surprise posterity. We are a happy, intellectual and mediocre generation. We are prodigal and fecund, but we lack distinction. Literature has become a trade, in spite of some desperate endeavors to raise it to the dignity of a sport. This result is perfectly logical in an age the shibboleth of which is the greatest good of the greatest number. It is better that every man should have a Waterbury than that one man should have a Tobias.

What is true of literature is equally true of the arts. One need not assume the airs of a prophet in foreseeing the time when oil painting will be done by machinery. The statue makers have already shown the way. Democracy demands the merely clever workman, because it is he—and not the man of genius—who contributes most to the general comfort, physical or intellectual. The tendency is easily discerned. Books will grow cheaper and more plentiful; little by little the line between journalism and literature will be obliterated; the state of literature will correspond to the social state.

The tendency is not deplorable; it is, indeed, the most hopeful sign of the day. The greater danger of the future lies in the greed of the unintelligent rich and the despair of the unintelligent poor. The best weapon against this danger is the printing press. For it is only unintelligence that is dangerous. —N. Y. Advertiser.

Twisting Tobacco.

When the raw leaf tobacco reaches the factory it is in large hogsheads, packed tightly and done up in "hands," just as it comes from the curing house. The first process is to strip the stems out of the wide red leaves and smooth the heaviest of them into long strips for wrappers. These are dampened so they will roll readily without bursting, then they are handed over to the skilled workmen, who turn them into handsome twists like magic. This process is most interesting and shows what skill may be acquired by practice. Each workman stands at a long table, upon which is piled the loose fillers and wrappers. At his right is a pail provided with a slat bottom, which allows the twists to dry. Deftly taking up a handful of loose tobacco and two long, slender leaves, the workman quickly transforms the mass into a long roll and doubles it into an ounce or two-ounce twist. Each workman has a small counter scale at hand, set to weigh the exact amount of tobacco he is to put in each twist. So skillful do these men become that they scarcely ever miss the correct weight the fraction of an ounce. The best workmen roll from 1,800 to 2,100 of these twists a day.—Kansas City Star.

ASTRONOMERS AT WAR.

Director Holden and Prof. Hussey, of Lick Observatory, at Outs.

Trouble Starts with the Resignation of Prof. Barnard—Efforts Looking to a Reconciliation to Be Made.

Director Holden and Prof. Hussey, of Lick observatory, are at outs. A peace commission is already on its way to the scene of hostilities, headed by Judge C. W. Slack and directed by the regents, to hear their grievances, to arbitrate their differences if possible, and, if not, to recommend some course that will restore harmony among the astronomers. Timothy Guy Phelps will probably assist in the investigation. Gov. Budd was to have been present, but was recalled to Sacramento on business.

The difficulty began with the inability of Prof. Holden and his subordinates to agree. After the resignation of Prof. Barnard, Holden recommended Prof. Hussey, of Stanford university, for the vacancy. At first Hussey refused, but afterwards he reconsidered and accepted the offer. The new astronomer declares that Prof. Holden told him he was to take Barnard's place and go on with Barnard's work.

Director Holden has represented to Judge Slack and others of the regents that Hussey was never employed under any such agreement.

Judge Slack is anxious to compromise the matter if possible. He thinks both men may be satisfied, and hopes to prevent any breach of the peace, though the two men have not had written communication with each other for some time and affairs are quite as frigid on top of the mountains as they were during Barnard's residence there.

TO EXPLORE HUDSON BAY.

Canadian Government Expedition Will Soon Sail in the Diana.

The steamer Diana, which will carry the government expedition to Hudson bay, arrived at Halifax, N. S., the other day from St. Johns, N. F., and will be provisioned at once for her long sojourn in the north. The Diana is a fine steamer for ice work, and was specifically selected on that account. The scientific party and the ship's crew will make the number on board over 50. The exploration of Hudson straits is expected to be the most far-reaching in results of any yet attempted. The purpose of the expedition is to discover the period for which Hudson straits are navigable, in order that grain steamers may run through and load wheat from England at Fort Churchill, which will be the terminus of a railway to be built there from Manitoba. In addition to the various scientific investigations which will be made there will also be an attempt to learn the fishing possibilities of this vast body of water. The steamer will, if possible, leave here about May 20, go around by the front of Newfoundland, and proceed north to her destination, taking her chances of working in through the ice. If all goes well, she will return about the end of October.

MAIL BOXES ON STREET CARS.

Unique Experiment Tried by Postal Authorities at Des Moines.

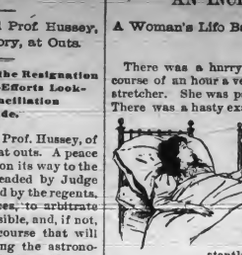
An interesting experiment is being made by the postal authorities at Des Moines, Ia.

All the street cars have been provided with letter boxes, and the cars stop to permit persons to mail letters. These stops are made wherever the cars would ordinarily stop to take on passengers.

Des Moines is especially fitted for this sort of mail collection. All the street cars in town are operated by one company and all pass the post office or very near it. All the lines center at a terminus in the heart of the city and radiate from it.

The population of the city is widely scattered, and this method of collecting the mail seems to be the only satisfactory system that the people have had.

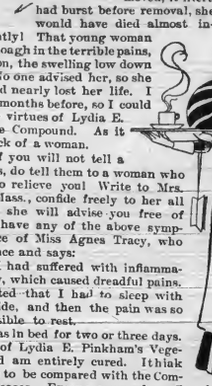
The experiment is due to the persistence of Postmaster Edward W. Hunter. The service was established April 19, and thus far has proved to be all that Mr. Hunter claimed for it.



THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, June 5.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	2 50	@	3 75
Select butchers	3 90	@	4 85
CALVES—Fair to good light	5 75	@	6 10
HOGS—Common	3 40	@	3 40
Mixed packers	3 40	@	3 40
Light shippers	3 75	@	4 10
SHEEP—Choice	3 45	@	3 90
LAMBS—Spring	5 15	@	6 75
FLOUR—Winter family	3 25	@	3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	89
No. 3 red		@	75
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	26
Oats—No. 2		@	20
Rye—No. 2		@	55
HAY—Prime to choice	11 00	@	11 25
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@	9 00
Lard—Prime steam		@	3 40
BUTTER—Choice dairy	6	@	8
Prime to choice creamery		@	16½
APPLES—Per bbl	2 50	@	3 15
POTATOES—Per bbl	1 10	@	1 25
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	4 60	@	4 90
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n		@	77½
No. 2 red		@	74½
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@	29
OATS—Mixed		@	22
PORK—New mess	8 50	@	9 00
LARD—Western		@	3 80
CHICAGO
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 60	@	4 70
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	67½
No. 2 Chicago spring	67¼	@	68¾
CORN—No. 2	23¾	@	24
OATS—No. 2		@	18
PORK—Mess	7 70	@	7 75
LARD—Steam	3 47½	@	3 50
BALTIMORE
FLOUR—Family	3 90	@	4 85
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	76¼	@	76¾
Corn—Mixed	28¼	@	28¾
Oats—No. 2 white	27½	@	28
LARD—Refined		@	11 80
PORK—Mess		@	16 85
CATTLE—First quality	4 15	@	4 50
HOGS—Western	4 20	@	4 30
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@	75
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	28
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@	18
LOUISVILLE
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 75	@	4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	72
Corn—Mixed	26	@	26½
Oats—Mixed		@	20
PORK—Mess		@	8 75
LARD—Steam		@	3 95

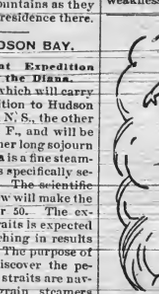
PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS.



AN INCIDENT AT THE CITY HOSPITAL.

A Woman's Life Barely Saved by a Critical Operation—Her Health Destroyed.

There was a hurry call for the ambulance of the City Hospital. In the course of an hour a very sick young woman was brought in on a stretcher. She was pale as death and evidently suffering keen agony. There was a hasty examination and a consultation. In less than a quarter of an hour the poor creature was on the operating table to undergo the operation called ovariotomy.



There was no time for the usual preparation. Her left ovary was on the point of bursting; when it was removed, it literally disintegrated. If it had burst before removal, she would have died almost instantly! That young woman had had warnings enough in the terrible pains, the burning sensation, the swelling low down on her left side. No one advised her, so she suffered tortures and nearly lost her life. I wish I had met her months before, so I could have told her of the virtues of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. As it is now, she is a wreck of a woman.

Oh, my sisters, if you will not tell a doctor your troubles, do tell them to a woman who stands ever ready to relieve you! Write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., confide freely to her all your troubles, and she will advise you free of charge; and if you have any of the above symptoms take the advice of Miss Agnes Tracy, who speaks from experience and says:

"For three years I had suffered with inflammation of the left ovary, which caused dreadful pains. I was so badly affected that I had to sleep with pillows under my side, and then the pain was so great it was impossible to rest.

"Every month I was in bed for two or three days. I took seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and am entirely cured. I think there is no medicine to be compared with the Compound for female diseases. Every woman who suffers from any form of female weakness should try it at once." Miss AGNES TRACY, Box 432, Valley City, N. D.

"Out of the frying-pan into the fire." Take care that you don't go that way, when you try to make your washing easier. Better be sure of what you're doing.

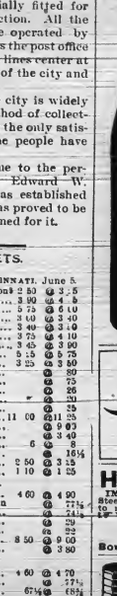
Get Pearline, the original washing-compound, the best-known, the fully-proved. There are plenty of imitations of it. But even if they're not dangerous—and some are—they're not economical.

Pearline used properly, goes farther, does more work, and saves more wear, than anything else that's safe to use. 626

BE BEAUTIFUL! IF YOUR BLOOD IS BAD YOUR FACE SHOWS IT.

It's nature's warning that the condition of the blood needs attention before more serious diseases set in. Beauty is blood deep.

Cascarets



HEED THE RED FLAG OF DANGER,

When you see pimples and liver spots on your face.

Make the COMPLEXION Beautiful, by Purifying the BLOOD.

If the blood is pure, the skin is clear, smooth and soft. If you take our advice, you will find CASCARETS will bring the rosy blush of health to faded faces, take away the liver spots and pimples. Help nature help you!

ALL DRUGGISTS. 10c., 25c., 50c. YOU CAN, IF YOU ONLY TRY. No. 259

A COOL BOTTLE

of Hires Rootbeer on a sweltering hot day is highly essential to comfort and health. It cools the blood, reduces your temperature, tones the stomach.

HIRES Rootbeer

should be in every home, in every office, in every workshop. A temperance drink, more healthful than ice water, more delightful and satisfying than any other beverage produced.

Made only by the Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

$75 $50

RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE.

Western Wheel Works
MAKERS
CHICAGO ILLINOIS
CATALOGUE FREE

HAY PRESSES!

IMPROVED HUNTER FULL CIRCLE "A" Steel and Wooden (steel lined) shipped on trial to reliable parties. FULLY GUARANTEED. IF WRITE FOR CATALOGUE AND PRICES.

M. B. LEWIS, Jasper, Ala.

Meridian Machine Shops,
Box K MERIDIAN, MISS.

SILOS

HOW TO BUILD ASK
WILLIAMS MFG. CO., KALAMAZOO, MICH.

Weeks Scale Works,
STOCK, COAL, HAY, GRAIN, AND COTTON SCALES. BUFFALO, N.Y.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habit cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

$25.00 Chicago to California

And $23.00 from ST. LOUIS, is the rate that will be made by the

Santa Fe Route

For the Christian Endeavor Convention in July. It will also apply to intermediate points, and in the reverse direction.

Have you wished to visit the SOUTH-WEST; the remarkable health resorts; the irrigated farms and orchards; the new mining camps now attracting a multitude of gold-seekers; the towering Rockies; the stupendous chasm of the Grand Canon of the Colorado River; the far-famed marvels of mountain and valley on that western shore where the blue Pacific rolls? Then take this opportunity.

You may learn all about it by addressing any agent of the Santa Fe Route, or the undersigned.

W. J. BLACK, G. P. A., A. T. & S. F. R'y, Room 140, 5th & Jackson Sts., Topeka, Kan.
C. A. HIGGINS, A. G. P. A., Room 1244 St. Nothern Bld'g, Chicago.

HARTSHORN'S SELF-ACTING SHADE ROLLERS

NOTICE THE LABEL ON THE GENUINE HARTSHORN

We have used the QUEEN CITY PRINTING INK CO. INK with satisfaction for many years, and are using it now. When in need of ink write to them, Cincinnati or Chicago.

A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

EARN A BICYCLE

500 Subscribers Wanted for Modern, Up-to-Date, Illustrated, Monthly Magazine. $1 to $11 per hundred. New high grade '98 models, fully warranted, $11 to $15. Special Clearing Sale. Ship anywhere on approval. We will allow a reasonable amount for your old wheel in exchange for new. Write at once for our special offer. Mention this paper.

L. B. READ CYCLE CO., Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

PENSIONS for SOLDIERS and WIDOWS
Fee for increase $2. Rejected claims reopened. All laws free. 21 yrs. practice. Success or no fee. Address A. W. McCORMICK & SON, Washington, D. C.

YUCATAN, KING OF GUMS.

A. N. K.—B 1660

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 9, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Strong flow of oil struck by the Cemetery Company at Williamsburg.

Mt. Vernon has been refused a vote on local option because of the existing county prohibitory act.

More requests have been received by Gov. Bradley from County Judges to offer rewards for turnpike raiders

Amanda Kash, a negro woman is in jail at Maysville for covering coppers with quicksilver and passing them as dimes.

Dr. L. Goslee has been appointed Superintendent of the Lakeland Asylum. Dr. H. M. Lively was appointed first assistant.

Dr. Munday Mason, of Hawesville, has in one large bird cage two young jaybirds, a ground hog, two kittens, a white rabbit and several other "varmints."—Clarion.

Loughridge's hemp factory at Lexington has closed down for the present, on account of the condition of the hemp market, throwing about fifty men out of employment.

We regret to learn that Hon. Sam H. Stone, State Auditor, has been compelled to make an assignment for the benefit of his creditors. Mr. Stone has a large farm in Madison county.

Dr. John H. Kimbley, of Owensboro, died suddenly last week of apoplexy. He resigned as Surgeon General on Governor Bradley's staff because he believed the Governor had snubbed him. Did the snub cause apoplexy?.

It is said that Pike county beats the record for marriage license. Within the past two months 200 marriage licenses have been granted and only six of them came from outside of Pike county. And yet quite a number from her territory go to Mingo county to be married.

Last winter a man was found dead in a corn shock near Lexington, having been frozen to death. He was declared to be Warren Cooper, an expert machinist of that place and buried as such. Saturday Mr. Cooper put in his appearance, a very lively corpse, and says he is good for a hundred years yet.

Shephernsville Pioneer: Robert Smith is telling a good joke on himself. Several weeks ago at his house a hen was missed, and after careful search was given up for lost. The other day Bob was out buggy riding with his best girl when he heard the chirping of little chickens. Upon investigation, the long lost hen was found under the seat of the buggy with a fine lot of little chickens.

Grayson Bugle: William Conley was tried before Judge Morris Friday charged with obstructing a public road. It was proved that the road had been open for fifty-five years, and during this time only one wagon had been seen to pass over the road in question, and it was going for the remains of a man who had broken his neck trying to travel over the road. Conley was accquitted.

Uniontown Telegram: Native Kentuckians are universally dericled for their fondness for the ardent spirit that soothes, cheers and invigorates; but the product serves alike not only the native, but the nation and world at large. This week we notice that Mr. J. W. M. Field, of Owensboro, has shipped ten carloads of Daviess county's famous sour mash to Athens, Greece. Also that C. M. Dedman, of Mercer county, is shipping by way of San Francisco seventy-five barrels of the blue-grass product to Sydney, Australia.

Residents of Summit, a little hamlet in the southwestern part of Hardin county, are considerably excited over the discovery of what they regard as gold and silver ore in paying leads in the hills near that town. Messrs. J. G. Terry, of Elizabethtown, and W. B. Condiff, of Hodgenville, have been prospecting there for some time, and an assay just received from ore sent to Idaho City, Idaho, runs $34.25 gold and $8.43 silver to the ton. These gentlemen are confident they have made a rich strike and have already located several claims and are working them. The paying ore is found in a hard granite ledge, which, as it is followed deeper into the earth, gets softer and contains pockets of rich quartz.

CROP AND STOCK.

Oat crop badly damaged by cold weather in some localities.

Wheat harvest began in the purchase last week, and the yield will be an average one.

A Danville, Ky., firm is purchasing wheat in the field. It bought 400 acres last week at 65c per bu.

Five thousand nine hundred and ninety-six is the number of crates of strawberries shipped from Arlington this season.

Very little tobacco has been set out in this section. The plants are yet small. The acreage will not be so large as in former years.—Sharpsburg World.

The Flemingsburg Times-Democrat says: The prospect for a crop of tobacco in this section is a very gloomy one, not on account of raids, mobs or anything else save the fact that the plants are not growing.

The Louisa Produce Company is doing a surprisingly large business in Mayapple roots at present. On last Tuesday they bought 2,500 lbs. of this product. Yesterday morning they bought 4,000 pounds.—Louisa News.

Strawberry growing has become an important industry in Carlisle county. The Bardwell Star says W. N. Bard made a net profit of $729.63 on seven acres of berries and L. T. Jennings made $357.50 clear on two acres.

There is a good deal of rye in the wheat this year and farmers ought to cut it out. If they do not they will lose from two to ten cents per bushel on the r crop, as millers object to it because it makes flour dark.—Georgetown Times.

Attorney R. W. Gray, of Columbus, was in town Monday, and informed us that up to Saturday night 14,992 crates of strawberries had been shipped from Columbus, netting shippers good profits. Over $7,000 had been paid out to pickers and other laborers.—Clinton Democrat.

It is reported that the blackberry crop promises to be the finest ever before seen in the State of Kentucky. From one end of the State to the other where a bush can be found, the blooms are as thick as they can possibly stick. Fruit of all kinds will be tolerably plentiful this year.—Bardstown Record.

There is great complaint of the mortality among the young turkeys this season, owing to the cold and wet weather, says the Winchester Democrat. The young birds are quite susceptible to bad weather for some weeks, and they are quite tender until pretty well grown. There is danger that the crop of this delicious bird will be short next fall.

If you have a horse that is in the habit of kicking, put him in a narrow stall that has both sides padded. Suspend a sack filled with hay or straw so it will strike his heels, and let the horse and sack fight it out. Be sure to have things arranged so that the horse cannot hurt himself. The sack will be victorious every time, and in the end the horse will absolutely refuse to kick the sack or anything else.

The largest single land sale, with one exception, ever recorded in Madison county, was made when Col. J. W. Caperton, President of the Richmond National Bank, bought of State Auditor Samuel Stone 559¼ acres of fine bluegrass land for $47,142. The farm is known as "Woodlawn," and is one of the most desirable places in Kentucky, being within a half mile of the city limits of Richmond.

The Courier-Journal calls upon the American Dialect Society to etymologize the word "syfaxing."

Judge Robert Riddell, of Estill, tells a story of his early practice in that county in which a number of citizens were being tried before the local Magistrate for engaging in free-for-all fight. Riddell was conducting the cross-examination, and asked the witness the question: "Where was Jim Puckett during all this time?" The answer of the witness was: "Oh, he was just syfaxing around."

Riddell quickly interrupted him to inquire what the word "syfaxing" meant; whereupon the court interposed with the explanation that a lawyer who didn't known the meaning of "syfaxing" would not be allowed to practice in his court.—Clay City Chronicle.

Pith of the Press.

Up to date Mr. McKinley has closed more mills than he has opened.—Atlanta Constitution.

Why not put an enacting clause on Tom Reed and let legislation go at that.—Omaha World-Herald.

If the election for President could come off now McKinley wouldn't carry four States.—Nashville Sun.

Jerry Simpson is one of the few Congressmen who are earning their salaries.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

Even Mr. Hanna is beginning to suspect that there is a washout ahead of his party.—Atlanta Constitution.

Secretary Gage predicts better times shortly. Trot them out; they can't get here too quickly.—Philadelphia Press.

Secretary Gage's cheerful optimism would be more satisfactory if we hadn't heard that sort of thing before.—Detroit Tribune.

Mr. McKinley is evidently resolved upon holding back prosperity until the tariff bill is passed.—Memphis Commercial-Appeals.

Between Cuba and the activity of the Ohio Democrats Hon. Mark Hanna finds his insomnia on the increase.—New York Journal.

Secretary Gage is another gentleman who thinks times will be better as soon as they begin to improve.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Mr. Pullman's porter's should be patient. Returning prosperity will have to ride in the day coaches until it gets stronger.—Washington Post.

Mr. Thomas Bayard, late of England, expects to remain a considerable time in this country and may eventually settle down here.—Chicago Tribune.

Perhaps it would be better if Mr. Hanna could hire some trustworthy man to control the Senate while he proceeds to control Ohio.—Atlanta Constitution.

Mr. Harrison will make a mistake if he leaves his bicycle, his baby and his fat law practice to take up Spanish business as Minister to Madrid.—Toledo News.

Since the soft fall of the gum shoe is not to be on the pavements of Lima any other South American point will answer, and why not Patagonia.—Louisville Times.

The Cincinnati Enquirer heaps coals of fire on President McKinley's head by reproducing his silver record. It might be called a self-adjusting record.—Salt Lake Herald.

Senator Foraker has been heard from again. When Foraker talks in the Senate the presiding officer is kept busy checking the applause from the galleries.—Kenton (Ohio) Republican.

Mr. Hanna talks loudly about the certainty of Ohio this fall., but there is a peculiar tone of his voice that forcibly reminds one of a cemetery symphony by the labial process.—Omaha World-Herald.

The toll-gate raiders in Kentucky have become so bold that it has become necessary to call out the State militia. What is the matter with Kentucky, anyhow? — Rochester Union and Advertiser.

Tom Reed will meet and adjourn to morrow and the Senate will put in its time considering the amount of tax that shall be placed on amber, bladders, catgut, horn and opodeldoc.—Omaha World-Herald.

It is sheer waste of time for Democratic Congressmen to dig up and present to the House the inconsistent rulings of Speaker Reed. The autocrat of the House flourishes on inconsistency.—New York Journal.

Senator Morgan was compelled to take his seat at the suggestion of the Senator from Spain and Maine, but he had the satisfaction of knowing that the American people shared his position.—New York Journal.

Comingore's victory will be generally accepted as sufficient corroboration of Gov. Bradley's vehement denial that he brought any "flooence" to bear in the case of the Covington collector.—Louisville Times.

Hon. Sam Kash, of Kentucky, called on President McKinley the other day with a plan for settling the money question. The plan was for Mack to lend Sam $50 to get back with.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

As we understand the Republican view of Wanamaker he is a patriot when he forks over the cash to corrupt the ballot and a rascal when he demands the fullfillment of Republican promises.—Omaha World-Herald.

It is noticed that Governor Bushnell congratulated Senator Foraker by wire on his Cuban speech. No telegram was sent to Hanna, however, from the gubernatorial mansion on his anti-belligerency vote.—Kansas City Times.

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

County Court Clerk E. D. Webster and deputy L. M. Gross are busy making out the Sheriff's tax books for the year 1897. The report of the State Board of Equalization shows that Grant county was raised this year 30 per cent on lands, 10 per cent on town lots and 5 per cent on personalty. The Board has increased the tax rate in Grant county almost one-third.

The Quarterly Baptist Minister's Meeting of the Crittenden Association of Baptist was held at the Baptist church at Grassy Run last Saturday and Sunday. A large number of minister's were in attendance and the lay brothers were out in force.

In this issue of the Courier will be found the announcement of H. J. Poor, of the county of Pendleton, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator from this Senatorial District.

There is entirely too much fast driving on the streets of Williamstown for the comfort and safety of the citizens of the town.

W. W. Dickerson contemplates the erection of a dwelling on his vacant lot in the north end.

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[News]

Several Mississippi flood sufferers were in town Monday begging alms.

Most of the buildings under construction are now nearing completion.

Several enterprising growers of Dallas finished setting tobacco the last season.

Some few spring chickens have been sold on the market here for $3 per dozen.

Several of our young "cullud gemmens" were ordered to the rock pile last week by the Police court to pay fines, etc.

A. S. Lillard set six acres of tobacco last Monday, but from present indications he will have to reset at least half of it.

The Ministers meeting at Dallas attracted large crowds from every direction. There were about eight hundred people present Sunday, dinner was served on the grounds and everybody was royally entertained.

The Decoration services at the Cemetery last Saturday was largely attended and consisted in appropriate remarks addressed by Rev. Caldwell, which were very impressive.

[Herald]

Elder Fuller Livers, colored, has been granted a pension that he made application for several years ago. He gets $8 per month and also got $490 arrearage.

Our farmers are about through with planting corn and some of them have set a portion of their tobacco crop, and the crop will be as usual, a pretty large one.

The oat crop will nearly be a failure. They are not maturing, consequently the white top will supersede them.

J. C. Smoot has been appointed Postmaster at Pleasant Home.

The blackberry crop will be quite a large one if not providentially hindered.

Some of the farmers are through planting corn and some have plowed their corn over, while a few are not through breaking their corn ground.

Steam :-: Ferry

—AT—

TAYLORSPORT.

I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.

S. H. GOODIN.

july-28

H. S. STEVENSON.

DENTIST.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.

OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky

Simons Baldon's Adm'r. Plaintiff,

vs

Parthena Baldon, &c.. Defts.

This cause is now refered to the Master Commissioner of the Boone Circuit Court with the following directions: 1st. He will advertise in the Boone Co. Recorder the time and place of his sittings and he will hear proof of and receive claims against the estate of the decedent Simons Baldon. 2d. He will audit and settle the accounts of the administrator, John D. Baldon. 3d. He will ascertain what property the decedent owned at the time of his death, and he will report his actions herein at the August term, 1897, of the Boone Circuit Court.

Given under my hand as clerk of said court, this May 12th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

OUR Doors Stand Open! And we make no bones in giving you prices Openly.

We never felt in better humor for business than now. So we will ask for your attention a little while.

—We Will Sell You—

H. and E. Boston Standard fine Gran. Sugar, per lb.....	5c	Navy Beans 3 qts. for	10c.
Coffees from 12½c to 30c per pound		Dried Peas 2 quarts for.....	5c
White Satin Flour (extra fine)	5.25	Battle Ax Tobacco, per lb.....	20c
Essex Soap (best for the money) two bars for.....	5c	Polar Bear Smoking, 4 pkgs....	15c
Baking Powder, from 8c per lb. up		Six for Ten per plug,.....	15c
Pure Pepper, ground, per lb.....	15c	Teas from.....	15 to 80c
Canned Corn, from 5c to 12c		Good Table Peaches, 3 cans.....	25c
Pearl Barley, 2 lbs. for.....	5c	N. O. Molasses, two gallons.....	65c
Evaporated Apples, per lb.....	5c	Extra Fine Syrup, two gallons	35c
Fine Evap. Peaches, per lb.....	7½c	H. L. Oil, per gallon.....	8c
Prunes, per pound, from 5c to	12c	"Crown" Gasoline, per gal.....	9c
Good Rice, per pound,.....	5c	Onion Sets, per quart,.....	10c
Sweet Chocolate, per cake.....	5c	3 packages Garden Seed.....	10c
Baker's Chocolate, per lb	40c	Pratt's Poultry Food at list.
Enamiline, per box.....	4c	6 dozen Cloths Pins for.....	5c
Rising Sun Polish, 6 for.....	25c	Rolled Oats, per pound.....	2c
		Langdon's Bread, 6 loaves for...	25c

And Numerous other Good Values that require too much space to quote. Yours Earnestly,

IRA AYLOR, Erlanger, Ky.

C. W. ROBINSON,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,

ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,

Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.

GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.

Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.

62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,

E. H. BAKER, Proprietor

Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.

Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.

Horses Sold on Commission.

Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.

FRY & REIB,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of

Marble & Granite Monuments

HEADSTONES. CORNER POSTS, ETC.,

109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K.

Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. { Designs Furnished Upon Application.

SEASON OF 1897,

OAK KNOLL STOCK FARM.

UGO,

Chestnut Stallion. 16 hands high, foaled 1892, sired by Simmons 2744, (record 2:28,) sire of 63 in 2:30 list, and 7 in 2:15 list. 1st dam, Thirza by Almont Boy 4308, sire of Grafton, 2:20¼, Bessie G. 2:25, etc. 2d dam, Dixie by Norman 25; 3d dam, Mollie Clay by Iron Duke he by C. M. Clay 18.

Ugo is an exceedingly handsome horse, with plenty of size and faultless conformation; he has worked quarters in 40 seconds when 3 years old with six weeks training.

UGO will make the season of 1897, at Oak Knoll Stock farm, 1 mile west of Utzinger, and 3 miles east of Petersburg, Ky., on the Petersburg & Burlington pike. Service fee $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when mare is known to be in foal or parted with. Mares kept on grass at $1.50 per month, accidents and escapes at owners risk.

For particulars address

A. E. CHAMBERS, Jr.,
Utzinger, Ky.

NOTICE.

TUCKER, will be at Ezra Aylor's on Tuesday morning, at Dony Cook's in the afternoon, Ben Tanner's Thursday morning, and at Geo. Moor's on Friday in each week. JAS. H. AYLOR.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE

Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain. The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN. Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.

Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.

Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated and descriptive matter.

CRESCENT HILL STOCK FARM.

1897. SEASON 1897.

TIMOTHY BOY, No. 27854

Bay horse foaled April 3rd, 1893, 16¼ hands high and weighs 1250 pounds in ordinary condition.

Sired by Wilkes Boy, 2:24; 1st dam, Alga by Artillery, 2:21½; 2d dam, Valdosta by Nutwood, 2:18¾; 3d dam, Emma Arterburn by Mambrino Patchen 58, (dam of one and grand-dam of three in 2:30 list); 4th dam, Jennie Johnson by Sweet Owen, thoroughbred, gr-dam of three in 2:30; 5th dam, Thoroughbred, &c.

Wilkes Boy, 2:24, one of the best producing horses in Kentucky, is by Geo. Wilkes. 2:22, dam Betty Brown (dam of Anglin, 2:27½) by Mambrino Patchen, 58.

Artillery, 2:21½ by Hambletonian 10, dam Walls Star (dam of Modestie 2:26½) by American Star, 14, is fast becoming a great sire.

Nutwood, 2:18¾, (out of the dam of Maud S. 2:08¾,) is the sire of more 2:30 performers than any horse living.

TIMOTHY BOY is one of the best bred horses in Kentucky, a horse of great power, fine style and color, a pure gaited trotter, perfectly sound in every particular and should produce horses fit for either track, road or farm.

He will make the season at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when fact is known or mare parted with.

The Fine Black Jack,

MIKE

Will make the season at $8 to insure a colt, money due when colts comes or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE:

MIKE is a black Jack, white points, 15¾ hands high, good heavy bone, large head and ears, well built, good style and color. He is one of the best lookers in Northern Ky., and ought to make a grand breeder.

He was sired by Bill Collins, dam Nell, a fine black jennet 16 hands high, by Sinkhole; 2d dam, Graves' Jenny, by Black Damson, jr., 3d dam, Jenny by Mogul. Bill Collins is by Bourbon Chief, is 16 hands high and one of the best mule jacks in Central Kentucky, and sold for $1,800.

Timothy Boy and Mike will stand at Daniel Bedinger's farm, 3 miles west of Richwood, Ky., on the Richwood & Beaver pike.

☞Mares kept on pasture at $1.50 per month.

J. C. BEDINGER, Richwood, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Benj. Rice, deceased, must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

B. P. RICE, Adm'r.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1897. NO. 34.

THE Covington Extra nominates Mayor Rhinock for Governor.

SPEAKER REED is holding Congress down to his do-nothing policy.

THE noted turfman, Byron McClelland, died at his home in Lexington, last Friday evening.

THE Democrats of Aurora have organized a bimetallic club. Hon. O. F. Roberts is the president.

PRESIDENT McKINLEY visited the Nashville exposition last week. He was given a grand reception along the route going and returning.

THE Courier-Journal's editorials reminds one of a peevish old maid, who is not satisfied with herself, and out of humor with the rest of the world.

IT may be that national politics will cut no figure in the campaign this fall, but the Kentucky Democrats have endorsed the Chicago platform all the same.

IT begins to look like the Democrats are going to demand entirely new material for their ticket at the next gubernatorial election. They want to infuse new blood into the party.

THE efforts of none of the distinguished orators who have visited the Nashville exposition have excelled those of Gov. Bradley when there. Gov. Bradley's speech was excellent.

THE average rate of taxation on something like 4,000 articles of every-day consumption is eight per cent. higher under the Dingley bill than under the McKinley law, and seventeen per cent. higher than under the Wilson bill.

THERE were loud calls for Hanna at several points where the Presidential train stopped enroute to Nashville. It is supposed that the pie hunters think Hanna is afraid to let the President depart from his presence, and they expected the great pie distributer to appear when called.

Democrats who voted for a tax on cotton lent themselves to a vicious scheme of fraud and deception, or else they are intellectually too weak to be in the Senate.—Louis-Post.

AND how about those Democrats who assisted to elect McKinley, the apostle of protection, last fall?

MAYOR TODD, of Louisville, is the "great recommender" of this age. He wrote no less than four letters earnestly urging the appointment of as many applicants to the same federal office. He wrote his first letter May 4th and the other three on May 5th. He got in his work rapidly when he began.

THE firm of Stewart & Blakely, manufacturers of chairs at Shelbyville, Indiana, who gave $1,500, last fall, to help elect McKinley and prosperity, called their employes together a few days since, and announced to them that times had continued to grow worse until they were compelled to shut down.

The corn, wheat and cotton fields are about to bring back good times and confidence.—Louisville Post.

LAST fall you told the people that the election of Major McKinley would restore good times and confidence, and now you are pointing out another source from which they are to come. Why not be honest and say that you do not know by what means nor when they will be restored?

THE Boltercrats have called a convention to meet in Louisville on July 14, to nominate a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. The county conventions are to be held July 10th, and the representation is one delegate for each 200 votes cast for Cleveland in 1892. The delegate representation is based on the Cleveland instead of on the Palmer vote, because if the convention was composed of one delegate for each 200 votes cast for Palmer last fall there would not be enough of them to organize the body.

Pith of the Press.

Brother Wanamaker absolutely refuses to take his prosperity by the faith cure method.—Chicago Record.

Uncle Sam has found out that when he backed McKinley to win the prosperity stakes he bet on the wrong horse.—Kansas City Times.

It is pretty near time for the lovers of the julip to rebel when they are threatened with a whisky trust on top of a sugar trust.—Louisville Times.

Ex-Governor Flower, of New York, is the latest public personage to see prosperity and other funny things preparing to alight.—Detroit Tribune.

Every time Hanna looks at Wanamaker and Butterworth he wonders where in thunder the next eruption will take place.—Omaha World-Herald.

Why does Senator Mantle remind Senator Hanna of the unpleasant Ohio situation? Hanna is fully conversant with the fact.—Washington Post.

Possibly Secretary Gage carries a convenient night key to the situation, and will open up prosperity as soon as Congress gets out of the way.—Washington Post.

Secretary Gage is not an experienced politician, or he would not go about the country promising prosperity when there is no election at hand.—N. Y. Journal.

The Cuban question may interest theoretical statesmen, but Mark Hanna would rather be assured that a certain rebellious province called Ohio could be easily pacified.—Chicago Record.

After the Secret Service officers get through with those Michigan counterfeiters perhaps they will pay some attention to the men who have been putting a spurious brand of prosperity on the market.—N. Y. Journal.

The[illegible] be perfect harmony among the Ohio Republicans, but it will be noticed that the Hanna people touch off a bunch of fire crackers every time they knock out a Foraker candidate for the Legislature.—Washington Post.

With John Wanamaker, Benjaman Harrison, Chauncey Depew, John C. New, John Clarkson, and a few others who might be mentioned, the nucleus for an anti-administration party is quite promising.—Washington Post.

Senator Foraker and Hanna have been on a river excursion together, and a solemn Washington correspondent says they kept a sharp watch on each other. 'Twas well. The boat came back with nobody over-board.—Enquirer.

That heavy grating sound off toward the Atlantic coast now frequently heard in the stillness of the night is probably nothing but President McKinley making up his mind on the Cuban question.—Omaha World-Herald.

The lynching in Ohio was as indefensible as any lynching that has occurred in any state, and it was worse than most because it took a convicted felon from the hands of the law, which had already tried and sentenced him.—Louisville Commercial.

The Toledo convention might indorse Foraker for voting for the Cuban resolution. Hanna might be commended for his conservatism in voting against it, and McKinley might have a resolution commending him for what he expects to do.—Lancaster (Ohio) Eagle.

A correspondent asks: "Where does the world get its supply of rubber?" We hasten to inform the correspondent that the world can get plenty of rubber from the necks of those people who are looking for that unparalleled wave of prosperity promised by Mr. Hanna, of Ohio.—Omaha World-Herald.

IN Kentucky nothing has done so much to encourage the mob, and to incite to murder, as the Court of Appeals whose decisions, running through a long series of years, have made it almost impossible to convict even the most heinous criminals who could employ a lawyer. Law has made murder almost a pastime, and the result is a man feels too often that he is himself his own and only protector.—Louisville Post.

It was not to be supposed that a journal that charged the supporters of the Chicago platform with being Anarchists because of that platform's criticism of the Supreme Court, would ever permit anything like the above to appear in its columns. Is the Post turning Anarchist?

MARCH 3, 1889, the terms of 30 federal senators expire. Of these 14 are Republicans, 15 Democrats, and one Populist. The States which will send new senators March 4, 1899, are California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Maryland, Maine, Michigan, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Montana, Missouri Minnesota, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, New Jersey, Nevada, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Vermont, Wisconsin, West Virginia, Washington and Wyoming. As a great deal depends on the political complexion of the next Senate, and as it is so close at present, the election of legislatures this fall in states from which United States senators are to be sent to Washington, will be hotly contested.

[Western Argus.]

The daily press has announced a number of names for Democratic honors before the next Democratic State Convention. Some of them are all right, and will carry victory to the party if nominated. Senator Goebel is the strongest man before the party and the people to-day for Governor of Kentucky. The party and people are both for him. This was plainly presented in the Convention here last week. The next ticket will be made strong by new material and the dropping out of old office holders will make it all right for the people to accept. It is generally conceded that we are to again have Gen. Hardin as a candidate for Gubernational honors, and this is to be regretted. He has been honored by his party, but he brought to the party defeat by his own acts, and he should not ask for a nomination again. There are other men in the Democratic fold who deserve something from the party. He was twelve years in office and that should satisfy him, especially, when the office he held was a good paying one. Let us have a new deal, with a ticket composed of live, active young Democrats, and we can and will redeem Kentucky to the Democracy. If we are to be again confronted with candidates that have held offices all their lives, and who have formed a ring inside the party that was invincible against outside aspirants, then we may expect defeat. The people will not have it, and the sooner we make it plain to the office seekers the better off the party will be in this State.

FROM CARROLL COUNTY.

[News]

A good acreage of tobacco was set the past ten days.

The Barker Tobacco Co. shut down Wednesday as they had run out of tobacco. They have 300,000 lbs. of tobacco bought that has not been delivered.

We regret to have to announce the death of another old citizen of Carrollton. Mrs. Elizabeth Rice Hogan, the widow of John Hogan, deceased, who was for a number of years clerk of the Carroll circuit court, died last Friday evening, about 8 o'clock, at the age of 79 years, two months and one day. The funeral services were conducted Sunday at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Baptist church, by Rev. Dr. Evans, of the Presbyterian church, the pastor of the Baptist church, Rev. O. M. Huey, being absent at Patriot, Ind. She had been in failing health for several years prior to her death, but had not been helpless or confined to her bed until recently. She was born and reared in Boone county, where she lived until after she was married, when she and her husband moved to this place. Having united with the Baptist church when about 18 years old, she became one of the consistent and organic members of that church here, many years ago.

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

Jack Bailey lost an eye by shooting with a rubber sling.

James Franks purchased 20 yearling ewes of Harvey Hicks, of Boone county.

A convention of the Endeavor Societies of the Third district, including the counties of Campbell, Kenton, Boone, Pendleton and Grant will be held in Williamstown, June 18th to 20th.

Arthur Conrad has made the best sale of hogs that has been made in Grant county this year. On Monday he delivered 25 head of porkers to William Conrad. They averaged in weight 263 pounds and he received for them on delivery $3.70 per hundred pounds.

T. J. Browning, of Dry Ridge, has growing on his farm near Knoxville some marvelous blue grass. He sent a bunch of it to the Courier office last week that measured a little more than six feet in height.

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[News]

Owenton has more and better carriages, both in private use and public stables, than any town in Kentucky.

The acreage in the crop of tobacco in this county, it is estimated, will be cut short about 30 per cent. as compared with last year's crop.

Some wicked, burglariously inclined beer fiends, one night last week, burst open the locked and chained door of Mr. Henry Vest's ice house in the vicinity of town, where his kegs of beer were kept on the ice, and removed therefrom and appropriated to their own use six of the forty two kegs there deposited.

There is a great deal of dissatisfaction among many of the school teachers in Owen county over the intimation that certificates are obtained by some of the teachers through fraud. The fault lies, not with the county authorities, but the hint comes that parties connected with the State Supt. office at Frankfort are peddling the questions to parties, and especially to one or two Normal schools who use them as an advertisement for their schools. It is said that one school charges a contingent fee of $50, guaranteeing any teacher a certificate with a few week's preparation. No certificate, no pay. The questions are made a part of the course previous to the examination, and it is with very little trouble that applicants for certificates are able to obtain them when examined by the legal board of examiners.

[Herald]

The directors have not yet decided upon their date for the Owenton Fair, but will do so soon.

Sherman Bickers was lodged in jail here Tuesday, charged with stealing blacksmith tools from E. W. Smith.

Suddenly and without previous warning last Monday evening Mr. C. S. Forsee lost the sight of his right eye completely. It was examined by Dr. W. E. Foster, who pronounced the trouble a cataract, which can be removed later on. Mr. Forsee is fearful that he will lose the sight of the other eye also.

Last Saturday evening, constable J. W. Aylor, of the Big Bone district, and M. C. Carroll, brought a fellow by the name of Boone to town to lodge him in jail. They had arrested him on suspicion of his being the Boone who is wanted at Lexington for the murder of his brother-in-law. Besides having the name he answered the description of the fugitive Boone. No one being able to make the affidavit necessary to secure a commitment the prisoner was not lodged in jail.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

FOURTH YEAR.
OF WALTON ACADEMY,
—opens—
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897
AT WALTON, KY.
Three Courses of Study to choose from: English, Scientific or Classical.
Tuition per month,...$2.50 and $3.00
Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.
We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for 5 days.
Thorough, Substantial Work Guaranteed.
Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS, CHAS. F. PRIOR, Rev. S. H. MYERS.
Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
N. S. WATON, President, Uzinger, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.
Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.
FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE ME A CALL

Wm. F. GOETZE

Scientific Optician.
Headquarters at Hornberger's Jewelry Store,
LAWRENCEBURG, - - INDIANA.
Your eyes tested free of charge and correct glasses fitted at moderate prices.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
If your eyes are effected in the least, give me a call and don't run chances of ruining your vision by buying from peddlers or quacks.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.
Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.
East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m. 3:00 p.m
Arr. Georgetown...7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown...10:40 a m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m
C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by maill promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 3.000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,

DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

A. P. WALTON,
DENTIST.
121 Garfield Place,
Cincinnati, - - Ohio.
First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BUELINGTON, : : : KY.

A Vassar college girl the other day ran a hundred yards in 13 seconds. She was probably paced by a mouse.

A Boston paper ventures to speak of "the homeliest baby in town," but as it is a young moose no editorial casualties have been reported.

Edison thinks the horseless carriage of the future will not cost more than $100. The facilities for human locomotion are looming up at a wonderful rate.

The New Yorkers who are selling bricks from Grant's tomb are probably interested in a brick yard, and will see that the volume of the souvenirs is equal to the demand for them.

The notice of a Kansas wedding winds up with a list of the young men rejected by the bride. If each should publish a card of explanation several new terrors would be added to matrimony.

Two Boston papers are discussing whether the word "measles" should be followed by a plural verb or not. Measles may be plural, but they produce most singular effects sometimes.

The annual balance sheet of the Monte Carlo casino shows a profit of $4,000,000. It will be noticed that the man who breaks the bank never interferes with the annual dividend.

A new kind of donation party has been invented in southern Kansas. At Caldwell the other day the entire Methodist congregation went down to the parsonage and dug the preacher a cyclone cellar.

Connecticut has the most sensitive women on earth. Over 170,000 of them are qualified to vote, but only 2,600 of them vote, the others preferring not to because by casting their ballots they would admit that they are over 21 years of age.

By the aid of the X ray, a long tube, and a secret preparation introduced in the stomach, that organ can now be thoroughly explored by the eye of the surgeon. The feelings of a dyspeptic may be imagined when he finds all this apparatus added to his malady.

The two senators from Alabama are from the same town. Senator Morgan, who has been in the senate 20 years, comes from Selma, and it happens that the new senator, Mr. Pettus, who succeeds Mr. Pugh, also comes from Selma. It is, with one exception, the only instance of the kind in the senate.

A record in courtships and proposals has occurred in Lubeck, Germany, where resides a hotel proprietor with a family of six children—four sons and two daughters—who were all betrothed in one day. The half dozen happy couples were also married on the same day and one wedding breakfast served for them all.

The Greenville (Tenn.) Democrat says: "Every issue of this paper is worth two dollars, but you can get it a hundred years for $100. We print all the news you want to see and some that you don't want to see. Old maids cry for it; the lawyers lie for it, and wise folks sigh for it. Buy it and try it." That ought to prove a fetching appeal.

Engineer Alexander Brown, in charge of the express train leaving Long Island City, while his train was moving swiftly had one of the driving rods of the engine break, tearing up the track for 30 yards and tearing out the side of his cab. But he sturdily stuck to his lever, and at the risk of his life brought his train to a stop. That was genuine courage.

The effect of the recent earthquake is said to have been very demoralizing on the people of Giles county, Va., many of whom were preparing to make their homes elsewhere. Angel mountain was said to be badly cracked, and nearly all the water had been drained out of Mountain lake. It was also said that the salt wells at Saltville, Smythe county, had dried up.

The American dog has another cause for complaint. Not long ago the supreme court insulted him by calling him a useless animal, and now the British government bars him out of England, accusing him of being subject to rabies and therefore dangerous. Hereafter all Americans desiring to take dogs to England will first have to secure special permits, and owing to the large amount of red tape these will not be easy to secure.

In spite of the vast sums of money expended to Christianize the Indians, the fact has come to light that Christianized Indians are mostly fire worshipers. They still pray to the sun. Red Bird, formerly a chief of the Cheyennes, is a Harvard graduate, but wears his blanket and paints his face a bright vermillion. There are many graduates of institutes among the tribes, but most of them drift back to the traditions of their fathers.

Chang Chi Tung, viceroy of the province of Hu-Kwang, has requested President Schurman, of Cornell university, to select a graduate of that institution competent to establish and take charge of a model farm in that province. It is evidence of the intention of the Chinese government to improve the condition of the people of that country when it comes to America to secure the services of a man who is able to teach coolies how to farm according to modern and scientific principles. The people of China have made it one of the greatest agricultural countries upon the face of the earth.

IN A RAGE.

Sultan Angry Over the Rejection of His Peace Commission—The Aspect of Affairs in the East Rather Worse Than Better.

LONDON, June 10.—The latest advices from Constantinople deny that the powers are advocating direct negotiations between Turkey and Greece.

In other respects, however, the aspect of affairs is rather worse than better. It appears that at Saturday's conference the ambassadors declined to accept either Assim Bey or Zia Bey as a Turkish peace commissioner.

This, together with their refusal to discuss the retention of Thessaly, threw the sultan into such a rage that he forthwith summoned a meeting of the special commission appointed to consider the terms of peace.

All day Sunday he was in telegraphic communication with most of the European capitals, and in the evening he gave stringent orders to the grand vizier, who immediately resigned. The special commission sat until the small hours of the morning, accomplishing nothing but a split among its members, the majority of whom expressed themselves emphatically as opposed to yielding to the powers.

The Turks are very angry at the alleged brusque declaration of Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, that England will never permit Christians to return to Turkish rule. It is also stated that the German ambassador is very much disconcerted to find Count Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador, supporting Sir Philip Currie in this respect; and, though it is still alleged that Germany is advising Turkey to put every man under arms, it is believed she has seen the advisability of falling into line with the other powers.

This view of the matter appears to be confirmed in a significant article in the Kolnische Zeitung, Tuesday evening, which denies that England is encouraging the Greeks or Germany the Turks, or that there is any essential difference of opinion between England Russia, and adds:

"On the contrary, all the powers are seeking to moderate the Turkish demands and to prevent the reimposition of the Turkish yoke upon Christian people."

Following upon the reports of Bulgarian restlessness, it is said on high authority that the grand vizier officially advised the sultan last Saturday to revoke the firman conferring the governorship of Eastern Roumelia on Prince Ferdinand, and to appoint a Turkish pasha in his place, basing this advice upon Prince Ferdinand's suspicious attitude and the friendliness of Russia towards Bulgaria. If, Bulgaria should seriously demand autonomy for Macedonia, the situation would become extremely grave.

Advices from Athens show that the gravity of affairs is fully recognized there. M. Sconloudis, the Greek foreign minister, said Wednesday evening:

"I do not hesitate to say that the present is a most critical moment for our existence as a nation."

It is said the Turks have burned all the villages around Dokomos, and have occupied and are strongly fortifying the villages of Trikeri Angistri, as well as defending the harbor of Volo.

The Odessa branch of the Credit Lyonnais has consigned 450,000 pounds in gold to the Turkish treasury as a loan by a Franco-Belgian group, upon Turkish railway guarantees.

ATHENS, June 10.—The government has protested to the powers against the continued massing of Turkish troops in Thessaly and the hindrances placed by Turkey to navigation in the Gulf of Ambracia, as violations of the armistice.

All on Board Drowned.

SWANSEA, Wales, June 10.—A French schooner which has just arrived here reports that through the haze she saw two vessels collide off the Lizard with tremendous impact. Both vessels sank and all on board, and according to the crew of the schooner, all were drowned. The schooner further reports that the vessels sank so quickly that she had no time to go to their assistance.

Harbin a Hermit.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 10.—J. Nat Harbin, a former associate of Senator Hearst in mining and at one time wealthy, who was reported having died in Mexico 15 years ago, has been discovered leading the life of a hermit in the Sierra Madre mountains, Mexico, by an American ore buyer, now on his way to join his family in Fresno, Cal.

Street Railway Bill Signed.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 10.—Gov. Tanner signed the famous Allen street railway bill at 10:45 a. m. Wednesday. The bill authorizes fifty-year extensions of existing street railway franchises, allows five-cent fares to continue, permits consolidation of companies and makes no provision for compensation to municipalities.

To Curtail the Output.

KAUKAUNA, Wis., June 10.—Beginning this week the print paper mills of the Fox River valley will shut down two days each week in order to curtail the output and better the market for their product if possible. This movement, it is reported, will be general throughout the country.

Sellers' Murderer Found Guilty.

MANSFIELD, O., June 10.—The grand jury Wednesday afternoon returned a verdict of murder in the first degree against E. Hollis Pate, the Negro who shot and killed Depot Policeman John Sellers at Shelby, June 3.

Passenger Train Dynamited.

HAVANA, (Via Key West.) June 10.—The passenger train which leaves Havana for Matanzas daily at 6 a. m., was dynamite Wednesday morning about 12 miles from the city by a party of insurgents. According to the official account, the object was plunder as about $6,000 was in the express car.

Evidence of Infanticide.

MADISON, Ind., June 10.—While cleaning out a vault in the rear of a private residence here, the body of a fully developed and matured baby was found with its skull fractured. It is undoubtedly a case of infanticide.

THE TARIFF.

An Ad Valorem Duty of Five Per Cent. Upon Hop Extract and Lupuling.

An Anti-Trust Amendment to the Tariff Bill to Be Introduced at the End of the Sugar Schedule—The Amendment May Be Defeated.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Senator Warren Thursday introduced amendments to the tariff bill taking raw skins and hides not especially provided for from the free list and imposing duties upon them as follows:

On the skins of hair sheep, or half breeds or Angora sheep raw or unhaired, 5 cents per pound; goat skins, kangaroo skins and hides and skins of all other animals not tanned and not especially provided for, 8 cents per pound; uncured sheep skins without wool on them whether dry, salted or pickled, 50 cents per dozen.

Senator Warren also offered amendments increasing the rate on chamois and book-binders' calfskins, etc., from 20 to 35 per cent. ad valorem. Another amendment introduced by Mr. Warren strikes out the finance committee amendments to paragraph 427 providing various duties on morroco, piano forte leather and boots and shoes, made of leather, and inserts instead for the word morrocco a provision for a rate of 50 per cent. ad valorem on all tanned but unfinished skins and hides not especially provided for.

The senate committee on finance has agreed to recommend that an ad valorem duty of 5 per cent. be placed on hop extract and lupuling, adding the provision to paragraph 247 relating to hops.

It is Senator Pettigrew's intention to offer his anti-trust amendment to the tariff bill at the end of the sugar schedule, and the manner of its acceptance is beginning to be a matter of speculation among senators. There was some talk Thursday of the necessity for a republican caucus to decide the position that party in the senate should take upon the proposition, which grew out of well-founded reports that some republican senators had announced their intention to vote for the amendment when presented in the senate. It is not yet certain that a caucus will not be held upon the subject, and it is broadly hinted that even in case a caucus is held and the decision of a majority is gained against the amendment there may be still some republican votes for it. Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, was represented to be among those who had said they would oppose the provision by their votes in opposition to the mandate of the caucus, but when asked to state his position the New Hampshire senator said that his attitude would be controlled by the course which might be taken with reference to the railroad pooling bill. If that bill, he said, was to be reported by the interstate commerce committee regardless of the inaction of the house and merely for the purpose of committing the senate in that case, he would favor an anti-trust amendment to the tariff bill; otherwise he would be controlled in the matter by the sentiment of his party. There are a few other republican senators, however, who are recognized as being more or less in doubt as to the position they should take on a final vote and now express themselves as inclined to follow personal inclinations for the amendment regardless of party action. The general opinion is that in case a caucus is held the verdict would be against the amendment as presenting a different subject for legislation and one which should be dealt with on its own merits and separate from the tariff.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The senate has defeated the Cannon amendment giving an export bounty on agricultural products by yeas 16, nays 59. The sugar schedule of the tariff bill was taken up by the senate at 1:10 p. m. Thursday.

The house Thursday passed two comparatively unimportant resolutions and then adjourned until Monday.

IN GAY COLORS.

Nashville, Tenn., Prepared for the Visit of President McKinley and Party—Cincinnati Day.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 11.—Bunting, gay colors, flags and decorations are already in evidence and the line of march of the procession escorting President and Mrs. McKinley and party to the exposition grounds Friday will be between handsome residences lavishly bedecked. The city is interested in the coming of the president of the United States has aroused the community and extended to neighboring towns. Already hotel registers show long lists of names and railroads have prepared special trains to accommodate the incoming thousands. The programme of exercises for Friday will be adhered to and Friday night all Nashville will attend to honor the president and listen to the specially prepared programme to be rendered by Innes' band and view the most gorgeous display of fire works ever witnessed in the south.

Mayor McCarthy has issued his proclamation declaring Saturday a public holiday and calling upon all the people to shut up shop and participate in the popular reception to be given to the president on that day.

In addition to the speakers heretofore announced for Friday's exercises Hon. J. M. Dickerson will in a brief speech present to the president the hickory walking stick, the gift of the Ladies' Hermitage association.

High School Graduates.

LONDON, O., June 11.—The twenty-seventh annual commencement of the London high school was held Thursday morning at the High Street theater. The class consisted of 19 members. Instead of having an oration from each as heretofore the class was addressed by Rev. Sp[illegible] president of Wooster university. A large crowd was in attendance.

Ohio Roads at a Premium.

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—The $250,000 state refunding bonds were sold Thursday to Seasongood, Mayer & Co., of Cincinnati, at a premium of $31.75.

TEWFIK PASHA.

Ambassadors Ignore His Absence in Their Negotiations—Greece Called Upon to Pay Only One and a Half Million Pounds.

LONDON, June 12.—The ambassadors at Constantinople to some extent ignore the absence of Tewfik Pasha and continue their negotiations without him.

It is understood they have reached the conclusion that it is useless to hope for the early evacuation of Thessaly. The harvest, therefore will be reckoned part of the indemnity; Greece will be called upon to pay only one and a half million pounds and Thessaly will be evacuated after the harvest.

The Turkish government is draining the Asiatic provinces of the empire for troops to be sent to the Balkans, and has ordered an additional 150,000 Mauser rifles.

Another story is that Emperor William is urging Bulgaria to demand an autonomous regime for Macedonia, in which case Thessaly should be included.

PARIS, June 12.—A dispatch to the Soleil from St. Petersburg says that Germany is trying to secure the retention of Turkish garrisons in Crete, the retrocession of Thessaly to Turkey, and the abolition of the special privileges accorded to Greek subjects in the Ottoman empire. Russia, according to the correspondent of the Soleil, refuses to concede these points. He adds, "And so Germany will have to yield."

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 12.—The Turkish government has issued a circular to the powers with a view to obtain their support in the peace negotiations but, thus far, Russia alone has replied, expressing the opinion that the questions of the indemnity and the capitulation appear less difficult than the delimitation of Thessaly. This reply is regarded in Turkish circles as justifying the hope that Russia will support the retrocession of Thessaly, but this opinion is not shared by the members of the foreign diplomatic corps in this city.

USED DYNAMITE.

An Attempt Made Upon the Life of Gov. Smith, of the National Soldiers' Home, and His Family.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., June 12.—A diabolical attempt was made upon the life of Gov. Andrew J. Smith, of the National Soldiers' home, and his wife and daughter between 4 and 5 a. m. Friday by some dastard who is as yet unknown. Dynamite was employed in the outrage, and the explosion, which all but demolished the governor's beautiful residence, aroused the residents of the city and houses trembled as if undergoing an earthquake shock.

Mrs. Smith had a miraculous escape from death, the door of the explosion being directly beneath her bed chamber. Besides being cut and bruised by broken glass and pieces of flying brick-a-brac and furniture she was completely prostrated by the frightful shock and is now in a precarious condition. Gov. Smith and their daughter, Miss Daisy, occupied rooms on the second floor and were far enough removed from the explosion to escape the serious consequences suffered by Mrs. Smith.

The residence is a scene of wreckage. The brick walls are torn and cracked, one side being almost completely blown out. The windows are shattered and the debris is scattered over the grounds for a distance of several rods.

Ralph W. Oliver, a dishonorably discharged veteran, has been arrested by the police of this city. Evidence against him is strong.

CINCINNATI DAY.

The Cincinnati Building Dedication—Many Prominent People From the Queen City Present.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 12.—Saturday the Cincinnati building was dedicated, President McKinley attending. Already there have arrived hundreds of Cincinnatians, and special trains Saturday morning brought thousands. The president and party will be escorted to the exposition by United States troops and the Cincinnati police and accompanied by President J. W. Thomas and the exposition executive committee. At 11 o'clock the Cincinnati building was presented by Robert Laidlaw to Mayor Caldwell and formally dedicated by him. A reception in the building followed for an hour. The Marine band of Cincinnati furnished the music. At night the fire works will be especially for Cincinnati day.

At 4 o'clock the Cincinnati police will give an exhibition drill. Friday afternoon a handsome banquet was given Mayor Caldwell and the other Cincinnati officials and numerous invited guests, after which the Cincinnati party went on a special train to Belle Mead and were entertained by Gen. W. H. Jackson.

Treaty of Alliance Between Russia and France.

LONDON, June 12.—The Paris correspondent of the Times says: "I am in position to affirm that a definite treaty of alliance will be signed during M. Faure's approaching visit to Russia by the Emperor Nicholas, President Faure, Count Muravieff, the Russian foreign minister and M. Hanotaux, the French foreign minister. The treaty, whose terms have already been settled, will be one of the most laboriously constructed instruments of its kind.

The Execution Postponed.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 12.—Terrell Hudson, colored, sentenced to hang at Decatur Friday for the murder in November last of Seab Malcolm, another Negro, with whom he quarreled about a dog, has been respited for two weeks by Gov. Atkinson.

County Records Guard Guard.

LAGRANGE, Ind., June 12.—The Steuben county records at Angola are now under the care of special police during the day and night. The people are greatly excited, wanting an investigation. Their actions were such as to cause apprehension.

THE PRESIDENT

Honors Cincinnati Day by His Presence at the Tennessee Exposition.

The Cincinnati Building Formally Presented to Mayor Caldwell, Who Declared the Structure Open to the People of All the States.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 14.—Adorned with white vest, straw hat and a Buckeye badge, President McKinley arrived on the Centennial grounds before 11 Saturday morning. He drove out in a three-seated wagon drawn by three horses abreast, Russian fashion, and declining all aid, leaped lightly to the ground in front of the Cincinnati building. Saturday was Cincinnati day at the exposition and the handsome building was early thronged by residents of the Queen City, a number of the picked policemen being in evidence. Although the heat continued, it was somewhat tempered by light clouds and a very perceptible wind from the west. This made it possible for the president and Cincinnati officials, with the chief promotors of the exposition, to sit on the portico of the building during the exercises which followed. On the smooth plaza and roadway outside the interested crowd gathered, and none had difficulty in seeing or hearing.

President of the centennial commission, J. W. Thomas, opened the dedicatory exercises by extending in graceful fashion a hearty welcome to the Ohio natives. He was followed by the veteran Gen. W. H. Jackson, of the famous Belle Meade farm, who was evidently a favorite, not only in official circles, but with the auditors.

Mr. W. R. Mellish, of Cincinnati, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced Hon. Robert Laidlaw, president of the Cincinnati commissioners, who formally presented the building to the mayor of Cincinnati in a carefully prepared speech, in which he pointed out not only the resources of the state of Tennessee, but the admirable exhibit here found, and dwelt upon the commercial relations between Tennessee and Cincinnati.

John A. Caldwell, mayor of Cincinnati, accepted the building, declared it opened to the public of all states, and in a speech replete with happy phrases, bespoke for Ohio the continued good will of her centennial sister.

Gov. Asa S. Bushnell followed the mayor of Cincinnati, his remarks being entirely extemporaneous and in a great measure facetious. In a serious mood, however, he commented upon the greatness of the exposition and the good judgment displayed by Cincinnati business men in being so well represented therein.

Many expected, and all hoped, for a speech from President McKinley, but he preferred to meet his Ohio friends personally and therefore held a reception in the Cincinnati building, an aisle being formed by the Cincinnati police through which the visitors approached and retired from the president. With Mr. McKinley were secretaries Sherman, Gary and Porter and Commissioner Evans.

After the reception the president, accompanied by numerous exposition officials, made a tour of the grounds, preparatory to the luncheon which was again served, this time to gentlemen only, in the West Side club. He visited all the state buildings and registered at each. Owing to the heat and to the fatigues of Friday it was determined to make all the official duties as light as possible. Every one of the presidential party, however, including its chief are in good health and spirits.

Both the president and Mrs. McKinley have been much pleased with their reception not only here, but throughout the south. The only trouble is that their hosts have wanted to do too much, and altogether it has not been a vacation for the president.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 14.—After a week of travel, sight seeing, speech making and social duties, somewhat onerous, though pleasant in performance, President McKinley and the more immediate official staff, had a Sabbath of restfulness. The heat, while intense, was more or less tempered by a northwesterly breeze which, however, was not much in evidence in the railway station into which the train pulled from Nashville, just as day was breaking. The run was made very slowly, purposely, in order that the president and his wife would not be disturbed immediately upon their arrival here. They breakfasted in their car, and immediately after, much to the regret of many prominent citizens, who wished to meet the chief executive in the morning, drove to the residence of Hon. H. Clay Evans, United States commissioner of pensions. It was not the desire of the hospitable citizens of Chattanooga, however, in any way to controvert the president's wishes.

At 10:30 o'clock the president, accompanied by ex-Postmaster General Key and Mr. Evans, went to the First Methodist church. Mrs. McKinley did not accompany him.

The 'Human Ostrich" Dead.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 14.—Harry Whallen, the "Human Ostrich," who was operated on at the German hospital Saturday last, and from whose stomach the surgeons took two pocket knives, three knife blades, three ounces of fine glass, and tacks, nails, screws and staples to the number of 70, died at 2 o'clock Sunday morning as a result of the operation.

Child Slept on the Track.

DALLAS, Tex., June 14.—Engineer Jacob Corn, of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas road, stopped his train and got out of the cab near St. Joe. He thought he had killed a child. His entire train had passed over it, but he found it unhurt. It had been asleep on the [illegible]

Earthquake Shock in Calcutta.

CALCUTTA, June 14.—A smart earthquake shock was felt in this city at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, which lasted a number of seconds. Several buildings were cracked, but no serious damage is reported.

WASHING BLANKETS.

Summer is the best time for washing blankets. To do the work satisfactorily fill a tub half full of soft hot water in which half a bar of Ivory soap has been dissolved, and wash gently with the hands. Rosin soap and hard rubbing ruins blankets. When clean rinse well, hang on the line in the sun. As soon as dry, fold evenly and put away securely in a box or closet. Blankets washed thus will remain fresh and soft for years.

ELIZA R. PARKER.

Taking Time by the Forelock.—"I have just been at my husband to induce him to buy me a sealskin jacket." "What! in the spring?" "Oh, it will be winter before I worry him into doing it."—Judy.

Popular with Hunters.

The most popular hunting rifles are made by the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Ct. Their light, modern, high powered small caliber rifles have revolutionized gun making and are fast supplanting all other makes. The Winchester Models '94 and '95 do terrific execution. They will kill at distances where big bore guns would not injure. They are very popular with the most successful hunters on account of their accuracy at short and long distances and their tremendous killing power. Send for a large illustrated catalogue describing them.

That Stern Revolt.—"You belong to the Order of New Women, don't you, Miss Biggs?" "Yes; but why do you call us that? the new woman won't stand being ordered."—Chicago Record.

"A Bundle of Nerves."

This term is often applied to people whose nerves are abnormally sensitive. They should strengthen them with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. A regular course of that benign tonic, they will cease to be conscious that they have nervous systems, except through agreeable sensations. It will enable them to eat, sleep and digest well, the three media for increasing tone and vigor in the nerves, in common with the rest of the system. The mental worry begotten by nervous dyspepsia will also disappear.

A sergeant in a volunteer corps, being doubtful whether he had distributed rifles to all the men, called out: "All you that are without arms hold up your hands!"

A Good Appetite is essential for health and physical strength. When the blood is weak thin and impure the appetite fails. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach, gives strength to the nerves and health to the whole system. It is just the medicine needed now.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Sold by all druggists. Be sure to get Hood's.

Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effective. All druggists. 25c.

$25.00 Chicago to California

And $23.00 from ST. LOUIS, is the rate that will be made by the

Santa Fe Route

For the Christian Endeavor Convention in July. It will also apply to intermediate points, and in the reverse direction.

Have you wished to visit the SOUTHWEST; the remarkable health resorts; the irrigated farms and orchards; the new mining camps now attracting a multitude of gold-seekers; the towering Rockies; the stupendous chasms of the Grand Canon of the Colorado River; the far-famed marvels of mountain and valley on that western shore where the blue Pacific rolls? Then take this opportunity.

You may learn all about it by addressing with postal card or letter.

All droppings, 25c.

W. J. BLACK, G. P. A., A. T. & S. F'y, Room 144, 9th & Jackson Sts., Topeka, Kan.

C. A. HIGGINS, A. G. P. A., Room 1644-60, Northern Bldg., Chicago.

On a red hot day Hires Rootbeer stands between you and the distressing effects of the heat.

HIRES Rootbeer

cools the blood, tones the stomach, invigorates the body, fully satisfies the thirst. A delicious, sparkling, temperance drink of the highest medicinal value.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Phila. A package makes 5 gallons. Sold every where.

$75 $50

RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE.

Western Wheel Works MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS

CATALOGUE FREE

SILOS

HOW TO BUILD ADD WILLIAMS MFG. CO., KALAMAZOO, MICH.

EDUCATIONAL.

Chicago Musical College. CENTRAL MUSIC HALL, CHICAGO, ILL.

DR. F. ZIEGFELD, President.

MUSIC ORATORY and DRAMATIC ART.

32nd SEASON BEGINS SEPT. 8, 1897. SEND FOR CATALOGUE.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The senate Monday disposed of the lumber paragraph which has been more stubbornly contested than any feature of the bill thus far, by defeating the motion of Senator Vest, to place white pine on the free list, yeas, 30; nays, 38. The contest was mainly significant in breaking party lines which have been maintained with few exceptions during the early days of the debate. On the final vote eight democratic senators voted against Mr. Vest's proposition namely: Messrs Bacon and Clay, of Georgia, McEnery, of Louisiana, McLaurin and Tillman, of South Carolina, Martin, of Virginia: Rawlins, of Utah, and White. On the other hand, Mr. Carter, republican, and Messrs. Cannon and Mantis, silver republicans, voted for the Vest motion. Following this, a vote to substitute the Wilson lumber schedule was declared, 31-37, and the schedule was agreed to as reported. The debate preceding the vote was at times warm, owing to the political lines. A general discussion of the future programme on the bill occurred before the senate adjourned.

HOUSE—The house was in session for an hour or two Monday and adjourned until Thursday.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—SENATE—By the decisive vote of 43 to 19 the senate adopted the amendment to the tariff bill placing raw cotton, the great product of the south, on the dutiable list at .2 per cent ad valorem. It is the first time in the history of tariff legislation that a duty on cotton has been incorporated in a bill. The amendment was proposed by Mr. Bacon (dem., Ga.) on his individual responsibility and without the approval of the finance committee, and thus far has been requisite to the success of every amendment except a minor one which went through by default. The amendment left to a spirited debate, democratic senators discussing a wide difference of views and at times exchanging sharp personal criticisms. On the final vote six democrats, Bacon and Clay (Ga.); McEnery, (La.); McLaurin and Tillman, (S. C.), and Rawlins, (Utah), voted with the republicans for the Bacon amendment while the negative vote was solidly democratic with one exception—Kyle, populist. The debate on cotton took up the most of the day. Early in the day the sugar schedule was passed over and the agricultural schedule was taken up. The paragraph on cattle went over but the balance of the agricultural schedule, up to and including paragraph 228, was agreed to as reported, all amendments except that of Mr. Bacon's being rejected.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—SENATE.—The senate had a period of tariff speech making today and as a result little progress was made on the bill. Mr. Rawlins (Utah) and Mr. Mills (Tex.) discussed the democratic attitude on the tariff from their respective standpoints. Mr. Rawlins was a member of the platform committee of the Chicago convention and proposed the tariff plank which was adopted. He held that every vote of his colleagues and democratic senators had cast for duties on cotton and other agricultural products was justified by the platform and by the traditions of the party. Mr. Mills answered the charge of bill as a class measure designed to build up a vast fund for distribution among the beneficiaries of the bill and at the expense of the "forgotten man," the tax payer. The latter criticised those democratic senators who voted for the amendments to the bill putting a tax on cotton and other articles, contending that their course was a radical departure from the tenets of democracy. Later in the day Mr. Cannon (Utah) proposed an amendment placing an export bounty on agricultural products. He spoke two hours on the need of giving the farmer a share of the benefits of the tariff. Mr. Butler (N. C.) also spoke in favor of giving the farmer equal benefits with other classes under the bill. Only half a page of the bill covering four brief and comparatively unimportant paragraphs (2.9 to 233) were disposed of during the day. The session will begin at 11 a. m. Thursday.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—SENATE—The long deferred debate on the sugar schedule of the tariff bill came on abruptly at 1 o'clock Thursday, after the senate had disposed of the cereals in the agricultural schedule. The interest in the sugar schedule had been wheeted for weeks, and aside from the fact that more or less interest attached to any tariff vote, other article, there was the added interest due to the sensational charges made of late, within and without the senate, concerning irregularities in connection with the progress of the schedule. But the debate failed to develop any dramatic incidents. Senators and spectators soon lapsed into a state of indifference, as the speeches dealt with a labyrinth of technical details, of vital interest to the sugar refiner and expert, but not to the general public. Mr. Jones (Ark.) opened the debate, to some extent answering Mr Aldrich's statement on the sugar schedule. It was argumentative and lacking in severe denunciatory features. Mr. Hale, senator from Maine, then proposed save the refiners an excessive differential and pointed out how they had thrived on the ⅛ differential of the present law. Mr. Vest severely criticised the sugar trust and argued that the rates were a further tribute to its vast resources. Mr. Caffery (La.) also opposed the schedule as a whole. No final votes were taken on any feature of the schedule further than the withdrawal of the original senate committee amendments. This leaves the house provisions of the bill with an amendment increasing the house differential from 873-1000 to 95-100 cents per pound. The provisions relating to the Hawaiian island went over by mutual consent. Early in day Mr. Tillman (S. C.) made a lively speech in favor of the amendment giving an export duty on agricultural products. He took occasion in this connection to criticise democratic senators who were giving a strict and literal construction to the democratic doctrine of a tax for revenue only. The bounty amendment was defeated 10 to 39.

HOUSE—The house passed a couple of unimportant bills and adjourned until Monday.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—SENATE—The first vote on the sugar schedule was taken in the senate late Friday, resulting in the adoption of the republican caucus amendment changing the house rate of 1.95 per pound by the close vote of yeas 32, nays 30. The affirmative vote was made up of 29 republicans, 1 democrat (McEnery, La.), 1 silver republican (Jones, Nev.), and 1 populist (Stewart, Nev.). The negative vote was made up of 25 democrats, 3 populists and 2 silver republicans. It was the closest vote thus far taken on an issue of importance, and was received with cheering that any amendment having the sanction of the caucus was assured of adoption. The vote was taken after a day spent in speeches on the effect of the sugar schedule. The main speech of the day came from Mr. Allison, in charge of the bill, and was in the nature of an answer to the charges made against the sugar schedule as a whole, and a defense of it. Mr. Gorman (Md.) spoke against the schedule and the entire bill, pointing out that its effect was to burden the people without opening up to us new foreign markets. Mr. White reviewed the records of republican senators on the sugar schedule during the debate on the Wilson bill, arraigning them for inconsistency. Mr. Caffery (La.) and Mr. Stewart (Nev.) also spoke, the former against and the latter for the pending schedule, after which the vote was taken. The first paragraph of the sugar schedule was not finally disposed of up to the time of adjournment.

All Dead of Yellow Fever.

DENVER, Col., June 14.—The death of William H. Korn, of Leadville, Col., from yellow fever, at quarantine in New York, marks the total extinction of one party of prospectors who left Colorado last March to dig for gold in Bolivia. The other members of the party, Thomas Quayle, of Aspen, and Frank O'Keith and William Hahn, of Leadville, died of the fever in Bolivia. Of another party of four who went from Colorado to Bolivia about the same time, only William Hurley survives, and he is reported to be ill in quarantine in New York.

THE COMMITTEE

Agrees to a Number of Amendments in Agriculture Schedule.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The senate committee on finance has agreed upon a number of additional amendments to the agricultural schedule, the most important of them relating to fish as follows:

A new paragraph on canned fish is to be recommended as follows: "225—fish known or labeled as anchovies, sardines, sprats, Brislings, sardels or sardellen, packed in oil or otherwise, in bottles, jars, tin boxes or cans shall be dutiable as follows: Containing 1¼ cubic inches or less, 1¼ cents per bottle, jar, box or can; containing more than 1¼ and not more than 21 cubic inches, 2½ cents per bottle, jar, box or can; containing more than 21 and not more than 33 cubic inches, 5 cents per bottle, jar, box or can; containing more than 33 and not more than 70 cubic inches, 10 cents per bottle, jar, box or can, if in other packages 40 per centum ad valorem. All other fish, except shell fish, in tin packages 30 per centum ad valorem; fish in packages of whatever material, 30 per cent ad valorem. It is the first time in the history of tariff legislation that a duty on cotton has been incorporated in a bill. The amendment was proposed by Mr. Bacon (dem., Ga.) on his individual responsibility and without the approval of the finance committee, and thus far has been requisite to the success of every amendment except a minor one which went through by default. The amendment left to a spirited debate, democratic senators discussing a wide difference of views and at times exchanging sharp personal criticisms. On the final vote six democrats, Bacon and Clay (Ga.); McEnery, (La.); McLaurin and Tillman, (S. C.), and Rawlins, (Utah), voted with the republicans for the Bacon amendment while the negative vote was solidly democratic with one exception—Kyle, populist. The debate on cotton took up the most of the day. Early in the day the sugar schedule was passed over and the agricultural schedule was taken up. The paragraph on cattle went over but the balance of the agricultural schedule, up to and including paragraph 228, was agreed to as reported, all amendments except that of Mr. Bacon's being rejected.

Chocolate and cocoa, prepared or manufactured, not specially provided for, valued at not over 15 cents per pound, 2½ cents per pound; valued above 15 cents and not above 24 cents 3½ cents per pound, and 10 per cent ad valorem; valued above 24 and not above 35 cents per pound, 5 cents per pound and 10 per cent ad valorem; valued above 35 cents, 50 per cent ad valorem, the weight and value of all coverings other than plain wooden shall be included in the dutiable weight and value of the foregoing merchandise. Powdered cocoa, unsweetened, 5 cents per pound."

That paragraph relating to extracts of meat was amended so as to provide that the dutiable weight of this article should not include the weight of the package in which it is imported.

The house rate of one cent per pound on edible berries which the committee originally struck out is restored and cranberries are specifically added at 25 per cent. ad valorem.

The rate on chicory root was fixed at 2½ cents per pound, the house rate being 3 cents and the original finance committee rate 2 cents.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—In the appointment of John G. A. Leishman, of Pennsylvania, Wednesday, to be minister to Switzerland, the president has turned down Brutus J. Clay, of Kentucky.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The special train conveying President McKinley and his party left Washington for Nashville at noon Wednesday over the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad. The private car of President M. E. Ingalls, in which Mr. McKinley and his immediate party traveled, was fragrant with gigantic pots of roses and other flowers. There were also flowers in the car occupied by the cabinet and the invited guests. The train was in charge of W. H. Gregor, agent of the passenger department of the road.

The party consists of President and Mrs. McKinley, Secretary and Mrs. Porter, Dr. and Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Saxton, Secretary Sherman and daughter, Mrs. McCallum, Secretary and Mrs. Alger and Miss Frances Alger, Postmaster General and Mrs. Gary and the Misses Gary, Secretary Wilson and Miss Wilson, Commissioner of Pensions Evans, Gen. Grosvenor, Joseph P. Smith and Mrs. Smith and about 25 newspaper men.

Tariff Commission League.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The tariff commission league has opened headquarters in this city. Samuel B. Archer, secretary and treasurer of the league, will be in charge. The object of the association is to secure the passage of a bill for the appointment of a tariff commission whose duties will be to suggest to congress changes in rates of duty and thus take the tariff question out of politics.

The New Minister to Hayti.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Wm. F. Powell, of New Jersey, who was Wednesday named as minister to Hayti, is a colored man who lives in Southern New Jersey. He was urged for the position by Senator Sewall and Representative Loudenslager.

Chinese Drowned in a Gale.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 10.—Meager particulars were brought by Empress of Japan of a disaster which befell the fishermen of Chusan Archipelago, off the coast of China. On May 6, while all, or at least most, of the fishing boats were out on the fishing banks, a terrible gale sprang up. Of the several hundred boats out at the time very few returned, and it is estimated that some 500 men lost their lives. The storm swept over the entire archipelago. Several large junks were lost, in which scores perished.

Prof. Alvin G. Clark Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 10.—Prof. Alvin G. Clark, the famous telescope lens manufacturer, died at his home here Wednesday as the result of a stroke of apoplexy. His latest finished work, the mammoth lens for the Yerkes telescope, was shipped to Chicago a short time ago.

Dr. Angell May Not Go To Turkey.

DETROIT, Mich., June 10.—The News correspondent at Ann Arbor quotes Dr. Angell as saying that he may not go to Turkey as United States minister. Dr. Angell declines to say why the matter is still in doubt.

MINNESOTA CYCLONE.

A Large Number of Persons Are Killed and Injured.

Houses and Other Buildings in Its Course Demolished—Ten Wires Are Down and Exports Are Meagar—Special Trains With Medical Aid on the Way.

MASON CITY, Ia., June 11.—At 6:50 Thursday night, a cyclone struck northwest of Lyle, Minn., taking a southeasterly course. Several people are reported killed and injured. The cyclone tore up houses and other buildings in its course, and the territory is now bare. The path of the storm was about half a mile in width. All telegraph lines north are down and box cars on sidings were smashed into kindling.

A cyclone passing over the town of Kandiohi, Wilmar county, Minn., entirely demolished the buildings on the farm of John Berqnra.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 11.—The cyclone at Lyle, Minn., knocked out the wires for the most part, but brief reports have been received here at midnight. The tornado went through the north portion of Lyle a few miles this side of the Iowa line. A number of dwellings and barns were demolished, cattle and horses being killed. So far as known only one person, Henry Hansen, was killed, but ten were injured, some of them, it is feared, fatally. Those injured were Charles Larson, wife and baby; Mr. Brooke and wife; Peter Hanson and wife and their son, Robert; Mrs. Haughson and Mrs. Henry Hansen.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 11.—A special from Osage, Ia., to the Tribune, confirms the reports of the cyclone and says six persons were killed and a number injured. A special train will take surgeons from that place.

CHICAGO, June 11.—All railway lines running in the vicinity of the track of the storm report telegraph poles blown down and other damage done. A railroad operator at Mason City reported at midnight that 20 houses were demolished in Lyle, one man killed outright and 20 others injured. It is believed that damage was done in the country around Lyle, there being all sorts of rumors of heavy loss of life. Owing to damage to telegraph lines definite information was lacking. A special train with surgeons, linemen and workmen was sent to Lyle from Waterloo, Ia., within an hour of the time of the storm.

OELWEIN, Ia., June 11.—Reports from Lytle up to 1 a. m. Thursday confirm the reports of extensive damage and loss of life along the Iowa-Minnesota state line. At Lytle one person was instantly killed and 20 people injured, eight of whom may die. Many buildings were totally destroyed and a heavy loss of life would have resulted had not the storm suddenly veered to the country to the south.

Reports from outside the city are to the effect that six persons were killed and ten badly injured. Several persons are reported missing from their farm houses and a number of additions to the dead list are expected.

The work of rescue is being rapidly pushed. Special trains with medical assistance were sent to the scene from all nearby points.

Lyle is on a branch line of the Chicago Great Western, just across the Iowa line. Telegraph wires are prostrated and definite details are extremely meager. Couriers from the rich farming country to the south of Lyle report great damage along the path of the twister, which was in places half a mile wide. Cattle and grain were swept away by the hundred, and a heavy loss of human life is feared.

DURRANT REPRIEVED.

Gov. Budd Gives the Courts Time to Think—Life Saved for a Time.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—A reprieve will be granted Theodore Durrant, it was stated Thursday morning. Gov. Budd's decision to grant the reprieve was made in order to settle whether the federal courts be allowed to review the state court's decisions. July 9 is the day which the governor has now named for the execution. Should the supreme court of the state uphold the governor in deciding that the federal courts can not interfere the execution will take place July 9. Gov. Budd holds that the habeas corpus proceedings and the appeal to the supreme court are not a stay of proceedings. His support by the supreme court will, it seems, seal Durrant's doom next month. The state court will render its decision as to the appeal sometime within the next 30 days.

Bank Officials Indicted.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 11.—The grand jury has indicted four officials of the failed Washington State bank—A. C. Haugen, the president, who at the time of the failure was also city treasurer and is now under indictment for his conduct of that office; J. H. Field, the cashier of the bank; A. E. Johnson, the well known steamship agent, and Olaf Searle, of St. Paul, who were directors. The indictments have been reported to the court, but as no arraignments have been made, their contents are not yet known. The charge in each case is supposed to be, however, borrowing money from the bank in violation of the state law, which prohibits bank officials from so doing.

Failed to Make a Case.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 11.—On motion of County Attorney Anderson, Judge Lewis Thursday afternoon ordered a verdict in favor of Congressman F. C. Stevens, on trial under an indictment for an alleged overdraft in his accounts with the Minnesota Savings bank, of which he was president.

An Heiress to the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 11.—The czarina became the mother of a daughter Thursday morning. The czar and czarina were married November 14 (26) 1894. Their first child, Olga, was born November 3 (15) 1895.

OHIO DAY

At the Tennessee Centennial the Biggest and Greatest Day Since the Opening.

NASHVILLE, June 12.—Ohio day was the biggest and grandest day since the opening of the Tennessee centennial. President McKinley and Gov. Bushnell, of course, were the chief attractions. Multitudes of people passed the turnstiles, variously estimated at from 30,000 to 50,000.

The president's party arrived here at 8 o'clock Friday morning over the Louisville & Nashville railroad half an hour late. The Union station at Nashville was packed with a dense throng. The reception and other committees were there. The police made a clear way for the party. The president, with Mrs. McKinley on his arm, passed through the open line to their carriage. The feature of the reception was an escort of 12 confederate veterans, attired in gray uniforms, wearing sabers and mounted on horses. They were commanded by Capt. George F. Hager.

After the party had breakfasted at the Maxwell house and enjoyed a brief rest Gov. Taylor, of Tennessee, Gov. Bushnell, of Ohio, and Mayor McCarthy, of Nashville, called on the president, followed by the executive committee of the Women's board. At 11 o'clock the presidential party, the reception committees, Gov. Taylor and Gov. Bushnell and their staffs and the mayor of Nashville, preceded by the Cincinnati police force as the president's escort of honor, left the Maxwell house in carriages for the custom house, several squares away, where military, civic, police and other bodies formed in and paraded through the principal streets to the exposition grounds.

In passing to the grounds a national salute of 45 guns was fired, the last gun being fired as the party reached the main entrance.

As the president entered the gates the centennial chimes in the tower of the auditorium were rung for the first time. At the exposition gates the procession was met by the exposition guards and a military band, and escorted to the auditorium, where other formal exercises in honor of the president and Ohio day began.

Fully 20,000 people were in and around the auditorium when the exercises began, and there were thousands more who could not gain entrance. The Innes band opened the exercises, followed by an address of welcome by President John W. Thomas, of the exposition. Gov. Taylor, of Tennessee, made the address of welcome on the part of Tennessee, and Mayor McCarthy in behalf of Nashville.

State Senator W. T. Clark, of Cleveland, O., responded in behalf of the Ohio Centennial commissioners and Gov. Bushnell, who was accorded an enthusiastic welcome, spoke in behalf of Ohio.

The Innes band rendered patriotic airs. Then President McKinley was introduced. The demonstration was a wonderful one.

Round upon round of cheers greeted the chief magistrate, who bowed his acknowledgments repeatedly. He finally waved his hand for quiet, only to be wildly cheered again. After 10 minutes of frantic demonstration quiet was restored and the president began to speak.

The president and some of his party visited the Parthenon, which is the art repository, and the children's building, and then repaired to the west side club house, a handsome structure near the administration building and fronting the Parthenon. In the ladies' parlor there Mrs. McKinley held an informal reception. Later in the afternoon she and the president gave a reception to women only in the women's building. During the luncheon the residents of "Vanity Fair," which is similar in many respects to the "Midway Plaisance" at Chicago, formed an unique procession and marched past the club house, from the galleries of which, on which the luncheon was served, a good view could be obtained of the camels, Asiatics, Chinamen and old time Negroes, together with the representation of a dragon, which attracted attention even from the most distinguished dignitaries. When luncheon drew to a close there was general demands for speeches from one or another of the men of national prominence present, and Gov. Bushnell, Gen. Taylor, Secretary Sherman, Col. C. H. Grosvenor, Mayor McKisson, of Cleveland, and Col. Charles Page Bryan, of Illinois, responded. All the speeches were in the light vein suitable to the occasion and many lively sallies and humorous allusions met appreciative reception.

From six until half past seven in the evening and immediately following the reception by the president and his wife in the women's building, the visiting newspaper men were heartily entertained by their local brethren in the press building. At 8 o'clock a fine display of fireworks over the lake and on its shores was viewed by Mr. and Mrs. McKinley and their party from the steps of the Parthenon. The distinguished sight-seers were guarded by a cordon of regulars and evidently greatly enjoyed the exhibition.

Not at all inferior to the fireworks was the illumination of all the principal structures by means of search and electric lights, there being a notable profusion of the latter. The fireworks over, the president, wife and suite, returned to the city, tired and a little worn by the heat, but ready to accord the day a high place in the calendar of remembrance.

Terrell Receives the Sultan's Compliments.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 13.—Mr. Alexander W. Terrell, the United States minister to Turkey, attended the Selamlik Friday and received the compliments of the sultan, who expressed a desire to receive him in audience before his departure on the 15th.

Flag Day.

CINCINNATI, June 12.—June 14 is the day set apart by the Sons of the Revolution as flag day in commemoration of the adoption of the stars and stripes as the national emblem.

SUGAR SCHEDULE

Will Be the Leading Subject in the Senate the Present Week.

With the Sugar Schedule Settled the Agricultural Schedule of the Tariff Bill Will Again Be Taken Up, Followed by the Tobacco Schedule.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The sugar schedule of tariff bill is expected to continue to be the subject of consideration in the senate for the next day or two. The Hawaiian treaty and anti-trust amendments are still to be disposed of, and both will excite considerable debate. With the sugar question settled, the agricultural schedule which has been partially considered, will be again taken up, and will in time be followed by the tobacco schedule if not the meantime the republicans agree upon its provisions. The republican managers hope to also dispose of the spirit and cotton schedules during the week and possibly to make some progress with the hemp and flax provisions. There will be no great amount of debate on either cotton or spirits. There was at one time talk of an attempt to add compensatory duties on cotton goods because of the duty fixed on raw cotton, but this is understood to have been abandoned, if ever seriously contemplated. The democrats do not find the present schedule objectionable except in minor details and will allow it to go through with but little discussion. The republican managers now hope that the debate in the senate will be concluded within the next two weeks, notwithstanding less than one-third of the bill has been gone over. They have secured an agreement with the democrats that the sessions shall begin at 11 o'clock each day instead of 12 after Wednesday next.

The house probably will continue its policy of adjourning from Monday over to Thursday, and from Thursday until the following Monday. No business will be done and the sessions Monday and Thursday will be merely perfunctory.

The treasury department has received by reference from the secretary of state a communication from the Spanish minister to the effect that he has information that an important filibustering expedition is being organized on the coast of Florida, and asks that steps be taken by the government to frustrate it. No particulars were given, so that the only action that could be taken by the department was to communicate this information to all collectors and masters of the patrol fleet on the Florida coast, with instructions to be on the alert to prevent the departure of any suspected expedition. This was done Sunday by telegraph.

It developed later that the department has specific information of the shipment of arms and ammunition for the railways to the vessel destined for Cuba.

It is probable that the vessel which will receive these arms will not come close to shore.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The republican senators in their caucus Saturday failed to reach any agreement on the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty, and adjourned with the understanding that another caucus would be held Saturday night or Monday.

A NOVEL SCHEME.

The Newberry Library Intends to Have a Manuscript of Genealogy of Every Family in Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 14.—When a Chicago grammar school boy of the present day runs for president of the United States in the years to come his campaign biographers need go no farther than the Newberry library for material, for they will find there his family history written by his own hand.

The Newberry library intended to have a manuscript of genealogy of every family in Chicago, from that of Policeman John P. Asfici, first in the directory, to that of Polisher Jan Zywicky, whose name rounds out the list, and the institution has taken a means to secure its end, as unique as it is effective.

Assistant Librarian Rudolph has sent a letter to the principal of every grammar and high school in the city asking that each pupil of sufficient age be requested to prepare a written account of his or her family, beginning with the grandparents and bringing it down to the present generation.

These manuscripts are to be filed in the genealogical room of the library, are to be indexed so they may be referred to at any time. Such an index will be practically equivalent to a roster of Chicago citizens.

Killed by a Train.

PIQUA, O., June 14.—The mangled body of an unknown man, presumed to be that of a tramp, was discovered Sunday morning four miles west of the city lying alongside the tracks of the Pan Handle. From appearances he was a man 65 years old.

Want Damages.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 14.—The attorneys who have been retained to defend the officers of the British steamer Bermuda, detained on a charge of being implicated in filibustering previous to touching at Port Antonio, have filed a claim of £25,000 on behalf of Capt. Murphy and the other defendants against the Jamaica government.

Killed by Cigarettes.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., June 14.—Guy Morrow, aged 16, of Palatine, died Sunday evening from the effect of cigarettes. He asked that this statement be made to warn other boys.

PITH AND POINT.

—"One gets a certain finish abroad, I fancy." "Yes, one goes over there and they tell her she can't sing, and that's the end of her."—Detroit Journal.

—"Bobby asked me what a continuous performance was," "What did you tell him?" "I said that the tariff discussion was as near as I could come to it."—Chicago Record.

—Lea (sadly)—"I don't know what to do with that boy of mine. He's been two years at the medical college, and still keeps at the foot of his class." Perrins. (promptly)—"Make a chiropodist of him."—Tit-Bits.

—A Puzzling Question.—Frances (four years old)—"Mamma?" Mamma—"What is it, dear?" "You never saw me before I was born, did you?" "No, love." "Then how did you know it was me?"—Harlem Life.

—England's Younger Sons.—English Lord (to younger son)—"It's time, Clarence, that you were thinking about a career." Dutiful Son—"I will be guided by you, father. Shall I take orders, study for the bar, enter the army, or marry an American?"—N. Y. Weekly.

—A tract distributor, the other day, in a new settlement out west, popped his head into an Irishman's cabin, and asked him "if he would accept a tract on the Holy Land?" "Yes, bedad," cried Pat, "I'll take a houl section, if ye'll pay my passage right through."—Household Words.

—"Father," said the bright little girl, "what is loaf sugar?" "There are several kinds, my dear," replied Senator Sorghum. "The most important variety is that which enables a man by a little superior knowledge and prompt action to place himself beyond the necessity of working any more."—Washington Star.

EDHEM PASHA.

A War Correspondent's View of the Turkish General.

Edhem Pasha understands war thoroughly, but it took him a little time to appreciate the functions of a war correspondent. He seemed to think that the latter should be hedged about by many restrictions, tenderly fostered and safely deposited during a battle among the baggage animals and the knights of the hospital. It was some time before he realized that the expectation of witnessing and describing a battle was the one thing which procured him the honor of these gentlemen's company in his camp. One anxious morning, at a time when war was thought to be imminent, on sending round to headquarters it appeared that the general and all his staff had flitted during the night and had gone no man would say whither. No orders had been left and the guards would allow no one to pass. Here was a case for disappointment, but no man may run the gauntlet of an Albanian guard with impunity. When the general returned a joint representation was made and he was entreated not to allow this kind of thing to occur again. He expressed his penitence and promised a timely warning of any unexpected move.

It may be interesting to mention that Edhem Pasha, the central figure of this little world, is about 45 years of age, though he looks older. He is rather above middle height and wears a short, thick, black beard, already flecked with gray. His nose is straight and rather long, but his most interesting feature is his gray eyes, which are large and intelligent. His manner is very attractive—a mixture of that courtesy and dignity which are not uncommon among Turkish officers.

He does not strike one as a strong man physically, though I am told he is a hard worker and does not spare himself. His manner of talking is as a rule quiet and marked by much refinement and gravity; but it grows animated when a subject kindles his interest, and his eyes glow with enthusiasm. It is difficult to judge of a man's sense of humor through the barriers of a strange language. His style of life is simple and he has none of the oriental love of display. In character he seems to be straightforward and sincere, frank and truth-loving. Trickery and intrigue, diplomacy and politics he alike detests. His subordinates and those who see him more intimately are very fond of him.

"He treats us," one of the aids-de-camp said to me, "not as a superior, but as a father."—London Telegraph.

Great Britain and Zanzibar.

At last slavery has been abolished in Zanzibar. On April 6 the sultan issued a decree which abolishes the legal status—incredible as it sounds, we have actually been enforcing plantation slavery in the islands ever since we took possession of them. Compensation is to be awarded for slaves legally held, and, if Zanzibar is unable to meet the expenditure, help is to be given by England. The clauses as to compensation are said to have made the Arabs receive the decree without discontent, and there is reported to be no probability of resistance. The Arabs, say the telegrams, were so cowed by the recent bombardment that they will not show fight. It is asserted, however, that in future the greater portion of the clove crop will remain unpicked. We doubt it. If the cloves are worth picking—i. e., will pay for picking—the owners will be able to get people to pick them. We cannot refrain from saying that the story of our dealings with slavery in Zanzibar is extremely discreditable. Till forced into better ways by public opinion the foreign office refused to act upon what was long ago settled to be the cardinal policy of this country—the policy of abolishing slavery whenever and wherever we had the power and opportunity.—London Spectator.

Author and Critic.

Struggling Dramatist—I left a play here last month to be examined.

Theater Manager—Yes, sir; wait a moment and I will see whether the stage carpenter has accepted it or not.—N. Y. Weekly.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 16, 1897.

Advertising Rates:
One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time..... .25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Democratic Ticket.

November 2, 1897.

For Clerk Court of Appeals,
SAM'L J. SHACKELFORD.

For Representative,
W. B. GRUBBS.

For Circuit Judge,
JOHN W. GREENE.

For Commonwealth's Attorney,
M. D. GRAY.

For Circuit Clerk,
J. W. DUNCAN.

For County Judge,
C. C. ROBERTS.

For County Attorney,
J. M. LASSING.

For County Clerk,
B. W. ADAMS.

For Sheriff,
ELMER BEALL.

For Assessor,
T. G. WILLIS.

For Jailer,
T. J. ADAMS.

For County Superintendent,
L. H. VOSHELL.

For Surveyor,
W. E. VEST.

For Coroner,
A. A. MURAT.

Neighborhood News.

Hathaway.

Fried chicken is on the bill of fare now.

T. J. Ruc is able to go visiting once more.

Miss Grace Neal's school will close the 26 of this month.

T. J. Stephens and wife spent Sunday with M. W. Neal and wife.

We had some fine summer weather last week, the first this season.

Earnest Clements, of Union, was visiting relatives here the latter part of last week.

James Riley and wife and daughter were visiting Samuel Stephens and wife, last Friday night and Saturday.

Rev. W. L. Presser was visiting his uncle and Aunt, P. P. Neal and wife, last Sunday night week. He has a call to preach in Virginia.

Frank Scott and Poke Sullivan, of Rabbit Hash, passed through here last week with four loads of tobacco enroute to W. W. Kennedy, of Union.

Ras Stephens seems to have plenty of money, as he made two trips to the city and one to Rising Sun in a week, and all that he got that we know of was a pair of shoes and a riding bridle.

Florence

Phil Aheran, of Key West, is the guest of his mother.

Robt. P. Cloud, of Richwood, was the guest of his mother, Sunday.

Geo. W. Crouch will leave soon for the South, to be gone a month or two.

Morgan Mitchell, of Erlanger, was the guest of his mother, Mrs. Noah Clore, Sunday.

Mrs. Lewis Yager has returned from a pleasant visit to her son, Conner Yager, at Covington.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Pearson, of Erlanger, were guests of James N. Pearson and wife, last Friday.

Mrs. E. H. Blankenbecker, who has been confined to her home since February, is again able to be out.

Messrs. E. Greene, Will Smith and Roy Wilbur, of Erlanger, were visiting friends here, last Saturday evening.

Mrs. E. Porter of Erlanger, was the guest of Mrs. Will Crigler, Saturday afternoon. Miss Bess and Will Crigler accompanied her home.

Miss Mae Carpenter and Mr. Roy Wilbur, Miss Jenne Myers and Mr. Chas. Souther, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fisk, Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fisk, Misses Mae Carpenter, Bessie Snyder and Mr. Geo. Crouch, spent Sunday with the Misses Kirtley at Bullittsville.

Dr. Chas. King and Miss A. V. Ward, of Cincinnati, and Mr. Hubert Rouse and Miss Florence Marquess, were the guests of Miss Alice Cloud, Sunday.

Rabbit Hash.

Ask Ben R. Stephens if he likes to eat fish by himself.

Born on the 6th inst to Jim Lee Williamson and wife, a fine boy.

Rev. T. L. Utz failed to fill his appointment at East Bend last Sunday.

Road working seems to be the order now. Dick Stephens and Joe Walton are both at work.

Charles Acra was in Rabbit Hash last Thursday talking about the result of the last election.

Harry Wingate stuck a thorn in his arm, week before last, and has not been able to work since. His wife has a rising on her hand that has prevented her from work for some time.

The bar in the Ohio river here is very troublesome to navigation. Wednesday morning the steamer City of Louisville was four or five hours getting over and the tow boat, Charles Brown, with about twenty tons, had to stay here from Tuesday morning until Thursday evening.

Miss Hattie Stephens was taken very sick Sunday afternoon, and Monday she was so low Dr. Adams was called in to consult with Dr. Ryle. Her sister Mrs. Dessie Ryle, was quite sick and Tuesday another sister, Mrs. Vida Stephens, was taken sick. They were all at their father's, L. L. Stephens.

Bellevue.

We would be pleased to get some news from the Salt River packet.

Watt Brown and family, of Burlington, attended church here, Sunday.

Crops and vegetables are looking much better since the warmer weather set in.

Mr. Editor, it would have given a mule an appetite to have seen the string of fish that Robt. and T. J. Clore and D. M. Snyder caught in the river at Splitrock, last Saturday.

If the weather continues warm the defeated candidates will get much warmer in their corn fields and tobacco patches than they did in their canvass. Boys, it is a long lane that has no turn, but your time will come yet.

Petersburg.

Mrs. Rucker is visiting in the country this week.

Born—June 11th, to Egbert Nichols and wife, a girl.

Mrs. Joe Eggleston, of Double Lick, is very low with consumption. Also Miss Annie Costello, of Woolper.

The annual birthday dinner was given at James Jarrell's Sunday. Relatives from far and near were royally entertained.

Died—At the Lakeland Asylum, the 6th inst., James Olds, aged 47 years, 9 months & 16 days. He was buried at this place last Tuesday.

Jobe Morrison will close up his shop here the coming week and commence work at Aurora. He will continue in charge of the hotel here.

Mr. Henry Jarrell, of Woolper, was visiting relatives here last Tuesday and Wednesday. He has been in feeble health for some time, but is some better.

Ed Pease has moved back to his own home from Lawrenceburg, where he has been working in Squibb's distillery. His brother, Sid, who is mate on the Workum, has the measles.

D. B. Tilley had the first new potatoes of the season. He has a curiosity—a Chinese yam, something like a wild potato. It grew against a piece of tin and spread out just like a negroe's foot, the toes almost perfect. They want it in a museum.

Mention was made a week or two ago in your paper of a certain weed that appears to be taking meadows and pastures. It is commonly called "sorrel"; has a sour taste and is said to be good greens. But the purpose of these lines is to ask for a plan to destroy it before it gets a strong hold. Will some person, who has had experience with it, please suggest a remedy? In this connection it might not be amiss to urge upon farmers the necessity of working against the creeper vine and what some call Canada Thistle. They will surely take the country if allowed to grow unmolested.

Erlanger.

The delinquent school tax list was published, last week, and quite a number have come forward and paid up, instead of having their property sold.

The selection of E. H. Riggs for postmaster was a good selection from the Republican ranks. A good, honest and faithful servant of the people will he make.

The revival held at the Methodist church, last week, under the direction of Rev. Lee has proved itself of good results, and quite a number of new members were added to the church.

One of the greatest and most pleasant events of the season was a fishing party that took place in Mr. John Carpenter's woods, last Saturday afternoon. Those who took part were, Misses Lizzie and Hattie Dulaney, Clara Senior, Jessie Swetnam, Florence and Ray Dulaney, Mattie and Bessie Talbott, Henrietta, Lizzie and Carrie Riggs, Minta Glacken, Sallie Stephens, Katie Walton, Lottie Williams, Lucy Riggs, Stattira Childress; Messrs. Ira Aylor, Russell Swetnam, John Bullock, Lane Riggs, C. C. Talbott, ——Semple, Charlie Southe, Harry Ingram and Brice Metcalfe. After fishing and playing games a delicious lunch was spread and by early moonlight the jolly crowd made a start for Erlanger.

Union.

Miss Mary Hedges is visiting relatives at Carrollton.

Mr. Asberry and wife spent a few days with her parents recently.

Mrs. John Poindexter and sons spent a week with her parents recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stephens spent Friday with C. T. Rice and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crouch spent a few days recently, with thier children at this place.

Miss Josie Gatson spent last week in Covington, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Stevenson.

D. E. Castleman and family, of Burlington, spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Ed Utz.

Mrs. Owen Gaines and graud-son, Donald Gaines, spent Sunday with relatives here.

Mrs. O. M. Huey with Masters Loyd and William, are visiting J. W. Kennedy and family.

Mr. Philipps, of New York, stopped over from the Nashville Exposition to visit L. W. Lassing.

Dr. Hays, of Bullittsville, passed near town enroute to Walton to attend the meeting of the North Kentucky Medical Society, one day last week.

In the death of Mr. Wilkie we are reminded of how surely the old land marks are passing away. Mr. Wilkie was truly a good man. Not only his family, but his many friends here will miss him.

Verona.

Bees are swarming and making plenty of honey.

Farmers are busy plowing their corn the second time.

Very little tobacco has been set out on account of no season.

Mr. Butler Myers and Miss Ida Craven attended the festival last Saturday night.

There seems to be opposition to the preposed public school building here, and a petition is being circulated among the patrons asking that the cost of the building be reduced.

Those who are chosen delegates to attend the Williamstown convention of Christian Endeavor, July 18, 19 and 20, are as follows: Mrs. B. K. Menefee, Mrs. Marshall Whitson, Miss Lulu Powers, Mr. James Hind, Messrs Gas Hudson and Arthur Roberts.

The Verona Christian Endeavor will give a rally and basket dinner at New Bethel Baptist Church, July 4. Many preparations are being made to make this occasion the pleasantest affair of the season. Good speakers from a distance will address the people on Christian Endeavor work.

Walton.

Robt. Stone, of Zion, was in town Sunday.

Mrs. Lions, of the Phoenix Hotel, has been entertaining her sister during the past week.

Oscar Flunell was baptized by the Reverend Moss, of the christian church Sunday evening.

A series of meetings are being conducted at the Methodist church by the pastor, Bro. Roland.

O. W. Rouse and wife, of Zion Station, and Rickets Johnson and wife, of Beaver, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mott Rouse on Sunday.

Mrs. Oden Moorhead returned to her home at Knoxville, Grant county, last Thursday, after a pleasant visit to friends and relatives at Walton.

Miss Hall, of Coviugton, was in town Sunday, attending the christian church. She sang a beautiful solo in the evening and it was much appreciated by the entire audience.

Mr. Joe Glinn and wife were agreeably surprised at the return of their son, Herbert, of Ill., Sunday. He came home on an excursion and returned Sunday evening. He reports the wheat crop a failure in that state.

Chas. Lermond met with a serious accident last Wednesday morning. He steppedinto a springjwagon to which a horse was attached, when the animal became suddenly frightened, running away and demolishing the wagon. Chas. was unable to get hold of but one line and was thrown out. He escaped with only a few bruises.

T. R. Northcutt, an aged and respected citizen, more generally known as "Big Tom" Northcutt, living about two miles from Walton, departed this life on the 9th inst. He was paralyzed some time ago. He had dropsy also, and erysipelas. It seemed that his flesh would all most drop off before death relieved him. After a few remarks and a touching prayer by the Rev. L. Johnson, at the residence on Friday morning, the large, silent procession wended its way to the beautiful city of the dead at Independence, where all that was mortal of the ourse stout, robust man was consigned to the tomb to await the resurrection. Mrs. Northcutt has the sympathy of a host of relatives and friends in this her sad bereavement.

Constance.

John Lewis Hankins is happy—it is a 10 pound girl.

J. C. Hankins & Co., were taking stock, last week.

Arthur Peno's house caught fire from a defective flue and burned down.

The boys all took in the dance, last Wednesday night at the last chance hotel.

W. L. Riddell, Dr. Furnish, N. S. Walton and Dr. Hays were in town, last week.

Wm. Peno was ordained, last Sunday morning by Rev. Hood, as a minister of the Christian church.

The Baptists of this place are going to build a handsome church in Stringtown soon. Mrs. Mole has donated a lot.

Mr. Jno. Went's mules shied at something in the road and turned the wagon over, breaking the top and injuring him and his girl.

The directors of the Constance cemetery held a meeting, last Tuesday night, at which the usual business of the company was transacted.

Richwood.

Mrs. Woodward entertained a number of friends, last Sunday.

Mrs. Delahunty has returned after visiting Mrs. Judge Gregg, of Cin'nti.

Misses Pearl and Amy Smith entertained a number of young friends, last Saturday evening.

Burglars entered the houses of L. D. Jackson and John R. Carpenter, last Sunday, taking two watches and $6 in money from Mr. Jackson's and a gold watch from Mr. Carpenter's.

Lambs are unusually heavy this spriug.

It warmed up so fast last Sunday that some of the thermometers got rattled and registered as high as 95°.

The colored people had a big basket meeting here Sunday, the woman preacher conducting the services.

H. W. Harrison, dentist, of Rising Sun, Ind., will be in Burlington on the first and third Monday in each month, to do work for those who wish anything in his line. He will be here two days each visit. He is a son of the late R. F. Harrison, of Carrollton, and a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dentistry at Philadephia. He is highly recommended in his profession.

Low Rates Queen & Crescent.

Y. M. C. A. Summer School Knoxville, June 18-27; Y. W. C. A. Summer School, Asheville, June 15-25; Junior United American Mechanics, National Council, Pittsburg, Pa., June 15-19; East Tennessee Educational Association, Sweetwater, Tenn., July 28-30. Superb vestibuled trains of the Queen and Crescent Route carry the only through Pullman to Asheville from the North. Double daily train service from Cincinnati and Louisville. Low rates for the Summer Schools.

NOTICE.

The Refreshment Stand and other privileges of the Harvest Home, which will be held the last Saturday in August, 1897, will be rented to the highest bidder at the Harvest Home grounds ou Saturday, August 7th.

WM. GOODRIDGE, President.

DR. W. B. GRUBBS,
who, barring death, will be Boone's next Representative in the General Assembly of Kentucky, his party honoring him with the nomination without opposition.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, June 12th, 1897.

Mr. McKinley was not in the best of humor when he left Washington for the Nashville Exposition. Several things had not gone to suit him. The newspapers printed the report of Consul Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, on the Ruiz investigation, before it was received by the State Department, and nobody could discover the leak. But the principal cause of Mr. McKinley's bad humor was the verbal report made by his friend and personal representative, Mr. Calhoun, who found out too much of what Mr. McKinley did not want to know, and not enough to corroborate what he thought he already knew. In short, Mr. Calhoun reported things as he found them, regardless of whether they pleased or displeased auybody. Meanwhile the Cuban question is ready to boil over in Congress. Many Republicans in the House who have been keeping quiet in opposition to the wishes of their constituents, in order to give Mr. McKinley a chance to do something, are growing restive and cannot be held in much longer.

* * *

Notwithstanding the opposition of Senators Jones, of Arkansas, and Vest, of Missouri, both of whom denounced it severely, six Democrats voted for the amendment offered to the tariff bill by Senator Bacon, of Georgia, putting a 20 per cent. ad valorem duty on raw cotton. The Republicans all voted for the amendment and it is now a part of the bill. The six Democrats who voted for the amendment were Bacon and Clay, of Georgia; Tillman and McLaurin, of South Carolina; McEuery, of Louisiana, and Rawlins, of Utah. Senator Bacon replied to Democratic objections by saying that it was recognized that the country was to have a tariff bill and that he intended to see that his State received an equal share of its benefits, as he believed, in the words of the Bible, that the man who does not care for his own household is worse than an infidel. There are reasons for the belief that the Republicans are playing a bunco game on Senator Bacon and his Democratic supporters, in order to exhibit them as supporters of protection, and that when the tariff bill goes to the President it will not contain a duty on raw cotton.

* * *

Senator Mills, of Texas, is not an alarmist, but he can see nothing but trouble ahead for class legislation. He said: "The enact of this tariff bill upon the people will be seen, not in its high taxation, but in the way it buttresses and fortifies trusts of all kinds. Some of these days this sort of legislation will have to cease or we will see a revolution. The people will not stand it. Driven to the wall by the combinations of money power, they will find a leader, and we shall see another Coxey's army—but it will be an army which will carry guns and use them."

* * *

Democratic Senators are practically unanimous in declaring the uselessness of Mr. McKinley asking Congress to authorize him to appoint a monetary commission, because they have decided that no such legislation shall be voted upon by the Senate at this session.

* * *

Mr. J. Addison Porter, who would not be filling his present position had not its title been officially changed from private secretary to The President's Secretary, captured a nice juicy slice of pie this week, before he took Mr. McKinley and a special train load of officials and newspaper men to the Nashville exposition. He got Henry W. Hoyt, of Pa., nominated to be Assistant Attorney General, and got the Pa., Senators to acquiesce. Mr. Hoyt was a class mate of Mr. Porter's.

* * *

A majority of the Republican Senatorial caucus realized that something had to be done to stop the wave of popular indignation an account of the sugar schedule's notorious favoritism towards the sugar trust, so the House schedule was substituted after making several changes in the interest of the trust, which still stands to reap an enormous profit to which it is in no way entitled, at the expense of the sugar consumer—that is of everybody. The new schedule is better than the one discarded, but it is still a very bad one; but there is little probability of its being bettered before the tariff bill becomes a law. The trust has too strong a grip on the Republican leaders.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

GO TO
HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,
A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.
A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

E. F. HARMEYER,
535 Walnut St. - - CINCINNATI, OHIO.
—IS THE PLACE TO BUY—
PLOWS, HARROWS, CORN DRILLS, CULTIVATORS, HAY RAKES, &c.,
We also have the 'EUREKA' AND OTHER MOWERS.
☞Don't fail to see us if you want anything in our line.☜

JOHN ALLISON,
UNDER-TAKER  EMBALMER,
—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,—
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

Farm for Sale!
—(o)—
CONTAINING SIXTY ACRES
House of 5 rooms, well and cistern,
Good Two Story Barn with Covered Drive-Way and Basement,
Large Cistern, never failing Stock water. No better Farming Land in Boone County,
Apple Orchard of Selected Trees.
Location, 1¼ miles south of Florence, on Lexington pike. All buildings within 50 yards of pike, (formerly owned by John Northcutt.)
For terms and all information call on or address
G. N. BUFFINGTON,
Burlington, Ky.
By order of David T. Buffington.

THE YOUNG TROTTING HORSE,
RICHWOOD, JR.,
Will make the season of 1897, at my stable ½ mile from Hebron, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.
DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.
Richwood, jr., is a beautiful bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, fine style and action, large bone. He captured first premium at all the fairs last year. He was sired by Richwood 10403; he by Squire Talmage 668; first dam, Lady Clay by C. M. Clay, jr., 22 Richwood Jr.'s dam Ned Forrest; 2d dam, Bellfounder.
——The Fine Norman Stallion.——
FLEETWOOD,
Will make the season at the same time and place, at $8 00 to insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.
Fleetwood is a steel gray, 16½ hands high, a good worker and kind disposition. He is a good breeder and his colts are all gentle and kind. Fleetwood was sired by Albatross 908, dam, Ned Forrest. Care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.
JOHN W. CLORE, Hebron, Ky.

NOTICE.
All persons holding claims against F. A. Tanner are hereby notified that they must present them to me at once proven as by law required, those owing same will please come forward and settle at once.
W. A. TANNER, Adm'r.

Order of Reference.
Boone Circuit Court, Ky.
L. Dwyer's Adm'r., &c. Plffs.
vs
L. Dwyer's creditors, &c., Defts.
This cause is now refered to J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this county, who will ascertain and report the amount, kind and value of the estate of the decedent, whether real, personal or mixed and where the same is located. He will ascertain and report what debts, if any were owing by decedent at the time of his death and to that end all persons holding claims against said estate will present same to said Berkshire proven according to law on or before August 1st, 1897, and said Berkshire will give due notice of the time and place of his sittings through the Boone Co., Recorder. He will also settle the accounts of Mellison E. Dwyer, administratrix, and report among other things the cost of administration.
Witness my hand as clerk of said court, this April 30th, 1897.
J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn St., Chicago.

Subscribe for the RECORDER

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE
That B. F. ZIMMER is selling the best Grade of Fertilizer in the county for less Money than any other dealer in the county. It will pay you to see him before buying.
Ever sack is sold with a guarantee to be as good as represented.
Constance, Kentucky.

H. S. STEVENSON.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. DENTIST. Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.
☞OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

Steam :-: Ferry
—AT—
TAYLORSPORT.
I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.
july-28 S. H. GOODIN.

Order of Reference.
Boone Circuit Court, Ky
Simons Baldon's Adm'r. Plaintiff,
vs
Parthena Baldon, &c., Defts.
This cause is now refered to the Master Commissioner of the Boone Circuit Court with the following directions: 1st. He will advertise in the Boone Co. Recorder the time and place of his sittings and he will hear proof of and receive claims against the estate of the decedent Simons Baldon. 2d. He will audit and settle the accounts of the administrator, John D. Baldon. 3d. He will ascertain what property the decedent owned at the time of his death, and he will report his actions herein at the August term, 1897, of the Boone Circuit Court.
Given under my hand as clerk of said court, this May 12th, 1897.
J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

NOTICE.
Cincinnati, O., April 5, 1897.
To the Tobacco Growers of Boone County:
I am connected with the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., which includes four houses—the Globe, Morris, Bodmann, Cincinnati Miami. Prize your tobacco and ship it to one of the four houses and receive the highest market price for same. If you have no preference ship it to the Cincinnati Miami, and I will give it my personal attention. Hogsheads and presses furnished. Address me at 110, 112 West Front St., Cincinnati, Ohio. oct-7 O. W. ADAMS.

RHEUMATISM LINIMENT.
L. MORELLI,
Box 126, - ERLANGER, KY.
AGENTS WANTED.
☞Price, 50 Cents Per Bottle.

Local News.

Farmers were very busy all last week.

Addison Riddell has resigned as constable in District No. 3.

Some of the hogs around town died with cholera the last week.

The Lawrenceburg Fair will be held August 24th to 28th, inclusive.

Grant county "bikists" are to have a road race. There will be 25 or 30 entries.

After Monday everything was exceedingly quiet about Burlington all last week.

The Lawrenceburg, (Ind.) Press of last week contains write-ups of fifty-five firms doing business in that city.

John W. Kirkpatrick is the oldest native born male citizen of Burlington, with Attorney G. G. Hughes a close second.

The Hillis boys brought a 56 pound catfish to town, last Friday. It was dressed, and they sold in quantities to suit purchasers.

Sam Zellers, colored, who died over at Delhi, was brought here, last Thursday, for burial. The interment took place after dark.

Irish potatoes have made a better growth this spring than anyother vegetation. The cool weather did not hurt them after they came up.

Those owing school tax in the Burlington district, must come forward and pay the same to Stanley Clutterbuck, collector, without further notice.

The meadows, for which the prospects were considered very flattering a few months ago, are as poor as they were last year. There is some good clover.

License were issued last Thursday for the marriage of John W. Ryle and Miss Lucy Rue. The groom is the son of P. A. Ryle, and the bride is the daughter of Tony Rue.

The literary department of the Epworth League had a very interesting and profitable meeting at the Methodist church, last Friday evening. Several new members were enrolled.

L. N. Crigler, owner of the Boone House, is going to give that hostlery a thorough renovating. The public generally will be glad to see that old land mark put in good repair once again.

Please correct your Taylorsport correspondent about the report of the cylinderhead blowing out of the ferryboat. There was nothing of that kind happened. Respt'y., MORGAN HELM.

Capt. James D. Parker is now president of the board of directors of the Cincinnati Hospital. The Cincinnati people recognize his worth as a public servaut and keep him on duty all the time in some important position.

Go to John Schmidt, the Shoemaker, to have your harness repaired. Boots and Shoes made to order. Repairing a specialty. All work guaranteed.

Jacob Rouses pond near Limaburg is certainly crowded with carp—at least there are so many that they can be dragged out with a common rake. Ben Vaughn will make an affidavit that he saw Dr. Rouse catch three good sized carp that way last Saturday.

A man by the name of Harrison was brought from Walton, one day last week, to lay out a fine of $25 and costs adjudged agaiust him for whipping his wife. He claims to belong in Covington. He and his wife were traveling, and at Walton they had a fight.

They are having a racket in Georgetown over what kind of time the town clock shall keep. The Times says: "On Sunday at noon the town clock, by order of the City Council was set to standard time. On Monday at noon by order of the County Judge, it was set up to sun time."

About a year ago a horned frog sent to us from Texas, made its escape, and we supposed that the severe weather last winter had done his frogship up, but one day last week Ben Passons captured it while cutting stalks in a field on G. T. Gaines' farm about a mile from town. Passons did not know what it was, and brought it into town that evening, where it was recognized at once by those who saw it while in previous captivity.

Last Thursday a photographer who desired to secure a picture of the walnut tree out on the Florence pike, which has figured as a gallows in two or three lynchings, hired a negro to allow himself suspended from the "hangman's" limb by means of a rope fastened around his body just below the arms, while a photograph was taken of the tree with him dangling from the limb. The report that another negro was hung on the famous walnut tree was started by someone who saw tho photographer at work, and in a short time several persons hastened to the scene of another supposed lynching, only to learn that they were the victims of a practical joker.

J. W. DUNCAN,

the present efficient Clerk of the Boone Circuit Court, and Democratic nominee for reelection.

The following is the vote by precincts as cast for Circuit Clerk, at the primary on the 5th inst.

	Duncan	Kennedy
Burlington	200	19
Florence	147	42
Bullittsville	171	25
Petersburg	169	24
Constance	67	13
Bellevue	84	16
Rabbit Hash	85	52
Big Bone	53	96
Verona	70	93
Walton	110	55
Beaver	54	57
Union	68	113
	1278	605

J. M. LASSING,

whose popularity has twice secured for him the nomination for County Attorney without opposition.

Geo. Thornton, colored, was tried before Judge Stephens and a jury, Monday, and adjudged a lunatic, and sent to the asylum at Lakeland. Thornton's mind has been unbalanced for some time, but he never showed any signs of violence until last Saturday afternoon, when he struck Bart Aylor, of Hebron, with a hoe. Mr. Aylor was leaning forward in a rain barrel, washing a trowel which he had been using in setting out tomato plants, when Thornton came up and struck at his head with a heavy hoe, cutting a gash an inch or two long in Mr. Aylor's head. The blow would have split the skull open had not the hoe stuck in the edge of the barrel and stopped the force of the lick. Mr. Aylor ran to the house pursued by the negro, who stopped before reaching the door. James L. Clore was appointed a committee to deliver Thornton to the asylum authorities.

The annual reunion of the Kelly family in the Middle creek neighborhood, took place last Saturday, and was attended by a hundred or more of the members of the family, their neighbors and friends. An abundant dinner and supper of fish, fowls, soup and many other toothsome articles was served. The reunion exercises were held in a beautiful locust grove near Albert Kelly's residence, and that evening after the older people had gone home, the young folks took possession of the commodious residence, and flying feet kept time to sweet music until near midnight when the festivities were closed, all having spent a most delightful day.

The school election held in this district on the 5th inst. is void. The returns show on their face that the only officer of the election was the clerk, consequently the contest that was expected is off for the want of something to contest. The Superintendent will appoint a trustee in due time.

We are under obligations to our friend Michael Clore, of Hebron, for a season ticket to the Ludlow Lagoon, the most popular pleasure resort in this part of the country.

Sam Adams, son of Thomas Adams, candidate for jailer, was sitting sideways on a horse, last Saturday evening, when he fell off backwards and fractured his arm.

The Burlington ball tossers visited Union, last Saturday, and played the team at that place—score 17 to 11 in favor of the Burlington sluggers.

The prospects for a crop of corn are poorer than known there for many years at this date. It can not be seen across the fields.

A good shower is needed.

PERSONAL MENTION.

E. S. McKim is employed at the Lagoon.

Tony Bentler has been quite sick for several days.

Mr. James N. Pearson, of Florence, was in town Monday.

A. C. Collins spent last week with friends at Milford, Ohio.

F. Dickey, of Kensington, was among the visitors to town Monday.

Arthur Rouse and mother were visiting in Rising Sun, last Friday.

Miss Ella Duncan was visiting her brother at Walton, last week.

A. B. Rouse went to the city on his wheel last Saturday afternoon.

W. B. Kelly, of the Locust Grove neighborhood, was in town Monday.

J. B. Berkshire and wife have been visiting at Petersburg since Sunday.

Messrs. Dudley Rouse, J. F. Blythe and J. C. Revill were in the city Monday.

Everett Hall's thumb is about well, and he has resumed work in his barber shop.

Master Luther Huey, of Aurora, was visiting his relatives here one day last week.

E. S. West and Omer Cleek, of the Beaver neighborhood, were in town Monday.

R. S. Cowen and daughter were visiting at Rabbit Hash last Saturday and Sunday.

D. E. Castleman and family were visiting at Big Bone last Saturday and Sunday.

Hiram Lindsay, an old and influential citizen of carroll county, died on the 6th inst.

Supt. Voshell was at his office Monday closing up the business of the old school year.

Edward Riggs has been appointed postmaster at Erlanger, and John Oelsner at Florence.

Harry Walton, of Utziuger, was the guest of his cousin, A. B. Rouse, last Thursday night.

R. D. Finnell, of Frogtown, was the guest of C. C. Robets and family Monday and Monday night.

James Bristow, of Union, came over last Thursday night to attend the meeting of the K. P. Lodge.

Our old bachelor friend, Geo. M. Casey, is assisting in the editorial work on the Cynthiana Times.

O. P. Tanner, who has been on the sick list for several weeks, is improving, we are glad to report.

Rankin Reville came out from the city on his wheel last Saturday, and it did not rain while he was here.

Hon. John S. Gaunt, of Carrollton, is laid up with a sprained ankle. He has an accident policy which brings him $25 per week.

Mrs. S. P. Brady arrived home on Tuesday of last week after a five weeks' very pleasant visit with relatives at Jacksonville, Illinois.

F. H. Russell, of the Point Pleasant neighborhood, was in town one afternoon last week. He is Boone county's leading dealer in saw logs.

J. H. Rogers is assisting deputy Sheriff Beall to make out the tax books for this year, while Sheriff Roberts is doing the superintending act.

Phil Aheran was in town, last Saturday, selling conuter scales, one of the most convenient make of scales that has been put on the market.

Master Commissioner Berkshire, J. H. Ryle and T. W. Finch were out on the Abel Beemon farm, last week, setting off a dower to the widow.

Dr. Smith, son of Mrs. Robt. Smith, of the Plattsburg neighborhood, was in town one day last week. He but recently graduated with high honors.

Miss Olga Kirkpatrick is an applicant for the Burlington postoffice. It is understood that "there are others" but we have no positive information on the subject.

Misses Bertha Gaines, of Utzinger, Sheba Roberts and Hettie Riddell, of Burlington, returned, last Thursday, from Georgetown, where they had been attending school.

B. F. Zimmer, the Constance blackberry merchant, went out to J. J. Berkshire's and T. J. Walton's, last Saturday, to see what the prospects for the next crop are. He found everything indicating a larger crope than he has ever handled out there.

Gov. Bradley has appointed Hon. N. S. Walton, of Utzinger, a delegate to represent this congressional district in the National Farmers' Congress of the United States and Pan-American Agricultural Parliament, which meets in St. Paul, Minn., August 31st.

C. C. Roberts returned home last Wednesday afternoon, having thoroughly recovered from the operation to which he submitted in Cincinnati for appendicitis. Many of his friends called on him that evening and congratulated him on his return to health, as well as his nomination for county judge.

They have introduced a new brand of whisky at Bromley, Kenton county, and double headed snakes have made their appearance in that locality.

Sunday was the warmest day of the year.

C. C. ROBERTS,

the pupular Sheriff, who is closing out his second term, and is the Democratic nominee for County Judge.

It is said that bees are not working on the white clover to do any good, because of it not being as rich with honey as usual.

The number of pupils within the school ages in this county is 89 less than last year, the decrease being 65 white and 24 colored.

D. E. Castleman and J. C. Revill have purchased new shot guns and are waging a war of extermination on black birds and rabbits.

An examination for common school graduates will be held in the school house in Union on the 24th inst. All those desiring to be examined are expected to be on hand promptly.

Queen & Crescent excursion to Cincinnati, Sunday, June 29. The great Zoo will be open. Coney Island, the Lagoon and Chester Park will be open offering splendid attractions. The round trip rate from Erlanger is only 30 cents.

T. D. FINNELL, Agent.

COUNTY COURT.

On motion of C. C. Roberts, J. H. Rogers was appointed deputy sheriff.

Legrand Gaines was appointed committee for Geo. Thornton, colored, adjudged a lunatic.

The following is the Boone county school census for this year by districts:

No. 1,	Males,	52,	Females,	52,	total, 104
2,	"	28,	"	27,	" 55
3,	"	28,	"	26,	" 54
4,	"	32,	"	28,	" 60
5,	"	21,	"	31,	" 52
7,	"	26,	"	23,	" 49
8,	"	60,	"	69,	" 129
9,	"	27,	"	39,	" 66
10,	"	13,	"	19,	" 32
11,	"	32,	"	25,	" 57
12,	"	30,	"	24,	" 54
13,	"	84,	"	85,	" 169
14,	"	30,	"	49,	" 79
15,	"	25,	"	17,	" 42
16,	"	20,	"	19,	" 39
17,	"	28,	"	28,	" 56
18,	"	29,	"	23,	" 52
19,	"	33,	"	32,	" 65
20,	"	24,	"	22,	" 46
22,	"	30,	"	24,	" 54
23,	"	31,	"	34,	" 65
24,	"	13,	"	14,	" 27
25,	"	49,	"	43,	" 92
26,	"	29,	"	25,	" 54
28,	"	12,	"	11,	" 23
29,	"	33,	"	30,	" 64
30,	"	64,	"	52,	" 116
31,	"	48,	"	31,	" 79
33,	"	34,	"	28,	" 62
34,	"	41,	"	36,	" 77
35,	"	45,	"	37,	" 82
36,	"	15?	"	23,	" 38
38,	"	15,	"	17,	" 32
39,	"	57,	"	53,	" 110
40,	"	83,	"	86,	" 169
42,	"	21,	"	19,	" 40
43,	"	11,	"	14,	" 25
44,	"	89,	"	87,	" 176
45,	"	18,	"	16,	" 34
46,	"	29,	"	25,	" 54
48,	"	34,	"	44,	" 78
49,	"	34,	"	18,	" 52
50,	"	23,	"	27,	" 50
51,	"	19,	"	14,	" 33
52,	"	19,	"	26,	" 45
55,	"	22,	"	30,	" 52
		1540		1500	3040
Colored—
A,	"	25,	"	29,	" 54
B,	"	17,	"	18,	" 35
C,—not reported.
D,	"	51,	"	35,	" 86
F,	"	11,	"	10,	" 21
G,	"	31,	"	18,	" 49
H,	"	28,	"	21,	" 49
I,	"	6,	"	8,	" 14
J,	"	19,	"	19,	" 38
		189		158	347
Grand total,		1729.		1658,	3387

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.

Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,

MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.

For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

W. N. HIND & CO.
FURNITURE CARPETS STOVES
213 W. Fifth St. Cincinnati, O.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of Woodford Carpenter, deceased, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

...WIS RICE, Adm'r.

WE Want to be Kept Busy.

It costs us as much to do nothing as to be busy, so that our time may be fully employed we quote the following

——Very Low Prices:——

Stand. Granulated Sugar, 21 lbs.	$1 00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound,	15c
Oil Sardines per can,	3c
Mustard Sardines per can,	5c
Ladies Fine Shoes,	$1 00
Gent's Fine Shoes, per pair,	$1 00
Headlight Oil, per gallon,	9c
Binding Twine per 100 lbs.	$5.75

Give us a Call W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.

BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.,

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS,

Notions, Groceries, Etc.

Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!

at Lowest : Cash : Prices.

Lime and Cement always on hand.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.

The J. L. BILL Coffee and Tea Co.

THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.

12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,

COVINGTON, KY.

WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

SENSATIONAL BARGAINS!

Clothing Sacrificed! See!

A full Suit of Men's Clothing for only, ...$3.50. worth double, and this is only a sample.

We invite inspection all along the line.....

Shoes, Tinware, Groceries, Dress Goods, Etc.

MILLINERY

Ladies, you will be surprised to see the nice things we have to offer you, and prices are waydown.

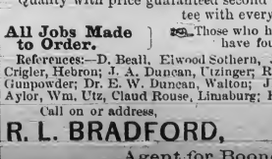
In fact we have a full line of General Merchandise, and prices are in keeping with the times.

We Guarantee Quality Also.

COME AND SEE,

T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Keystone Buggy Company,



CINCINNATI, - - OHIO.,

FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS,

—MANUFACTURERS—

Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles.

$67 Like Cut.

Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent

QUALITY AT VERY LOW PRICE.

Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.

All Jobs Made to Order. Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.

References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sothern, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigler, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Utzinger; Rolla Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Utz, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.

Call on or address,

R. L. BRADFORD, : Hebron Ky.

Agent for Boone County.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER.

EVENING AND MORNING.

The day is done,
The night has come,
The moonbeams through the leaves are stealing;
No song of bird
In tree is heard—
The soothing night-wind comes with healing.

My work is done,
Sweet rest has come,
At home, where loved ones are abiding;
For rest is sweet
To those who meet
At eventide with hearts confiding.

The night has fled,
The sun instead
With flashing steps comes o'er the hills;
The earth awakes,
And music breaks
From joyous birds and laughing rills.

To work again,
'Mid sun or rain
With joyful heart I haste me forth;
For work well done
At setting sun
Brings surer peace than wealth or birth.
—William Spanton, in Christian Standard.

HIS FIRST WIFE.

MADISON JANEWAY was always pointed out as a "self-made man," and was apparently well satisfied with his own handiwork, for content radiated from his full face and from his figure, which had lost its youthful muscle under creeping waves of flesh. Mr. Janeway had satisfied his ambitions as far as it is possible for a man to do it. Fortunately for his content, these aspirations were of the kind that are most often realized. He had a handsome wife and three bright children; he was president of the State bank, an institution known to be founded on the rock of sound finance; he had been mayor of Shewanee, and was a member of the legislature. So much of earthly glory had fallen to his share.

When he read the obituary of another self-made man, he always nodded his head sagely, as much as to say: "I know how it goes: I started with nothing myself." In fact, Mr. Janeway's election to the legislature came of the admiration the electors had for a man of the people. When his constituents hired a band and went to congratulate him, they found him ready with a speech. He said: "Fellow citizens, I will not try to hide from you my deep gratification at the result of the election. I wanted to be elected. I have wanted a good many things, and I've generally got them, but not without working. I started with nothing; I did chores for my keep; I went to school when I could, picked up a penny here and a penny there; I did any honest work that I could find. And where am I now? President of a bank, ex-mayor and a member of the legislature. I thank you, friends, for your votes, yet I feel that I have won my own way; that I am one, a private perhaps, in the great army of self-made men." He bowed, and retired amid loud applause. In another this speech would have provoked criticism, but one of the privileges of the self-made man is to praise his maker without stint.

Mr. and Mrs. Janeway had but just come from a visit to their own house, which their architect assured them was in the purest style of the Gothic renaissance. But they were sure, too, which seemed to them of far more importance, that it was the finest house in town, and quite eclipsed Mr. Morgan's red brick mansion.

They were to move into it at once, and Mrs. Janeway went about the old house planning what should be left behind, as not coming up to the artistic standard of the new place. "Come here a minute, Madison," she called from an obscure entry back of the dining-room.

Mr. Janeway laid down his paper and went to her, followed by Florry, their youngest child. "What is it, my dear?" he asked.

"Hadn't I better pack this away? The frame's so shabby that it isn't fit for the new house." She pointed to a faded photograph hanging in a dark corner. It was the likeness of a plain woman, with a broad mouth, and eyes widely separated; the hair was parted and drawn back from the forehead like two curtains; a watch chain picked out in gilt encircled her neck, and her lips and cheeks were touched by carmine, giving the face a ghastly pretense of life.

Mr. Janeway stared at it meditatively. "I hadn't noticed it for a long time," he said.

"Who is that lady, papa?" Florry asked, looking at the picture as if she saw it for the first time.

"Why, Florry, that was my first wife," he answered, surprised that she had not known it before.

"Was she my mamma, too?"

"No, no," he replied, hastily; "she was Sarah Deering."

"Wasn't she any relation to me?" the child persisted. She was but eight years old, and the ramifications of kinship were yet a mystery to her.

"Of course not," her mother said, rather sharply. "Your papa was married to her when he was very young—long before he lived here or knew me. I thought you had heard that before." She turned to her husband. "Madison, shall I lay this picture away?"

Mr. Janeway looked at her attentively. Was it zeal, or an artistic sense, or was there a lurking jealousy of the woman who had come before? "Pack it away if you like," he said, turning away. "It is shabby."

Long after his children and wife were sleeping, Mr. Janeway sat smoking, and thinking complacently of his success. He, Madison Janeway, had begun with nothing, and at 50 he had won the things he had longed for at 20. The opening and closing of the door attracted his attention. He looked up.

A woman walked across the room—a plain woman, with an honest, ugly face and a short, thick figure.

He was startled when she called him Maddy—it was more than 20 years since he had been called that. "Are—you—are—you—but you can't be Sarah," he stammered; "she has been dead these many years."

"I am Sarah," she answered. "You have changed, Maddy."

"Yes—yes. We are apt to," he replied, uneasily. "But you look just the same." He said this to see if she would account for her presence.

"The living can only see the dead as they were in life," she returned. "You sold the farm, didn't you?"

Mr. Janeway felt as if a reproach lay in the observation. "Yes, I sold the farm," he said. "I needed the money to put in other investments."

"I worked hard on that place," she said, crossing her hands—very rough, worn hands. "I worked hard there those years. I tried to save all I could, Maddy."

"You were a good wife, Sarah," he replied, "and both of us had our burdens, I guess."

"And it was my money that bought the farm. You had nothing when you came courting me, did you, Maddy? And you said that my being 30 years old and your being just of age made no difference."

"Yes, I suppose I said that, and I'm sure I always tried to be good to you," he said, in answer to that unspoken reproach that seemed to lie behind her spoken words. "I tried to treat you well."

"The money that came to me just before I died from Uncle John must have been a help. I left it and the farm to you, Maddy." Her dull eyes seemed to force him to acknowledge his debt.

"Yes—yes, Sarah. I know that I owe much to you. Without your help and money I should have had a much harder time getting on my feet. Yet I think I should have succeeded in any case." Mr. Janeway could not forbear offering this tribute to his self-esteem. "However, I gratefully acknowledge your aid, Sarah."

"You have another wife now, Maddy, and children," she said, "but I was first. I believed in you and I worked for you. Oh, so willingly! I knew that you were different from me. I knew that you had hopes that stupid Sarah could never understand. I knew that I was your companion in your work, but not in your hopes. I knew that we were growing farther apart every year that we lived together. I knew that while I was getting to be worked out and middle-aged, you were only coming to your prime. I knew that it was best that I died when I did—before I came to be a drag on you. Yet, Maddy, before her and your children, I think you ought not to shame me, for I was your faithful wife, the wife of your youth, and I gave you all I had to give—my money, my love, my toil."

MR. JANEWAY TOOK HER ON HIS KNEE.

Before Mr. Janeway could answer she was gone, and he sat alone.

The next day, however, he took the old photograph down and ordered for it a gorgeous frame. When it was returned, he hung it in his library, where it looked strangely alien between a St. Cecilia and the Arabian Falconer, bought at the instigation of the architect.

Florry, with a child's quickness, noticed the fine gilt frame that surrounded the ugly, good face. "What have you done to the lady?" she asked. "Aren't you going to pack her away, as mamma said?"

"No; the picture is to stay here. Do you remember who I said it was?"

"Yes; you said it was your first wife." Mr. Janeway took her on his knee. "Florry," he began, soberly, "when I was a little boy, I was very poor, as poor as the Galts"—a family celebrated in the town for ill luck and poverty. "I went to school when I could, but that was mighty little, for I had to work most of the time. Sometimes I'd get most discouraged, but I had to work just the same. One year I worked for a man named Deering. He had a daughter, and when she found how much I wanted to go to school, she lent me some money—money she had saved by pinching and scraping. After awhile her father died, and she married me. I had nothing, and she owned a good farm, but she married me. In six years she died and left everything to me. She gave me my start. She was a good woman, and believed in me when nobody else did. The other night papa dreamed that he saw her and talked to her, and it made him feel ashamed that he had seemed to forget her."

The child wriggled from his arms and walked away, with an awed glance at the picture.

Mr. Janeway stared at it musingly. "Are you satisfied now, Sarah?" he caught himself saying. "Pshaw! That dream holds to me still," he exclaimed, "but, anyhow, I've done her justice."

And though the architect declared that the photograph quite spoiled the effect of the library, and begged that it might be banished to some back room, Mr. Janeway was firm, and the dull, good face of his first wife kept its place between the St. Cecilia and the Arabian Falconer.—Chicago News.

"Dont you know me, Maddy?" she returned frowning at her intrusion.

CALAMITY IN PARADISE.

The Story of Eve and the Forbidden Fruit Tree.

Curiosity and Its Consequences—Eve's Inquisitiveness Brought Pain on the Human Race, and so Does All Unhealthful Curiosity Result—Dr. Talmage's Sermon.

Rev. Dr. Talmage's text Sunday was: Gen. iii., 8: And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her, and he did eat.

It is the first Saturday afternoon in the world's existence. Ever since sunrise Adam has been watching the brilliant pageantry of wings and scales and clouds, and in his first lessons in zoology and ornithology and ichthyology he has noticed that the robins fly the air in twos, and that the fish swim the water in twos, and that the lions walk the fields in twos, and in the warm redolence of that Saturday afternoon he falls off into slumber; and as if by allegory to teach all ages that the greatest of earthly blessings is sound sleep, this paradisaical somnolence ends with the discovery on the part of Adam of a corresponding intelligence just handed on a new planet. Of the mother of all the living I speak—Eve, the first, the fairest, and the best.

I make me a garden. I inlay the paths with mountain moss, and I border them with pearls from Ceylon and diamonds from Golconda. Here and there are fountains tossing in the sunlight and ponds that ripple under the paddling of the swans. I gather me lilies from the Amazon, and orange groves from the tropics, and tamarinds from Goyaz. There are woodbine and honeysuckle climbing over the wall, and starred spaniels sprawling themselves on the grass. I invite amid these trees the larks, and the brown thrushes, and the robins, and all the brightest birds of heaven, and they stir the air with infinite chirp and carol. And yet the place is a desert filled with darkness and death as compared with the residence of the woman of the text, the subject of my story. Never since have such skies looked down through such leaves into such waters! Never has river wave had such curve and sheen and bank as adorned the Pison, the Havilah, the Gihon, and the Hiddekel, even the pebbles being bdellium and onyx stone! What fruits, with no curculio to stink the rind! What flowers, with no slug to gnaw the root! What atmosphere, with no frost to chill and with no heat to consume! Bright colors tangled in the grass. Perfume in the air. Music in the sky. Great scene of gladness and love and joy.

Right there under a bower of leaf and vine and shrub occurred the first marriage. Adam took the hand of this immaculate daughter of God and pronounced the ceremony when he said: "Bone of my bone, and flesh of my flesh." A forbidden tree stood in the midst of that exquisite park. Eve sauntered out one day alone looks up at the tree and sees the beautiful fruit, and wonders if it is sweet, and wonders if it is sour, and standing there, says: "I think I will just put my hand upon the fruit; it will do no damage to the tree; I will not take the fruit to eat, but I will just take it down to examine it." She examined the fruit. She said: "I do not think there can be any harm in my just breaking the rind of it." She put the fruit to her teeth, she tasted, she allowed Adam also to taste the fruit, the door of the world opened, and the monster sin entered. Let the heavens gather blackness, and the winds sigh on the bosom of the hills, and cavern, and desert, and earth, and sky join in one long, deep, hell-rending howl—"The world is lost."

Beasts that before were harmless and full of play put forth claw, and sting, and tooth, and tusk. Birds whet their beak for prey. Clouds troop in the sky. Sharp thorns shoot up through the soft grass. Blastings on the leaves. All the chords of that great harmony are snapped. Upon the brightest home this world ever saw our first parents turned their back and led forth on a path of sorrow the broken-hearted myriads of a ruined race.

Do you not see, in the first place, the danger of a poorly regulated inquisitiveness? She wanted to know how the fruit tasted. She found out, but 6,000 years have deplored that unhealthful curiosity. Healthful curiosity has done a great deal for letters, for art, for science and for religion. It has gone down into the depths of the earth with the geologist and seen the first chapter of Genesis written in the book of nature illustrated with engraving on rock, and it stood with the antiquarian while he blew the trumpet of resurrection over buried Herculaneum and Pompeii, until from their sepulcher there came up shaft and terrace and amphitheater. Healthful curiosity has enlarged the telescopic vision of the astronomer until worlds hidden in the distant heavens have trooped forth and have joined the choir praising the Lord. Planet weighed against planet and wildest comet lassoed with resplendent law. Healthful curiosity has gone down and found the tracks of the eternal God in the polypi and the starfish under the sea and the majesty of the great Jehovah encamped under gorgeous curtains of the dahlia. It has studied the spots on the sun, and the larva in a beech leaf, and the light under a firefly's wing, and the terrible eye glance of a condor pitching from Chimborazo. It has studied the myriads of animalecules in a ship's wake, and the mighty maze of suns, and spheres, and constellations, and galaxies that blaze on in the march of God. Healthful curiosity has been the inventor until forces that were hidden for ages came to wheels, and levers, and shafts, and shuttles—forces that fly the air, or swim the sea, or cleave the mountain, until the earth jars, and roars, and rings, and crackles, and booms with strange mechanism, and ships with nostrils of hot steam and yokes of fire draw the continents together.

I say nothing against healthful curiosity. May it have other Leyden jars, and other electric batteries, and other voltaic piles, and other magnifying glasses, with which to storm the barred castles of the natural world until it shall surrender it last secret. We thank God for the geological curiosity of Prof. Hitchcock, and the mechanical curiosity of Liebig, and the zoological curiosity of Cuvier, and the inventive curiosity of Edison; but we must admit that unhealthful and irregular inquisitiveness has rushed thousand and tens of thousands into ruin.

Eve just tasted the fruit. She was curious to find out how it tasted, and that curiosity blasted her and blasted all nations. So there are clergymen in this day inspired by unhealthful inquisitiveness who have tried to look through the keyhole of God's mysteries—mysteries that were barred and bolted from all human inspection, and they have wrenched their whole moral nature out of joint by trying to pluck fruit from branches beyond their reach, or have come out on limbs of the tree from which they have tumbled into ruin without remedy. A thousand trees of religious knowledge from which we may eat and get advantage; but from certain trees of mystery how many have plucked their ruin! Election, free agency, trinity, resurrection—in the discussion of these subjects hundreds and thousands of people ruin the soul. There are men who actually have been kept out the kingdom of Heaven because they could not understand who Melchisedec was not!

Oh, how many have been destroyed by an unhealthful inquisitiveness! It is seen in all directions. There are those who stand with the eye-stare and mouth-gap of curiosity. They are the first to hear a falsehood, build to it another story high and two wings to it. About other people's apparel, about other people's business, about other people's financial condition, about other people's affairs, they are over anxious. Every nice piece of gossip stops at their door and they fatten and luxuriate in the endless round of the great world of tittle-tattle. They invite and sumptuously entertain at their house Col. Twaddle and Esquire Chitchat and Gov. Smalltalk. Whoever hath an innuendo, whoever hath a scandal, whoever hath a valuable secret, let him come and sacrifice it to this Goddess of Spittter. Thousands of Adams and Eves do nothing but eat fruit that does not belong to them. Men quite well known as mathematicians failing in this computation of moral algebra; good sense plus good breeding, minus curiosity, equals minding your own affairs.

Then, how many young men through curiosity go through the whole realm of French novels, to see whether they are really as bad as moralists have pronounced them! They come near the verge of the precipice just to look off. They want to see how far it really is down, but they lose their balance while they look, and fall into remediless ruin; or, catching themselves, clamber up, bleeding and ghastly, on the rock, gibbering with curses or groaning ineffectual prayer. By all means encourage healthful inquisitiveness, by all means discourage ill-regulated curiosity.

This subject also impresses me with the fact that fruits that are sweet to the taste may afterward produce great agony. Forbidden fruit for Eve was so pleasant she invited her husband also to take of it; but her banishment from Paradise and 6,000 years of sorrow, and wretchedness, and war, and woe paid for that luxury. Sin may be very sweet at the start, but it may induce great wretchedness afterward. The cup of sin is sparkling at the top, but there is death at the bottom. Intoxication has great exhileration for awhile, and it fillips the blood, and it makes a man see five stars where others can see only one star, and it makes the poor man rich, and turns cheeks which are white red as roses; but what about the dreams that come after, when he seems falling from great heights, or is prostrated by other fancied disasters, and the perspiration stands on the forehead—the night dew of everlasting darkness—and he is ground under the horrible hoof of nightmares shrieking with lips that crackle with all-consuming torture?

"Rejoice, O young man in thy youth, and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth; but know thou that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment!" Sweet at the start, horrible at the last. Go into that hall of revelry, where ungodly mirth staggers and blasphemes. Listen to the senseless gabble, see the last trace of intelligence dashed out from faces made in God's own image. "Aha! aha!" says the roystering inebriate, "this is joy for you; fill high your cups, my boys. I drink to my wife's misery and my children's rags and my God's defiance." And he knows not that a fiend stirs the goblet in his hand and that adders uncoil from the dregs and thrust their forked tongues hissing through the froth of the rim. The Philistines jeered and shouted at Sampson. Oh, they wanted him to make sport for them! How bright and gay was the scene for a little while! After awhile the giant puts one hand against this pillar, and the other hand against that pillar, and bows himself, and 3,000 merrymakers are mashed like grapes in a wine press. Sin raptures at the start, awful at the last.

That one Edenic transgression did not seem to be much, but it struck a blow which, to this day makes the earth stagger. To find out the consequences of that one sin, you would have to compel the world to throw open all the graves and display the crime, and throw open all its hospitals and display the disease, and throw open all the insane asylums and show the wretchedness, and open all the sepulchres and show the dead, and open all the doors of the lost world and show the damned. The one Edenic transgression stretched chords of misery across the heart of the world and struck them with dolorous wailing, and it has seated the plagues upon the air and the shipwrecks upon the tempest, and fastened like a leech, famine to the heart of the sick and dying nations. Beautiful at the start, horrible at the last. Oh, how many have experienced it!

Are there here those who are votaries of pleasure? Let me warn you, my brother. Your pleasure boat is far from shore, and your summer day is ending roughly, for the winds and the waves are loud-voiced, and the overcoming clouds are all awrithe and aglearn with terror. You are past the "Narrows," and almost outside the "Hook," and if the Atlantic take thee, frail mortal, thou shalt never get to shore again. Put back, row swiftly, swifter, swifter! Jesus from the shore casteth a rope. Clasp it quickly, now or never. Oh, are there not some of you who are freighting all your loves and joys and hopes upon a vessel which shall never reach the port of Heaven?

Thou nearest the breakers. One heave upon the rocks. Oh, what an awful crash was that! Another lunge may crush thee beneath the spars or grind thy bones to powder amid the torn timbers. Overboard for your life, overboard! Trust not that loose plank nor attempt the wave, but quickly clasp the feet of Jesus walking on the watery pavement, shouting until he hear thee: "Lord, save me, or I will perish." Sin beautiful at the start—oh, how sad, how distressful at the last! The ground over which it leads you is hollow. The fruit it offers to your taste is poison. The promise it makes to you is a lie. Over that ungodly banquet the keen sword of God's judgment hangs, and there are ominous handwritings on the walls.

Observe also in this subject how repelling sin is when appended to great attractiveness. Since Eve's death there has been no such perfection of womanhood. You could not suggest an attractiveness to the body or suggest any refinement to the manner. You could add no gracefulness to the gait, no luster to the eye, no sweetness to the voice. A perfect God made her a perfect woman, to be the companion of a perfect man in a perfect home, and her entire nature vibrated in accord with the beauty and song of Paradise. But she rebelled against God's government, and with the same hand with which she plucked the frnit she launched upon the world the crimes, the wars, the tumults that have set the universe a-wailing.

A terrible offset to all her attractiveness. We are not surprised when we find men and women naturally vulgar going into transgression. We expect that people who live in the ditch shall have the manners of the ditch; but how shocking when we find sin appended to superior education and to the refinements of social life! The accomplishments of Mary Queen of Scots make her patronage of Darnley, the profligate, the more appalling. The genius of Catherine II. of Russia only sets forth in more powerful contrast her unappeasable ambition. The translations from the Greek and the Latin by Elizabeth, and her wonderful qualifications for a queen, make the more disgusting her capriciousness of affection and her hotness of tempes The greatness of Byron's mind makes the more alarming Byron's sensuality.

Let no one think that refinement of manner or exquisiteness of taste or superiority of education can in any wise apologize for ill temper, for an oppressive spirit, for unkindness, for any kind of sin. Disobedience Godward and transgression manward can give no excuse. Accomplishment Heaven-high is no apology for vice hell-deep.

My subject also impresses me with the regal influence of women. When I see Eve with this powerful influence over Adam and over the generations that followed, it suggests to me the great power all women have for good or for evil. I have no sympathy, nor have you, for the hollow flatteries showered upon woman from the platform and the stage. They mean nothing; they are accepted as nothing. Woman's nobility consists in the exercise of a Christian influence, and when I see this powerful influence of Eve upon her husband and upon the whole human race, I make up my mind that the frail arm of woman can strike a blow which will resound through all eternity down among the dungeons or up among the thrones.

Of course, I am not speaking of representative women—of Eve, who ruined the race by one fruit-picking; of Jael, who drove a spike through the head of Sisera, the warrior; of Esther, who overcame royalty; of Abigail, who stopped a host by her own beautiful prowess; of Mary, who nursed the world's saviour; of Grandmother Lois, immortalized in her grandson Timothy; of Charlotte Corday, who drove a dagger through the heart of the assassin of her lover, or of Marie Antoinette, who by one look from the balcony of her castle quieted a mob, her own scaffold the throne of forgiveness and womanly courage. I speak not of these extraordinary persons, but of those who, unambitious for political power, as wives and mothers and sisters and daughters, attend to the thousand sweet offices of home.

THE English government is seriously considering the construction of a submarine tunnel between England and Ireland. It is estimated that the cost of the tunnel will amount to £7,000,000. Experts, however, are unanimous in declaring that the project of building a causeway between the two countries is impracticable, owing to the particularly stormy character of St. George's channel.

THE seven pictures by Sir John Millais, sold in London a short time ago, brought in all £30,000. A work by Lord Leighton was disposed of at the same sale for a sum smaller than the smallest amount paid for any of the Millias pictures.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—Havre has sent a bronze statue of Francis I., weighing a ton, to St. Petersburg as a present from the town to the czar.

—English prisoners who are not educated up to a certain standard receive compulsory instruction in their cells twice a week.

—Nets as a defense against torpedoes and torpedo discharge tubes placed above the water line are to be discontinued in the French navy.

—One set of London decadents has taken up the worship of the Greek deities. It holds religious services in a place in Holborn fitted up as a temple.

—Paderewski aroused great enthusiasm than usual in Paris recently by his playing at a concert in the Gaite theater gotten up to procure money to erect a monument to the composer Henri Litolff.

—British jesters sometimes pay dearly for their jokes. One who frightened a married woman into fits by telling her that her husband had been severely injured in a railroad accident has had to pay $500 for his fun.

—The variants contained in a famous manuscript of Plautus known as the "Codex Turnebi," which has been long lost, have been found in the Bodleian library at Oxford, entered on the margins of a sixteenth century edition of a Roman dramatist.

—An aesthetic bear that dances for a living in England was trudging along the road behind its master near Kensington, and had paid no attention to the men or the women in skirts that wheeled by. When a fat woman in bloomers, however, appeared riding a bicycle, the bear broke away from its master and made a rush for her, smashing the wheel, but being caught before it hurt the rider.

—Mr. Fairfield, head of the South African department in the British colonial office, and the one man who probably knew the whole truth about the attempted outrage in the Transvaal, died recently in Italy. His leaving England on the plea of illness a few weeks before was looked upon generally as an excuse to avoid being called upon to testify before the parliamentary commission that is investigating the Jameson outrage.

THE BILL OF FARE.

Bean Porridge Hot, Bean Porridge Cold, Bean Porridge, Etc.

If it is not true that one Englishman is a match for four Frenchmen, as John Bull was wont to boast in the days of his long warfare against Johnny Crapaud, yet despite the undoubted gallantry of French soldiers it is still commonly believed that the English are a better nation at fighting than the French. But Capt. John Codman, in a recent volume of reminiscences, relates one amusing little instance in which, in the endurance of war time hardships at least, the mercurial Gaul showed a decided superiority.

It was during the Crimean war, when French and English fought together against Russia, and the camps of the allies lay close together before Sebastopol. Provisions had run short, and Capt. Codman, reafling first upon an English officer and shortly after upon a French one, had an opportunity to contrast the reception which they accorded him. His British host was glum and woebegone in the extreme.

"Come in," he said, none too amiably. "Sit down. I wish I had something to offer you, but I have not. Expected a dozen of porter and a pair of fowls up to-day. Couldn't have cooked the fowls if they had come. No coal. However, might have lived a day or two on the porter, but done out of that, too. Infernally miserable, by Jove!"

"And so he was," comments the Yankee. "He looked it all!" And he goes on to remark that an Englishman deprived of his roast beef and his beer remembers them, growls and lies doggedly down to starve, while a Frenchman—but this is how he was received by his friend, Lieut. Courtois:

"Before reaching his tent we heard a snatch from an opera. With what empressement he rushed to embrace us, invited us to dine, insisted upon it and sent for some of his comrades to meet his guests! His larder was scarcely better stocked than that of the Englishman, which had nothing in it. But roots were grubbed up and a fire was made; some rough boards were laid out and a clean cloth spread upon them.

"On came the soup, hot, at any rate, if it was homeopathic. And in the other courses, which were numerous, beans, the material of the soup, were disguised in infinite variety with such skill that they served for fish, roast, entrements and dessert. I am sure we had salad of something; perhaps it was an old green silk umrella! A little red wine was eked out with water, upon which we all pretended to be excited as we drank the health of the emperor.

"Beans again—as, alas! too often with us at home—served for coffee, and my jolly friends after dinner tramped along with us on the road for a mile, imagining we were all on the boulevards, and sharpening their remembrance of the absent joy of ladies' company by addressing everyone they met as mademoiselle!"

That was gayety put to good use and of sterling quality. Little wonder the delighted guest formulated his conclusions thus: "Three or four Frenchmen can live upon the rations of one Englishman and be more jolly upon their empty stomachs than he would with a tight waistband. When everything else fails they can live upon ragouts made of remembrances of the past and seasoned with hopes of good times to come."—Youth's Companion.

Entertaining Journals.

Blinks—What sort of comic papers do they have over in ——?

Jinks—Excellent.

Blinks—Are the jokes like ours?

Jinks—Exactly. Same jokes in fact, only a month older.—N. Y. Weekly.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

BADLY-NEEDED REFORMS.

A Complaint from Ohio Which Applies to All Western States.

When I travel over Ohio's roads I wish that I might be an autocrat with law at my back to change the location of roads at my will. Take, for instance, the road that climbs over the hill at Fig. 1. How very common that is in our part of Ohio; up the heavy hill must thousands and millions of weary horses toil with pleasure carriages and heavily loaded wagons. That hill not only means a tiresome climb, but it means more frequent trips. Why? Because the load must be regulated not to conform to the draft of the leveler parts of the road, but to the draft of the hill. That means much when the farmer is taking his grain or his wood or his hay to market. Now and then some accident happens and a horse is hurt or a wagon demolished or a man killed in going down the hill. If a record could be kept of the casualties of the century on some of these hills it would appall the traveler. If not steep enough or long enough to be dangerous it is yet a waste of muscle to draw loads up the one side merely to hold them back from rushing down on the other side.

FIG. 1.

Fig. 1 also shows how by abandoning the straight line up over the hill the road may circle about the foot of it and make nearly a level stretch and often the curve around the base of the hill is not greatly longer than the curve over the hill. A pail handle is no longer lying down than standing up. It was the fact that land was dear in Ohio and neighbors objected to having their fields cut up by roads dodging hills that caused the hill roads in this country. That reason is rapidly disappearing now. If we get no other good from the depression in agriculture let us seize the opportunity and have our roads follow the contour lines, i. e., the lines of equal level. No use to say: "The old road has climbed over the hill this very long time, we may as well let it be now." Think of the stretch of time ahead of us, the uncounted centuries that that road will be traveled and the case with which it may now be changed as compared with the difficulty that may well be expected in the future. Our country is a young and unformed, could we but realize it.

FIG. 2.

Then there are many ill-laid-out roads that make sudden turns as in Fig. 2. This is generally done to make the road conform to the farm boundaries. It is folly and worse than folly. The public could afford to buy the old angles and throw them away rather than to travel the unnecessary distance and to expend money in keeping roads in repair when so needlessly long.

I would like power to straighten the kinks out of our own roads in my own county. They are most exasperating in places. I remember one night when my wife (she was not wife then) and I rode seven miles one night in what should have been nearly a straight course. There is no hill or swamp to crook a road. We were noticing the north star (and other things), and to our surprise we saw it from each side of the buggy, from straight ahead and from the back window. And we were both sober "and in our right minds," as nearly as I could judge. (No, the road did not seem too long that night).

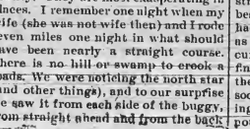

FIG. 3.

I live in a country where gravel is abundant and good roads, that is, comparatively good roads, are the rule. Yet I notice many things that are not right about them. One of the serious and needless mistakes is the putting of large stones in the roads. I noted to-day that the only place between our house and the village where the wagons have broken through the gravel is where there is a stone imbedded in the gravel, a stone of the size of a peck measure and projecting about three inches, as at Fig. 3. The wheels of heavy wagons have climbed upon this stone and plunged off on the other side until they have worn entirely through and it now needs several yards of fresh gravel drawn to mend it. I should say that the cost of leaving that stone in the road was about three dollars, that is, if the break is attended to at once. If it is neglected it will be more serious.—Joseph E. Wing, in Ohio Farmer.

Smothered in the Mud.

Fred Harvey, aged 35, a Barre teamster, was thrown from his wagon while driving over a muddy place in the road yesterday morning, and a wheel passing over his head forced his face down into the mud in such a way that he was smothered before aid reached him. —A Vermont Exchange.

A uniform production of fruit cannot be received from wet, heavy ground

ABOUT TRANSPLANTING.

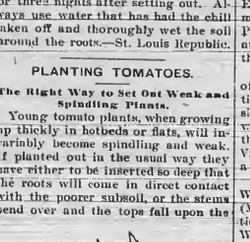
Some of the Important Points Which Must Not Be Neglected.

There are three essential items to be looked after in transplanting. They are puddling, compacting and protecting. A failure to give either properly will affect the growth of the plants. When properly done puddling is preferable to watering. The soil used in puddling should be a rich loam. If in addition one-third of it is well-rotted and fined cow manure or good commercial fertilizer all the better. Dip only a few plants at a time, so that the roots of each plant can be well covered with the rich mud. Make the hole large enough and deep enough to take in the plant without bending or twisting the roots. The depth that the plant should be set will depend upon the way it has grown; generally it will be safe to set the plant down to the first leaf. When grown thick in a close bed the plants often make a long, spindling growth, and if not set deep a good percentage of them will die.

Compact the soil close around the roots. The roots must come in close contact with the soil or the plant will die. It is too often the case in transplanting that a hole is made with a sharpened stick, the roots of the plants are dropped in, the soil is pressed around the stem of the plant with the point of the stick, while the roots barely touch the soil, if they touch it at all, and the plants die.

When the weather is warm and the soil rather dry, in many cases it will be a help if the plant bed is thoroughly watered two or three hours before taking up the plants.

It will be best to take up the plants and set them out late in the evening. This will give them all night to recuperate from the change.



When the plants have been growing in a close, protected bed it is quite a change to set them out all alone and often a little protection will be of material help. This may be given either by drawing a little mound of earth around the plant with the hand when the transplanting is done or by covering with a large leaf of some kind for a few hours.

When the weather is hot and the soil is dry it will be best to water for two or three nights after setting out. Always use water that has had the chill taken off and thoroughly wet the soil around the roots.—St. Louis Republic.

PLANTING TOMATOES.

The Right Way to Set Out Weak and Spindling Plants.

Young tomato plants, when growing up thickly in hotbeds or flats, will invariably become spindling and weak. If planted out in the usual way they have either to be inserted so deep that the roots will come in direct contact with the poorer subsoil, or the stems bend over and the tops fall upon the surface of the ground and will never make strong healthy plants. Of course strong, short, stocky plants are the best to set out, but if these cannot be had spindling plants may be made just as serviceable if planted as shown in our illustration. By this method the fine roots are nearer to the surface and the part of the stem underground will soon strike additional roots, thus giving the plant still more sustenance and nourishment.—Orange Judd Farmer.

HOW TO PLANT TOMATOES.

ORCHARD PICKINGS.

With strawberries, flavor, color and firmness are of more importance than size.

Profit in fruit culture has its beginning in the careful selection of the very best varieties.

In planting strawberries for market select varieties that will give a long season of ripening.

On the farm the first object in planting fruit should be to furnish the family with a good supply.

The tree that bears a great crop of small fruit exhausts itself by having to produce an undue proportion of seeds.

Young trees will start into vigorous growth after transplanting with less check than older ones would experience.

A trellis made with three strands of wire, bracing the end posts thoroughly, is the best for grape vines.—Western Plowman.

Soot as a Fertilizer.

Soot is a great fertilizer, as it contains ammonia salts, and a liberal dressing may be given and forked in while dry. Soot and sulphate of iron have been used as a means of producing higher color in apples, and with apparently good results. Where tanks exist for catching the drainage from farmyards, stables and houses, the liquid forms a valuable aid to fruit culture. Fruit trees and brush fruits standing in need of a stimulant may be watered with the liquid until the soil is saturated. Raspberry plantations always appreciate attention in this direction and never fail to give a good account of themselves afterwards. If it is not needed to the [illegible] the orchard trees, pouring it on the surface of the grass round the trees and as far as the branches extend. If there are any doubts as to the liquid being too strong it can be diluted with water.—Western Plowman.

TURKISH PROVERBS.

Two captains sink the ship.

The tongue proclaims the man.

The soul is the companion of the soul.

A true word is more bitter than poison.

A thousand sorrows do not pay one debt.

He who spits at the wind, spits in his own face.

A little hill in a low place thinks itself a mountain.

To the lazy man every day is a "Bayram" (fete).

To-day's egg is better than to-morrow's fowl.

The arrow which has been cast does not come back.

The teeth of the gift-horse are not to be looked at.

Eat and drink with a friend, but do not trade with him.

He is a madman who, being rich, lives as if he were poor.

The rose grows from the thorn and the thorn from the rose.

If an enemy be (as small as) an ant, think him an elephant.

Death is a black camel which kneels at everybody's door.

Do good and cast it into the sea; if the sea does not recognize it the Creator will.

He who has lived long does not know much; (but) he who has traveled much knows much.

If a horse dies, his saddle remains behind him; if a man dies, his name remains.

He who knows his business, he who knows his companion, and he who knows his food does not get poor.

Believe not in the great; lean not on water; trust not in the dying day; do not believe a woman's word, and do not trust to the courage of your horse. —N. Y. Ledger.

HISTORICAL GLEANINGS.

The population of Boston in the spring of 1775 was about 17,000.

The population of Virginia was, in 1722, rated as 70,000, double that of Maryland, the next most populous colony.

In the short reign of Edward VI. of England the Protestant book of common prayer was established, and a Protestant confession was prepared and imposed upon the church by authority.

Thomas Jefferson was averse to titles of honor, and maintained in official station and at home a severe republican simplicity. The later years of his life were devoted, in a great measure, to the establishment of the University of Virginia, an institution in which he took a great and just pride.

A terrible arraignment of Daniel Webster for his "Compromise Speech" (March 7, 1850) is contained in Whittier's poem "Ichabod." Years later Whittier relented, and his old admiration, mingled with keen regret, was brought out in "The Lost Occasion," perhaps the noblest tribute ever paid to the great orator.

[illegible]vereit was born in Dorchester, Mass., April 11, 1794. He entered Hnrvard college at the age of 13, and was graduated with the highest honors. He was settled in Boston as pastor of the Brattle street church, and very soon attracted great attention by his scholarly discourses. In 1824 he delivered an oration before the Phi Beta Kappa society, of Harvard, and the occasion was distinguished by the presence of Lafayette, and the orator's reference to the nation's guest was especially happy.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

The Roxburghe (England) Press are spending nearly $50,000 on their new edition of Dickens.

A bright little newspaper, the Indian Guide, is published at the Shoshone (Wyo.) agency, the editors, printers and all the rest being full-blooded redskins.

The electric railway in Cairo, Egypt, is about 20 miles long. More than 600 miles of American iron and copper wire have been used for this line.

The cries of sea birds, especially seagulls, are very valuable as fog signals. These birds cluster on the cliffs and coasts, and their cries warn boatmen that they are near the land

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI June 14
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	2 50	@ 3 25
Select butchers	4 00	@ 4 40
CALVES—Fair to good light	5 50	@ 6 25
HOGS—Common	3 01	@ 3 25
Mixed packers	3 35	@ 3 45
Light shippers	3 40	@ 3 47½
SHEEP—Choice	3 25	@ 3 75
LAMBS—Spring	4 85	@ 5 40
FLOUR—Winter family	3 25	@ 3 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 80
No. 3 red		@ 76
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 23½
Oats—No. 2		@ 20
Rye—No. 2		@ 37
HAY—Prime to choice	10 75	@11 00
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 8 87½
Lard—Prime steam		@ 3 40
BUTTER—Choice dairy	6	@ 8
Prime to choice creamery		@ 16½
APPLES—Per bbl	3 00	@ 3 50
POTATOES—Per bbl	1 25	@ 1 50
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 50	@ 4 90
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n		@ 76
No. 2 red	75½	@ 75¾
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 29¼
OATS—Mixed		@ 24
PORK—New mess	8 50	@ 9 00
LARD—Western		@ 3 90
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 20	@ 4 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	74	@ 76¾
No. 2 Chicago spring	70	@ 70¾
CORN—No. 2	24½	@ 24½
OATS—No. 2		@ 18
PORK—Mess	7 50	@ 7 88
LARD—Steam	4 39	@ 4 45
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	3 90	@ 4 25
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 77
Corn—Mixed	38½	@ 38¾
Oats—No. 2 white	27	@ 27¾
LARD—Refined		@11 20
PORK—Mess		@16 88
CATTLE—First quality	4 10	@ 4 40
HOGS—Western	4 10	@ 4 15
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No 2		@ 76
Corn—No 2 mixed		@ 23½
Oats—No 2 mixed		@ 18½
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 75	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No 2 red	81	@ 84
Corn—Mixed	26	@ 26½
Oats—Mixed		@ 21
PORK—Mess		@ 8 75
LARD—Steam		@ 3 75

Informing Him.

"Pardon me, sir, but where do you live?" Inquired the sharp-nosed passenger, leaning over the back of the seat in front of him.

"Southern part o' Indiana," laconically replied the goat-whiskered passenger, who was trigged out in a spickety-span new celluloid collar adorned with a hectic-hued flutter-how tie.

"In the southern part of Indiana, eh? What is the lay of the land in your vicinity?"

"Same as it is all over the country, I reckon."

"I do not see how that can be."

"Don't, eh? Wal, you don't suppose that Indiana is clear out o' the United States, do you?"

"No, but—"

"Wal, I reckon 'Hail Columby' is the lay o' the rest o' the land, an' it's the same with Indiana."

Thereupon the inquisitive passenger wiped his interrogatory gimlet and put it away, and the Hoosier humorist withdrew, turtle-fashion, into his celluloid collar. And the train rolled onward.—N. Y. Journal.

LOST APPETITE.

Could Not Eat the Most Tempting Dishes.

Many Days Without Any Food at All —Can Eat Four Square Meals a Day Now—The Cause of the Change.

From the Leader, Cleveland, Ohio.

For the restoration of an appetite which has been impaired or lost through sickness, no remedy can compare in effectiveness with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. This statement is substantiated by the experience and declarations of men and women with whom these pills have become a household medicine. Among the many who can offer testimony to this particular property of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is George Marshall, Jr., who lives at No. 19 Norwich street, Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Marshall is a news agent on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad, and his territory extends from Cleveland to Toledo. Like thousands of others who owe their health and vigor to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, Mr. Marshall needs hesitates to sing their praises. In his case it was necessary to use only a few boxes of the pills to restore him to the full possession of bodily health. His digestive organs had become almost useless through a long and serious illness, but in a surprisingly brief period, through the agency of this wonderful medicine, they were capable of again performing their functions in a regular and perfectly satisfactory manner. In narrating his experience with them Mr. Marshall said:

"Last spring I was taken sick with inflammatory rheumatism, and my entire system was affected. To relieve the suffering it was necessary to paint me with iodine. After three months' treatment I became convalescent, but the attack had sapped my strength and left me extremely weak and feeble. I could scarcely lift an arm or a leg. This weakness permeated my entire system, and applied as well to my stomach and digestive apparatus as to my limbs. I soon discovered that I had lost my appetite almost as completely as though I never had one. I had no desire whatever to partake of any nourishment, and the natural result was that my convalescence was extremely slow, and my parents feared that I was going to suffer a relapse or fall prey to another ailment on account of my debilitated condition.

"Many a day I would not take any nourishment, and whenever I did the quantity was too insignificant to materially hasten my improvement. Tempting dishes were prepared for me, but I could not touch them. I began to become more or less alarmed as did my parents, and one day my mother suggested the purchase of some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for me. They had been recommended to her by a neighbor who regarded them as nothing short of miraculous, and dwelt so enthusiastically on their excellent qualities that mother was persuaded to try them. There is not much more to tell now, for I don't [illegible] three or four square meals a day, do I?

"Three boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills fixed me up sound as a dollar, and they will do the same for anyone else, I am sure. It was not long after I began to use the pills that I could feel myself improving. My strength began to return and so did my appetite, and I was on the road again in a short time. This is my experience, and I am glad to give it for the benefit of others who may have lost their appetites through sickness."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

"It's surprising how impracticable some very learned men are." "Yes: there's Prof. Lingwist, for example. He spent over half his life in acquiring fluency in nine or ten different languages, and then went and married a woman who never gave him a chance to get a word in edgeways."—Truth.

The Grain-O Law Suit.

Rochester, N. Y., May 19, 1897.—The great $50,000 damage suit instituted by a Michigan Cereal Co. against the Genesee Pure Food Co. is at an end. They settled it and took it out of court for the ridiculously small sum of $500 and, as a practical result, Grain-O is in greater demand than ever. The new plant only just completed is to be duplicated so that not only the old friends of the delicious food drink which completely takes the place of coffee, but the new friends it is making every day, can be supplied. The beverage which the children, as well as the adult, may drink with benefit will be furnished in unlimited quantities.

Suits may come and suits may go, but Grain-O goes on forever.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

The fortunate people in this world are those who have at least one friend in whose presence they can blow their own horns without discouragement.—Atchison Globe.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous, hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Write to Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

"I want something nice in oil for a dining room." "Yes, madam. A landscape or a box of sardines?"

"Star Tobacco."

As you chew tobacco for pleasure, use Star. It is not only the best, but the most lasting, and therefore the cheapest.

A woman doesn't mind a windy day if she has on a silk petticoat.—Washington Democrat.

After six years' suffering, I was cured by Piso's Cure.—Mary Thomson, 204 Ohio Ave., Allegheny, Pa., March 19, '96.

Say nothing; it is the only way to avoid being misquoted.—Atchison Globe.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a Constitutional Cure. Price 75c.

You can tell a preacher's letter by the odd stationery they all use.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

THE "GROWN-UP" DAUGHTER'S DUTY TO HER MOTHER.

You can only have one mother; therefore, when her step is growing slow and her mind gloomy with forebodings, and you can see that her whole nervous system is upset, it is your filial duty and privilege to attend to her in time! Mother is approaching the most critical period of her life.

The change of life, that is what mother is dreading, and no wonder, for it is full of peril to all but the strongest women.

There are some special and very wearing symptoms from which mother suffers, but she will not speak of them to any one. Help her out; she doesn't know what to do for herself!

Shall I advise you? First, send to the nearest drug store and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and see that mother takes it regularly, then write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., giving all the symptoms and you will receive a prompt reply telling mother what to do for herself. In the meantime the Vegetable Compound will make life much easier for her. It tones up the nervous system, invigorates the body, and the "blues" vanish before it as darkness flees from the sunlight. You can get it at any reliable druggist's.

Mrs. LOUIS STRONG, Harris Hill, Erie Co., N.Y., says: "I have been troubled with falling of the womb for years, was advised to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took thirteen bottles and received great benefit. When the time for change of life came I suffered a great deal with faintness and palpitation of the heart. I got one bottle of the Vegetable Compound and one of Blood Purifier and was relieved again. I was thereby enabled to pass through that serious period very comfortably."

An Odd Genius.

The papers are full of tales just now of how the late composer, Brahms, treated pianists and singers who were eager to get his criticism. If one of these aspirants for his favor was fortunate enough to find him at home and be received, Brahms' first concern was to seat himself on the lid of his piano, a position from which he rightly deemed few would have the temerity to oust him. If this failed he had recourse to the statement that the instrument was out of tune. "Oh, that does not matter," remarked one courageous individual. "Perhaps not to you, but it does to me," replied the master. On one occasion he was just leaving his house when a long-haired youth, with a bundle of music under his arm, hailed him with: "Can you tell me where Dr. Brahms lives?" "Certainly," answered the master, in the most amiable manner; "in this house up three flights," and so saying he hurried away.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Summer Vacations.

Interesting illustrated booklets pertaining to Massachusetts Seashore, Ocean, Island and Inland Resorts, are issued by the passenger department of the Fall River Line, the famous route between New York and Boston, Newport, Cape Cod, Martha's Vineyard, Nantucket, Bar Harbor, the White Mountains, etc., etc., etc. List of the booklets will be mailed upon receipt of one cent stamp. Address O. H. Taylor, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Fall River Line, New York.

Spirituous Sarcasm.

"I wonder," said Mr. Drinkhorn, as he filled his glass with the ease of an expert, "I wonder who started the custom of calling a drink of liquor a 'smile?'"

"I wouldn't call that one there a smile," said the barkeep. "It is nothing shy of a horselaugh."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Only $25.00 to San Francisco,

From Chicago via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western Railway), the famous "California in 3 Days" Route, June 29 to July 3, inclusive, on account of the C. E. Convention. Similar rates will be made eastbound. For full information apply to ticket agents C. & N.-W. Ry.

When we say that wisdom is better than rubies we generally mean our wisdom and other people's rubies.—N. Y. Weekly.

The Cheese Came Back.

A certain dealer had a lot of cheese which was anything but good, and, tired of seeing it about, told the assistant when he closed the shop to leave the condemned cheese at the door for some one to walk off with. Thomas occasionally crept to a window to see operations, and at length went to his master grinning all over his face, saying the cheese was gone. "Leave another out to-morrow night," was the master's order, which was obeyed by the shopman, who after a few peeps next evening walked to his master in the counting house scratching his head, and looking as though some great disappointment had befallen him. "Is it gone?" asked the dealer. "No, sir; t'other un has walked back."—Tit-Bits.

Between Seed Time and Harvest

Is a good opportunity to enquire about farming lands in South Dakota, only one day's ride from Chicago. Bountiful crops of Wheat, Corn, Barley and Flax reward the tiller of the soil. As a stock and dairy country South Dakota leads all the world. First-class farm lands with nearby markets can now be bought for from $10, $12, $15, and upwards, per acre, and this is the time to invest. For further particulars write to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, Old Colony Building, Chicago, Ill.

Not to Be Caught.

A gentleman visiting Liverpool was being shown around by a citizen, who said: "Now, let's go and see the 'Widows' Home.'" The gentleman put his finger to the side of his nose and winked and said: "No, thanks; I saw a widow home once, and she sued me for breach of promise, and proved it on me. It cost me a matter of £120. No, sir, send the widows home in a cab."—Tit-Bits.

A Father in Luck.

"You children turn up your noses at everything on the table. When I was a boy, I was glad to get dry bread to eat," said Mr. Chatlie at the breakfast table.

"I say, pa, you are having a much better time of it now that you are living with us, ain't you?" asked Johnnie.—Tammany Times.

It occasionally happens in a newspaper office that a man puts a reporter on to an item by calling to ask that it be suppressed.—Atchison Globe.

"For some years I was quite out of health, and took much medicine which did me no good. I was advised by a friend to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla which I did, taking a dozen or more bottles before stopping. The result was that I felt so well and strong that I, of course, think there is no medicine equal to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I take great pains to tell any suffering friend of it and what it did for me."—Mrs. L. A. MURRAY, Kilbourn, Wis., Feb. 11, 1896.

WEIGHTY WORDS FOR Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

A GUARANTEE THAT'S GOOD!

We have thousands of testimonials, and are proud of the stories they tell of relief from many forms of misery. But the experience of another person may not be yours with the same preparation.

Cascarets CURE CONSTIPATION. 10c. 25c. 50c.

Sold on merit only under an absolute guarantee to cure, if used according to directions. Every retail druggist is authorized to sell two 50c. boxes Cascarets under guarantee to cure or money refunded. You take no chances when you buy our preparations, sent by mail for price, 10c., 25c. or 50c.—address STERLING REMEDY CO., Chicago, Montreal, or New York—or when you purchase under

ALL DRUGGISTS. 10c., 25c., 50c. Your Own Druggists' Guarantee.

We have used the QUEEN CITY PRINTING INK CO. INK with satisfaction for many years, and are using it now. When in need of Ink write to them, Cincinnati or Chicago.

A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

EARN A BICYCLE $100 Second Hand Wheels. All Makes. GOOD AS NEW. $4 to $15. New High Grade '98 models, fully guaranteed, $11 to $25. Special Clearing Sale. Ship anywhere on approval, no C.O.D. will give a reasonable agent or boy a wheel to introduce it in his neighborhood. Our reputation is well known. Write at once for our special offer. Write at once for our special offer. Write at once for our special offer

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 16, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Franklin will soon be a free turnpike county.

Mad dogs are causing a scare in Casey county.

Owensboro is going to have a public hospital.

The Odd Fellows will build a hall at Independence.

The body of a child was found in a well at Nicholasville.

Lewis A Stokely was held at Georgetown for bigamy.

Henry A. Mead, a Kentucky pioneer, died in Greenup county.

Lincoln Fiscal Court may lease the turnpikes in that county.

A flow of oil was struck by well-diggers in the cemetery at Williamsburg.

Rowan county is contemplating building a new and modern Courthouse.

John Tomlinson was kicked by a mule near McKinley, and terribly injured.

Five big slander suits were filed in the Graves circuit court one day last week.

More revivals than for several months are being held all over Kentucky just now.

The State school census shows a decrease of 4,000 children in the 88 counties heard from.

Twenty-one ministers were graduated from the College of the Bible at Lexington last week.

Hugh Robards, a prominent farmer of Niagara, Henderson county, is mysteriously missing.

Three mules, a horse and 50,000 lbs. of hemp were burned in Len Tucker's two barns in Fayette Co.

Alex Abbott was convicted of poisoning his wife at Moorehead and sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

The Covington Marble Works were destroyed by fire one night last week. Loss, $15,000. Insurance $13,500.

John Ready, a farmer near Nonesuch saw an immense snake which he thinks is a boa-constrictor escaped from some show.

Mrs. Winters, who died recently at Bloomington, Ill., bequeathed $30.000 to $40,000 to found a public library at Nicholasville.

At many of the school trustee elections in the State, voters took home with them black eyes and broken heads as election emblems.

The County Judge of Nicholas county has been notified that if the court house clock is not made to show sun time the building will be dynamited.

Judge Barr ordered the collection of another $7,000 judgment against Muhlenberg county in the United States Court to cover the railroad bond judgment.

A man told the Cloverport News Monday that he refused an offer of 40 cents per bushel for 1,000 bushels of corn. He said he wanted 50 cents and would get it.

Lyfred Marston, formerly of Bourbon county, died a few days ago at Hoopstown, Ill. He was one of three Bourbon county citizens who voted in 1860 for Lincoln.

The "Mules" have systematically taken hold of the investigation of the supposed murder on Tagart creek, in Carter county, of a Hebrew peddler from Ashland and will find the hidden body if possible.

Reuben Riggs, mail carrier between Mt. Olivet and Falmouth, has been warned by tollgate raiders not to pay any more toll to the gates on his route. Riggs says he will do as he likes concerning the matter.

Paris Kentuckian-Citizen: Two copper-head snakes were killed in the boiler-room of the G. G. White distillery Saturday, and the rocky cliff behind the distillery, on Stoner, is a writhing, squirming mass of reptiles.

The people about Elizaville are worked up over the discovery of oil. While drilling for water last week a good vein of black oil was struck at a depth of ninety-five feet. The vein is said to be a strong one and the quality of oil has been pronounced first-class.

Advices from Elliott county state that a 16-year-old son of John Sammons attempted the wholesale slaughter of the family with a hatchet while temporarily insane. He was overpowered with great difficulty, and not until he had perhaps fatally hurt his younger brother.

Mt. Olivet Advance: It is reported that uncle Daniel Kabler, of this county, who has lived out his three score and ten years and several beyond, is to lead to Hymen's altar this week Miss Polly Case, a blushing maiden of Bracken county, who has seen the violets bloom some sixty-seven times.

John C. Colson was shot and instantly killed at Middlesborough by John Dougan. Colson was a brother of Congressman Colson, had been Sheriff of Bell county, and was recently nominated for County Judge and was one of the county's wealthiest men. On the examining trial Dougan was committed to jail without bail.

Harrodsburg Sayings: Judge C. A. Hardin drank a half pint of gasoline Monday through mistake for mineral water. Mrs. Hardin hurriedly called up Fred Currey over the telephone, and in agitated voice inquired if there was danger in the dose. Fred replied: "No danger, just keep him away from fire and matches."

Maysville Bulletin: J. Malsberry, an aged man from Riverdale, Cal., came to Vanceburg last week on business. He had just arrived and was walking from the hotel to the court house when he met and recognized Richard Malsberry, one of Vanceburg's respected citizens, as a brother whom he had not seen for forty-five years.

Stanford Interior Journal: The citizens of Mt. Gilead are peculiarly situated in regard to voting. Its inhabitants number twenty-four, and yet they vote at four different places, viz: Mt. Carmel, Orangeburg, Helena and Lewisburg. Three different Magistrates have jurisdiction over its twenty-four persons. Can any place in the State get ahead of this?

A five-thousand dollar knot is a rarity in this country. Mr. Thomas H. Bradley, of this city, who buys walnut timber throughout Kentucky for export, shipped from Shelbyville to Philadelphia, a mammoth bird's eye walnut cut from a tree on the farm of Thomas Jesse, in Woodford county, that is valued in the above amount. It is six feet in diameter, six feet long, weighs 4,000 pounds, and is believed to be the largest and most beautiful specimen ever exhibited.

One day last week Messrs. Clay & Woodford, the well-known breeders of thoroughbreds in Bourbon county, concluded to have one of the fine yearling fillies spayed. This was accordingly done by a veterinarian, but the filly died as a result of the operation. Having heard so much of late of horseflesh as an article of food, about a score of horsemen and prominent citizens of Bourbon's capital decided to hold a feast with the steaks of the youngster as the prime viand. They did eat of these steaks and have since pronounced the meat as perfectly delicious. This is the first account that we have had in Kentucky of horseflesh being used as an article of food.

CROP REPORT.

Condition Of Crops and Live Stock June 1st, 1897.

For the June report replies were received from 164 correspondents, representing 112 counties, leaving seven counties failing to report.

Wheat.—The condition of the wheat crop June 1st averages 93, which is a loss of two points during the month of May. June 1st, 1896, the condition was 61. The crop continues to show the best condition in the central portion of the State, where 12 counties report an average above 190. The highest average condition is in Franklin county, 105. In Henderson county the condition is 55, the lowest, Livingston county following closely with a condition averaging 57. Marshall is the only county in Western Kentucky where the prospect is especially bright 110 being the average reported in this county. Early wheat is ready to cut in Marshall county, but elsewhere the harvest period will be later than usual. Quite a number of counties, both in the central and western sections report chinch bug and Hessian fly present, but the damage done by them appears slight, with the exception of the counties of Henderson, Livingston, Warren and Crittenden. Some rust is reported on blades and apprehension is felt on this account, particularly in Central Kentucky, where the crop is quite rank.

Corn.—The condition of the corn crop on June 1st, averages 82. On this date of 1896 the condition was 93. The crop continues in a very backward state. The weather conditions during May were not calculated to enable the crop to regain the loss due to late planting. In some counties it is estimated that planting will not be completed before June 10. The stand obtained so far is mainly reported good. Very few complaints are made of damage by cut worms, notwithstanding the weather conditions were such that the greatest damage might be expected from this source.

Oats.—Although there was a lack of sunshine and moisture during May the oat crop shows an improvement from 75 May 1st, 1896, was 69. No special features present themselves in connection with the crop. With a return to seasonable conditions, a fair yield may be expected.

Tobacco.—Little was done towards the tobacco crop until the last week of May, when a fair season prevailed over the greater portion of the State. This is in striking contrast with this date in 1896, when practically the entire crop had been set and much of it had received cultivation. Plants are mainly reported scarce and small, though in some counties, where a season is still wanting, the plants are reported as getting too large to transplant. The acreage for the entire State averages 63 per cent. of the acreage planted in 1896. Separating the "dark" and "burley" districts, the acreage for the former is 66, and 62 for the latter. Replies received to special inquiries as to the possible effect of violent destruction of beds and written demands for a curtailment of the crop show no effect on acreage will be had from this source.

Meadows.—Meadows are quite promising, the only drawback being an unusual amount of weeds in those that have been standing for a number of years. The condition averages 88.

Pastures.—The condition of pastures averages 94, which is about what might be expected considering the cool, dry May. From Livingston county comes a report of pasture completely destroyed by army worms, so far as the report goes, is confined to one farm. The general condition is a marked improvement over the same period last year, when the average condition was 70. The season has been very favorable to young grass and an excellent set was secured.

Wool.—The clip of 1897 is estimated at 89 per cent. of the clip of 1896. The average price per lb. for this season's clip is 16 cents, a gratifying improvement on 12½ cents, which was the price obtained last year.

Live Stock.—is generally reported in good condition with the exception of work stock, which is very much reduced in flesh owing to the severe work necessary to get the soil in good condition. Cattle and sheep continue in good demand. Hogs have suffered about the usual loss from cholera. In McCracken county hogs are reported dying of a disease hitherto unknown. Cattle are dying of "Bloody Murain" in Estill county.

Fruit.—Apples and peaches have dropped badly during the month. The reports are still very conflicting in regard to these two fruits. Pears and cherries are universally reported a poor crop, while the berry crop promises to be abundant. The general summary of condition is: for apples, 76; peaches, 64; pears, 56; and cherries, 56.

LUCAS MOORE
Commissioner of Agriculture.

CROP AND STOCK.

Blackberry crop will break all records.

Oklahoma expects to raise 30,000,000 bushels of wheat this year.

Fruit men of St, Paul call this the banner year for berries. They have never had so many strawberries as now.

Colorado reports an encouraging outlook, especially for potatoes, although in some parts the rain has interfered with the work.

If the Connecticut peach growers can succeed in fighting off the "yellows," it is said they will have a million-dollar peach crop.

Extreme and prolonged cold and wet weather has damaged Michigan's peach orchards to such an extent that this year's crop will not be more than one-tenth the usual yield.

The Savannah News says: "There are increasing prospects that within a short time the orange groves will be once more pouring their golden wealth into Florida's lap."

Paris News: The crop of bluegrass seed in Bourbon is conservatively estimated at 150,000 bushels. The price will be about twenty-five cents from the stripper, or thirty-five cents for the August delivery.

A strange and fatal malady has appeared among the sheep in Lawrence county, and sheep by scores are succumbing. The oldest sheep raisers of that section cannot identify the disease nor check its ravages.

Louisiana cotton is growing faster than usual, but it is rather small for the season. Many of the flood sufferers have returned to their farms and planted a crop, though their expectations of success are not very high.

Hopkinsville Kentuckian: A number of large farmers in the Newstead neighborhood have decided to put out only about 20 per cent. of their usual crop of tobacco. Several who have been raising from forty to fifty acres each will plant but one-tenth of that number of acres. Some will not set out a plant. In some other neighborhoods in the country not more than half a crop will be set.

A CARD.

In 1856 I voted for Buchanan and Breckinridge for president and vice-president, and have voted for every candidate that the party has offered us since. In 1874 I lived in Kenton county—23 years ago. The Democratic party of Kenton county held a convention to nominate county offices. They nominated everyone in the city of Covington. The delegates asked for one county candidate but got none. The people got mad and called a citizens' meeting. They met and made out a ticket called the Citizens' ticket, and on that ticket they put J. N. Pearson for county assessor. I did not attend the meeting at all. The next day the ticket came out in the papers with my name on it. I told the people that I was a Democrat. They said I was put on the ticket as a Democrat. It was public—everybody knew it—I never denied it nor never will. I am not ashamed of it.

I never canvassed the county at all. I received 1,160 votes, most of them Democrats, as good as there are in Kenton county. Two of the regular Democratic delegates voted for me. The ticket was gotten up for a rebuke to Covington. There was a regular Republican ticket in the field at the same time.

It looks like I might have become of age in 23 years, and might be a Democrat now; but they let me vote anyway.

Fred Utz's Mark Hanna, who came out from Cincinnati to carry Florence for him, insisted to old men who knew me always, that I was a Republican, and that if they voted for me they would vote for a Republican, and the consequences were he drove several votes from Stephens to Roberts and still they voted for me.

On Saturday before the election I had as many votes for me as any of them had. But the greatest damage, I think, did me was the infamous lie that I had sold out to Harry Baker for $100 and my expenses paid, and had gone to work for Grimsley. That went to every precinct as did also the circulars that were sent out from the Kenton county clerk's office, and were posted up at every toll-gate. I am perfectly aware who it was that commenced the dirty work, the day before the election.

I am very thankful to my friends who did stick to me. I know who the most of you are. Yours, J. N. PEARSON

OUR Doors Stand Open!

And we make no bones in giving you prices Openly.

We never felt in better humor for business than now. So we will ask for your attention a little while.

—We Will Sell You—

H. and E. Boston Standard fine Gran. Sugar, per lb	5c	Navy Beans 3 qts. for	10c
Coffees from 12½c to 30c per pound		Dried Peas 2 quarts for	5c
White Satin Flour (extra fine)	5.25	Battle Ax Tobacco, per lb	20c
Essex Soap (best for the money) two bars for	5c	Polar Bear Smoking, 4 pkgs	15c
Baking Powder, from 8c per lb. up		Six for Ten per plug	15c
Pure Pepper, ground, per lb	15c	Teas from	15 to 80c
Canned Corn, from 5c to 12c		Good Table Peaches, 3 cans	25c
Pearl Barley, 2 lbs. for	5c	N. O. Molasses, two gallons	65c
Evaporated Apples, per lb	5c	Extra Fine Syrup, two gallons	35c
Fine Evap. Peaches, per lb	7½c	H. L. Oil, per gallon	8c
Prunes, per pound, from 5c to	12c	"Crown" Gasoline, per gal	9c
Good Rice, per pound,	5c	Onion Sets, per quart,	10c
Sweet Chocolate, per cake	5c	3 packages Garden Seed	10c
Baker's Chocolate, per lb	40c	Pratt's Poultry Food at list.
Enamiline, per box	4c	6 dozen Cloths Pins for	5c
Rising Sun Polish, 6 for	25c	Rolled Oats, per pound	2c
		Langdon's Bread, 6 loaves for	25c

And Numerous other Good Values that require too much space to quote. Yours Earnestly,

IRA AYLOR, Erlanger, Ky.

C. W. ROBINSON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,
ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,
Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.
GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.
Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

CHAS C'FRY. JACOB REIB.
FRY & REIB,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of
Marble & Granite Monuments
HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,
109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K
Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. Designs Furnished Upon Application.

SEASON OF 1897,
OAK KNOLL STOCK FARM.
UGO,
Chestnut Stallion, 16 hands high, foaled 1892, sired by Simmons 2744, (record 2:28,) sire of 63 in 2:30 list, and 7 in 2:15 list. 1st dam, Thirza by Almont Boy 4308, sire of Grafton, 2:20½, Bessie G. 2:25, etc. 2d dam, Dixie by Norman 25; 3d dam, Mollie Clay by Iron Duke he by C. M. Clay 18.

UGO is an exceedingly handsome horse, with plenty of size and faultless conformation; he has worked quarters in 40 seconds when 3 years old with six weeks training.

UGO will make the season of 1897, at Oak Knoll Stock farm, 1 mile west of Utzinger, and 3 miles east of Petersburg, Ky., on the Petersburg & Burlington pike. Service fee $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when mare is known to be in foal or parted with. Mares kept on grass at $1.50 per month, accidents and escapes at owners risk.

For particulars address
A. E. CHAMBERS, Jr.,
Utzinger, Ky.

NOTICE.
TUCKER, will be at Ezra Aylor's on Tuesday morning, at Dony Cook's in the afternoon, Ben Tanner's Thursday morning, and at Geo. Moore's on Friday in each week. JAS. H. AYLOR.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE
Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain.
The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.
Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.
Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.
Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for illustrated [illegible]

Subscribe for the Recorder.

CRESCENT HILL STOCK FARM.
1897. SEASON 1897.
TIMOTHY BOY, No. 27854
Bay horse foaled April 3rd, 1893, 16¼ hands high and weighs 1250 pounds in ordinary condition.

Sired by Wilkes Boy, 2:24; 1st dam, Alga by Artillery, 2:21½; 2d dam, Valdosta by Nutwood, 2:18¾; 3d dam, Emma Arterburn by Mambrino Patchen 58, (dam of one and grand-dam of three in 2:30 list); 4th dam, Jennie Johnson by Sweet Owen, thoroughbred, gr-dam of three in 2:30; 5th dam, Thoroughbred, &c.

Wilkes Boy, 2:24, one of the best producing horses in Kentucky, is by Geo. Wilkes. 2:22, dam Betty Brown (dam of Anglin, 2:27½) by Mambrino Patchen, 58.

Artillery, 2:21½ by Hambletonian 10, dam Walls Star (dam of Modestie 2:26½) by American Star, 14, is fast becoming a great sire.

Nutwood, 2:18¾, (out of the dam of Maud S. 2:08¾,) is the sire of more 2:30 performers than any horse living.

TIMOTHY BOY is one of the best bred horses in Kentucky, a horse of great power, fine style and color, a pure gaited trotter, perfectly sound in every particular and should produce horses fit for either track, road or farm.

He will make the season at $10 to Insure a mare in foal, money due when fact is known or mare parted with.

The Fine Black Jack,
MIKE
Will make the season at $8 to insure a colt, money due when colts comes or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE:

MIKE is a black Jack, white points, 15¾ hands high, good heavy bone, large head and ears, well built, good style and color. He is one of the best lookers in Northern Ky., and ought to make a grand breeder.

He was sired by Bill Collins, dam Nell, a fine black jennet 16 hands high, by Sinkbole, 2d dam, Gravel Jenny, by Black Samson, jr.; 3d dam, Jenny by Mogul. Bill Collins is by Bourbon Chief, is 16 hands high and one of the best mule jacks in Central Kentucky, and sold for $1,800.

Timothy Boy and Mike will stand at Daniel Bedinger's farm, 3 miles west of Richwood, Ky., on the Richwood & Beaver pike.

☞Mares kept on pasture at $1.50 per month.

J. C. BEDINGER, Richwood, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Benj. Rice, deceased, must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

B. P. RICE, Adm'r.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 1897. NO. 35.

SUICIDE in epidemic form prevails in London, England.

THE Ohio campaign this fall will be watched with interest.

THE Ohio Republican State convention is in session at Toledo.

ANOTHER ex-official was convicted of embezzlement in Cincinnati, last week.

THE pardon mill runs full time at Frankfort when Gov. Bradley is out of the State.

GOV. BRADLEY does not like the idea of Deboe having more influence with the administration than he.

FOR a dead man Hon. J. W. Bryan is giving a great many people considerable trouble trying to keep him dead.

THE Senate is not disposed to be hasty in ratifying the Hawaii annexation treaty. It is not certain of ratification.

GOV. BRADLEY went on to Washington, last week, to smash Senator Deboe's slate as regards some of the names he has placed thereon.

HON. CHAS. JACOBS, has withdrawn from the Louisville Mayoralty race, which gives Weaver a walk over for the Democratic nomination.

MANY of the Kentucky papers were unusually interesting last week, their editors having left them in charge of the office force while they took their annual outing.

THE murder of Dr. Ruiz, in Cuba, may cause trouble between this country and Spain, unless the latter is willing to waltz up to the captain's desk with a liberal indemnity.

THE Divisional Band of the Salvation Army and a band of music are making things lively over in Lawrenceburg. The capacity of the tent in which services are held is 500 persons.

THE write up the New York Sun gave the signers of the call for the Boltercrat convention which is to assemble in Louisville to nominate a candidate for clerk of the court of appeals, was cruel in the extreme.

JOHN R. MCLEAN is a candidate to succeed Mark Hanna as United States Senator from Ohio. As he and Hanna are both millionaires, the campaign in that State this fall will be based entirely upon the money question.

THE Democratic candidates in Louisville are lining up for the primary ordered by the regular committee, and the Louisville papers that have been trying to keep them out of the primary are very much chagrined.

THE winter wheat crop in the United States, soon to be harvested, is estimated at 150,000,000 bushels, and it is believed that it will take every bushel of this to supply the demands of the millers during the interim of several months before the spring wheat of the Northwest comes into market.

THE Governor of California has reprieved Theodore Durrant, the murderer, until the question can be determined by the supreme court of the state whether or not the federal courts can interfere in State executions. Durrant's lawyers have attempted to appeal his case to the U. S. courts. July 9th will probably be the date of the execution.

THE Republicans and the Boltercrats are to fuse in Louisville. "It is stated on good authority," says the Courier-Journal, "that the Republicans have arranged to put a large number of gold Democrats on their local ticket. Besides offering two judgeships to gold Democrats, and putting on a gold Democrat for the Senate, the plan of the Republicans is to sprinkle gold Democrats liberally through the rest of the ticket."

RUMEX ACETSOSELLA

Commonly Called Sheep Sorrel or Field Sorrel.

IT HAS SPREAD ALARMINGLY.

[St. Louis Republic.]

The county and suburbs of Saint Louis are threatened with a plague in the shape of a troublesome weed, which first made its appearance in small patches about five years ago. This year it has already alarmed the farmers, annoyed gardners and disfigured even the lawns in the western part of the city.

Cattle will not eat it; it is death to other forms of vegetation and thus far no cheap and effectual method has been found for its eradication. It is more difficult to combat than any other known weed, and it spreads more rapidly. It grows from six inches to two feet high, with a tuft of tiny reddish brown and yellow flowers at the top. These flowers contain some pollen, go to seed early and the seed is so light and small that the plague is borne about on the lightest breeze, until the hills, pastures and lawns about St. Louis are turning red with it. It will kill off the best sod of clover if left alone, and contrary to an opinion which prevails, it does not confine its operations to poor soil.

It is commonly known by several names—sheep sorrel, dock sorrel and field sorrel are applied promiscuously. In the botanics it is called Rumex Acetosella of the Oxalis. The boys call it sour grass and chew it to taste the slighty acid, pungent flavor. In a dissertation about weeds Prof. Trelease of the Shaw School of Botany says that it grows from a span to one or two feet in height, is tuft and is propagated by creeping roots. It is said, by the books, to be especially prolific on poor soil. That this is not absolutely true is apparent from the fact that the weed has invaded both Bellefontaine and Calvary Cemeteries, Forrest Park, Tower Grove Park, and has even penetrated the well-kept confines of Shaw's Garden. The hills in Forrest Park this spring are as red in places as if the grass had been burned by a drouth, and inquiry among the gardeners devcloped the fact that no established method of weed killing seems to reach the pest. Plowing it under has apparently no effect.

"I know the rumex weed well," said head gardener Gurney of Shaw's garden. "It is a perennial, a native of Europe, and is gradually coming westward. I have had much trouble with it and do not know any economical way to eradicate it. It first became annoying to us while Mr. Shaw was alive. At his suggestion, I had the infested places mown closely and then covered with dry brush, which was burned off. I will say that this killed it in spots, leaving patches, however, which sprang up and spread rapidly. I thought if well manured the soil which bore it would throw it off, and with this in view, I chose a mound in Tower Grove Park which was quite red with the weed, and fertilized it generously. I was gratified to find that this operation exterminated the weed, and I thought I had discovered the real antidote for the rumex weed, or sheep sorrel. That was my disappointment, however, to find a number of richly manured mounds that I built a little later, producing the odious weed in preference to anything else. The soil in these places was undoubtedly unusually well fertilized and yet the sorrel grew and would not be downed. I would say that the most economical way to treat land plagued with this weed is to plow it deeply, leaving it fallow for the sun to do its work. The cultivator should be run through it from time to time afterward, and after a period it might be plowed crosswise and the deep furrows left through a season. I think that a manure fertilizer is sometimes [illegible] means of spreading the weed, the seeds remaining in the manure after having been mowed with timothy hay, and fed to cattle. In treating soil to eradicate this weed I believe that some fertilizer other than animal manure would be effective. Lime, if properly distributed, might be effective in some places, but here in these parks we have sufficient lime in the soil.

The richest farms in St. Louis county are covered with the plague. From the Florissant valley south to the Meramec River it has shown itself in patches of all sizes, from a few yards in area to great fields of a hundred acres. It is five years since its advent was first noted and the question of how to fight it has become a momentous one. Mr. Hale, a well known landscape gardener of Kansas City, told the Republic reporter yesterday that the weed was not as yet troublesome about Kansas City, but there is no doubt that it will spread rapidly all over the West, where fertilizers are not as yet in general use. There is no active law in Missouri to compel farmers and property owners to eradicate weeds, but in the Eastern States, there are laws looking to the prevention of such plagues and the united efforts of farming and gardening interests have done much to prevent the spread of the sorrel. Experiments are being tried with slaked lime by the county farmers. It is sprinkled thinly on the effected soil, but how effective it may be has not yet been demonstrated. In the meantime those who see their clover, hay and wheat fields being gradually monopolized by the pest, are looking anxiously to the scientific men to help them out of their dilemma with some antidote that will destroy the weed without bankrupting the victims.

Pith of the Press.

President McKinley might touch off a Cuban firecracker on the Fourth of July.—Duluth Herald.

Illinois did not realize what a good Governor Altgeld was until she got Tanner.—Detroit News.

Wm. J. Bryan is attracting more attention wherever he goes than does any other American citizen.—Nashville Sun.

John Wanamaker says he "cannot sit on a fence?" What kind of Republicanism is this?—Buffalo Courier-Record.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding, the John Wanamaker notion is taking deep root in various localities.—Washington Post.

Tesla will next invent an electric Congressman and then all Tom Reed will have to do will be press the button.—Chicago Herald.

With all due respect to the gentlemen who think otherwise Tom Reed will continue to insist that he is also the previous question.—N. Y. Journal.

It is easy to see by the late speeches of Secretary Gage that he is the most promising member of the McKinley Administration.—N. Y. Journal.

Colonel Watterson is giving the Cleveland third term notion about the same treatment a frisky bull pup accords an old shoe.—N. Y. Journal.

Gov. Bradley will probably be too busy with Kentucky affairs to slip over into Ohio and make prosperity speechers for Hanna.—Kansas City Journal.

If President McKinley is the advance agent of prosperity Secretary Gage may be fairly considered the keeper of the box office.—Chicago Tribune.

It appears that the weather at Nashville was too warm to permit Governor Bushnell to give one of his equestrian performances.—Washington Post.

By proper manipulation of the navy the public attention might be distracted until the administration decides what it wants to do.—Detroit Tribune.

While the dispatches announce that the Republican Senators are of one mind in regard to the tariff bill, they do not state whose mind it is.—Detroit News.

It is understood that since the lynching of Mitchell at Urbana, Ohio, there are no more fellows of his kind hanging around there.—Chicago Dispatch.

The Republican harmony in Ohio is confined to Hanna and Foraker. Their followers are clawing one another after the manner of tomcats.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Dingley bill was a tariff for protection with incidental robbery. The Senate committee changed it to a tariff for robbery with incidental protection.—N. Y. World.

It would be simply awful if this Mr. Brice should make gold so cheap that we couldn't get more than 47 cents worth of it into a gold dollar.—Washington Post.

Henry Watterson says Cleveland is dead. In that view Henry is probably meaning to illustrate the fable of the jackass that kicked the dead lion.—Nashville American.

There is this to be said for Governor Tanner. He advocated "the maintenance of the national honor" last year and made no promises concerning plain Illinois honor.—N. Y. Journal.

Hanna is distributing patronage in Ohio where he thinks it will do him the most good. Foraker smiles when he reflects that Hanna will disappoint a dozen men for every one he gratifies.—Wichita Beacon.

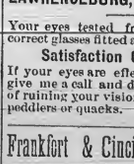
The man who supplied the Bible upon which President McKinley took the oath of office has finally secured a job for his son in one of the departments. It was a devious route to the pie counter, but it was successful.—Washington Post.

If it shall happen that the people of Ohio, voting as free citizens, choose Mr. Mark Hanna to speak for their intelligence, morality, patriotism and material interests in the United States Senate, it will not be unbecoming if on the night of the day of his election the office of every trust in the Union be illuminated.—N. Y. Journal.

It seems that Secretary Sherman and Mr. Sherman do not agree as to the propriety of annexing Hawaii. The latter is of the opinion that the United States has enough to do looking after its affairs at home without increasing its burden by shouldering the troubles of neighboring countries that want to become part and parcel of this government.

GEO. JACKSON, the negro who swore he drove the cab in which Pearl Bryan was taken to Ft Thomas, was tried and convicted of perjury at Springfield, Ohio, last week. Jackson was short in his account as treasurer of the United Brotherhood, and to remove his responsibility for the shortage he swore that a negro by the name of Nevin robbed him. Nevin had Jackson arrested for perjury, and was successful in his efforts to sustain the charge.

Senator Vest gave Senator Allison several blows straight from the shoulder in a few remarks dissecting the figures set fourth by Mr. Allison in place of those submitted by Mr. Aldrich when the change was made in the sugar schedule. Mr. Vest believes that each schedule has been a little better for the sugar trust than the one it succeeded, notwithstanding the public howl against favoring the colossal monopoly, and he presented figures to back his belief. According to his figures, the present tariff gives a protection on 96—degree sugar of 37 cts. per hundred pounds; the Dingley schedule 41 cents; the Aldrich schedule 46 cents, and the caucus schedule, afterwards adopted by the Senate, 47 cents. Thus it is that the Republican Senators who opposed the Wilson bill because they said it gave the sugar trust too much protection have put themselves on record in favor of giving the trust exactly ten cents a hundred pounds more than the Wilson tariff bill gave it.



S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

FOURTH YEAR
OF WALTON ACADEMY,
—opens—
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897
AT WALTON, KY.
Three Courses of Study to choose from: English, Scientific or Classical,
Tuition per month,...$2.50 and $3.00
Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.
We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2 00 for 5 days.
Thorough, Substantial Work
Guaranteed.
Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS. CHAS. F. PRIOR. Rev. S. H. MYERS.
Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
N. S. WATON, President, Uxzinger, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.
Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.
FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE : ME : A : CALL

Wm. F. GOETZE

Scientific Optician.
Headquarters at Hornberger's Jewelry Store,
LAWRENCEBURG, - - INDIANA.
Your eyes tested free of charge and correct glasses fitted at moderate prices.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
If your eyes are effected in the least, give me a call and don't run chances of ruining your vision by buying from peddlers or quacks.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.
Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.
East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort.....6:30 a. m, 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown...7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown...10:40 a m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m
C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given to Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 8,000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

A. P. WALTON,
DENTIST.
121 Garfield Place,
Cincinnati, - - Ohio.
First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE RECORDER

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

JUNE—1897.

Sun.	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thur.	Fri.	Sat.
....	....	1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30	....	....	....

The agricultural bureau at Washington predicts that sunflower seed oil will become a popular substitute for olive oil.

Pennies have just appeared in the circulation of Hawaii. In spite of some drawbacks the penny is a mark of high civilization.

It is an astonishing fact that in the famous Garden of Olives at Jerusalem there are eight flourishing olive trees that are known to be over 1,000 years old.

According to the method which is now adopted for reckoning leap years, December, January and February will be the summer months about 7,000 years hence.

The recent Indian war in Montana was of the dime novel sort. It began suddenly, was ferocious on paper and was soon over. The noble red man now conducts war with a reservation.

The statement is abroad that American mixed drinks are making headway in Japan. They have a knack of making headway everywhere, but they frequently interfere with the footway.

It may be interesting to know that the British embassy in Washington costs Great Britain about $90,000 a year. The German embassy costs about $60,000, the French about $50,000 and the Italian $30,000.

A commercial museum is to be built in the city of Caracas, Venezuela. The building will be an imposing one on a leading street, and its purpose is to show United States goods to the best advantage to the Venezuelans.

A stone wall almost a mile in length, with an average height of 18 feet, has been built along Second avenue in Pittsburgh, Pa., by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company. This is part of the $500,000 improvement that the company is making at that point.

The population of New York is estimated at 1,851,000; Brooklyn, 1,142,000; borough of Queens, 36,000; Long Island, 22,500; Jamaica, 44,500; Staten Island, 65,000, making the "Greater" upward of 3,000,000, on and after January 1, "next to London!"

England and France are giving far more attention than the United States to horseless carriages, the investment of English capital in them last year amounted to $26,000,000. But foreign countries have hardly made the acquaintance yet of the electric railway.

William Waldorf Astor was telling a London audience about the large trees in the United States. Some of the party doubted his story and forthwith he ordered a section of a redwood tree from California, which was 14 feet four inches in diameter, weighing 19 tons, sent to his London address. William is something of an American after all.

The eye of the experienced bicyclist is always to be directed to the ground over which his wheel is to pass, and not to the rocks and ruts which he is to miss. There is sound philosophy in that for other people. The motto is "keep your eye on the track and let the hundreds of impediments stand along the journey. They won't hurt if you don't bump up against them."

In spite of the decision of a Chicago judge rejecting the X rays as evidence that marvelous discovery is to be put to other uses than those of tracing bullets in burglars and buttons in boys. It is proposed to use the rays for the purpose of detecting fraudulent "old masters." It is said that by their means experts will be able to detect whether Raphaels and Rubens are being manufactured today in back streets.

When one reflects upon the ease with which men of ordinary business prudence can be swindled out of their hard-earned money by a plausible scamp, it is scarcely surprising to the Detroit Free Press that the scamp flourishes as he—or she—does. The slang proverb says that "a sucker is born every minute;" but it would seem as if the birth rate must be somewhat more rapid than that, judging from the number of people who are duped every day and the number of sharpers who get a living by duping them.

The British consul at Uganda, central Africa, conveys the interesting information to his government that bicycles are now quite common in the streets of Mengo, the capital of that country, and that a missionary has just completed a 600-mile bicycle ride from the Indian ocean to Victoria Nyanza. Only a few years ago this region was the darkest spot in the dark continent, and the explorer who entered it took his life in his hands. But now that the bicycle has actually arrived there it may be concluded that the process of civilization is going on with great rapidity.

GAS AND OIL.

The Limit of Supply in the Indiana Fields is Being Rapidly Reached.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 17.—The annual report of the state geologist was made public Wednesday. It is a comprehensive document, covering many pages, and chiefly interesting because of its reference to the gas and oil resources of the state. One hundred pages alone are devoted to the natural resources, of which he maintains that the fuels are the most valuable. These are being drawn upon with a lavish hand, he says, although these is no coal, no gas and no oil being formed beneath the surface of the state to-day. The present supply of each of these fuels will continue to decrease. "Each constitutes a great reservoir or deposit of reserved energy upon which the people of the present generation are daily drawing without adding thereto. Like a bank account under the same conditions, it is only a question of time until it become exhausted."

The product of petroleum last year, says the Geologist, amounted to 4,650,000 barrels, and in summing up his conclusions of the Indiana field as a whole he gives it as his opinion that nearly if not quite as much money is being spent in the field as is got out of it. Some men who understand the business are making money, but many who enter the field for purely speculative reasons are losing money.

The state geologist finds that the natural gas area has not been enlarged by recent developments, and that it still contains approximately 2,500 square miles. The average pressure decreased about 20 pounds during 1896, and the opinion of the state geologist, founded upon the careful investigation made by the state gas supervisor, is, that the supply of natural gas is slowly and surely failing.

INSURGENTS

Destroy a Body of Spanish Soldiers Near Sabana—The Troops Were Lead Into an Ambush by Scouts and Slaughtered.

HAVANA, VIA KEY WEST, Fla., June 15.—A large force under Gen. Quinlin Bandera succeeded in destroying a body of Spanish soldiers near Sabana. Gen. Bandera placed his men in ambush and then instructed five scouts to approach a fort where the Spanish were barricaded.

The Spaniards sallied from the fort in pursuit of the scouts, who fell back, leading their pursuers into the heart of the Banderas ambush. A hot fight ensued, first with musketry, but finally hand to hand. All of Gen. Bandera's men were Negroes with machetes.

Ten of the insurgents were killed and the entire pursuing party of the Spaniards.

At Alguiza, a town of 3,000 souls, 178 persons died last month from hunger and destitution.

Joaquin Vargas, an American citizen, has been arrested at Remedios. He has retained Jose Pando as his counsel, and the latter will make a protest if the authorities proceed to try Vargas by courtmartial.

It is reported from Remedios that Pancho Cadillo has directed that the insurgent leader Fanteya, a mulatto, be courtmartialed and shot.

From Jarnco comes reports of the successful landing of an expedition.

IRON HALL.

Receiver J. F. Failey Files His Report—Funds Distributed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 17.—J. F. Failey, receiver of the Iron Hall, Wednesday filed his report covering the time from October 21, 1895, to June 7, 1897. A summary statement at the time of the last report said there was on hand $178,219, to which had since been added $12,617. Of this $126,447 has been distributed, leaving a balance now on hand of $64,000. Against this sum are some outstanding claims depending upon court decisions, among which is $13,000 for taxes.

Another item is $37,500 to meet the claim of the Cuyahoga, O., branch in case they are successful in their appeal suit. Small claims reduce the amount on hand subject to distribution to $11,317. The report states that the only obstacle to a final order as to the receivership is the settlement of the trust estate of the Muyua Banking, Surety, Trust, Safe and Deposit Co., of Philadelphia, which is expected in September next.

Frank Butler Guilty.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., June 17.—The jury in the case of Frank Butler, charged with the murder of Capt. Lee Weller, Wednesday rendered a verdict of guilty. Butler attempted to cut his throat with a piece of tin early Wednesday morning, but was seized before he did himself any serious injury. Later he made the most violent resistance to his keepers while on the way to the court house.

Prominent Circus Man Dead.

CHICAGO, June 17.—M. F. Young, general manager of the Barnum-Bailey show, died Tuesday night at the Auditorium of typhoid fever.

Young was well known to showmen throughout the country. He was unmarried and leaves an estate in Cincinnati valued at $200,000. The body will be taken to Cincinnati for interment.

Large Consignment of Opium.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—The steamship City of Rio de Janeiro, which has arrived from the Orient, brought an unusually large consignment of prepared opium from Macao. There are over 900 cases of the drug, valued at about $2,000,000, and upon which the duty amounts to $221,400.

Bunker Hill Anniversary.

BOSTON, June 17.—The battle of Bunker Hill will be remembered Thursday with the observance of its one hundred and twenty-second anniversary. The indications Wednesday night were that the celebration will be one of the most successful ever held in the Charlestown district.

William R. Evarts Seriously Ill.

NEW YORK, June 17.—William R. Evarts, who has been ill with la grippe at his home here for some time past, is reported Wednesday night to be worse. His physicians were in attendance during the night.

ATTEMPTED HOLDUP.

The B. & O. S. W. Officials Were Warned and Were Prepared.

Cross Ties Were Placed on the Track—The Engineer was on His Guard and Stopped—Detectives Fire on the Robbers and Capture Them.

CINCINNATI, June 18.—The B. & O. S. W. officials here received information several days ago that an attempt would be made to wreck one of their St. Louis passenger trains. The company detectives were immediately put on the case and located a gang of train robbers near Flora, Ill. They have been closely watched and Thursday morning they made the attempt.

The train selected to wreck was the St. Louis flyer, due in Cincinnati Thursday morning. They placed heavy oak ties across the rails and it was their intention to make a complete wreck of the train regardless of life and property, then rob the mail and express cars and the dead passengers.

The detectives were on the alert and, after the obstruction had been placed on the track, the agent at Flora was informed to warn the engineer of the train to run cautiously and stop before he struck the ties placed across the rails by the robbers. The plan was carried out to the letter.

The robbers awaited the coming of the train, but when the engineer stopped in time to prevent the accident, they started to run. The detectives were in hiding, and opened fire on the men, injuring two with shots in the back. The men were placed under arrest and jailed at Salem, Ill. General Superintendent Rawn, of the B. & O. S. W., received word Thursday morning that the other two men had also been captured. The railroad company will prosecute the men to the limit. The passenger train proceeded after the ties had been removed from the track and the passengers were not aware of their narrow escape until they arrived in Cincinnati.

The prisoners were taken to the Salem jail and locked up. Tweed can not live. Both robbers admitted that they intended to rob the train, but denied that they wished to derail the engine or to touch any of the money in the express car. They said they had designs only on the occupants of the six or seven cars and placed the ties on the tracks only to force the engineer to come to a stop. Then they were to board the sleepers, lock the conductors and porters in the toilet rooms and hold up the passengers. It is said that the train which left St. Louis Wednesday evening carried more than $100,000 in the express car. The trainmen are confident that if the engine had run into the pile of ties it, with several cars, would undoubtedly have been derailed and thrown down the embankment, entailing a great loss of life.

MARTIN ENSLEY

Charged With Assaulting Chas. D. Collins With Intent to Kill and Robbery.

STERLING, June 18.—Information was filed with Justice of the Peace Creusfelder Thursday charging Martin Ensley with assaulting Charles D. Collins with intent to kill and robbing him of $6,000. The document was sworn to by F. A. Heidhorn, St. Louis county prosecuting attorney at Clayton. Ensley will be held in jail at Clayton until the result of the terrible blows received by Charles D. Collins at Mermance Highlands Tuesday night shall be determined. The accused man's friends have engaged an attorney to defend him. Collins was worse Thursday. He had a high fever, his head pained him and he was very restless. Several more wounds have been found on his head, making the total number 14. The extreme heat adds to the patient's discomfort and complicates his case. Dr. Hiltman still fears blood poisoning. Mrs. Collins arrived from Cleveland Wednesday night. Thursday the patient reiterated his opinion that Ensley delivered the blows and said the prisoner knew of his having $6,000 on his person.

THE REMAINS

Of Three Bodies Found in the Ruins of the Delevan House, Albany, N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 18.—While clearing away the ruins of the Delevan house which was burned on December 31, 1894, workmen Thursday found the remains of three bodies. The remains were only a half burned skull, parts of the pelvis bones of three persons, a thigh bone, some vertebrae, and numerous small bones. They were identified as the bones of Mary Carsy, Bridget Fitzgibbons and Thos. Canon. They were hotel servants and occupied rooms under the roof in a corner of a building. Of the 14 persons who lost their lives in the fire all have now been accounted for except Nogenta Sturea, a servant.

A Defaulting Bank President's Whereabouts.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 18.—The whereabouts of Louis F. Menage, the defaulting president of the defunct Northwestern Guaranty Loan Co. has again been disclosed. He is now living with his family in the City of Mexico under his own name. The indictments against him here are supposed to be still in force and the disclosure of his whereabouts by his friends is supposed to be the prelude to an effort looking to his return.

Baseball Changes.

BALTIMORE, June 18.—Manager Donavan, of the Pittsburgh club, has accepted the terms of former manager-captain Rogers, of the Louisville club, and has ordered him to report at once. He will play third base. Hemming, who was released Wednesday with Rogers, may also be given a trial.

Victoria's Sight is Gone.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Correspondents of other New York newspapers generally confirm the news of the queen's blindness, which was first sent to New York by the Sun's London correspondent.

AN ANTI-TRUST

Amendment to Be Offered to the Tariff Bill—It Seeks to Prevent the Monopolizing of Raw or Refined Sugar.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, has prepared an anti-trust amendment which he will offer to the tariff bill, and which he thinks will meet the objections that have been made to other amendments of a similar character. It follows:

Every person, firm or corporation who shall monopolize or engross, or who shall combine or conspire with any other person, firm or corporation to monopolize or engross the trade or commerce in raw or refined sugar of any kind among the several states or with foreign nations for the purpose of unduly enhancing the price of such sugar, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $10,000 or by imprisonment at hard labor not less than six months nor more than two years or by both said punishment, in the discretion of the court. And in case of a corporation found guilty of said offense, the jury shall also ascertain and find what officers of the corporation caused or directed the corporation to commit such offense and such officers, on being found guilty of causing or directing the corporation to commit the offense of which it is found guilty shall be liable to the punishment aforesaid. It shall be a sufficient pleading in the indictment to describe the offense in the language of this law, and the fact that a manufacturer or refiner of sugar refuses to sell his sugar to the public in inter-state or foreign trade, otherwise than through special factors or agents, shall be deemed prima facie evidence of monopolizing or attempting to monopolize the trade in sugar among the several states or with foreign nations. The several circuit courts of the United States are hereby invested with jurisdiction to prevent and restrain violations of this law; and it shall be the duty of the several district attorneys of the United States in their respective districts under the direction of the attorney general to institute proceedings in equity to prevent and restrain such violations. Such proceedings may be by way of petition setting forth the case and praying that such violation shall be enjoined or otherwise prohibited. When the parties complained of shall have been duly notified of such petition the court shall proceed, as soon as may be, to the hearing and determination of the case; and pending such petition and before a final decree the court may at any time make such temporary restraining order or prohibition as shall be deemed just in the premises."

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The controversy over the rate of duty on wrapper tobacco, which has been in progress ever since the tariff bill was taken up in the senate, was settled Friday so far as the republican members of the finance committee could settle it by agreeing upon the rate of $1.75 per pound. This is a compromise rate. The growers of wrapper leaf wanted a rate of $2, while the manufacturers asked that the rate should not exceed $1.50. The committee has held many meetings to consider the question, but as both sides were very persistent in pressing their claims no decision was reached till Friday.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—In view of the fact that false and misleading statements have been sent out from Washington as to Secretary Sherman's position on the question of the annexation of Hawaii, the secretary Friday said that as a rule he was opposed to the United States acquiring outlying territory, but he regarded the condition of the Hawaiian islands as exceptional on account of the claim of Japan to these islands. He therefore approved the treaty making Hawaii a possession of the United States, but not entitled to admission as a state.

WIND SWEPT.

Several Lives Lost in France by a Cyclone—Much Property Wrecked.

PARIS, June 19.—A cyclone struck Asnieres Friday. At the time a fair was in progress. Everything was literally demolished. Two hundred trees were uprooted. The roof of Coignet's fireworks factory was blown off, a tall chimney was blown down and the boiler exploded, killing seven persons and injuring fifteen.

It is reported that five persons were killed in a cafe. In every direction houses and other buildings were more or less seriously damaged.

It is estimated that throughout the cyclone district at least 20 persons were killed and 90 injured.

The whole garrison at Courbevoie, about five miles northwest of Paris, went at a double-quick pace to Asnieres after the disaster, where the scene is now one of widespread and appalling desolation. Every booth, van and merry-go-round in the fair was smashed and the circular railway was ruined.

In the distance the cyclone presented the appearance of a cloud of smoke going from the southwest to the northeast. Roofs were seen flying in the air like kites. A May pole, 15 yards long, was carried over the tops of houses contiguous to the fairgrounds.

Ambulances and 40 carriages are now searching for the dead and wounded. The people are completely dazed, and women and children can be seen sitting weeping upon the doorsteps.

Considerable damage was also done at St. Denis.

Geo. Jackson Guilty of Perjury.

SPRINGFIELD, O., June 19.—At 9:30 Friday morning the jury returned a verdict of guilty of perjury against Coachman George H. Jackson, of Pearl Bryan murder fame. Inasmuch as he was a principal witness in the Jackson and Walling trials, the question arises, "Did they kill Pearl Bryan?" Jackson testified falsely against Wm. Melvin, who he claimed had robbed him, to cover up a shortage of $17.50, which he is alleged to have embezzled from the United Brotherhood of Friendship, a colored lodge of which he was treasurer.

THROUGH A BRIDGE.

Six Men Were Injured, But it is Thought None Will Die.

Train Was Running Slow at the Time Otherwise the Loss of Life Might Have Been Heavy—The Accident Due to Arrangement of Lights

CHICAGO, June 18.—A northbound suburban train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road ran into the Chicago river Thursday night at Kinzie street. Six men were hurt but it is not expected that any of them will die.

The train, which consisted of the engine and two cars, the first being a combination smoking and baggage car, and the second a regular passenger coach, left the depot at 9:50 and five minutes later the engine and first car were under the surface of the Chicago river.

The railroad crosses the river at Kinzie street, which is not over one-quarter of a mile north of the depot, and the train was consequently moving slowly. But for this fact the entire train must have gone into the river and the loss of life been heavy, as the passenger coach which did not go in contained about 30 passengers.

The trains always stop an instant before going upon the bridge, and Thursday night Engineer Cleveland came to a stop about 200 feet south of the bridge. The lights were all right, signaling that the draw was closed, and he started up again. In a minute he saw through the darkness the shape of the bridge standing open and made desperate efforts to stop the train. It was too late, however, and the engine plunged into the open draw, dragging with it the first car.

The accident, according to James Harrington, the bridge tender, was due entirely to the arrangement of the lights on the bridge. A large hexagon light is used, one-half the lights being red, one-half white. Harrington said that he had opened the bridge for the passage of a tug with a mud scow, and was just swinging the bridge shut when the train came on. He claimed that the engineer had caught an oblique glance at the light, instead of a look full at its face, and said that in either case the light would, from the tracks on which the engine was coming, show white. He easily proved his case by swinging the bridge into the position it occupied when the train ran over the edge, and the accident seems to have been caused entirely by the light.

The tracks are not more than four feet above the surface of the water and the fall was not great. About 15 people, including the trainmen, were carried into the water, but all were rescued without difficulty.

LIL IS ANGRY.

Says Foreigners Are Giving Her Country Away—No Provisions in the Treaty for Her.

NEW YORK, June 18.—A special to the Journal from Washington says:

In an interview, ex-Queen Liliuokalani said of the proposed treaty between the United States and Hawaii: "Fifteen hundred p[illegible] my away my country. The people of my country don't want to be annexed to the United States, nor do the people of the United States want annexation. It is the work of 1,500 people, mostly Americans, who have settled in Hawaii. Of this number those who are not native born Americans, are of American parentage. None of my people want the island annexed. The population of the islands is 109,000. Of this number 40,000 are native Hawaiians. The rest are Americans, Portuguese, Japanese, Chinese, English and a small proportion from other countries. The 1,500 Americans who are responsible for what was done Thursday are running the affairs of the island.

There is no provision made in this treaty for me. In the Harrison treaty I was allowed $20,000 per year, but that treaty never went into effect. I have never received one dollar from the United States. No one looked after my interests in the proceedings of the treaty. Yet my people, who form so large a part of the population of the islands, would want justice done me."

NEW CROP TEA.

More of It Afloat on the Pacific Than Ever Before at One Time.

TACOMA, Wash., June 18.—More tea is now afloat on the Pacific ocean than ever before at one time. The importers of New York and other eastern cities have made large purchases in China and Japan for immediate delivery, and are having it hurried across the pacific in order to enter it before the Dingley bill goes into effect.

A thousand tons of new crop has been landed here and 12,000,000 pounds is on the ocean between Yokohama and this port. This comprises the cargoes of the steamers Braemer, Mogul, Tacoma and Victoria. The Canadian line is also bringing in heavy shipments.

Bushnell Will Accept if Renominated.

CINCINNATI, June 18.—In answer to a message inquiring about the truth of the published rumor that he had withdrawn from the gubernatorial contest, Gov. Bushnell wired from Columbus as follows:

"The report is entirely without foundation in fact. If renomination is tendered me at republican convention, I shall accept it and be elected.

ASA S. BUSHNELL."

B. & O. Depot at Columbus Burns.

COLUMBUS, O., June 18.—The B. & O. freight depot was burned late Thursday night. The entire building, 300 feet long, was completely destroyed. Eight empty cars and a large amount of unloaded freight was destroyed. Loss, $60,000.

Oldest Postmaster Goes.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., June 18.—Wesley G. Scott, postmaster at Scottsville, Ind., the oldest postmaster in point of service in the country, was succeeded Thursday by Jacob Schnaidt. Mr. Scott was appointed in 1857 by President Buchanan.

Consult Thy Purse

And buy your tickets from Chicago via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway to the following named points on June 29 and 30, and July 1, 2 and 3. Look at the figures.

San Francisco	$25.00
Salt Lake City	20.00
Denver and Pueblo	12.50
Sioux City	9.75
Omaha and Council Bluffs	7.75
Kansas City	7.50

and other points in proportion.

These are very cheap rates made for these special dates. Return tickets at approximately the same rates will be sold on various dates in July and August.

For further information apply to the nearest coupon ticket agent or call on or address Geo. H. Heafford, G. P. A., C., M. & St. P. Ry., Chicago, Ill.

He Wondered.

Little Clarence (after three minutes of silence)—Pa!

Mr. Callipers (wearily)—Uh?

"Pa, when you eat a doughnut do you eat the hole, too, or do you eat all around it and leave the hole?"—N. Y. Journal.

Only $25.00 to San Francisco.

From Chicago via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western Railway), the famous "California in 3 Days" Route, June 29 to July 3, inclusive, on account of the C. E. Convention. Similar rates will be made westbound. For full information apply to ticket agents C. & N.-W. Ry.

"That affair on the end of my tail," said the rattlesnake, "may not seem handsome, but——" He skillfully threw a coil. "It's a rattling good thing. Yes."

"Star Tobacco."

As you chew tobacco for pleasure, use Star. It is not only the best, but the most lasting, and therefore the cheapest.

His Banker.—"That boy of mine has an inordinate craving for money." "Takes after his father?" "Yes, he always does when the craving comes on."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

We have not been without Piso's Cure for Consumption for 20 years.—Lizzie Ferrel, Camp St., Harrisburg, Pa., May 4, '94.

Some people laugh like amateur singers trying to run the scales.—Atchison Globe.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75c.

Time, which vindicates a man, first buries him.—Atchison Globe.

Pure Blood Is the basis of good health, steady nerves, mental, physical and digestive strength. If you are nervous, enrich and purify your blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. If you are weak, have no appetite and desire to be strong, healthy and vigorous, take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which will tone your stomach, create an appetite and build you up.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills easy to take, easy to buy, easy to operate. 25c.

$25.00 Chicago to California

And $23.00 from ST. LOUIS, is the rate that will be made by the

Santa Fe Route

For the Christian Endeavor Convention in July. It will also apply to intermediate points, and in the reverse direction.

Have you wanted to visit the SOUTHWEST; the remarkable health resorts; the irrigated farms and orchards; the new mining camps now attracting a multitude of gold-seekers; the towering Rockies; the stupendous chasm of the Grand Canon of the Colorado River; the far-famed marvels of mountain and valley on that western shore where the blue Pacific rolls? Then take this opportunity.

You may learn all about it by addressing any agent of the Santa Fe Route, or the undersigned.

W. J. BLACK, G. P. A., A. T. & S. F. Ry., Rooms 11, 12 and 13 Jarvis-Conklin Bld., Topeka, Kan.

C. A. HIGGINS, A. G. P. A., Rooms 1418 Monadnock Block, Chicago.

FUN MAKING

and health making are included in the making of HIRES Rootbeer. The preparation of this great temperance drink is an event of importance in a million well regulated homes.

HIRES Rootbeer

is full of good health. Invigorating, appetizing, satisfying. Put some up to-day and have it ready to put down whenever you're thirsty.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

IMPROVED HUNTER FULL CIRCLE HAY PRESSES

3 Styles, Greatest Capacity, Cheapest. Write for Catalogue and Prices. R. S. LEWIS, Lessee, MERIDIAN MACHINE SHOPS, Meridian, Miss.

PENSIONS for SOLDIERS and WIDOWS Fee for Increase $2. Rejected claims reopened. All laws free. 31 yrs. practice. Success or no fee. A. W. McCormick & Sons, Cincinnati, O., and Washington, D. C.

Weeks Scale Works, STOCK, COAL, HAY, GRAIN, AND COTTON SCALES. BUFFALO, N. Y.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habit cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

QUEEN VICTORIA

Began the Celebration of Her Jubilee on Sunday.

The Royal Family Attends a Special Service at St. George's Chapel,

Where Her Majesty Paid Her Devotions and Offered Solemn Thanks to God—A Touching Scene Which Never Will Be Forgotten.

LONDON, June 21.—Queen Victoria began the celebration of her jubilee Sunday as was befitting her entire career, before the altar of her faith. Throughout London, the United kingdom and the empire, in every cathedral, church or chapel of the established church of England was held services similar to those at St. George's chapel, Windsor, where her majesty paid her devotions, and offered solemn thanks to God.

The announcement that the services at St. George's chapel would be private and for the members of the royal family prevented the gathering of a large crowd. The scene was most impressive and the services very simple. Her majesty sat in the chair of state immediately in front of the communion rail and just beside the brass plate whose inscription designates the spot which was the temporary place of interment of the prince consort.

The ladies and gentlemen who are the grand officers of the queen's household entered first, followed by the military knights of Windsor in the full costume of cock hats and scarlet coats.

The duke of Devonshire and Lord Rosebery occupied their stalls as Knights of the Garter. The rest of the church was empty, the seats of the royal family being near the queen's.

The dean of Windsor, wearing the insignia of chaplain of the Order of Garter, officiated, assisted by the lord bishop of Berry and several Canons.

Ordinary morning prayers began with a short exhortation from First Timothy.

After the first collect a special collect was read and instead of the usual prayer for the queen and royal family, two special prayers were substituted.

A special prayer for unity was said, and there were special psalms and Gospels used instead of those for the day, the Gospel being the 16th verse of the 22d chapter of St. Matthew.

The choir of St. George's chapel rendered the musical portion of the service, Sir Walter Parrett presiding at the organ. The service lasting 40 minutes, the queen remaining seated throughout and following closely the special prayers and hymn.

At the end there was a pause. The queen, with bowed head, continued in silent prayer. Then followed a touching scene which will ever linger in the memory of those who witnessed it. Summoning Empress Frederick, who bowed low at her side, the queen kissed her on both cheeks. The duke of Connaught and the others of the family followed, [illegible] on bended knees a similar token of affection. In many cases the recipient was kissed several times.

The queen was profoundly moved, and tears rolled down her cheeks. At last, and evidently with great reluctance, she beckoned her Indian attendant, and leaning on her arm, passed out of the chapel, the entire congregation standing, the soft light falling through the multi-colored windows and the exquisite strains of the organ rising and swelling beneath the gothic bannered roof. It was a seen never to be forgotten, and thrilled all present with strong emotions.

In the afternoon and evening there were special accession day services at Westminster Abbey and at St. Paul's cathedral.

At St. George's chapel, Windsor, in the afternoon a special musical service was held at which most of the members of the royal family, except the queen and Empress Frederick, who had attended the morning service, were present. Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" was superbly sung by Madame Albani, Edward Lloyd and the choir of the chapel, assisted by the Windsor and Eton choral and Madrigal societies.

Several of the pulpits of the city were occupied by American preachers, all of whom alluded in the most feeling terms to the queen's life and character. Bishop Coxe preached at the Windsor parish church and Bishop Whipple at All Saints, Margaret street. Rev. W. H. Milburn, chaplain of the United States senate, preached at the Queen's Park Congregational church.

In Honor of the Queen.

LONDON, June 21.—Special dispatches from Paris, Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg and nearly every large city in Europe show that thanksgiving services were held in the local English churches, numerously attended. The newspapers in many cities, especially Vienna and St. Petersburg, publish long eulogistic articles upon the Victorian reign. At Constantinople the sultan sent a number of high ottoman officials to represent him at the service, and the entire diplomatic corps were present.

Diamond Jubilee Celebration in Montreal.

MONTREAL, June 21.—The diamond jubilee celebration was begun Sunday. Special services were held in all the churches. The Montreal brigade and the Fifty-third battalion of Sherbrooke, the governor general's foot guards of Ottawa, and the Fifty-seventh battalion of Peterboro, held a church parade to Christ church cathedral, to St. James (Roman Catholic) cathedral and to St. Paul's church. Over 3,000 troops took part, the streets being crowded to see the pageant.

Barney Barnato in the Tomb.

LONDON, June 21.—The interment of the late Barney Barnato, the South African diamond king, took place Sunday afternoon at the Jewish cemetary in Willisden.

THE TREATY

For the Annexation of Hawaii Reaches the Senate—The Message of President McKinley Accompanied the Document.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The three Hawaiian commissioners, Secretary Sherman and Assistant Secretaries Day and Cridler assembled in conference in the diplomatic room of the state department at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and began a careful comparison of the text of the Hawaiian treaty. The Hawaiian annexation treaty was signed at 9:20 o'clock Tuesday morning at the state department by Secretary Sherman for the United States, and Messrs Hatch, Thurston and Kinney for Hawaii.

The document will be submitted to the senate Wednesday.

The treaty provides that the government of the Hawaiian Islands cede to the United States absolutely and forever all rights of sovereignty in and over the Hawaiian islands and its dependencies, and that these islands shall become a part of the territory of the United States. The government of Hawaii also cedes to the United States all public lands, public buildings and public property of every description. Congress shall enact special laws to govern the disposition of the lands in the Hawaiian islands. All revenue from these lands shall be used solely for the benefit of the inhabitants of the Hawaiian islands for educational and other public purposes. The Hawaiian islands shall be admitted into the union as a territory of the United States, local laws to be passed by a local legislature, but subject to the approval of the president. Until congress shall apply the laws of the United States to the islands the present laws of Hawaii are to govern the islands.

The present treaties and laws governing Hawaii's commercial relations with foreign nations shall remain in force until congress shall take action. Further immigration of Chinese laborers is prohibited pending congressional action, and the entry of Chinese from Hawaii into the United States is likewise prohibited. The United States assumes the public debt of Hawaii, but with a stipulation that this liability shall not exceed $4,000,000. The treaty before it becomes effective shall be ratified by the proper authorities of the United States and of Hawaii. No mention is made of any gratuity to Liliuokalani or Kaiaulani.

The Japanese government has filed a protest against the Hawaiian treaty on the ground that it promises to lead to a breach of treaty stipulations between Japan and Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Assistant Secretary Pruden arrived at the capitol 3:30 p. m. with the Hawaiian annexation treaty, but after consulting with Senator Allison he retired without presenting it, with the understanding that the senate would be prepared to receive the document at 4:45 p. m. The president sends a brief message with the treaty.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The treaty for the annexation of the Hawaiian islands reached the senate chamber at 5 o'clock Wednesday. The senate at once went into executive session and as soon as the doors were closed, the message of President McKinley accompanying the treaty, and the treaty itself were read to the senate. They were attentively listened to. In one part of the chamber there was a group of senators who will bitterly oppose the ratification of the treaty. Among them were Senators Gray, Mills, Pasco, White, Caffery, Pettigrew and McEnery. As soon as the reading of the documents was completed, Senator Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, moved that the message and treaty be made public. Senator Gray objected to a vote on the motion and under the rules a single objection carried the motion over until Thursday. Senator Davis gave notice that at the next executive session he would press the motion for publication as all the essential facts and almost verbatim copy of the treaty had been published in the press of the country.

The message of the president was not a very long document. It dealt with the historical facts concerning the island and showed that the United States and Hawaii yearly grow more closely bound to each other. This was not annexation, he said, but a continuation of existing relations with closer bonds between people closely related by blood and kindred ties. Since 1893, said the president, the predominance of the United States had been known. The sending of the first envoy there brought the islands into closer relations with the United States, and those relations had grown more firm by succeeding events. At the time the tripartite agreement was made for the government of Samoa, he said, Great Britain and Germany wanted to include Hawaii in the group over which a protectorate was established, but the suggestion was rejected by the United States because this government held that there already existed relations between Hawaii and the United States, which placed the islands under the especial care of this country and that this government could not allow any other country to interfere in the affairs of Hawaii.

The annexation of the islands, said the president, and making them part of the United States, was in accordance with the established policy of this country.

The president Wednesday afternoon nominated Stewart L. Woodford, of New York, to be minister to Spain.

For Shorter Day's Work.

DETROIT, Mich., June 17.—Representatives of the Typographical union were assured Wednesday that the International Pressman's union will join hands with the printers for shorter days work. President Prescott, of the Typographical union, and James J. Murphy, of New York, chairman of the shorter work day committee of the union, made addresses before Wednesday's session of the Pressman's convention. They argued earnestly for cooperation for a nine hour day and pointed out proposals for carrying it out.

CONGRESSIONAL

But Two Sessions Will Be Held in the House This Week.

The End of the Tariff Bill in the Senate Almost in Sight.

It is Difficult to Harmonize Contending Forces Among Republicans on the Tobacco and Wool Schedules—The Matter to be Referred to Caucus.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The programme in the house will be the same as during past weeks. There will be two sessions, one on Monday and another on Tuesday. It is probable that the committee on rules will bring in a special order on Monday for the consideration of the bill appropriating money to repair the dry dock at the Brooklyn navy yard and the bill will no doubt be passed.

The republican senators in charge of the tariff bill begin to feel that the end almost is in sight. They do not hope to conclude the consideration of the bill by the close of the present week, but they expect by that time to be able to say when they can complete the work.

As a matter of fact the difficulty of adjusting differences in their own party is causing the managers more perplexity at present than is the open opposition to the bill in the senate. It has been found almost impossible to harmonize contending forces among republicans on the tobacco and wool schedules. The differences on tobacco have been compromised, though not to the satisfaction of all concerned, and if there should be another caucus before the tobacco schedule is taken up in the senate the question is liable to be reopened there.

The wool schedule will confront the senate at the opening of the session Monday, and it is Senator Allison's purpose to press the schedule forward to a close. Hence it will be impossible to postpone for a very much longer time the settlement of the differences on this question. It is expected that, if the committee should not be able to announce a determination by some time Monday, the matter will be referred to an early caucus, or a caucus may be called if the committee fixes a rate not satisfactory to the wool men. There is little doubt that an advance will be conceded by the committee, but the question of interest is whether the increase will be all that the wool men demand.

The wool schedule will, of course, give rise to an animated debate, but the democratic senators say there is no disposition on their part to needlessly prolong it. There are also numerous articles on the free list and in the "sundry" schedule which will arouse differences of opinion, and it the republicans do not withdraw the internal revenue features of the bill, there will be a sharp clash over this. They are practically decided, however, to retreat from these provisions. It is also practically determined that the house provision in regard to Hawaiian sugar will be continued pending the disposition of the Hawaiian annexation treaty.

For the rest the question of reciprocity and the problem presented by the trusts in connection with the tariff are still undetermined by the republicans themselves, but there is no doubt that there will be more or less general debate upon any propositions agreed to presented in the senate.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The senate have agreed by a yea and nay vote to strike out the paragraph in regard to floor matting, the vote being 25 to 32. The effect is to put floor matting on the free list, and is the first important victory of the opposition to the tariff bill.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—In the senate Saturday the flax schedule of the tariff bill was taken up with little delay, the pending question being on Mr. Allison's motion to amend paragraph 327, relating to thread, twine, etc., made of flax, hemp or ramie, by substituting for the senate rate, the rate of 14 cents per pound, and ½ cent additional for each lea in excess of 8.

Glory, Cal., Damaged by an Earthquake.

GILROY, Cal., June 21.—The heaviest earthquake ever felt here lasted only a few seconds Sunday but did much damage. Numerous chimneys were toppled over, house walls cracked, every plate glass window shattered and a general wreckage of bottles and shelf ware in houses and stores. People rushed out of their homes in terror. In some houses blinds were wrenched from their hangings and an unusual scene of petty destruction is presented in nearly every house and store in town.

Will Shut Down for an Indefinite Period.

EASTON, Pa., June 21.—The Northampton Hard Vein Co. and Theodore Witesell & Co., slate operators at Belfast, this county, have notified their several hundred men that their quarries will shut down at the end of the present month for an indefinite period. There is unusual dullness in the trade for this season of the year and as most of the companies in the slate belt have their banks filled with slate for which there is no demand, more suspensions will probably follow.

The Rebellion in Formosa.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 21.—Northern Pacific steamer Braemen brings news that the Chinese rebels in Formosa are preparing for a second attack upon Taipeh, the capital of Formosa. The government authorities have taken vigorous measures to meet the attack, and are enlisting numerous volunteers to aid the regular troops stationed there.

Triple Drowning.

ROME, N. Y., June 21.—Phillip Orth, residing near Rome swamp, five miles west of this city, his wife and his sister Libbie were drowned in the Erie canal Sunday. The three were riding in a carriage which with its occupants in some unexplained way got into the water. There were no witnesses to the accident.

A TORNADO

Does Considerable Damage to Property in Illinois—Four Inmates of the Feeble-Minded Institute Killed and Many Others Wounded.

LINCOLN, Ill., June 19.—A tornado which passed over the central and southern portions of Logan county Friday afternoon destroyed thousands of dollars worth of property and completely demolished the immense cow barn on the farm of the state institution for the feebleminded. Twenty-six persons seeking refuge from the storm were buried in the debris. Four of the refugees, boy pupils from Chicago, were taken out dead. Five others were severely injured, one of whom, the farm superintendent, will probably die.

At 3:45 Friday afternoon, a tornado was seen approaching the city from the southwest. The state institution for feeble minded, containing over 700 inmates, seemed to be directly in the path of the storm, and stringent measures were quickly taken to prevent a panic. The roofs of several of the buildings were carried away and much damage was done about the grounds, but the 700 inmates were under perfect control of the attendants and the threatened panic and great loss of life was averted. The tornado passed on to the northeast, touching next on the farm and stock barns connected with the asylum, three miles distant. In the cow barn were huddled 26 persons, including the superintendent of the stock farm, Jacob Wilmot, 24 pupils and an attendant. The barn was wrenched from its foundations and torn to pieces. Four of the pupils were instantly killed. The others, with the exception of the superintendent, escaped serious injury and were shortly rescued from the debris.

The tornado passed on to the northeast doing great damage, the extent of which is as yet unknown. The storm divided into sections and covered a wide territory. It is feared that the loss of life will be greatly enlarged when reports are received from outside the city.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 19.—Violent windstorms prevailed over a wide district in Nebraska late Thursday night and early Friday morning. In Lincoln some damage was done. At Munroe, west of here, the storm approached the violence of a tornado. Hardly a chimney is left in the town, and many roofs were taken off. The house of Peter Tobin was totally wrecked and Mr. and Mrs. Tobin injured. Norfolk suffered from the storm in the way of unroofed houses and small buildings blown away. Two men were injured, but not seriously.

SEDALIA, Mo., June 18.—The town was visited by a fierce electrical and wind storm Friday evening. The power house of the Sedalia electric Railway and Power Co., was struck by lightning and all of the dynamos ruined, leaving the city without lights Friday night and stopping the cars on all of the six car lines. A number of buildings were twisted off their foundations, while fruit, shade and ornamental trees in all parts of the city were broken down.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 19.—At 6 o'clock Friday evening a cyclone swept over West Burham. The Baptist church was blown down. The large storage house of the Erwin cotton mills was blown down and the stock of cotton clothes stored there was soaked with rain. The loss is considerable. No fatalities were reported.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 19.—A severe storm passed over eastern Indiana Friday noon. Dispatches from Muncie and other points reported damage to factories and houses aggregating $30,000 or $40,000, but no loss of life. Rumors were current that several people were killed, but the reports lack confirmation. The principal damage was at Eaton and Albany, Ind.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 19.—Dispatches from the west report serious floods and a cloudburst west of Calgary in the Rocky mountains. The suburbs of Calgary are submerged, 50 families made homeless and several bridges washed away. There has been no loss of life, but the damage to property will be heavy.

Accident During a Circus Parade.

RIVER FALLS, Wis., June 19.—During the street parade by the Lemon Brothers circus Friday a balcony over a sidewalk occupied by about twenty people gave way and the party was hurled about eighteen feet to the sidewalk. Many people were injured. Several children who occupied the sidewalk were badly hurt. Genie Erickson and Carrie Hanson were among those most seriously hurt, the latter being probably fatally injured. Several Indians received dangerous injuries by falling timbers.

A Cyclone at Joliet, Ill.

JOLIET, Ill., June 19.—A cyclone struck Joliet at an early hour Friday morning. The mercury fell to 60 degrees, and overcoats were necessary. At 5 a. m. it was as black as night, the wind blew trees and awnings down and broke in plate-glass windows. Lightning struck houses in all parts of the city. During the storm blasts of intense heat came from the northeast, alternating with arctic blasts from the west.

Cleveland Furniture Dealer Assigns.

CLEVELAND, O., June 19.—Alfred Gayton, furniture dealer, filed a deed of assignment in the insolvency court Friday. The assets and liabilities are not given, but the assignee was compelled to give a bond of $13,000.

The Fastest Time on Record.

NYACK, N. Y., June 19.—The steam yacht Ellide built for E. Burgess, Warren, of New York, in her trial trip over a measured course of a mile, made the mile in one minute and 30 seconds, which is at the rate of 40 miles an hour, the fastest time on record.

Additions to the Greater Republic.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 19.—Representatives of the government of Guatemala and Costa Rica have signed the treaty which makes them part of the greater republic of Central America.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—SENATE—The senate debate on the sugar schedule of the tariff bill proceeded Monday with only one diverting incident to relieve the monotony into which the discussion has lapsed. This was a wash up exchange between Mr. Hoar (Mass.) and Mr. Tillman (S. C.), representing the two extremes of senatorial prosedure. Mr. Allison, in charge of the schedule, presenting tables which he declared proved that the sugar refiners received less protection under the senate schedule than under the existing law. Mr. Pettigrew (S. D.) spoke at length in favor of his amendment to place on the free list articles controlled by trusts, severely arraigning the various large trusts. Mr. Allen (Neb.) urged legal procedure against the trusts. Only one roll call occurred during the day, on Mr. Lindsay's amendment to place all sugars on the same basis. This was rejected, 25-29. Mr. McEnery (dem., La.) voted with the republicans in the negative and Senators Pettigrew and Mantle with the democrats in the affirmative.

HOUSE—The house Monday adjourned until Thursday, after a session that lasted 45 minutes. The only attempt to transact business was a request by Mr. Lacy (rep., Ia.) for unanimous consent for a bill for the relief of residents in Greer county, Okla. Mr. Henry (dem., Tex.) promptly objected, and then, after the usual democratic protest against the republican policy of not appointing committees the house by 88 to 78, with 15 present and not voting, decided to adjourn. During the session began the hub of a wheel, wound round with a monster petition said to contain 6,000,000 signatures, appealing to congress to recognize the Cuban insurgents as belligerents, was wheeled into the space in front of the speaker's rostrum. It had been in circulation throughout the United States for about six months, and was presented to congress by Representative Sulzer, of New York.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—SENATE—The senate made a great stride forward Tuesday in the work of completing the consideration of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill, except the provision relating to Hawaii which went over. This schedule has been the storm center of the entire bill and with it disposed of there is a better prospect for speedy action on the bill as a whole. The first paragraph of the sugar schedule has served to bring out all the speeches and the test votes, and when this was passed early Tuesday the other paragraphs of the schedule were agreed to without further opposition. As agreed to, the schedule places on sugar not above No. 16, Dutch standard, one cent per pound and .03 of a cent for every degree above 16; and on sugar above No. 16 Dutch standard, 1.95 cents per pound, but on sugars testing below 87 degrees 1-10 cents per pound shall be deducted. The other provisions of the schedule relate to maple sugar, maple syrup, candy, etc. One yea and nay vote was taken during the day, on the amendment of Mr. Lindsay (dem., Ky.), to make the rate 1 cents per pound on sugar above number 16 Dutch standard. The amendment was defeated, 32 to 35. The Pettigrew amendment relating to trusts was then taken up and discussed at length. It developed considerable divergence of view on both sides of the chamber, the two Alabama senators, Messrs. Morgan and Pettus, joining Mr. Hoar (Mass.) in opposition. Mr. Allison finally tested the sense of the senate by moving to table the amendment, which motion prevailed, yeas 35, nays 31, two democrats, Morgan and McEnery, voting with the republicans.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—SENATE—The senate made rapid work on the tariff bill Wednesday. There were no long speeches and the debate was of a snappy character which at times enlivened but did not delay the serious work on the bill. Thirteen pages were disposed of, carrying the senate through the agricultural schedule and up to schedule H., relating to spirits, wines, etc. During the day the paragraphs on dairy products, farm products, fish, fruits and nuts, meat products and miscellaneous agricultural products were acted on. The finance committee proposed many changes in the main advancing rates somewhat over those heretofore reported. The committee was sustained on every vote, although a contest was made on almost every paragraph. Mr. Vest's motion to reassess salt to the free list was rejected, yeas 24 nays 31. The important paragraph proposing a tax on tea was taken over at the suggestion of Mr. Allison, who expressed hope that this duty on tea would be dispensed with. The senate met at 11 a. m. and will continue to meet at that hour until the bill is disposed of.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—SENATE—The senate made greater progress Thursday on the tariff bill than any day since the debate opened. Up to the entire schedule, covering 96 pages, were completed, namely, schedules B. on spirits, wines and beverages and schedule I, on manufactured cotton goods. This brings the senate to the tax schedule, which is the important wool schedule standing next. The portion of the bill passed Thursday is substantially the same as that reported, all committee changes being unopposed, while the opposition amendments of Mr. Jones (Ark.) and Mr. Vest were systematically rejected by majorities ranging from five to ten votes. Mr. Allison secured the addition of a new paragraph to the cotton schedule with a view to compensating the cotton manufacturers for the recent action of the senate in placing raw cotton on the dutiable list. In paragraph 289, on motion of Mr. Allison, the house provision was restored. The remaining paragraphs on spirits (290 to 293 inclusive) were agreed to as reported without opposition.

HOUSE—The house was in session an hour and a half Thursday most of the time being taken up with the roll calls. Mr. Sulzer (dem., N. Y.) succeeded in injecting to the proceedings a brief speech in favor of Cuban freedom in demanding Weyler as a "thief and murderer." The bill for the relief of the residents of Greer county, Oklahoma, was passed. At 1:35 p. m. the house adjourned until Monday.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—SENATE—The tariff bill came to a halt in the senate Friday, less than one page of the flax schedule being disposed of. The debate drifted into political channels, Senators Bacon, Vest, Jones (Ark.) and Tillman taking part in an exposition of democratic doctrine on the tariff. It led to several lively exchanges, during which the cleaning of political "dirty linen" was frequently referred to. Mr. Tillman's remarks were made in his characteristic vein of humor, and at one point he frankly stated concerning the tariff that if there was to be stealing he wanted his share for South Carolina. Late in the day Mr. Morgan proposed an amendment to place a ten per cent. ad valorem duty on all articles now on the free list, with a few stated exceptions. In supporting the amendment Mr. Morgan called attention to the singular fact that the income tax feature of the Wilson bill is not repealed and can be enforced by a change in the personal of the supreme court of the United States.

A Pittsburgh Steel Plant to Resume.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 19.—Shoenberger's steel plant, which has been closed down for several weeks, will resume operations next Monday in all departments. The men have been notified of a general cut in wages of from 5 to 20 per cent. A strike is improbable.

Mrs. Blackman Disappears.

CLEVELAND, O., June 19.—Mrs. Blackman, of this city, who claims to be the wife of Barnato, and who left for London about eight weeks ago, has mysteriously disappeared. A letter which was mailed in London about six months ago, was received by her daughter, who resides in this city. In her letter, Mrs. Blackman said that she would be a few days en route for Johannesburg, Africa, to attempt to establish her identity as Barnato's wife. Since that time nothing has been heard from her, and the theory advanced by Detective Seligsohn is that she has met with foul play.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—JOHN RUSKIN spends his time in planting bulbs and pulling them up the next day to see if they are growing.

—Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book" has been translated into German by an Englishman who teaches in the school where Mr. Kipling was brought up.

—Switzerland has issued a new 20-franc gold piece, Helvetia being represented on its face, a realistic peasant girl's head. Around it are 22 stars for the 22 cantons.

—M. Pierre Laffitte, who for the 40 years since Auguste Comte died has been the director of the Positivist school, being now 74 years of age, has selected a successor to lead the Comtists after his death.

—Prince Maximilian of Saxony, who for a year past has been officiating as a Catholic priest in the slums of Whitechapel, has been ordered by his doctor to leave London on account of his health breaking down.

—A cautious admirer of Samuel Webb, the elder, composer of glees, before starting a subscription for a monument, thought he would take a look at the musician's grave in old St. Pancras churchyard. He found to his surprise that the tombstone, which was in place in 1869, had disappeared, and apparently the grave, too.

—Longjumeau, near Paris, has erected a monument to Adolph Adam, who made the little town famous by writing "Le Postilion de Longjumeau," the opera in which Wachtel, the tenor and former postboy, made his reputation. The professional manner in which Wachtel snapped his whip was almost as effective as his high C.

ELEPHANT NOT CLEVER.

Popular Belief Contradicted by an English Writer.

The elephant possesses very charming characteristics and makes a very pleasant companion. For one thing he is not easily misled, and he is very obedient to the slightest hint given by his mahout.

In speed he is scarcely a record-breaker, but he can get over the ground in his shuffling way at the rate of 15 miles an hour when he likes.

There is one thing that he is not—he is not a really clever animal, in spite of all the tales in the story books to the contrary, otherwise he would not suffer himself to be so easily captured in the kheddahs, the huge forest inclosure into which the hunters drive the herds of elephants for the purpose of capture.

All the actions which are apparently spontaneous on the part of the working elephant, are really performed at the bidding of the mahout. The driver on his neck directs every movement by the pressure of the knee, and as the man's knees are concealed under the elephant's ears it is very easy to imagine that the elephant thinks for himself.

When the mahout elects, for a change, to sit on the saddle, or pad, he drives with his feet, and the dullest eye can detect how a rub of the heel on the right shoulder turns the elephant to the left and vice versa.

After his tractability, his gentleness is the elephant's most characteristic. The mahout takes cruel advantage of his disposition sometimes; he furnishes him on the toenail with a billet of wood, or—if free from risk of discovery by his European master—pricks his trunk with a spear till the blood flows.

An elephant has rarely been known to retaliate, save when it must; when that curious madness comes on him, no one dare approach him in his pickets.

In a suburb of Rangoon an elephant belonging to a firm of rice merchants was one afternoon taken down to the river for his usual bath after work. He had, the mahout said, been "dull" all day and seemed out of sorts. He seized his mahout and tossed the astonished man into the water; then he ran into the "go down" close by and, with one squeal, dismissed some 200 coolies at work there.

The "go down" was a huge palisaded shed, covering over an acre and was full of loose paddy (unhusked rice) and stacks of bags and grain. For two nights and two days that elephant enjoyed himself among those stacks; seamen posted round the palisade wall kept him in and one might have supposed 40 elephants, bent on mischief, had been there instead of one mad one. At last he was made prisoner with the aid of two big tuskers and chained up till such time as he should recover himself.—London Sketch.

Progress in Victoria's Reign.

When Victoria was called to the throne the United Kingdom contained 26,000,000 people. To-day it has over 39,000,000. The "wise men" of the time said the nation would go to pieces. They claimed it could never govern its home and colonial possessions. Under Victoria the new territory acquired alone is one-sixth larger than all Europe. To-day Victoria rules over 402,514,000 people, or 27 per cent. of the population of the globe. Her empire extends over 11,399,316 square miles, covering 21 per cent. of the land of the world. The United States, at the time of Victoria's coronation, had only 17,000,000; to-day it has 70,000,000. Arkansas, Missouri and Louisiana were then western frontier states. All our territory west of the Mississippi contained less people than Philadelphia has to-day. Our present trans-Mississippi population exceeds in number that of the whole country in 1837. Our territorial area has increased 75 per cent.; our national wealth has increased about 1,700 per cent.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Proper Diet.

"I'm going to be a contortionist when I grow up," said little Johnny, proudly. "I'm in training now, so I want you to tell me what is the best thing for me to eat."

"Green apples, my boy," chuckled the old man.—Demorest's Magazine.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 23, 1897.

Advertising Rates:
One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Democratic Ticket.

November 2, 1897.

For Clerk Court of Appeals,
SAM'L J. SHACKELFORD.

For Representative,
W. B. GRUBBS.

For Circuit Judge.
JOHN W. GREENE.

For Commonwealth's Attorney,
M. D. GRAY.

For Circuit Clerk,
J. W. DUNCAN.

For County Judge,
C. C. ROBERTS.

For County Attorney,
J. M. LASSING.

For County Clerk,
B. W. ADAMS.

For Sheriff,
ELMER BEALL.

For Assessor,
T. G. WILLIS.

For Jailer,
T. J. ADAMS.

For County Superintendent,
L. H. VOSHELL.

For Surveyor,
W. E. VEST.

For Coroner,
A. A. MURAT.

Neighborhood News.

Richwood.

Mowing blue grass is the work of the day.

Mr. Shadler is picking aud hauling to market his large crop of strawberries.

James L. Clore and family, of Burlington, were visiting friends aud relatives here, last week.

Miss Virginia Southgate has returned from North Carolina, and will spend her summer vacation in Boone county.

The Sunday School Convention held held here on the 17th inst., was a success in every particular. After the morning session au excellent dinner was served by the ladies; the afternoon program was continued until 4 o'clock. The papers and addresses were interesting and instructive.

Erlanger.

Mrs. Wm. Sexton has gone to Warsaw to spend a week with relatives.

Some of the K. P., members visited Burlington lodge, last Saturday night, and enjoyed the work and banquet. You can always enjoy the Burlington's hospitality.

The children of St. Henry's church will make their communion next Sunday. Rev. Father Kolk will officiate. Nine boys and three girls. Services at 8:30 a. m.

The Erlanger Building Association will hold its annual election for directors and officers next Monday evening. Twelve new shares were taken at its last meeting.

The town of Elsmere has now a saloon in full force, and is, therefore, happy. Mr. Guentner, the proprietor, had a grand opening last Saturday evening, and all passed off quietly.

Florence

Miss Stattira Childress was Miss Bessie Crigler' guest on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Clore were visiting her daughter at Erlanger Thursday.

Mrs. Chas. Tanner and little son were the guests of her mother, Mrs. Henry Tanner, last week.

Dr. Hays and Miss Sadie Kirtley, of Bullittsville, were guests of Miss Mae Carpenter Thursday evening.

The belated gardeus and crops have been making up for lost time under the stimulating influence of pleutiful rains and warm weather.

Miss Virginia Finch has returned from a lengthy visit to schoolmates in dear old New Orleans, on her return trip taking in the exposition and stopping over at Nazereth college.

Mrs. Utz and children, of Bellevue, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson. If the occasional disappointments of life leave us all looking as well as our friend, Mr. Pearson, we might hope to live to a hale and happy old age.

Verona.

Our friend, Gas Hudson, has been on the sick list.

We were blessed with a good rain last Thursday, which was greatly appreciated.

Wheat is beginning to show its golden color, which indicates harvest is near at hand.

Miss Anna Wolfe returned from Georgetown College where she graduated with high honors.

The Baptist Sunday School here will give a festival at the hall on Saturday evening, July 17th, for the benefit of the school.

The delegates who attended the Williamstown Convention of Christian Endeavor, last Friday and Saturday, report a pleasant time.

Remember the Endeavor rally and basket dinner, which was announced for July 4th has been postponed, and will be re-announced for another time.

Miss N. E. Hamilton received by mail, last week, a horned frog. The place from which he was started could not be determined from the wrappings. As little froggie positively refused to eat, after being exhibited to many friends, he was given his freedom. We read in the RECORDER that one sent to the editor escaping lived through the severe winter, and was found in a corn field in the spring. So in behalf of the unknown doner we hope this one will be able to care for himself.

Francisville.

Capt. Harry Kilgore was working the road last week.

The Bullittsville C. E. Club visited the Zoo again last Tuesday.

Add Batterson, of this place, is working at his trade in Covington.

John Scothorn had ahorse to cut itself on a wire fence, last week.

Miss Dolly Goodridge, who has been quite sick, is getting some better.

"Peep" is a favorite game with our Bullittsville and Utzinger friends.

Chas. Scothorn bought several nice pigs of Will Stephens, last week.

Walter Goodridge, who has been sick for some time, is visiting his brother, Manlius.

The Francisville ball club is now organized and is prepared to meet auy club whatever, Baltimore preferred.

After an absence of representation in the columns of your paper for nearly a year, Francisville agaiu appears on the list.

We have a new neighbor in the person of Charles Bryaut, formerly of this place, but who has lately been residing in New Richmond, Ohio.

While puttiug Paris Green on potatoes, Mrs. Jack McMurry inhaled some of the poison and was fouud unconscious by her husband, but, after some minutes' work, she was brought around and is doing well at this writing.

Bellevue.

Mr. Albert Corbin is in poor health.

Mrs. Michael Clore is able to be out in a buggy.

The blackberry crop will beat all records of the past.

Early potatoes are now on tables; also early cabbage.

Abial Deane aud O. Snyder were guests of A. Corbin and family Sunday.

Elder Leslie Early supplied the pulpit at the Reformed church Sunday last.

Miss Essie Conner, of Cincinnati, is the guest of her grand-parents Mr. and Mrs. Clore.

James Couner and son-in-law Dr. Richardson of Cincinnati, were guests of Michael Clore on the 20th inst.

Miss Eva Botts has returned from Gullford, Ind., where she has been the guest of Mrs. Hattie Moody for two weeks.

Jno. J. Walton has bought a corn husker that will husk 200 shocks a day and grind the stalks, husks aud fodder at the same time.

T. Z. Roberts and T. L. Utz represented the Baptist church, at this place at the General Association, held at Georgetown last week.

Your correspondent at Pete wants a remedy to destroy "sorrel." It appears in spots. Cover with straw is the only successful method of destroying it.

Jas. Rogers shipped 30 head of fat hogs to the city on the night of the 16. He purchased from the Clore boys 40 head of stockers each weighing 200, at $3 15 per hundred.

Rabbit Hash.

Miss Addie Stephens attended the reunion of the Kelly family on the 12th inst.

The croquet ground presents a familiar appearance since Rev. John Presser returned from Louisville.

Miss Fannie Burnett returned home last Thursday, from a three weeks' visit with friends at Indianapolis.

Cal Riddell bought 200 bus., of corn of R. T. Stephens and shipped it to Wilbur Rice, last Tuesday night.

Mrs. Annie Ryle and daughter, of Kenton county, spent several days with relatives here and in the Hathaway neighborhood, last week.

Ben R. Stephens aud L. L. Stephens prized and shipped their tobacco to Louisville, and the five hhds. cleared them 9½c per pound, about double what they were offered for it here.

Last Tuesday was hog day here, and the following shipments were made that evening: Wm. Hankinson and John McConnell, 35 that they had in partnership; John McConnell, 20; A. G. McConnell, 12; J. H. Lawell, 17; Z. T. Kelly, 10; Ben C. Stephens, 12; J. R. Stephens, 10, and R. H. Stephens shipped 11 Thursday night.

Died, Saturday the 12th inst., near Denver, Ill., Mrs. Minnie Huey, daughter of P. C. S. Ryle. She was born and raised in this neighborhood, and leaves many friends to mourn her. Her death was sudden and unexpected. She leaves a babe two weeks old. She was buried Monday. Her father and Mrs. Myra Stephens attended the funeral and have not returned yet.

Gunpowder.

Miss Olive N. Orem's school closed on the 22d inst.

Aaron House has begun the construction of his new dwelling house.

Arthur Tanner was the guest of Wm. Phillips, last Thursday evening.

Jacob Crigler, of Hebron, was visiting Ezra K. Tanner, on the 13th.

Mrs. E. G. Vaughn is quite sick at this writing; also W. H. Garnett.

Geo. Delph and wife, of Union, were visiting uncle Jordan Beemon, Sunday.

Edson Riddell and C. A. Finch, of Burlington, attended the sale, last Thursday.

The sale of F. A. Tanner's property last Thursday, was well attended and everything sold high.

Very few from this neighborhood attended the Sunday School convention at Richwood, last Thursday.

A number of our young folks attended Prof. E. K. Tauner's singing school at Richwood, Saturday evening.

Miss John Swiu entertained quite a number of friends with a social. About 75 were present and all report a very pleasant evening.

Rumor informs us that there will be a wedding in the near future. We are getting our tin pans ready and we expect some good cigars.

Having accompanied the Salt River excursion and finding so many difficulties [illegible] for [illegible] writing for the RECORDER.

We are sorry to report that our Sunday school is not progressing as nicely as it ought to, It seems that croquet playing is the greatest obstruction.

Petersburg.

The nice rains put new life in vegetation.

Everett Helms is at his post again, after a very sick spell of a few days.

Wm. Shotwell walks from Utzinger to attend I. O. O. F. meetings here

When Dr. J. M. Grant orders chicken he wants a whole one for himself.

Jack Berkshire and W. E. Vest were surveying the Parker farm, last week.

The golden grain will soon invite the reapers to a bountiful harvest in this section.

If eating clover swells your cows give them a small handful of shot, says L. A. Loder.

Henry North is at home again. The government boat, Golden Rod, has laid up, so it is reported.

Billy Passons is porter on the Workum. He is very accommodating, especially with the ladies.

The Workum had to lay up at the city for repairs and a dozen of the boys came home in a skiff.

Mrs. Eugenie Coyle and her two daughters, of Pittsburg, have been visiting relatives here, several weeks.

J. J. Ferris has been under the weather for several days. Mrs. Hattie Gaines, of Carrollton, has been spending a few days at his house.

If any man will give a plan to keep the boys (and some large girls too) from stealing and eating green apples he will be considered as a benefactor to his race.

Pearl Jarrell has left Mr. E. Gaines' and gone to live at Wm. Appleton's. Her brother Lewis has made one or two trips to Cincinnati for medical treatmeut.

There are some people in the world, some church members who think it would show good taste, at least, if pastors would insist on the members taking the lead at prayer meetings.

Rsy, David and Lyun Alcoru, grandchildreu of Mr. D. Alcorn, left here for Arkausas, a short time ago, to live with their father, Solomon Alcorn, after living with their grandfather several years.

The Methodist church elected Henry North as a delegate to the District Conference at Cyuthiana the last of this month. The Sunday school selected Earl Whitiug to represeut them in district convention at same place.

It should have been noted before now that Rev. Mr. Watson preached very acceptable sermons at the Christian church the first Sunday in this mouth. With the exception of one or two sermons by Rev. Mr. Early, this has been the only preaching at this church for a long time.

Mr. Andy Grasser, of Woolper, took a nice little walk, last Tuesday, hot as it was and carried two baskets of marketiug to the burg. He says his uucle Werner, a millionaire and hissou, were found dead in bed in New York City and a pistol tying on the floor. Emil Grasser, son of the above, has returned from Louisville, where he took his first course of lectures in medicine.

Constance.

Fishing is all the go here.

Bicycle riding is in full blast now.

Mr. Jack Vohlsing, who has been very sick, is out again.

Hubert Smith has a very bad bonefelon on one of his fingers.

Eck Anderson has repaired his wheel. He has proven himself an expert.

Protracted meeting commenced at the Christian church, Sunday, June 20.

Our druggist seems to be very much interested in the show business. Ask him.

The rolling mill at Delhi, O., is preparing to put a tin mill in the place of the rollers.

Messrs. Lewis aud Moreland visited Ft. Thomas Saturday. Lewis says he had a boss time.

The boys who went to the dance Saturday eveuing had a very pleasant time, so reported.

The gardeuers are beginning to haul their crops to market. So far they have gotten good prices.

Hubert Smith was kicked by a wild colt Sunday, but is not at present in a very dangerous condition.

Mr. Fred Hammersmith and son, of Ohio, visited his father-in-law, Mr. Probie, last Sunday week.

The trustees of this district are opposed to shows in their school house. How could you blame them?

Messrs. A. Proble and W. Zimmer are very regular attendants at the Lagoon—have been ever since January.

Wm. Tanner is receiving a call every day from some base ball team to pitch for it. He is a very scientific pitcher.

A new and enterprising dairy is to be opened at this place, judging from the fact that a certain party is cutting milk weeds, prospective of churning.

Mr. Eck Anderson had a very severe attack of blood poison, but he checked it in time to prevent much trouble. He is at work again.

E. C. Louis has moved his machine shop in the house occupied by E. B. Morse as a drug store. It is not city style but it is all right, you know.

The christian church is building a splendid set of steps, something very much needed. Bro. Peno seems to be very enthusiastic in the work for the Lord.

Constauce is on the boom. The drug store has procured a $2 stock of candy and Dr. Murat has planted in Millet the garden which he has been plowing all spring.

Mr. M. L. Moreland, of Bourbon co., who came to visit a friend at this place, a week, after meeting a certain young lady, has stayed over two months, and the prospects are he will become a citizen of this place.

Morse, the druggist, and Louis, the machinist, claim to be repairers—Morse of the body and Louis of sewing machines. Now, if they would get in with some undertaker and foundry, they would be all o. k.

Beaver.

The rains the last few days have made quite an improvement in the appearance of farm truck.

The social given by Miss Emma and Lizzie Cleek, last Wednesday night, was well attended and said to be the best of the season.

Dr. W. W. Smith and wife drove their family horse to the city last week, and it died in a short time after their arrival.

Harvey Smith, aged about 8 years, whom Ad Riddell had taken to raise, had his leg blown off by a shot gun, last Saturday, in the hands of Leslie Moore. Drs. Ambrose, Lassing and Bagby were called and amputated the limb just above the knee.

Hathaway.

We had regular old fashion summer last week, and a fine rain also.

Mrs. Eddie Ryle and daughter, Edna of Kenton, have been visiting friends and relatives here for the past week.

Miss Grace Neal attended the dance at Albert Kelly's on the 12 inst.

Mrs. T. J. Stephens spent several days last week, with her son, W. L. Stephens, of Waterloo, and visited relatives and friends in Rabbit Hash vicinity.

Nathen Clements and wife entertained a crowd of both married and single persons in their beautiful home on the night of the 12 inst. The amusement consisted of parlor games and music by our string band.

Mrs. Anna Ryle and daughter, Mrs. Ava Adams, Mrs. Leua Presser and daughter, Myrtle, Mrs. Emma Marshal, Mrs. Jane Clements and neice, Essie, spent the day with Mrs. Etta Clements, last Thursday.

Miss Carrie Woods is preparing to entertain a number of her friends on the 10 of uext month, in the beautiful grove at her home, in honor of her birthday. Croquet will be the chief attraction, while hammocks and swings will be placed in the cool shady grove. Dinner will be served by the ladies of the neighborhood, which I will venture to say will be excellent. A grand time is looked forward to by all the young folks in the Waterloo and Rabbit Hash neighborhoods, who are invited to attend

The crowning event of the season was the party given by B. D. Adams and wife, at their charming home, last Friday night. The beautiful grounds were illuminated with lanterns for the benefit of those who desired to play croquet, while the house was thrown open to those who chose to enjoy themselves there where parlor games and music were eujoyed by all. Among the the young folks present were Misses Grace Neal, Essie Booggus, Edna Ryle, Lulu and Minnie Ryle, Octavia Stephens, Carrie Woods, Ada Sebree, Percie Ryle, Messrs Frank Scott, Lewis Stephens, Claud Ryle, Cage Stepheus, Lafe Presser, John Presser, Siduey Clements, Raymond Smith, James Smith, Early Conley, Rollie Sebree, Robt. Woods and Rybrian Williamson, besides a host of married people.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refuud the money if it fails to cure. 25c

H. W. Harrison, dentist, of Rising Sun, Ind., will be in Burlington on the first and third Monday in each month, to do work for those who wish anything in his line. He will be here two days each visit. He is a son of the late R. F. Harrison, of Carrollton, and a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dentistry at Philadelphia. He is highly recommeuded in his profession.

Low Rates Queen & Crescent.

East Tennessee Educational Association, Sweetwater, Tenn., July 28-30. Superb vestibuled trains of the Queen and Crescent Route carry the only through Pullman to Asheville from the North. Double daily train service from Cincinnati and Louisville. Low rates for the Summer Schools.

NOTICE.

The Refreshment Stand and other privileges of the Harvest Home, which will be held Saturday August 21, 1897, will be rented to the highest bidder at the Harvest Home grounds on Saturday, August 7th. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

WM. GOODRIDGE, President.

Farm for Sale.

Lying on the Beaver pike, Boone county, Ky., ¼ mile from Richwood Station on the C. N. & T. P., railroad. Said farm contains 115 acres in a good state of cultivation, with a good frame dwelling of seven rooms and cellar, cistern and well in the yard, baru and other necessary out buildings, orchard and various kinds of fruit trees; known as the W. H. Smith farm. Those wishing to purchase call on or address,

LEWIS RICE, Richwood, Ky.

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. I. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "[illegible] solely in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."

Subscribe for the RECORDER

GO TO—
HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,

A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

—)—(—

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

E. F. HARMEYER,

535 Walnut St. - - CINCINNATI, OHIO.

—IS THE PLACE TO BUY—

PLOWS, HARROWS, CORN DRILLS, CULTIVATORS, HAY RAKES, &c..

We also have the 'EUREKA' AND OTHER MOWERS.

☞Don't fail to see us if you want anything in our line.☜

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDER-  EMBALTAKER MER,

—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

Farm for Sale!

—(o)—

CONTAINING SIXTY ACRES

House of 5 rooms, well and cistern, Good Two Story Barn with Covered Drive-Way and Basement, Large Cistern, never failing Stock water. No better Farming Land in Boone County.

Apple Orchard of Selected Trees.

Location, 1½ miles south of Florence, on Lexington pike. All buildings within 50 yards of pike, (formerly owned by John Northcutt.)

For terms and all information call on or address

G. N. BUFFINGTON,
Buffington, Ky.

By order of David T. Buffington.

THE YOUNG TROTTING HORSE,

RICHWOOD, JR.,

Will make the season of 1897, at my stable ¼ mile from Hebron, Ky., and will insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is kuown or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.

Richwood, jr., is a beautiful bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, fine style and action, large bone. He captured first premium at all the fairs last year. He was sired by Richwood 10403; he by Squire Talmage 668; first dam, Lady Clay by C. M. Clay, jr., 22. Richwood Jr.'s dam Ned Forrest; 2d dam, Bellfounder.

—The Fine Norman Stallion.—

FLEETWOOD,

Will make the season at the same time and place, at $8 00 to insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Fleetwood is a steel gray, 16½ hands high, a good worker and kind disposition. He is a good breeder and his colts are all gentle and kind. Fleetwood was sired by Albatross 968, dam, Ned Forrest. Care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.

JOHN W. CLORE, Hebron, Ky.

NOTICE.

All persons holding claims against F. A. Tanner are hereby notified that they must present them to me at once proven as by law required, those owing same will please come forward and settle at once.

W. A. TANNER, Adm'r.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

L. Dwyer's Adm'r., &c. Plffs.
vs
L. Dwyer's creditors, &c., Defts.

This cause is now referred to J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this county, who will ascertain and report the amount, kind and value of the estate of the decedent, whether real, personal or mixed and where the same is located. He will ascertain and report what debts, if any were owing by decedent at the time of his death and to that end all persons holding claims against said estate will present same to said Berkshire proven according to law on or before August 1st, 1897, and said Berkshire will give due notice of the time and place of his sittings through the Boone Co., Recorder. He will also settle the accounts of Mellison R. Dwyer, administratrix, and report among other things the cost of administration.

Witness my hand as clerk of said court, this April 30th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. [illegible] COMPANY, [illegible] Dearborn St., Chicago.

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE

That B. F. ZIMMER is selling the best Grade of Fertilizer in the county for less Money than any other dealer in the county. It will pay you to see him before buying.

Ever sack is sold with a guarantee to be as good as represented.

Constance, Kentucky.

H. S. STEVENSON.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. DENTIST. Prices Consistent with Good Service Only.

☞OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

Steam :-: Ferry

—AT—

TAYLORSPORT.

I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.

july-28 S. H. GOODIN.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky

Simons Baldon's Adm'r. Plaintiff,
vs
Partheua Baldon, &c.. Defts.

This cause is now refered to the Master Commissioner of the Boone Circuit Court with the following directions: 1st. He will advertise in the Boone Co. Recorder the time and place of his sittings and he will hear proof of and receive claims against the estate of the decedent Simeone Baldon. 2d. He will audit and settle the accounts of the administrator, John D. Baldon. 3d. He will ascertain what property the decedent owned at the time of his death, and he will report his actions herein at the August term, 1897, of the Boone Circuit Court.

Given under my hand as clerk of said court, this May 12th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

NOTICE.

Cincinnati, O., April 5, 1897.

To the Tobacco Growers of Boone County.

I am connected with the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., which includes four houses—the Globe, Morris, Bodmann, Cincinnati Miami. Prize your tobacco and ship it to one of the four houses and receive the highest market price for same. If you have no preference ship it to the Cincinnati Miami, and I will give it my personal attention. Hogsheads and presses furnished. Address me at 110, 112 West Front St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

oct-7 O. W. ADAMS.

RHEUMATISM LINIMENT.

L. MORELLI,

Box 193 - ERLANGER, KY.

AGENTS WANTED.

☞Price, 50 Cents Per Bottle.

Local News.

The potato crop needed the rain.

Land was badly washed in some places Sunday.

Fourth of July amusements are being advertised.

J. E. Smith has an extra good, fresh milch cow for sale.

Corn could almost be seen grow after the rain last week.

Some claim to have chickens that eat Colorado potato bugs.

There were 24 applicants for teachers certificates last Friday and Saturday.

For Sale—Three sows and 18 or 20 nice pigs. W. F. GRANT.

The demented female tramp passed through town again, one day last week.

A much needed rain fell here last Wednesday night.

James Goodridge brought his last load of strawberries to town, last Saturday.

In a few days all, except the brick part of the Sandford Hotel, will be raized.

The longest day of the year was last Monday. The days will begin to shorten now.

The rains that passed north of here, last Thursday night, reduced the temperature.

There are two applicants for the Warsaw postoffice, and the contest is waxing warm.

J. J. Lillard and Alfred Cason received a fine Shorthorn bull from Ohio, last week.

The crop of dogfennel on the streets thrived notwithstanding the unfavorable spring.

A barbed wire fence is being built along the pike in front of the Odd-Fellows' cemetery.

It is claimed that another earthquake was felt at several points in this State one day last week.

This week is one of Prof. Hick's storm periods. Keep your cyclone cellars ready for occupancy.

Fifteen of the 24 applicants for teachers' certificates at the last examination were citizens of the county.

Base ball has been superceded by the game of marbles which has withstood the vicissitudes of all ages.

There are several places on the streets of Burlington where a mowing scythe could be used to an advantage.

Judging from the number of applicants for certificates there will be a crop of school teachers this year.

Reports are to the effect that there have been several seining carnivals down on Gunpowder this spring.

The annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association will be held at Bowling Green, June 29th to July 1st.

Anyone wishing an appointment to the State College at Lexington can take the necessary examination at Union next Thursday.

The second annual session of the Christian Endeavor of the third district was held at Williamstown, last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

"Spinny" Douglas, the noted horse-thief, was captured at Dayton, Ohio, again last week. Four or five of his pals were taken in with him.

The rain, last week, put tobacco in condition to be handled, and several took advantage of the opportunity to deliver their crops to buyers.

Hillis Bros., of Rabbit Hash, have nicely dressed fish in town early every Friday morning. They had a lot of fine perch again last Friday morning.

Wheat harvest will be on hand again soon, and it behooves the farmers to save every bushel they can, as there is no question but what the 1897 crop will be a short one.

We desire, through the columns of your paper to extend our thanks to our neighbors and friends for the kindness shown us during the sickness and death of our mother.

J. A. CRAVEN AND WIFE.

Go to John Schmidt, the Shoemaker, to have your harness repaired. Boots and Shoes made to order. Repairing a specialty. All work guaranteed.

Several of the local attorneys were advertising extensively as tillers of the soil, last week. So great was the evidence of their farming operations that some persons may have been convinced that they have abandoned their profession.

The local minstrel troup, after about four months' regular rehearsing, has thrown up the sponge and the promised entertainment is off. The stage which had been erected for the performance was removed from the Circuit Court room last Friday.

PERSONAL MENTION.

James L. Clore is on the sick list.

Miss Dora Rich is visiting her sisters at this place.

George Piper, of Louisville, came in Sunday evening.

Miss Sheba Roberts is visiting her grandparents at Walton.

Several Burlingtonites attended the show at Bellevue Monday night.

Miss Julia Dinsmore, of Bellevue, was calling on Mrs. S. P. Brady, Saturday.

Revs. Hoover and Hixon left Tuesday morning to visit Dr. Adams at Big Bone.

Mrs. Emily Campbell, of Carrollton, was a guest at Mrs. Cowen's, last Wednesday.

J. Frank Cason, one of Ludlow's successful grocers, was in Burlington, last Thursday.

D. E. Castleman attended the Sunday School Convention at Richwood, last Thursday.

Miss Bettie Acra, of Ghent, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Bettie Acra, of this place.

Esq. T. E. Roberts and Wm. Farrell, of the Verona neighborhood, were in town last Monday.

J. M. Conner and Dr. Richardson, of Cincinnati, went out to O. P. Conner's last Friday evening.

Miss Lizzie Roberts, of Verona, was visiting Sheriff Roberts and family a day or two last week.

W. C. Brown and family were visiting in the Big Bone neighborhood, last Saturday and Sunday.

W. B. Kelly, of the Waterloo neighborhood is somewhat crippled, having run a wire nail into his foot.

The Clore boys, of the Waterloo neighborhood, were delivering tobacco to Hiram Long, last Thursday.

Miss Mary Thompson arrived home last Friday evening after an absence of several months visiting friends.

Rankin Revill came out from Covington on his wheel, Saturday evening and it rained before noon on Sunday.

J. C. Revill and wife visited friends in Georgetown last week, and attended the Baptist convention in session there.

Mrs. Geo. F. Piper and children, of Louisville, are visiting Mrs. Piper's mother, Mrs. Virginia Huey, of this place.

Mrs. Jeff Eddins is visiting relatives in Lexington. Mr. Eddins accompanied her there but returned home Monday evening.

Mrs. L. P. Rice, of Utzinger, returned home, last Saturday after a visit of several days to her parents in the Walton neighborhood.

Deputy Sheriffs J. H. Rogers and Elmer Beall have the tax books for this year about completed. It requires a great deal of figuring to prepare these books for use.

Bruce, son of James L. Clore, was riding one horse and driving others, Monday morning, when one of the loose horses kicked him on the leg, but fortunately, no bones were broken.

Mr. Richard Wuestner, of Cincinnati, and Miss Gertie Rouse, daughter of W. C. C. Rouse, of Limaburg, were married at the residence of Elder E. Stephens, of Erlanger, last Saturday afternoon.

Miss Annie Rice, the accomplished daughter of B. L. Rice, of Union, will sing "on the Rhine," and "My Messenger," at the annual series of Concerts at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Saturday evening, June 26th.

As Rev. Harris was coming from Petersburg, one afternoon, last week, he came upon a large blacksnake that had stretched itself across the pike, and being somewhat of a snake-charmer he captured the snake and placed it in his buggy, bringing it to Burlington, where it was finally killed.

Charles and Noah Clore went to Dayton, Ohio, last Friday, to ascertain if the horse stolen from Henry Clore, a few months since, was among those found in possession of "Spinny" Douglas' when captured at that place, last week, but they failed to acquire any information in regard to it.

E. W. Smith writes us from St. Louis Missouri, to send him the RECORDER. He has been in that city about two months, and is engaged on the Christian Evangelist. He says he is doing very well. He says also, that T. J. Utz, whose wife died some time last month, left there, last week, for Shelbyville, this State.

Quite a number of K. P.'s from Rabbit Hash and Erlanger attended the called meeting of Burlington lodge, last Saturday night. There was work in the third rank, and about 11 o'clock a lunch was served. The meeting was a very interesting assemblage of the brotherhood.

NOTICE—Those owing back taxes would confer a great favor by coming forward and paying same, is the road money is now due and I have a considerable amount to collect before I can settle with the overseers.

C. C. ROBERTS, S. B. C.

The Republicans at Louisville are pursuing the Boltercrats to get them to run for office under the log cabin. Some of them [illegible] and office only, thinking they see a chance to be elected by the fusion, have consented.

Two fine showers of rain last Sunday, each being accompanied by hail, some of the stones being as large as patridge eggs.

Considerable tobacco has been planted in this county since Sunday's rain, although the season did not extend throughout the county.

Lightning killed fourteen sheep for Edward Hensley, of the Waterloo neighborhood, last Sunday. They were under a small Walnut tree which was struck. His loss is $60.

The formal call for the Republican State Convention, to be held August 10th, has been issued by Chairman Barnett. There will be 1,092 delegate votes in the convention.

"The Teacher as a Factor in Politics," is the subject assigned to Prof. A. C. Collins at the State Teachers' Association. The subject could not have been given to anyone better qualified to handle it.

In another column will be found the notice of the death of Hon. Elijah Hogan, of Gallatin county, which occurred last Wednesday. He was well and favorably known by many of the older citizens of this county.

High Bridge low rate excursion, Sunday, June 27th. The scenery at this beautiful spot is finer now than at any other season of the year. The weather cannot be excelled for such a trip. Ask ticket agents for information.

Some of the exchanges we now receive have been coming to our table for twenty-two years, and during all that time their circulation, according to their claim, has been increasing rapidly. They certainly have about 50,000 subscribers each, now.

We advise old soldiers to be on the lookout for a silver-tongued swindler who claims to be an agent for a Toledo paper. He offers as a premium a set of silver spoons or a pair of spectacles. He takes your money, but the paper and premium never comes.

The farmers in the neighborhood of Walton will cultivate 500 or 600 acres of tomatoes this season, which will curtail the tobacco crop in that section considerably. Tomatoes are a product on which the farmers realize much sooner than on tobacco.

The Bimetallic League of this Congressional District appointed delegates to attend the Bimetallic Convention in Cincinnati on the 22d and 23rd inst. Those from this county were Dr. Dulaney, D. E. Castleman, Dr. Crouch, N. S. Walton, Reuben Conner, M. C. Carroll, Thos. Willis, W. H. Baker, B. L. Rice and Dr. Furnish.

Some of the country tobacco merchants have been benefitted very materially by the recent advance in the price of tobacco. It has been a long time since the market came their way so as to benefit them to any extent, and the producers ought now to rejoice with them in their good luck which has been so long delayed.

Saturday, Joe Monroe, a farmer, of near Rising Sun, happened to be driving along the Hartford turnpike when a fearful storm arose. Seeing a large tree near by he drove beneath it to await a calm. While standing there, there was a flash of lightning, a gate post within two feet was struck, and his horse fell dead. A piece of wire lay over the gate post and touched the ground, so the post was unhurt. Mr. Monroe was slightly stunned.—Aurora Bulletin.

Washington Craft, the primitive Baptist minister, on trial in the Floyd Circuit Court for the murder of Lindell Higgins, 14 years ago, was placed on the witness stand, one day, last week. He denied killing Higgins, claiming he was 40 miles away when the deed was committed. A big sensation was sprung when on cross-examination Craft broke down and admitted killing his uncle, Wiley Craft, and William Cook fifteen years ago. Craft has long been suspected of killing these men, but it was not positively known until he confessed.

Here's a marriage notice that appeared in an exchange: "Married, at Flintstone, by Rev. Windstone, Mr. Nehemiah Whitestone and Miss Wilhelmina Sandstone, both of Limestone. This is getting mighty 'rocky' and there's bound to be a 'blasting' of these 'stony' hearts before many 'pebbles' appear on the connubial breach. The grindstone of domestic infelicity will sharpen the ax of jealousy and discord, and sooner or later one or the other of this pair will rest beneath a tombstone. Then look out for brimstone.

Joseph Pate, who keeps toll-gate on the Rising Sun road, had a valuable mare stolen on the 7th of this month. Word was received on Monday of this week that the thief had been caught near Dayton, Ohio, with the horse in his possession. Mr. Pate recognized the man as Marion Douglas, a man whom the Horse-thief and Detective Association have been trying to lay their hands on for several years. Requisition papers were immediately applied for as it is the intention of the Association to leave no stone unturned to secure the conviction of Douglas who is wanted at several places in this portion of the state on similar thefts.—Aurora (Ind.) Bulletin.

A few nights since Ben Vaughn, who lives not far from town, had an experience that would take all the sleep out of an ordinary fellow's eyes for one night at least. His sleeping apartment is next to the roof in a story and a half log residence that has a metal roof. Sometime in the night he heard a noise in the rafters and sheeting immediately over his bed, and he reached up to ascertain the cause of the noise, when he was startled by touching what he supposed to be a snake. It is not necessary to say that Ben hastened down stairs, for he ran over himself two or three times before reaching the lower floor, making so much noise that the other members of the family were badly frightened, thinking a cyclone had struck the house. Ben secured a light, armed himself with a garden hoe, pitch fork and a shot gun, and very cautiously climbed the stairs again to do battle with the disturber of his repose. The sure enough snake, which was a very large racer, had awaited Ben's return, but seeing how thoroughly prepared he was for the fray it disappeared before he could decide upon any plan of attack. Ben stacked arms and retired again, but his dreams were not of a pleasant character that night, and he was up and out earlier than usual the next morning.

Much has been written about the troubles and tribulations of new Congressmen and Senators with office-seekers or pie-hunters, but the climax would seem to have been reached when reference is made to the unusual experience of Senator Deboe, newly elected from this State. He holds the proud distinction of having office-seekers sleep with him (after his day's work with congressional and other matters) to comfort him in his gentle slumbers, and incidentally, of course, to talk and remind him of the position they are after. Thus he passes the night, dreaming and thinking of the woes and disappointments of his fellow men and room mates. Imagine the pleasantness and raptures of such a chance for a night's repose. Occasion was offered the other day for a change from the usual course, when he left word at the hotel that he was called out of the city to be gone over night, and hastily making his departure, accompanied several friends to Mt. Vernon in the afternoon, out upon learning that the night would not be passed at that place, was compelled to return to the city. The last seen or heard of the Senator that day, he was hurrying from the wharf to find some personal friend (a non-office seeker) where undiscovered, he might enjoy one uninterrupted night of pure rest.

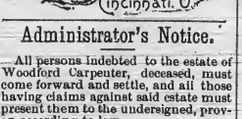
The chairman of the County Democratic Executive Committee has declared a rebate of $2 each in favor of the candidates for county offices in the recent primary election.

A severe storm visited the western part of the State, last Sunday, and was very destructive of crops and other property. In other portions of the State disastrous storms prevailed that day.

Queen & Crescent low rates.—Music Teachers' Association (National); New York City, June 24-28; Knights of St. John, Erie, Pa., June 24-27; Elocutionists' Association (National); New York City, June 28-July 3, 1897. Ask agents for particulars. W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agt. Cincinnati.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.



Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,

MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.

For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

W. N. Hind & Co.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of Woodford Carpenter, deceased, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

LEWIS RICE, Adm'r.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE

Vestibuled Limited Trains to Southern Towns and Cities. A fine trip for summer outing through the Blue Grass region, the great Cumberland Plateau and to far famed Lookout Mountain. The historic battlefields of CHICKAMAUGA, Mission Ridge and LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN. Cool and invigorating air, unequaled scenery, good hotels.

Low reduced rates via the Queen & Crescent Route now on sale from cities and villages of the North.

Write to W. C. Rinearson, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, for Illustrated and descriptive matter.

WE Want to be Kept Busy.

It costs us as much to do nothing as to be busy, so that our time may be fully employed we quote the following

——Very Low Prices:——

Stand. Granulated Sugar, 21 lbs.	$1 00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound, -	15c
Oil Sardines per can, - -	3c
Mustard Sardines per can, -	5c
Ladies Fine Shoes, - -	$1 00
Gent's Fine Shoes, per pair,	$1 00
Headlight Oil, per gallon,	9c
Binding Twine per 100 lbs. -	$5.75

Give us a Call W. M. RACHAL & CO. Union, Ky.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.

BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS,

Notions, Groceries, Etc.

Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!

at Lowest : Cash : Prices.

Lime and Cement always on hand.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.

The J. L. BILL

Coffee and Tea Co.

THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.

12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,

COVINGTON, KY.

WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

SENSATIONAL BARGAINS!

Clothing Sacrificed! See!

A full Suit of Men's Clothing for only, ...$3.50, worth double, and this is only a sample.

We invite inspection all along the line.....

Shoes, Tinware, Groceries, Dress Goods, Etc.

MILLINERY

Ladies, you will be surprised to see the nice things we have to offer you, and prices are waydown.

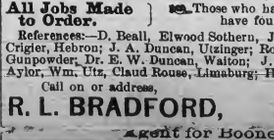
In fact we have a full line of General Merchandise, and prices are in keeping with the times.

We Guarantee Quality Also.

COME AND SEE,

T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Keystone Buggy Company,



CINCINNATI, - - OHIO.,

FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS,

—MANUFACTURERS—

Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles.

No. 867 Like Cut.

Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent

QUALITY AT VERY LOW PRICE.

Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.

All Jobs Made to Order. } Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.

References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sothern, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigier, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Utzinger; Rolla Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Utz, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.

Call on or address,

R. L. BRADFORD, : Hebron, Ky,

Agent for Boone County.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAP

CHRISTIAN QUEEN.

Dr. Talmage Gives Praise to the Sovereign of England.

"What Wilt Thou Have of Honor or Reward?"—An Example of Good Principles and Good Habits, and Upon Whose Public and Private Life No Suspicion of Evil Ever Rested.

Dr. Talmage took for his text: Esther v., 3: "What wilt thou, Queen Esther?"

This question, which was asked of a queen thousands of years ago, all civilized nations are this day asking of Queen Victoria, "What wilt thou have of honor, of reward, of reverence, or service, or national and international acclamation? What wilt thou, the queen of the 19th century?" The seven miles of procession through the streets of London Tuesday will be a small part of the congratulatory procession whose multitudinous tramp will encircle the earth. The celebrative anthems that will sound up from Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's cathedral in London will be less than the vibration of one harp-string as compared with the doxologies which this hour roll up from all nations in praise to God for the beautiful life and the glorious reign of this oldest queen amid many centuries. From 5 o'clock of the morning of 1837, when the archbishop of Canterbury addressed the embarrassed and weeping and almost affrighted girl of 18 years with the startling words, "your majesty," until this sixtieth anniversary of her enthronement, the prayer of all good people on all sides of the seas, whether that prayer be offered by 300,000,000 of her subjects or the larger number of millions who are not her subjects, whether that prayer he solemnized in church or rolled from great orchestras, or poured forth by military bands from forts and battlements and in front of triumphant armies and all around the world, has been and is now, "God Save the Queen!"

Amid the innumerable columns that have been printed in eulogy of this queen at the approaching anniversary —columns which, put together, would be literally miles long—it seems to me that the chief cause of congratulation to her and of praise to God has not yet been properly emphasized, and in many cases the chief keynote has not been struck at all. We have been told over and over again what has occurred in the Victorian era. The mightiest thing she has done has been honored by having her name attached to individuals and events for whom and for which she has no responsibility. We have put before us the names of potent and grandly useful men and women who have lived during her reign, but I do not suppose that she at all helped Thomas Carlyle in twisting his involved and mighty satires, or helped Disraeli in issuance of his epigrammatic wit, or helped Cardinal Newman in his crossing over from religion to religion, or helped to inspire the enchanted sentiments of George Eliot and Harriet Martineau and Mrs. Browning, or helped to invent any of George Cruikshank's healthful cartoons, or helped George Grey in founding a British South African empire, or kindled the patriotic fervor with which John Bright stirred the masses, or had anything to do with the invention of the telephone or phonograph, or the building up of the science of bacteriology, or the directing of the Roentgeu rays which have revolutionized surgery, or helped in the inventions for facilitating printing and railroading and ocean voyaging. One is not to be credited or discredited for the virtue or the vice, the brilliance or the stupidity of his or her contemporaries. While Queen Victoria has been the friend of all art, all literature, all science, all invention, all reform, her reign will be most remembered for all time and all eternity as the reign of Christianity. Beginning with that scene at 5 o'clock in the morning, at Kensington palace, where she asked the archbishop of Canterbury to pray for her, and they knelt down, imploring Divine guidance, until this hour, not only in the sublime Liturgy of her established church, but on all occasions, she has directly or indirectly declared: "I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of Heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, His only begotten Son." I declare it, fearless of contradiction, that the mightiest champion of Christianity to-day is the throne of England.

The queen's book, so much criticised at the time of its appearance, some saying it was not skillfully done, and some saying that the private affairs of a household ought not to have been exposed, was nevertheless a book of vast usefulness from the fact that it showed that God was acknowledged in all her life, and that "Rock of Ages" was not an unusual song in Windsor Castle. Was her son, the prince of Wales, down with an illness that baffled the greatest doctors of England? Then she proclaimed a day of prayer to Almighty God, and in answer to the prayers of the whole civilized world the prince got well. Was Sebastopol to be taken and the thousands of bereaved homes of soldiers to be comforted, she called her nation to its knees and the prayer was answered. See her walking through the hospital like an angel of mercy! Was there ever an explosion of fire damp in the mines of Sheffield or Wales and her telegram was not the first to arrive with help and Christian sympathy? Is President Garfield dying at Long Branch, and is not the cable under the sea, reaching to Balmoral castle, kept busy in announcing the symptoms of the sufferer?

I believe that no throne since the throne of David and the throne of Hezekiah and the throne of Esther has been in such constant touch with the Throne of Heaven as the throne of [illegible] her habits, she reads the Bible more than she does Shakespeare. She admires the Hymns of Horatio Bonar more than she does Byron's "Corsair." She has not knowingly admitted into her presence a corrupt man or dissolute woman. To very distinguished novelists and very celebrated prima donnas she has declined reception because they were immoral. All the coming centuries of time can not revoke the advantages of having had 60 years of Christian womanhood enthroned in the palaces of England. Compare her court surroundings with what were the court surroundings of the time of Henry VIII., or what were the court sourroundings in the time of Napoleon, in the times of men and women whose names may not be mentioned in decent society. Alas! for the revelries, and the worse than Belshazzar feasts, and the more than Herodian dances, and the scenes from which the veil must be lifted. You need, however, in order to appreciate the purity and virtuous splendor of Victoria's reign to contrast it somewhat with the gehennas and the pandemoniums or many of the throne rooms of the past, and some of the throne rooms of the present. I call the roll of the queens of the earth, not that I would have them come up or back, but that I may make them the background of a picture in which I can better present the present septenarian, so soon to be an octogenarian, now on the throne of England, her example so thoroughly on the right side that all the scandal-mongers in all the nations in six decades have not been able to manufacture an evil suspicion in regard to her that could be made to stick; Maria of Portugal, Isabella and Eleanor and Joanna of Spain, Catherine of Russia, Mary of Scotland, Maria Teresa of Germany, Marie Antoinette of France, and all the queens of England, and Mrs. Strickland has put them before us in her charming 12 volumes; and while some queen may surpass our modern queen in learning, and another in attractiveness of feature, and another in gracefulness of form, and another in romance of history, Victoria surpasses them all in nobility and grandeur and thoroughness of Christian character. Hail her! the Christian daughter, the Christian wife, the Christian mother, the Christian queen! and let the church of God and all benign and gracious institutions the world over cry out, as they come with music and bannered hosts, and million-voiced huzza, and the benedictions of earth and Heaven, "What wilt thou, Queen Esther?"

Another thing I call to your attention in this illustrious woman's career is that she is a specimen of high life uncorrupted. Would she have lived to celebrate the 60th anniversary of her coronation and the 78th anniversary of her birthday had she not been an example of good principles and good habits? While there have been bad men and women in exalted station and humble station who have carried their vices clear on into the seventies and eighties, and even the nineties of their lifetime, such persons are very rare. The majority of the vicious die in their thirties, and fewer reach the forties, and they are exceedingly scarce in the fifties.

Longevity has not been the characteristic of most of those who have reached high places in that or this country. In many cases their wealth leads them into indulgences, or their honors make them reckless, or their opportunities of doing wrong are multiplied into the overwhelming, and it is as true now as when the Bible first presented it—"The wicked live not out half their days." Longevity is not positive proof of goodness, but it is prima facie evidence in that direction. A loose life has killed hundreds of eminent Americans. A loose life is now killing hundreds of eminent Americans and Europeans. The doctors are very kind and the certificate given after the distinguished man of dissipation is dead, says: "Died of congestion of the brain," although it was delirium tremens, or, "Died of cirrhosis of the liver," although it was a round of libertinism, or "Died of heart failure," although it was the vengeance of outraged law that slew him. Thank you, doctor! for you are right in saving the feelings of the bereft household by not being more specific. Look! all ye who are in high places of the earth, and see one who has been plied by all the temptations which wealth and honor and the secret places of palaces could produce, and yet next Tuesday she will ride along in the presence of 7,000,000 people if they can get within sight of her chariot, in a vigorous old age, no more hurt by the splendors that have surrounded her for the 78 years than is the plain country woman come down from her mountain home in an ox-cart to attend the Saturday marketing. The temptations of social life among the successful classes have been so great that every winter is a holocaust of human nerves, and the beaches of this tossing sea of life are constantly strewn with physical and mental and moral shipwreck. Beware! all ye successful ones.

Take a good look at the venerable queen along the Strand, and through Trafalgar square, and by the Nelson monument. What is the use of your dying at 40, when you may just as well live to be 80? If you are doing nothing for God or the race the sooner you quit the better; but if you are worth anything for the world's betterment, in the strength of God, and through good habits, lay out a plan for a life that will reach through most of a century.

How many people are practically suicides from the fact that their gormandizing or their recklessness or their defiance of dietics and plain sanitary law cuts short their days! Indeed, so great is the temptation of those who have bountiful tables and full wine closets that Solomon suggests that instead of putting the knife into the meat on their plate they direct the edge of it across their throat. Proverbs xxiii., 1: "When thou sittest to eat with a ruler, consider diligently what is before thee, and put a knife to thy throat if thou be a man given to appetite." Achieve more people die of improper eating than die of strong drink. The former causes no delirium or violence and works more gradually, but none the less fatally. Queen Victoria's habits, self-denying and almost ascetic, under a good Providence, account for her magnificent longevity. It may be a homely lesson for a sexagesimal anniversary in British palaces, but it is worth all the millions of dollars the celebration will cost, and the laborious convocation of the representatives from all the zones of the planet, if the nations will learn the sanitary lesson of good hours, plain food, out door exercise, reasonable abstinence and common-sense habits. That which Paul said to the jailer is just as appropriate for you and for me, "Do thyself no harm." And here let me say no people outside of Great Britain ought to be more interested in this queen's jubilee than our nation. The cradles of most of our ancestors were rocked in Great Britain. They played in childhood on the banks of the Thames, or the Clyde, or the Shannon. Take from my veins the Welsh blood and the Scotch blood, and the streams of my life would be a shallow. Great Britain is our grandmother. We have read in the family records that without our grandmother's consent her daughter, our mother, left home and married the genius of American independence, and for a while there was bitter estrangement; but the family quarrel has ended and all has been forgiven, and we shake hands every day across the seas. At this queenly anniversary our authorized representatives will offer greeting in Buckingham palace, and our warships will thunder congratulation in English waters. They are over there, bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh. It is our John Bunynn, our Wilberforce, our Coleride, our De Quincy, our John Milton, our John Wesley, our John Knox, our Thomas Chalmers, our Bishop Charnock, our Latimer, our Ridley, our Walter Scott, our Daniel O'Connell, our Walter Emmet, our Havelock, our Henry Lawrence, our Wm. E. Gladstone, our Queen Victoria! Long live the daughter of the duchess of Kent!

Again, this international occasion impresses me with the fact that woman is competent for political government when God calls her to it. Great fears have been experienced in this country that woman would get the right of suffrage, and as a consequence, after awhile, woman might get into congressional chair, and perhaps, after a awhile, reach the chief magistracy. Awfull Well, better quiet your perturbations, as you look across the sea, in this anniversary time, and behold a woman who for 60 years has ruled over the mightiest empire of all time and ruled well. In approval of her government the hands of all nations are clapping, the flags of all nations are waving, the batteries of all nations booming. Look here! Men have not made such a wonderful success of government that they need be afraid that woman should ever take a turn at power. The fact is that men have made a bad mess of it. The most damnably corrupt things on earth is American politics, after men have had it all their own way in this country for 121 years. Other things being equal, for there are fools among women as well as among men—I say, other things being equal, woman has generally a keener sense of what is right and what is wrong than has man; has naturally more faith in God, and knows better how to make self-sacrifices, and would more boldly act against intemperance and the social evil, and worse things might come to this country than a supreme court room and a senate chamber and a house of representatives in which womanly voices were sometimes heard. We must had better drop some of the strut out of our pompous gait and with a little less of supercilliousness thrust the thumbs into the sleeves of our vests, and be less apprehensive of the other sex, who seem to be the Lord's favorites from the fact that He has made more of them. If woman had possessed an influential and controlling vote on Capitol Hill at Washington and in the English parliament, do you think that the two ruffian and murderous nations of the earth could have gone on until this time with the butcheries in Armenia and Cuba? No! The Christian nations would have gone forth with bread and medicine, and bandages and military relief, until Abdul Hamid would have had no throne to sit on, and Weyler, the commanding assassin in Cuba, would have been thrust into a prison as dark as that in which the murdered Dr. Ruiz. I am no advocate for female suffrage, and I do not know whether it would be best to have it; but I point you to the queen of Great Britain and the nation over which she rules as proof that woman may be politically dominant and prosperity reign. God save the queen! Whether now, on the throne in Buckingham palace, or in some time to come, in the American white house.

And now I pray God that Tuesday the uncertain skies of England, so economic of sunshine, may pour golden light upon all the scene, and that since the day when, in Westminster Abbey, the girlish queen took in one hand the scepter and in the other the orb of empire, there may have been no day so happy as that one in which she shall this week receive the plaudits of Christendom. May she be strengthened in her aged body to ride the whirlwind of international excitement and her failing vision be illumined with bright memories of the past and brighter visions of the future, and when she quits the throne of earth may she have a throne in Heaven, and as the doors of the eternal palace are swung open may the question of the text sound in her enraptured ears, "What wilt thou, Queen Esther?"

ENGLAND will collect the most powerful fleet the world has ever seen for the naval review at Spithead on June 26. There will be gathered together 160 ships of war, including the channel squadron, the reserve squadron and many ships that will be sent on foreign service as soon as the maneuvers are over.

FRUIT men of St. Paul call this the banner year for berries. They have never had so many strawberries as now.

PICTURESQUE ST. IVES.

It Has the Quaint Charm of a Foreign Town.

St. Ives, a mter of the Cornish fishing industry, and known in art circles as the home of a school of painters who founded a colony there ten years ago, has much of the quaint charm of a foreign town. It is built on the side of a hill descending steeply to the sea, and on a promontory commonly called the "island." With its grassy slopes, crowned by a crumbling and deserted fort, its ancient houses clustering below the great stone pier, the gray stone pier or mole, and its lighthouse and harbor crowded with shipping, it bears a certain likeness to Antibes on the French Mediterranean, and sometimes the atmospherelc coloring is as brilliant. For the gulf stream breaking on those Cornish shores brings with it not only a winter temperature which averages that of the Riviera, but glowing hues of earth and sea and sky, unknown in eastern England, when the days are at their shortest.

There is Spanish blood in this part of Cornwall, relic of old armada days. One can trace it not only in an occasional surname, such as Jose and Jago, but in the dark eyes and hair, the chiseled features, the passionate glances and peculiar grace of certain of these fisher folk.

The harbor is the heart of the town, its center of life and activity. In the morning crowds stand round the men who sell the fish by auction on the sands, while the women pack the fish in crates and barrels for the London train. But the afternoon presents to the onlooker the more poetic and inspiring side of the fishermnn's calling. The fishing boats, some 200 strong, which lie in orderly crescent-shaped ranks at their moorings, are getting ready to put to sea; all is life, activity and color. Some of the men, in their high sea boots and helmet-shaped caps, are magnificent-looking, veritable sea kings. One's heart beats quicker watching the strength, agility and swiftness with which they leap into their boats, hoist their sails and steer out into the bay. Sometimes half a dozen of these crafts are closely wedged together, masts and sails almost interlocked. It is one "crowded hour of glorious life" to the onlooker.

There is no jostling, no confusion, no vile language, only a cheery "Look out, my lad!" if the gear should chance to get entangled, and the order and discipline seem like that of a navy. Now two or three pairs of vigorous arms pull hard at the ropes; up goes the sails, which have the hue and almost the texture of brown velvet; the boats gradually separate themselves from the throng; and so with spreading wings the whole fleet sweeps forth into the wide, blue bay, till, as it fades into the distance, it looks like a flight of brown fritillary hutterflies.

At night the boats lie at anchor, having cast their nets abroad. The myriad lights, seen from the wooded Tregenna heights, seem like fireflies among the trees; or, when they spread themselves along the distant coast, one can fancy the opposite shore of the bay is lined by a vast, silent, lighted city. For five nights of every week, "in perils of the sea, in weariness and painfulness, in watchings," the fishermen thus ply their craft. The dangers and hardships are many; the pay is poor and precarious. Sometimes they get only sixpence for a hundred herrings; and yet the London poor have to pay a penny or two-pence for each of these same fish. As usual, the middleman makes the profit.

The kindly, father-like old harbor master, who seems to watch over the welfare of all the inhabitants of St. Ives, including the sengulls, tells me that a drunken man is rarely to be seen; and the comparative scarcity of public houses and the abundance of Methodist chapels hear evidence to the habits of the people. The strict unwritten law of the place is, no fishing on Saturday or Sunday nights. There is plenty to be done in the harbor Saturdays; boats to be cleaned, sails mended, nets spread to dry; but on Sundays rest in their own homes, a quiet walk, and plenty of chapel-going are the order of the day. Woe betide the man who dares do a stroke of work on the "Sabbath." There is a tradition that an artist who was seen sketching on a Sunday was stoned out of St. Ives.—St. James Gazette.

Cigarettes Known to the Aztecs.

"Civilization should hold the aboriginal Aztec accountable for the baleful influences of the cigarette," declared Ramon G. Garcia, of the City of Mexico, who is stopping at the St. Nicholas. "It is wrong to attribute the origin of the cigarette to the Spaniards. I have given the matter a good deal of investigation, and I have established beyond doubt that the Spaniards first got a whiff of the cigarette when they invaded Mexico under Cortez. The Aztecs then used tobacco in no other form, and the Spaniards learned from them how to roll the little package into smokable shape. They introduced the cigarette into Europe, and by that route it found its way into America, though it was nearly 200 years reaching here. The Aztecs were also using cocoa and its product, chocolate, when Cortez conquered them, and it was not long till the whole of Europe was eating the various preparations of this bean. When the Spaniards first tasted it they named it thoebromus, from the Greek words meaning 'food of the gods.'"—St. Louis Republic.

The Mississippi Steamboat.

The river steamboat is a distinctly American feature. The ordinary packet plying the Father of Waters measures about 250 feet in length, about 40 feet high and 50 feet wide. There are 136 regular landings between Memphis and New Orleans, and, as one may be on a high bank and the next in the mud, it is necessary to have landing planks adapted to such varying circumstances. —Chicago Tribune.

TROUBLES OF THE G. O. P.

Much Anxiety as to the Tariff Outcome.

The republican party has a congress on its hands these days, and the fact causes a great deal of anxiety. It is widely acknowledged that the present rippling up and tearing up of the tariff has thrown the business interests of the country into the state that is described as "that tired feeling," and congress shows the utmost indifference to those interests by prolonging the agony. The house promptly passed a tariff bill nearly three months ago, but the senate committee on finance spent about six weeks overhauling it and straightening out the kinks in its author's syntax and orthography. After three weeks more, the bill was brought up for discussion in the senate, and it is not expected to pass that body under four weeks, at the earliest, and it may take twice or thrice that length of time to put it through. Then there will be a conference of committees of the houses on the bill, and there is no telling how long it will take to reach an agreement. "In the meantime," said a thinks the republican party, "the country's tongue is hanging out for want of the refreshing elixir of a new tariff, and my reputation as a maker of blessings is in a fair way to be ruined."

This is rather tough on a party which, only four years ago, was getting a lot of fun out of democratic attempts to do a decent tariff job in a short time. It is challenging some sympathy, too, for it is observed that the American Protective Tariff league has communicated with every republican newspaper in the country, asking for a general urging of the senators to get a gait on them. Of course, this will not do the least good, because the senators can always be depended on to move in the direction and at the rate of speed that are suggested by their interests, enough of them, at any rate, to render any interference on the part of the public useless. Particularly is this the case when there is on the schedule of robbery like that which is now receiving consideration in the senate. The plunder must be divided as evenly as possible, or those who do not come in for a fair share of the swag may be depended on to make trouble. The republican protectionists are now facing the danger that is proverbially contingent upon an adequate supply of rope.—Binghamton (N. Y.) Leader.

THE ISSUE IS FREE SILVER.

A Severe Lesson in Gold Monometallism for the People.

What do the republicans mean when they talk about "sound money?" They mean gold, and nothing but gold. How do they propose to get what they want? By retiring the greenbacks, which bear no interest, and substituting for them a currency founded on interest-bearing bonds.

What object has the republican party in view in retiring the greenbacks? They desire to reward the plutocrats and bondholders for their services in the last presidential campaign. By issuing bonds bearing interest they give the speculators a chance to make money at the expense of the people.

The plain people of the United States, who pay their taxes and work for a living, when they get a chance to do so, are not going to be satisfied with the "sound money" policy of the administration. They do not believe in the issuing of interest-bearing bonds in time of peace; they do not believe in striking out of use one-half of the hard money in this country; they do not believe in destroying the value of silver and in making all debts payable in gold.

On the other hand, the honest, industrious and suffering people of this country have with them an object lesson which teaches more eloquently than words the truth that a monometallic gold currency is a curse to the nation. They have seen their property so reduced in value that those who were once well-to-do are now poor, and those who were once comfortable are now in actual distress. They insist that this government shall cease to legislate in the interests of money sharks and bondholders and shall turn its attention to the betterment of the condition of those who are the bone and sinew of the nation.

If the present administration decline to do what the people demand, its lease of life will be no longer than the time required to make a legal change. There is no hope that the people will receive any consideration from republicans; therefore democrats must organize for success in 1898 and a sweeping national victory on the silver issue in 1890.—Chicago Dispatch.

Take Your Choice.

The gold republicans say that what we need to secure prosperity is higher tariff, a gathering in of the greenbacks and ultimately their cancellation —in brief, more taxes and less money. The international agreement republican says that we must have "more tariff," and also "international bimetallism"—if we can get it. The gold democrat (?) that all we need is less money; in other words, that the greenbacks and treasury notes should be destroyed, and the finances of the country turned over to the banks. The genuine American bimetallist—the genuine democrat—says that what we need above all other things is more money, through the operation of the free coinage of both silver and gold. Which will you take as a primary proposition, leaving other reforms to be considered in the light of future events and conditions?—Illinois State Register.

——Mr. Wanamaker claims that he is not laying aside his republicanism, but that the republican party is laying aside its regard for public sentiment. This is about the situation, and the main point to be made against Mr. Wanamaker is that he has traveled over a procrastinating route in arriving at this decision concerning one of the republican party's old tricks.—N. Y. Journal.

FRAUDULENT THROUGHOUT.

Republican Senators Playing into the Hands of Trusts.

The senate republican caucus has decided to "stand together" for the whole tariff bill.

This means that each republican senator will give his vote for any iniquity or injustice that the bill may contain in return for votes for this own or yet iniquity and injustice.

Each is to vote blindly for the whole bill. Judgment is to have nothing whatever to do with the matter. Conviction is to play no part. Conscience is to keep quiet in order that each private iquiqity may be effectively accomplished.

Right or wrong, wise or unwise, helpful or destructive of prosperity, this bill is to be passed in the interest of the trusts that have dictated its terms.

Chief among these is the sugar trust, and it is to be benefited in a degree even greater than that promised. For a new sugar schedule has been arranged to give still more money to the Havemeyers. On all refined sugars the trust is to be protected by a duty of 1.95 cents per pound instead of the 1.875 prescribed in the original bill. At the same time the line of demarcation between refined and unrefined sugars is greatly reduced, so as to increase this protection.

The sugar trust has already imported enough raw sugar to last it for six months or more. It will have the Louisiana product to keep it running for two months longer. In other words, for eight months or more to come it will pay no additional penny of revenue to the government, while it will levy upon the people for its own benefit a tax of nearly two cents a pound upon all the sugar consumed in the country.

Is not this an outrage? Is it not an infamy? Is it not an abuse of legislative power? Is this the way to bring about prosperity? Are the people to be made happy by being compelled to pay needless millions to this greedy conspiracy of capitalists?

Is the whole tariff bill a fraudulent conspiracy of "interests" to levy what tax they please upon the people?—N. Y. World.

SUGAR STICKS THEM.

Protectionists Show a Preference for Sweetening.

While the republican senators stood out to the end against the demand for a lower tariff on lumber, agreeing to the extreme rates despite the protests of manufacturers and consumers, they have been compelled to yield a little bit in the case of the sugar schedule, in order to insure party harmony.

At the republican caucus a differential rate on refined sugar of one cent and 95-100ths of a cent per pound was agreed upon, the new rate being a compromise between the Dingley and Aldrich schedules. The change from the ad valorem to a specific duty is considered a concession to popular demand as it renders the meaning of the schedule more intelligible and the trust's evasion of the duty more difficult.

While the law-makers have been obliged to defer to public sentiment in this instance—and the fact is an encouraging one—they might have gone still further in undoing the work of the Aldrich committee without trespassing too far upon the special rights which the sugar trust appears to enjoy at the senate end of the capitol. The schedule fixed by the senate subcommittee was so favorable to the trust that it can stand the trimming done by the caucus in response to popular clamor for reform and still be a better schedule for the sugar kings than the house measure was.

That the enormous earnings of the trust have not been too seriously imperiled by the action of the caucus was evident from the jump which sugar trust stock took in Wall street when the compromise was reported. Toned down as it has been—it may have been marked up, like a tricky tradesman's selling prices, for that purpose—the sugar schedule will still vio with the wool and lumber features of the new tariff for the distinction of being the most objectionable and oppressive feature of the bill.—Detroit Free Press.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

——President McKinley seeks to soothe the embarrassed people with injunctions of patience. But he ought to know that patience is not an easy virtue for men who are out of work and starving to acquire.—Illinois State Register.

——There is no such thing as a moderate protectionist except when the protection relates to the goods or property of some other man. He is always in favor, if he is a protectionist, of the very highest rates on what he wants protected.—Peoria (Ill.) Herald.

——It is of small consequence whether or not any democratic senators vote for the robber tariff. As it is destined to wreck the republican party, there is a possibility that some democrats may think it advisable to have the highest tariff that can be obtained.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

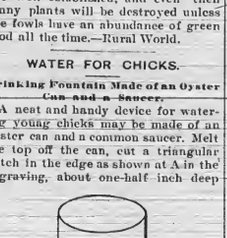
——The speaker will hardly go down to posterity as a great American statesman. He has originated nothing; there is no great question germane to the home or foreign policy of the country which he can be said to have mastered. His ignorance of economic subjects is so profound that he regards Dingley's statistical crudities as the quintessence of wisdom.—N. Y. Times.

——Senator Thurston said in the senate that prosperity was returning to Nebraska, but when asked by Senator Gray if the Wilson bill was not still in force, he said that it was, but that it was the prospect of the passage of the Dingley bill that was making good times. It will be remembered that the panic came while the McKinley bill was in force, but the republicans said that it was the prospect of a democrat tariff that brought on the hard times. The republicans are great on making claims.—Indianapolis News.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

YARDS AND PARKS.

Description of an Economical Summer Run for Poultry.



Where fowls are kept in confinement it will be found best to provide outdoor runs or yards for them during the summer months. Give them free access to these yards whenever the weather will permit. The most economical form, everything considered, for a poultry yard is one much longer than wide. Two rods wide and eight rods long is sufficient for 50 fowls. Whenever a poultry plant of considerable size is to be established, it will be found most economical to arrange the yards side by side, with one end at the poultry house. The fences which inclose these yards may be made of poultry netting or pickets, and should be at least seven feet high. In either case it is best to have a board at the bottom, for sometimes it will be desirable to give quite young chickens the run of these yards. If the poultry yards are constructed as described, there is sufficient room for a row of fruit trees down the center of the yard, and still leave ample room for horse cultivation on either side, either with one or two horses.

These yards are to be kept thoroughly cultivated. If thought best, grain may be sown before cultivation to furnish part of the green food for the fowls. Of all fruit trees, probably there are none that are more suitable for the poultry yard than the plum. The droppings of the fowls will manure the trees, and the fowls as insect destroyers perform a great office in protecting plums from the curculio. After the trees are once well established, a crop of plums should be secured nearly every year. These, too, will require no extra cultivation. The plum trees perform a valuable service in providing shade for the fowls. Where trees are not available, sunflowers may be used for this purpose with a considerable degree of satisfaction. However, some protection must be given the plants until they are well established, and even then many plants will be destroyed unless the fowls have an abundance of green food all the time.—Rural World.

WATER FOR CHICKS.

Drinking Fountain Made of an Oyster Can and a Saucer.

A neat and handy device for watering young chicks may be made of an oyster can and a common saucer. Melt the top off the can, cut a triangular notch in the edge as shown at A in the engraving, about one-half inch deep by a quarter of an inch wide, and the device is complete.

FRESH WATER FOR CHICKS.

To use it, fill the can with water, invert the saucer over it, then quickly invert both and set the device on the floor. The water will remain in the inverted can till used. The water keeps fresh and the space around the can in the saucer is so small that the little chicks cannot get in and wet themselves or drown, as so often happens. The water keeps clean. This is a handy device worth a great deal to poultry raisers.—G. W. Waters, in Journal of Agriculture.

AMONG THE POULTRY.

Do not let ducklings bathe until well feathered.

Do not set hens in the laying part of the poultry house.

In order to have poultry tender and juicy fatten it quickly.

Weight and size are important features in market fowls.

To maintain health keep the drinking and feeding places clean.

Better results in whitewashing will be secured if it is applied hot.

Hens not kept with roosters will lay longer and sit less than others.

If well fed and watered a good hen will hatch out ten good broods of chickens.

Lime is needed by all fowls for the growth of bones and for egg-shell material.

Sell all the early-hatched ducks as soon as ready, and keep the later hatched for breeders and layers.—St. Louis Republic.

Laying Hens Need Eggshells.

The avidity with which laying hens will eat crushed eggshells shows how necessary they are in the hen's economy for egg production. There is no better way to supply the lime required for eggshells than this. The shells in the gizzard also act as grit, enabling it to digest food. The only care in feeding is to crush the shell thoroughly, so that its likeness to the egg may not be seen. Where eggshells are thrown out without being crushed the fowls soon learn the habit of picking at the shells on eggs, and from this they quickly become egg eaters, a habit which once formed is never forgotten.

Bean Straw for Sheep.

It has been well attested that bean straw is a valuable feed for sheep, and that they are fond of it. The bean, like clover is a leguminous plant, and many farmers say that the straw, though coarse and harsh, has nearly as much nutrition as clover hay. It makes a very rich manure when fed to either sheep or cows. That is shown by its rotting very fast when piled and giving off the strong smell of ammonia which comes from feeding any manure rich in nitrogenous nutrition.—Dakota Field and Farm.

ABOUT KAFFIR CORN.

Experience Fails to Sustain Many of the Claims Made for It.

Some enthusiasts declare that Kaffir corn is destined to supersede both wheat and Indian corn in Kansas, but the Kansas authorities and the department of agriculture do not sustain this claim.

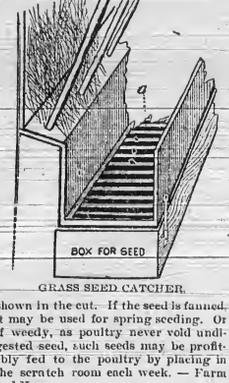
Kaffir corn, an Egyptian millet, is a sorghum, and as a crop possesses these advantages: The yield is larger by from 20 to 50 per cent. than Indian corn; it will grow and yield a crop—not a large one—on very poor soil; it is injured much less than Indian corn by drought, and even when withered by the hot, dry winds of the prairies, it will recover under moisture.

It forms an excellent food for cattle and pigs. All the experiments, of which many have been made by scientific agriculturists, show that it is inferior in fatening power to either wheat or corn. Nevertheless, as a surer and larger crop than corn, it promises most important results for regions like Kansas and Nebraska, where scorching winds frequently wither the corn and destroy the crop.

As food for man, it is nourishing, wholesome and palatable. But the latest conclusions of the national department of agriculture are that its use will probably be somewhat like that of buckwheat—it will form an occasional rather than a staple article of diet. In nourishing power it stands at 27, where bolted cornmeal stands at 37, wheat flour at 45 and oatmeal at 62.

Heretofore it has been difficult to grind this corn fine enough for use as human food. It is said that this difficulty has been overcome lately. If so, there will soon be an opportunity to test its food value on an extensive scale. —Farmers' Voice.

NEW ROTATION THEORY.



Its Adoption Might Improve the Condition of Western Farmers.

When the farmers of the west see their way clear to abandon the idea of devoting the land to corn as the principal crop and substitute clover, sheep and the sugar beet as the trinity necessary to the redemption of the producers from the depression resulting from low prices for farm products progress will be made towards better conditions. Clover and sheep produce good mutton while enriching the land. Sugar beets are good for sheep and produce the best of sugar at good profit. Let every farmer who can and who has not already done so make a start in this triunicirate theory of rotation which is certain of success if properly conducted, in restoring the prosperity which is so much wished for. There is an increasing demand for good mutton, an article which but few farmers know how to produce to perfection. The large profit is only possible where the best is produced for market. Give the people good and desirable food products and consumers will pay liberally for the same. Mutton, if properly grown, is the most nutritious and wholesome of the meat diets. The mutton breeds of sheep are the most desirable and satisfactory of the domestic animals for the farm and can be cared for with the least labor. The profits in sheep are also the most assuring for the future of any of the other domestic animals. Devote less lands to the cereals and prosper.—Farmers' Union.

SAVING GRASS SEED.

The Cut with This Article Explains How It Can Be Done.

It is an easy matter to save hay seed by a slatted manger bottom (a), as shown in the cut. If the seed is fanned it may be used for spring seeding. Or if weedy, as poultry never void undigested seed, such seeds may be profitably fed to the poultry by placing in the scratch room each week. — Farm and Home.

GRASS SEED CATCHER.

Guard Against Overfeeding.

It is an easy matter for a poultry raiser to overfeed his fowls. If a flock has the privilege of a range the farmer need give hardly any food at all if grass, seeds and insects are plentiful, yet some who are really careful of their hens feed three times a day, under the belief that the more food the greater the number of eggs, and endeavoring to secure as many eggs as possible they get the hens in a condition that incapacitates them entirely. Heavy feeding of grain is at times an advantage, such as during extremely cold weather, but the food must be regulated not only according to the seasons, but also in accordance with the condition of the hens.—Dakota Field and Farm.

Scouring in Young Pigs.

There are several remedies in case of scouring in young pigs. First hold up on the feed of the dam, or change it to something else. If this does not stop it take a lump of alum the size of a walnut, dissolve it in a pint of water, give each pig a teaspooaful three times a day. Another good remedy is to parch wheat flour until brown, and mix with skim milk and feed in the same way, or if the pigs are old enough to eat, feed in a trough. This last is an excellent remedy for scours in calves or young colts.—Rural World.

CISCO'S HOODOOED CARPET.

Rose and Fell Until the Mystery Had Been Investigated.

"I was in Nebraska," said the raconteur of the party, "when I got the neatest surprise of my life, and learned a whole page in the natural history of the country.

"I was visiting a relative, and not having much else to do, I took considerable interest in fixing up the place, as much to pass the time away as anything else. The dooryard was filled with flowers, and I kept those free from weeds. I watched the Indians going up and down to their tepees, and sometimes smoked a pipe of peace with the old chief. I even whitewashed the fence, having all a tenderfoot's reverence for neat surroundings, and also laid each stick of wood in the limited woodpile—that is not a timber country—in mathematical precision by its neighbor's side.

"There was a bright red piece of carpet in evidence at the back of the house which tormented my New England soul with its inappropriateness. It was much too good to be thrown away, and was at variance with the rest of the landscape. The chestnut horse browsing on the edge of the bluff was a bit of color in harmony with the rest, but this flamingolike carpet was a blot, an irritation.

"'Sophie,' said I one day to my estimable relative, 'why do you leave that red square out in the sunlight? It will fade and be worthless. Besides it spoils the looks of your nice yard.'

"'There is a depression of the ground there that is quite unsightly,' she answered, and I saw that she was begging the question. Then I tackled old Cisco, the man of all work.

"'Lors amasey, that carpet done hoodooed,' said the old man. 'Ef you watch out you see dat carpet rise an' full like de waves ob de sea when dere ain't a bref of wind. No, sah, I nebber meddles wif dat yeah carpet.'

"It was a fact. The carpet did move, and I called old Cisco to help me lift it, and had the pleasure of seeing the old fellow take to his heels as if he was chased by witches.

"'Well, then, here goes alone!' I said, and quickly drew the large square of carpet to one side.

"And then the cause of the carpet's moving was evident, for as I withdrew it from the hole it covered myriads of snakes reared their angry heads at me, shaking their deadly rattles and wreathing themselves together in a column of wriggling, hissing ugliness.

"We are all the creatures of instinct. I followed old Cisco's example with such rapidity that the column of snakes had not disbanded when I was examining them through glass with an interest that was all the more intense because I was safe.

"'That is what you get for meddling,' said my relative, laughing, yet with a note of chagrin in her voice. 'I could not manage old Cisco without a hoodoo, and now I shall have to find a new one.'

"'Don't,' I urged. 'No doubt it is the warmth of the sun on the carpet that attracts the snakes from the hole. They will come back when the carpet is replaced, and prove a wholesome terror to the neighborhood.'

"Then I went to the post office and dictated a telegram calling me home."—Chicago Times-Herald.

WHAT FASHION COUNSELS.

Some Don'ts in the Way of Petticoats, Corsets and Summer Lingerie.

There are a few "don'ts" every woman would do well to remember. First, don't wear soiled gloves, when tennis will clean them as fresh as new. Soiled clothing is an evidence of excessively bad taste. Don't wax enthusiastic over the wonderfully low prices of ready-made skirts. Two-thirds of them have interlinings that will lose their stiffness in a half dozen wearings.

Don't wear lace-trimmed petticoats in the street. Women of good taste wear them only with house or carriage toilets.

However tempting such lingerie may be, there are quite as smart things to take their place, in the way of silk skirts, or pretty ones of colored muslins to match the gown.

Corsets are undergoing a decided change, and the best styles no longer show curves unnatural to the figure. The most expensive sorts show perfectly straight fronts, allowing no curve over the stomach, and lifting the bust high. At the back, however, the bones are limber, and bend into the curve of the back very gracefully, probably accentuated by the rigidity of the front.

The corset cover is a feature of summer dress, worn even by those women who discard it when heavy gowns are worn. Very dainty ones of silk are built to wear under the thin organdie shirt waists, either matching or contrasting prettily with the color in the muslin.

Those made of sun-burst muslin in colors are new and wonderfully pretty; the plaits widening out over the bust and closing fan-shaped at the waist.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

To Get Rid of Mosquitoes.

A correspondent writes that last year she was almost compelled to give up working in the garden by reason of mosquitoes, but a happy thought suggested itself. Getting some kerosene oil, she smeared the fences near which she had to weed and trim her plants, and, to her delight, the insects took wings and departed, not to return till the odor of the oil had entirely gone. A second application rid the garden of them for the season.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Pineapple Lemonade.

One pint water, one cup sugar, one quart ice water, one can grated pineapple, juice of three lemons. Make a sirup by boiling the sugar and water five minutes. Add the pineapple and lemon juice. Cool, strain and add the ice water. Serve in lemonade glasses.—Leisure Hours.

A PART OF THE SHOW.

But the Young Fellow Couldn't See It Without a Stingram.

The curtain had been rung down on the last act of that exciting melodrama, "The Power of Beer," and the audience was leaving the theater. On the faces of the more thoughtful was an expression of sadness somewhat akin to the look wherewith a man regards the bright coin pasted on the underside of the tobacco dealer's cigar-case. And one man out of the throng pushed his way to the box-office window.

"See here!" said he, excitedly; "I want my money back!"

"Hum," said the ticket-seller, carelessly. "It's an outrage!" said the man.

"Yes."

"It's a swindle!" continued the man.

"Indeed."

"You advertise a real robbery!"

"We do.

"I failed to see it!"

"You did?"

"And I want my money back!"

"Now, see here!" said the ticket-seller, leaning out of the window; "I've had about enough, and you get no money back, see? That's where the robbery comes in, and if you haven't mind enough to grasp it I can't see that there's any kick due from you whatever!"—Boston Budget.

Her Nice Bit of Sarcasm.

Theresa had two distinguishing gifts. One was sarcasm and the other was water colors. She and Quatorze had been engaged once and they quarreled for some reason. Neither of them seemed to know exactly why, and I suppose that neither of them cared much, so Quatorze was married the other day and the girl sent a present to the wedding.

The present was a water color done by her own deft fingers. The girl could paint well. The picture was a beautiful thing. It represented a great rock, which looked for all the world like a platform with steps leading up to the top of it. Overhead was a cloudless sky, full of sunshine and with a blue in it that made you wish that the world were all sky and that you were floating among the fleecy clouds on pinions of air. There were trees leading over that enchanted rock, and beyond were the shimmering waters of a lake.

"How beautiful!" exclaimed the bride. "How kind of Theresa. She's such a dear, good girl. We will hang it in the parlor, won't we, dear?"

"To attend the light won't be quite right," said Quatorze aloud.

To himself he said—

The water color was a picture of a rock at Lake George, where he and Theresa had sat two summers ago when he proposed to her.—N. Y. Telegram.

Something Cheap.

As she stood upon the top step and kissed him good-by before he went out to battle with the cold, cold world he thought that she had never looked so winsome, even in then odd courting days.

"And now my bad boy must have as many slaps as years he has lived, for to-day is his birthday," she went on, beginning the chastening salutations.

"Why, so it is," he said, with that momentary sensation of years passing helplessly away which middle-aged men experience upon these occasions.

"And what lovely thing shall his darling wife get him for a birthday present this year?" she went on. "You already have a smoking cabinet and a card table, and my dining room lamp, you know, was one of my birthday presents to you. And then—"

"I'd go kind of light, my dear," he answered, somewhat moodily. "Get me some little cheap thing. I haven't been able to pay for last year's birthday present yet."—N. Y. Journal.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous, hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Write to Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

"That was a sensational prayer Dr. Gumms delivered the other Sunday. I wonder if he expected it to be answered." "Certainly. And it was, too. Why, nearly every paper in the country replied to it."—Brooklyn Life.

"I took a tramp in the woods yesterday," said Miss Frocks to the new arrival at Deer Park. "Did you? Oh, well, I suppose that men are so scarce that even a tramp is better than nothing."—Life.

Between Seed Time and Harvest

is a good opportunity to enquire about farming lands in South Dakota, only one day's ride from Chicago. Bountiful crops of Wheat, Corn, Barley and Flax reward the tiller of the soil. As a stock and dairy country South Dakota leads all the world. First-class farm lands with nearby markets can now be bought for from $10, $12, $15, and upwards, per acre, and this is the time to invest. For further particulars write to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, Old Colony Building, Chicago, Ill.

People who say they cannot write a plain hand because they are so nervous, talk as if they expected to be believed.—Washington Democrat.

Young Spendthrift — "I didn't get you any birthday present, dad—thought you'd rather keep the money." Pa bits.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, June 19.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 25	$ 3 00
Select Butchers	3 85	4 00
CALVES—Fair to good light	5 25	5 75
HOGS—Common	2 85	3 25
Mixed packers	3 25	3 45
Light shippers	3 25	3 45
SHEEP—Choice	3 00	3 60
LAMBS—Spring	4 40	5 00
FLOUR—Winter family	3 25	3 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		68
No. 3 red		66
Corn—No. 2 mixed		20
Oats—No. 2		19½
Rye—No. 2		37
HAY—Prime to choice	10 50	11 00
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		8 62½
Lard—Prime steam		3 50
BUTTER—Choice dairy	6	8
Prime to choice creamery		16
APPLES—Per bbl	2 50	3 00
POTATOES—Per bbl	1 00	1 25
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	4 50	4 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north'n		78
No. 2 red		73¼
CORN—No. 2 mixed		32½
OATS—Mixed	27	27¼
PROVISIONS—Mess pork	8 25	8 75
LARD—Western		3 85
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 20	4 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	74	77
No. 2 Chicago spring	70	71
CORN—No. 2	25	25¼
OATS—No. 2		18¼
PORK—Mess	7 40	7 45
LARD—Steam	3 23½	3 26
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	4 00	4 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		76¼
Corn—Mixed		36½
Oats—No. 2 White	26½	27
LARD—Refined		3 85
PORK—Mess		8 25
CATTLE—First quality	4 10	4 40
HOGS—Western	4 10	4 15
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		75
Corn—No. 2 mixed		33¼
Oats—No. 2 mixed		18¼
ST. LOUIS.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 75	4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	64	65
Corn—Mixed	36	36½
Oats—Mixed		25
PORK—Mess		8 75
LARD—Steam		3 75

Sunshine and Sadness.

The redbird sings, and the sunshine flings its gold through my window-pane. And a sweet perfume steals into my room, from the roses in the lane. * * * The skies are clear; in the school-yard near, the children romp in glee; the earth is bright in the glad sunlight, but what is it all to me? * * * For, across the way, there is a din to-day, that tortures my weary brain; the maiden fair, with auburn hair, is at the piano again. —Up-to-Date.

Would Arm the World.

If all the guns made by the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Ct., could be collected, there would be more than enough to equip the standing armies of the world. There are over 2,000,000 Winchester guns in use to-day and the number is rapidly increasing. The popularity of Winchester guns and repeating shot guns is deserved for they always give entire satisfaction and for strong and accurate shooting they are unsurpassed. These guns are made in all desirable calibers and styles. Every gun has to pass the most severe tests before it leaves the works, which insures its being perfect. When buying a gun the Winchester is the make to take, for it can always be relied upon. Send for a large illustrated catalogue free.

Her Suggestion.

"Yes," said Mr. Snicksnarkle, "I do not like my name at all. They say that either the legislature or the district court will change it for me. Which would you apply to if you were in my predicament?"

"Well," said she, thoughtfully, "a minister would do for me."

And three hours later it struck him that perhaps there was a mild hint in what she had said.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Summer Tours Via Big Four Route.

To the Mountains, Lakes and Seashore. Special Low Rates will be in effect to Put-in-Bay, Islands of Lake Erie, Lake Chautauqua, Niagara Falls, Thousand Islands, St. Lawrence River, Adirondacks, Lake George, New England Resorts, New York and Boston. To the Great Lakes, Cleveland, Sandusky, Toledo, Detroit, Benton Harbor, Mt. Clemens, Mackinac and Michigan Resorts. To the Northwest and West via St. Louis and Chicago. For rates, routes, time of trains and full particulars apply to any agent "Big Four," or address E. O. McCormick, Passenger Traffic Manager "Big Four, Cincinnati, O.

Good as New.

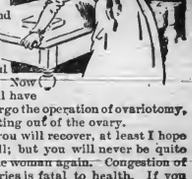
Jack Dashing—Why, there is not a new face here to-night.

Penelope—Oh, yes, there is, Miss Madeup's face has just been renumbered.—Up-to-Date.

Ere the Farewell Is Spoken

On the deck of the steamer or on board the train that is to bear you away from those dear to you, you will, if you are wise, have safely stowed away in your luggage a sufficient supply of that safeguard against illness—Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Commercial travelers, tourists and pioneer emigrants concur in testifying to the fortifying and saving properties of the great tonic. Use for constipation, biliousness, malarial and kidney complaints and nervousness.

If there's one thing above another that some people like to answer it's an unanswerable argument.—N. Y. Weekly.



WOMEN! DON'T WAIT.

If You Have Any of These Symptoms Act at Once.

Do you know the reason why you will go to the hospital, my poor friend?

Because you have allowed yourself to go from bad to worse. You did not know that that heat, swelling and tenderness in your left side were all signs of congestion of the ovary.

Any intelligent woman could have told you that congestion is fatal to the uterine system, and that an ovary congested leads to tumor formation, and that you were in awful danger. Now you will have to undergo the operation of ovariotomy, the cutting out of the ovary.

Yes, you will recover, at least I hope you will; but you will never be quite the same woman again. Congestion of the ovaries is fatal to health. If you have any such symptoms be advised in time; take a medicine of specific powers! You can find none better than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared especially to meet the needs of woman's sexual system. You can get it at any good druggist's.

Following we publish a letter from a woman in Milwaukee, which relates how she was cured of ovarian trouble:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered with congestion of the ovaries and inflammation of the womb. I had been troubled with suppressed and painful menstruation from a girl. The doctors told me the ovaries would have to be removed. I took treatment two years to escape an operation, but still remained in miserable health in both body and mind, expecting to part with my reason each coming month. After using one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash I was very much relieved. I continued to use your remedies until cured. The last nine months have been passed in perfect good health. This, I know, I owe entirely to the Vegetable Compound. My gratitude is great, indeed, to the one to whom so many women owe their health and happiness."—Mrs. F. M. KNAPP, 563 Wentworth Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

Stick to the Directions, if you want to get the most good out of Pearline. Otherwise, you'll be putting in too much, and wasting the Pearline, and calling it expensive. Or you won't put in enough, and so you won't get as much help from it as you expected, and you'll have to do more work. Directions on every package for hot and cold water washing, with and without boiling. These simple, easy directions have revolutionized the work of washing.

627

SICK HEADACHE! ALWAYS TRACE IT TO THE LAZY LIVER.

Poisonous matter, instead of being thrown out, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue, it causes congestion and that awful, dull, throbbing, sickening pain.

Cascarets REMOVE THE CAUSE BY STIMULATING THE LIVER,

Making the poison move on and out, and purifying the blood. The effect is ALMOST INSTANTANEOUS.

LADIES whose sensitive organism is especially prone to sick headaches, DO NOT SUFFER, for you can, by the use of CASCARETS, be

ALL DRUGGISTS. 10c., 25c., 50c. Relieved Like Magic.

$7 NIAGARA FALLS!

And Return,

Thursday, July 8, 1897.

G., H. & D and Mich. Cent.

Only $1.00 More to

TORONTO,

And Only $5.50 More to

THOUSAND ISLANDS.

Write for Circulars to

D. G. EDWARDS, Pass. Traffic Mgr., G., H. & D. Ry.

Cincinnati, O.

$75 $50 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE.

Western Wheel Works MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS

CATALOGUE FREE

CANCER CURED AT HOME; send stamp for book. Dr. J. E. HARRIS & CO. Pike Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

HARTSHORNS SELF-ACTING SHADE ROLLERS

NOTICE SAME TRADE MARK AS LABEL AND SEE THE GENUINE HARTSHORN

SILOS HOW TO BUILD ARK WILLIAMS MFG. CO., KALAMAZOO, MICH.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 23, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work.

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS.

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Georgetown College has sent out 523 graduates.

There are 31 divorce cases on the Mason Circuit Court docket.

Paducah is to have a first-class electric light bicycle racing track.

The Rowan county grand jury last week returned 37 indictments.

There is talk of holding a stallion show at St. Louis some time during July.

James Mack killed Ben Redd over a game of cards in Woodford county.

John Akin, a boy, fell forty-eight feet from the bridge at Paducah and suffered no injury.

Two masked men robbed a Fayette county toll gate keeper of $100 in money and $1,000 in negotiable notes.

Mamie Mount, a very popular young lady, who resided near Greenville, committed suicide by shooting herself.

During the past year the population of Richmond has decreased 1,200 and the taxable property has decreased $80,000.

Two hundred confederate veterans from Lexington and vicinity attended the confederate reunion at Nashville, on the 22d inst.

Six car loads of Walnut logs were shipped over the Midland the other day to Norfolk, Va. They will be sent to Hamburg, Germany.

Reuben Metcalf walked from the mountains in Owsley county to Lexington, a distance of 112 miles, in search of a horse worth $50.

W. H. Phillips, who has been Judge of the Jessemine county court for 23 years, was nominated for another term again the other day.

Gov. Worthington pardoned Milton Burgess sent up from Grant county for life for murder. He is said to be dying of consumption.

Col. Baldwin, who owns considerable stock in Nicholas county pikes says he never offered $100 reward for each raider's head delivered to him.

Thompson Bros., the race horse men, refused $3,000 each for their 26 head of thoroughbred horses, the offer being made by Charles Fleishman.

The toll gate raiders captured some of the guards in Nicholas county, and put ropes around their necks and led them out of the county.

The Reporter says the Odd Fellows of Somerset have moved into their elegant new hall and can truthfully boast of the finest lodge room in the State.

Will Stone, son of Auditor Stone, is tipped to succeed Comingore as insurance commissioner after the the latter's appointment as collector at Covington.

Roy King, colored, is under arrest for attempting to poison the family of Samuel Rives, of Pleasureville. He emptied a box of rough on rats into the teapot.

Samuel Allen, aged 82, and his wife same age died within a few hours of each other one night, last week, near Owensboro. They had been married 55 years.

It is costing the taxpayers of Mercer $1,500 per week to guard the toll gates in that county. A fine bridge on one of the roads was burnt a few nights since.

P. J. Ingram and Ed Adamson, employed on Leslie Combs' tobacco plantation, were arrested on the charge of robbing postmaster Elijah Stivers, of Walnut Hills.

John Henderson, aged ninety-five is camped at Paducah, which city he has visited once a year for the last seventy years. He picks berries and is still hale and hearty.

Mrs. Lucy Anderson, aged 32, of Fayette county, was frightened to death in her home on the Georgetown road during the raging of the thunder storm last Wednesday night.

Richmondites are protesting against the proposition to move the Internal Revenue Collector's office from Richmond to Danville. At Richmond the government is putting up a building at a cost of $100,000 for custom house and postoffice.

A strange looking creature who could not speak a word of English, passed through the extreme western portion of the State last week. He was a queer character and attracted much attention. He talked all the time, addressing everyone he met, but not a thing he said could be understood.

Dillard Rainey, the Clark county murderer, whose death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, was taken to the penitentiary, one day last week. Before leaving Rainey was baptized by Elder Keene, of the christian church, and was given a big supper of ice cream, strawberries and other delicacies. Rainey is greatly elated over the Governor's action, and thinks he will be pardoned before a great while, when he intends to enter the ministry.

The Interior Journal, is responsible for the following: A queerly erratic family were the Bufords, one of whom, Judge H. Marshall Buford, drowned himself at Lexington last week. Another, Gen. Abe Buford, shot and killed himself some time ago. He was a noted turfman who professed to believe that horses go to heaven. Another, Tom, shot Judge Elliott, of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, because he decided a case against him. St. Clair Buford went crazy, and Henry was almost continually engaged in fistic turmoils. All were brothers.

Acting Governor Worthington granted a pardon to Dr. J. T. Hourigan, who was sent to the penitentiary in 1893 for 10 years for killing his brother-in-law, Sam Hays, in Marion county. Governor Bradley refused to pardon Hourigan last year, but a strong petition, signed by the trial Judge, Commonwealth's Attorney and all the jury, was presented to the Acting Governor, along with evidence showing that Hays had repeatedly insulted and abused Hourigan by spitting in his face and hitting him, and finally Hourigan warned him that if he did not stop it he would kill him. Hays repeated the degrading insults, and Hourigan did shoot and kill him. The Lieutenant Governor thought he should be pardoned.

CROP AND STOCK.

Farmers in Western Kentucky are pleased with the wheat prospect.

An Ashland gardener raised strawberries 11 of which filled a quart measure.

It is estimated that from 3,500 to 4,000 export cattle will be shipped from Clark county the coming fall.

Wheat harvest will be on next week. The local crop is generally reported good.—Owingsville Outlook.

The acreage planted to tobacco in this county will be about 20 per cent. less than usual.—Georgetown Times.

If your young chicks stand around and sleep, it is then quite evident that you are trying to raise poultry and lice on the same amount of food.

E. H. Smith, of Prestonville, has just sold to M. I. Barker, of Carrollton, 100,000 pounds of tobacco at ten cents per pound, Smith having purchased that tobacco from farmers on Court day and prices went as high as 4 cents for weighed stuff and that sold by the head brought 5 cents and over. No transaction in horses and mules.

Prospects were never finer for an immense blackberry crop. House keepers are already laying in a big supply of preserving jars, ready to stow away a bountiful supply of jam. The school children of next winter had as well prepare for the inevitable.—Henry County Journal.

F. D. Spottswood, the well-known horseman of Harrodsburg, will try a novel experiment in offering horses for sale on a trip east. He intends taking with him a line of photographs of horses, which will be accompanied by certificates of soundness, conformation and speed trials, which he will show to prospective purchasers.

Unknown persons have been going over Hart county at nights destroying tobacco plant beds and leaving notes warning farmers that they will not allow anybody to plant more than half a crop of tobacco this year because the foreign markets already have big supplies and only by curtailing the next crop or two can the farmers ever hope to get good prices for tobacco. Many farmers are guarding their plants day and night.

Mr. A. P. Hill, of the Maxon's Mills section, in McCracken county, has about twenty acres of wheat which will yield from thirty-six to forty bushels per acre. The wheat is of the variety known as the Mediterranean, and the heads of the samples brought to this office were over five inches long. Mr. Hill secured the seed from the Agricultural Bureau several years ago, and now supplies the seed wheat for nearly his entire section.—Register.

It is announced that in France the wheat area for 1897 will be over a million acres less than the area for 1896, and that the crop will show a falling off of nearly fifty millions of bushels. If these figures prove to be correct, France will be compelled to look to other lands for her grains supply, and this country will be called upon to furnish the bulk of it. The United States will stand ready to do this, as from the present outlook this country is going to have a wheat crop of enormous size. The French demand, together with the other demand from foreign lands, promises to help American farmers to secure a fair price for all the grain they can raise this year.

THERE'S nothing in the report that Secretary of State Sherman contemplates resigning.

Senator Tilman has proposed an amendment to the tariff bill that would do more than all the recent attempts to restrict immigration. It provides for a head tax of $100 on each immigrant and makes it a misdemeanor for any alien who does not intend to become an American citizen and to remain such to enter the U. S. for the purpose of engaging in any mechanical trade or manual labor. There is a provision that the head tax shall cease to be levied as soon as the U. S. adopts the free coinage of silver.

A CONVENTION of farmers will be held in Lexington early in July to divise a plan for inducing the farmers of this State to hold their wheat for sixty days after it is harvested. The farmers who are at the head of this move do not expect to be able to tie up all the wheat in the country, but they believe that if the Kentucky farmers can be induced to hold their wheat for better prices then those of adjoining States will follow their example and that the move will acquire such proportions as to have effect on the prices.

IT looks like Secretary Sherman is beginning to realize that he was buncoed out of his seat in the Senate, and that at the same time the plans were formed for his retirement from the cabinet after a brief sojourn there. He is a vindictive man, and it may be that he will retaliate by perpetrating again the trick of which he has so often been accused in Ohio politics. Should he retire from the cabinet, as it now appears he will have to do, and the Democrats secure a majority of the next Ohio legislature, the evidence that he has been at his old tricks again, will be almost conclusive.

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

Hog cholera is sweeping off hogs in every part of the county.

The crowd in town on county court day was very large, yet business was very dull in all lines of trade.

The thing that is worrying the minds of the chief "factotems" of the Republican party in this part of the moral vineyard is, has Dr. Daugherty, of Corinth, more influence with the present Republican administration at Washington than the whole of the Republican Executive Committee of Grant county. Judging from results it would seem so. The doctor got his man appointed postmaster at Corinth after the Republican Committee had turned him down and "There is trouble in the land."

• • •

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[News]

A. S. Lillard bought 10 head of fine cattle last week, the bunch costing him $305.

Hon. E. E. Settle and family will return home from Washington about July 1st. Mrs. Settle's health is much improved.

The Owenton High school closed last Friday. The session just closed was one of the most successfull ever conducted.

P. O. Minor sold his purchase of tobacco, consisting of about 40,000 lbs. to Ellis & Lerch, of Cincinnati, at a profit of $800.

Mr. Lerch, a prominent tobacco buyer of Cincinnati, who is purchasing in the county, thinks there is a 1,000,000 lbs of tobacco in the farmers hands in this county.

The prospect of any kind of tobacco crop has vanished. The lack of season to get out the plants in reasonable time makes it improbable that a third of a crop will be grown.

Owenton is now a city of the fifth class indeed, and will begin putting on airs as soon as she can elect a Mayor and board of Aldermen. The trustees, by enlarging the limits, took in an extra population of several hundred.

Squire John Holman, of New Liberty, will address an open letter to Hon. Erastus Bainbridge, chairman of the bolting Democratic party of Owen, so it is understood, criticising his action in refusing to call the party together to place a county ticket in the field. There seems to be a good deal of jealousy existing in the Boltocratic ranks which may result in Mr. Bainbridge tendering his resignation.

• • •

FOMR GALLATIN COUNTY.

Independent

Dr. G. F. Gaines and wife, of Walton, Boone county, were here several days this week and to attend the funeral of her brother, Thomas Taaffe.

The rain of this week will give the tobacco growers a chance to put out their crop. What tobacco has been set is doing very little good, the dry weather and bugs almost killed it.

Gallatin County lost one of its best and most beloved citizens in the death of Hon. Elijah Hogan, who died at his home near Napoleon, Wednesday morning, from dropsy and other complications. He had been ill since last April and it was thought he would rally through the attack, but disease had too firm a hold. He did not suffer but the human machinery gradually succumbed to the ravages of time, and he passed away as peacefully as a child going to sleep. Mr. Hogan was born in Boone County, Ky., 72 years ago last April. His parents came from North Carolina, and his father died when he was an infant. His mother's maiden name was Porter. Mr. Hogan resided his lifetime in Boone and Gallatin Counties where he always enjoyed the respect and esteem of the people, being one of the best citizens the counties ever had. He married Elizabeth Clements, of this county, and their union was blessed with nine children, seven with his wife surviving him.

In every walk of life Mr. Hogan was the true, honorable gentleman and worthy citizen. He represented Grant and Gallatin Counties in the Kentucky legislature in 1869-70, and Gallatin County in 1884. He was Sheriff of Gallatin County two terms, and every trust was discharged with honor and credit. He was a most lovable man in every way and his heart was filled with kindness toward everybody, consequently it is not surprising that everybody loved and respected him. He always preferred living on the farm and was one of the best farmers in this quarter. Mr. Hogan recently united with the Baptist Church at Napoleon though he was always a moral, christian gentleman.

GOV. MOUNT, of Indiana, is trying to bring about a reduction of expenses in operating the State government, but he has not the cooperation of those who are drawing fat salaries and doing very little to earn them. That element is throwing all the obstructions possible in the way of the Governor's crusade.

SEASON OF 1897.

OAK KNOLL STOCK FARM.

UGO,

Chestnut Stallion, 16 hands high, foaled 1892, sired by Simmons 2744, (record 2:28,) sire of 63 in 2:30 list, and 7 in 2:15 list.... 1st dam, Thirza by Almont Boy 4308, sire of Grafton, 2:20½, Bessie G, 2:25, etc. 2d dam, Dixie by Norman 25; 3d dam, Mollie Clay by Iron Duke he by C. M. Clay 18.

Ugo is an exceedingly handsome horse, with plenty of size and faultless conformation; he has worked quarters in 40 seconds when 3 years old with six weeks training.

UGO will make the season of 1897, at Oak Knoll Stock farm, 1 mile west of Utzinger, and 3 miles east of Petersburg, Ky., on the Petersburg & Burlington pike. Service fee $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when mare is known to be in foal or parted with. Mares kept on grass at $1.50 per month, accidents and escapes at owners risk.

For particulars address

A. E. CHAMBERS, Jr.,
Utzinger, Ky.

NOTICE.

TUCKER, will be at Ezra Aylor's on Tuesday morning, at Dony Cook's in the afternoon, Ben Tanner's Thursday [illegible] in each week.

JAS. H. AYLOR.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

OUR Doors Stand Open!

And we make no bones in giving you prices Openly.

We never felt in better humor for business than now. So we will ask for your attention a little while.

—We Will Sell You—

H. and E. Boston Standard fine Gran. Sugar, per lb.....	5c	Navy Beans 3 qts. for	10c
Coffees from 12½c to 30c per pound		Dried Peas 2 quarts for.....	5c
White Satin Flour (extra fine) 5.25		Battle Ax Tobacco, per lb.....	20c
Essex Soap (best for the money) two bars for.....	5c	Polar Bear Smoking, 4 pkgs....	15c
Baking Powder, from 8c per lb. up		Six for Ten per plug,.....	15c
Pure Pepper, ground, per lb.....	15c	Teas from.....	15 to 80c
Canned Corn, from 5c to 12c		Good Table Peaches, 3 cans.....	25c
Pearl Barley, 2 lbs. for.....	5c	N. O. Molasses, two gallons.....	65c
Evaporated Apples, per lb.....	5c	Extra Fine Syrup, two gallons	35c
Fine Evap. Peaches, per lb.....	7½c	H. L. Oil, per gallon.....	8c
Prunes, per pound, from 5c to	12c	"Crown" Gasoline, per gal.....	9c
Good Rice, per pound,.....	5c	Onion Sets, per quart,.....	10c
Sweet Chocolate, per cake.....	5c	3 packages Garden Seed.....	10c
Baker's Chocolate, per lb	40c	Pratt's Poultry Food at list.
Enamiline, per box.....	4c	6 dozen Cloths Pins for.....	5c
Rising Sun Polish, 6 for.....	25c	Rolled Oats, per pound.....	2c
		Langdon's Bread, 6 loaves for...	25c

And Numerous other Good Values that require too much space to quote. Yours Earnestly,

IRA AYLOR, Erlanger, Ky.

C. W. ROBINSON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,
ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,
Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.
GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.
Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.
FRY & REIB,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of
Marble & Granite Monuments,
HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,
109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, KY.
Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. { Designs Furnished Upon Application.

CRESCENT HILL STOCK FARM.
1897. SEASON 1897.
TIMOTHY BOY, No. 27854

Bay horse foaled April 3rd, 1893, 16¼ hands high and weighs 1250 pounds in ordinary condition.

Sired by Wilkes Boy, 2:24; 1st dam, Alga by Artillery, 2:21½; 2d dam, Valdosta by Nutwood, 2:18½; 3d dam, Emma Arterburn by Mambrino Patchen 58, (dam of one and grand-dam of three in 2:30 list); 4th dam, Jennie Johnson by Sweet Owen, thoroughbred, gr-dam of three in 2:30; 5th dam, Thoroughbred, &c.

Wilkes Boy, 2:24, one of the best producing horses in Kentucky, is by Geo. Wilkes, 2:22, dam Betty Brown (dam of Anglin, 2:27½) by Mambrino Patchen, 58.

Artillery, 2:21½ by Hambletonian 10, dam Wallis Star (dam of Modestie 2:26½) by American Star, 14, is fast becoming a great sire.

Nutwood, 2:18¼, (out of the dam of Maud S. 2:08¾,) is the sire of more 2:30 performers than any horse living.

TIMOTHY BOY is one of the best bred horses in Kentucky, a horse of great power, fine style and color, a pure gaited trotter, perfectly sound in every particular and should produce horses fit for either track, road or farm.

He will make the season at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when fact is known or mare parted with.

The Fine Black Jack,
MIKE,

Will make the season at $8 to insure a colt, money due when colts comes or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE:

MIKE is a black Jack, white points, 15½ hands high, good heavy bone, large head and ears, well built, good style and color. He is one of the best lookers in Northern Ky., and ought to make a grand breeder.

He was sired by Bill Collins, dam Nell, a fine black jennet 16 hands high, by Sinkhole; 2d dam, Graves' Jenny, by Black Samson, jr.; 3d dam, Jenny by Mogul. Bill Collins is by Bourbon Chief, is 16 hands high and one of the best mule jacks in Central Kentucky, and sold for $1,800.

Timothy Boy and Mike will stand at Daniel Bedinger's farm, 3 miles west of Richwood, Ky., on the Richwood & Beaver pike.

☞ Mares kept on pasture at $1.50 per month.

J. C. BEDINGER, Richwood, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Benj. Rice, deceased, must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

B. P. RICE, Adm'r.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 30, 1897. NO. 36.

It is a bad day for pardons when acting Governor Worthington does not issue at least a quarter of a dozen.

Under the Wilson tariff bill the revenue receipts for the month of June will exceed the expenditures $300,000.

The Spanish government has offered Mrs. Ruiz $40,000 for the loss of her husband who died in a prison in Cuba.

The press gang is said to have got struck on a Middlersboro brewery. The stock carried by the saloons there did not meet the demand.

Earthquakes are becoming very common in this State, if all those who say they felt recent 'quakes are telling the truth about their experiences.

Were the election held in Ohio, before her voters who are in Washington in pursuit of office, could return the Democrats would win by an overwhelming majority.

The Commonwealth is trying to ascertain wnich the Democracy of Kenton county prefer, a primary election or a convention to nominate candidates for county offices.

The tariff bill which Speaker Reed passed in the House a few months ago, has been very much delayed in the Senate, where bossism does not prevail to such an extent.

Judge Cantrill's decision that the act of the legislature authorizing the issuing of $500,000 worth of State bonds was unconstitutional, has been reversed by the Court of Appeals.

The C.-J. says that letters received at the headquarters of the National Democracy indicate that the State convention to be held July 14, will be well attended and enthusiastic.

Prosperity will strike Ohio between now and November. It will make its appearance over there as soon as the campaign advances for enough to require the opening of the barrel.

In the event there should be but one candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative, the county committee should arrange so that a convention or a primary election will be unnecessary.

Several bills having in view the repeal of the civil service law have been introduced at the present session of Congress, but owing to the wrangle over the tariff law none of them are likely to be considered.

According to some of the Republican papers those Senators, who refuse to waltz around the ring every time Hanna cracks the party whip, are cranks, lunatics, demagogues, imbeciles, and enemies to their county.

The ostrich plume business is no longer an experiment in California, and a heavy consignment of plumes was shipped from there to Paris, last April. A large amount of money is invested in the enterprise, and ostrich farms are increasing every year.

President McKinley's record on the silver question while a member of Congress, was given an airing again one day, last week, during discussion on the tariff in the Senate, and there was no one there to contradict it, as the official records were close at hand.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania have had a good time during the past two years. Gov. Pattison Dem. retired Jan. 1, 1895 and left a balance of $6,000,000 in the State Treasury. November next there will be a deficit of $4,000,000, or in other words a change of administration has cost the state $10,000,000 and to cap the climax the State Auditor wants the public school fund scaled down $1,000,000 to help them out of the hole:

Senator Foraker says that Gov. Bushnell's position at the head of the ticket in Ohio gave him the right to name the chairman of the campaign committee, but Mr. Hanna refuses to recognize the rights of anybody but Hanna, and Mr. Kurtz, who was Bushnell's choice for head of the committee had to stand aside.

A body of negro worshippers were frightened out of their wits at Louisville, one night last week. In the midst of the religious exercises a strange noise was heard in different parts of the room, uttering horrible oaths. The negroes concluded that his satanic majesty or one of his emissaries was present, and they ran over one-another getting out of the sanctuary. Some people would not be surprised to hear that satan was at large in the Falls City.

A "blue-gum" negro was recently hanged for murder in Georgia. The "blue-gum" negro is rare, but he invariably represents the most depraved qualities of his race. He has light blue gums and short teeth, and there is a well grounded superstition among the negroes that a bite from such a person is as poisonous as that of a rattlesnake. In a personal encounter the "blue gum" man always bites. It was Jefferson Davis who one time said there was but one thing worse tanh a "blue-gum" negro and that was hell.

The Court of Appeals in this State has decided that where the insured pays premiums on the face of a fire insurance policy, upon total loss of the property he may recover the whole amount of the insurance as called for in the face of the policy notwithstanding it may contain what is commonly called "the three-quarter clause" providing that the company shall only be liable for three-quarters of the actual cash value of the property at the time of the loss. The companies claim that the decision will destroy their business in Kentucky.

The editor of the Owensboro Messinger has been casting his polical optic over towards Louisville, and what he saw he does not consider unlawful to tell, although it is in nowise to the credit of those engaged in the polical deviltry. He says: "The Boltocrat newspapers in Louisville are all in line for the nominees of the despised 'silverite' primary in that city, and while advocating a fusion of Republicans and Boltocrats to beat Sam Shackelford, they vigorously oppose a similar fusion which Louisville Republicans are trying to arrange for local offices."

It is claimed for Oklahoma that its fertile soil causes an astonishingly rapid growth in everything in which there is either vegetable or animal life. An eastern man who located there a few years ago, corroborated this claim when he wrote back to his old home that they have to mow the grass off the sod floor to find the baby. One family near him had twin babies, with only one cradle, and the kid who had to sleep on the floor grew twice as fast as the other. Where the soil is richest a man dare not stand on one foot any length of time lest one leg becomes longer than the other and bother him in walking.

Aspirants for legislative honors will now be given another chance, and in that connection the following names have been suggested: Hon. W. H. Baker, Hon. N. S. Walton, Hon. Reuben Conner, Messrs. B. L. Rice, J. W. Kennedy, Geo. W. Sleet, Sidney Gaines, P. E. Cason, Dr. L. C. Cowen, Ben Wilson, Chas. Schramm, Hon. J. G. Furnish. How many of the above named gentlemen have the bee in their bonnet the Recorder does not pretend to say, but a good representative can be obtained out of the above array, and it is a fifty to one shot that one of the above named gentlemen will be the nominee.

[J. D. L. in Owen News.]

It is with paintul feeling I occasionally recall to my memory incidents that occurred during a long term of imprisonment in the Federal bastiles of Camp Chase and Johnson Island on Lake Erie, in the dark days of 1862-3. In the summer of 1862 a small party of Confederates and political prisoners at Camp Chase, becoming wearied of close confinement and hard tack, entered into a conspiracy to bribe a guard on the parapet wall; inducements having been held out to them by the aforesaid guard, who afterward proved to be a Captain of a Federal company, stationed as guard at the prison. Arrangements were perfected to pay him a certain amount of money and a gold watch, the latter the property of O. D. McManama, of Williamstown, who was afterwards Judge of the criminal court of this district; and an opening of the prison walls would be made for their exit and restoration to liberty. A soldier's cap attached to a long pole was lowered at the hour of midnight and the anxious incarcerated Kentuckians soon deposited the only time piece in the crowd and all the loose change they had about their persons, which soon found its way to the generous bribe taker, as we then viewed him; but they were not long in remaining undecieved, for almost instantly, bang! bang! on the boards of the wall surrounding the prison, in which we were correlled as a herd of mustang ponies, rang out over the prison and encampment, loud and alarming to those immediately interested, and soon the stentorian voice of the guard cried out, "Rally, ground guard, rally," McManama, Thos. P. Herndon, of Owenton, and others smelt a mouse, of the proportions a wharf rat, and utterly demoralized they hurriedly made their way to their quarters.

Of the whole number I believe not more than two of the would be tramps for Dixie or some more congenial place distant from Ohio, only two were unfortunate enough to pass safely through the opening made, only to fall into the hands of a squad of Yahkee soldiers who conducted them, (Judge James O'Hara, of Covington, and Hub Helm, of Newport, who was at the time Sheriff of Campbell county, if I mistake not,) to a dungeon there to be held in durance vile, till they disclosed the names of all those engaged in the plot to regain their freedom.

Helm was a fleshy man and from some cause could not get his breath in the dark, deep hole in the ground, and narrow limits in which he was confined and the authorities were forced to remove him in an hour or so, or death would certainly have resulted; but O'Hara stood it bravely and without a murmur for days and nights, till finally he was returned to prison from which he had unceremoniously took his departure, leaving the authorities in hopeless ignorance who were the leaders or instrumental in the attempted escape.

In this connection it may be proper to state that the watch and money were never returned, although the military authorities were advised of the fact by the Democratic papers of Columbus, that the whole thing was gotten up by a Captain in the Federal army, dressed in the uniform of a private soldier.

The only survivor of this gallant and fearless little band of Kentuckians, so far as the writer knows, is Judge James O'Hara, the eminent lawyer of Covington, who has passed his three score years and ten. McManama, Helm and Herndon have passed over the river and spread their phantom tents on the other shore, but more genial spirits, never enlivened the monotony of prison life than they.

The Ohio Valley Bimetallic League was organized in Cincinnati, last week.

Pith of the Press.

It seems that Gen. Foraker was unable to force a passage across Field Marshal Hanna's trocha.—Chicago Record.

Hanna will not trust Kurtz and Foraker will not trust Dick. And yet all is harmony. Isn't it wonderful?—Enquirer.

Mark Hanna should call off lynchings in Ohio, as the indications are that he will need every voter in the fall.—Chicago Record.

It's going to be a revenue tariff, all right, but it doesn't appear that Uncle Sam will get much of the revenue.—Washington Post.

For governor, Windy Bill Lyons, of Campbell; for lieutenant-governor, the Crested Jayhawk of the Mountains.—Commonwealth.

That poor little kitten, Hawaii, which the naughty terrier, Jap, was worrying, has taken refuge in the nest of the American eagle.—Detroit News

Mr. Hanna will doubtless discover that there is a vast difference between managing a tidal wave and directing a bucking off year.—Washington Post.

By his landing of the Ohio situation, Mr. Hanna evidently means to back up his assertion that Platt and Quay are mere babes in politics.—Detroit News.

The notion that the President was going to spend the heated term at Cherry Farm probably grew out ot the recent visit of the Cherry Sisters.—Washington Post.

A few more one-eyed Senators might be of advantage to the country. Senator Tillman's mistortune seems to compel him to look things in the face.—Detroit Tribune.

Mr. Foraker is going to Ohio to make a Fourth of July oration. Mark Hanna will probably go along so as to see just where the stick comes down.—N. Y. Journal.

Hanna is having a hard fight for re-election as Senator, and the announcement that he has cut the wages of his miners seems to show who will pay the costs.—Philadelphia Item.

Ex-President Cleveland has been made Doctor of laws. He did not secure his diploma early enough to enable him to effect any brilliant cures in national legislation.—Washington Star.

The Ohio Democrats continue to announce their candidates for Governor in a manner calculated to convince the country that they are sitting on the shady side of a certified check.—Washington Post.

"In Georgia it costs $5 to kiss a pretty girl, and in Pennsylvania $15 for hugging a widow," remarks an exchange. Pennsylvania bachelors will soon be marching through Georgia.—Chicago Dispatch.

The Atchison women are very indignant because a man was married the other day whose wife had been dead only three months. What's the difference? His first wife is as dead as she will ever be.—Atchison Globe.

If the Hon. John Riley Tanner does not find it convenient to go to the Mammoth Cave there are some 2,000,000 willing people who will work overtime to bring the Mammoth Cave to the Hon. John Riley Tanner.—Chicago News.

The fact that John Sherman has seen fit to reverse himself on the annexation policy will in no manner affect the Hawaiian matter. John has reversed himself on too many public questions to render his performances in that line either remarkable or effective.—N. Y. Journal.

Hon. Richard P. Ernst has traveled 30,000 miles by rail during the last 60 days in a determined effort to satisfy every Republican in the Sixth District of Kentucky who wants a Federal office. This is one of the unpleasant features of being Department Dictator of Jobs under the McKinley administration.—Ky. Post.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

County Judge—Benjamin Stephens.
County Clerk—S. W. Adams.
County Attorney—J. M. Lassing.
Sheriff—C. C. Roberts.
Jailer—C. L. Crisler.
Assessor—H. A. Brady.
Coroner—A. A. Murat.
Superintendent Schools—L. H. Voshell.
Surveyor—W. E. Vest.

RAILROAD COMMISSION:
John C. Wood, Chairman; J. F. Dempsey, H. S. Irwin. Secretary—Samuel Brown.

CIRCUIT COURT.
Judge—John W. Green.
Clerk—J. W. Duncan.
Commonwealth's Attorney—M. D. Gray.
Master Commissioner—J. B. Berkshire.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.
Courts are held in the months of March, June, September and December, as follows:
District No. 1.—O. W. Gaines, fourth Saturday; J. B. Crigler, Constable.
District No. 2.—M. B. Green, first Saturday; Jake Cook, Constable.
District No. 3.—R. E. Roberts, wednesday after third Monday; T. M. Rich, Constable.
District No. 4.—H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday; Add Riddell, Constable.
District No. 5.—T. E. Roberts, fourth Monday; J. H. watson, Constable.
District No. 6.—Joseph Wagstaff, third Saturday; Simeon Tanner, Constable.

STATE DIRECTORY.

Governnr—W. O. Bradley.
Lieutenant Governor—W. J. Worthington.
Secretary of State—Charles Finley.
Assistant Secretary of Nate—E. D. Guffy.
Attorney General—W. S. Taylor.
Auditor—Samuel H. Stone.
Assistant Auditor—Frank Johnson.
Treasurer—George W. Long.
Sup't of Public Instruction—Geo. M. Davidson.
Register Land Office—Charles O. Reynolds.
Deputies—Stanley D. Brown, Sam S. Shepherd.
Insurance Commissioner—D. M. Camingore.
Adjutant General—D. R. Collier.
Assistant—Walter Forrester.
Supt. Arsenal—Capt. David O'Connell.
State Inspector—C. W. Lester
Commissioner Agriculture—Lucas Moore.

COURT OF APPEALS.
Chief Justice—W. S. Pryor. Judges—Geo. Durelle, J. R. Grace, T. H. Paynter, B. L. D. Guffy, J. H. Hazelrigg, J. H. Lewis.
Reporter—E. W. Hines. Clerk—A. Adams.
Sergeant—W. S. B. Hill. Tipstaff—C. C. Turner.
Librarian—Mrs. Mary Brown Duy.
Inspector of Mines—C. J. Norwood.

STATE PRISON OFFICIALS:
Frankfort Prison—Warden, Henry George; Deputy Warden, M. A. Rooney.
Eddyville Prison—Warden, L. C. Curry; Deputy Warden, Ward Linn.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

FOURTH YEAR.
OF WALTON ACADEMY,
—opens—
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897
At Walton, Ky.
Three Courses of Study to choose from:
English, Scientific or Classical,
Tuition per month,...$2.50 and $3.00
Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.
We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for 5 days.
Thorough, Substantial Work
Guaranteed.
Teachers { Mrs. S. H. Myers. Chas F. Prior. Rev. S. H. Myers.
Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
N. S. WATON, President, Union, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
Executive Board—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. Cowen, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. Rogers, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.
All persons indebted to the estate of Woodford Carpenter, deceased, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.
Lewis Rice, Adm'r.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Burlington, Ky.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collectinns entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING, N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Mouday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. Vest. B. L. Rice.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. Vest, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 8,000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

A. P. WALTON,
DENTIST.
121 Garfield Place,
Cincinnati. - - Ohio.
First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE HEROES OF '76

WHAT true American to-day
Feels not the blood leap in his veins
As stirring scenes of '76
Are brought to mind, though peace now reigns
Where o'er a hundred years ago
The Briton came in fierce array
And strove this land of ours to hold
'Neath England's hard, relentless sway.

But surely 'twas not thus to be;
A higher Power ruled over all;
And out of war's grim, wrinkled front
We merged, despite its gloomy pall,
As gallant freemen fought for right,
And Wisdom's all far-seeing eye
Beheld a future for our land
For which the patriot dared to die.

Their precious blood was freely given,
Upon their country's altar shed;
And now we glory in the deeds
Of our departed, honored dead.
To Washington, the great and true,
And all his brave, victorious host,
We homage pay with glad acclaim,
And in their memory make our boast.

Thus on this day of all the year
Columbia's brightest stars may shine
To tell of Independence won,
While low we bow at Freedom's shrine.
And as the rolling years go by,
And added glory crowns our land,
Still brighter may their memory grow
Who first for Freedom's holy band.
—R. E. De Reef, in N. Y. Ledger.

HIS FIRST BALLOON TRIP.

WHAT was your first experience in sky-scraping?" I said to my companion, as we settled down in our seats in the railway car, on our way back to W——.

"Let me hear about that first trip, for I've a notion that there is a good story attached to it."

My seatmate was "Prof." Raymond, the aeronaut. He had made a Fourth of July ascension that afternoon from W——, and I had gone up with him in my capacity as reporter on the W—— Daily Tribune.

We had landed uneventfully in a turnip field, about 30 miles away, and had packed up the balloon and its "fixings" just in season to catch the evening train for the city.

"Well," said Mr. Raymond, "there was a story attached to that first balloon ride of mine, thirty-odd years ago; but I don't tell it very often, for the reason that, even after all these years, it brings back some of the sensations that I experienced at that time—experiences that you will soon see were not particularly agreeable while I was undergoing them.

"My father and mother both died before I was 12 years old, so that I was thrown entirely upon my own resources. Even at that early age I began to 'hire out' for various kinds of service in my native town in New Hampshire, where I worked in this way until I was 15 years of age.

"I had been working in a sawmill the year that I was 15, and my time expired the third day of July, and, though I expected to hire out again at the same place, it pleased my fancy to take a well-earned holiday on the Fourth, when I could feel myself entirely my own master. It would be time enough, I thought, to hire out again when the holiday was over.

"There was to be a celebration in a neighboring town, with a balloon ascension, races and all the other attractions that are usual on such occasions, with a 'grand display of fireworks in the evening.'

"The balloon ascension had special attractions for me, as I had never seen anything of the kind, and I was up early on the morning of the Fourth, and, setting out for town before six o'clock, resolved to take in the whole affair, from the early parade of Antiques and Horribles to the last rocket that should be fired in the evening. I had earned a holiday by hard work, and had good right to feel light-hearted.

"I don't think that anything in the way of entertainment escaped me that day. I was unused to the sights and sounds of Fourth of July celebrations, and I drank in everything with the keen enjoyment of boyhood, with an especially keen enjoyment, probably, because of the plodding, uneventful life I had been leading so long.

"The Antiques and Horribles were properly appreciated. The efforts of those who tried to reach the five-dollar gold piece, said to be reposing on the top of a very greasy pole, were greatly enjoyed, as were also the efforts of certain men and boys to possess themselves of a fat young porker, whose entire surface was in the same slippery condition as the pole with the five dollars atop.

"There was a contest of fire engines, or 'tubs,' as they were called, manned by red-shirted young fellows from several neighboring towns. There were foot races, sack races, and a ball game upon the common; a boat race upon the river, and then the great balloon ascension.

"It was about two o'clock in the afternoon that the crowd began to gather around the big balloon that was slowly being filled with hot air. Such balloons stay up only a half-hour or so, and land not far away from the point where they go up, unless the wind is blowing hard. This was one of the largest of the hot-air balloons then in use, and it took some time to fill it from the mouth of an oven-like affair that set above a trench, in which a big fire was snapping and roaring, fed by pitch wood and oil soaked barrel staves.

"The drag-rope was lying coiled upon the ground, and the balloon was held down by stout ropes carried out on all sides.

"As the huge affair got larger and larger and began to tug vigorously on the ropes, we boys who were looking on got more and more excited, and when they began to get the basket ready to fasten under the balloon, we had crowded up pretty close to the great swaying air ship.

"'Now, boys, keep back,' said the aeronaut, as he came into the circle to make everything ready; 'keep back, or some of you will get hurt, with this basket thrashing about here;' for by this time the basket had been fastened on and the balloon was filled out nearly full.

"The balloonist threw into the basket several bundles of circulars which he was going to throw out, handful by handful, as he rose through the air, the proprietors of various stores in the town having taken this then original method of distributing their circulars and dodgers.

"Everything was now ready. The hot air had been shut off, the mouth of the balloon had been closed, and the balloonist had arranged his circulars ready to throw out, a dozen or so at a time, as he went up.

"'Let go the ropes!' he shouted.

"And the great sphere shot up into the air, with white paper fluttering out from it on all sides.

"I could never tell exactly how it happened," continued my seatmate, "but I suppose it was a mixture of boyish curiosity and a sudden pressure from behind, as the crowd surged forward; but I know that I suddenly stumbled forward and fell upon the coil of drag rope that was being rapidly taken up. In falling, my foot in some way became entangled in a rope, so that a loop in it caught me by one ankle, and quick as a flash I was going up into the air at the rate of a mile a minute, hanging head downward, while a great cry of horror was sent after me by the people below.

"You may be sure that no more surprised boy ever left terra-firma than I was, when I saw the earth suddenly dropping away from me, as it seemed.

"Fortunately, I did not 'lose my head,' though the position was certainly favorable for such a result. Instinctively I grasped the rope that was hanging down beside me and hung on for dear life.

HIS FIRST ASCENSION.

"The aeronaut above me apparently knew nothing of what was going on below his car, for the dry-goods and house-furnishing circulars continued to flutter down past me in undiminished quantities.

"He had doubtless heard a great cry from the crowd, but interpreted it probably as occasioned by the sight of a balloon ascension, which was then more of a novelty in that region than it would be to-day.

"After a minute I was able to get my foot out of the loop in which it had caught, and so to let myself down into an upright position. The balloon was rising steadily, and there was no more jerking and apparent motion to the rope than there would have been had it been suspended from a high beam in a barn, and this alone made it possible for me to cling to it.

"I now found that I could twist one leg around the rope, and by resting one foot on the rope where it crossed the other foot, I could very nearly remove the weight from my hands, which was a great relief. I knew then that I had a chance to get out of the fix I was in, for I could now alternately rest my hands and my feet.

"Reassured by this, I looked up at the balloon above me, and conceived the idea of climbing up to it, for, like most country boys, I was expert at climbing.

"The rope had caught me before half of it had been taken up from the ground, so that the distance up to the car was much less than it might have been. I found no very great difficulty in gradually climbing up to a position under the car, stopping very often to rest.

"It has always seemed strange to me that the man above didn't discover meanwhile that he had a boy 'hanging on behind,' but it ran perhaps be explained by the fact that he was an old hand at the business, and, as sailing through the air was no novelty to him, he didn't spend any time looking at the scenery below.

"He sat there in the middle of the car, calmly tossing out circulars and smoking his pipe, while I climbed up toward him so cautiously that I presume I didn't jerk the rope a bit. I wonder that I hadn't shouted to him at the very first, but it didn't enter my head for me to do anything but hang on and climb.

"When I had slowly climbed up well under the car, without thinking what the effect would be I shouted 'Hallo!' and the next instant was almost jerked off the rope, for the balloonist gave a jump that very nearly upset the car, and when I caught sight of his face, after he had turned around two or three times, trying in a dazed sort of way to find out where the voice came from, it was as white as a sheet. He looked cautiously over the edge of the basket.

"'How in the name of—,' he began, but suddenly cut it short. 'Hold on a minute longer!' he shouted.

"And in a twinkling he had made a noose in the end of a piece of rope that was lying in the car, and had passed it down, noose end first, through the wicker-work bottom of the basket.

"'Put one foot into the loop,' he called out, 'and I will tie the other end of the rope here, to support your weight. That will take the strain off your hands till I can get you into the car.'

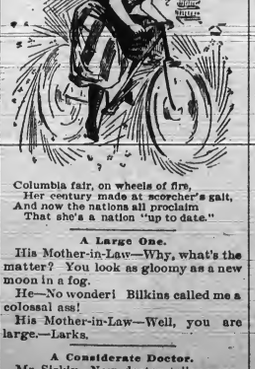
"It was a great relief to have the strain of my weight taken off my hands and feet. With one foot in the loop I could hang on very comfortably. But then a serious question arose. How was I to get into the basket? An attempt to climb up over the side might upset that frail affair.

"'Wait a minute,' called out the aeronaut. 'I'll cut out two of the [illegible] of the basket, right here in the bottom, and then, by springing the next one on each side back a little, I guess you can crawl up through,' and this was done a moment later.

"I can tell you I was glad when I found myself sitting in the bottom of the basket resting.

"'How long has it been since we left the ground?' I asked.

"The aeronaut looked at his watch.



"'Just five minutes,' he said.

"'A good deal can happen in five minutes.

"'That,' continued my companion, 'was the way I came to be an aeronaut.'

"The affair created a great sensation, and I was talked about far and wide. The owner of the hot-air balloon was shrewd enough to see that there was money to be made out of so much free advertising, and he made me a handsome offer to make the ascensions with him, and I promptly accepted the offer. I was greatly interested in my new work, and gradually begun to add some 'attractions,' such as performing on the trapeze bar as the ascension was made, and then parachute leaps from the balloon, high in air. But I never attempted any such 'attraction' as was exhibited when I went up hanging by one foot to the drag-rope."—Webb Donnell, in Golden Days.

JULY 4, 1897.

Columbia fair, on wheels of fire,
Her century made at scorcher's gait,
And now the nations all proclaim
That she's a nation "up to date."

A Large One.

His Mother-in-Law—Why, what's the matter? You look as gloomy as a new moon in a fog.

He—No wonder! Bilkins called me a colossal ass!

His Mother-in-Law—Well, you are large.—Larks.

A Considerate Doctor.

Mr. Sickly—Now, doctor, tell me, candidly, in what condition do you find my lungs?

Dr. Soonover—They are in pretty bad shape, but there is no danger of their not lasting as long as you live.—N. Y. World.

LEGAL PROFESSION.

Temptations That Beset Lawyers and Their Opportunities for Good.

Dr. Talmage Talks to the Attorneys—He Combats the Prejudice Long Held Against Them—Would Rather Be Tried by a Jury of Lawyers Than by Clergymen.

Dr. Talmage's sermon Sunday has a special interest for lawyers, and all who expect to be lawyers, and all who are the friends of lawyers. His text was Titus iii, 13: "Bring Zenas the lawyer."

The profession of the law is here introduced, and within two days in the capital city 303 young men joined it, and at this season in various parts of the land other hundreds are taking their diplomas for that illustrious profession, and is it not appropriate that I address such young men from a moral standpoint, as upon them are now rolling the responsibilities of that calling represented in the text by Zenas the lawyer.

We all admire the heroic and rigorous side of Paul's nature, as when he stands coolly deliberate on the deck of the corn ship while the jack tars of the Mediterranean are cowering in the cyclone, as when he stands undaunted amid the marbles of the palace, before thick-necked Nero, surrounded with his 12 cruel lictors; as when we find him earning his livelihood with his own needle, sewing hair cloth and preaching the Gospel in the intersices; as when we find him able to take 39 lashes, every stroke of which fetched the blood, yet continuing in his missionary work; as when we find him, regardless of the consequence to himself, delivering a temperance lecture to Felix, the government inebriate. But sometimes we catch a glimpse of the mild and genial side of Paul's nature. It seems that he had a friend who was a barrister by profession. His name was Zenas, and he wanted to see him. Perhaps he had formed the acquaintance of this lawyer in the courtroom. Perhaps, sometimes, when he wanted to ask some question in regard to Roman law, he went to this Zenas, the lawyer. At any rate, he had a warm attachment for the man, and he had a warm attachment for the man, and he provides for his comfortable escort and entertainment as he writes to Titus: "Bring Zenas the lawyer."

This man of my text belonged to a profession in which are many ardent supporters of Christ and the gospel. Among them, Blackstone, the great commentator on English law; and Wilberforce, the emancipator; and the late Benjamin F. Butler, attorney general of New York; and the late Charles Chauncey, the leader of the Philadelphia bar; and Chief Justice Marshall, and Tenterden, and Campbell, and Sir Thomas More, who died for the truth on the scaffold, saying to his aghast executioner: "Pluck up courage, man, and do your duty; my neck is very short; be careful, therefore, and do not strike awry."

Among the mightiest pleas that ever have been made by tongue of barrister have been pleas in behalf of the Bible and Christianity. [illegible] ster stood in the supreme court at Washington, pleading in the famous Girard will case, denouncing any attempt to educate the people without giving them at the same time moral sentiment, as "low, ribald and vulgar deism and infidelity;" as when Samuel L. Southard, of New Jersey, the leader of the forum in his day, stood on the platform at Princeton college commencement, advocating the literary excellence of the Scriptures; as when Edmund Burke, in the famous trial of Warren Hastings, not only in behalf of the English government, but in behalf of elevated morals, closed his speech in the midst of the most august assemblage ever gathered in Westminster hall, by saying: "I impeach Warren Hastings in the name of the house of commons, whose national character he has dishonored; I impeach him in the name of the people of India, whose rights and liberties he has subverted; I impeach him in the name of human nature, which he has disgraced; in the name of both sexes, and of every rank, and of every station, and of every situation in the world, I impeach Warren Hastings."

Yet notwithstanding all the plans which that profession has made in behalf of God, and the church and the Gospel, and the rights of man, there has come down through the generations among many people an absurd and wicked prejudice against it. So long ago as in the time of Oliver Cromwell it was decided that lawyers might not enter the parliament house as members, and they were called "Sons of Zeruiah." The learned Dr. Johnson wrote an epitaph for one of them in these words:

God works wonders now and then,
Here lies a lawyer, an honest man.

Two hundred years ago a treatise was issued with the title: "Doomsday Approaching With Thunder and Lightning for Lawyers." A prominent clergyman of the last century wrote in regard to that profession these words: "There is a society of men among us bred up from their youth in the art of praying, according as they are paid, by words multiplied for the purpose, that white is black and black is white.

"For example: If my neighbor has a mind to my cow, he hires a lawyer to prove that he ought to have my cow from me. I must hire another lawyer to defend my right, it being against all rules of law that a man should speak for himself. In pleading they do not dwell upon the merits of the cause, but upon circumstances foreign thereto. For instance, they do not take the shortest method to know what title my adversary has to my cow, but whether the cow be red of black, her horns long or short, or the like. After that they adjourn the cause from time to time, and in 20 years they come to an issue. This society likewise has a peculiar cant or jargon of their own, in which they take especial care to multiply whereby they have so confounded truth and falsehood that it will take 13 years to decide whether the field left to me by ancestors for six generations belongs to me, or to one 300 miles off."

I say these things to show you that there has been prejudice going on down against that profession from generation to generation. I account for it on the ground that they compel men to pay debts that they do not want to pay, and that they arraign criminals who want to escape the consequences of their crime; and as long as that is so, and it always will be so, just so long there will be classes of men who will affect at any rate, to despise the legal profession. I know not how it is in other countries, but I have had long and wide acquaintance with men of that profession—I have found them in all my parishes—I tarried in one of their offices for three years, where there came real estate lawyers, insurance lawyers, criminal lawyers, marine lawyers, and I have yet to find a class of men more genial or more straightforward. There are in that occupation, as in all other occupations, men utterly obnoxious to God and man; but if I were on trial for my integrity or my life, and I wanted even-handed justice administered to me, I would rather have my case submitted to a jury of 12 lawyers than to a jury of 12 clergymen. The legal profession, I believe, have less violence of prejudice than is to be found in the sacred calling.

There is, however, no man who has more temptations or graver responsabilities than the barrister, and he who attempts to discharge the duties of his position with only worldly resources, is making a very great mistake. Witness the scores of men who have in that profession made eternal shipwreck. Witness the men who, with the law of the land under their arm, have violated every statute of the eternal God. Witness the men who have argued placidly before earthly tribunals, who shall shiver in dismay before the Judge of quick and dead. Witness Lord Thurlow, announcing his loyalty to earthly government in the sentence: "If I forget my earthly sovereign, may God forget me," and yet stooping to unaccountable meanness. Witness Lord Coke, the learned and the reckless. Witness Sir George McKenzie, the execrated of all Scotch Covenanters, so that until this day, in Gray Friars' church yard, Edinburgh, the children whistle through the bars of the tomb crying: "Bloody Mackenzie, come out if you daur, Lift the sneck and draw the bar."

No other profession more needs the grace of God to deliver them in their temptations, to comfort them in their trials, to sustain them in their discharge of their duty. While I would have you bring the merchant to Christ, and while I would have you bring the farmer to Christ, and while I would have you bring the mechanic to Christ, I address you in the words of Paul to Titus,: "Bring Zenas, the lawyer." By so much as his duties are delicate and great, by so much does he need Christian stimulus and safeguard. We all become clients. I do not suppose there is a man 50 years of age, who has been in active life, who has not been afflicted with a lawsuit. Your name is assaulted and you must have legal protection. Your boundary line is invaded and the courts must re-establish it. Your patent is infringed upon and you must make the offending manufacturer pay the penalty. Your treasures are taken and the thief must be apprehended: You want to make your will, and you do not want to follow the example of those who, for the sake of saving $100 from an attorney, imperil $250,000, and keep the generation following for 20 years quarreling about the estate, until it is all exhausted. You are struck at by an assassin, and you must invoke for him the penitentiary. All classes of persons in course of time become clients, and therefore they are all interested in the morality and the Christian integrity of the legal profession. "Bring Zenas the lawyer."

But how is an attorney to decide as to what are the principles by which he should conduct himself in regard to his clients? On one extreme, Lord Brougham will appear saying: "The innocence or guilt of your client is nothing to you. You are to save your client regardless of the torment, the suffering the destruction of all others. You are to know but one man in the world—your client. You are to save him though you should bring your country into confusion. At all hazards you must save your client." So says Lord Brougham. But no right-minded lawyer could adopt that sentiment. On the other extreme, Cicero will come to you and say: "You must never plead the cause of a bad man," forgetful of the fact that the greatest villain on earth ought to have a fair trial and that an attorney can not be judge and advocate at the same time. It was grand when Lord Erskine sacrificed his attorney-generalship for the sake of defending Thomas Paine in his publication of his book called "The Right of Man," while at the same time he, the advocate, abhorred Thomas Paine's irreligious sentiments. Between these two opposite theories of what is right, what shall the attorney do? God alone can direct him. To that chancery he must be appellant, and he will get an answer in an hour. Blessed is that attorney between whose office and the throne of God there is perpetual, reverential and prayerful communication. That attorney will never make an irreparable mistake. True to the habits of your profession, you say: "Cite us some authority on the subject." "Well, I quote to you the decision of the supreme court of Heaven: "If any lack wisdom let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberty and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him."

What a scene is the office of a busy attorney! In addition to the men who come to you from right motives, bad men will come to you. They will offer you a large fee for counsel in the wrong direction. They want to know from you how they can escape from solemn marital obligation. They come to you wanting to know how they can make the insurance company pay for a destroyed house which they burned down with their own hands. Or they come to you on the simple errand of wanting to escape payment of their honest debts. Now, it is no easy thing to advise settlement, when, by urging litigation, you could strike a mine of remuneration. It is not a very easy thing to dampen the ardor of a inflamed contestant, when you know through a prolonged lawsuit you could get whatever you asked. It is no easy thing to attempt to discourage the suit for the breaking of a will in the surrogate's court, because you know the testator was of sound mind and body when he signed the document. It requires no small heroism to do as I once heard an attorney do in an office in a western city. I overheard the conversation, when he said: "Now, you can go on with this lawsuit, and I will see you through as well as I can, but I want to tell you before you start that a lawsuit is equal to a fire." Under the tremendous temptations that come upon the legal profession there are scores of men who have gone down, and some of them, from being the pride of the highest tribunal of the state, have become a disgrace to the Tombs courtroom. Every attorney, in addition to the innate sense of right, wants the sustaining power of the old-fashioned religion of Jesus Christ. "Bring Zenas, the lawyer."

There are two or three forms of temptation to which the legal profession is especially subject. The first of all is skepticism. Controversy is the lifetime business of that occupation. Controversy may be incidental or accidental with us, but with you it is perpetual. You get so used to pushing the sharp question "Why?" and making unaided reason superior to the emotions that the religion of Jesus Christ, which is a simple matter of faith, and above human reason, although not contrary to it, has but little chance with some of you. A brilliant orator wrote a book, on the first page of which he announced this sentiment: "An honest God is the noblest work of man."

Skepticism is the mightest temptation the legal profession, and that man who can stand in that profession, resisting all solicitations to infidelity and can be as brave as George Briggs, of Massachusetts, who stepped from the gubernatorial chair to the missionary convention, to plead the cause of a dying race; then on his way home from the convention, on a cold day, took off his warm cloak and threw it over the shoulders of a thinly clad missionary, saying: "Take that and wear it, it will do you more good than it will me," or, like Judge John McLean, who can step from the supreme court room of the United States on to the anniversary platform of the American Sunday school union its most powerful orator—deserves congratulation and encomium. O men of the legal profession, let me beg of you to quit asking questions in regard to religion and begin believing. The mighty men of your profession, Story, and Kent, and Mansfield, became Christians, not through their heads, but through their hearts. "Except ye become as a little child, ye shall in no wise enter the kingdom of God." If you do not become a Christian, O man of the legal profession, until you can reason this whole thing out in regard to God and Christ, and the immortality of the soul, you will never become a Christian at all. Only believe. "Bring Zenas the lawyer."

Another mighty temptation for the legal profession is Sabbath breaking. The trial has been going on for 10 or 15 days. The evidence is all it. It is Saturday night. The judge's gavel falls on the desk and he says: "Crier, adjourn the court until 10 o'clock Monday morning." On Monday morning the counselor is to sum up the close. Thousands of dollars, yea, the reputation and life of his client may depend upon the success of his plea. How will he spend the intervening Sunday? There is not one lawyer out of a hundred that can withstand the temptation to break the Lord's day under such circumstances. And yet, if he does, he hurts his own soul. What, my brother, you can not do before 12 o'clock Saturday night or after 12 o'clock Sunday night God does not want you to do at all. Besides that, you want the 24 hours of Sabbath rest to give you that electrical and magnetic force which will be worth more to you before the jury than all the elaboration of your case on the sacred day. My intimate and lamented friend, the late Judge Neilson, in his interesting reminiscences of Rufus Choate, says that during the last case that gentleman tried in New York the court adjourned from Friday until Monday on account of the illness of Mr. Choate, but the chronicler says that on the intervening Sabbath he saw Mr. Choate in the old "Brick Church," listening to Rev. Gardiner Spring. I do not know whether, on the following day, Rufus Choate won his cause or lost it, but I do know that his Sabbatic rest did not do him any harm.

Every lawyer is entitled to one day's rest out of seven. If he surrenders that he robs three—God, his own soul and his client. Lord Castlereagh and Sir Thomas Romily were the leaders of the bar in their day. They both died suicides. Wilberforce accounts for the aberration of intellect on the ground that they were unremitent in their work, and they never rested on Sunday. "Poor fellow!" said Wilberforce in regard to Castlereagh. "Poor fellow! It was nonobservance of the Sabbath." Chief Justice Hale says: "When I do not properly keep the Lord's day, all the rest of the week is unhappy and unsuccessful in my worldly employment." I quote to-day from the highest Statute Book in the universe: "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." The legal gentleman who breaks that statute may seem for a while to be advantaged, but in the long run the men who observe this law of God will have larger retainers, vaster influence, greater professional success than those who break the statute. Observance of the law of God pays not only spiritually and eternally, but it pays in hard dollars or bank bills.

SECRETARY SHERMAN SHIFTS.

Some Significant Signs in the Hawaiian Plot.

Secretary Sherman's friends will have harder work defending his complete change of opinion embodied in the signature of the Hawaiian treaty of annexation than has been caused by any change he has made in the whole course of his shifty career.

When the question of annexation came up in connection with the selection of Sherman for the secretaryship of state the Republic quoted his utterance in his volume of recollections, in which he declared that if his life was prolonged he would do all he could to add to the strength and prosperity of the United States, "but nothing to extend its limits and add new dangers by the acquisition of foreign territory."

It is urged in justification of changes of mind on the part of statesmen that new situations and political necessities or circumstances arise to force them to a change of course and the adoption of new lines of policy. In politics, as in war, the clash of forces continually changes the situation and compels the correction of plans to meet them. But this plea cannot be urged in behalf of Mr. Sherman's present change. There is no change of situation in the case of Hawaii which cannot be met on the lines of our traditional policy and the principle laid down in the deliberate conclusion to which Mr. Sherman arrived in the calm reflection of his old age.

Arguments advanced in favor of the annexation of the islands are remarkable chiefly for their flimsiness. It is urged that it is necessary to annex Hawaii to prevent the seizure or oppression of the little country by another nation. What absurdity! We were not compelled to annex Venezuela in order to prevent England from seizing the territory or oppressing that country. We assure the independence of every republic on this continent without a thought of annexation. We sustain the Monroe doctrine, and we can maintain the independence of Hawaii and protect her rights without the establishment of a formal protectorate or the annexation of the territory. We can assure them self-government in peace without assuming any of the responsibilities of government or departing a hairbreadth from the safe and sound policy of avoiding territorial extension or foreign entanglements. We have only to announce the policy to have it respected by the nations of the civilized world.

By implication Mr. Sherman clearly and strongly conveys the conviction that the extension of our limits is bad policy and tends to weaken the nation, and that new dangers would be involved in the acquisition of foreign territory. What compensation would we get for thus embarking in a new and dangerous political enterprise in opposition to all our past tried policy? We would get a fresh debt, a new and distant territory to defend and the responsibility for the government of a mongrel people with most undesirable elements. We get no material benefit not assured to us by treaty.

The fact is that several thousand Americans have seized Hawaii and do not know what to do with it or how to let go. Some millions of American money are invested in Hawaiian property and bonds and the men in possession of Hawaii want to shift their political troubles and the guardianship of their property to the shoulders of the United States. We are asked to abandon the proved wisdom of the fathers to lift them out of a hole, and we seem to be on the verge of yielding to the folly.—St. Louis Republic.

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

——It cannot be denied that he tariff bill is sugar-coated, but that is not going to make it easier to swallow. Quite the reverse.—Indianapolis News.

——When Mark Hanna turns patronage broker he is trafficking not only in offices which belong to the people, but in the personal honor of his principal, President McKinley.—N. Y. World.

——When the high protective tariff bill is passed and the price of favored products is raised we will see how little interest labor has in "protection." Labor has no sympathy from trusts and tariff-made monopolies, except just before election.—Columbus (O.) Press.

——The proposed annexation of Hawaii again raises the question of Secretary Sherman's retirement. The aged statesman has put up with some galling humiliations in his day, but it is hard to see how, in view of the concluding paragraph of his "Recollections," he can retain both his office and his self-respect.—Albany Argus.

——The sugar trust is the federal administration's "Simon." Simon says Cuba must not be recognized, "Thumbs up!" and Mr. McKinley's thumbs are elevated. The sugar trust wants Hawaii annexed, "Thumbs down!" and, lo, Mr. McKinley's thumbs drop down. The sugar trust is running the republican party and its president.—Illinois State Register.

——The president is doing what he can to amuse the people while the senate robs them of many millions. He first tried his jumping-jack bimetallic commission, which was really quite funny. He now means to give them Hawaii as a toy, filled with nice white lepers so very interesting and unique, and loaded with possibilities of foreign complications serious enough to turn their thoughts from measly tariff and financial questions.—Louisville Post.

——People may wrangle and experts be deluded, but there is one class of men in this country who know what the sugar schedule means. They are the Wall street operators. Within four hours after the sugar schedule was agreed upon by the trust and the republican senators sugar stock went up from 118 to 124, and later it was quoted at 126¼. Here is an increase of $6.12 a share, coincident with the report and action by the senate in adopting the rate agreed on.—Pittsburgh Post.

TRUSTY FRIENDS.

Republicans Who Help the Monopolies Through.

The republicans of the senate have given the best possible proof of their insincerity in professing to be hostile to trusts by rejecting the Pettigrew amendment putting on the free list foreign articles when the corresponding domestic articles are controlled by combinations.

The republicans passed the anti-trust law of 1890. The author of that law, John Sherman, had declared on the floor of the senate that he would vote to withdraw protection from producers who combined to stifle competition. He held to the republican theory that protection was a good thing for consumers in the long run, because it induced competition among home producers and thereby reduced prices below what they would be in the absence of protection. His attention was called to the fact that producers combined to destroy competition among one another, and extort up to the limit fixed by the duties. It was then that Sherman said he would vote to withdraw protection in such cases.

He did not do that, but he introduced his anti-trust bill, and his republican associates voted for it. By that act they publicly professed to be hostile to monopoly combinations. That law has been practically of no effect. And now the republicans deliberately refuse to reach the trusts in the only sure way—by denying them protection.

And they emphasized their refusal by tabling the Pettigrew amendment in connection with the sugar schedule, which their steering committee so framed that it sent up the diluted stock of the sugar trust five to ten points, to 126. And they do it in the face of the plainest possible demonstration that the trust absolutely stifles competition. They have not only the admission of the head of the trust before the Lexow committee, but they have also the seven identical bids submitted in response to an advertisement for sugar for the Indian reservations. In the face of this evident conspiracy to rob the government, the republicans vote down the Pettigrew amendment.

And, not content with that, they vote down in caucus an amendment offered by one of their own number, Senator Spooner, intended to compel the trust to dispose of the enormous stock of sugar it has been importing in anticipation of higher duties at prices based on the present tariff. Not content with giving this great monopoly more protection, they deliberately assist it in benting the treasury and raking off millions of extra profit.

The republicans are exceedingly kind to the trusts, and especially to the sugar trust. And the only excuse they offered was that of Mr. Hoar, who said that the tariff bill was no place for such an amendment as that offered by Mr. Pettigrew, and besides it would enable any three men to put any article on the free list by organizing a bogus combination.

Obviously the tariff bill was the only proper place for the legislation proposed by Mr. Pettigrew. And not less obviously is it easy enough to distinguish between a genuine and a bogus trust. The Hoar excuse will not serve. —Chicago Chronicle.

AT THEIR OLD TRICKS.

Protectionists to Keep Up the Old Confidence Game.

The republicans have long been telling the farmer that it is their earnest desire to protect him, and they are always threatening to do it. Tariff after tariff has been made, and yet, preliminary to the making of every tariff, the farmer has been told that he must be protected. Tariff duties have been repeatedly socked on the farmer's products, and yet he has always been marked out for the considerate attention of the protectionists, just as if he had been hitherto overlooked. The same game is being played now. The farmer is again assured that he must be protected, the inference being, of course, that the tariff-makers forgot all about him the last time. He is to be made happy, therefore, too, by the slapping on of the same old tariff duties that have admittedly failed to constitute protection heretofore. And so it goes, and so it will keep on going. There is reason to think it anyway.

The other day it was proposed in the senate to pay a bounty on agricultural products. This would have meant protection; there is no doubt about that. All that the farmer needs is better prices for his products. He cannot get such prices under the protective system of import duties; because there is little or no competition from foreign agricultural products, and the home market is not equal to the absorption of his entire production. The proposed bounty would have been a good thing for him. It is the only thing, in fact, in the way of a government gift that could be helpful to him. Will he get it? Not much. The senate lost no time in rejecting the proposal. The protectionists are burning with a desire to do something for the farmer, but when the opportunity to help him is afforded them, they let it slip; they run away from it.

Perhaps, some day, the farmer's eyes will be opened to the sort of work the republican tariffites are giving him.—Exchange.

——In response to a widespread appeal for relief, the administration proposes to give the people a Sandwich. If this meant the sidetracking of the scheme of tariff robbery, all might be well, but it doesn't mean that. Nothing can alter the determination of those in power to turn the trust wolves loose on the helpless people.—Binghamton (N. Y.) Leader.

——Under the pending tariff bill the people will pay a bounty to the men who stumbled on land rich in lead deposits, but it will put a heavy burden on the men who are engaged in the business of smelting lead ore.—Kansas City Times.

ON THE FARM.

An estimate of the loss of the soluble portions of manure that is exposed to rains and the direct rays of the sun, if it could be made, would show that one-half of its value is lost by leeching, fire-fanging, etc.

In a dry season there is no fertilizer which produces better results with potatoes than wood ashes, notwithstanding the fact that ashes seem to dry themselves. Equally good results will follow when they are sprinkled on the strawberry bed.

The mistake of keeping and using crossbreed males aids materially in degenerating the hogs on many farms. The boar should be a thoroughbred, or there will be no uniformity in the offspring. There is little pleasure in raising mongrels.

It is claimed that the use of ensilage enables the dairyman to keep twice as many cows as when no ensilage is used. There is no crop so easily grown and at so small an outlay for labor as ensilage corn, and it not only provides a large addition to the bulky foods, but enables the dairyman to give succulent food in winter, thus keeping the animals in good condition.

Navy beans can be grown profitably, and they bring as good prices as any other crop. The heaviest yields are secured when they are carefully cultivated and grown on ground that has been well manured the previous year. The harvesting of the crop is the critical work with them, as they are liable to damage if exposed to rains after harvesting them, but there is machinery now in use which lessens the labor and makes them as sure as any other crop.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

According to the experiments of M. Seguy and M. Quenisset the X-rays cause dangerous palpitations of the heart. The experiments were made on medical students and upon themselves, and M. Seguy and M. Quenisset describe the palpitations as violent and unendurable unless the rays were intercepted by a metallic plate.

Alaska, our remarkable outlying territory, is almost as large in area as the entire United States east of the Mississippi. It is rich in mineral wealth, and has already yielded many times its cost in the precious and other metals. Every year its value to the United States is increasing, and yet it is entirely isolated from the rest of our territory—just as Cuba would be were we to acquire it.

"Alcohol," said M. Martindale, in a paper read recently before the Pharmaceutical society, "is not a germicide. When present to the extent of 20 per cent, by volume of absolute alcohol, it has an inhibitory effect on the germination of most of the micro-organisms occurring in aqueous solutions of vegetables and animal substances; but the germs propagate readily as it evaporates."

Naturalists consider it a wonderful fact that the Bermuda islands have only seven native species of land birds, while no less than 128 species pay visits to the islands. Many of these visitors are birds which pass the summer in the United States, and utilize the Bermuda islands as a convenient winter resort, thus imitating some of their human compatriots. Even some American bats follow the example of the birds by wintering in the Bermudas.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

The American Queen for June is a recreation number and has several stunning pictures of noted New York women prominent in various sports.

Every Month has a fascinating array of pictures of pretty women, famous people, literary gossip and good photographs. There is also music to be found for the looking.

The Month has a tempting lot of gossip about people who write books, their latest works and peculiarities. Edith Thomas' poem is especially good and the large number of portraits adds to the value of the issue.

Mr. Richard Harding Davis' first novel, "Soldiers of Fortune," just published by Scribner's, was in its second edition over a week before it appeared, the advance orders speedily exhausting the first edition of 15,000 copies.

THE MARKETS.

	CINCINNATI, June 28.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 25	@	$ 3 00
Select butchers	4 00	@	4 35
CALVES—Fair to good light	6 00	@	6 75
HOGS—Common	2 90	@	3 50
Mixed packers	3 45	@	3 50
Light shippers	3 45	@	3 55
SHEEP—Choice	2 65	@	3 15
LAMBS—Spring	5 10	@	5 25
FLOUR—Winter family	4 25	@	5 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	89
No. 3 red		@	75
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	26½
Oats—No. 2		@	21
Rye—No. 1		@	38
HAY—Prime to choice		@	10 25
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@	8 87½
Lard—Prime steam		@	3 75
BUTTER—Choice dairy		@	8
Prime to choice creamery		@	16½
APPLES—Per bbl	1 50	@	2 50
POTATOES—Per bbl	90	@	1 00
	NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 40	@	4 70
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 1 north n.		@	78
No. 2 red		@	77
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@	29½
OATS—Mixed		@	22½
PORK—New mess	8 25	@	8 75
LARD—Western		@	4 10
	CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 20	@	4 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	75¾	@	81¾
No. 2 Chicago spring		@	77¾
CORN—No. 2		@	25¾
OATS—No. 2		@	18¾
PORK—Mess	7 85	@	7 90
LARD—Steam		@	3 83½
	BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	4 00	@	4 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@	73
Corn—Mixed	28¾	@	28¾
Oats—No. 2 white	26½	@	26
LARD—Refined		@	11 50
PORK—Mess		@	16 50
CATTLE—First quality	4 10	@	4 40
HOGS—Western	4 10	@	4 15
	INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@	70
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	24
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@	18¼
	LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 75	@	4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	81
Corn—Mixed	26	@	26¼
Oats—No. 2		@	20½
PORK—Mess		@	8 50
LARD—Steam		@	3 63½

HER LIFELIKE STATUE.

Signalized Her Departure from the World of Artists.

Before her marriage she had been a famous sculptress. She had made several portraits of well-known men, and everyone predicted for her a still more brilliant future, when she suddenly set all predictions at naught by marrying a wealthy man who disapproved of her keeping up her professional work. She was very quiet under this restriction, but was supposed to rebel inwardly. Therefore when, at a dinner party one evening, she asked her old friend, Gen. Bashar, to come and see her on the following evening and inspect her last piece of work, which she thought the best and most lifelike she had ever executed, he supposed he was to use his influence to prevail upon the husband to permit her to resume her place among the working fraternity of artists.

"I am sure you will like it, general," she said, with a winning smile. "It fairly lives and breathes. I confess I am in love with it myself."

On the appointed evening the general, with some misgivings over the delicacy of the task intrusted to him, presented himself. Instead of inviting him to the studio, his hostess, to his surprise, offered to bring her last bit to him.

"Oh, it's a nude statuette, is it?" he asked.

"Well, yes, you might call it so," she answered, as she went out of the room. In a few minutes she returned, bearing in her arms—a baby!—Chicago Times-Herald.

HEALTHY AT SEVENTY-TWO.

Mr. C. M. Higgins Passes the Three Score and Ten Mile-Post in Good Health.

For a Decade Previous, However, He was a Great Sufferer from Rheumatism. The Story of His Battle with It is of Interest.

From the Leader, Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. C. M. Higgins, of Collinwood, Ohio, one of the attractive eastern suburbs of Cleveland, is a retired and highly-respected citizen and has passed the threescore and ten milepost in the journey of life. He is in his 72d year. He, with his wife, lives at No. 277 Clark Ave.

Until two years ago Mr. Higgins had been a sufferer from rheumatism for ten years. Nearly every part of his body was affected, but especially his right side below the hip. He tried medicine to ease the pain, but to no avail. In the fall of 1894 he purchased two boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Mr. Higgins said:

"The pain was greatest in the fall, winter and spring, owing to the dampness, and my right leg and hip were helpless most of the time. I had to sit in an easy chair propped up with pillows, with my rheumatic limb resting on cushions on a rocking chair. Year after year I tried various remedies but to no avail, and as time passed my rheumatism continued to grow worse.

"My wife finally told me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She had read about them in the newspapers, and thought they would benefit me as they had others. So I sent over to Smith's drug store on Collamer St., and bought two boxes and they proved to be a most wonderful medicine.

"I had scarcely started to use them before I began to feel better. I found I could sleep well at night which I was unable to do before—and my appetite returned to me. I only used a few boxes and I was well. Not since the autumn of 1894 have I been troubled with rheumatism."

Mr. Higgins is one of the patriotic Americans who went to the front in the days of the rebellion, and is at present a member of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

A Setback.

"We hunted up that intellectual woman who invented the self-rocking cradle. We wanted to give her a vote of thanks."

"Well, how did she receive you?"

"The inventor turned out to be a man who wanted to get off to the baseball game."—Detroit Free Press.

Two Mighty Continents,

North and South America, beside Guatemala, the West Indies, Australia, and even Europe, are the fields of usefulness in which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has demonstrated its value as an antidote to malaria, and as a remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, neuralgia, biliousness, nervousness, and loss of appetite and sleep. The inhabitants, the medical men of these countries, have spoken in no uncertain tones concerning the efficacy of the great household remedy.

To live is to have justice, truth, reason, devotion, probity, sincerity, common sense, right and duty wedded into the heart. To live is to know what is worth—what one can do, and should do. Life is conscience.—Victor Hugo.

Between Seed Time and Harvest

is a good opportunity to enquire about farming lands in South Dakota, only one day's ride from Chicago. Bountiful crops of Wheat, Corn, Barley and Flax reward the tiller of the soil. As a stock and dairy country South Dakota leads all the world. First-class farm lands with nearby markets can now be bought for from $10, $12, $15, and upwards, per acre, and this is the time to invest. For further particulars write to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, Old Colony Building, Chicago, Ill.

From Shakespeare.

"Ball this evening, dear?" inquired Desdemona of Othello, when she saw him loading up his old revolver.

"No, not this evening, love; s'm'other evening," he replied, as he reached for the pillow, and wedged it softly down her oesophagus.—Up-to-Date.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous, hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Write to Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

Mrs. Isaacstein (engaging servant) — "I hope you haven't a young man?" Bridget —"Oh, no, mum; he's nearly 50!"—Tit-Bits.

"Star Tobacco."

As you chew tobacco for pleasure, use Star. It is not only the best, but the most lasting, and therefore the cheapest.

A man philosophizes better than a woman on the human heart, but she reads the hearts of men better than he.—Rousseau.

I can recommend Piso's Cure for Consumption to sufferers from Asthma.—E. D. Townsend, Ft. Howard, Wis., May 4, '94.

The architect of his own fortunes seldom tires of building extensions.—N. Y. Weekly.

SILENT SUFFERERS.

Women do not Like to Tell a Doctor the Details of Their Private Ills.

The reason why so many women suffer in silence from the multiple disorders connected with their sexual system is that they cannot bear to broach the subject to a man, even if he is a physician.

No one can blame a modest, sensitive woman for this reticence. It is unnecessary in these times, however, for a woman makes to all afflicted women a most generous offer. Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., bids every woman who suffers to write to her and confide every symptom that annoys her, and she will give her advice without charge, and that advice is based upon the greatest experience ever possessed by man or woman in this country, and extends over a period of twenty-three years, and thousands upon thousands of cases. Why suffer in silence any longer, my sister, when you can get help for the asking? Don't fear to tell her everything.

The case of Mrs. Colony, whose letter to Mrs. Pinkham we publish, is an illustration of the good to be received from Mrs. Pinkham's advice; here is a woman who was sick for years and could get no relief—at last in despair she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham—received in return a prompt, sympathetic and interested reply. Note the result and go and do likewise.

"I was troubled with such an aching in my back and hips, and I felt so tired all the time, and had for four years. . . . For the last year it was all I could do to drag around. I would have such a ringing in my head by spells that it seemed as though I would grow crazy. . . . I ached from my shoulders to my feet and was very nervous. I was also troubled with a white discharge. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., received a prompt reply and followed her advice, and now I have no backache and begin to feel as one ought; in fact, I never felt better in ten years than I do now. I thank God that I went doctoring with Mrs. Pinkham when I did, for if I had not I know I would have been . . . grave."—Mrs. Nellie E. Colony, Nahma, Mich.

His After-Dinner Speech.

Aroond the table were gathered many men. The dinner was almost over, and now in the interval of service general conversation had ceased, and they were all looking at him and waiting for him to speak. He was a handsome man; clean shaven and commanding looking, in irreproachable evening dress. He stood, his left arm hanging at his side, his right hand resting lightly upon the table. Every eye was upon him as he began to speak. And this is what he said:

"Sorry, gents, but de plum puddin' is all out. Dere's rice an' tapioca, an' dere's plumpeachanappie — creamorrhubarb an' mincelemon pie. Whachergo'nterhave?"—N. Y. Journal.

Low Excursion Rates Account the Fourth of July.

For the Fourth of July holiday, the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus R'y. will sell excursion tickets between all local stations and to many points on connecting lines at a rate of ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

Tickets on sale July 3rd, 4th and 5th, good returning until July 6th, 1897, inclusive. Ask ticket agents for particulars.

C. F. DALY, Gen. Pass. Agt.

A Deep Impression.

Pat returned from London after a holiday, and meeting his priest one day stopped to tell his adventures.

"Now, of all the sights you saw, what object struck you most—in fact, left the deepest impression on you?" asked the priest.

"Faith, it was a brick from a scaffold as struck me most and left its deep impression on me," said Pat, showing a cut on his forehead.—Spare Moments.

July 4th, Low Rates via B. & O. S.-W. RY.

The B. & O. S-W. Ry. Co. will sell Round Trip tickets July 3, 4 and 5 at ONE FARE between all stations on its own and principal connecting lines, within a radius of two hundred miles from selling point, good going on date of sale and returning to and including July 6th, 1897.

For further information call on agents B. & O. S-W. Ry.

The less energy a man has, the easier he drifts into matrimony.—Atchison Globe.

Queen & Crescent.

During the Tennessee Centennial and International Exposition at Nashville, Tenn., a low rate special tariff has been established for the sale of tickets from Cincinnati and other terminal points on the Queen & Crescent Route.

Tickets are on sale daily until further notice to Chattanooga at $6.75 one way or $7.20 round trip from Cincinnati, the round trip tickets being good seven days to return; other tickets, with longer return limit, at $8.90 and at $13.50 for the round trip.

These rates enable the public to visit Nashville and other Southern points at rates never before offered. Vestibuled trains of the finest class are at the disposal of the passengers, and a delightful, pleasant trip, and enabling one to visit the very interesting scenery and important battle-grounds in and about Chattanooga, Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga National Military Park. Tickets to Nashville to visit the Centennial can be repurchased at Chattanooga for $3.40 round trip. Ask your ticket agent for tickets via Cincinnati and the Q. & C. Route South or write to

W. C. RINEARSON, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, O.

Not Her Wont.

"Listen!" he hissed.

"No," she answered, and turning upon her feet brusquely, she left him there alone.

For she was a telephone girl by profession, and it was not her wont to listen to anything unless she was sure it was none of her business.—Detroit Journal.

Summer Tours Via Big Four Route,

To the Mountains, Lakes and Seashore. Special Low Rates will be in effect to Put-in-Bay, Islands of Lake Erie, Lake Chautauqua, Niagara Falls, Thousand Islands, St. Lawrence River, Adirondacks, Lake George, New England Resorts, New York and Boston. To the Great Lakes, Cleveland, Sandusky, Toledo, Detroit, Benton Harbor, Mts. Clemens, Mackinac and Michigan Resorts. To the Northwest and West via St. Louis and Chicago. For rates, routes, time of trains and full particulars apply to any agent "Big Four," or address E. O. McCormick, Passenger Traffic Manager "Big Four," Cincinnati, O.

Every once in awhile the statement is made that parents are better to their girls than to their boys.—Atchison Globe.

Scoff and Cough.

The man who scoffs at the friendly advice, to "take something for that cough," will keep on coughing until he changes his mind or changes his earthly residence. A great many scoffers have been converted by the use of the standard cough remedy of the past half century,—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. But some are scoffing and coughing yet. They wheeze with asthma, bark with bronchitis or groan with the grippe. Singular, is n't it, the number of stubborn people, who persist in gambling, with health and perhaps life as the stake, when they might be effectually cured of cough, cold or lung trouble, by a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

More particulars about Pectoral in Ayer's Curebook 100 pages. Sent free. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

BAD BLOOD PIMPLES, ERUPTIONS, BLOTCHES, SCALES, ULCERS, SORES, ECZEMA, and CHRONIC SWELLINGS.

Cascarets ARE WONDER WORKERS in the cure of any disease caused by bad or impure blood. They eliminate all poisons, build up and enrich the blood, enabling it to make new, healthy tissue.

PURE BLOOD MEANS PERFECT HEALTH, and if you will use CASCARETS they will give you GOOD HEALTH and a PURE, CLEAN SKIN, free from pimples and blotches.

To TRY CASCARETS is to like them. For never before has there been produced in the history of the world so perfect and so harmless a BLOOD PURIFIER, LIVER and STOMACH REGULATOR. To use them regularly for a little while means

ALL DRUGGISTS. 10c., 25c., 50c. Pure Blood and Perfect Health.

$75 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE. $50

Western Wheel Works MAKERS CHICAGO ILLINOIS

CATALOGUE FREE

CANCER CURED AT HOME; send stamp for book. Dr. J. D. HARRIS & CO., Pike Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

VITAPATHY! SUPERIOR SYSTEM of HEALTH without drugs when all else fails. Physicians studied learn it. All should need it. Advice free. Book, Parlors, Baths, Batteries, College Instruction, Diplomas, Full equipment as American Health College, Fairmount, Cincinnati, O. All Diseases Treated as the Sanitarium.

SILOS HOW TO BUILD ADS WILLIAMS MFG. CO., KALAMAZOO, MICH.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

A. N. K.—S 1668

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 30, 1897.

Advertising Rates:
One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Democratic Ticket.

November 2, 1897.

For Clerk Court of Appeals,
SAM'L J. SHACKELFORD.

For Representative,

For Circuit Judge,
JOHN W. GREENE.

For Commonwealth's Attorney,
M. D. GRAY.

For Circuit Clerk,
J. W. DUNCAN.

For County Judge,
C. C. ROBERTS.

For County Attorney,
J. M. LASSING.

For County Clerk,
B. W. ADAMS.

For Sheriff,
ELMER BEALL.

For Assessor,
T. G. WILLIS.

For Jailer,
T. J. ADAMS.

For County Superintendent,
L. H. VOSHELL.

For Surveyor,
W. E. VEST.

For Coroner,
A. A. MURAT.

Neighborhood News.

Erlanger.

Thos. D. Finnell is in Chattanooga on business for the Q. & C. railroad.

Mrs. Lulu Roach, of Cincinnati, was the guest of Mrs. Jno. Morelli, Sunday.

Ed L. Garvey's little daughter is laying very low with diphtheria. Several cases have been reported in this section.

The ladies have organized a lawn tennis club with the following officers: Mrs. T. J. Stevenson, Pres't., Mrs. Ed Porter, Vice-Pres't., Mrs. Robert Pearson, Secretary.

St. Henry's church enjoyed a memorial day and the parents of the children who made their first communion were as happy as the children themselves. A large number of relatives from Cincinnati came out and participated.

Hathaway.

L. W. Stephens was quite sick several days last week.

Mrs. Emma Presser has been very sick for several days.

The hardest rain we have had for years fell here last Thursday evening.

Several from here attended the birthday party at Lewis Clore's on the 19th inst., and reported a grand time.

Several from here attended the meeting at Beech Grove, last Sunday evening, where Rev. J. W. McAtee preached.

Rev. John Presser will start to Virginia Wednesday. We wish him luck in his new field of labor, and may God bless him with a good harvest.

Mrs. Eddie Ryle and daughter, of Kenton county, returned home last Saturday week, after a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends here.

Miss Grace Neal's school closed last Friday. There was quite a crowd present and she gave the children a treat and several nice presents. She has given perfect satisfaction and taught a good school.

Lewis Stephens and wife entertained a number of both married and single at their home on Gunpowder, which was enjoyed by all present. Music and playing were the amusements, after which a nice supper of ice-cream and lemonade was served and everything went as merry as a marriage bell.

North Bend.

Corn looks very nice.

Thos. Baisly is keeping batch.

We had quite a hail storm Sunday a week.

Mr. Hugh Aylor's little daughter is very sick.

Miss Annabel Riley is expected home on the 4th.

R. E. Kirtley has some very fine raspberries.

W. P. Cropper began to cut wheat last Thursday.

Mrs. Bettie Kirtley and daughters, of Covington, are the guests of Mrs. W. O. Kirtley.

There will be lots of grapes and watermelons in this neighborhood if nothing happens.

C. W. Riley was down in this neighborhood setting up his machine, last Wednesday.

Mrs. Lucinda Kendall, of Louisville, who has been visiting her granddaughter, Mrs. Lorena Cropper, has returned home.

We have had quite a fine fishing season. Master James Owen Kirtley distinguished himself by catching an eel and Master Elbert Coleman by catching a turtle.

G. C. Riley, who has a position on the U. S. Civil Engr's Corps, left here Saturday for Pittsburg. When they get through up there he will start for Florida, and if all reports are true he will take a "partner" with him.

Walton.

A. M. Edwards is learning to ride a wheel.

Miss Allie Piatt is visiting relatives in Alabama.

Mrs. Fannie Murphy has returned from the Nashville Exposition.

Prof. Chas. Prior is spending his vacation with his sister in Vermont.

The planing mill of Stamler & Brittenhelm is in full blast and doing a land office business.

Mrs. B. S. Lermond, of Bowling Green, has returned home, after a visit with Mrs. Emma Lermond's family.

Mrs. Clif. Youell is spending a few weeks in Tennessee with her husband, who is painting on the C. N. O and T. P. Railway.

H. H. Roberts and wife returned to their home at Paris, last Wednesday, after spending two weeks with their mother, Mrs. Mary Roberts.

Mrs. Zoo Warren, of Zanesville, O., and Mrs. Fannie Vanhuven, of Cincinnati, have been the guests of their sister, Mrs. Alfie Moxley, the past week.

Mrs. D. S. Lermond, after a pleasant visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stamler, departed, last Friday for Newport News, Va., where she expects to join her husband who is engaged in building docks at that place.

The remains of Clarence Hightower, the young man who suicided at the Galt House, Cincinnati, were sent to this place Friday morning and were taken in charge by undertaker Edwards and were assigned to their last resting place in Goshen cemetery.

Bellevue.

J. R. Clutterbuck and wife attended church here, Sunday.

Oscar Huey, of Aurora, was among friends here, last Saturday.

The wheat harvest began here last Saturday. The grain is fine.

Uncle John Moody is much better than he was the first of the week.

Vess Gaines, of Bullittsburg, was calling here, Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. A. Corbin is still very poorly, but some better than he was last week.

Blaut Pope and wife, and Harry Acra and wife, spent last Sunday with relatives at Lindlow.

Mrs. Orlando Snyder and daughter, of Petersburg, were visiting her parents here last Sunday.

Archie Acra and family, of Burlington, were visiting his brothers at Melville, last Saturday.

Evan Acra delivered his crop of tobacco to R. C. Calvert at Rabbit Hash, last week, at 4½ and 5c.

Rev. Lee Utz and family returned home, last Friday, from a visit to Mrs. Utz's parents at Florence.

Mrs. Geo. Blyth, Mrs. Virginia Huey and Mrs. Geo. Piper, were visiting at this place a couple of days last week.

The hardest rain for years fell here last Thursday evening. Bottom land was badly washed and crops damaged.

Al Rogers and family, of Burlington, were visiting relatives and attending church at this place, Saturday and Sunday.

Several of the young folks from here attended the birthday party at Lewis Clore's of their son Lonnie, and were highly pleased with the entertainment.

Kind Providence has moved from our midst one of our honored citizens, Dr. W. B. Grubbs, but recently nominated by the Democrats for the legislature. The friends of the deceased extend their sympathy to his family in their sad bereavement.

As a suitable Democrat to fill the vacancy on the Democratic ticket, occasioned by the death of Dr. Grubbs, let us suggest Benjamin Wilson, of Rabbit Hash, son of Hon. J. A. Wilson. He is possessed of all the qualifications and would make an ideal representative.

Constance.

Mr. Fallen fell and broke his hip.

An Indian preach from Tennessee is here.

Clint Reeves has been building a new house for Mr. Fallen.

Elisha Fox, of Newport, visited W. J. Prather, last Sunday.

The Constance Sunday School is in a flourishing condition.

Miss Richmond, of Indiana, is visiting the Misses Zimmer.

Arthur Peno will erect a new house on the site of the old one

Geo. Reeves has been making extensive improvements on his house.

The dance given by Wm. Zimmer and others was a grand success.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold, of Covington, were visiting Col. Bernard, last week.

Capt. Kotmeyer has treated his ferry boat boiler and steam pipes to a coat of paint.

Miss Fox, of Anderson Ferry, was visiting her sister, Mrs. Dora Fox, last Sunday.

Rev. Sutcliff, of Tennessee, will commence a protracted meetlug here next Sunday.

C. Castluetto and daughter, were at Bromley, last Suuday, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fox.

The patriotic citizens of Constance have presented an American flag to each the Constance and the Hill school house.

Dr. Murat held and inquest and post mortem on Dr. W. B. Grubbs, who died suddenly at his home at Taylorsport last Thursday night. The doctor found all the organs normal, except the heart, and the jury said in their verdict that "Dr. W. B. Grubbs came to his death by heart failure, superinduced by mitral adhesions."

Union.

Hal Blanton attended church here, Sunday.

We were very sorry indeed to hear of the death of Dr. Grubbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Gaines spent Sunday with relatives here.

Miss Kate Willis, of Williamstown, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. John Garrison.

Miss Mary Hedges is entertaining a very pleasant guest in the person of her cousin, Miss Neal.

Mrs. Henry Crouch and son, Stanley, of Gallatin county, spent a few days, recently, with relatives here.

Mrs. Sallie Huey and daughter, Mrs. Bert Gaines, passed through town last Thursday enroute to Lee Huey's.

J. W. Kennedy has returned from Owen and Franklin counties, where he has been buying large quantities of tobacco.

Mrs. Dr. Terrill was the guest of her son, Ben, several days last week, and spent the day with Mrs. Elizabeth Huey on her way back to her home in Covington.

Florence

Mrs. Rob Rouse and son, of Richwood, are visiting Mrs. Price.

Miss Alice Cloud was the guest of friends in Cincinnati, Monday.

Mrs. Goodridge and Mrs. F. Fields, of Richwood, were visiting here Friday.

Harry Ingram, of Erlanger, was the guest of his grandfather, Mr. Noah Clore, Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fisk, Mr. Chas. Souther and Miss Jennie Myers, Mr. Chester Souther and Miss Mae Carpenter, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, at Erlanger, Saturday eve.

Mr. Chester Souther and Miss Katie Corwin, Mr. Roy Wilbur and Miss Bess Crigler, Mr. Geo. Cronch and Miss Bessie Snyder, composed a gay party that visited the Zoo, Sunday.

Limaburg.

The Irish potato crop will be short.

Henry Clore has harvested his winter oats.

Ezra Rouse and wife were visiting in Ciucinnati, Suuday.

A short crop of tobacco has been set in this neighborhood.

Farmers are harvesting their clover and wheat, this week.

It is a 10 pound boy, born June 24th, and John Poston is happy.

Wm. Garnett and family, of Gunpowder, were visiting Chas. Garnett, Sunday.

To the Farmers of Boone County.

You have in the county a representative of the National Grange, who is endeavoring to revive dormaut granges, and to awaken an interest among farmers generally in the cause of the Patrons of Husbandry. He has met with encouragement wherever he has gone. He has reorgauized two dormant granges already, and will soon have others in good working order. The members of Mt. Pleasant Grange, located at Bullittsville, have renewed their labors with great zeal and earnestness. A majority of the old members have renewed their obligations to the cause, and several new ones have been enrolled. At our next meeting we will confer the first and second degrees of the order upon seven new applicants.

The methods adopted by both political parties in the past year has convinced the producing classes that the welfare of their vocation depends upon thorough organization and energetic action. They have at last determined to do their own thinking and to cooperate in putting those thoughts into action. When this is accomplished you will see agriculture exalted to that dignified position and prosperous condition that God designed it should occupy.

The opportunity is offered to the farmers to accomplish this grand work through the grange, an organization that is non-partisan, non-sectarian, and composed of both sexes. It is selfevident that so long as you can keep man under the influence and in the presence of the refinement and the purity of woman (the highest type of God's creation), his thoughts, his purposes and his actions will be pure. Hence the trickery and schemiug of unscrupulous politicians can find no encouragement in the grange

The grange proper is divided into three branches—the social, the intellectual and the legislative. Through its social feature it binds its members as a band of brothers and sisters, discouraging strifes, bitterness of feelings and all differences that are so apt to exist in communities. Through its intellectual feature it recognizes the necessity of a higher and better education for the sons and daughters of farmers, and prepares them to enter the front ranks of honor and respectability. Through its legislative feature it secures the passage of only such laws as are just and equitable. This is accomplished by a careful, dispassionate and non-partisan consideration of all questions of public policy, and after due consideration a cooperative system of petitions may be adopted by which petitions may be sent from every grange throughout the land to their representatives in Congress, demanding its passage.

Through this system the Department of Agriculture was established and a representative of the interests of the farmers is admitted to the councils of the nation. Through the grange your Boone County Fire Insurance Company was brought into existence and I am so thoroughly conversant with the circumstances of its birth that I assert, without fear of contradiction, that it never would have been conceived had it not been for the grange. This achievement is sufficient to endear the cause to the farmers of Boone county for all time to come. Through this work of the grange alone, the farmers of this county are saving at least $30,000 annually. Since this company has been in existence at least $300,000 has been retained in the county, which would otherwise have gone out of the county to pay premiums on foreign policy holders. Then, farmers, let me entreat you to rally to the support of the grange. Either join the grange and form a united phalanx in the great battle against trusts and monopolies or cease hurling invectives against them.

G. C. GRADDY.

Robert Rice has commenced repairing the Boone House. It is a good subject upon which to try his skill.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

Low Rates Queen & Crescent.

East Tennessee Educational Association, Sweetwater, Tenn., July 28-30. Superb vestibuled trains of the Queen and Crescent Route carry the only through Pullman to Asheville from the North. Double daily train service from Cincinnati and Louisville. Low rates for the Summer Schools.

H. W. Harrison, dentist, of Rising Sun, Ind., will be in Burlington on the first and third Monday in each month, to do work for those who wish anything in his line. He will be here two days each visit. He is a son of the late R. F. Harrison, of Carrollton, and a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dentistry at Philadephia. He is highly recommended in his profession.

Deputy County Clerk M. T. Garnett and Atty. S. Gaines, started at an early hour, last Friday morning, to spend a few hours with the Gunpowder "trout" but when they got in sight of the creek they found that it was not only too high to fish in but too high to ford. There had been a heavy rain at headwaters the evening before.

The Western Tobacco Journal, of last Saturday gave the following encouraging report of the Cincinnati tobacco market for that week: "There has been unabated activity in our tobacco market during the present week. Under what might be termed exciting competition between the manufacturers and the speculative interests, prices improved to such an extent that the average in one day's sales, that of Thursday, was over 7 cents, and the one thing to be remarked is that fine tobacco, which had heretofore not received its share of the general rise, took a turn, and some splendid sales of these goods were made. The twenty mark being passed a number of times, and reaching up to 22 cents. All the manufacturers were bidders, though only a few of them took large quantities. Two elements seem to enter into the present condition of affairs, short crops on the one haud and a prospective advance of 2 cents on the revenue tax on manufactured tobocco on the other. Recent rains have enabled farmers to finish setting tobacco and the crop is about planted. It is certainly a light setting, and from this cause alone we should think prevailing prices ought to be upheld. Stocks in the warehouses have hardly increased, because purchases in the country having been made at low figures, and prices in market looking high by way of comparison with the recent very low range, the disposition has been to sell the goods as fast as they come to the city."

NOTICE.—Regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Burlington Mercantile Co., will be held at the office of Lassing & Riddell, Saturday, July 3d, 1897. All directors are requested to be present. N. E. RIDDELL, Pres't.

Q. & C. Route, 35c Buffington to Cincinnati, Sunday, July 4th. Ball game—Reds vs. Baltimore.

W. N. HIND & CO.
213 W. FIFTH ST.
CINCINNATI, O.

RUGBY
PREPARATORY : SCHOOL
FOR BOYS,
Covington, - - Kentucky.

Thorough Preparation for Scientific School, College or Business, Military Training.

Limited Number of Boarders Desired.

Excellent Building.
Home Influence and Comforts.

Twelth Year. NEXT TERM BEGINS Sept'r. 15th, 1897.

For catalogue and special information Address,
K. J. MORRIS, A. M. Prin.

NOTICE.

The Refreshment Stand and other privileges of the Harvest Home, which will be held Saturday August 21, 1897, will be rented to the highest bidder at the Harvest Home grounds on Saturday, August 7th. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. Renting will take place at 1 p. m.

WM. GOODRIDGE, President.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.

My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.

Independent of Undertakers' Union.

My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.

FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE : ME : A : CALL

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.

Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.

East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m, 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown...7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown..10:40 a. m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE

That B. F. ZIMMER is selling the best Grade of Fertilizer in the county for less Money than any other dealer in the county. It will pay you to see him before buying.

Ever sack is sold with a guarantee to be as good as represented.

Constance, Kentucky.

H. S. STEVENSON.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
DENTIST.
Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.
OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

GO TO—
HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,
A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.
GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

E. F. HARMEYER,
535 Walnut St. - - CINCINNATI, OHIO.
—IS THE PLACE TO BUY—
PLOWS, HARROWS, CORN DRILLS, CULTIVATORS, HAY RAKES, &c.,
We also have the 'EUREKA' AND OTHER MOWERS.
Don't fail to see us if you want anything in our line.

JOHN ALLISON,
UNDER- EMBAL-
TAKER MER,
—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,—
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

QUEEN & CRESCENT.

During the Tennessee Centennial and International Exposition at Nashville, Tenn., a low rate special tarift has been established for the sale of tickets from Cincinnati and other terminal points on the Queen & Crescent Route.

Tickets are on sale daily until further notice to Chattanooga at $6.75 one way or $7.20 round trip from Cincinnati, the round trip tickets being good seven days to return; other tickets, with longer return limit, at $9.90 and $13.50 for the round trip.

These rates enable the public to visit Nashville and other Southern points at rates never before offered. Vestibuled trains of the finest class are at the disposal of the passenger, affording a most pleasant trip, and enabling one to visit the very interesting scenery and important battle grounds in and about Chicdamauga, Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga National Millitary Park. Tickets to Nashville to visit the Centennial can be repurchased at Chattanooga for $3.40 round trip. Ask your ticket agent for tickets via Cincinnati and the Q. & C. Route South or write to

W. C. RINEARSON, G. P. Agt., Cincinnati, O.

Farm for Sale!

CONTAINING SIXTY ACRES

House of 5 rooms, well and cistern, Good Two Story Barn with Covered Drive-Way and Basement, Large Cistern, never failing Stock water. No better Farming Land in Boone County.

Apple Orchard of Selected Trees.

Location, 1½ miles south of Florence, on Lexington pike. All buildings within 50 yards of pike, (formerly owned by John Northcutt.)

For terms and all information call on or address

G. N. BUFFINGTON, Buffington, Ky.

By order of David T. Buffington.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky

Simons Baldon's Adm'r. Plaintiff,
vs
Parthena Baldon, &c.. Defts.

This cause is now refered to the Master Commissioner of the Boone Circuit Court with the following directions: 1st. He will advertise in the Boone Co. Recorder the time and place of his sittings and he will hear proof of and receive claims against the estate of the decedent Simons Baldon. 2d. He will audit and settle the accounts of the administrator, John D. Baldon. 3d. He will ascertain what property the decedent owned at the time of his death, and he will report his actions herein at the August term, 1897, of the Boone Circuit Court.

Given under my hand as clerk of said court, this May 12th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

NOTICE.

Cincinnati, O., April 5, 1897.

To the Tobacco Growers of Boone County:

I am connected with the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., which includes four houses—the Globe, Morris, Bodmann, Cincinnati Miami. Prize your tobacco and ship it to one of the four houses and receive the highest market price for same. If you have no preference ship it to the Cincinnati Miami, and I will give it my personal attention. Hogsheads and presses furnished. Address me at 110, 112 West Front St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

oct-7 O. W. ADAMS.

RHEUMATISM LINIMENT.
L. MORELLI,
Box 123, - ERLANGER, KY.
AGENTS WANTED.
Price, 50 Cents Per Bottle.

Steam :-: Ferry
—AT—
TAYLORSPORT.

I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.

july-28 S. H. GOODIN.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

L. Dwyer's Adm'r., &c. Plffs.
vs
L. Dwyer's creditors, &c., Defts.

This cause is now refered to J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this county, who will ascertain and report the amount, kind and value of the estate of the decedent, whether real, personal or mixed and where the same is located. He will ascertain and report what debts, if any were owing by decedent at the time of his death and to that end all persons holding claims against said estate will present same to said Berkshire proven according to law on or before August 1st, 1897, and said Berkshire will give due notice of the time and place of his sittings through the Boone Co., Recorder. He will also settle the accounts of Mallison R. Dwyer, administratrix, and report among other things the cost of administration.

Witness my hand as clerk of said court, this April 30th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

Farm for Sale.

Lying on the Beaver pike, Boone county, Ky., ¾ mile from Richwood Station on the C. N. & T. P., railroad. Said farm contains 116 acres in a good state of cultivation, with a good frame dwelling of seven rooms and cellar, cistern and well in the yard, barn and other necessary out buildings, orchard and various kinds of fruit trees; known as the W. H. Smith farm. Those wishing to purchase call on or address

LEWIS RICE, Richwood, Ky.

Subscribe for the RECORDER

Local News.

Considerable clover was harvested, last week.

Mrs. Samuel Cowen is having a new barn erected on her lot.

The prospects are good for a large crop of quails this season.

Some are having their coal bins replenished for use next winter.

The steps leading to D. E. Castleman's law office received some very necessary repairs, last week.

The hay and wheat harvest are hurrying those farmers who were delayed with their corn and tobacco crops.

Those who want to represent this county in the legislature which convenes in January, 1898, can begin to hustle now.

Riley & Hogan, of Bullittsville, last week, bought of O. P. Conner his purchase of tobacco. They are shipping it to Cincinnati.

Rain somewhere last Friday night produced a considerable decline in the temperature, and Saturday was a very pleasant day.

Lawrenceburg people will testify to their patriotism by a big celebration on Monday, July 5th. See advertisement in another column.

Who says that Burlington is not improving, when three carpenters were engaged last week building and repairing in as many places.

It wont do to stop declaring that this country is about to be submerged by a wave of prosperity—there is to be an election in the State of Ohio this fall.

Tony Bentler has bought a threshing machine with a grist-mill and crusher attachment. At the close of the threshing season he will grind and crush corn a day or two each week in Burlington.

The Woodford county farmers who are seeking to organize a cereal trust have called a State Convention, to be held at Lexington, July 5th. If it is a success a National convention will be called.

The following applicants for common school diplomas were successful in their examinations at Union, last Thursday: Harry Roberts, Pauline Reganbogan, Grace Russell, Carrie Clore, Lucy Dell Clayton and Jenetta Chambers.

Had the price of tobacco advanced to the present figures about christmas, an increased crop would have been the result this year; but fortunately for the growers the advance came too late to effect the size of the next crop.

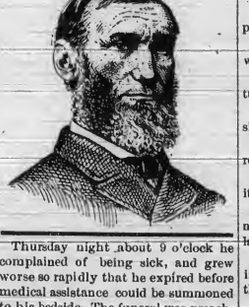
An Illinois farmer scouts the idea that sorrel is difficult to eradicate. He says plow up your ground in the fall, sow to rye, in the spring turn the rye under and cultivate in corn. The sorrel will not survive the second turn of the above treatment.

The applicants for positions as guagers and storekeepers from this county under the new Collector when he is installed, are ready to start after the appointments. The indications are that there will be more than the usual number after the few places to which Boone will be entitled.

With its last week's issue the Aurora Independent began its 34th year, and for twenty-four years last past L. W. Cobb has been its successful editor and publisher. He has enjoyed the confidence and patronage of the Aurora business men to an extent that has rendered smooth the Independent's voyage over the usually rough sea of rural journalism.

Lexington Chatauqua, June 29th to July 9th. Low rat e excursion tickets on sale via the Queen & Crescent route. On the dates aboved named, selling daily tickets good until July 10th for return passage, at the rate of one-third fare for the round trip. These tickets are on sale from Cincinnati and all points in Kentucky. Ask ticket agents for further particulars.

The annual report of the Louisville Baptist Orphans' Home has been issued. The institution has been in existence for nearly twenty-eight years, having been founded June 30th, 1869. The report of Mrs. Mary A. Hollingsworth, the Superintendent, shows that a most noble work is being done. Since its inception, 1,015 children have been cared for, 710 from the State and 305 from the city. There are now 88 children at the Home. During the past year fifteen children have been apprenticed out and fourteen have been adopted.

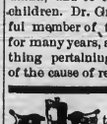


The Court of Appeals has rendered a decision which will cause serious trouble for many of the Building and Loan Associations. In reversing the decision of the lower court in the case of John Simpson against the Citizens' Building and Loan Association, the Court of Appeals held that the act of 1893, by which the associations were empowered to collect more than 6 per cent. interest by the collection of premiums, dues on stocks, and other charges in addition to the regular rate of interest on loans, is special legislation and unconstitutional. A petition for a new hearing will be filed at once.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

Dr. W. B. Grubbs Expires After a Few Hours' Illness Of Heart Disease.

The Democratic Nominee for Representative.



Dr. W. B. Grubbs, of Taylorsport, who, on the 5th inst., was nominated by the Democrats without opposition to represent this county in the next Legislature, died of heart disease last Thursday night after a few hours' illness. He had been afflicted with the fatal disease for a long time, but had had no serious attacks.

Thursday night about 9 o'clock he complained of being sick, and grew worse so rapidly that he expired before medical assistance could be summoned to his bedside. The funeral was preached at the Hebron Lutheran church at 10 a. m., last Sunday, by Rev. H. A. M. Henderson of the Delhi, O., Methodist church. It was a beautiful and impressive sermon, abounding with comfort for the bereaved family and sorrowing friends. At the conclusion of the sermon the remains were placed in the Hebron vault to await the arrival of a son, R. L. Grubbs, of Elliott, North Dakota. They will be interred in the family lot in the cemetery at this place. The pall-bearers were H. C. McGlasson, Judge Ben Stephens, F. L. Gordon, C. W. Riley, Jacob Tanner and J. E. Duncan.

Dr. Grubbs was a native of this county, being born in Burlington, January 28th, 1831, consequently he was in his 67th year. He received his education at Morgan Academy, at Burlington, which institution of learning at the time he was numbered among its pupils, ranked with the best in Northern Kentucky. He chose the practice of medicine as his profession, and to prepare himself for its responsibilities he entered the Ohio Medical College at Cincinnati, from which he graduated at the session of 1851-2. He at once entered upon his profession, which he pursued quite successfully until about ten years ago, when he retired and turned his attention to farming, which pursuit he followed closely until his death. He served his people many years as Justice of the Peace, and made an unsuccessful race for County Judge the last term under the old constitution. In 1894 he opposed Dr. Furnish for the Democratic nomination for the Legislature, but was again unsuccessful, although his popularity with his party continued to grow from the time he first offered for office, until 1897, when it had reached such proportions that no aspirant had the pluck to contest with him for the nomination for representative which was given him without opposition.

Dr. Grubbs was married twice. His first wife was a Miss Coleman, by whom he had two children. His second wife was Miss Kittie McBey, of Indiana, and to them were born seven children. Dr. Grubbs had been a faithful member of the Methodist church for many years, and was active in everything pertaining to the advancement of the cause of religion.

Go to John Schmidt, the Shoemaker, to have your harness repaired. Boots and Shoes made to order. Repairing a specialty. All work guaranteed.

NOTICE—Those owing back taxes would confer a great favor by coming forward and paying same, is the road money is now due and I have a considerable amount to collect before I can settle with the overseers.

C. C. ROBERTS, S. B. C.

For the greater part of the year Constable J. B. Crigler, of Hebron, suffers no meat except that of the turtle to come upon his table, and his better half is never required to rise early in the morning to prepare a chicken for breakfast. He has constructed a reservoir in which he puts the turtles, and where he feeds them until they are fatted ready for the table, and they do say that about a score of boys in the Hebron neighborhood devote their spare time to capturing turtles for which they find a regular market and a good demand at Crigler's at prices ranging from 5 to 25 cents.

The jail is empty again.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,

THE LEADERS IN LOW PRICES.

IN GROCERIES:

Standard Granulated Sugar, 20 pounds, $1.00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound, 13c
Good Canned Corn, per can, 05c

In Dry Goods, Notions, Etc.,

We have the Latest Styles at the Lowest Prices.

IN BINDER TWINE we lead them all.
Pure Rival, per 100 pounds, $5.75.

We have bargains in all Departments, but have not room to mention Prices. Please favor us with a call at

UNION, - - - - KENTUCKY.

In Shoes! We want your trade in Shoes. We have made a deep cut in Prices to induce you to buy

Children's Fine Shoes $1.00 reduced from $2.00.
Ladies' Slippers, 50 cents, reduced from $1.75.
Baby Shoes, 25c up. Men's Fine Shoes, $1.00.

Fine Tan Shoes in both Men's and Women's which we will sell you at GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

We have bargains in all Departments, but have not room to mention Prices. Please favor us with a call at

UNION, KENTUCKY.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Jeff Eddins returned Sunday from Lexington.

Sidney Gaines was the first person to pay his taxes for 1897.

O. J. Ryle is spending this week with friends at Lexington.

Mrs. Geo. F. Piper and children returned to Louisville, Saturday.

P. E. Cason was somewhat on the sick list for several days last week.

W. B. Shotwell was doing some iron roofing for W. F. McKim, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brady were visiting their daughters here, last week.

H. V. West, representing the Commercial-Tribune, was in town one day last week.

O. P. Tanner's health has not been improving much during the last two or three weeks.

M. T. Garnett has a pocket knife which he has carried continuously for twenty-two years.

Mrs. H. W. Ryle, of Erlanger, was visiting her mother at this place a day or two last week.

Sheriff Roberts and wife were visiting in the Walton neighborhood, several days last week.

Chester Davis, of the firm of Haukius, Davis & Co., of Hebron, was in town Friday morning.

J. B. Berkshire and Chas. Westbay were in Lawrenceburg, last Friday, buying a bill of lumber.

Mrs. Stanley Clutterbuck and Misses Catharine Furlong and Ella Duncan ride their bicycles very gracefully.

Deputy Sheriff J. H. Rogers has been entertained by a flock of Job's comforters, while working on the tax books.

L. H. Voshell is the only County Superintendent who has been renominated for reelection in this part of the State.

Dr. Frank Sayre, of Hebron, paid his respects to the RECORDER yesterday. He reported the health in his neighborhood, as good.

F. L. Gordon and Mrs. Noell, of the Beaver neighborhood, were in town last Monday. Mr. Gordon reported J. S. Noell quite sick of a fever.

Prof. A. C. Collins, Herbert McKim and Wallace Tanner left, Monday morning, for Bowling Green, to attend the State Teachers' Association.

Profs. Collins and Snyder were in town, last Friday, assisting Supt. Voshell conduct the examination of two colored applicants for teachers' certificates.

Dr. W. H. Blanton and wife, of Harrodsburg, were visiting his daughter, Mrs. Taliaferro, of Petersburg, last Thursday. They were the guests of Dr. Furnish a day or so.

Dr. W. O. Rouse, of Limaburg, has gone to Columbus, Ohio, where he will engage in the practice of his profession. He is an exemplary young man and his host of friends here wish him success. His sister, Miss Ora, went with him to keep house for him.

Robt. K. Aylor, of Waterloo, passed through town Friday morning with a load of tobacco for Stevenson, of Erlanger. Mr. Aylor said they had the hardest rain of the season on Thursday afternoon.

Esq. O. W. Gaines, of Bullittsville, and Constable J. B. Crigler, of Hebron, came to town early last Saturday morning to hold the June term of the Justice's court for this district. There was nothing before the court.

B. W. Adams and wife attended the family reunion at Mr. W. A. Tanner's at Gunpowder, last Thursday. They report a most delightful occasion, to which much was added by a sumptuous dinner, which was discussed by a large crowd.

Gordon McKim arrived home from Hanover, Indiana, College, last Friday evening. He came by the way of Louisville, Frankfort and Georgetown on his wheel. From Georgetown to Williamstown he encountered hard riding on account of the rough road.

Dr. R. C. Tilly, of Petersburg, made the RECORDER a pleasant call, on last Monday afternoon. He reported a great deal of sickness in his bailiwick, and among his patients, three cases of typhoid fever. He says they have a fine crop of wheat about ready to harvest; but the melon crop is nearly an entire failure, the bugs having destroyed the first planting, not leaving even the hills.

Program of the Baptist S.-S. Convention of the North Bend Association at Bullittsburg church, July 29th, 1897:

9 a. m. Devotional Exercises, singing and prayer.
Election of Officers.
Songs by Burlington, Bellevue and Bullittsburg Schools.
9:30. How to interest church members in Sunday-school work.—Hon. N. S. Walton, Bullittsburg.
Music.
10:00. Is the Old Way of Teaching with the Bible Alone, or the New Way with Lesson Papers, better?—The Old is better.—Rev. S. M. Adams, Big Bone. The New is better.—Rev. T. L. Utz.
10:45. Sermon—Rev. C. G. Jones, Covington.
12:00. Adjournment and Lunch.
1:15 p. m.—Songs. Solo by Bullittsburg; Quartett by Bellevue.
1:30. The Sunday School as a Conservator of the Holy Sabbath.—Rev. M. J. Hoover, Erlanger.
2:00. Benefits lost to church members by non-attendance at Sunday-School.—J. C. Revill, Burlington.
2:30. Results of Sunday School work in Bullittsburg church.—Essay—John Cropper, Bullittsburg.
3.00. General Discussion.
Persons to whom subjects are assigned will be limited to twenty minutes, after which discussion will be invited and those participating will be limited to five minutes.

Miss Fannie Beemon living with Mr. Milton Beemon, of the Limaburg neighborhood died suddenly one day last week. She went out to feed some young turkeys, and being gone an unreasonable length of time, some one went to hunt her when she was found dead.

The Burlington and Union ball teams played here last Saturday afternoon, the score resulting 36 to 8 in favor of Burlington.

Rev. U. S. Milburn, of Cincinnati, will preach at the Universalist church here next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Rugby Training School advertisement appears in another column, and your attention is invited to it.

Several from here attended the funeral services of Dr. W. B. Grubbs at Hebron, last Sunday.

Newton Sullivan weighed six nice hogs to J. M. Lassing Monday morning.

The 4th of July Celebration at Lawrenceburg Fair Grounds,

Lawrenceburg, Ind.,

Monday, July 5th, '97

Will be the Grandest and Most Attractive ever held in that city.

The entire First Battallion of the Third Regiment Knights of St. John, Composed of Aurora, Batesville, Ottenburg, Greensburg and Lawrenceburg Commanderies and all

The Regimental Officers
—on horseback—

Will participate in the Street Parade at at 10:40 a. m.

INSPECTION AND DRESS PARADE
at 5 p. m.

There will be no plug Horse Racing—enough first-class horses have already been entered to make that feature of the Celebration first class in every particular, and no fake will be imposed upon the public. From the number of applications already received the Bicycle Race will, no doubt, be the hottest ever run at Lawrenceburg. The entire grounds will be as light as day by electricity.

—BICYCLE RACE—

PERFECT ORDER
Will be kept and the celebration will close at 11 p. m., with the grandest

Display of Fire Works
Ever witnessed any where.

No Charge to the Grounds
Nor to See the Races.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.
Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.
Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,
MRS. E. J. MARSHALL.
For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.

BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.,
—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS,
Notions, Groceries, Etc.

Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!

at Lowest : Cash : Prices.

Lime and Cement always on hand.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.

The J. L. BILL
Coffee and Tea Co.
THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.
12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,
COVINGTON, KY.

WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

SENSATIONAL BARGAINS!

Clothing Sacrificed! See!

A full Suit of Men's Clothing for only, ...$3.50,
worth double, and this is only a sample.

We invite inspection all along the line.....

Shoes, Tinware, Groceries, Dress Goods, Etc.

MILLINERY

Ladies, you will be surprised to see the nice things we have to offer you, and prices are waydown.

In fact we have a full line of General Merchandise, and prices are in keeping with the times.

We Guarantee Quality Also.
COME AND SEE,
T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Keystone Buggy Company,

CINCINNATI, - - OHIO.,
FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS,
—MANUFACTURERS—

Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles.

#67 Like Cut.

Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent

QUALITY AT A VERY LOW PRICE.

Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.

All Jobs Made to Order.

Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.

References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sothern, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigler, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Utzinger; Rolla Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Utz, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.

Call on or address,
R. L. BRADFORD, : Hebron, Ky.
Agent for Boone County.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

Dancing masters complain that the bicycle is killing their business. If this be true, why don't they convert their academies into repair-shops?

Five buffaloes were born in New York city last week, which probably leads the record of 1897. The trapper of 40 years ago is right in saying that times have changed.

The orange trees of Florida have made a rapid growth. Since the great freeze the report is that the state will be able to ship next year 1,000,000 boxes of choice fruit.

Dr. Parkhurst, of New York, has concluded that a political career for a man who pretends to be a minister of the Gospel is a career of vanity and vexation of spirit. So he has given it up.

The first bicycles came from England, but American designers and mechanics have taken the lead and our wheels are admitted throughout the world to be unequaled. Their export this year has increased threefold.

It is said that by using kites the signal service will be able to issue weather predictions 16 hours earlier than usual. This makes little difference; what I really wanted is a forecast which shall be about 16 miles nearer the truth.

City papers are full of inventors' claims for new motor carriages that promise to revolutionize travel. Add these to the airship stories and it will be seen that 1900 promises to start out a century that will astonish angels and men.

The meanest man has been discovered in Chicago. He is a hypnotist and lives on the North side. Twice a week he hypnotizes his wife, and she runs a lawn mower over the front yard while believing that she is enjoying a bicycle spin.

California has had an unusual sort of an eye opener. Although paying $200,000 a year for destroying coyotes, it found their number increasing. An investigation revealed that numerous farmers were raising coyotes and then slaughtering them in order to "work" the state.

The present conditions surrounding the new woman are such that she has no chance to complain that time hangs heavy on her hands. Within a period of 12 hours a woman in St. Louis got a divorce, received a verdict of $5,000 damages from a railway company and acted the leading role in an amateur performance.

The flag is 120 years old. On June 14, 1777, the continental congress adopted the following: "Resolved, That the flag of the thirteen states be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in blue field, representing a new constellation." Very much has happened since then, but the old flag, with a few additions, still waves.

The product of gold and silver in the several states and territories of the United States for the calendar year 1896 is estimated by the director of the mint to have been $53,088,000 in gold and $76,069,230 in silver. The increase in the production of gold over 1895 is shown to have been $6,478,000 actual value, while the production of silver shows an increase of $4,018,000, coining value.

Palestine is pushing many public works to completion. The River Jordan is now spanned by a handsome bridge, while steamboats travel up and down the stream, and likewise traverse the often stormy waters of the Sea of Galilee. The Jaffa & Jerusalem railroad has proved a commercial success, carrying more than 20,000 tons of merchandise during the last six months and landing more than 100 drummers in the holy city in seach of new stories.

There is a popular idea that June is the favorite month for weddings, and that the young woman who loves romance and wishes fortune to smile upon her nuptials in every way must choose this of all months. Cold and unromantic fact, however, shows that the three most popular marriage months are October, November and December. Fifty years' records show this to be true, and also demonstrate the fact that most unpopular months for marriage are January, February and March.

A Paris journal says that a French scientist is trying to make bees manufacture medicated honey in a variety of flavors for the cure of various diseases. He keeps the bees under glass, so that they can get honey only from flowers especially chosen. By the different kinds of honey thus produced influenza, coughs and colds, indigestion, asthma and many other ills are said to be readily if indirectly reached, and while the palate of the weakened invalid and the stubborn child is tickled he is being surreptitiously cured.

The supreme court of Ohio in a syllabus recently published holds that the words "unusual and unnecessary danger," which insured are prohibited in policies of accident companies from saying themselves liable to, do not mean such dangers as they meet in the discharge of their duties. In the case in which the syllabus was given the insured ventured to cross a slough which he was told was dangerous. To cross it was in line of duty, however, and he attempted it and went down to death. His widow, by this decision of the court, gets the full insurance on his life.

A BILL

For the Annexation of Hawaii Introduced in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Senator Morgan Wednesday introduced a bill for the annexation of the Hawaiian islands. The bill provides that the islands shall become a territory of the United States, in accordance with the terms of the recently negotiated treaty. The date set for the extension of the laws of this country over the islands is the 4th of March, 1898, but it is specifically provided that they may be put in force at an earlier day if congress so directs. It is also directed that the five commissioners provided for by the treaty to make recommendations to congress in matters pertaining to Hawaii shall be confirmed by the senate. The bill appropriates a million dollars for the execution of its provisions. Out of this sum the interest on the Hawaiian debt is to be paid but provision for the payment of the principal of this debt is deferred.

In reply to a question, Senator Morgan said that his bill was intended to carry the annexation treaty into execution in case it should be ratified by the senate or to provide for its ratification by the joint action of the two houses in case the senate should refuse to act. "The treaty," said the senator, "can be ratified in this form by a majority vote in each of the two houses, thus avoiding the necessity for securing two-thirds of the senate as would be required if the matter should be passed upon by that body alone."

The senator said that circumstances would determine whether the bill should be pressed during the present session of congress.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The state department has practically completed its reply to the Japanese protest against the Hawaiian annexation treaty but has not yet delivered it. The reply is understood to be dignified in tone, a strong legal defense of our position which without in any sense abating our claims, still does not disdain to support them by much citation of precedent and international law.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—A caucus of republican senators has been called for Thursday evening to consider as many of the matters in the tariff bill that have been passed over as can be taken up. The question liable to excite most attention is the form of reciprocity provision which the senate shall place in the bill. Several senators have prepared amendments on this subject, and it is understood that ex-Senator Edmunds has been asked to make suggestions as to the legal form of the provision, and has consented to so do. The general opinion on the republican side is favorable to a declaration for reciprocity and of providing a means for putting it into effect, the only difference likely to arise being over the form. The caucus will also likely take up the anti-trust amendment, providing the republican members of the committee on judiciary are ready to report. Other questions which are slated for consideration are the duty on tea, the internal revenue features, which will involve the policy of striking out the entire portion of the bill on this subject, including the increased tax on beer and the dispute over the rate of duty on imported wrapper tobacco, if time permits.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Brig. Gen. Anson Mills, formerly colonel of the Third cavalry and now stationed at El Paso, Tex., has been retired on his own application under the 40 years' service clause. He will continue, however, to serve as a member of the Mexican boundary commission until the completion of that work.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Dr. Angell, the newly appointed minister to Turkey, has notified the state department that he will sail from New York on the 17th of July for his post, stopping in London en route to confer with Mr. Terrell, the retiring minister.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—An eloquent tribute to the long and illustrious reign of Queen Victoria was a feature of the opening prayer before the senate Wednesday by the acting chaplain, Rev. Hugh Johnson.

YALE FRESHMEN

Win the Two-Mile Race Over the Harvards and Cornells—Record Breakers.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 24.—Three crews of freshmen on the Hudson Wednesday evening smashed to smithereens all previous records for freshmen on a two-mile course, and put up one of the hottest intercollegiate races ever witnessed in this country. A crew of sturdy Yale freshmen rowed the two-mile course in 9 minutes, 19½ seconds; a trifle lighter crew of Harvard freshmen fought them every inch of the way and finished a trifle over two lengths behind them, in 9:26½, and the Cornell freshmen, whose college record is that none of its freshmen crews has ever been beaten before, finished a length behind Harvard in 9:29½.

Hot Weather in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 24.—The average maximum temperatnre in Arkansas Wednesday, as shown by government thermometers, was 100. The highest point was at Warren, where the thermometer registered 109 degrees. At noon the thermometer in the United States weather bureau office at Little Rock registered 100. Alf Jennings, a section hand, was overcome and died from the effects of the heat. At Texarkana, Wesley Adams, a laborer employed in an ice factory, was prostrated and will probably die.

Pulliam Nominated for the Legislature.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 24.—Harry C. Pulliam, president of the Louisville baseball club, was nominated for the legislature by the democrats of his legislative district in this city at Tuesday's primary. Mr. Pulliam's selection was all the more a compliment because he did not have an opportunity to make a canvass, being away from the city with the Colonels during the entire campaign. The members of the Louisville team telegraphed their thanks to the voters of the district Wednesday morning, and promised in return to land the Colonels in the first division.

CONFEDERATES PARADE.

More Than Ten Thousand Old Soldiers Were in the Ranks.

The Largest Demonstration in the History of the Organization—Thousands of People From the Surrounding Towns Viewed the Procession.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 25.—The parade of the United Confederate Veterans Thursday, in which more than ten thousand veterans took part, was the largest in the history of the organization and one of the greatest ever seen in this city. The regular and special trains arriving in the morning brought thousands of people from cities and towns in Tennessee and other states, and thousands more came to the city in wagons and on horseback from points in the country around Nashville. The streets were densely crowded, and every available place from which a view of the procession could be obtained was occupied long before the order to march was given by Gen. W. H. Jackson, the chief marshal. The parade was headed by a detachment of police commanded by Chief Clack. Then came Gen. Jackson and his staff. Gen. Jno. B. Gordon, the commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, and his staff, followed close behind. Each division was headed by the general in command, and the sponsors and maids of honor rode in open carriages, which were decorated with flags. There were a number of bands in the parade, and the airs rendered by them were followed by loud applause from the spectators. The stars and stripes and the confederate flag were conspicuous in the long line that reached from the Public square to the Tennessee Centennial exposition gates.

The procession was composed of the South Carolina, North Carolina, Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland, Indian Territory, New York, District of Columbia, Illinois, Arkansas, Virginia, Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Tennessee divisions; United Confederate veterans; Sons of Confederate Soldiers; Troop A; the Savannah hussars; United Daughters of the Confederacy; the sponsors for the different states and their maids of honor, and the detachment of police. Rain fell at intervals during the procession, though this caused only a brief halt. The parade was a great success.

As was to be expected, the Tennessee division was the largest, but the adjoining states furnished thousand, and from the distant ones the attendance was heavy. After passing the reviewing stand the parade was dismissed and the bright sunshine soon removed the traces of the rainstorm.

Though the rainstorms had caused disappointment, had bedraggled the flags and banners, had drenched the paraders and made limp the costumes of the ladies, enthusiasm was not dampened, and in a short time the streets were again thronged and of the countless thousands the major portion were traveling to the auditorium to listen to the speeches and witness the closing exercises of the afternoon and evening.

While old confederate flags, regimental flags, tattered and torn, appeared in decorations and in the parade, equally prominent at every turn was the star spangled banner, and in the parade the national standard was seen in every division.

It is the unanimous verdict of the veterans and their visiting friends that the re-union is the most successful yet held.

A BOUNDARY DISPUTE

May Be the Result of the Discovery of Gold on Oak Point Island in Rainy Lake.

DULUTH, Minn., June 25.—Gold has been discovered on Oak Point island, in Rainy Lake, which will undoubtedly lead to an international boundary dispute between Great Britain and the United States. According to the maps of the geological survey, the island is in Canadian territory, but according to the wording of the treaty between the two governments, the island is a part of the state of Minnesota. Canada has issued patents to some valuable mining locations on the island, and vigorous protests are being sent to Washington by American prospectors. The miners throughout the Rainy Lake district are considerably wrought up over the matter and there is probability of trouble unless something is done. The way things now stand the United States loses entire control even of her waters in Rainy lake, as, according to the geological survey, the United States can not get a foot into Rainy lake without first going through Canadian waters. This is a direct violation of the treaty. The Three Hundred island boundary dispute is of minor importance compared to this.

Dying in a Basement.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Mrs. Louisa Moncrief King, related by blood and marriage to a large part of the nobility of England, lies dying of dropsy in the basement rooms of the two-story house at 2916 Calumet avenue. The dying woman is a cousin of the present Sir Thomas Moncrief, father of the famous five sisters who made such brilliant marriages. Mrs. King is 71 years of age and was born in New York city. She lives with her daughter, Mrs. F. H. Cummings. She is the widow of Col. Robert King, a Shakespearean reader, and a brother of Washington King, who was mayor of St. Louis.

Big Cut in Wages.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 25.—Painter & Sons, proprietors of the largest cotton tie and hoop mills in the world, have notified their employes that wages will be cut. The average reduction is said to be 30 per cent. The men, who belong to the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steelworkers, will fight the cut.

Guatemala Signs the Treaty.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, (via Galveston) June 25.—A treaty for the provisional union of the five republics of Central America has been signed by Guatemala.

LIGHTNING

Plays Sad Havoc With Life and Property in Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 26.—Lightning played havoc with life and property in Georgia Friday. The daughter of the mayor of Powder Springs, a popular summer resort in this state, Miss Hattie Scott, was slain by a bolt Friday evening, and at the same place a powerful threshing machine was torn to pieces by lightning, its operators dangerously injured and the draught oxen killed.

At Carrollton, the center of the stock-raising industry in the state, James Downs, jr., and Samuel Connie, both white, were struck and killed by lightning, the bolt tearing their clothes and discoloring their features. Damage to property at this place will be immense.

At Milner, in the northern portion of this state, a bolt struck on Mr. J. A. Farley's farm and killed Samuel Lawrence, a colored farm hand, badly burned another, and injured Mr. Farley's son. The storm which accompanied the electrical display flooded all the water ways, and the loss of property owing to fires originating from lightning and resulting from the floods will range very high.

The lightning played curious freaks, sometimes merely touching an old ruin and again destroying some pretentious planter's residence. The damage in the large towns was comparatively light.

QUEEN VICTORIA

Visits the School Children—The Firemen's Parade—Torchlight Evolutions and Fireworks.

WINDSOR, Eng., June 26.—The queen drove to Windsor park Friday and visited 6,000 school children who were celebrating her majesty's jubilee.

Later, the queen received delegations from fire brigades belonging to all parts of the kingdom.

The queen seemed in excellent health and spirits and smiling conversed with those around her.

The firemen's parade was one of the largest ever held in England. There were 1,200 men in line and 100 engines. The duke of Marlborough, as president of the National Fire brigade, presented the officers to the queen.

While the queen and Empress Frederick were dining Friday evening, a thousand Eton boys, with bands of music, entered the quadrangle of the castle and gave an exhibition of torchlight evolutions and fireworks. The charming spectacle was watched by the queen and the members of the royal household from the castle windows.

OUR BRITISH COUSINS

Well Pleased Over the Part Taken by the United States in the Diamond Jubilee.

NEW YORK, June 26.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: The favorable impression produced in England by President McKinley's action in appointing a special embassy for the historic occasion of the queen's jubilee is emphasized by the distinction with which it has been received at court and in the highest social circles. All the members of the special embassy shared in the exceptional honors and attentions paid them as representatives of the United States. Royalty has set the style, and every reference to America in the public press is sympathetic and appreciative. The fact is generally recognized that America has departed from her usual half-hearted methods of diplomatic intercourse with foreign nations and taken her place with dignity and distinction in the world's court of honor opened in London for the purpose of congratulating the queen and her empire on her long and prosperous reign.

THE LORD MAYOR

Gives a Luncheon to Princes and Princesses, Special Envoys and Diplomats.

LONDON, June 26.—The lord mayor, Sir George Faudel-Philips, gave a luncheon at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Mansion house to all the princes and princesses, British and foreign, who were in the jubilee procession and to most of the special envoys with the rank of ambassador, and to part of the diplomatic corps. Among those present were the United States special ambassador, Whitelaw Reid, and Mrs. Reid, and the United States ambassador, Col. John Hay, and Mrs. Hay. The guests were entertained in the Egyptian hall. The lord mayor wore his ermine earl's robe, as on jubilee day. Great crowds of people watched the arrival and departure of the guests, who were warmly cheered.

Determined to Prevent Mob Violence.

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 26.—The governor of Kentucky is determined to prevent mob violence in this state. While every one knowns that the soldier boys were going to Simpson county to protect George Dinning the Negro who is to be tried there next week, none suspected that cannon would be necessary to prevent mob violence, but acting Governor Worthington thought otherwise, and two cannon were loaded on flat cars here Friday night to be shipped to Franklin.

Prominent Attorney Found Dead.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 26.—Hon. J. M. Bible, United States district attorney for east Tennessee, and one of the most active politicians in the state, was found dead in bed at his home in this city Friday morning. Mr. Bible had charge of several large law suits for the government, which are as yet unsettled, and his death at the present time is particularly unfortunate.

An Ill-Fated Family.

PADUCAH, Ky., June 26.—Mrs. Catherine Worthington, who lived three miles from the city, in Illinois, died Thursday of blood poisoning. Her ten-days-old babe died from the same cause about the same hour and in the same bed. Both were buried in the same grave Friday. Last September Mrs. Worthington, in a quarrel with her sister Edaline, struck her on the head with a broom handle and instantly killed her. She was indicted for manslaughter, but the case never came to trial. Since the tragedy five members of the family have died.

DIAMOND JUBILEE.

The Gracious Queen of Sixty Years Cheered by the Throng.

Nearly All Nations Represented in the Marvelous Civic and Military Pageant—London Covered With Flags and Bunting—Beacon Fires Flash Through the Empire.

LONDON, June 23.—Congratulatory telegrams began pouring into Buckingham palace from every court in Europe early Tuesday, and also from the remotest parts of the British Empire. The queen enjoyed a good night's rest.

Promptly at the hour appointed by the queen, the field marshal in charge of the head of the column of the royal procession, was at the Wellington statue at the Hyde Park corner, to receive the signal that the queen had entered her carriage, and at 11 o'clock the starting gun in the park was fired. The progress of the parade towards St. Paul's cathedral, whither the colonial procession had already gone, was made with few days. As a mere spectacle the royal procession was truly magnificent, but as a symbolization of power and power it eclipsed all previous pagents that the earth has ever witnessed.

Military bands were interpersed at frequent intervals throughout the procession. Indeed, such a prodigality of music has never been seen in any previous parade in London. Following the regular troops were the naval and military aid-de-camp to the queen, these including many of the most distinguished officers in the two services. The foreign naval and military attaches were next, including Maj. Gen. Miles, Lieut. Col. Weil, United States naval attache, and Maj. Ludlow, formerly United States military attache.

The ambassadors came next, and by this time the interest of the spectators had become most intense. These gentlemen occupied five magnificent andans, there being four occupants in each vehicle. Eleven similar carriages followed, containing the highest court dignitaries and female members of the royal family, who were cheered as they were recognized. At length came the personal escort of the sovereign, and the enthusiasm of the vast throng rose to a high pitch. Following there were a contingent of life guards, and then an escort of English and foreign princes riding on horseback in threes.

As her majesty approached the chiefs were deafening and overwhelming. The queen sat apparently unmoved at this popular ovation, though she was several times compelled to show the emotion she felt. While she was the recipient of the grandest outpouring of popular admiration and affection ever vouchsafed to a sovereign, she could unfortunately see little or nothing of the grandeur of the pageantry. It was painfully apparent that the reports concerning the queen's approaching blindness were true.

The queen's carriage reached Temple Bar at noon, where the lord mayor rendered official homage to the sovereign.

LONDON, June 23.—With the coming of night the crowds which had filtered out of the procession streets after the great show wedged back again to view London alight. The illuminations were achieved more artistically than the decorations by day. Tuesday night those of the metropolis are, like everything else that had previously transpired during the morning hours, greater and more resplendant than anything in her history. The symbals of loyalty and affection, of imperial grandeur and the growth of the empire that had met the eye in painted and gilded mottoes, devices of paper and bunting and spangled cloth were now reflected for miles in lines of flaring gas, glow worm oil lamps, opal globes, paper lanterns and transparencies, incandescent lamps, celluloid flowers and hundreds of devices in thousands of colored crystals. Everywhere was brilliancy, sparkle, color.

With illuminations which are universal in every city, town and hamlet of England, Wales and Scotland, and in some parts of Ireland, with fireworks in countless places, with illuminations following the fall of night in every part of the empire where the queen is known, there yet remains to be mentioned the final touch—the lighting of the empire's torch—the ancient form of giving warning or sending joy, the beacon fires. As 10 o'clock struck at the Greenwich observatory a tongue of flame shot upward from Great Malvern "the backbone of the Midland." It was the jubilee beacon fire. Hardly had the spectator time to look on it before another flared in the distance on the right, than again on the left, on the north, south, east and west. Peak answered to peak, until from Berwick-on-Tweed to Rough Tor and Brown Willie in Cornwall, from the cathedral towers of Litchfield, Worcester, Ripon, Lincoln and Durham, from Skiddaw to St. Heliers, from Hastings to Cedar Iris and across the water to Donegal and Dublin, a thousand beacon fires blazed up their message of loyalty to the sovereign. Half an hour later the lowlands, the highlands, the wild Hebrides, even to Netima Thule, sent answering signals to the sky. And then slowly, as the light failed from day to evening round the world, the empire's torch was lit. From St. Heliers the signal leaped to Gibraltar, to Malta, to Cyprus, to Ceylon, to India, where it blazed triumphant on the Himalayans, to China, to Australia, to Canada, to the West Indies, the empire's torch shed its radiance over the universe.

ABOUT AMERICANS.

President McKinley was given the degree of LL.D. by McKendree university, in Lebanon, Ill., at its eighth commencement recently.

J. Nat Harbin, Senator Hearst's old mining partner of early California days, has been discovered alive in Mexico. He has been thought dead for 15 years.

President McKinley's mail averages from 1,000 to 1,300 letters a day, besides several large sacks of newspapers. This is the largest mail in the history of the presidential mansion.

Some Interesting Facts Regarding the Output of Crescent Bicycles.

This article is intended to convey a conception of the enormous amount of raw material consumed during a season in supplying the demand for one of the most popular bicycles made. The Western Wheel Works, Chicago, makers of the Crescent wheel, have the largest, and without doubt the most complete, bicycle factory in the world, and can turn out, when running to fullest capacity, 725 finished Crescents in twelve hours, or a complete "up to date" bicycle per minute.

They used during 1896 350 miles of tubing, or enough to nearly reach from Chicago to St. Paul if placed in a straight line. The spokes were made in their own factory, and required 760 miles of wire, or enough to reach from Chicago to Lincoln, Neb.; 50 miles of brass rod was required for spoke nipples. If the spokes, spoke nipples and tubing were placed in a straight line they would reach from Chicago to the Rocky Mountains at Denver. The cranks, if placed end to end, would cover a distance of 22 miles. They used 35 miles of steel for crank axles, wheel axles and pedal axles, and 19 miles of steel for seat posts. If the rims that were used in the manufacture of Crescents in '96 were placed one upon the other they would make a pile 19,800 feet high, 6,000 feet higher than Pike's Peak and about the height of Mount Elias in Alaska, whose summit has never yet been reached by man. It required 32,084 square feet of sheet steel to make the Crescent hollow tooth sprockets, and 21,876 square feet for the steel stampings of the head and seat post clamps, or in all enough flat steel to cover an area of 11 acres. There were used 10 miles of cotton cord, 104 miles of finished hubs, and 28 miles of steel wire to pin frames together before brazing. The nuts, cones, and ends, if placed in a row, would reach 70 miles, and the different pieces of which they are composed would reach 2373 miles, or in all 3074 miles, the distance from Chicago to Cincinnati. The bearings of 1896 Crescents required 13,207,360 steel balls, which, if placed in a straight line, side by side, would reach a distance of 452 miles. To lace the chain and dress guards on the ladies' Crescents manufactured in 1896 required 434,150 yards of cord, or 246½ miles, enough to allow a small boy to stand on the top of the Auditorium tower in Chicago and fly his kite where the people in Des Moines, Iowa, could see it. To supply Crescents sold in 1896 required 1,606,742 bolts, and 1,488,075 nuts, having an aggregate weight of 23 tons. The total weight of the complete bicycles was 2,382,842 pounds, or 1,191 tons. To crate these bicycles required 1,235,740 square feet of lumber made up in pieces 72,738 in separate and distinct pieces entered into the construction of '96 Crescents, and if all were placed in a straight line, end to end, they would reach from New York to some distance in the Pacific ocean west of San Francisco.—Crescent Bulletin, July 1, 1897.

The Same Old Wail.—Said Eve—"What a chooser of fig-leaves you are! 'Tis the worst one that ever I carried." Said Adam "Your dresses are better by far than any you had when we married."—Harlem Life.

A Wonderful Rifle.

Hunting big game is not as hard work as it used to be in the days of the long, heavy, big bored rifles. With a light modern rifle, such as the Model '94 or '95 Wiuchester, more game can be killed and at much longer distances than with any one of the old time guns. The Model '95 Winchester is one of the highest powered rifles made. It will shoot a 30-caliber U. S. Army bullet through over 50 inches of dry pine boards, and drive a bullet at the rate of 2,000 feet a second through the air. Hunters all over the country say that this is the best hunting rifle ever made. Send for 96 page Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Ct., for a large illustrated catalogue free.

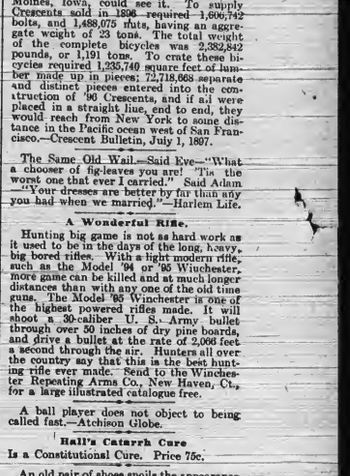
A ball player does not object to being called fast.—Atchison Globe.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a Constitutional Cure. Price 75c.

An old pair of shoes spoils the appearance of any woman.—Atchison Globe.

BOILS, BOILS, BOILS



They Came Thick and Fast—Till Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My brother had terrible boils on the back of his neck. As fast as one would get better another would come. He became very much emaciated, and began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. One bottle made a great improvement, and when he had taken two bottles he was completely cured." CARRIE D. ERVIN, Mound City, Illinois.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. $1: six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure sick headache. 25 cents.

NEBRASKA FARM LANDS. A dry healthy climate, free from malaria, an abundance of pure water, a soil which is unsurpassed for richness, and is easily cultivated, yielding all varieties of crops. That is what Nebraska offers to the home seeker. Lands are cheap now. Send for a pamphlet describing Nebraska, mailed free on application to P. S. EUSTIS, General Passenger Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

EDUCATIONAL.

Chicago Musical College.
CENTRAL MUSIC HALL,
CHICAGO, ILL.
DR. F. ZIEGFELD, PRESIDENT.
MUSIC ORATORY and DRAMATIC ART.
32nd SEASON BEGINS SEPT. 6, 1897.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE.

COLONEL WRIGHT'S MILITARY ACADEMY, PERRYVILLE, K.Y. For catalog, address C. J. WRIGHT, A. M., Principal.

A FORECAST

Of Business to Be Transacted in Congress Next Week.

Republican Tariff Managers Are Hopeful That the Debate

In the Senate Will Be Ended by the End of the Week—The House Will Continue Its Policy of Adjournment From Monday Until Thursday.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The republican tariff managers are still hopeful that the present may prove to be the last week of the tariff debate in the senate. All the schedules have been gone over once, leaving nothing to be done but to consider the paragraphs in the various schedules which have been passed when reached in their regular order because of differences of opinion among the republicans themselves.

Many of these differences have been adjusted in the republican ranks, but the democrats will naturally take advantage of their knowledge of the feeling existing among their opponents to debate some of the questions at length. It is understood now that coal, leather hides and lead ore will each be vigorously discussed, as will also the questions, though more briefly of reciprocity, the treatment of trusts and the disposition of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty.

In view of the determination of the democrats to exploit all these questions and others as well, it would seem impossible to concinde the senate's work on the bill before the end of the week, and it is more than probable that the final work will be reserved for the following week.

The house will continue this week its policy of adjournment from Monday until Thursday. After that its course will depend upon the action of the senate. If by any chance a vote should be had on the tariff bill Wednesday or Tuesday, the house probably will remain in session to receive the bill, disagree to the senate amendments and appoint conferees. Otherwise an adjournment will be had from Thursday to Monday.

Charles DeKay, United States consul-general at Berlin, in a report to the state department calls attention to the fact that German bicycle makers are deeply concerned at the now very large and growing competition of American machines. The league of industrials at Bochum, an important manufacturing center, has taken up the matter and a memorial to the German government calls attention to the fact that this great industry is in imminent peril owing to the rivalry of American bicycle manufacturers. They complain that the United States levies a duty on foreign made wheels of about $14.28, while the German duty being only $5.71 on 100 kiliograms, only from 71 to 95 cents duty falls on the American wheel. On these and other grounds the aid of the German government is asked in behalf of the home industry.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The republican tariff managers are very hopeful of being able to complete the consideration of the tariff bill in the senate by next Wednesday night, a result which would bring the end in the senate within the present month. They are led to this conclusion because the republicans have adjusted most of their differences and see their way clear to the settlement of others. The democratic leaders do not concede the possibility of so early a conclusion. They generally place it a week further, or about the 7th or 8th of July, but admit that the end may come by Saturday of next week.

Of the problems still unsolved by the republicans, lead ore, coal, iron ore, gypsum, tallow and a few chemicals are giving the most trouble, but there is no doubt of an adjustment on all of these which will hold the full party vote. The disposition is to hold to the rates at present fixed on lead and iron ore with the intention of making changes in conferences. The rate on Canadian coal will probably be ad vanced to 67 cents per long ton.

The advocates of a high rate on lead ore apparently are prepared to meet their opponents half way in conference and accept a rate of 1½ cents.

The Finance committee has practically decided to abandon the proposed tax on bank checks which at one time was so favorably considered, and also the increase of 44 cents a barrel in the beer tax and the change in the tobacco tax. Indeed it appears more than probable that all the changes in the internal revenue laws proposed by the bill will be abandoned.

There is some difficulty in the judiciary committee in agreeing upon the form of an anti-trust amendment, but all the probabilities point to the incorportion of the Pettus proposition directed specifically at the sugar trust, and of very little more. It is expected that the reciprocity amendment will be ready for presentation by next Thursday. The present indications are that it will make provision for the negotiation of reciprocity treaties, but that there will be a requirement that they shall be submitted to the senate differing in this respect from the reciprocity provision of the McKinley law. The necessity for subserving the revenues will render it impossible that provision should be made for the free admission of dutiable articles under reciprocal agreements, but that a maximum perceptage for remission will be specified. The rate of remission most favorably considered now is 20 per cent.

Senator Pettigrew Recovered.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Senator Pettigrew has recovered from his illness of Saturday. He had so far recovered his voice Sunday night as to be able to articulate quite distinctly, and he expressed great confidence in his speedy restoration to health. His physician concurs in this view but insists upon his patient remaining very quiet for the present.

AT THE OPERA.

The Scene in the Covent Garden was a Most Gorgeous One—Women Blazed With Jewelry and the Men With Brilliant Uniforms.

LONDON, June 24.—Wednesday night was a gala night at Covent Garden opera house, where the whole programme and performance reflected the greatest credit on Maurice Grau.

The event fairly rivaled the procession as an attraction to Londoners. For miles around Covent garden the streets were crowded and the crush of carriages was so dense that many men, wearing gorgeous uniforms and covered with jewels, had to walk for long distances with the varying comments of the crowd. Many others, like the duke of Marlborough and the duke of Devonshire, drove to the opera house in state carriages, with coachmen and footmen resplendent in state liveries.

In front of the opera house was a mounted guard of honor; inside the earl of Lathom, with a lot of gold sticks awaited the arrival of the royal party, while Beefeaters lined the stairway and mounted guard outside the royal box.

Meantime the house filled and the scene was most gorgeous. The women blazed with jewelry; nearly every man wore a uniform of some sort, while the Indian princes, dressed in native costume, occupied prominent boxes and were curious spectators of the glittering display.

At length the royals began to arrive, the princess of Wales coming first. Her costume was white, embroidered with silver; upon her head she wore a beautiful diamond tiare, pearls around her neck and a long row of orders across her bodice. As she entered the royal box the audience rose and the band played the national anthem.

The rest of the party then filed into the box, each proceeded by the earl of Lathom walking backward. Among them were all the visiting princes and all the members of the English royal family except the queen, Empress Frederick of Germany and Princess Beatrice.

As soon as they were seated the curtain rose, disclosing the entire cast of the opera among them Madame Melba and Mme. De Reszke, grouped upon the stage. Then followed such a rendering of the national anthem as it never had before, after which was carried out Mr. Grau's carefully arranged programme, including the second act of "Tannhauser," the third act of Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet," and the fourth act of the "Hugenots."

The efforts of the singers and the orchestra were received with the greatest enthusiasm and the performance surpassed in every way the famous Gala performance given at Covent Garden for the emperor of Germany.

The scene was one of incomparable loveliness. The whole interior of the structure was hidden by freshly cut flowers, principally roses. The upper tier of boxes was a mass of Marchenell roses, the next tier a mass of pink roses and the bottom tier of rich dark red roses. White flowers adorned the royal box, which was surmounted by an enormous floral crown of crimson roses and golden orchids. The box was decorated in the Louis XVI. style, the chairs and settees being covered with white and yellow silk. The same material, fluted and patterned into diamonds formed the ceiling.

The box was a beauti ul picture. The prince of Wales wore the red uniform of a field marshal and among all the other princes there were no two uniforms like.

The royal group seemed a collection of glittering orders and beautiful gowns. The princess of Naples wore some wonderful diamonds, and Grand Duchess Sergius displayed the largest emeral in the world.

It was noticeable, however, that the royals were less lavish in jewelry than many ladies in the other boxes, who were fairly plastered with gems.

The audience incluided all the leaders of official and social England and all of the ambassadors. Ambassador Hay, with Miss Hay and Spencer Eddy, occupied his own box.

After the performance in Covent garden, the prince and princess of Wales and the royal party were entertained at supper by Lord Rothschild at his town house in Piccadilly. A dance followed. There were 800 guests.

Ohio Republican Ticket.

TOLEDO, O., June 24.—The republican convention Wednesday nominated the following ticket:

For governor, Asa S. Bushnell.

For lieutenant governor, Asa W. Jones.

For supreme court judge, Joseph F. Burket.

For attorney general, Frank S. Monnett.

For state treasurer, Samuel R. Campbell.

For school commissioner, Lewis D. Bonebrake.

For board public works, Charles A. Goddard.

Blown Up With Dynamite.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 24.—An Italian laborers' shanty near Brilliant station, on the Allegheny Valley railroad, was blown up by dynamite shortly after midnight and Gaetus Antinello was instantly killed. Tigtorina Sartorilla was fatally injured and a number of others received injuries of a less serious nature. The police believe the explosion was the result of a plot against Antinello and 13 Italians have been arrested pending an investigation.

Lieut. Peary Going North.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Lieut. Peary, the Arctic explorer, started for Boston Wednesday night. He will sail from Boston on July 10 for the north. "This present trip," he said, "is simply preliminary to next year's Arctic exploration, which may continue three, four or five years, with the intention of reaching the pole if possible."

Heat Victims in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, June 24.—The intense heat continues here. Five deaths were reported Wednesday, among them is Bishop Dudley, a well known cotton broker.

WABASH WRECK

The Remains of the Seven Victims Shipped to St. Louis.

Of the Nineteen Others Injured Not One is in a Critical Condition.

A Brave Former's Unsuccessful Effort to Flag the Train—Nearly One-Half the Mail on the Train Lost or Destroyed —Clearing Away the Wreck.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 28.—Seven coffins were forwarded to St. Louis Sunday from Missouri City. They contained the remains of victims of Saturday night's wreck on the Wabash road. A correct list of the dead is as follows: W. S. Mills, postal clerk; O. M. Smith, postal clerk; Gustave A. Smith, postal clerk; Charles Winters, postal clerk; F. W. Brink, postal clerk; Edward Grindrod, baggageman; Chas. P. Greasley, brakeman; all of St. Louis.

The conductor of the train, G. C. Copeland, of St. Louis, who was reported Saturday night among the dead, is still alive. He was removed Sunday morning to the railroad hospital at Moberly. With a fractured skull and several broken ribs he lingers between life and death, but the surgeons express a hope that he will recover.

Of the 19 others injured not one is in a critical condition, though many of them were thrown three-quarters of the length of the coaches in which they were riding. Mrs. W. H. Wilkinson, of Kansas City, is the most seriously hurt. Two small bones of her left hand are broken and she suffered a severe laceration of the thigh as well as bruises about the face and neck. The wounds of most of the others are trivial.

All indications are that death came to at least four of the five unfortunate mail clerks almost instantly. Their car pitched end first through the break in the trestle, and they must have been drowned in the raging stream while in an unconscious condition. The remains of the four were carried from the wreck and were recovered some distance down the stream.

Sunday but a small stream was flowing beneath the trestle where the wreck occurred. In ordinary weather it is a dry creek bed. The storm of Saturday night, which was almost a cloud-burst, had swollen the little stream to torrential proportions. The flood carried away a wagon bridge a short distance above the Wabash trestle. The wreck of this bridge was hurled down upon the railroad trestle and carried with a row of wooden supports in the center.

A neighboring farmer noticed the perilous condition of the trestle and resolved to flag the passenger train, which he knew to be about due. For nearly an hour he stood there in the terrific down-pour of rain, only to fail at last in his good intentions, for when the Wabash Co.'s New York fast mail came thundering on the storm was almost blinding, and the engineer evidently could not see the signal which the farmer so frantically waved across the track.

The locomotive struck the trestle; a moment later the disaster was presented in all its horrors. The engine passed over, but the tender went through with the tumbling bridge. The baggage car toppled off on its side, while the mail car which followed pitched into the stream end first. Every life in this car was lost. The smoker, next behind, followed. It was in this car that Conductor Copeland was riding. The other occupants escaped serious injury. The chair car next behind also plunged in upon the mass of wreckage end first and all its passengers were thrown to the forward end in an indescribable heap. How they escape with no more serious injury is a mystery. The front end of the sleeper next in the rear jammed into the protruding end of the chair car, and was thus prevented from following the others into the chasm. The two excelsior springs coaches in the rear remained on the track.

The scene of the wreck, which is 21 miles northeast of Kansas City, near Missouri City station, was visited Sunday by many persons. A wrecking train worked there all day, repairing the trestle and raising the shattered coaches, and Sunday night trains are moving over the road as usual.

The postal authorities report that probably nearly all of the mail carried on the train was lost or destroyed. When the wreck occurred the five postal clerks are supposed to have had all of their pouches opened and to have been at work distributing the mail.

A Fiendish Murder.

NEW YORK, June 28.—The lower part of the trunk of a man was found by two boys in the woods at One Hundred and Seventy-sixth street and Undercliffe avenue, this city, Sunday. It is terribly mutilated and shows plainly that a murder has been committed. It was wrapped in oil cloth and manilla paper, exactly as was the upper part of a trunk found in the East river off Eleventh street Saturday. The two are parts of the same body. The two pieces were found more than eight miles apart—part in the water and the other on the land.

Travelers to Prosecute Curry.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 28.—The Louisville post of the Travelers' Protective association held a meeting Saturday night and decided to raise a fund for the prosecution of Dan Curry, who, it is alleged, murdered Drummer Correy at Corbin last week.

The Moon a Planet.

LIMA, Peru, Via Galveston, Tex., June 28.—Prof. Aarperath, of the Cordoba observatory, asserts that the moon is not a satellite of the earth, but a planet.

Death of Mrs. Margaret Oliphant.

LONDON, June 28.—Mrs. Margaret Oliphant, the authoress, died Friday evening of cancer. She was 70 years of age.

DUTY ON HIDES.

Republican Caucus Sustains the Action of the Committee.

About Fifty Cadets Appointed for the Next Class, Among them a Son of the Late Gen. Sheridan—Stewart L. Woodford Interviews McKinley.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Stewart L. Woodford had an interview with the president Thursday respecting his mission in Spain. He will not leave for Madrid before the latter part of July and will spend the time from now on in acquiring an accurate knowledge of the present state of our relations with Spain. Mr. Calhoun is still in Washington and probably will confer with Mr. Woodford.

Secretary Alger has assigned three officers to fine places as military attaches in Europe. Capt. Tasker H. Bliss, commissary of subsistence, goes to Madrid; Lieut. John R. Williams, Third artillery, to Berne, and Lieut. J. L. Chamberlain, First artillery, to Vienna.

About 50 cadets at the United States military academy have been appointed for the next class year, among them being Philip H. Sheridan, son of the late Gen. Phil Sheridan, who is appointed a cadet at large.

The president has signed the act amending the act providing for the entry of lands in Greer county, Oklahoma, so as to extend until the 1st of January next the time allowed settlers to perfect their entries.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The republican senators decided in caucus Thursday night, by a vote of 22 to 11, to sustain the action of the finance committee in placing a duty upon hides, but did not pass upon the question of the amount of the duty to be imposed.

The committee was also sustained in the rate fixed upon imported wrapper tobacco. The only disputed questions considered were watches and watch jewels and upon these the finance committee was reversed, the house rates being accepted on watches and watch jewels being made free.

The caucus was held in the marble room of the senate and was well attended.

The debate on the tobacco schedule was confined to brief speeches by Senators Hawley and Fairbanks. The finance committee had originally fixed the rate on unstemmed wrapper tobacco at $1.50 per pound, in opposition to the house rate of $2 per pound. The representatives the leaf growers immediately began a contention for the restoration of the house rate, which was resisted by the smaller manufacturers, particularly of the western states. The finance committee yielded to the growers to the extent of advancing the rate to $1.75. The caucus decided without division to stand by the compromise rate of $1.75.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Representative Edward Dean Cooke, of Chicago, dropped dead at 5 o'clock Thursday morning at his hotel, the Cochran, of heart disease. Mr. Cooke was a native of Iowa and 48 years old. He was elected to the Fifty-fourth congress from the "Northside," or Sixth Illinois district, and then re-elected to the present congress.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The gist of the protest of Japan to Hawaiian annexation, which was read to the senate committee on foreign relations, is as follows:

The acquisition of Hawaii by annexation to the United States would deprive the resident Japanese in the islands of rights to which they are at present entitled under the present treaty with Hawaii. At present there are 25,000 Japanese in the islands, with large property rights, and under the present conditions they are entitled to become citizens of Hawaii. In case of annexation these Japanese could not become citizens of the United States as the decisions of the United States circuit courts are to the effect that no Asiatic can become a citizen of the United States. By annexation the Japanese now resident in Hawaii would be subject to any measures that might be adopted by the United States. They would lose their right to become citizens and the large interests owned by Japanese citizens in the islands would be greatly jeopardized; therefore the Japanese government must firmly protest against the proposed annexation.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—By 27 to 18 the senate Thursday rejected Mr. Jones' motion to suspend the operation of the wool duties for one year.

Gov. Atkinson Married.

WHEELING, W. Va., June 25.—At 9 o'clock Thursday night Hon. George Wesley Atkinson, of West Virginia, was united in marriage at Clarksburg, the home of the bride, to Mrs. Myra H. Camden, widow of the late wealthy Judge G. D. Camden. The ceremony took place in the presence of only a few intimate friends, and had not been previously announced for Thursday night, the public understanding that it would occur Saturday.

Workmen Badly Injured.

JACKSON, Mich., June 25.—One workman was fatally and two others seriously injured Thursday by the giving way of rotten timbers near the roof of the condemned county courthouse, which they were helping to tear down. The men fell from the top of the building to the cellar. Robert Baugh will die from fracture of the spine, and Joseph Speero and Western Young are seriously hurt.

Adm. Miller's Daughter Ill.

LONDON, June 25.—Adm. Miller's daughter is dangerously ill. She is suffering from typhoid fever, believed to have been contracted on the passage across the Atlantic. Mrs. Miller is with her and they have not been able to take part in any of the ceremonies

Dr. Angell Will Not See Terrell.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 25.—Dr. Angell, minister to Turkey, denies the report from Washington that he is going to London to confer with Minister Terrell, while en route to Constantinople. He says he will go to Paris, thence to Constantinople.

KEY WEST, FLA.

The City Virtually in the Hands of a Negro Mob—One White Man Killed.

KEY WEST, Fla., June 26.—This city was virtually in the hands of a Negro mob Thursday night and a white citizen was killed by the mob. At 4 p. m. Thursday, Silvanus Johnson, charged with assault on a white woman, Mrs. Margaret Atwell, was conducted to the courthouse for a hearing. The courtroom was crowded, and C. B. Pendleton, a well-known citizen, arose and asked:

"Are there enough white men present to hang the Negro?"

There was a chorus of "Yes," and the crowd closed in on the prisoner. The sheriff and his deputies drew their revolvers and held the crowd at bay while Johnson was at once hurried back to jail. A big mob gathered in front of the building, and one of the Negroes cried out to lynch Pendleton, and a rush was made for him. Through the efforts of himself and his friends, Pendleton made his escape in a carriage.

The Negro mob then gathered again about the jail building to prevent the lynching of Johnson, and often threats were made by them to kill any white man that might come to the jail. About 11 o'clock Friday night, Wm. Gardner, a white man, was sitting in front of the courthouse, when several of the Negro mob approached him and ordered him to move on. He arose to obey, and as soon as his back was turned there rang out the crack of a number of rifles, and Gardner received a mortal wound, from which he died a few hours later.

The whites are inclined to avenge Gardner's death, and another attempt to lynch Johnson is expected to be made. A serious conflict between the whites and the blacks is feared.

The militia is in readiness for any disturbance, having been ordered out by the governor, and the United States troops are at the orders of the sheriff.

A MOB

At Crystal Springs, Miss., Disposes of a Negro Murderer—Taken From Jail and Hanged Before the State Troops Arrive.

JACKSON, Miss., June 26.—The Crystal Springs mob which assembled to hang William Mosley, colored, for the murder of John H. Strong, which got its man at 9:45 Friday morning and lynched him. Acting Gov. Jones was found at 8 o'clock Friday and wired Adj. Gen. Henry to send troops. The Capital light guards of Jackson, were at the depot preparing to go by special train when, at 9:50, came a telegram that the Negro was dead. The troops disbanded.

The crime for which the Negro was lynched was one most cowardly. He asked permission to ride with Mr. Strong, who had been to Crystal Springs and sold $8.55 worth of tomatoes. He crawled into the wagon, brained the old man with a stick, robbed the body, took to the woods and let the team go home with the corpse.

After three days' search the murderer was captured.

The mob was small, and, had the troops been ordered Thursday night, would have been started easily. But neither the governor nor lieutenant governor could be reached Thursday night.

CLARK LEWIS

Pays the Penalty at Fayetteville, W. Va., for a Series of Crimes.

FAYETTEVILLE, W. Va., June 26.—Clark Lewis was hanged at 1:45 p. m. (eastern time) Friday. He died in 12 minutes.

At noon there were 10,000 people in this place to witness the hanging of Clark Lewis, and the streets were filled with vehicles of all kinds.

A mountain hanging is a sight that one will never forget. People came from everywhere, and the natural amphitheater surrounding the scaffold was filled to overflowing by 1 o'clock.

Conspicuous in the crowd was Leebie Lawson, of Loup Creek, ten miles away, a woman who chews tobacco like a man. She has not missed a hanging in the last 20 years.

At 12:30 Sheriff McVey and his aid, J. R. Koontz, adjusted the rope on the scaffold and looped it well.

Revs. Light, Farr and Adams spent the entire time with the condemned man. Before being led to the scaffold Lewis said that he would advise all young men to leave women alone, for they were what brought him to the gallows. He had no use for his brother Wiley and frankly said so.

A Hanging at St. Joseph, Mo.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 26.—James Pollard, colored, was hanged in the jail yard in this city Friday for the murder of Joseph Irvin, also colored. Pollard was pronounced dead in 20 minutes. The murder was committed in July, 1893. Pollard had threatened to kill Dave Irvin and sent to the home of the Irvins at dark one night. Finding the family at supper, he fired at Dave Irvin, but missed him, killing the latter's brother Joseph.

Died on the Gallows.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 26. Terrell Hudson, a Negro who was to have been hanged two weeks ago for murder, but who was reprieved at the last moment by Gov. Atkinson, died on the gallows at Decatur Friday. The drop fell at 11:40½ and 14 minutes later Hudson was pronounced dead, the fall having broken his neck. Hudson killed Seaborn Malcolm, another Negro, in a quarrel about a rabbit dog.

They Were Released.

KEY WEST, Fla., June 26.—The crew and the Cubans who were on board the Dauntless, and who were Thursday arrested, were Friday discharged by U. S. Commissioner Julius Otto, on the grounds that there was no evidence to show that they were a military organization or intending to commit acts hostile to Spain.

A Valuable Book.

LONDON, June 26.—A set of works of Aristotle, the Greek philosopher, printed on vellum, and of the date 1483, brought £800 at the Ashburnham sale Friday.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—SENATE—The senate made giant strides on the tariff bill Monday, covering 56 pages and establishing a record for progress during this tariff debate. The last two schedules of the dutiable list, covering paper and manufactured articles, were completed with the exception of the paragraphs on hides, gloves, coal and lead articles which went over. This advanced the senate to the free list, which was taken up at 2 p. m. and completed in three hours. Early in the day the wool and silk schedules went over with an agreement that wool would be taken up Tuesday. After that the tobacco schedule, the reciprocity provisions and the internal revenue portions of the bill, as well as the many isolated paragraphs passed over, remained to be considered. The progress Monday was so marked, however, that for the first time there was a feeling that the end was not far off.

HOUSE—After the approval of the journal the house, under a special rule, adopted a bill appropriating $100,000 for the repair of dry dock No. 3, at New York, which recently was discovered to be leaking badly. Mr. Laimer (dem., S. C.) asked unanimous consent to have considered a bill declaring a state capable of entirely controlling the liquor traffic. Objected to. Adjourned until Thursday.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—SENATE—An exciting debate marked the consideration of the wool schedule which began in the senate Tuesday. It developed the first serious disagreement on the republican side of the chamber, and that was the bitter controversy between Senators Carter (Mont.) and Spooner (O.) on one hand, and Mr. Allison (Ia.), in charge of the bill, on the other. Mr. Spooner declared that the agreement on the rates on certain wools was being violated, and that under such circumstances every senator would be free to act for himself. Mr. Allison, with great vehemence, declared that he could not be driven by threats. Mr. Carter, who had aroused the storm, endeavored to have the paragraphs relating to carpet wools go over, with a view to securing some additional action, but Mr. West, in an excited speech objected to delaying the era of prosperity and postponing public business while republican senators held a caucus. Mr. Teller, of Colorado, also spoke against delay and took occasion to say he would not vote for the bill unless objectionable features were eliminated. Aside from this stormy interruption, fair progress was made on the wool schedule.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—SENATE—After a contest lasting throughout the day the senate completed the paragraphs of the wool schedule relating to raw wool, and advanced into features relating to manufactured woolen goods. The day's work developed largely into a discussion of the effect of the tariff rates in the price of wool and the speeches were on the republican lines in the main. At one main point Mr. Hoar delivered a political discussion by a reference to William J. Bryan's opposition to the tariff. This brought Senators Mantle, Allen and Stewart to the defense of Mr. Bryan. Mr. Teller was drawn into the controversy, and in a few incisive remarks warned his former republican associates that their hopes of prosperity from this bill would be blasted if they made an effort to have the house ad valorem rates on third-class wools adopted, but he was defeated—19 to 44. The committee rates were adopted, viz: Four cents per pound on third-class wool valued at 10 cents or less per pound and seven cents per pound on third-class wools valued at over 10 cents per pound. The schedule was completed up to paragraph 354, relating to cloths, knit fabrics, etc.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—SENATE—A stubborn contest over the duties on manufactured woolen goods occupied the attention of the senate throughout Thursday. It was a day of constant roll calls and of crossfire debate on the effect of the duties in advancing rates. Many amendments were proposed to reduce the rates but these were rejected by decisive majorities. Less than five pages were disposed of during the day, leaving the senate through paragraph 370, the first of the paragraphs relating to carpets. During the day Mr. Caffery (La.) spoke at length against the protective system and severely arraigned those democratic senators who had voted for duties on wool of another raw material. Resolutions of deep regret were passed on the death of Representative Cook, of Illinois, and a committee of five senators was named as an escort.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—SENATE—The senate Friday completed the wool schedule, the silk schedule and the tobacco schedule of the tariff bill, and with this accomplished, the tariff leaders had the satisfaction of knowing that all the schednles of the bill and the free list had been gone over once. There now only remains to go through the bill a second time, passing on the items passed over. These are very numerous and important, including hides, gloves, coal, tea and beer. After that the internal revenue features of the bill will be all that remain. Progress was rapid Friday, although every paragraph relating to carpets was contested. The consideration of the silk schedule led to a stirring contest against the proposed duties on silk fabrics, Senators Teller and Mantle joining with the democrats in opposition. The paragraph was passed by the slender majority of two. The tobacco schedule went through with little friction after the committee had advanced the duty slightly on wrapper and leaf tobacco.

VARSITY RACE.

Cornell Wins by Five Lengths; Time, 20 Minutes and 34 Seconds.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 26.—There was little betting aside from private wagers on the Cornell-Yale-Harvard varsity race Friday afternoon. Bookmakers' offers of 12 to 10 against Harvard went without takers.

At 3:42 p. m. all crews were in position, and at the take-off at 3:45 they were off, Cornell leading slightly.

First mile—Cornell, first; Harvard, second; Yale, third. Yale is gaining on Harvard. Yale fought up gamely from last place. Harvard's long stroke is telling on Cornell.

Second mile—Cornell, first; Yale, second; Harvard, third. Time at the second mile, 10:39.

At the third mile Cornell is two lengths ahead, Yale second, Harvard third. Harvard is apparently getting very tired. Cornell is rowing easy.

The stroke of Yale's eight at the start was 38, but gradually dropped to 32 and worked up and down from that point.

Harvard's start about 35 and dropped to 31.

Cornell wins by five lengths; Yale second; Harvard third, four lengths back. Time 20 minutes 34 seconds.

The official time was as follows: Cornell, 20:34; Yale, 20:44; Harvard, 21:00. The time last year of Cornell's winning crew was 19:39, but there was a great deal heavier tide in their favor. The finish Friday was marked by a great demonstration upon the part of the boats and people.

Storm at Sedalia, Mo.

SEDALIA, Mo., June 26.—An electrical, wind and rain storm struck this city Friday morning doing much damage. Trees were uprooted and barns, fences and small houses completely wrecked. A Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train ran into a couple of box cars that had been blown from the siding near Montrose. The engineer was partially demolished and a young man, whose identity is unknown and who sought shelter in one of the cars, was killed. Crops have been utterly destroyed in many sections of the county.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, June 30, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Gov. Bradley is recreating on the Northwestern lakes.

A 4½ foot alligator is at large in the Ludlow Lagoon.

James Wilkins, aged 70, hanged himself in Todd county.

Three burglars were caught robbing Devil Creek postoffice.

Miss Mary Mount of Muhlenberg county, committed suicide with a pistol.

Mrs. Davie's home for stray dogs and cats has been established at Lexington.

The annual session of the Sebree camp-meeting will begin August 3 and continue to the 15th.

The First National Bank, of Covington, will reduce its capital stock from $600,000 to $300,000.

The three-year old child of Thos. Jordan, near Greenup, was burnt to death by its clothing catching fire.

Breathitt county's grand jury returned indictments against sixteen men, charging them with kuklux-ing.

Gov. Worthington restored Frank Beedle to citizenship at the close of his three years' term for attempting arson.

John Jackson, wanted on the charge of horsestealing, was arrested in Graves county while dressed as a woman.

The Standard Oil Company has struck a rich field in Floyd and Martin Counties. Eight wells have been sunk.

Mose Habby was arrested at Princeton for a murder alleged to have been committed forty-seven years ago.

Charley Myers and Lee Powell, two colored convicts, fought at Eddyville prison and Powell was stabbed to death.

Henry S. Hart, teller of the First National Bank of Owensboro is a defaulter to the tune of $2,130. He was arrested.

The models of Joel T. Hart's sculptures were destroyed and all hope of reproducing "Woman Triumphant" is abandoned.

The A. P. A's are causing trouble with teachers in public schools in Louisville. They want some of them removed because they are Catholics.

Fully 5,00 people witnessed the commencement exercises at Berea College. There were nineteen graduates—seventeen whites and two negroes.

H. M. Fults, of Carter county, was convicted at Winchester and fined for selling the questions to be used in the examinations for teachers' certificates.

Hon. Ira Julian, Mayor of Frankfort, has been retained, along with ex-Chief Justice Pryor, to collect the insurance on the life of J. W. ("Dick") Tate, former State Treasurer.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Davidson has been investigating the sale of teachers' examination papers, and as a result some arrests of county superintendents will be made.

N. J. Auxier, a young attorney at Pikeville, has filed suit against Floyd Williamson for $20,000 damage for the loss of an eye. Williamson recently struck Auxier with a soup bowl, destroying the sight of his eye.

It one is to judge by the number of crates and baskets that are being shipped down the Kentucky river from this point, for packing peaches, we will have a tremendous crop of this delicious fruit again this year.—Frankfort Call.

Stanford Interior Journal: A snake with two heads was shown in this office Saturday by M. J. Morgan, of the Waynesburg section. He caught it alive in Pulaski, but let it lie in the sun on bringing it home and it died in sections.

The General Association of Kentucky Baptists at Georgetown, by a vote of 106 to 78, adopted a motion to consider the matter of requesting the Kentucky Trustees of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary to resign the presidency of that institution and its chair of Church History.

Mt. Olivet Advance: The large number of married persons of school age reported in various sections of the State leads us to note the fact that Mrs. John O. Murray, of near town, has been married seven years and has gone to school every year since, with one exception. This is her last year in the public school, as she will be twenty years old in September.

The farm near Walnut Hills church, Fayette county, belonging to the estate of the late R. P. Todhunter, containing about 300 acres, and well improved, was sold publicly by the Master Commissioner for $76,25 per acre. Capt. Sam S. Brown was the purchaser. Some years ago, this farm was bought by Mr. Todhunter from Mr. Wm. Pettit for $125 per acre.

Miss Sarah Cecil, the Boyle county heiress, is again starving herself. For two weeks Miss Cecil has refused to eat. Notwithstanding her refusal to take food she does not appear to have lost any strength, and is as vigorous as usual. Miss Cecil was adjudged insane some months ago by a jury at Danville and was incarcerated in the Eastern Kentucky Lunatic Asylum.

Mr. C. B. Henry, brakeman on the R., N., I. & B. freight train, a resident of Richmond, and twenty-eight years of age, says he never passed through a toll-gate in his life, and is yet to ride his first horse. Is it possible to find another man of his age, well and hearty, in this land of horses and toll roads who has never been on a horse or passed through a toll-gate.—Climax.

It seems to be pretty generally understood in Louisville, Lexington and Frankfort that Senator William Goebel, of Covington, is in the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Whether this astute gentleman has ultimate designs upon a seat in the United States Senate is a matter yet to be determined. The Senator is an enigma, even to his friends. He trustsno one with his political intentions.—Ky. Post.

Covington Commonwealth: A few days ago a number of friends visited Charles J. Roell at his home in Newport, and finding him lying across the bed asleep, they began in a joking way to strike him across the back until he awoke. The next day Mr. Roell was unable to get out of bed and a doctor was summoned. It was found that his friends striking him had made Mr. Roell's blood to clot, and his condition is now most dangerous. Drs. Jenkins and Anderson yesterday performed an operation on him in order to save his life, but very little hopes are entertained.

Gen. Buckner had good cause for not permitting his name presented to the Confederate Grand Army for commander. Gen. Gordon was such a great favorite with the old soldiers that no other name was mentioned in connection with commander.

It is claimed that ten thousand confederate veterans took part in the procession at Nashville last Thursday, while fifty thousand people cheered the old soldiers. The exercises were a success in every detail.

CROP AND STOCK.

According to reports Kentucky will have more than half a crop of peaches.

Cholera is playing havoc with hogs and chickens in the Newby locality, in Madison county.

Wm. Faircloth, of Woodford county, has bought 7,000 bushels of the growing wheat crop at 65 cents a bushel.

Reports from a large number of the tobacco growing counties in the State indicate a large reduction in acreage as compared with last year.

Moses Kahn bought of Bourbon county farmers 416 cattle averaging between 1,400 and 1,500 pounds, at $4,60 per cwt.

James Bennett, of Madison county, reports the death of cattle, due to eating coffee-beans, which are described as fatal as buckeyes.

Hungarian grain crops, according to the latest report of the Hungarian Agricultural Department, will not equal those of last year by a small deficit. There has been too much rain. The Roumanian wheat and maize crops are expected to be failures. Austria expects an average crop. France fears a shortage in wheat.

A report comes from the Laytonsville neighborhood that a number of cattle in that country are afflicted with some disease resembling hydrophobia, says the Hopkinsville Kentuckian. They are suddenly attacked with spasms and become very vicious. After running over the fields until exhausted they fall and soon die in great agony. Several farmers have lost from one to three head in this manner, and new cases are developing daily. Some weeks ago several mad dogs were killed in the neighborhood and it is feared that much stock was bitten by these rabid curs.

They are trying to show at Nashville that tobacco takes its color in the cured leaf more from the soil in which it is grown than from a selection of seed. White Burley grown in some quarters becomes yellow, brown or some other shade. There is something in this as there are only certain soils of Kentucky upon which certain kinds of tobacco can be successfully grown. The White Burley of Central Kentucky cannot be produced upon the strong alluvial lands of the southeastern portion. It either will not grow at all or becomes something entirely different. The same may be said of the dark tobacco of the Purchase—it can not be grown successfully in the middle of the State. — Louisville Times.

Hon. E. D. Cook, Congressman of the Sixth District of Illinois, was found dead in bed at his hotel in Washington on the morning of the 24th inst. Up to the hour of retiring he was apparently in his usual health. His death was the result of heart disease.

The Commercial is urging the Louisville Republicans to prepare to make the strongest fight possible this fall, admitting that if they are defeated then they are defeated for years to come. The Commercial evidently sees the handwriting on the wall so plainly that it has to admit it is there.

So far as the Recorder has been able to ascertain there is a diversity of opinions as to what is the best plan for choosing the next Democratic candidate for representative. Some favor a county convention composed of delegates selected by the several precincts, while others are of the opinion that a primary election sometime in August would be the better plan, the only objection being the cost to each candidate of holding such election in the event of their being but few candidates. A few say let the candidate be chosen by a mass convention held on the first Monday in August. The committee will be able to settle the question in a way that will favor no candidate and be fair to all

NOTICE.

All persons holding claims against F. A. Tanner are hereby notified that they must present them to me at once proven as by law required, those owing same will please come forward and settle at once.

W. A. TANNER, Adm'r.

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

Dry Ridge, it is said, will have a handsome opera house in the near future.

George Gray, of Lawrenceville, sold his crop of tobacco, consisting of 9,000 pounds for 9 cents round.

One day last week some of the thermometers about town reached the 96 mark.

There have been more improvements made in and about Williamstown this spring than for a number of years.

After reaching a depth of 500 feet and 6 inches, Messrs. Cox, the well drillers, of Cynthiana, ceased work on the well in the court house yard having completed their contract. They moved the machinery to the Gum Lick Spring, which will be drilled deeper. The committee having the matter in charge paid Messrs Cox the amount due them, and are now negotiating with a new firm to continue the work. We will have water yet and plenty of it.

The large barn of W. T. Bennett, of near Heekin, was struck by lightning last Thursday night and totally destroyed. About 200 barrels of corn, two cows, a lot of hay and farming implements were burned up. No insurance. Loss about $1,500.

Dry Ridge voted in favor of a graded school by a vote of 78 to 81. The tax for the benefit of the school will be 25 cents on the $100.

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[News]

The wheat crop is a good one.

A heavy rain mixed with hail fell here Sunday, preceeded by a severe wind storm.

The tobacco buyers were thick last week. A great many farmers received as much as 10 cents all round.

During the severe thunderstorm of last Thursday night two beautiful milch cows on the farm of Mr. John Roland, were killed.

The hail Sunday near Monterey was very destructive to growing crops. It fell to the depth of seven-inches and literally destroyed much of the first setting of tobacco, while it ruined the small grain.

The residence of Col. J. D. Lillard was struck by lightning Sunday during the storm. A hole was knocked in the roof, the lightning rod torn to pieces, but Colonel says: "She harmed no hair of my head nor knocked no skin off my shins."

The tobacco season last week was a good one and the acreage contemplated was pretty generally planted. There is no doubt that the acreage is way below the average and on account of the lateness of the season, it will take very seasonable weather to grow more than half a crop. The hay and small grain crop is very fine, the rain coming just at the time it was most needed, and harvesting will be in full blast within a few days. The acreage of corn is small; but prospects are good for the period.

FROM CARROLL COUNTY.

[News]

Capt. Cyrus Hanks, one of Carroll county's most popular ex-citizens, who has had charge of the books at Gaunt & Downs insurance agency for almost a year, has just issued a key to addition and subtraction, which many of our business men purchased, and, in our opinion, should make him a fortune, as it is indispensable to any accountant or business man.

Wm. Lunsford, of Union, Boone county, and Miss Rosa Breeden, of this county, came to town Tuesday morning, and after procuring license, were married in the county clerk's office.

Dr. S. S. Scott, Mrs. Robert Scott and Mrs. Lancaster, of Erlanger, who spent several days last week with Calvin Scott, returned to Erlanger last Friday night.

N. B. Welch sold his purchase of tobacco to Barker at 4¼ cents. It cost him about 1⅞ cents. A pretty good "spec."

English objection to the annexation of Hawaii is, of course, based on the broad general principle that everything that isn't nailed down is merely waiting for Great Britain to take it.—Detroit News.

OUR Doors Stand Open! And we make no bones in giving you prices Openly.

We never felt in better humor for business than NOW. So we will ask for your attention a little while.

—We Will Sell You—

H. and E. Boston Standard fine Gran. Sugar, per lb..... 5c
Coffees from 12½c to 30c per pound
White Satin Flour (extra fine) 5.25
Essex Soap (best for the money) two bars for..... 5c
Baking Powder, from 8c per lb. up
Pure Pepper, ground, per lb..... 15c
Canned Corn, from 5c to 12c
Pearl Barley, 2 lbs. for..... 5c
Evaporated Apples, per lb..... 5c
Fine Evap. Peaches, per lb..... 7½c
Prunes, per pound, from 5c to 12c
Good Rice, per pound,..... 5c
Sweet Chocolate, per cake..... 5c
Baker's Chocolate, per lb 40c
Enamiline, per box..... 4c
Rising Sun Polish, 6 for..... 25c

Navy Beans 3 qts. for 10c
Dried Peas 2 quarts for..... 5c
Battle Ax Tobacco, per lb..... 20c
Polar Bear Smoking, 4 pkgs.... 15c
Six for Ten per plug,..... 15c
Teas from.....15 to 80c
Good Table Peaches, 3 cans..... 25c
N. O. Molasses, two gallons..... 65c
Extra Fine Syrup, two gallons 35c
H. L. Oil, per gallon..... 8c
"Crown" Gasoline, per gal..... 9c
Onion Sets, per quart,..... 10c
3 packages Garden Seed..... 10c
Pratt's Poultry Food at list.
6 dozen Cloths Pins for..... 5c
Rolled Oats, per pound..... 2c
Langdon's Bread, 6 loaves for... 25c

And Numerous other Good Values that require too much space to quote. Yours Earnestly,

IRA AYLOR, Erlanger, Ky.

C. W. ROBINSON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,
ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,
Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.
GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.
Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.
FRY & REIB,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of
Marble & Granite Monuments
HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,
109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K
Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. } Designs Furnished Upon Application.

THE YOUNG TROTTING HORSE,
RICHWOOD, JR.,
Will make the season of 1897, at my stable ¼ mile from Hebron, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.
DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.
Richwood, jr., is a beautiful bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, fine style and action, large bone. He captured first premium at all the fairs last year. He was sired by Richwood 10403; he by Squire Talmage 668; first dam, Lady Clay by C. M. Clay, jr., 22. Richwood Jr.'s dam Ned Forrest; 2d dam, Bellfounder.

The Fine Norman Stallion,
FLEETWOOD,
Will make the season at the same time and place, at $8.00 to insure a mare in foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.
Fleetwood is a steel gray, 16½ hands high, a good worker and kind disposition. He is a good breeder and his colts are all gentle and kind. Fleetwood was sired by Albatross 208, dam, Ned Forrest. Care will be taken to prevent accidents but I will not be responsible should any occur.
JOHN W. CLORE, Hebron, Ky.

SEASON OF 1897.
OAK KNOLL STOCK FARM.
UGO,
Chestnut Stallion, 16 hands high, foaled 1892, sired by Simmons 2744, (record 2:28,) sire of 63 in 2:30 list, and 7 in 2:16 list. 1st dam, Thirza by Almont Boy 4308, sire of Grafton, 2:20½, Bessie G. 2:25, etc. 2d dam, Dixie by Norman 25; 3d dam, Mollie Clay by Iron Duke he by C. M. Clay 18.
Ugo is an exceedingly handsome horse, with plenty of size and faultless conformation; he has worked quarters in 40 seconds when 3 years old with six weeks training.
UGO will make the season of 1897, at Oak Knoll Stock farm, 1 mile west of Utzinger, and 3 miles east of Petersburg, Ky., on the Petersburg & Burlington pike. Service fee $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when mare is known to be in foal or parted with. Mares kept on grass at $1.50 per month, accidents and escapes at owners risk.
For particulars address
A. E. CHAMBERS, Jr., -
Utzinger, Ky.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. Conkey Company, Publishers, 341 Dearborn St., Chicago.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

CRESCENT HILL STOCK FARM.
1897. SEASON 1897.
TIMOTHY BOY, No. 27854
Bay horse foaled April 3rd, 1893, 16¼ hands high and weighs 1250 pounds in ordinary condition.
Sired by Wilkes Boy, 2:24; 1st dam, Alga by Artillery, 2:21¼; 2d dam, Vaidosta by Nutwood, 2:18¾; 3d dam, Emma Arterburn by Mambrino Patchen 58, (dam of one and grand-dam of three in 2:30 list); 4th dam, Jennie Johnson by Sweet Owen, thoroughbred, gr-dam of three in 2:30; 5th dam, Thoroughbred, &c.
Wilkes Boy, 2:24, one of the best producing horses in Kentucky, is by Geo. Wilkes, 2:22, dam Betty Brown (dam of Anglin, 2:27½) by Mambrino Patchen, 58.
Artillery, 2:21½ by Hambletonian 10, dam Walls Star (dam of Modestic 2:20½) by American Star, 14, is fast becoming a great sire.
Nutwood, 2:18¼, (out of the dam of Maud S. 2:08¾,) is the sire of more 2:30 performers than any horse living.
TIMOTHY BOY is one of the best bred horses in Kentucky, a horse of great power, fine style and color, a pure gaited trotter, perfectly sound in every particular and should produce horses fit for either track, road or farm.
He will make the season at $10 to insure a mare in foal, money due when fact is known or mare parted with.
DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE:
The Fine Black Jack,
MIKE
Will make the season at $8 to insure a colt, money due when colts comes or mare parted with.
DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE:
MIKE is a black Jack, white points, 15½ hands high, good heavy bone, large head and ears, well built, good style and color. He is one of the best lookers in Northern Ky., and ought to make a grand breeder.
He was sired by Bill Collins, dam Nell, a fine black jennet 16 hands high, by Sinkhole; 2d dam, Greves' Jenny, by Black Samson, jr.; 3d dam, Jenny by Mogul. Bill Collins is by Bourbon Chief, is 16 hands high and one of the best mule jacks in Central Kentucky, and sold for $1,800.
Timothy Boy and Mike will stand at Daniel Bedinger's farm, 2 miles west of Richwood, Ky., on the Richwood & Beaver pike.
☞Mares kept on pasture at $1.50 per month.
J. C. BEDINGER, Richwood, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Benj. Rice, deceased, must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

B. P. RICE, Adm'r.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JULY 7, 1897. NO. 37.

SPEAKER REED has the count, and with him that is more than half the battle.

Senator Deboe is getting along very well, and so is Representative Evans.—Louisville Commercial.

How about Mr. Lyons?

HON. J. G. CARLISLE will be chairman of the Boltercrat convention to be held in Louisville on the 14th inst.

MARK HANNA and John R. McLean each controlled his party's State convention in Ohio. Each is commander in his ranks.

THE Republican State convention to nominate a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals will be held in Louisville, August 10th.

OUT in Indiana when a man's wife succeeds in having him arrested for beating his will, he sues out an injunction and keeps her within his jurisdiction.

THE K. P. A. had a delightful outing again this year, but as usual several persons took advantage of the press to impose upon those extending their hospitality.

CONGRESSMAN GROSVENOR, of Ohio, is kept busy avoiding bunko men, several of whom have called upon him recently and were tipped off to him by the hotel detective.

THE people of Glasgow are indignant because troops were sent there to protect the negro, Stone, who assaulted a white lady, for which offense he was tried last week.

SENATOR DEBOE'S change of mind as to the Collectorship which it was understood he intended for Franks, causes his other slatees to feel uneasy for fear they may be dumped at the last minute.

THE Ohio Democrats will make the fight squarely on the money issue, this fall, declaring in favor of the free coinage of silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the aid or consent of anyother nation.

IT truly recalls the good old Democratic days in Kentucky to read the names of the distinguished Democrats who will attend the State Convention of the National Democracy in this city on the 14th of July.—C. J.

They will be very lonesome.

IN large, black letters the Louisville Post announces that the Republicans will soon take the National Democrats into camp. The Post, not desiring to be taken into that camp, is climbing back on to the Democratic band wagon.

SEVERAL State exchanges have on their county ticket to be voted for next November, the names of persons whom they publish as candidates for magistrate. There is no such office in this State as that of magistrate, but there is the office of justice of the peace.

THE Deboe-Comingore-Lyons combination is after Gov. Bradley's political scalp, and a red hot time is anticipated at the State convention in August, when the Bradley administration of State affairs will seek endorsement, while the above combination will defeat the proposition if possible.

THE New York Journal has taken a census of the tramps and finds that there are more than 336,000 now roaming the country. Some of these fellows may be honestly seeking employment, but the great majority are on the road chiefly because they prefer that sort of life to doing an honest day's work.

THE Republicans will endorse the Boltercratic candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, provided the Boltercrats will permit them to have all the deputies; but then the names of the candidates are to go under the log cabin. Many of the Boltercrats will shy at that emblem and put the cross under the rooster as of yore.

THE public domain now comprises 1,849,072,587 acres, of which there are over 600,000,000 acres still entirely unoccupied. The government, however, will soon be forced to prepare this waste acreage for actual settlement. There will be little if any, vacant land in fifteen years. According to the present rate of settlement there will be none left in thirteen years.

MR. CONNER, Indiana State Statistician, proposes having a census of the tramps in this country taken. His plan is to have the data gathered by police officers, town marshals and other officials on a certain day or night, and the returns made to him and tabulated by cities and towns in his office, giving the summaries in his report. He believes the total number of idle men in the United States could be arrived at in that way, and no other.

THE Ohio Democrats met in convention in Columbus, last week, and nominated a state ticket, and in a few weeks the political fur will begin to fly in that State. The Democrats believe their chances for electing the Governor and a majority of the legislature, are good, and are thereby stimulated to a strong effort to gain supremacy this fall, while, on the other hand, Mark Hanna will fight his best fight that his political life may be prolonged.

PEOPLE commenced arriving in town at an early hour Monday morning, and the discussion of probable candidates for the legislature was begun. The friends of quite a number of gentlemen were busy feeling the public pulse, and several who had the bee in their hat concluded not to make the race, the outlook not being as favorable as they hoped to find it. Others there were who got the desired encouragement and entered the contest, which will wax warm from now until a nomination is made.

SKIN games can no longer be played with impunity upon the credulous by unscrupulous men engaged in the business of soliciting patents. Commissioner Butterworth declares that nothing but straightforward honorable business methods are to be allowed in the practice before the Patent Office while he is at its head, and that the patent sharks must go, and to show that he means business he has within a short period disbarred eight attorneys from practice before the U. S. Patent Office for crooked business, and has cited John Wedderburn & Co., who are officially charged with specific instances of fraud and deception in their dealings with inventors, to show cause why they should not also be disbarred.

THE wealth of John D. Rockefeller has now reached the sum of $244,000,000, and, furthermore, is increasing at the rate of $1,500,000 a month, or $50,000 a day, or $2,083 an hour, or $34.50 a minute, or 57 cents every second of time, day and night, Sundays and holidays. John D. Rockefeller sleeps eight and one-half hours every night retiring at 10:30 and rising at 7. Every morning when he gets up he is $17,705 richer than when he went to bed. He sits down to breakfast at eight o'clock and leaves the table at 8:30, in that short half hour his wealth has grown $1,041.50. On Sunday he goes to church, and in the two hours that he is away from home his riches have grown $4,166. His nightly amusement is playing the violin. Every evening when he picks up the instrument he is $50,000 richer than he was when he laid it down the previous night. These little facts give some idea of the constant growth of this man's fortune.

THE Republicans of the District of Columbia who contributed money and time to elect McKinley are inclined to say cuss words every time they glance over the list of seven juicy diplomatic places which have been given to residents of the district. With the exception of John Hay, who is more of a literary man than a politician and more of a club and society man than of either, and Louis A. Dent, who was the late Mr. Blaine's private secretary for a long time, the average Republican had never heard of these favored individuals until their names went to the Senate. It is probable that the other five gentlemen were credited to the District of Columbia for the convenience of the their Congressional backers, but that doesn't make it please the local pie hunters any better.

[Courier-Journal]

There will not be fusion between the gold Democrats and Republicans in the coming State election. If the Republicans want to elect a gold Democrat to the Appellate clerkship they will have to vote for the gold Democratic nominee under the Thomas Jefferson and hickory leaf emblem. The gold Democrats do not want fusion, so a large majority of the leaders in the State and members of the State committees say. They have determined to make a flat-footed fight for the National Democratic principles and party to show that the 5,000 or 6,000 votes cast for Palmer and Buckner represent only a very small part of their strength. So it will be a waste of time for the Republican committee, appointed for that purpose, to appear at the State Convention on July 14 and make a proposition for fusion. That committee was appointed at the meeting of the Republican State Central Committee in Frankfort during the last session of the legislature, as was published in the Courier Journal's Frankfort dispatches a week or two later, with the names of the members of the sub-committee, Messrs. C. M. Barnett and George Lieberth and Attorney General W. S. Taylor. The proposition to be made was also published in detail.

The Republicans are willing for the gold Democrats to nominate the candidate, but they want him to go under the log cabin. While in the city recently Mr. Taylor was told that the gold Democrats would not consent to have their candidate go under the log cabin.

"Then there is no chance for fusion," he replied. "We could not afford to use the gold Democratic emblem."

There will be fusion in a number of races in counties and judicial and legislative districts. Those matters are left in the hands of local committees.

Senator R. H. Elliston has decided not to be an active candidate for the Appellate clerkship nomination, though he would accept if chosen. Either Judge Yost, of Lexington, or Mr. John G. Orndorff, of Russellville, will probably be selected.

Pith of the Press.

Hanna might as well begin digging his cyclone cellar. He will need it badly this fall.—Kansas City Times.

It turns out just as we feared it it would all along: Paramount Blount is opposed to the annexation of Hawaii.—Chicago Times-Herald.

It is quite safe to guage the loyalty and harmony among the Ohio Republican leaders by the time they consume in watching each other.—N. Y. Journal.

Present indications are that Fire Alarm Foraker will open the political display by attempting to start the fireworks with a wet fuse.—Omaha World-Herald.

Ohio is a great state, but it is too small to hold Mark Hanna and J. B. Foraker at the same time. Either one or the other must retire.—Springfield (Ohio) Democrat.

Congress might adopt a prosperity joint resolution and let the tariff bill rest till the regular session of Congress. That would stave off the higher taxes awhile.—Enquirer.

The real exhibit of Tom Reed's hypnotic powers will come when he endeavors to make the House swallow the Senate tariff bill without a protest.—Chicago Record.

Secretary Sherman says the Ohio Republicans will not tolerate bosses. Perhaps not, but they appear to stand one boss without a vast amount of kicking.—Washington Post.

The gold bug organs think the platform adopted at Columbus on Wednesday is "perfectly dreadful." We should be sorry for the Democratic cause if they didn't.—Enquirer.

If, as Secretary Sherman says, the trusts are dangerous things, what must be thought of the tariff bill to promote them and of the party that proposes to pass it?—St. Louis Republic.

According to Mr. Grosvernor's speech, what the Republican party promised last year was a return of prosperity with incidental and unlimited stop-over privileges.—Washington Post.

It appears from the revised returns that Governor Bushnell started in on the Toledo convention with an ultimatum when he should have used a night key and gum shoes.—Washington Post.

If President McKinley postpones the inauguration of his Cuban policy much longer he will have to limit it to a demand that the victims of Weyler be given a decent burial.—St. Louis Republic.

When it is taken into consideration the way things were going, Governor Bushnell ought to consider that Mr. Hanna was quite magnanimous in according him a renomination.—Philadelphia Record.

Senator Mark Hanna has scored a triumph over his Republican enemies, but he will be pitted against his Republican enemies and the united and determined Ohio Democracy.—Binghamton Leader.

There is difficulty in arranging the fusion between the Republicans and Gold Democrats of Kentucky. The former wont fuse unless the joint ticket be put under their party emblem—a log cabin. But the Republican managers declare that their voters are so illiterate that the change in emblems could not possibly be explained to them. Kentucky, it will be remembered, went for McKinley nine months ago, thus demonstrating the intelligent grasp which the voters had upon the difficult problem of the currency.—New York Journal.

CROP AND STOCK.

The most remarkable wheat crop ever known is now being harvested throughout East Tennessee. The season has been a perfect one, and the farmers had planted an unusually large crop. The output will be enormous. Already the sale of new wheat has begun, and 6,000 bushels of the first and earliest crop was delivered at Knoxville Saturday at 90 cents. This is not the price to be paid for all wheat, as the opening quotations are 68 to 70 cents. Shipments to the East will begin this week. The price paid last year at the opening was 60 to 65 cents.

Already the worms have begun on the tobacco, notwithstanding it has not been set but two or three weeks. The worms strip the leaves, leaving nothing but the stem, says the Princeton Banner. Some of our correspondents from the Hobson country state that some of the farmers are plowing up their tobacco land and planting it in corn on account of the worms being so bad.

Tobacco growers complain that the out-worm is making his presence felt. The season has scarcely begun and this pestiferous worm will doubtless be largely in evidence before the tobacco crop his housed. Concerted action on the part of tobacco growers in poisoning the flies would destroy millions of worms and curtail an immense amount of work as well as add to the quality of the tobacco.—Bluegrass Clipper.

The first of the new wheat crop 15,000 bushels—delivered at Owensboro, brought 65 cents.

A wheat crop of 15,000,000 bushels is Oklahoma's contribution.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

FOURTH YEAR
OF WALTON ACADEMY,
—opens—
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897
At Walton, Ky.
Three Courses of Study to choose from: English, Scientific or Classical.
Tuition per month,...$2.50 and $3.00
Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.
We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for 5 days.
Thorough, Substantial Work Guaranteed.
Teachers { Mrs. S. H. Myers. / Chas F. Prior. / Rev. S. H. Myers.
Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
N. S. WATON, President, Union, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of Woodford Carpenter, dec'ed, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

LEWIS RICE, Adm'r.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Sallie Powers, &c. Pltf.
vs
F. L. Gordon, &c. Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 17th day of July, 1897, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 3d day of August, 1897. All persons having claims against F. L. Gordon's estate will present them to me properly proven according to law. J. B. BERKSHIRE, Master Com.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE

Boone Circuit Court.

Lawrence Dwyer's Adm'r. Pltf.
vs
Lawreuce Dwyer's widow, &c. Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 17th day of July, 1897, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 3d day of August, 1897. All persons having claims against Lawrence Dwyer's estate will present them to me properly proven as by law required.

J. B BERKSHIRE, Master Com.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch25-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

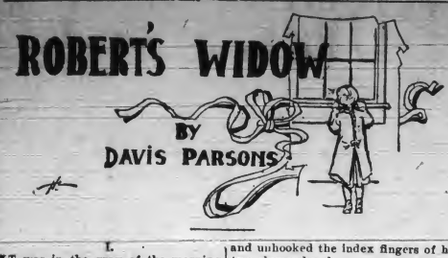
S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. R. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate. Notes bought, sold & Negotiated. All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1856.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.



ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 3,000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

A. P. WALTON,
DENTIST,
121 Garfield Place,
Cincinnati, - - Ohio.
First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying south of Burlington. All orders by mail or otherwise will receive prompt attention.

ROBERT'S WIDOW

BY DAVIS PARSONS

I.

It was in the gray of the morning after Robert's funeral. His widow sat in the larger of the two rooms that had lately been their home, silent and without tears—almost without thought or memory, too, for the ordeal had left her capable of little more than the consciousness that he had left her, never to come back.

Suddenly the first red rays of the rising sun shot into the room, brightening it perceptibly, in spite of their dulling passage through the smoky, city atmosphere. Slowly her faculties came back to her, the memory first.

So dim and shadowy were the pictures of her childhood that the details were lost. There was the death of her father, and later that of the mother. Then she was alone in the village where their home had been. Her struggles with life after that were shadowy, also, till she met Robert.

But from that point the memory pencil wrought swiftly and vividly. The courtship, the marriage, the brief village life, the promising chance in the big city and the removal from the village and the birth of the baby. Then the day of the accident when Robert was brought home in an ambulance. He was not seriously hurt, the surgeon said—though he would have to be absent from the office awhile. But they had been thrifty and had money in the bank—much more than enough to tide them over an idleness of a few weeks. Robert had long needed a rest, and now he could have it. She would care for him much better than any trained nurse, and they would still be happy together.

But Robert's idleness lasted months instead of weeks. The money in the bank grew less. They gave up all but two rooms of their pretty flat, for economy's sake; and both to economize and in order that she might be free to give her whole time to the invalid's care, the child, now three years old, was put in charge of a sisterhood in a "home" where the cost was only nominal. The neighbors were kind, especially Mrs. Shultz, the German mother of the bachelor landlord, who kept the neat pharmacy on the ground floor and lived on the second floor alone with his mother, just under the flat where life with Robert had been so happy.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER WERE TOO MUCH ABSORBED IN ONE ANOTHER TO NOTE HIS APPROACH.

But now—now she was alone once more. The happy part of her life was finished, and she must begin all over again. Thank Heaven, she was not in debt. The money had lasted long enough to pay the doctor and the undertaker—but there was hardly enough left to buy the bare food necessary to support life for one more week. She took up her flat purse and counted the few coins it contained. Their small value roused her. She could not afford to sit there brooding, that was clear. Instantly all her faculties were alert.

II.

There was a heavy step in the hall outside and then a knock. It was Shultz; and when he came in he sat down awkwardly, as far away from her as he could.

"My mother," he began bunglingly, "she says you must be lonely."

The first tear since Robert's death rolled down his widow's cheek.

"She says," the landlord-druggist went on, "that you should not live alone here. She says that she is sometimes lonely too. She is getting a little old and she cannot be in the store as she used to, and sometimes when I am at my business all day she wishes she had some one to drive away the lonesomeness [illegible] to you [illegible] say, [illegible] love [illegible]

He seemed to be friendly, but if so, his friendship was voiceless, for they never spoke to one another except when speech was necessary; and he avoided her as much as he could. To his customers and acquaintances and to his mother he talked freely; in her presence his tongue was always slow and awkward. Once when she raised her eyes suddenly she found his fixed on her face with a strange expression that might mean dislike or quite the reverse. At all events it made her flush painfully, and thereafter she avoided him as much as he did her.

"Thou shouldst not mind him, child," the old mother, whose keen eyes had taken in the situation, said one day in German. "He is a good son to me, and he is not unfriendly to thee, but he does not understand; he is bashful before any woman but his mother."

His attitude toward her and the continued separation from her little one were the only trials Robert's widow was called to bear while her life with the kind old German woman lasted. And as she was allowed to see the little one every week, and as the child seemed always well and happy, this latter was not so much of a trial after all.

But there came a time when Shultz could no longer avoid his mother's friend, nor yet keep silent before her. It was on the day she found the good old woman sitting peacefully in her easy chair, her knitting in her hands as usual, but quite dead, with a smile on her face that was not soon forgotten by either of the two that were left. [illegible] widow this seemed [illegible] all over again. But she had learned fortitude from her earlier griefs, and her feeling was not, as before, that she was entirely desolate.

The day after the mother's funeral Shultz found voice before Robert's widow, though he began his talk as awkwardly as of old, and in almost the same words he had used before.

"My mother said to me more than once," he began, hooking and unhooking his index fingers, "that you would be a good wife for me—"

She stopped him with a flash from her eyes.

"But your mother is dead," she cried, "and you are not a child to talk of marriage because your mother advised it. Why do you not, just once, speak for yourself? Why—"

And then she checked herself, remembering she was Robert's widow. But she had loosed the man's tongue, and, speaking in German, as his mother had always done when her emotions were roused, he poured forth such a torrent of passionate protest of love, of supplication, that she was positively frightened. She had not dreamed that this slow, awkward man was capable of intense feeling; he had always seemed to her to think only of his drugs and the money they sold for. She had thought the entrance of herself, a third person, into his little home, had always been distasteful to him. Yet here he was, making a most passionate declaration of love. But she hesitated. Could she, Robert's widow, marry this druggist? Suddenly she knew she loved him, and had loved him for a long time.

IV.

And so, after an interval, they were married and life was happily begun again for her who had been Robert's widow. Her happiness was not exactly like the happiness she had felt as Robert's wife, yet it was real, and Shultz knew it and rejoiced.

But the little girl still remained with the kind sisters, and this was just a little mote in the sunshine for the mother. Every Sunday she visited the child, just as before, though this was never mentioned in the flat over the drugstore. But one Sunday when the mother went away Shultz looked very serious, and when he was alone he began walking up and down the floor.

"I shall be back soon, dear," she had said with a smile on her lips, on leaving; but there had been a tear in her eye, and perhaps that was what made him impatient and caused his index fingers to hook and unhook themselves in the old way, automatically, as if they were parts of an unthinking piece of machinery. After a time he put on his hat with a determined air, and went heavily down the stairs, muttering under his breath:

"Yes, yes! It is better that she should make no more Sunday visits to the Sisters' home, and I will see to that. Oh! I will see to that. Yes, yes!"

On the car which he boarded he continued to talk below his breath, to the astonishment of his fellow passengers.

His wife was bidding good-by to the little one when he entered the visitors' room of the home; and mother and daughter were too absorbed in one another to note his approach, in spite of his heavy tread. He was thinking how like the mother was the child when his wife saw him, and his look was so intense as to startle her as she had before been startled by him.

"No!" he said in German: "Thou shouldst not say good-by! The child shall no more be left in this place. Come to me, little one; come to our home. Come! there is room enough for three, and thou shalt not longer be separated from thy mother!"

And after that there were no motes in the sunshine for her who had been Robert's widow.

Summer Skirts.

The latest novelty in summer petticoats promises to bring comfort in its wake, for the material is the all-popular grass linen and the style is simple.

Light-weight taffetas, wash silks and colored lawns are also much the vogue, and to be absolutely comfortable one needs a varied assortment.

The most popular style shows a gored top, with a Spanish flounce 12 inches deep, which in turn is edged with a narrow frill, and these are no difficulties in the way of perfect laundering.

Evening gowns are worn over colored slips when the material is transparent, and allows the tint to be seen, but for general wear nothing is so elegant as white, whether it be silk or nainsook.

Linen sheds the dust and is easily kept clean, besides which it can be laundered at need and comes forth not only as good, but better than new. In addition it is deliciously cool and light or weight, so that it would seem in truth an ideal material for underskirts designed for warm weather wear.—Chicago Record.

Warned.

A gentleman who spent last summer in the country with his family has two little boys, who one day wandered into a pasture in which a bull belonging to a neighboring farmer was grazing. Although no harm was done, the gentleman the next day received the following note from the owner of the bull:

"Sir—You better not let your little boys gow into the paster with my bull; creature for he is not a amiable bull creature and he might do considerable dumidge if he tost them twenty or thirty feet into the air whitch I would not be responsible for him not doing if he took a notion to. So please take notice and beware of the bull hereafter."—Youth's Companion.

Boiled Beets.

When the young beets are just right to boil and are nice and tender, cook a quantity, slip the skin off as if you were going to serve them on the table, but instead put them in fruit cans. Fill up the cans with hot vinegar, to which you have added a little sugar and spice, [illegible] as in canning fruit. They make the [illegible]

HANNA CUTTING WAGES.

Condition of the Workingman Constantly Growing Worse.

Just to show that prosperity has really come a Pennsylvania mine of which Senator Hanna is one of the chief owners has reduced the wages of its miners from 60 to 54 cents. This is for coal going over a one and one-fourth inch screen and is the lowest rate ever paid to these miserable workmen. It is reported that the miners have struck, but the report has not yet been confirmed and is not likely to be, for the men are in no condition to quit work even in face of this cut. The mine operators say that the cut was made because other mines were only paying 54 cents, although all acknowledge that the rate is 60 cents.

An officer of the Mine Workers' union is said to have remarked that the miners are not amazed. They were not McKinley men. The times were getting harder every day. There seemed to be no end to the men's sufferings and the sun of their prosperity had set. Yet, he added, there must come an end. The men must live, and, although he dreaded to say it, they would put an end to their sufferings with the musket and torch. One does not like to hear such things even when the sympathies are with the oppressed people, but what can you expect from a class so downtrodden? There is not in this country today a class of workmen so oppressed as the miners of Pennsylvania. Between the power of the mine owners to limit the year's output and their ability to depress wages at will the miserable workman is having all his self-respect and manliness crushed out. The revelations made last winter and this spring by legislative committees which investigated the miners' condition in Pennsylvania, Ohio and other states were of the most shocking character. Not only were wages pitifully low, but the men were cheated in the most shameless manner by means of false weights and unfair screens. The injustice of the mine owners in arbitrarily limiting the output for the year resulted in the idleness of thousands of men and the increase of the cost of the coal to the consumer.

The condition of affairs has steadily grown worse, although such seems almost impossible. The miner has been forced into the last ditch by his employers, who not only grind him and the coal consumers, but further enrich themselves from both by manipulating the tariff through such men as Hanna. It cannot be wondered, then, that this crushed class is at that desperate point indicated by the words of the union member. It is no wonder that its members feel that they could not be much worst off if, with musket and torch, they outlawed themselves by actual war upon their oppressors. This is still further borne in upon them when they realize that, depleted in purse and body, they are no longer in condition to make use of their usual weapon, the strike.—Chicago Chronicle.

NOT A TARIFF FOR REVENUE.

The Dingley Bill Would Never Build Up the National Income.

When the Dingley bill was before the house the Free Press took occasion to remark that whatever else it might be it was not a revenue bill because it did not provide for any revenue. It looks very much now as if the same remark would apply with equal force to the senate bill. One by one the revenue features—or what were exploited as such in Senator Aldrich's programme—have disappeared. Senators have awakened to the knowledge that revenue taxes have to be paid by somebody; and they have begun to suspect that their own constituents may be among the number of those who will be called on. They may not all believe that the foreigner pays the duties on imports; but the most of them think they can make their constituents believe that fairy tale while they know by sad experience that no such shifting of the burden of revenue taxes is possible even in imagination.

It is a hard task the senate has set itself by its latest move, the task of satisfying the taxpayer, the consumer and the producer all with one and the same bill. We do not believe it will succeed. The chances are that it will meet with the fate of the father and son in the fable and in trying to please everybody will end by pleasing nobody. But if the senators will only adopt some kind of a bill, get the house to concur and then adjourn it will merit the warmest thanks of a suffering country. Sugar, thanks to its action, is going to be high, and there is likely to be a heavy deficiency in the revenue for the coming year. But these are minor evils compared with tariff tinkering. The country can adapt itself to almost anything in the way of a tariff after its experience with the McKinley act. But it cannot adapt itself to continued uncertainty.—Detroit Free Press.

——This scramble for the fruits of robbery is the inevitable consequence of the policy of conferring benefits upon certain interests or classes of people by legislation. The power of legislation to concentrate the wealth of the people on the favored few by discriminating taxation is so great that vast corruption follows in the wake of its exercise for that purpose. For this reason the protective tariff and the slush fund are inseparable and we are treated to the spectacle of great trusts bargaining for and buying tariff privileges.—St. Louis Republic.

——Protectionists seem to avoid the topic of distribution. In fact, they have practically left it untouched. No one pretends that there is any real trouble about production. On 12 months' notice the United States can raise twice as much wheat, corn and cotton as we ever raised. On a notice of 30 days we can have a bigger output of manufactured goods than the extreme point of any past period. Give us customers and we will have the goods.—Minneapolis Times.

CONSTANTLY SHIFTING.

Instability of Republican Convictions on the Tariff.

Many of our valued republican contemporaries are deriving considerable fun from the change in tariff theories now alleged to be going on in the democratic party. They seem to forget that within the last few years a change, almost revolutionary, on the same question took place in the republican party.

When the McKinley bill passed both houses of congress and received the signature of President Harrison all the republicans in the land whooped with glee and sung the praise of William McKinley until they were hoarse. With a tax on everything used by a human being from the time he was laid in the crib until he was lowered into six feet of earth the republicans glorified and saw the millennium sticking above the horizon.

That was in 1890. Two years later the democrats mopped the earth with the republican party. It required several days of shoveling to get the snow off its prostrate, frozen remains. And no sooner did the republican heads appear above drifts than their mouths opened in denunciation of William McKinley and his law. There was not a republican from the Mooschead lake to the Cliff rocks who would not take oath that his party was defeated by the McKinley law and that William McKinley was as dead, politically, as a mackerel. This country, the republicans declared, no longer needed a high protective tariff: our industries were no longer infantile to be nursed on the bottle of protection; protection, indeed, was an issue which would no longer separate the republican and democratic parties.

That was in 1892 and 1893. Then the panic, which was the natural result of fool economic and financial systems, struck the country and keeled it over on its beam ends. And it is not righting itself very rapidly yet. With the panic came the republican clamor for a protective tariff for our industries, which in a year had become infants again. As Mr. McKinley was the greatest living apostle of the protection theory his name was caught by the republican wind and the first the country knew Mr. McKinley was exhumed from his political creed and hailed as the new Moses. Incidentally the Mr. McKinley who was politically dead a few years ago is the liveliest man in this country to-day.

Thus we see the grand old republican party shifting its political convictions with all the ease and grace of a lightning-change artist. And to-day it is split up the back on the Dingley bill. Therefore, so far as the republican party is concerned, the north star is more constant by several points.—Chicago News (Ind.).

REPENTANCE SHOULD COME.

The Republican Party Should See the Folly of Its Course.

It is now absolutely certain that the Jones-Aldrich tariff bill, even if it could become law to-day, would not provide revenue enough to meet expenses for the next two years at the least.

Why, then, should it become law at all?

The present extra session was convened avowedly for the purpose of passing a tariff or other bill which should provide adequate revenues. Why should it persist in passing one that will certainly leave a deficit?

And if it does so, how is the deficit to be made good? Is there any other way than by bond sales and the increase of the interest-bearing debt in time of peace?

Will this policy be more acceptable to the people under McKinley than it was under Cleveland?

Can the republican party afford at such a cost to persist in a project of rewarding and repaying Mark Hanna's campaign contributors by repeating the blunders which led to the defeat of democracy?

What shall it profit a political party to reward men for buying one election for it, if in doing so it must lose the next election?

Why should not congress now repent itself of the folly of the last six months? Why should it not even now use the simple and obvious means open to it of giving the country revenue and rest and permitting it to secure reoperation for itself?—N. Y. World.

PRESS COMMENTS.

——The tariff bill is a failure, open and confessed. Why not substitute a revenue bill?—N. Y. World.

——Under Tom Reed's rulings a congressman must die to call attention to the fact that he is on duty.—Chicago Record (Ind.).

——Hanna says business is improving. As Hanna's business is procuring senatorial votes, the next pertinent question is, are prices going up?—St. Paul Globe.

——Congress is plugging away at tariff, Cuba and Hawaii, and now the president proposes to toss another arbitration treaty into the hopper. Yet last year's campaign is alleged to have been conducted on the financial question.—Washington Post.

——Mr. McKinley's new treaty with England might appropriately be an offensive and defensive land-grabbing alliance. To talk arbitration and at the same time begin a policy of conquest that must result in wars is the height of absurdity.—Kansas City Times.

——It is not too early in the canvass of 1897 for democrats to beware of roorbachs. Early as it is, the republican machine is employing the services of some very able newspaper talent in its effort to disrupt and distract the democracy.—Albany Argus.

——The tariff is still "bobbing up" as a local issue. Protection New Englanders do not want a duty on hides because it interferes with their manufacturing business. It will be found now, as it always has been found, that it is not an easy thing to carry an abstract principle all the way through a tariff law.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

HUMOROUS.

—Tommy (who has been reading history)—"Are kings always good, papa?" His Father—"No, not always, my son; they are not very good when they run up against aces."—Truth.

—Myra—"That Miss Beare puts on a good deal of style when she goes to the opera." Minnie—"Well, good gracious! The woman's got to put on something."—Yonkers Statesman.

—Taste in Selection.—"What did you think of my speech, Mrs. Tactly?" asked the sapient young statesman. "I thought some of your quotations perfectly grand."—Detroit Free Press.

—The Pretty Girl—"Miss Smuther was named after her uncle George, wasn't she?" The Bright One—"I don't know. She looks as if she was named before him."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

—Kind of a Man He Was.—"Did he carry any life insurance?" they asked the widow. "A little," she replied, "Too bad you didn't take out a littlel fire insurance on him, too," they suggested.—Chicago Evening Post.

—How He Figured It.—Violet—"How did Mr. Bighead come to accept the doctrine of reincarnation?" Rose—"Well, you know, he always had an impression that the world couldn't get along without him, and if that is so, it stands to reason that he will have to come back."—Truth.

—No Cooperation Required.—First Tramp—"I read about dat trial, an' de judge told him he needn't say anything dat would incriminate hisself." Second Tramp—"Well, I s'pose dat was because dey had enough evidence to send him to Sing Sing widout any assistance from him."—Brooklyn Life.

THE LIGHTHOUSE SERVICE.

Pathetic Letter of a Woman Who Bore the Anxieties of the Life.

Mr. Kobbe quotes the following letter, written to a friend by Mrs. Grant, who lived for many years on White Head, off the Maine coast. Sometimes I think the time is not far distant when it shall climb these lighthouse stairs no more. It has almost seemed to me that the light was a part of myself. When we had care of the old lard-oil lamps on Matinicus rock, they were more difficult to tend than these lamps are, and sometimes they would not burn so well when first lighted, especially in cold weather when the oil got cool. Then, some nights I could not sleep a wink all night, though I knew the keeper himself was watching. And many nights I have watched the lights my part of the night, and then could not sleep the rest of the night, thinking nervously what might happen should the light fail.

In all these years I always put the lamps in order in the morning, and I lit them at sunset. Those old lamps—as they were when my father lived on Matinicus rock—are so thoroughly impressed on my memory that even now I often dream of them. There were 14 lamps and 14 reflectors. When I dream of them it always seems to me that I have been away a long while, and I am trying to get back ... to light the lamps. Then I am half way between Matinicus and White Head, and hurrying toward the rock to light the lamps there before sunset. Sometimes I walk on the water, sometimes I am in a boat, and sometimes I seem going in the air—I must always see the lights burning in both places before I wake. I always go through the same scenes in cleaning the lamps and lighting them, and I feel a great deal more worried in my dreams than when I am awake.

I wonder if the care of the lighthouse will follow my soul after it has left this worn-out body? If I ever have a gravestone, I would like it to be in the form of a lighthouse or beacon.—Gustav Kobbe, in Century.

A Warning to Bathers.

The oft-repeated warning to surf-bathers, and particularly to those who dive, to protect their ears from the water by cotton plugs, etc., is not generally heeded, to judge by the damage often traced to its neglect. They who have lost the membrana need to be especially careful, and to give up diving. The tympanum is readily protected by the cotton plugs firmly introduced, but in diving even then the air in the nasal fossae, accessory sinuses, and naso-pharynx is compressed and partially escapes by the Eustachian tubes, and in consequence the water enters so far and high in the nasal fossae as to painfully irritate the pituitary membrane, and leads to protracted congestion.—Laryngoscope.

Population of Russia.

The St. Petersburg Novoe Vremya says that the Russian census gives a population for the empire of 127,000,000, exclusive of the grand duchy of Finland, which takes its own census. Some other figures have still to be added from the outermost parts of Siberia, as well as the nomad tribes of the steppes and the mountaineers of the Caucasus, where an exceptional snowfall delayed the work till spring. The full total is expected not to be under 130,000,000.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Queer Lawsuit.

A report of a queer lawsuit comes from Eastkill, a hamlet in the heart of the Catskill mountains. The plaintiff is Ole Halverson, a Swede, who cultivates a small farm on the mountain side. He is suing Rev. J. G. Remerton, a German Lutheran minister, for damages for christening his baby by a name which was not to his liking. Halverson is a patriotic Swede and wanted the child named after King Oscar. The minister claims that he christened the baby according to the wishes of its mother.—N. Y. Sun.

What Pierced the Gloom.

"Perkins is a dismal pessimist, but I heard him laugh heartily this morning."

"What occasioned his merriment?"

"A scorcher ran into a milk wagon and broke his wheel all to pieces."—Detroit Free Press.

PARTING MOMENTS.

Three minutes! Aye, the fateful clock,
With measured movement seems to mock
My hopes and prayers;
And what I hope I do not know;
I feel my spirits sinking low—
With weight of fears.

Three minutes! Will no power restrain
The hand that counts them, and again
My peace restore?
I plead in vain; they will not stay;
They pass, alas! away, away,
Forevermore!

Three minutes, and the end will be!
I'll vainly look that face to see
I now behold.
Yet I these moments' memories will,
Deep in my heart, though good or ill,
Fore'er enfold.

Good-by! What future time may bring
Of pain, or joy, or anything,
We cannot tell.
We know that truth, at last, shall reign,
And God shall make His purpose plain,
And all be well.

—Baltimore American.

A Clever Little Woman.

The rain was dashing against the hospital window one afternoon in March when I made my rounds. I left Marta to the last, as I felt that on a dreary day like this she would be more than ever glad of a chat.

I had not sat beside her for five minutes before I found that she was in a highly-strung condition, her eyes were so bright, her skin dry, and her pulses quivering with their rapid beats. After a few commonplaces, I said:

"What is it, Marta? What is the matter to-day? You have no new pain—no fresh trouble?"

"No monsieur," she answered, "it is that I cannot still my thoughts—to-day is the anniversary—" and she stopped.

Her beautiful gray eyes were full of tears, and she was trying hard to exercise self control.

"Tell me," I said, "all about the anniversary."

"It was 12 years ago to-day since I met my husband, Jean Louvain," she began eagerly, "and our meeting was a strange one indeed! I was in search of a clever forger—whom the police believed to be a woman—and I had to go to Riviera in search of her. I had been in the Hospital of St. Jacques to see a man whom I thought could give me information, and it occurred to me suddenly that the dress of a Sister of Mercy would be a good disguise. I left Paris in time to reach Marseilles early one lovely morning, and going to the house of a friend I changed my clothes, and scarcely recognized myself as I looked in the great glass at the railway station. No hair could be seen, and the large collar and winged cap gave me quite a different expression. I had bought a small bag, exactly like those the sisters carry, to hold the things I needed, and I had my papers sewn inside a dress I wore. I was young then and the cases that interested me occupied me so entirely that I became sleepless and suffered at times from sudden faintness, which would be succeeded by violent pains in my head. To alleviate these troubles I carried always a bottle of ether and a tiny phial of chloroform, both wrapped for safety in a square of jewelers' cotton."

"Ah, I see!" interrupted I. "Your forger found them, and used them to stupefy you!"

"Pardon, monsieur," she returned, "my tale is better than that! At Marseilles I got into a compartment whence several people descended, and a man, who was its sole occupant, tried to prevent my entrance, as if unconsciously; but I looked sharply at him and got in. He then placed his arms on the doorway and blocked the window until the train left the station; then he threw himself on the seat in the corner farthest from me on the opposite side, and flung off the large cloak he was wearing.

"To my surprise and horror, I saw he was partly dressed as a woman, and he took from beneath the seat a bag like those in which workmen carry their tools and quietly continued his toilet. Naturally I watched him. He was small and slight, and very fair, and when he took off his coat and waistcoat, collar and tie, I saw a great scar beneath the left ear going right under his chin.

"I knew him instantly; he was Druette, the man whom I believed safely in prison at Toulon, who was the most ingenious and cruel of a gang of thieves who had infested Paris for three years, and who had been cleverly captured three months before. The captor had received 5,000 francs, and now he was at large again, and here before me in this narrow compartment. He stopped his toilet, and said to me, in the quiet, clear voice which I knew to be one of his characteristics:

"'My sister, I am running for my life. My life is dear to me, and nothing shall stand in the way of my freedom—do you understand? Nothing!'

"As he said this he took from his bag a large, sharp knife, such as shoemakers use, and laid it on the seat beside him. Judge, monsieur, how I felt. Thought is quick, and my brain had traveled far in the few minutes of the journey. Here was Durette; if only I could capture him—the reward would make my dear invalid mother rich for the rest of her life! I would try, I would think; I would not quail. But first I must act! I shrank into my corner at his words and trembled, and let the tears fill my eyes as I looked up appealingly at him.

"'Fear not, dear sister,' he said mockingly; 'if you do as I say, you have nothing to dread. I shall quit the train at Toulon, and you must talk to me as if I were coming home to my family, and you had made acquaintance with me at Lyons.'

"Of course I promised, and he went on arranging himself. His hair was short, and he put on a black woman's wig and earrings in his ears; he had a skirt twisted around at his waist, and this he let down, then he made me fasten a white chemisette, and he put on a bodice, which I laced. Judge how I was thinking, monsieur! My hands trembled with excitement, for the train was rushing on, and it is barely one hour between Marseilles and Toulon. He talked—I suppose he was glad to speak again after his solitary imprisonment—he reassured me kindly, and said he would not harm me if I obeyed him, and he made me vow on the cross I wore that I would say no word till he was out of sight.

"'And I shall watch your train away, my sister,' he added.

"After I had finished dressing him, I went back to my seat, and then I laughed. He looked furious, and asked me why I was such a fool. 'I said his face was a fair woman's, and his hair a dark one's, and he would be noticed directly. He scowled at me, and said 'Idiot!' but at the same time he brought from his bag a bottle of dye and a brush, and began to color his hands. The stuff would not run, and he shook the bottle violently, but it came in lumps. 'I want some spirit,' he said, viciously, and he swore—oh, monsieur, so awfully.

"I trembled really this time, for it was so fearful to be shut up with such a wretch! Then an inspiration came to me, and I said: 'See, I have no cognac, but I take a medicine sometimes which is a spirit,' and I poured some of the ether into his bottle and shook it. It ran beautifully, became a clear, brown liquid; he scarcely looked a 'thank you,' but rapidly painted his hands, using his left as cleverly as his right; then he tried his face — and then I laughed again, this time with joy, for I had regained my courage, and I felt I should capture him.

"'Why do you laugh now?' he said, fiercely.

"'Because you are making your cheeks too dark, your eyelids are white, and you have left a rim around your lips,' I said, in as steady a voice as I could command.

"'Good heavens!' he exclaimed, and then he said to me: 'Take this brush and paint me.'

"I took it, and pretended to tremble as I touched his face.

"'Fool!' he shrieked. 'I will not hurt you—see how the train rushes—lose no time!'

"'Bien, monsieur,' I replied; 'you must do as I tell you, then.' I caught up his cloak and put it around him, as a barber puts his cloth, and, telling him to shut his eyes, I began to paint the lids. The next moment I transferred the brush to my left hand, and with my right I took out the stopper from the chloroform bottle, and poured half the contents on the wadding that had been around it. Happily, it was a large piece, and, dropping the brush, I pressed it suddenly over his nose and mouth, and saturated it with the ether.

"The suddenness of the action took him so much by surprise that for one second he was quite quiet, and I dashed the bottle of dye right at his eyes as he opened them, still pressing the pad over his nose. He was blinded for the moment, his arms were tangled in the cloak, and if only the chloroform did its work, and I could hold him down! The agony of those few seconds will never be effaced. He tried to reach the knife, monsieur, but I kicked it off the seat away, just as I perceived that his frantic efforts were becoming fainter; and one more violent struggle on my part kept the wadding in its place, and he succumbed; his head dropped back, and his arms fell powerlessly beside him.

"I had no knowledge of the action of anæsthetics, and now a dread possessed me lest I had killed him. I remembered having heard somewhere that slight people of quick brains were specially susceptible to these influences, and I thought perhaps I should only take a dead body into Toulon.

"He looked so ghastly with the streaks of paint on his livid skin. I placed my hand on his heart, and felt his wrist—most thankful was I to find a pulsation. Then I seated myself on the floor, keeping my fingers on his wrist and having in my lap the bottle of chloroform to pour on the pad if I felt his pulses quicken too much.

"I have had many trying journeys, but never another to match this. I am not cruel by nature, and sitting there during the quarter of an hour of the journey that remained, I wondered how I could have acted as I did—it seemed as if I could not be Marta Leclerc.

"At length the train slackened, and then drew up at the platform for examining tickets. Two guards opened the door, and I jumped up and rushed from the carriage; and in my excitement, I shrieked: 'Durette! Durette!'

"'What of Durette?' exclaimed a tall man, who advanced from the carriage behind.

"'He is there—it is he!' I said, and fainted in the arms of the man beside me. I remembered no more till I awoke in the room of the superintendent. I found the chief of the station, some policemen and the tall man standing around me.

"'This is Jean Louvain, warder of the prison at Toulon,' said the superintendent. 'Durette escaped from him yesterday, and he was clever enough to suspect he would return to Toulon, but he did not look for him dressed as a woman.'

"'Nor did I expect to find him caught by a woman,' said the deep voice of Jean Louvain. And that was how I met my husband."—N. Y. Weekly.

Easily Pleased.

Dependence on superfluities is one kind of helplessness. In one of his neighborly chats with a lady who lived near him at Sunnyside, Washington Irving gently reproved her complaint about the demands her children made upon her. "I have to teach them so many things!" she said. "Too many, perhaps," replied Irving. "Begin with one thing. Teach them to be easily pleased."—Youth's Companion.

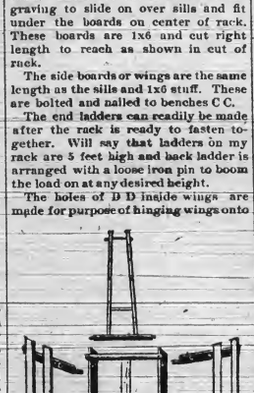
AGRICULTURAL HINTS

USEFUL HAY RACK.

One That Is Handy and Has Given Excellent Satisfaction.

At this season of the year we look around to see if we have all the tools necessary to do a successful job of harvesting the hay and grape crops.

Some of us will find ourselves with a broken half dilapidated hay rack almost if not altogether beyond repair. Of course, this calls for a new hayrack, which is almost a total necessity on the farm, and you will never regret it if you build a good one while about it.



I have had one in use for the past four years, which I find very handy and which has given good satisfaction, and I might say it is in as good condition as when made.

In the illustration the sills A A are 2x7 and 15 feet in length. Cross benches B B on sills are 2x4 and 3 feet 5 inches long, or to suit width of your wagon. These are bolted onto sills as in engraving, using 10-inch bolts, putting them in from under side of sill with nut on top of cross bench. These bolts you will find are an inch too short to reach through, but are countersunk, an inch, beneath and a small nail driven through the hole crosswise to prevent loss of bolts should a nut work off, as they are apt to do. The nuts are on top where they can be seen. The corresponding cross-benches C C on wings are 3 feet 6 inches in length and made by 2x4 stuff. These are cut as shown in engraving to slide on over sills and fit under the boards on center of rack. These boards are 1x6 and cut right length to reach as shown in cut of rack.

The side boards or wings are the same length as the sills and 1x6 stuff. These are bolted and nailed to benches C C.

The end ladders can readily be made after the rack is ready to fasten together. Will say that ladders on my rack are 5 feet high and back ladder is arranged with a loose iron pin to boom the load on at any desired height.

The holes of D D inside wings are made for purpose of hinging wings onto main frame of rack, and correspond with holes in cross-benches B B, where a one-half-inch bolt 5 inches in length fastens them together and is itself held in place with a key through it. This makes a combination rack which, by attaching eudgates and tight board floor, can be used to haul hogs, tile, pumpkins, etc., and by placing a few boards on side wings a large load of corn in the ear can be hauled. As I have always hauled a great deal of feed each winter I detach the sides, place it on a sled and make a very good feed rack of it, upon which to haul feed from the field to the barn.

EXCELLENT HAY RACK.

My rack is all made of red elm and painted with two coats of oil and Venetian red, which makes quite a durable paint for farm tools, and better by adding a few pounds of white lead. A rack of this kind will be found very convenient upon the farm, and I assure you I would not trade it and go back to the old platform rack.—George W. Brown, in Ohio Farmer.

New Potato Industry.

The opening up of a demand for potatoes peeled, sliced and dried like apples promises to give a fresh impetus to potato cultivation, as decay will be prevented and freight cost lessened. The potatoes are peeled and sliced by machinery, soaked two minutes in strong brine, drained and dried at a temperature of about 194 degrees. Before using the slices are soaked from 12 to 15 hours, and then have all the freshness and flavor of new potatoes.

New Food for Cattle.

A long-continued diet of molasses has been found injurious to cattle, but Louisiana sugar planters have discovered that "black strap" mixed in proper proportions with corn, hay or oats forms a good food for fattening cattle. There is already a great demand for it in Texas, and it is expected that the western states will soon consume quantities of what has been considered the nearly useless portion of the sugar-cane product.

Mow Down the Weeds.

If you have any land that cannot be cultivated to corn or potatoes do not allow it to remain for the weeds to exhaust it, but mow down the weeds when they are young and in August sow the land to crimson clover, to be plowed under next spring. It is a good plan to sow crimson clover on every vacant spot and thus improve the soil by taking advantage of its capacity for gathering nitrogen.

CORN FOR POULTRY.

By All Odds the Best Grain Food for Laying Hens.

Samuel Cushman, who is authority on matters pertaining to poultry, said at a recent farmers' meeting held in Boston if he was confined to one kind of grain he would take corn. With this he would feed, clover, fodder, corn, meat and other like food. Upon being asked if wheat does not stimulate laying, Mr. Cushman replied that he would not think of giving up wheat, but wanted to impress his hearers that too much stress is put on feeding wheat and too much said against feeding corn by poultry writers.

This agrees with our experience exactly. We believe that corn is the best single grain for poultry and feed it every day. Do not underrate wheat for it is a good feed to stimulate egg production, but it is not indispensable to the poultry keeper.

The great trouble with farm poultry is, usually, that it gets corn every day and all the time. If the hens run at large they have free access to the yard where the hogs are fed, and a good many times the corn crib is open to them at any time. Under these circumstances the hens fill themselves with corn and do not eat enough other food to keep them in laying condition.

Corn is essentially a fattening grain, and when we remember that the yolk of an egg contains a large proportion of pure fat we see how necessary a good supply of fat-forming food is to the production of eggs. No single food provides this so plentifully as corn does, and the poultry keeper who does not use it will not have the greatest possible success.

If laying hens are given a light feed of corn in the morning they will hunt insects and eat grass enough to satisfy their appetites and maintain the balance of the nutritive element in the food they eat.

Grass is a perfectly balanced food for live stock and poultry, and to one who never gave the matter attention it is a source of astonishment to learn how much of it poultry will eat. In the normal condition of things a hen will live on grass, but if she is laying she must have something in addition to furnish the egg material, and this can be supplied by giving her corn more cheaply than in any other way.

Long observation convinces us that corn fed to laying hens makes the yolks a richer yellow and gives consistency to the whites of eggs. Eggs laid by a half-fed hen have whites that are thin and watery and the yolks are often pale and thin, falling flat when the egg is broken instead of standing up in the shape of a half globe.

Corn is the best grain food for laying hens, but too much of it checks egg production. It is hard to convince people sometimes that if a little is good a great deal is better, but in the case of feeding corn to laying hens it is almost safe to say that too much is worse than none.—Farmer's Voice.

HINTS FOR BEEKEEPERS.

Combine bee keeping with fruit growing.

Bees consume a large quantity of honey while they are raising brood.

In hiving swarms all washes for the hive are useless. All that is necessary is to have the hive clean and sweet.

The queens of the Italians are decidedly more prolific. This is in part due to the greater activity of the workers.

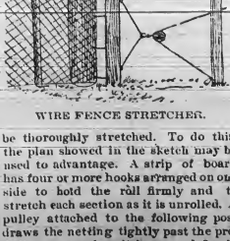
A young queen just emerging from the cell can always be safely given to the colony after destroying the old queen.

One advantage with Italian bees is that they have longer tongues and can gather honey from flowers where the black bees cannot.

By at once dividing colonies that show an inclination to swarm and destroying their queen cells the swarming may readily be stopped.

The best time to extract the honey is just as the bees begin capping. In this way uncapping is avoided, and the honey is thick and nearly ripe.

In order to free the honey from small pieces of comb and other impurities it should be passed through a coarse cloth or wire sieve before sending it to market.



The best honey is apt to crystallize, but this may be prevented by keeping it at about 80 degrees. Unripe honey will granulate quicker than that well evaporated.

To secure an abundance of comb honey the colonies must be strong and the brood combs full of brood at the beginning of the honey harvest. The swarming fever must also be kept down. —St. Louis Republic.

PUTTING UP FENCING.

How to Make the Poultry Yard Look Neat and Attractive.

Wire netting is so commonly used now for the yarding of fowls that some plan for properly putting up the fence is important. Ordinarily this fencing is slack and very unfidy. If needs to be thoroughly stretched. To do this the plan showed in the sketch may be used to advantage. A strip of board has four or more hooks arranged on one side to hold the rail firmly and to stretch each section as it is unrolled. A pulley attached to the following post draws the netting tightly past the preceding post, when it is secured firmly with staples and the work advanced to the next post. A fence thus put up will look neat and will be more serviceable in retaining fowls, as a sagging top wire invites attempts at flight.—American Agriculturist.

WIRE FENCE STRETCHER.

GAVE THE WAITER HIS FEE.

An Irascible Man's Ignorance of the Law Costs Him a Liberal Tip.

The globular and florid old gentleman, as he sat down at the table, pulled a dollar bill out of his pocket, deliberately tore it in two, handed one piece to the waiter, replaced the other in his pocket, and said:

"Waiter, if I am satisfied, you get the other half. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir," replied the functionary, and became as assiduous as a mother with her first child.

But for some inexplicable reason the old gentleman grew more and more dissatisfied as his meal progressed, until, as he arose from the table, he simply scowled angrily at the expectant waiter.

"Excuse me, sir, but—" the waiter insinuated obsequiously.

"Naw," snarled the old fellow in reply.

"Oh, yes; I think you will," observed the waiter, his backbone visibly stiffening.

"Don't you be impudent, young man," advised the old fellow, threateningly.

"Don't you be a chump," advised the waiter, contemptuously.

"Why, why, wh—sir!" screamed the old gentleman, swelling like an enraged turkey cock. "I'll—I'll report you for insolence, you—you villain!"

"If you think you will," retorted the waiter, calmly and firmly. "Come, hand over the other half of this bill. I need a dollar to go to the theater."

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, July 7, 1897.

Advertising Rates:
One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Union.

Geo. Jack was in town several days last week.

Mrs. Becker has returned from a visit to Cincinnati.

Sam Hicks and wife will now make their home with his father.

Joe Williams and family, of Cincinnati, are visiting relatives here.

Miss Alma Baker, of Covingtou, is the guest of Miss Naunie Bristow.

Mrs. Burl Conner started Tuesday for Nashville on a visit to relatives and to attend the exposition.

B. L. Rice and family have moved out from Covington to their country home for the summer.

Erlanger.

The Elsmere Improvement Association held their picnic Sunday at Gueuther place. A general good time was had.

A party of twenty-five came out from Cincinnati and spent the 4th with Mrs. John Morelli. A game of base ball was played with the ladies on one side and men on the other. Score 23 to 25 in favor of the ladies.

The annual election of the Building Association resulted as follows: President, Louis Morelli; Vice-Pres., J. A. Wyss; Sect'y., Jno. S. Zumbiel; Treas., T. J. Stevenson; Appraising Committee, David Riggs, Geo. Gebhardt and E. H. Riggs; Finance Committee, Wm. Bollin, Frank Winterberger and Adolf Konnerding; Atty., H. C. Theising.

Limaburg.

Aylett Snyder is very poorly again

Oats have grown tall enough to be cut.

The thermometer registered at 107 here on the 4th.

The wheat is all harvested and was put up in good order.

Ephraim Helm, of Ludlow, was visiting at this place, last week.

Chas. Garnett and wife were guests of Geo. Baker and wife on the 4th.

Two swarms of bees came to W. J. Utz's, last week, and went into hives and went to work.

Misses Allie aud Otta Aoffman, of Bellfontain, Ohio, are visiting their grandfather, A. F. Crigler.

Legrand Utz and wife, W. R. Rouse and wife and Wm. Craven and wife were visiting Henry Clore and wife, last week.

Francesville.

Miss Dolly Goodridge is still improving.

Mrs. Sarah Scothorn and Johnnie Beall's little girl are on the sick list.

Omer Henry's horse fell with him one night last week and sprained his ankle.

Farmers are busy cuttiug wheat.

Miss Etta May Graves is visiting in Louisville.

Harry Kilgore is building a combined cellar and cycloue cave. Wm. Batterson is doing the work.

The happy face of Thos. Brown can once more be frequently seen in our midst.

H. H. Hays, one of Bullittsville's handsome doctors, passed through town last Sunday.

Francesville and Taylorsport will cross bats next Monday. A good game is expected.

There has been several applicants for the Francesville school. Prof. Hafer being the lucky man.

Rabbit Hash.

We have been having some very warm weather.

A great many have been harvesting in the past week.

Capt. Ben Wilson is having a porch built in front of his house.

What is the matter, boys, that we can't have a dance or a picnic?

Dick Ryle was visiting friends and relatives at this place last week,

Z. T. Kelly is having a large barn built on his middle creek farm.

Mrs. Ella Aylor and daughter are visiting her father J. J. Stephens.

J. L. Stepheus has been very sick with the rheumatism for several days.

Charley Gibson has sold a great many binders on this side of the river.

T. C. S. Ryle and daughter, Mrs. Myra Stephens, returned home last week from Ill.

Miss Alta Kelly returned home last Sunday from Glencoe, where she was visiting her aunt.

A party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Newman at this place last Friday night, and was enjoyed by all who were present.

North Bend.

Mr. Eugene Coleman arrived here Wednesday from Missouri.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Solon Alloway on the 28th ult., a boy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Ellis, of Loveland, Ohio, spent the 4th at G. M. Riley's.

Mrs. Ester Kirtley was visiting in the Bullittsville neighborhood, last week.

Mrs. Bettie Kirtley and daughter are visiting Mrs. W. P. Cropper, this week.

Mrs. W. P. Cropper entertained, last Friday, in honor of her guests, Mrs. Kirtley and and daughter.

Miss Annabel Riley returned home on the 30th ult. We are glad to welcome her back among us.

Everybody is done cutting wheat in this neighborhood. W. M. Balsly says he has the finest wheat in the county.

Fried chicken is now ripe, and Mr. Editor, did you ever notice when people sit down to a table with a big dish of fried chicken at one end, how the man will hunt and hunt for the best piece to give his wife and how sure he is to get the very worst piece on the dish for her, and how unerring he will be in his forks and spear the best piece week.

Sunday school every Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. at K. of P. Hall.

Miss Bertie Friend, of Lockland, O., is the guest of Mrs. Anna Wilson.

M. F. Morrison and son, Jet, were up from Warsaw, Ky., this week, on a visit.

Jack Wingate had a horse literally torn to pieces this week by barbed wire fence.

Thos. Marshall and wife, of Union, visited their daughter, Mrs. Newman, last Sunday.

Mrs Angie Barker, of Covington, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Wingate, out on "Fussy-Ridge."

Smith Riggs and family has returned from a visit among Mrs. Riggs relatives near Greensburg, Indiana.

The Underhill boys delivered a nice crop of tobacco to B. C. Calvert, this week, for which they received 6 cents a pound.

The recent rise in the tobacco market makes some of the farmers feel like they are in it, and goes to prove that the dealers who re-dried a purchase are all smart men.

Miss Alice Wilson and Delia Wingate accompanied by Albert and Ephraim Clore, took in the Sunday evening excursion, going down on the Louisville to Vevay and returning on the Telegraph.

Every body is in the midst of their harvest this week, and the wheat promises a fair yield. Rye is more plentiful than we have seen for many years. Hay is a full crop and pastures were never better.

Hathaway.

Cage Stephens was very sick several days last week.

Miss Carrie Woods was very poorly again last week.

The warm weather, last week, was something awful.

Mrs. Myrtle Clements and son, Clyde are visiting her father, P. P. Neal.

Mrs. Inez Conley purchased a fine young horse of J. L. Huey, last week.

Rev. J. L. Presser started for Va., last Thursday, with the good wishes of his many friends.

The fourth was not very much celebrated around here, as it was too warm and the people were too busy.

Mrs. T. J. Stephens, Mrs. P. P. Neal and Mrs. M. W. Neal spent the day with Mrs. Anna Crisler, last Tuesday.

Robert Clements, James Aylor, L. J. Riley, J. S. Mason, J. Q Elston, had their binders out last week cutting grain.

James A. Riley left for California, last Thursday, for his health. His wife and daughter will remain with her father, Joe Riddell.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Presser, son and daughter, and Mrs. B. D. Adams spent Saturday and Sunday with O. J. Ryle and wife of Burlington.

James Sebree and wife entertained in their usually charming way a crowd of both married and single people at there home ou Gunpowder on the evening of the 26th. The amusement consisted of parlor games and music, with lemonade and cake for refreshments. All present enjoyed the evening splendidly, and regretted when the time came to leave.

Gunpowder.

Farmers have begun putting up their hay.

Lamb buyers look pretty sick at present.

The Barlow Co., shipped a flue car load of hogs last Friday.

W. H. Garnett has recovered from his severe attack of illness.

Arthur Tanner comtemplates going on his own "hook" next year.

A. D. Beemon and wife of Walton were in our neighborhood last week.

Several of our young people are attending the protracted meeting which is in progress at the Mt. Zion M. E. Church.

Miss Hattie C. Tanner entertained a number of her friends last Saturday evening with a social. Music and parlor games were the chief amusements. A sumptuous repast was served about 10 o'clock. Near 12 o'clock the beautifullhymn, "Home, Sweet Home," was sung and the visitors departed, thanking the host and hostess and their accomplished daughter for the pleasant time, and many expressions of a desire to meet many more times on similar occasions.

Miss Lydia Beemon passed to the great beyond on June 26th at the age of 52 years; and her father, Uncle Jodon Beemon, departed this life July 1st, aged, 81 years. Both funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Adams, after which the remains were taken to Hopeful cemetery for the final resting place. The bereaved family desires to express their sincere thanks to those who were so kind to them during their father's and sister's sickness. We extend our heartfelt condolence to the bereaved family.

Mr. J. N. Pearson was visiting in our vicinity last week. He states that he is still as strong and true Democrat as before the election, that he has a dogmatical opinion upon the silver issue that he will never deviate from those principles that are so dear to his heart and that constitutes true democracy. He says he served the people of Florence on the Democratic committee for thirteen years elected to that office by true Democrats. The people are stronger for him than ever and would vote for him for anything he might ask for. Since he carried his precinct by a handsome majority it is evident that those who know him best are his most substantial supporters. Would he not make a good representative?

Walton.

Mrs. Jacob Kipp is visiting her parents in Ohio.

Miss Allie Platt has returned home from Alabama.

Mrs. Joe Milliner, of Cincinnati, is the pleasant guest of Mrs. Emma Lermond.

Mrs. Botts returned on Saturday from a visit to the family of Mr. Walter Wilson, of Bank Lick.

Mrs. Dr. Jones and Master Leslie have returned from a visit to her mother, Mrs. Sophia Whitson, of Verona.

Mr. Andrew Collins, while returning to his home from the Teachers' convention at Bowling Green, was over come by the heat, and had to be carried from the train. He was taken to the hotel where he remained until sens to nominate Judge Botts of this place as a candidate for representative in the place of Dr. Grubbs deceased. Judge Botts has certainly proven his ability as a public servant from the number of years he has been employed by the L. & N. Railway Co., as their agent at this place. He is a man of fine integrity and would faithfully serve the people in case he should be elected.

The failure of the Commercial Building and Loan Trust at Louisville, has jeopardized the savings of a number of the citizens of this place. Among those who suffered loss, are Mrs. Jennie Conner, $1,000; James Cleek, $200; Pat Burk, $500; Steve Ingram, $45; Frank Bence, $300; Geo. Stamler, jr., $500; Dave Haley, $4.50, T. J. Walch, $1,000; Ed Harris, $500. It seems that this ought to be a warning to people to support home enterprises instead of going abroad to invest their surplus earnings.

Constance.

Hubert Smith is out again.

It seems that our prospective dairy has about dried up in the field.

The people of Constance do not lack for vegetables, hucksters and butchers.

From all prospects Mr. Richmond is going to teach our school for us next year.

The manner of accompaning young ladies has changed. Ask Yank and Dock.

Wm. Tanner has accepted a position to pitch for the Bedford, Mass., ball team, at $100 a month.

Mr. Geo. Rosin is building a beautiful storehouse and dwelling combined soon to be occupied as a drugstore.

M. L. Moreland has gone to picking peas. Wm. Zimmer says he would be a good hand at the business, if it were not he was born tired, not lazy.

The dance given by Wm Zimmer was very well attended. Excellent behavior prevailed and all seemed to enjoy themseles splendidly. Try it again, William.

We had an Indian minister with us last week. He is a typical Indian. The expression of his firmness, honor and true heartedness beams forth in his noble countinance.

The city people take our little town in every Sunday, and what compliments they do pass. Remember they are from the city and from appearance they get a salary of two dollars a week

Certain parties are trying to force the druggist to close his doors on Sunday. Oh what ignorance. One fellow even went so far as to go out to Burlington to pay the last grand jury a visit to see what could be done. Another case of ignorance, based upon envy.

Petersburg.

Berthel Pease has the measles.

Mrs. Mary Collier is in poor health.

One of Bro. Harris' children has the whooping cough.

Rev. Leslie Early will preach here Sunday, July 11th.

The Str. Workum is considerably in the excursion business.

E. M. Holton has begun to harvest over 100 acres of meadow.

Marion Bruce has been taking quinine and it has made him deaf.

Adam Hoffman and Reese Gordon each had a cow to die, last week.

Rev. Mr. Morgan preached at the Christian church two or three nights, recently.

Sam Hensley has lately bought a horse to fill the place of one he had killed by lightning.

Another exodus of workingmen and their wives from this place to Chicago, took place last week.

The Klupp family delivered a large quantity of tobacco to Wingate and Thompson, a few days since.

Esq. L. A. Loder can lay it over Mr. Gaines for carrying pocket knives. He has one he has had for 31 years.

Stella Nichols mixed up chicken feed with the salt water used in making ice-cream and killed 56 chickens.

Born, June 23d, to Steve Gaines and wife, a daughter. Mrs. Gaines was not doing very well at last accounts.

Ed. Russell Orchard, of Indianapolis, preached here Sunday the 4th. He preached his first sermon here July 4th, 1840.

James Jarrell has been helping Dick Hensley, of Woolper, harvest. He says Dick will make 25 bus. of wheat to the acre.

A Salvation army and Sunday-school picnic was held in Applegates Grove above the mouth of Garrison, last Monday week.

Jas. Jarrell and wife, Thos. Hyne and family, Emma Pease and children and Nettie Cave took the 4th at J. W. Sebree's on Double Lick.

Time was when farmers would have to ride a day or two looking for harvest hands. Now the hands may walk two or three days and find no work. Machinery and McKinley have to bear the blame.

Arthur (Tuttle) Parker, jr., who has been living at Bethlehem, Ohio, for a few years, and Miss Minnie Miller, daughter of Preston and Annie Miller, of Cincinnati, were married at Lawreneeburg, Wednesday, June 23rd.

There is a sort of under current of opinion by close observers of such matters, that a certain industrious, economical, well-to-do widower not a 1,000 miles from here, has been calculating as to whether or not he can afford to furnish two plates instead of one. There is no doubt that the conclusions reached will be favorable as the central figure is well able to supply the extra plate. Possibly, they may think other people would do well to attend to their own business this hot weather, but a certain philosopher used to say, "time proves all things" and we can simply say wait and see.

Utzinger.

Corn has got the blues.

The potato crop will be a short one.

John R. Sweeney has a new buggy of the latest pattern.

Lee Cropper is all smiles—a pretty little girl at his house.

Friday was the hottest day of the season—94 in the shade.

Chas. A. Gaines has several boarders from the city, at his house.

Dick Acra is the proud father of two little babes—a boy and a girl.

Col. Berry has introduced a bill in Congress to pension Jake Klopp.

Mrs. Welsh, of Cincinnati, was visiting her father, Dennis McClelland, last week.

Dick Lou Hensley has about recovered from her recent severe spell of sickness.

Owen Batchelor was married to a Miss Carter, of Lawreneeburg, one evening last week.

Bob Batchelor has the fluest piece of tobacco in this vicinity—nearly big enough to top.

M. F. Wingate shipped 200 head of lambes to market the other day that averaged 85 pounds.

Some of the defeated candidates got "woozy," after the primary. Boys, it takes votes to elect.

Lystra Smith was elected school trustee in Berkshire district and Mark Gordon at Petersburg.

Mathew Fleek's horses ran off with the plow, the other day, and broke the plow and crippled one of the horses.

Some say that Hon. N. S. Walton would like to be the next State Senator from this district. He would make a good one.

Revs. Harris and Barker and Prof. Fogg will commence a protracted meeting at the M. E. Church in Petersburg in the near future.

J. I. Wingate, W. T. Stott and J. R. Clutterbuck are mentioned down this way as prospective candidates for the legislature.

Miss Julia Smith, who was born and raised at Piattsburg, has gone to live with her brother, Dr. Geo. Smith, of Welsburg, Ind.

Sometimes we are asked to send items to the RECORDER and they don't appear. The editor don't think them news. Such is life.

Ed Fritch, who went from the Woolper neighborhood to Tacoma, Wash., several years ago, is now a leading business man of that place.

Lightning struck Jas. Snyder's barn, last Sunday week, tearing a hole in the roof and killing a horse for Sam Hensley that was in the barn at the time.

The RECORDERS do not reach Petersburg until Friday morning, of late. Has the hot weather caused a break down of the traction engine?—[Nixey.—ED.]

Gasburg.

The Irish potato crop is very near a failure.

A jolly crowd from Aurora are camped at Split Rock.

Wheat harvest is about over. The yield will be moderate—quality first-class.

Miss Henrietta Funk, of Cincinnati, and her "fellow" are visiting friends and relatives here.

The "Sand Road" seems to be a favorite for your Utzinger correspondent to take his Sunday drives.

Judging from the great racket made in Aurora on the 3d, patriotism must have been rampant over there.

A great many young people from the country below Woolper, passed through here going to Aurora to take in the 4th.

The farms on which Henry and Arthur Terrill reside have been in the same family's hands for over 100 years.

The tobacco crop is a very light one and is in bad shape on account of not having season. Some failed to get out any portion of their intended crop.

Dr. Tilly must have been joking when he told you of the destruction of the melon crop, though a trifle late the vines are in excellent shape and give promise of a bountiful crop.

Never mind about nominating a successor to Dr. Grubbs yet. Give the voters a rest, for they certainly had a surfeit of politics and candidates lately; wait until about October 1st, when the weather is more pleasant. Had the committee not receded from the time first set, which was the 2d Saturday in August, the death of Dr. Grubbs would not have disarranged things as it has.

H. W. Harrison, dentist, of Rising Sun, Ind., will be in Burlington on the first and third Monday in each month, to do work for those who wish anything in his line. He will be here two days each visit. He is a son of the late R. F. Harrison, of Carrollton, and a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dentistry at Philadephia. He is highly recommended in his profession.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, Ky. July 7, 1896.

Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,

MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.

For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

W. N. Hind & Co. Established 1876. Jewelers and Opticians. Headquarters for Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Silverware, Novelties, Etc. 213 W. Fifth St. The doors of which are always open. Cincinnati, O.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

S. Baldon's Adm'r, Pltf.
vs Equity
Parthena Baldon, &c., Defts.

Notice is hereby given that I will begin my sittings at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., on the 17th day of July, 1897, to hear proof of claims, under the order of reference in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 3d day of August, 1897. All persons having claims against S. Baldon's estate will present them to me proven as by law required.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

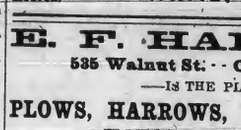
Elijah Parker's Assignee, Pltf.
vs.
Elijah Parker, &c., Deft.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 17th day of July, 1897, at the Circuit clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 3d day of August, 1897. All persons having claims against Elijah Parker's estate will present them to me properly proven as by law required.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C.

GO TO HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants, HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,

A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.



GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

E. F. HARMEYER,
535 Walnut St. - - CINCINNATI, OHIO.
—IS THE PLACE TO BUY—
PLOWS, HARROWS, CORN DRILLS, CULTIVATORS, HAY RAKES, &c.,
We also have the 'EUREKA' AND OTHER MOWERS.
☞Don't fail to see us if you want anything in our line.☜

JOHN ALLISON,
UNDER-  EMBALTAKER MER,
—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,—
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

QUEEN & CRESCENT.

During the Tennessee Centennial and International Exposition at Nashville, Tenn., a low rate special tarifi has been established for the sale of tickets from Cincinnati and other terminal points on the Queen & Crescent Route.

Tickets are on sale daily until further notice to Chattanooga at $6.75 one way or $7.20 round trip from Cincinnati, the round trip tickets being good seven days to return; other tickets, with longer return limit, at $9.90 and $13.50 for the round trip.

These rates enable the public to visit Nashville and other Southern points at rates never before offered. Vestibuled trains of the finest class are at the disposal of the passenger, affording a most pleasant trip, and enabling one to visit the very interesting scenery and important battle grounds in and about Chicdamauga, Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga National Millitary Park. Tickets to Nashville to visit the Centennial can be repurchased at Chattanooga for $3.40 round trip. Ask your ticket agent for tickets via Cincinnati and the Q. & C. Route South or write to

W. C. RINEARSON, G. P. Agt., Cincinnati, O.

Farm for Sale!
—(o)—
CONTAINING SIXTY ACRES
House of 5 rooms, well and cistern,
Good Two Story Barn with Covered Drive-Way and Basement,
Large Cistern, never failing Stock water. No better Farming Land in Boone County.
Apple Orchard of Selected Trees.
Location, 1¼ miles south of Florence, on Lexington pike. All buildings within 50 yards of pike, (formerly owned by John Northcutt.)
For terms and all information call on or address
G. N. BUFFINGTON, Buffington, Ky.

By order of David T. Buffington.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

L. Dwyer's Adm'r., &c. Pltfs.
vs
L. Dwyer's creditors, &c., Defts.

This cause is now refered to J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this county, who will ascertain and report the amount, kind and value of the estate of the decedent, whether real, personal or mixed and where the same is located. He will ascertain and report what debts, if any were owing by decedent at the time of his death and to that end all persons holding claims against said estate will present same to said Berkshire proven according to law on or before August 1st, 1897, and said Berkshire will give due notice of the time and place of his sittings through the Boone Co., Recorder. He will also settle the accounts of Mellison R. Dwyer, administratrix, and report among other things the cost of administration.

Witness my hand as clerk of said court, this April 30th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

Farm for Sale.

Lying on the Beaver pike, Boone county, Ky., ¾ mile from Richwood Station on the C. N. & T. P., railroad. Said farm contains 115 acres in a good state of cultivation, with a good frame dwelling of seven rooms and cellar, cistern and well in the yard, barn and other necessary out buildings, orchard and various kinds of fruit trees; known as the W. H. Smith farm. Those wishing to purchase call on or address,

LEWIS RICE, Richwood, Ky.

Subscribe for the RECORDER

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky

Simons Baldon's Adm'r. Plaintiff,
vs
Parthena Baldon, &c., Defts.

This cause is now refered to the Master Commissioner of the Boone Circuit Court with the following directions: 1st. He will advertise in the Boone Co. Recorder the time and place of his sittings and he will hear proof of and receive claims against the estate of the decedent Simons Baldon. 2d. He will audit and settle the accounts of the administrator, John D. Baldon. 3d. He will ascertain what property the decedent owned at the time of his death, and he will report his actions herein at the August term, 1897, of the Boone Circuit Court.

Given under my hand as clerk of said court, this May 12th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

NOTICE.

Cincinnati, O., April 5, 1897.

To the Tobacco Growers of Boone County:

I am connected with the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., which includes four houses—the Globe, Morris, Bodmann, Cincinnati Miami. Prize your tobacco and ship it to one of the four houses and receive the highest market price for same. If you have no preference ship it to the Cincinnati Miami, and I will give it my personal attention. Hogsheads and presses furnished. Address me at 110, 112 West Front St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

oct-7 O. W. ADAMS.

RHEUMATISM LINIMENT.
L. MORELLI,
Box 123, - ERLANGER, KY.
AGENTS WANTED.
☞Price, 50 Cents Per Bottle.

Steam :-: Ferry
—AT—
TAYLORSPORT.

I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.

July-16 S. H. GOODIN.

Local News.

The latter days of June were warm enough.

Another—the second—crop of candidates is ripening.

Threshing machines will go upon the road now in a few days.

Weeds are no ornament to your premises. Keep them cut down.

Those who like hot weather have certainly been well pleased the past week.

Some people have had awfully poor luck trying to raise fried chickens this season.

Hillis Bros. continue to bring nice river fish to this market every Friday morning.

The price lambs commanded at the beginning of the season has not been sustained.

E. H. Riggs is now postmaster at Erlanger, having taken possession the first of this month.

The mercury registered 100 at J. F. Weaver's Sunday, while it was 102 in Burlington and 107 at Limaburg.

A 16 year-old colored boy died at the county infirmary last Sunday. There are now 32 beneficiaries at that institution.

The remains of Dr. W. B. Grubbs were interred on the family lot in the cemetery here at 11:30 a. m. last Wednesday.

An agent for a foreign building association could not make money enough to pay his toll, placing stock in this county now.

Miss Lyda Beemon, daughter of Mr. Jordon Beemon, of the Florence neighborhood, died, last week, after a protracted illness.

The Trustee of the Jury Fund is now paying the jurors for the December term, 1896, and April term 1897. Call and get your money.

The attorneys will now begin preparing for the approaching term of Circuit Court. The docket has been of slow growth up to date.

The wheat and rye crops are about in the shock. W. S. Acra has a field of pool wheat down on Woolper that is laid at 30 bushels to the acre.

In the last five years Boone county has been swiped for $75,000 to $100,000 by failures of foreign enterprises in which her people have invested.

For Sale—Within the next ten days at stock hog price, five 1-year-old Chester White boars. John M. Popham,
Constance, Ky.

Those who desire to organize a beef company are requested to meet at the commissary at 2 p. m. on the second Saturday in July. DING ROUSE.

Rev. H. M. Brown, of Dublin, Ind., will preach at the Universalist church next Sunday, before and afternoon. It will be a basket meeting, and all are invited.

When in Cincinnati don't go down to the river to see an airship ascend. The trip cost a Grant county man $20 one day last week, and the airship did not ascend.

Several persons completed their wheat harvest last week. Many report their wheat thin on the ground, but say the heads are very large and filled with plump grain.

With her canning factories, planing mills, catsup plant, brick yard, natural gas, and two railroads, Walton bids fair to become a place of considerable importance in the commercial world.

The game of ball at Lawrenceburg, last Sunday, was a clear cut defeat to the Kentuckians, the score being 17 to 4 against them. It was the first game the Kentucky boys had played together this season.

There will be an eclipse of the sun July 29th, visible, if clear, all over the United States, and will be in the form called annular. That is to say, the sun will appear as a ring of light around and outside the black body of the moon.

Next Saturday night Viola Lodge No. 278, I. O. O.F., has work in the 3rd degree, after which the officers elected for the ensuing term will be installed, and then a lunch will be served. The lodge will be glad to have as many visiting brethren present as can make it convenient.

County Surveyor Vest is not entirely done the work locating the line between Boone and Kenton counties. At some points the correctness of the work done is questioned while at others its accuracy is attested by persons familiar with the survey made in 1846. That the line is being properly located there is no doubt.

One of the most novel performances ever witnessed in this neighborhood for some time, was County Attorney Lassing engaged grubbing on one of his farms, one morning last week, while he wore white linen pants, black luster coat, a standing collar and white neck tie, and the thermometer registering 96 in the shade.

Orin Phipps lost his pocket book last Thursday. It contained $33 in bills and silve. He was driving a binder all day Thursday and he thinks he maye have lost it somewhere in the wheat field.

At Aberdeen on the bottom of wedding cards they put the legend: "No children expected." An old citizen reading one of the cards for the first time exclaimed: "Well they may not expect 'em but dollars to dimes they'll have 'em."

In renewing his paper, M. C. Weaver, of Evansville, Tennessee, writes: "Enclosed herewith find money order for $1.50 to pay my subscription to the RECORDER; also spring and fall catalogue of the Tennessee Valley Baptist Institute, which, by the way, is destined to be the foremost institution in the state. I only send this to show you that we are not, as some people think, living in the backwoods."

Low rate Put-in-Bay Excursion.—Low rate round trip tickets on sale over the Queen & Crescent Route and connecting lines for excursion of July 19th (leaving Chattanooga the night of the 18th.) $12.25 round trip from Chattanooga, $11.35 from Dayton, $10.75 from Rockwood, $10.55 from Harriman Junction, $8.60 from Somerset, $7.00 from Lexington and Georgetown. Good six days to return. Ask agents for particulars.

Mr. Jordon Beemon, aged 81 years and 21 days, of the Florence neighborhood, died on the 30th ult. He had been in bad health for quite a while. Mr. Beemon was one of the old citizens of the county, and a member of one of Boone's largest families—The funeral was preached at the residence last Friday by Rev. Sam Adams after which the interment occurred at Hopeful. Only a few days before a daughter Miss Lydia, was buried.

Patriotism was on tap down on Woolper, last Saturday, where about thirty men assembled to renew their devotion to their country and its institutions. A roasted lamb, fried fish and a large kettle of soup, with all necessaries, composed the menu for the occasion. Sidney Gaines barbecued the lamb, C. L. Crisler fried the fish and Richard White made the soup, and each sustained his reputation as a first-class cook for such occasions.

T. H. Baker, P. M., is the way he signs his name now, and Louisville is his address. The Courier-Journal says: "Mr. Baker, the new postmaster, comes into office with the good wishes of every citizen, and the confidence of every one who knows him. Dr. Baker was connected with the department a number of years ago, and is familiar with the workings of the office. All who know him are confident that he will make an enviable record in the office."

A confidence game of small dimensions was successfully played on several of the citizens of the town last Thursday just before noon, at which time a well dressed young fellow appeared on the streets, who represented that he was crippled at Evansville, Ind., from from which place he started to his home at Huntington, West Virginia, but was put off the boat at Rabbit Hash. He was limping badly and walked with a cane, and to corroborate his claim of having been crippled he displayed a badly bruised leg. Several persons contributed to him small amounts of money, and he had been gone but a short time when it was learned that he had two pals traveling with him, and depending on him to keep them in money.

While postmaster at Erlanger, R. J. Scott notified a party in Virginia that a package had been mailed at his office, but could not be forwarded for want of a stamp, and here is the answer, in part, the postmaster received:

Boston, Culpeper county, Va., the 22 of June, 18 hundred and 97, 6 o'clock in afternoon.

Postmaster, Erlanger, Ky., I'll answer you quite soon—Do you live in Keuton co., or do you live in Boone?

I was in Boone county many years ago, left there in 1872. Erlanger must be a new place—It's a place I never knew.

I have somewhat an aspiring nature, would like to run for the legislature but fear my faults might be detected and after all not be elected.

Yes, many to whom I'd like to speak there in Boone co., on Middle Creek—On my fine horse I'd travel about that old church—Big Bane Lick.

And could spend one week in exquisite communion, with the nice people in and about Union.

O, I can think of more than language can tell about Jonathan Williams, of Florence, who kept a good hotel.

To visit the people of Florence, I often times wish—Wm. Crigler, Tom Swetnan and Spencer Fish.

And, O, the town of Burlington—people of the right sort, of whom boots and dry goods in bygone days I've bought.

I'm regarded a widower of no particular age, once more in matrimony would like now to engage.

I use no tobacco, play at no games of chance, drink whisky and brandy temperately, and can enjoy a social dance. I am of high social standing, have a good looking face, advocate good order in all things, at all times in every place.
P. M. WEAVER.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,

THE LEADERS IN LOW PRICES.

IN GROCERIES.

Standard Granulated Sugar, 20 pounds, $1.00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound, 13c
Good Canned Corn, per can, 05c

In Dry Goods, Notions, Etc.,

We have the Latest Styles at the Lowest Prices.

IN BINDER TWINE we lead them all.
Pure Sisal, per 100 pounds, $5.75.

We have bargains in all Departments, but have not room to mention Prices. Please favor us with a call at

UNION, - - - - KENTUCKY.

GONE TO THE WALL.

The Louisville Commercial Building Trust Makes an Assignment.

Quite A Number Of Boone County People Caught In The Fall.

The failure of the Commercial Building Trust, of Louisville, last Wednesday, caught Burlington and vicinity for $10,000 or $12,000, the amount for which different persons were caught ranging from $10 to over $4,000. Some of the share holders, relying on what is doubtless a padced statement published by the company, expect to get back a large portion of the money they have paid in, but they would rs well reconcile themselves to sustaining a clear loss, and then any amount that they may be so fortunate as to recover will be an agreeable surprise to them. Notwithstanding reports to the contrary it would be hard to convince many that the concern has not been bursted ever since the Knoxville, Tennessee, companies failed, and may be even prior to their trouble. No weight is given the company's claim that the recent decision of the Court of Appeals brought about its collapse, for that decision had not hed time to effect it. A failure of its proportions is not the result of a few days of unfavorable business, but is the culmination of months of bad business concealed from those upon whom the burden must at last fall. J. M. Lassing, who was agent for the company at this place, had perfect confidence in its success, and proved his faith by a large investment in its stock, he being the heaviest loser in the county.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

The sudden and unexpected death of Dr. Grubbs, recently nominated by the Democrats of Boone county to represent them in the next legislature, makes it necessary to select another. The unerring judgment displayed by the Democracy of "Grand Old Boone," the banner county of Kentucky in selecting its representatives in the past precludes the possibility of any mistake in its selection now, and yet the writer, with your permission, will present for consideration the name of a man that is indeed a representative citizen in every respect, a man for whom every lover of liberal thought and independent action has respect; a man whose record has been unbroken in alliance to the faiths and teachings of the Democratic party and against whom no man has ever urged the charge of disloyalty. It is the name of a man that regardless of opposition or approbation has put the question to the county in matters political and stood by the question as long as a "shot remained in the locker," thereby gaining friends a legion and enemies none, because all Democrats feel kindly toward the citizen who has the manhood to stand by his convictions and battle for the principles of "Free and equal rights to all." The name I present is that of B. L. Rice, of Union.
A VOTER.
Walton, Ky., July 6th, 1897.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. J. Rucker, of Constauce, was in town Thursday.

J. M. Conner came out last Saturday to visit his father.

Dr. J. F. Smith was very sick several days last week.

Mrs. Richard Underhill has been very sick for several days.

F. P. Walton, of Utzinger, was in town Thursday afternoon.

Sidney Gaines was visiting the scenes of his childhood, last Wednesday.

Dr. E. W. Duncan and wife, of Walton, was in town one day last week.

Miss Lottie Hall is visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. F. Ashburn, at Mt. Adams, O.

Hon. W. W. Williams, the affable attorney, of Rising Sun, was in town Friday.

Prof. Collins, Wallace Tanner and Herbert McKim returned last Saturday day from Bowling Green and Mammoth Cave.

Hal Presser and wife and Mrs. Duke Adams, of Hathaway, spent Saturday night and Sunday with O. J. Ryle's family at this place.

Misses Clara Grady, Lois Patterson, Anna Lee Shoemaker and Mabel Holman, of Ludlow, are spending their vacation at Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gordon's near here.

S. A. House, of Union, was the first politician to land in town Monday morning. He was loaded with valuable information but the RECORDER could not prevail on him divulging.

E. S. McKim, who had been at work at the Lagoon, for several weeks, came home last Thursday, having been relieved of his job temporarily in a suspension of a portion of the employes at that place.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

All those owing Blyth & Clutterbuck are requested to come forward and settle same

The fourth of July was well celebrated this year. A three days turn was taken at it.

Now is the time to make the trip. Ask agent for rates and other particulars. High Bridge is a delightful place for boating, bathing, fishing, bicycling etc

NOTICE—Those owing back taxes would confer a great favor by coming forward and paying same, is the road money is now due and I have a considerable amount to collect before I can settle with the overseers.
C. C. ROBERTS, S B. C.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.

Quarterly Report of the Erlanger Deposit Bank of Erlanger, Ky., at the close of business June 30th, 1897:

RESOURCES:

Loans and Discounts, less loans to Directors	$59,991 96
Loans to Directors (officers not included)	1,075 00
Loans to Officers	1,500 00
Overdrafts, unsecured	58 53
Due from Nat. Banks	13,017 17
Due from State Banks, &c.
Banking House and Lot	3,780 70
Mortgages	21,130 00
Specie	938 21
Currency	2,700 00	3,638 21
Furniture and Fixtures		1,785 15
Current Expenses
		$105,976 72

LIABILITIES.

Capital Stock paid in	$50,000 00
Surplus Fund	3,200 00
Individual Deposits	51,712 22
Undivided Profits	1,064 44
Due National Banks
	$105,976 72

Gross earnings for six months ending June 30, 1897 $2,986 86
Undivided Profits Dec. 31, '96 1,224 14
$4,211 00

Disposed of as follows:

Current Exp. and Taxes paid	1,196 56
Dividend No. 7, 3½ per cent	1,750 00
Carried to Surplus	200 00
Undivided Profits remaining	1,064 44
	$4,211 00

State of Kentucky, County of Kenton:
S. L. Webb, cashier, of Erlanger Deposit Bank, a bank located and doing business in the town of Erlanger, Ky., in said county, being duly sworn, says that the foregoing report is in all respects a true statement of the condition of the said bank, at the close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and further says that the business of said bank has been transacted at the location named, and not elsewhere; and that the above report is made in compliance with an official notice received from the Secretary of State designating the 30th day of June, 1897, as the day on which such report shall be made. S. L. Webb, Cashier.
Sworn to before me by S. L. Webb, this 2d day of July, 1897.
T. J. Childress, J. P, K. Co.
J. T. Craven, W. H. Baker, W. A. Price, } Directors.

QUARTERLY REPORT

Of the Walton Deposit Bank at close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897:

RESOURCES:

Loans and Discounts	$77,271 47
Loans to directors (officers not included)	1,150 00
Loans to officers	868 31
Overdrafts, unsecured	45 27
Due from Nat. banks	4,600 53
Due from State Banks and Bankers	232 90
Banking house and lot	2,000 00
Specie	3,100 84
Currency	1,563 00
Furniture and Fixtures	1,726 17
Current Expenses	441 23
	$92,999 72

LIABILITIES:

Capital stock paid in, in cash	$50,000 00
Surplus Fund	500 00
Undivided Profits	3,160 62
Due Depositors	39,339 10
Due National Banks
Due State Banks & Bankers
	$92,999 72

State of Kentucky, County of Boone,
R. C. Green, cashier of the Walton Deposit Bank, a bank located and doing business in the town of Walton Ky., in said county, being duly sworn, says the foregoing report is in all respects a true statement of the condition of said bank, at the close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and further says that the business of said bank has been transacted at the location named, and not elsewhere; and that the above report is made in compliance with an official notice received from the Secretary of State designating the 30th day of June, 1897, as the day on which such report shall be made. R. C. Green, Cashier.
G. W. Ransler, Director
D. M. Bagby, Director.
O. Percival, Director.
Subscribed and sworn to before me by R. C. Green, the 1st day of July, 1897.
T. F. Chiley, Notary Public.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.

BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,
BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.,
—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS,
Notions, Groceries, Etc.
Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!
at Lowest : Cash : Prices.
Lime and Cement always on hand.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.

The J. L. BILL
Coffee and Tea Co.
THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.
12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,
COVINGTON, KY.
WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

In Shoes! We want your trade in Shoes. We have made a deep cut in Prices to induce you to buy
Children's Fine Shoes $1.00 reduced from $2.00.
Ladies' Slippers, 50 cents, reduced from $1.75.
Baby Shoes, 25c up. Men's Fine Shoes, $1.00.
Fine Tan Shoes in both Men's and Women's which we will sell you at GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

We have bargains in all Departments, but have not room to mention Prices. Please favor us with a call at

UNION, KENTUCKY.

SENSATIONAL BARGAINS!

Clothing Sacrificed! See!
A full Suit of Men's Clothing for only, ...$3.50, worth double, and this is only a sample.
We invite inspection all along the line.....
Shoes, Tinware, Groceries, Dress Goods, Etc.

MILLINERY
Ladies, you will be surprised to see the nice things we have to offer you, and prices are waydown.

In fact we have a full line of General Merchandise, and prices are in keeping with the times.

We Guarantee Quality Also.
COME AND SEE,
T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

Keystone Buggy Company,
CINCINNATI, - - OHIO.
FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS,
—MANUFACTURERS—
Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles.

$367 Like Cut.

Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent

QUALITY AT VERY LOW PRICE.

Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.

All Jobs Made to Order. Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.

References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sothern, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigler, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Utzinger; Rolla Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Uts, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.
Call on or address,
R. L. BRADFORD, : Hebron, Ky,
Agent for Boone County.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER.

THE RECORDER

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY.

JULY—1897.

Sun.	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thur.	Fri.	Sat.
....	....	....	....	1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31

CURRENT TOPICS.

THE special envoy of the sultan of Morocco to the queen's jubilee has been returned to Morocco insane.

FEMALE spiders are much larger and more ferocious than the males, and often devour their husbands.

AMSTERDAM is intersected by canals, which divide the city into about 90 island. Communication with them is had by about 300 bridges.

REV. SAMUEL VINCENT, of Plymouth, England, who will soon be made president of the English Baptist union, lived in Milwaukee from 1854 to 1861.

IN Sumner county, Kansas, which gave a load of wheat for the India famine sufferers, a man died of starvation before the wheat reached the Indians.

THE correct pronunciation is "Hawie-e," the "a" sounded as in "father," the "i" as in "time," and the "e" as in "we," the accent being on the second syllable.

DR. SHELDON JACKSON, the Alaskan missionary who presided over the Presbyterian assembly, is now on his way to the north to resume his labors on the Yukon.

THE Daughters of the Confederacy in Georgia intend to memorialize the legislature of that state in the interest of the establishment of co-education in the State university.

THE bishop of Meath, Ireland, who has been chosen archbishop of Dublin, is a broad churchman with evangelical tendencies. He is a total abstainer from liquor and tobacco.

ISAAC FRACHIER, of Vinegar Hill district, in Walton county, has a steer 84 years of age that is able to do good plowing, says the Savannah News. The animal was calved in 1812.

JOHN MCFARLAND, living near Crooksville, O., died of sunstroke. A wagon containing an undertaker and three others going to the house was struck by lightning and two killed.

DIPARAOSSIACETOPHENONDIPHENLPIPERAZINE is the name conferred by an Italian chemist upon a new compound he has discovered. The word is said to mean something to chemical experts.

IN a Montreal park on Sunday a father was compelled to order his four-year-old boy to cease throwing a toy ball to him, and was obliged to put the ball in his pocket under pain of arrest.

GEORGE S. DEAKINS, of Rowlesburg, W. Va., a surveyor, has the compass and other instruments which belonged to his grandfather when, with Washington, he surveyed the road from Washington to the Ohio.

MISS ALICE O'BRIEN was awarded $10,000 damages against the Trinity and Sabine railroad in the district court of Woodville, Tex., for injuries sustained from being bitten by a dog chained in the depot door.

A NEWLY designed mouthpiece for telephones has a shell with an absorbent lining, which lining is saturated with antiseptic liquids, whose evaporation is to prevent the accumulation of disease germs in the mouthpiece.

SIAM'S army is to be reorganized by Russian army officers, over a hundred officers having volunteered as instructors in an answer to a circular from the war department. The king of Siam will select 50 from among them.

MRS. CLARA FISHER MAEDER, the once famous actress, has published her memories. She is 86 years of age and first went on the stage when 6 years old. For 72 years she acted continuously, and at the age of 78 years retired.

PROSECUTIONS are expected to begin soon under a new Massachusetts law which forbids the wearing of the body or feathers of any undomesticated bird. Every offender will be fined $10 and the prosecuting witness will be paid a reward of $3.

A PLASTER bust of Richard J. Oglesby, ex-United States senator, three times governor of the state of Illinois and veteran soldier, has just been finished in Decatur, Ill., and will be placed in the rooms of the public library of that place.

THE followers of the son of Garibaldi who have gone from Italy into Greece have assumed the name of "Garibaldini," and old followers of the famous Italian patriot are indignant at the use of their name by the band of socialists and revolutionists.

THERE are no fish in Crater lake, Ore., the deepest fresh-water lake in the world, and the government has decided to stock it with trout. The natives used to say that the lake was bottomless, but soundings have shown its greatest depth to be 2,000 feet.

TO increase the power of railroad locomotives the tender is placed on a set of driving wheels similar to those on which the engine rests, the steam being taken from the boiler by a separate pipe and controlled by an independent throttle and the exhaust discharging into the water tank.

TO assist in making a person comfortable on hot summer evenings a newly patented chair is fitted with hooks on the front edge of the seat so it can be attached to a window sill and hung outside after the legs have been removed, a brace extending down to support it against the wall of the house.

GEN. RIVERA

Suffering From an Abscess in the Right Side of the Stomach.

The General Believes This Was Due to the Fall He Had When Wounded—He is Well Satisfied With the Medical and Surgical Attendance Provided.

HAVANA, July 2.—Gen. Ruis Rivera has been removed from the San Ambrosio hospital to the Cabanas fortress by advice of the attending surgeons.

After a consultation between the medical director of the hospital, Dr. Aguais Municoguzen, and the head physician, Dr. Max Fernandez, Dr. Benitevaldes and other hospital physicians, it was decided to make an incision in the upper part of the liver. The operation was performed by Doctors Fernandez and Valdes, but it was not considered expedient to continue that line of treatment, and the physicians will probably confine themselves hereafter to the local applications for the patient's relief and to general therapeutic treatment. The bulletin as to the patient's condition says he is suffering from an abscess in the right side of the stomach near and above the liver.

Gen. Rivera believes this was due to the fall he had at the time he was wounded. He attaches no importance to it, and, in fact, for some time did not notice it at all. He expresses himself as satisfied with the medical and surgical attendance provided, as well as with the nurses. All the food supplied him is excellent, his meals being served from a restaurant nearby at his own expense.

He told a newspaper correspondent that the wound had healed and that the limb had never shown any symptoms of grangrene. Naturally he suffers a good deal of anxiety on account of the abscess. Since he entered the hospital he has improved somewhat in spirits, although his general condition is very serious owing to the absence of appetite and the lack of nutrition for the general system.

It is probable that when he recovers a somewhat more radical operation will be performed, though not to the extent of a fatal danger. Gen. Rivera occupies the best room in the hospital. He says:

"I can not expect to have a room in the palace."

TORPEDO BOATS.

A Fleet of Them Will Be Sent Up the Mississippi River as Far as Dubuque.

NEW ORLEANS, July 2.—A special from Washington to the Times Democrat says: A fleet of ten torpedo boats will be sent up the Mississippi as far as Dubuque some time this summer. The object is to show the people in the larger cities along the river what modern boats of their class are like. None of the torpedo boats draw over six feet of water, and they can easily make the trip without much fear of being grounded. The fleet will leave Newport about July 15 and go direct to New Orleans. It will then start on its journey up the Mississippi river. The department officials also wish to discover how much hard work the boats are capable of doing, and think it is better to find out in time of peace rather than in war.

Murdered in Bed.

BENTONVILLE, Ark., July 2.—Thursday morning intelligence was received by a courier that James Burgin and wife, living a few miles out, were murdered in bed by being beat on the head. The deceased was a man of about 35, was married last winter and was one of the most prominent men in the county. There is no clew to the murderer. Robbery is supposed to have been the motive.

Pittsburgh Mills Close Down.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 2.—As the result of the failure of the joint wage conference of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel workers and manufacturers to agree upon the scale at the Youngstown conference Wednesday, all the union mills closed down Thursday and between 75,000 and 85,000 men are idle. This includes the skilled workmen and those depending on them.

No General Strike Ordered.

COLUMBUS, O., July 2.—President Ratchford and Secretary Pearce, of the United Mine workers, reasserted Thursday night that there was no official authority for the statements that a general strike of the members of the Miners' unions is to be ordered. They state that the conditions are such in some localities, however, that the miners can not be controlled and that local strikes are likely to occur.

Earthquake in New Brunswick.

BOSTON, July 2.—A dispatch to the Globe from Center Harbor, N. B. says: A heavy earthquake shock visited this section about 4:20 o'clock Thursday morning. It was accompanied by a deep rumbling like a heavy clap of thunder. Buildings were shaken and many people were awakened and alarmed by the disturbance.

Judge Cooley a Hopeless Invalid.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 2.—Judge Thomas M. Cooley, the noted authority on constitutional law, who served many years as justice of the supreme court, and who later was the head of the interstate commerce commission, has become a hopeless invalid. His memory is almost gone, and his loss of power has been followed by deep melancholy.

Globe Building and Loan Association Fails.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 1.—The Globe Building and Loan association went to the wall Thursday afternoon, finding itself unable to carry on business under the state law as construed by the appellate court. The assets and liabilities are estimated at $400,000 each. L. O. Cox is president. The managers of the other building and loan associations issued cards Thursday calculated to restore confidence, claiming that the ruling of the court did not affect them. This makes the third corporation of this character that has gone under during the past two days.

YELLOW JACK.

Harrowing Story of Passengers on Board the City of Para—Three-Fourths of Them Attacked by Yellow Fever, It Is Reported.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Passengers who arrived here Friday night on the steamship Alliance, tell a harrowing story of their experience aboard the Pacific mail steamer City of Para, which left Panama for San Francisco on May 23 last. It seems that two days after clearing the Isthmus yellow fever broke out among the crew and passengers of the Pacific liner which caused a panic on board and resulted in the death of the commander of the vessel, Capt. Martensen.

Three-fourths of the passengers, it is said, were attacked by the disease, and at least a dozen of them found watery graves. When the vessel finally reached San Francisco the facts of the terrible voyage were suppressed and the sickness and deaths were attributed to tropical dysentery, but the passengers who came here Friday night say that the symptoms were plainly those of yellow jack. The disease was raging on the Isthmus, but when the passengers went on board the City of Para they were told by the officers that they need not have any fear. There was no effort at fumigation, and when Mrs. Capt. Mitchell, the wife of an Englishman commanding one of the vessels of the Chilian line, appeared on the City of Para heavily veiled there was no uneasiness. Three days out she died from the so-called "tropical dysentery." She was buried at sea and the next to be taken down was Capt. Martensen. Before he died the fever had spread all over the ship. In first class cabin and steerage alike the yellow death dealer went, and how many were prostrated will probably never be known. The officers suppressed every scrap of news they could, and Dr. Renz insisted on his original diagnosis. At Punta Arenas, the Echeveria family, one of the richest in Costa Rica, took passage on the City of Para, not knowing that yellow jack was raging on board. The vessel proceeded on its voyage. Up the coast there were two or three funerals a day, and those who were not affected were panic stricken.

After much pleading a number of passengers were put ashore at Corinto and San Jose de Guatemala. It is alleged that the officers of the vessels supplied the passengers with spoiled meat, and this is believed to have added to the yellow fever's spread. At San Salvador a band came ashore and while the passengers were sick and dying the musicians gave five hour concerts daily.

A COACH LOAD

Of Christian Endeavorers Upset in the Garden of the Gods.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., July 3.—A coach load of people who were being taken through the Garden of the Gods Friday were upset at the Balanced Rock and Fred W. Evanston, of Boston, was seriously hurt.

The accident was caused by overcrowding the coach. There were 10 passengers. Evanston was taken to a Manitou hotel, where a physician attended to his injuries. His face was badly cut and his hips were severely bruised and wrenched.

Evanston is a member of the Massachusetts Legislature and was compelled to remain behind his companions, who left at noon for San Francisco. Six ladies in the coach were somewhat bruised but resumed their journey.

Missouri Coal Operators Aroused.

ST. LOUIS, July 3.—Coal operators are aroused over the announcement that the United Mine Workers have ordered a strike for July 4, and the presidents and managers of several of the big companies having headquarters here have gone to their mines in Illinois and Missouri to look into the situation. The concensus of opinion among the operators is that the strike will be a long one, and that as a result the price of coal will advance, though not at once.

The Brigham Young Monument.

SALT LAKE, Utah, July 3.—The cornerstone of the proposed monument in honor of Brigham Young and the pioneers, to be erected at the intersection of Main and South Temple streets, was laid with appropriate ceremonies. The oration was by F. D. Richards, with remarks by Gov. Wells and Mayor Glendenning. President Woodruff deposited the leaden box, with a copy of the oration and other souvenirs, and the stone was laid by Hon. Brigham Young.

Agreed to Die Together.

BRADFORD, Pa., July 3.—Geo. Blakeley, proprietor of a job printing office and secretary of the school board, is dead, and Miss Lillian Spatz, a waitress in the Williamson restaurant, is in a precarious condition, the result of laudanum supposedly taken with suicidal intent. The tragedy was enacted in Blakley's office. Blakley was collector of the First, Second and Sixth ward taxes, and is said to be about $3,100 short in his accounts.

Battle Between Greeks and Turks Reported.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 3.—The newspapers of this city report that in a battle which has just taken place between 400 Greek raiders and a detachment of Ottoman troops, near Metsovo, the Greeks suffered a loss of 120 killed. In addition 80 of the Greeks were captured and taken to Janina, the headquarters of the Turkish army in Epirus.

Steers Killed by Lightning.

WASHINGTON, Ind., July 3.—The electric storm which passed over this county was severe, doing considerable damage. Six large steers in an open field belonging to Farmer James Arthur were killed by a thunderbolt. They averaged 1,400 pounds each and were worth $400.

Father Killed, Son Crushed.

JACKSON, Miss., July 3.—A special from Vicksburg, Miss., says: Thomas Caldwell was instantly killed and his son Thomau severely crushed by a caving bank Friday morning while excavating for a water main.

THE TARIFF BILL.

It Is Thought There Will Be No Attempt to Oppose the Motion

To Disagree to the Senate Amendments and Send the Bill to Conference—The Number of House Conferees to Be Appointed Not Yet Decided.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—When the tariff bill reaches the house, after it has passed the senate, it is not probable that there will be any attempt to oppose the motion which will be made either directly by Chairman Dingley or by the opposition of a special order to disagree to the senate amendments and send the bill to conference. The republican leaders do not think there is any necessity for debate until the bill is reported back by the conference and the democrats are inclined to the same opinion. Bailey, the leader of the minority, said Thursday that he would not oppose a motion to get the bill into conference, provide the republicans would agree to a reasonable time for debate when the bill was reported back to the house. He thought three or four days for discussion at that time would be sufficient. The number of conferees to be appointed on behalf of the house has not yet been decided, nor the political division, but the conferees, as is usual, will be the ranking members of the committee from each side. It is probable that there will be seven conferees. The political division may be five and two or four and three. The republican members of the committee in the ranking order are Dingley, Payne, Dalzell, Hopkins, Grosvenor, Russell, Bolliver, Steele, Johnson, Evans and Tanney and the democrats Bailey, McMillan, Wheeler, McLaurin, Robertson and Swanson.

The estimate of the time the bill will be in conference ranges from two to ten days, but the best opinion is that the conferees will report the bill back a week from next Monday if it comes over from the senate on the latter day.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business June 30, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $986,650,086, a decrease for the month of $10,027,966, which is accounted for by a corresponding increase in the amount of cash on hand.

The debt, independent of the cash, was reduced $4,150.

The debt is recapitulated as follows:

Interest bearing debt	$ 847,365,130
Debt on which interest has ceased	1,346,840
Debt bearing no interest	378,081,702
Total	$1,223,793,712

This amount, however, does not include $390,378,953 in certificates and treasury notes outstanding which are off-set by an equal amount of cash in the treasury.

The cash in the treasury is classified as follows:

Gold	$178,676 656
Silver	520,793 922
Paper	153,349,826
Bonds disbursing officers' balances, etc	19,168,953
Total	$ 1,389 3.8

Against the above there are demand liabilities outstanding amounting to $863,251,732, leaving the net cash in the treasury, $240,137,023.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—It is understood that the president has selected W. W. Rockhill, late assistant secretary of state, for the post of United States minister to Greece and that his nomination is likely to go to the senate Saturday. Mr. Rockhill's appointment will not be a party one in any sense, but will be based entirely upon his experience as a diplomat and his excellent work while in the department of state. He entered the diplomatic service as far back as 1884.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—For more than a month all pension certificates issued by the government have been held up in the pension bureau. The suspension ended Thursday when an immense batch of certificates was mailed to the different agencies. This terminates the operations of an order which, taking effect May 31 last, was designed to avoid increasing the existing deficiency in the pension appropriations by crediting the payments which would follow the issuance of these certificates to the new fiscal year instead of to the fiscal year ended Wednesday. The deficiency is said to be over $300,000. Between 12,000 and 15,000 of these certificates have accumulated since the order took effect and Thursday all those dated up to June 24 were mailed. The suspension included every class of pension certificates, but from now on the regular daily issuance and mailing of them will be resumed.

The house Thursday adjourned until Monday, after an extended attack by Mr. Settle (dem., Ky.) on the power of the house to adjourn for three days at a time. Mr. Settle made his speech by moving an amendment to the journal. He arraigned the republicans for not acting on the bankruptcy and Cuban questions.

The senate has placed on the free list cotton bagging, burlap, grain sacks made of burlap and other bags made of jute or hemp—yeas 30, nays 23.

Derist's Periodical Comet.

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 2.—Director Holton says: "Derist's periodical comet was re-discovered at Lick observatory Wednesday morning by C. D. Perrine and again observed Thursday morning."

Vote to Go on Strike.

STREATOR, Ill., July 3.—A mass meeting of miners here Thursday voted unanimously to go on strike now and not wait for a general suspension order. As a consequence no coal is being mined here and nearly 2,000 miners are idle.

Killed His Stepfather.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 3.—Late Thursday night Frank Clark, aged 23, became involved in a difficulty with his stepfather, John Rainback. The father attempted to cut the boy, when the latter drew a revolver and killed his stepfather.

MINERS' STRIKE.

The Step Taken After a Conference of Mine Officials—The Order Issued for a Quarter of a Million Men to Quit Work.

COLUMBUS, O., July 3.—A general strike of the United Mine Workers of America has been ordered for July 4 by the national executive board, whose headquarters are in this city, and also by the district presidents, as the result of a meeting held here June 24, 25 and 26.

To the Mine Workers of the Country, Greeting:

Fellow Miners: At the last annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America, held in the city of Columbus, O., January 12-16, 1897, it was determined that the scale of prices should be advanced to the following rates:

Pennsylvania (Pittsburgh district), pick mining, 69 cents per ton; Ohio, 60 cents per ton; Indiana (bituminous), 60 cents per ton; Illinois (Grape Creek), 85 cents per ton. Machine mining to be paid three-fifths per ton of the price for pick mining, except in Indiana (bituminous) where the price shall be four-fifths per ton of the price paid for pick mining; other mining sections a corresponding increase in price that will place them on a relative basis.

It was further agreed that the time for enforcement of the scale be left with the national executive board and the district presidents to determine when it would be most opportune to put this scale into effect.

The document then urges unanimity and fidelity among the members. "The signs of the times," the paper says, "as pointed out by the press and by testimony [illegible] in public action, are, that business is reviving, that an upward tendency in prices of all commodities is apparent. In the general business revival and industrial improvement which is earnestly proclaimed, we ought to share, and if we do not attempt to share we shall be false to ourselves and those dependent upon us."

"Let the watchword be," says the circular, "mine workers are entitled to a fair day's pay for a fair day's work." Local committees are directed to be formed, and to see that action is taken at once. The field is large and it will be an impossibility for the national and district officers to attend to all points, consequently local leaders are urged to assume the responsibility and authority for the successful consummation of our desires.

"To insure success great care should be exercised by all that no breach of the peace occurs at any time or place or under any circumstances. Bulletins will be issued from time to time to keep you informed of the progress of affairs."

The national executive board is composed of Fred Dilcher, R. L. Davis, J. H. Kennedy, Harry Stephenson, James M. Carson and Patrick Dolan.

The district presidents are W. E. Farms, W. G. Knight, James W. Carson and Patrick Dolan.

M. D. Ratchford is president of the national executive board, John Kane vice president and W. C. Pearce secretary. All these names are signed to the circular.

The officers here say 375,000 men are involved as proposed strikers. So far as anything can be learned here from officials the call for the Pittsburgh meeting of miners on Saturday is to decide how the strike is to be conducted in that district. They have to consider plans to take care of the women and children during the strike. President Ratchford says this is the best time to settle the question of wages, as during the summer the men can make use of their little garden plots in obtaining subsistence. The needs of clothing are not so great as in winter.

The proposed scale is intended by the miners to make work for miners profitable to them in the Pittsburgh district and elsewhere. Pittsburgh, as classified, is paying 54 cents per ton and Ohio 51. To make the differential what the Ohio operators claim it ought to be they threaten to reduce Ohio miners to 45 cents per ton, or nine cents below Pittsburgh. The miners propose, if possible, to raise Pittsburgh prices so as to prevent a reduction in Ohio to 45 cents, and the possibility of even a farther reduction here in case Pittsburgh should keep on lowering as Ohio lowered to maintain the differential of nine cents.

Christian Endeavor Excursionists.

RENO, Nev., July 3.—Superintendent J. B. Wright, of the Southern Pacific, has been here making arrangements for Christian Endeavor traffic expected next week. Col. Wright said it would take 30 trains of ten cars each to carry the excursionists. The trains will run about 45 minutes apart. All freights will be abandoned. It is expected trains will begin passing Reno Monday afternoon. Fifty big mountain engines and 50 crews will be sent from Sacramento to Wadsworth Sunday.

Insane Through Grief.

BLANCHESTER, O., July 3.—Mrs. Samantha Hathorne was found hanging dead in the barn at the home of her brother, Charles Henry, Friday morning. She went insane from grief at the death of her husband a few months since. She leaves two little girls.

Younger Boys' Request.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 3.—Cole and Jim Younger Friday formally announced that they would ask the state for pardon. Cole Younger has written a story of his life, and announces his wish to go to Missouri, thence to Texas.

Rear Admiral Miller's Promotion.

NEW YORK, July 3.—A dispatch to the Herald from Washington, says: Rear Admiral J. N. Miller will be the next commander-in-chief of the Pacific squadron. All doubts on this point were removed when a cablegram was received at the department from that officer announcing that he would leave in the Brooklyn at once for New York.

Cornell Wins Again.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 3.—The boat race between the Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania crews Friday evening was won by Cornell by 12 lengths. Columbia was second.

BEAUTY IS BLOOD DEEP.

Pure, Healthy Blood Means Beautiful Complexion — Intestinal Microbes Poison the Blood When the Bowels Are Constipated. Drive Them Out by Making the Liver Lively.

"Beauty is skin deep." That is wrong. Beauty is blood deep.

A person constipated, with a lazy liver, bilious blood, dyspeptic stomach, has pimples and liver spots and a sole leather complexion.

No one with a furred tongue, a bad breath, a jaundiced eye, can be beautiful, no matter how perfect are form and features.

To be beautiful, to become beautiful, or remain beautiful, the blood must be kept pure and free from bile, microbes, diseasegerms and other impurities.

Cascarets Candy Cathartic will do it for you quickly, surely, naturally. They never grip nor gripe, but make the liver lively, prevent auto-intoxication, kill disease-germs, tone up the bowels, purify the blood, and make all things right, as they should be. Then beauty comes of itself and to stay.

Buy and try Cascarets to-day. It's what they do, not what we say they do, that will please you. All druggists, 10c, 25c or 50c, or mailed for price. Send for booklet and free sample. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago, Montreal, Can., or New York.

An Actual Occurrence.

One of the recently-arrived Irish girls obtained a place in a fashionable house on Madison avenue, where there is a telephone, something that was utterly unknown to Bridget. After she had been in the house a day or two she appeared before her mistress, with her wardrobe under her arm, and said:

"Oi'm after lavin' yer, mum."

"This is rather sudden, Bridget," remarked her mistress. "Can't you remain a day or two until I supply your place?"

"No; another hour, mum. Me sowl is quite distressed out of me. There is a banshee in the house."—Tammany Times.

Summer Tours Via Big Four Route.

To the Mountains, Lakes and Seashore. Special Low Rates will be in effect to Put-in-Bay, Islands of Lake Erie, Lake Chautauqua, Niagara Falls, Thousand Islands, St. Lawrence River, Adirondacks, Lake George, New England Resorts, New York and Boston. To the great Lakes, Cleveland, Sandusky, Toledo, Detroit, Benton Harbor, Mt. Clemens, Mackinac and Michigan Resorts. To the Northwest and West via St. Louis and Chicago. For rates, routes, time of trains and full particulars apply to any agent "Big Four," or address E. O. McCormick, Passenger Traffic Manager "Big Four," Cincinnati, O.

Up to His Looks.

One of the many private secretaries at the national capital is still new to his honors. One day a newspaper woman, full of business, burst into the office of his secretary's chief. The great man was out. "Can you tell me when he will be in?" she asked. "Really," drawled the clerk, "I haven't an idea." "Well," said the newspaper woman, as she turned to go, "I must say you look it."—Washington Post.

Between Seed Time and Harvest

Is a good opportunity to enquire about farming lands in South Dakota, only one day's ride from Chicago. Bonntiful crops of Wheat, Corn, Barley and Flax reward the tiller of the soil. As a stock and dairy country South Dakota leads all the world. First-class farm lands with nearby markets can now be bought for from $10, $12, $15, and upwards, per acre, and this is the time to invest. For further particulars write to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, Old Colony Building, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Asbury Peppers.

"Matrimony," said the sweet girl boarder, "is a holy rite."

"Why, then," asked Asbury Peppers, with the air of a man sure of his ground, "why, then, is it that so many who marry find they are wholly left?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Sound Reasons for Approval.

There are several cogent reasons why the medical profession recommend and the public prefer Hostetter's Stomach Bitters above the ordinary cathartics. It does not drench and weaken the bowels, but assists rather than forces nature to act; it is botanic and safe; its action is never preceded by an internal earthquake like that produced by a drastic purgative. For forty-five years past it has been a household remedy for liver, stomach and kidney trouble.

It Might Pay.

Great Editor (meditatively)—I wonder if it wouldn't pay for us to start a religious department in our Sunday edition?

Managing Editor—I might. I've got a scrap book at home full of first-rate jokes about bishops.—N. Y. Weekly.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous, hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Write to Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

Floored Again.

Mr. Hicks—A burned child dreads the fire, you know, Melissa.

Mrs. Hicks—Well, that's where a burned child has the advantage over a man who bets on horse races.—Cleveland Leader.

"Star Tobacco."

As you chew tobacco for pleasure, use Star. It is not only the best, but the most lasting, and therefore the cheapest.

People are certainly as unfair with their neighbors as they are with prominent officials they happen to dislike.—Atchison Globe.

Piso's Cure for Consumption has no equal as a Cough medicine.—F. M. Abbott, 353 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y., May 9, 1895.

No matter in what part of the house a man leaves things, a woman will always move them.—Washington Democrat.

Hull's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75c.

"It's your next move," as the chess player said to his balky horse.

Scrofula

In its thousands of forms is the most terrible affliction of the human race. Salt-rheum, sores, eruptions, boils, all humors, swellings, etc., originate in its foul taint, and are cured by the great and only True Blood Purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. The advanced theory of today that tuberculosis, or consumption, is curable by proper nutrition, care and purifying the blood, finds confirmation in the experience of many who have been cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Hood's Pills cure sick headache. 25c.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

Tells How to Secure Safety for Our Cities.

Municipal Government from a Moral and Religious Standpoint — Counsel to Those Holding Public Positions.

Dr. Talmage, in the following sermon, discusses from a moral and religious standpoint the welfare of all the towns and cities of our country. His text is Ezekiel xxvii, 3: "O thou that art situate at the entry of the sea!"

This is a part of an impassioned apostrophe to the city of Tyre. It was a beautiful city—a majestic city. At the east end of the Mediterranean it sat with one hand beckoning the inland trade and with the other the commerce of foreign nations. It swung a monstrous boom across its harbor to shut out foreign enemies, and then swung back that boom to let in its friends. The air of the desert was fragrant with the spices brought by caravans to her fairs, and all seas were cleft into foam by the keels of her laden merchantmen. Her markets were rich with horses, and mules and camels from Togarmah; with upholstery and ebony and ivory from Dedan; with emeralds and agate and coral from Syria; with wine from Helbon; with finest needlework from Ashur and Chilmad. Talk about the splendid staterooms of your Cunard and Inman and White Star lines of international steamers — why, the benches of the staterooms in those Tyrian ships were all ivory, and instead of our coarse canvas on the mast of the shipping, they had the finest linen, quilted together and inwrought with embroideries almost miraculous for beauty. Its columns overshadowed all nations. Distant empires felt its heart-beat. Majestic city, "situate at the entry of the sea."

But where now is the gleam of her towers, the roar of her chariots, the masts of her shipping? Let the fishermen who dry their nets on the place where she once stood, let the sea that rushes upon the barrenness where she once challenged the admiration of all nations, let the barbarians who build their huts on the place where her palaces glittered, answer the question. Blotted out forever! She forgot God, and God forgot her. And while our modern cities admire her glory let them take warning at her awful doom.

At this season of the year I have thought it might be useful to talk a little while about the moral responsibility resting upon the office bearers in all our cities, a theme as appropriate to those who are governed as to the governors. The moral character of those who rule a city has much to do with the character of the city itself. Men, women and children are all interested in national politics. When the great presidential election comes, every patriot wants to be found at the ballot box. We are all interested in the discussion of national finance, national debt, and we read the laws of congress, and we are wondering who will sit next in the presidential chair. Now, that may be all very well—is very well. But it is high time that we took some of the attention which we have been devoting to national affairs and brought it to the study of municipal government. This it seems to me now is the chief point to be taken. Make the cities right and the nation will be right. I have noticed that, according to their opportunities, there has really been more corruption in municipal governments in this country than in the state and national legislatures. Now, is there no hope? With the mightiest agent in our hand, the glorious gospel of Jesus Christ, shall not all our cities be reformed and purified and redeemed? I believe the day will come. I am in full sympathy with those who are opposed to carrying politics into religion, but our cities will never be reformed and purified until we carry religion into politics. I look over our cities and I see that all great interests are to be affected in the future, as they have been affected in the past, by the character of those who in the different departments rule over us, and I propose to classify some of those interests.

In the first place, I remark commercial ethics are always affected by the moral or immoral character of those who have municipal supremacy. Officials that wink at fraud and that have neither censure nor arraignment for glittering dishonesties always weaken the pulse of commercial honor. Every shop, every store, every bazar, every factory in the cities feels the moral character of the city hall. If in any city there be a dishonest mayoralty, or an unprincipled common council, or a court susceptible to bribes, in that city there will be unlimited license for all kinds of trickery and sin, while, on the other hand, if officials are faithful to their oath of office, if the laws are promptly executed, if there is vigilance in regard to the outbranchings of crime, there is the highest protection for all bargain making.

A merchant may stand in his store and say: "Now, I'll have nothing to do with city politics. I will not soil my hands with the slush." Nevertheless the most insignificant trial in the police court will affect that merchant directly or indirectly. What style of clerk issues the writ? What style of constable makes the arrest? What style of attorney issues the plea? What style of judge charges the jury? What style of sheriff executes the sentence? These are questions that strike your counting rooms to the center. You may not throw it off. In the city of New York Christian merchants for a great while said: "We'll have nothing to do with the management of public affairs," and they allowed everything to go at loose ends until there rolled up in that city a debt of nearly $120,000,000. The municipal government became a hissing and a byword in the whole earth, and then the Christian merchants saw their folly, and they went and took possession of the ballot boxes. I wish all commercial men to understand that they are not independent of the moral character of the men who rule over them, but must be thoroughly, mightily affected by them.

So also of the educational interests of a city. Do you know that there are in this country about 70,000 common schools, and that there are over 8,000,000 pupils, and that the majority of those schools and the majority of those pupils are in our cities? Now this great multitude of children will be affected by the intelligence or ignorance, the virtue or the vice of boards of education and boards of control. There are cities where educational affairs are settled in the low caucus in the abandoned parts of the cities by men full of ignorance and rum. It ought not to be so, but in many cities it is so. I hear the tramp of coming generations. What that great multitude of youth shall be for this world and the next will be affected very much by the character of your public schools. You had better multiply the moral and religious influences about the common schools than to subtract from them. Instead of driving the Bible out, you had better drive the Bible further in. May God defend our glorious common school system and send into rout and confusion all its sworn enemies.

I have also to say that the character of officials in a city affects the domestic circle. In a city where grogshops have their own way and gambling hells are not interfered with, and for fear of losing political influence officials close their eyes to festering abominations—in all those cities the home interests need to make imploration. The family circle of the city must inevitably be affected by the moral character or the immoral character of those who rule over them.

I will go further and say that the religious interests of a city are thus affected. The church to-day has to contend with evils that the civil law ought to smite, and, while I would not have the civil government in any wise relax its energy in the arrest and punishment of crime, I would have a thousandfold more energy put forth in the drying up of the fountains of iniquity. The church of God asks no pecuniary aid from political power, but does ask that in addition to all the evils we must necessarily contend against we shall not have to fight also municipal negligence. Oh, that in all our cities Christian people would rise up, and that they would put their hand on the helm before piratical demagogues have swamped the ship! Instead of giving so much time to national politics, give some of your attention to municipal government.

I demand that the Christian people who have been standing aloof from public affairs come back, and in the might of God try to save our cities. If things are or have been bad, it is because good people have let them be bad. That Christian man who merely goes to the polls and casts his vote does not do his duty. It is not the ballot box that decides the election; it is the political caucus, and if at the primary meetings of the two political parties unfit and bad men are nominated, then the ballot box has nothing to do save to take its choice between two thieves. In our churches, by reformatory organization, in every way let us try to tone up the moral sentiment in these cities. The rulers are those whom the people choose, and depend upon it that in all the cities, as long as pure hearted men stand aloof from the political powers they depise hot partisanship, just so long in many of our cities will rum make the nominations, and rum control the ballot box, and rum inaugurate the officials.

I take a step further in this subject and ask all those who believe in the omnipotence of prayer, day by day and every day, present your city officials before God for a blessing. If you live in a city presided over by a mayor, pray for him. The chief magistrate of a city is in a position of great responsibility. Many of the kings and queens and emperors of other days had no such dominion. With the scratch of a pen he may advance a beneficent institution or balk a railway confiscation. By appointments he may bless or curse every hearthstone in the city. If in the Episcopal churches, by the authority of the litany, and in our nonepiscopate churches we every Sabbath pray for the president of the United States, why not, then, be just as hearty in our supplications for the chief magistrates of cities, for their guidance, for their health, for their present and their everlasting morality?

But go further, and pray for your common council. If your city has a common council. They hold in their hands a power splendid for good or terrible for evil. They have many temptations. In many of the cities whole boards of common council men have gone, down in the maelstrom of political corruption. They could not stand the power of the bribe. Corruption came in and sat beside them, and sat behind them, and sat before them. They recklessly voted away the hard-earned moneys of the people. They were bought out, body, mind and soul, so that at the end of their term of office they had not enough of moral remains left to make a decent funeral. They went into office with the huzza of the multitude. They came out with the anathema of all decent people. There is not one man out of 100 that can endure the temptations of the common council men in our great cities. If a man in that position have the courage of a Cromwell and the independence of an Andrew Jackson, and the public-spiritedness of a John Frederick Oberlin, and the piety of an Edward Payson, he will have no surplus to throw away. Pray for these men. Every man likes to be prayed for. Do you know how Dr. Norman McLeod became the queen's chaplain? It was by a warm-hearted prayer in the Scotch kirk in behalf of the royal family one Sabbath when the queen and her son were present incognito.

Yes, go further, my friends, and pray for your police. Their perils and temptations are best known to themselves. They hold the order and peace of your cities in their grasp. But for their intervention you would not be safe for an hour. They must face the storm. They must rush in where it seems to them almost instant death. They must put the hand of arrest on the armed maniac and corner the murderer. They must refuse large rewards for withdrawing complaints. They must unravel intricate plots and trace dark labyrinths of crime and develop suspicions into certainties. They must be cool while others are frantic. They must be vigilant while others are somnolent, impersonating the very villainy they want to seize. In the police forces of our great cities are to-day men of as thorough character as that of the old detective of New York, addressed to whom there came letters from London asking for help ten years after he was dead—letters addressed to "Jacob Hayes, High Constable of New York." Your police need your appreciation, your sympathy, your gratitude, and, above all, your prayers. Yes, I want you to go further and pray every day for prison inspectors and jail keepers, work awful and beneficent. Rough men, cruel men, impatient men, are not fit for these places. They have under their care men who were once as good as you, but they got tripped up. Bad company or strong drink or strange conjunction of circumstances flung them headlong. Go down that prison corridor and ask them how they got lost and about their families and what their early prospects in life were, and you will find that they are very much like yourself, except in this, that God kept you while He did not restrain them. Just one false step made the difference between them and you. They want more than prison bars, more than jailfare, more than handcuffs and hoppiers, more than a vermin-covered couch to reform them. Pray God day by day that the men who have these unfortunates in charge may be merciful, Christianly strategic and the means of reformation and rescue.

My word now is to all who may come to hold any public position of trust in any city: You are God's representatives. God, the King and Ruler and Judge, sets you in His place. Oh, be faithful in the discharge of all your duties, so that when all our cities are in ashes and the world itself is a red scroll of flame, you may be in the mercy and grace of Christ rewarded for your faithfulness. It was that feeling which gave such eminent qualifications for office to Neal Dow, mayor of Portland, and to Judge McLean, of Ohio, and to Benjamin F. Butler, attorney-general of New York, and to George Briggs, governor of Massachusetts, and to Theodore Frelinghuysen, senator of the United States, and to William Wilberforce, member of the British parliament. You may make the rewards of eternity the emoluments of your office. What care you for adverse political criticism if you have God on your side? The one, or the two, or the three years of your public trust will pass away, and all the years of your earthly service, and then the tribunal will be lifted before which you and I must appear. May God make you so faithful now that the last scene shall be to your unblushing and rapture! I wish to exhort all good people, whether they are the governors or the governed, to make one grand effort for the salvation, the purification, the redemption of our American cities. Do you not know that there are multitudes going down to ruin, temporal and eternal, dropping quicker than words drop from my lips? Grogshops swallow them up. Gambling hells devour them. Houses of shame are damning them. Oh, let us toil and pray and preach and vote until all these wrongs are righted! What we do we must do quickly. With our rulers, and on the same platform, we must at last come before the throne of God to answer for what we have done for the bettering of our great towns. Alas, if on that day it be found that your hand has been idle and my pulpit has been silent! O, ye who are pure and honest and Christian, go to work and help to make the cities pure and honest and Christian!

Lest it may have been thought that I am addressing only what are called the better classes, my final word is to some dissolute soul to whom these words may come. Though you may be covered with all crimes, though you may be smitten with all leprosies, though you may have gone through the whole catalogue of iniquity and may not have been in church for 20 years, you may have your nature entirely reconstructed, and upon your brow, hot with infamous practices and besweated with exhausting indulgences, God will place the flashing coronet of a Saviour's forgiveness. "Oh, no!" you say. "If you knew who I am and where I came from, you wouldn't say that to me. I don't believe the Gospel you are preaching speaks in my case." Yes, it does, my brother. And then, when you tell me that, I think of what St. Teresa said when reduced to utter destitution. Having only two pieces of money left, she jingled the two pieces of money in her hand and said: "St. Teresa and two pieces of money are nothing, but St. Teresa and two pieces of money and God are all things." And I tell you now that while a sin and a sinner are nothing, a sin and a sinner and an all forgiving and all compassionate God are everything.

Who is that that I see coming? I know his step. I know his rags. Who is it? A prodigal. Come, people of God; let us go out and meet him. Get the best robe you can find in all the wardrobe. Let the angels of God fill their chalices and drink to his eternal rescue. Come, people of God: let us go out to meet him. The prodigal is coming home. The dead is alive again, and the lost is found.

STEAMER ADEN

Wrecked on a Reef Near Socotra During a Gale.

A Boat Full of Sailors and Passengers Got Away From the Sinking Ship—The Vessel Has Not Been Heard From, and It is Feared All Are Dead.

LONDON, June 30.—The missing steamer Aden has at last been heard from. She was wrecked June 9 on a reef near Socotra during a terrific gale. A number of her officers and crew were swept overboard and drowned. Eight passengers were also drowned. A boat full of sailors and passengers got away from the ship successfully on the morning of June 10 as the vessel was going to pieces. The gale, however, was unabated and the seas were still running mountain high. The boat has not been heard from, and it is feared all who sought safety in her perished.

Socotra is an island in the Indian ocean, off the east coast of Africa.

A later dispatch says nine passengers, three European and 33 native sailors of the crew were saved, while 25 passengers, 20 European and 83 native members of the crew, and all the ship's officers are missing, and are supposed to be drowned.

The Aden sailed from Yokohama April 28, and touched at Colombo, island of Ceylon, June 1.

BUSINESS BLOCK,

In South Scranton, Pa., Blown Up With Dynamite—Three Persons Seriously Injured.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 30.—A dynamite explosion early Tuesday morning in South Scranton blew up the business block of Leon Olchofski, a double dwelling block owned by him and a detached house owned by Michael O'Hara. The business block, a two-story building, was torn to pieces. Twenty other houses had all the windows broken out and plaster torn from the walls. The shock was felt all over the city.

The cause of the explosion is unknown, but Olchofski alleges that it was the work of enemies he made during political and church disputes in that section, he being one of the principals in troubles which led to a split in the Polish Catholic congregation. Olchofski was seriously injured in saving his wife, and his recovery is doubtful. Following the explosion the wrecked building took fire, but the firemen kept the flames from spreading. The other properties seriously damaged were the brick business block and dwelling of Charles Johnson, dwellings of William Grambe, Charles Kiefer, John Kline, Michael Joyce, Dr. J. J. Walsh, James Welsh, Adam Effinger, Bridget Lavelle, Joseph Dennis, Philip Klein, Carl Scheuerman and George Gardner, and B. Huses' blacksmith shop. In some of the houses the sleeping people were covered with falling plaster. The infant child of Michael Joyce was dangerously injured and a little son of John Klein almost suffocated. The total loss will reach $25,000. The ruins are being cleared to ascertain if there are any victims buried in them.

COLONIZATION SCHEME

Of Mr. Debs Has Not Been Abandoned as Has Been Reported.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 30.—The Debs colonization scheme has not been abandoned as has been reported. Victor L. Berger, editor of the Vorwaerts of this city, who attended the conference of the leaders of the social democracy at Chicago recently, says the whole matter has been misunderstood. He says it is the intention of the social democracy all over the country to go on organizing in the hope that eventually they will get into power and revolutionize the social system of the United States. Meanwhile, as fast as they get means, they intend to send unemployed people from the cities to a point in the west still to be selected, where they may have a chance to make a livelihood. The colonization scheme is only a side issue with the social democracy, but Mr. Berger says the press of the country have made it the main plan. Mr. Debs is in full accord with the plan outlined by Mr. Berger. The latter says there are three million unemployed in the country and he will consider his party lucky if it can raise money enough to transport only 10,000 to the west. There was never any intention of forming a vast army to invade the west in search of homes and a livelihood.

Sullivan Fails Out With His Trainer.

NEW YORK, June 30.—John L. Sullivan, who has been in training at Wm. Muldoon's, at White Plains, for the past week or two, in anticipation of a meeting with Fitzsimmons, has had a falling out with the veteran trainer, and as a consequence, he left his training quarters Tuesday night and came to New York city. He stated that he would go either to College Point or Oceanics, N. J., and there resume his training. He says that he has not yet selected a new trainer.

Death of "Old Hoss" Hoey.

NEW YORK, June 30.—William F. Hoey, "Old Hoss," prominent comedian, died Tuesday at the home of his mother-in-law in this city. Mr. Hoey was known throughout the United States through the character he had created in the farce, "A Parlor Match." Previous to his business and professional connection with Charles Evans, Hoey and Bryant constituted a musical comedy pair at vaudeville shows.

Anthrax Among Cattle.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., June 30.—A disease which resembles and is pronounced by local veterinarians to be anthrax has broken out among the cattle on the farm of George Mahan, near Sugar Grove, Pa., near this city. Five valuable cows and a bull have died from the disease within the past 48 hours.

A Wreck on the Oregon Short Line.

SALT LAKE, Utah, June 30.—A report has reached here that a passenger train on the Oregon Short Line road was wrecked near Glenns Ferry, Idaho, and several people injured.

SPAIN'S TROOPS.

Fifteen Hundred in the Hospitals at Manzanillo—Two-Thirds of the Soldiers in Santiago da Cuba Incapacitated.

HAVANA, July 1.—(Via Key West)—There are 1,500 sick soldiers in the hospital at Manzanillo, and sickness prevails at a high ratio through the entire province of Santiago de Cuba, where at least two-fifths of the troops are incapacitated by fever and other disorders. Beds and other nursing facilities are being forwarded from Havana. The Beattie Bros., a prominent firm of English planters in the Manzanillo district, have offered the government one of their warehouses as a military hospital.

At San Cristobal, in the province of Pinar del Rio, 6,000 "reconcentrados" are suffering acutely from the existing state of war and from disease. It is reported that the well-known insurgent leader, Baldomero Acossa, has succumbed to fever.

The Lederer column brought 14 women as prisoners to San Cristobal, among whom were Rosa Gomez and Juana Avelina, who had been wounded with bullets. Both were sent to the hospital at Sagua la Grande.

There has been considerable skirmishing during the last two days. On the night of the 30th the insurgents attacked the village of Vega Alta, but the Spanish sent reinforcements and drove them off. They also made an attack upon the fort at Remedios and burned the farm house on the Elbro plantation near the town.

Leader Alfredo Rego attacked and entered the village of Camanayagua, near Cienfuegos, plundered several stores and inflicted severe losses on the garrison. He also destroyed the telegraph line near Crucea.

It is reported that Leaders Lacret and Morlot have passed the trocha near Jucaro from east to west. The insurgents have burned several houses in the outskirts of the village of Santa Marie Rosario, in the province of Havana, while news comes from Batahano that there is considerable concentration of insurgent forces there.

HAVANA, July 1.—A special dispatch to La Lucha from Santiago de Cuba says that Gen. Weyler's chief hospital staff has ordered the immediate conservation of additional barracks, with beds for the sick. It is added that the local merchants will voluntarily pay the expenses incurred in the erection of these buildings.

The hospital facilities of Guantanamo are also to be increased, and new hospitals are to be established at Cobro, Longo, Palma and Tiguabo, all in Santiago de Cuba province.

A MAN ELECTROCUTED

And Another Horribly Shocked by a Guy Rope That Became Crossed With a Trolley Feed Wire.

CLEVELAND, O., July 1.—One man was electrocuted near here Wednesday morning, another was horribly shocked and several more severely burned. The accident occurred at Nine Mile creek, in the eastern suburb. The men were building a stone abutment with the aid of a huge derrick over the creek. A guy rope served to keep the derrick in position. The rope went over the feed wire of the big consolidated trolley system. Somehow or other the insulation wore off. Several men took hold of the guy rope to tighten it. That meant death to one, severe injuries to another and dangerous shock to several. A current of several thousand volts was pulsating through the wire. The first man to take hold of the rope was Jacob Miller. He was 65 years of age, paralyzed. When his hands touched the wire, he gave an ineffectual tug in an effort to free himself. Then with a loud shout he fell dead. Ed McGregor, another workman, took hold of the wire. With a superhuman effort he released his grasp but was hurled 20 feet. He was removed to the hospital. Three other workmen received dangerous shocks.

Tragic Suicide.

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—What appears to have been a deliberate attempt at triple suicide was made near Wellsville, Mo., at midnight Tuesday night. Three men, lying side by side, with their heads upon the rail, were struck by Wabash train No. 6, due in St. Louis at an early hour in the morning. The first man's head was cut off, the second one's head was mashed and the third received serious internal injuries. Physicians say there is no hope for the recovery of the injured men. Their names are not known. An examination showed that the men were sober when they took their places on the track.

Democratic State Ticket.

COLUMBUS, O., July 1.—The democratic state convention Wednesday afternoon nominated the following state ticket: Governor, Horace L. Chapman; lieutenant governor, Melville D. Shaw; supreme judge, J. P. Spriggs; attorney general, W. H. Dore; state treasurer, James F. Wilson; board of public works, Peter H. Dognan; school commissioner, Byron H. Hurd.

Jubilee Dinner to the Poor.

LONDON, July 1.—The princess of Wales gave a jubilee dinner to the poor of Chelsea Wednesday afternoon at the royal hospital. Three thousand adults were dined during the early part of the afternoon and later 2,500 children were served with dinner. The princess of Wales visited the children, who gave her royal highness an ovation and presented her with an address of welcome.

Another Building Association Fails.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 1.—Following fast on the heels of the failure of the Commercial Building Trust Wednesday morning, which did a building and loan business, the Columbia Building, Loan and Savings association Wednesday afternoon went to the wall with assets and liabilities of $100,000 each. As in the case of the Commercial, the cause of the failure is the recent decision of the court of appeals in which the interest rate is attacked and declared illegal. The officers are Gen Basil W. Duke, president, and I. W. Jenkins, secretary.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—SENATE—The senate made good progress on the tariff bill Monday, disposing of the paragraphs relating to hides, which have been the source of much controversy. As finally agreed on, the duty on hides is placed at 20 per cent ad valorem, in place of 1½ cents a pound as originally reported by the finance committee. The paragraph relating to stained or painted glass windows was changed slightly in phraseology and the duties agreed to as reported. Paragraph 161, card clothing, was agreed to as in the house bill. In the paragraph on cross cut saws the committee made a change inserting steel hand saws, finished or unfinished, 10 cents per pound and 20 per cent ad valorem.

HOUSE—The session of the house Monday lasted only long enough to call the roll on Mr. Dingley's motion to adjourn. As soon as the journal had been approved the floor leader of the majority remarked that as he was not aware of any matters claiming the attention of the house Monday he would move an adjournment. Mr. Bailey (Tex.) challenged that statement with the observation that the bankruptcy bill and Cuban belligerency resolution were unacted upon. The opposition applauded and the ruling floor leader moved them in a majority of one, the vote resulting 85 to 86 against Mr. Dingley's motion. Thereupon Mr. Dingley demanded the yeas and nays and the roll was called. The motion was carried—97-88. Before the announcement of the vote on motion of Mr. Steele (rep., Ind.) July 10 was set aside as a day for paying tribute to the memory of the late W. S. Holman.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—SENATE—After tedious consideration of the tariff bill throughout the day, the senate wound up with a half hour of lively and amusing colloquy between Senators Tillman, of South Carolina, and Chandler, of New Hampshire. The former had proposed an amendment to the tariff bill, providing a $100 head tax on all immigrants and a restriction against all those not coming to the United States to become citizens. Mr. Tillman made an earnest speech on the depressed condition of labor, but he was not at his best on this theme by Mr. Chandler. The latter, adopting a style of mock gravity, directed the discussion toward Mr. Cleveland's administration. This in time brought from Mr. Tillman a vehement criticism of the late president, while Mr. Chandler drolly protested against these servilities on Mr. Cleveland by a member of his own party. When the fun had been fast and furious for some time, the Tillman amendments were defeated, yeas 3, nays 49, the only affirmative votes being cast by Messrs. Butler, Kyle and Tillman. During the day the senate disposed of the lead paragraphs, the committee rate of 1½ cents per pound on lead ore being agreed to, 20-29. The other paragraphs considered were comparatively of minor importance.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—SENATE—As a result of the rapid work on the tariff bill Wednesday the close of the long debate in the senate and the final vote on the bill may better be very near at hand. Two of the most important provisions—those relating to the Hawaiian treaty of reciprocity and the duty on coal—were perfected Wednesday. The latter a source of much conflict, the reciprocity section was matured by the finance committee, and presented to the senate. Aside from these larger items a great number of small ones, which have caused more or less conflict, were disposed of. The Hawaiian provision of the house bill was restored after brief debate and without the formality of a vote. This has the effect of leaving the Hawaiian treaty of reciprocity in full force and effect. During the day Mr. Turpie, of Indiana, spoke in support of the amendment for a two per cent tax on inheritances. His speech was notable for its picturesque metaphors and the virulence of his denunciation of the pending bill.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—SENATE—The finance committee suffered several unexpected reverses during the progress of the tariff bill Thursday, being defeated on three important votes. Cotton bagging was placed on the free list, 30 to 25, and cotton ties also by a vote of 29 to 23. The duty on white pine lumber was reduced from $2 to $1 per 1,000. The amendment on this occasioned the greatest surprise and led to a general breaking of party lines on both sides of the chamber. During the early stages of the debate the duty on lumber, including white pine, was $2. After a protracted contest Mr. Teller returned to the contest and moved to place white pine lumber on the free list. The amendment was defeated by the close vote of 36 to 37, the republicans—Baker, Carter, Hansborough and Quay—joining with the democrats, populists and silver republicans in the affirmative, while three democrats—Bacon, McEnery and Martin—voted with the republicans in the negative. Following up this vote Mr. Manderson (silver rep.) moved to reduce the rate on white pine from $2 to $1 and this carried by a majority of one. Two republicans, Baker and Carter, voted with the democrats in the minority, and three democrats, Bacon, McEnery and Martin with the republicans, in the negative. The bill is now completed with the exception of the reciprocity section and some comparatively minor paragraphs. Much progress was made in clearing up detached paragraphs heretofore passed over. Only three of these—coal tar, potash and tea—remain, as that these items, the reciprocity section and the brief internal revenue and administrative provisions are all that remain of the bill to be disposed of before the final vote is taken.

HOUSE—The house was in session a few minutes Thursday and adjourned until Monday.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—SENATE—Reciprocity and retaliation were the two phases of the tariff bill to occupy the attention of the senate Friday, to the exclusion of all other subjects. Both provisions were agreed to, although the debate on the reciprocity clause was protracted to 6 p. m. Shortly before adjournment, Mr. Allison endeavored to secure an agreement on the time for final vote, but Mr Teller would not consent to fixing the time until all proposed amendments had been submitted to the senate. As Mr. Allison was not prepared to submit these amendments, he withdrew his request, and the time for the final vote was left open although there is still hope that it will be reached Saturday. The retaliatory clause provides that whenever any country shall impose duties upon any article, there shall be levied in addition to the duties provided by the act, and additional duty equal to the amount of the bounty. The clause was agreed to, 33-19, the two democratic senators from Louisiana, Caffery and McEnery, voting with the republicans in the affirmative. The reciprocity clause empowers the president, with the advice and consent of the senate, to make reciprocity treaties giving 20 per cent reduction in duties on designated articles, or placing articles on the free list. The amendment brought out much opposition, Senators Mills, Vest, Pettus, Teller and White saying that it invaded the constitutional right of the house of republicans to participate in measures affecting revenues, while Senators Morgan, Gray and Chandler defended its legality and propriety. It was agreed to, 30-18, two democrats—Gray and Morgan—voting with the republicans in the affirmative. Early in the day, Mr. Wellington (rep., Md.) rising to a question of personal privilege, vehemently upheld his senatorial prerogatives that in the matters of federal appointments.

Heavy Passenger Traffic.

DENVER, Col., July 3.—Reports received at headquarters of the Denver & Rio Grande railway and Colorado Midland railway Friday show that the west-bound trains carrying delegates to the Christian Endeavor convention and other tourists west are moving through Canada like clockwork. Trains which arrived in Denver from the east several hours late will reach Ogden on time. Up to midnight the Denver & Rio Grande hauled 30 trains, carrying 7,500 passengers, out of Denver for the West, and Friday 17 more trains left over the same road with 210 passengers each.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER.

Wednesday, July 7, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work.

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

The total debt of the State of Kentucky is $2,477,696.

A Paris doctor has eaten horse steak and pronounces it fine.

An Indian burial ground near Nicholasville is being explored.

Toll gate raiders burnt several bridges in Madison county last week.

According to reports Kentucky will have more than half a crop of peaches.

Mrs. John Otzel, of Pendleton county, was found dead sitting in a rocking chair.

J. C. Lyons, a prominent Logan county farmer, was thrown from a wagon and killed.

A Vanceburg woman has just found a gold charm which she lost at a picnic in 1862.

Of the thirty-three white teachers examined at Mayfield, twelve got first-class certificates.

Louisville police are at sea over six murders which have occurred in that city within four days.

The livery men of Lexington met and reduced the rate of funeral carriage hire from $4 to $2 50.

Roy King, a colored boy is in jail at Eminence for attempting to poison the family of Sam Rhines.

The pump thief is getting in his work in Madison county. Pumps are taken out of wells and cisterns.

It is reported that the Covington poolrooms, recently closed by Judge Perkins, are quietly preparing to reopen.

All the pikes in Woodford county are now free. Nearly 200 miles have been purchased at a cost of $40,000.

One hundred men have been put to work constucting the new wing of the Western Lunatic Asylum at Hopkinsville.

Evangelist W. P. Fife, who has been preaching to packed houses at Frankfort, has predicted the second coming of Christ before midnight of 1900.

Miss Ida Gaines has been indicted at Benton for the accidental killing of Lee Rudolph. She pointed what she thought was an unloaded pistol at his head.

The Auditor's agent has filed suit at Lexington against several wealthy Fayette county people who have failed to list about $500,000 worth of property for taxation.

Mrs. Pauline Widmer, aged 60, and her daughter, Pauline, 28, committed suicide in Owensboro. They took poison and were found lying side by side on a bed. Cause of the rash act not known.

Madisonville Hustler: E. Stokes, of the Southard schoolhouse country, has in his possession an old fashioned clock that is said to be 150 years old. It is about eight feet high and keeps perfect time.

Pierce G. Winslow, member of a prominent family of Carrollton, has been mysteriously missing. He left his horse and buggy at Worthville, saying that he would return next day from Louisville. The theory of foul play is generally accepted.

A mad dog attacked Thos. Plummer, of Burtonville, Mason county, in the field, and a desperate struggle ensued, in which Plummer was badly bitten before assistance arrived and the dog was killed. Plummer went to the Pasteur Institute at Chicago.

Jonas Wilder, an emigrant, with his wife and two little girls, were burned to death in a cabin near Rochester, on Green River. They had stopped in the cabin for a few days' rest. They were supposed to be from Benton, Mo.

While attempting to steal Miss Bessie Jones, his fiancee, from the home of Thomas Berry, in Madison county, and elope with her, Dempsey Wilder was fired upon by Berry. The load of Buckshot took effect in his shoulder, causing a dangerous wound.

In a difficulty at Pine-Lick Church, where a negro festival was being held, Jim Woodson shot Frank McKinney in the knee, the ball lodging in the joint. McKinney in turn deposited the contents of a shotgun in Woodson's body. Both men are badly hurt.

At Maysville, in the Circuit Court a verdict was returned against the Maysville Street Railway Company for $5,500 damages for the death of Isaac Thomas, a fifteen-year-old boy, caused last March by being struck by a fallen electric wire while returning home at night.

When an old trunk was opened at the home of Joseph Melton, near Bordley, in Union county, the father found his two little girls, aged 7 and 5, dead. In absence of their parents the children had been playing hide-and-seek, got into the trunk, pulled down the lid, and the trunk having a spring lock, they could not get out, and smothered to death.

A portion of $700 in gold buried 35 years ago by Miss Cynthia Sullivan, who was insane, on a farm in Graves county, was discovered by some farm hands. Miss Sullivan died in the asylum 34 years ago, and her relatives were never able to locate the buried treasure. W. D. Sullivan her cousin now owns the farm and the search for the remainder is being continued.

Col. Moore, Ex-Speaker of Legislature, has secured for Fox Hunters' Association over 4,000 acres in Harrison county. At a meeting of the committee they resolved to offer handsome premium of not less than $200 for a grand derby chase. The National Committee meets at Lexington on July 8th, to fix time and place for holding the meeting. Cynthiana will guarantee to the National Association not less than forty foxes and perhaps more.

Tom Burnett married in the early spring and went to keeping house near Oak Level in Graves county. Pretty soon he began to see sights about the house at night, which were not conducive to rest and sleep. Strange lights flashed about in the darkness, and he could not ascertain the cause, says the Mirror. He invited his neighbors in to see if they could solve the mystery; but they failed. It was a case of ghosts; and they made other demonstrations still more unpleasant, but not so terrifying. They attacked his wife in her sleep and took pins from her hair and unplatted the hair, all while she lay asleep. Burnett could not stand this, and last week he left the house to the ghosts and moved. Many of his neighbors have seen the nightly manifestations.

While the convicts in the Frankfort penitentiary were at supper one night, last week, Sam Crabtree struck Sam Buckley on the head with a hammer, knocking him senseless. Crabtree had plotted to escape and had taken Buckley into the plot. Warden Hancock got on to the plot and punished Crabtree. Crabtree suspected Buckley of revealing the plot to the Warden. Crabtree walked into the dining room with the hammer concealed under his coat, and, without a word to Buckley, walked up to the latter after he had been seated, and dealt him a blow. Buckley was carried out and convicts overpowered Crabtree until he could be taken in charge by the guards. Crabtree is serving his second term of three years for housebreaking from Lawrence county. Buckley is serving three years for larceny from Todd county. Crabtree's plot is said to have been bold and daring.

A CALL.

Lamenting the death of Hon. W. B. Grubbs the Democratic nominee for representative of Boone county, the undersigned citizens and democrats of said county, recognizing in the person of Judge J. E. Botts, of Walton, a man of unquestioned political integrity, a bold and fearless advocate of the principles of the Democratic party, who is not only well grounded in the tenets of his party, but is abreast of the best thought and action on the questions of the day, and broad enough to enlist all men who are interested in the cause of democracy to his support, and we call upon Judge Botts to become a candidate for the Legislature pledging him our hearty support.

J H Rogers, Hugh Roberts, E J Gorman, W W Dean, Joe Glinn, J J Richards, Thomas Ryan, A H Coffman, J R Craven, S W Houston, E H Laws, Perry Kennedy, Hugh Watson, H C Diers, J R Lyons, W Snyder, Jas W Cleek, A L Lancaster, R A Demoisey, J H Watson, A N Jones, Sam Hind, jr., A S Arnold, J R McHatton, A R Hance, A H Stephenson, J L Adams, T L McBee, O A Addrict, J G Crisler, Geo Palmer, W A Faze, W L Vest, W C Moxley, J C Laws, T J Crowe, W R Rouse, T A Walden, J T Holder, John Lane, C Coffman, G W Martin, H S Florence, Dr. E W Duncan, E K Stephens, W L Kennedy, G W Ransler, Alex Crisler, J D Mayhugh, R A Slater, W M Rice, S A Ingram, D B Finnell, Alfred Stephens, Mike Sullivan, John Sullivan, J W Sanders, W H Holder, Jacob Kipp, Jerry Lyons, Wm Owens, James Blington, Wm Smith, John Stamper, N M Northcutt, J M Stamler, Pat Maher, T F Nelson. W R Rogers, B L Northcutt, J A Records, W L Johnson, Joseph Fisher, Mort Benson, A M Stephens, R O Hoard, J J Cluster, B W Johnson, A M Rouse, H R Crisler, O E Walton, Jno Ransler, P A Rouse M E Harris, L L Vest, W E Stephenson, Omer Sanders, J H Grubbs, O L Hicks, Pat Code, Henry Baily, James Code, John S Johnson, Walter Johnson, John McCabe, John Senior, R S Snow, Jas Watson, A C Roberts, Robt Conrad, M McCarharty, John McHale, John Orinsby, Pat Coyne, Roger Coyne, Wm Spain, J A Roberts, R H Paulette, P C Youell, John Fink, John Corcoran, John Growney, Bryant Campbell, Pat Lane, Wm Campbell, Ed Fullilove, Arthur Murphy, M McDermott, W L Miller, G W Murphy, E M Harris, G W Roberts, H C Holder, T F Chambers, C E Dickson, J C Hocker, John Stitch, J R Whitson, C Stuckey, L R Whitson, O M Arnold, J S Geffries, E J Ratcliff, J C Bentler, Joe Morgan.

W P Carpenter, Chas Whitson, Rev B J Kolby, J D Stephens, Joseph Scott, M J Dennedy, M Cayton, Ben Osborn. James Cayton, Joe Geiger, John Hampton, John Bentler, Martin Farrell, John Dorsey, Joseph Dorsey, William Haley, Eddie Hogan, Mike O'Hara, M Schwalbold, Joseph Schwartz, Jno Hogan, Lee Eddins.

A CALL

We the Democrats of Boone, county desire to have Dr. B. A. Dulaney nominated for the office of Representative of Boone county, knowing he has always been a good Democrat and hard worker for the party. We agree to give him our hearty support to secure his nomination and election:

J F Gilbert, W R Tanner, T B Castleman, J C Bentler, Charles McKinley, Chas Pelley, Rev B J Kolb, H I Kyle, J R Mckinley, J L Middleton, J L Arnold, Hub Schybold, C C Bradford, A H Lalle, Phil Clayton, J P Boyce, J M Nolden, G D Kyle, W T Hogan, Rob't H Smith, W J Griffin, John Barton, F Souther, Owen Bradford, Earnest Yager, Clifford Hedges, H Wriglesworth, Arnold Bowers, Harry Boon, M. Cayton, Andrew Grogan, J M Craddock, H E Marquess, J Farrell, D Osborn, M Farrell, F M Osborn, John Meeks, A M Thomas, J H Snyder, Al Clutterbuck, E Edmonds, E C Farrel, John Mullen, Oscar Clark, Lee Schwartz, J R Bradford, John Rice, W R Bradford, Jos Dorsey, Claud Stephens, Thomas Dorsey, J N Pearson, Culbert Zepp, A M Barnes, Lee Sharp, John Griffin, R Whitcomb, W H Tanner, J L Fullilove, Jas Dorsey, Jim Meeks, Mallca Grogan, Jacob Mceks, A B Ingram, Sam Lholine, J B Carpentere, Ed Corbin, J R Sells, Mr Olbricht.

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

Williamstown has five white church buildings in town.

The Grant County Teachers' Institute will be held in Williamstown August 23 to 27.

Wheat harvest is in full blast this week and the crop will not be very large as to acreage, but very fine. With good weather it will all be in the stack in a few days.

In the last teachers examination there were 21 applicants for certificates of which two secured first-class certificates, eight second class, five third class, and six failed to get any certificate at all.

The Dry Ridge Graded Free School election developed a very pretty law suit. The anti-taxers have brought a suit in the circuit court enjoining the canvassing of the vote, claiming that the election is void for several reasons.

On Monday morning about one o'clock the Dry Goods and clothing store of Harry P. Joseph was entered by burglars and a suit of clothes carried away. The burglars broke a window in the front part of the store and evidently entered from that part of the building.

Dr. W. H. Daugherty while at his farm near Cherry Grove, Sunday, fell, injuring himself severely. The doctor has tough luck, as he was just recovering from the effects of a fall in which his shoulder was dislocated. He is now confined to his room and will be unable to be out for sometime.

Miss Nannie Arnold, who has been engaged in teaching at Burdette College at Sherman, Tex., for the past ten months arrived at her home in Williamstown on last Friday. She came home by way of Nashville and spent a few days visiting the beauties of the Centennial. Miss Nannie is making quite a success as a teacher and will continue in thas good work.

* * *

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[Herald]

The Herald had a pleasant call last Saturday from Squire Knox Brown, of Gratz, who is an enthusiastic fruit grower. He is President of the Kentucky River Fruit Company, and is also interested in the Woodstock Fruit Company, of which W. H. Rankin, another Owen county fruit man, is Vice President. The last named organization is in Henry, while the first is on this side the river in Owen. These two companies and a few private individuals expect to ship 50,000 bushels of peaches the coming season. At a conservative estimate this will bring $75,000 into that community. Mrs. E. E. Baily, Mr. Brown's sister, has 20,000 fine young peach trees and 6,000 crab apple trees, which will be quite remunerative. The peaches are extra fine and shipments will begin by July 10. orders having already been received for the entire output.

Dr. J. W. Botts says a stranger visited Bagdad last week, and attempted to crucify himself, imagining that he was called upon to do so. He succeeded in driving a nail almost through one hand, when he was taken in charge by the town authorities.

The Owen County National Democrats have not decided to put a county ticket in the field. Each voter will be allowed to support whom he pleases or nobody at the November election.

Richard Bond sold 19 heifers weighing 900 pounds, to Shirley Bros. for $32 per head.

FROM CARROLL COUNTY.

[News]

Harvest about over and the crop is fine.

The tobacco crop is slim here this year.

Wheat most all harvested and threshing will begin the last of this or first of next week.

Jas. F. Jett has ordered his electric light plant and will commence putting up the wires next week.

The Free Silver pole raised at Sanders last fall was a "Tall Sycamore," and this spring it began to sprout and put forth shoots, which goes to show that the silver cause is not dead, as many say, but is growing.

Danvillestockholders were caught to the tune of $100.000 by the failure of the building associations at Louisville.

QUARTERLY REPORT

Of the Boone County Deposit Bank at the close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897.

RESOURCES:

Loans and Discounts	$46,383 58
Overdrafts unsecured
Due from National Banks	47,610 74
Banking House & lot	1,221 16
Mortgages	28,509 00
Cash	6,193 46
Furniture and Fixtures	2,078 84
	$126,996 78

LIABILITIES:

Capital Stock paid in, in cash	$30,020 00
Surplus Fund	19,000 00
Undivided Profits	1,383 34
Due Depositors	70,934 24
Unpaid Dividends	5,659 20
	$126,996 78

State of Ky., County of Boone } ss:

Jo C. Revill, cashier of Boone Co. Deposit Bank, a Bank located and doing business in the town of Burlington, in said county, being duly sworn, says that the foregoing report is in all respects a true statement of the condition of the said Bank, at the close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and further says that the business of said Bank has been transacted at the location named, and not elsewhere; and that the above report is made in compliance with an official notice received from the Secretary of State designating the 30th day of June, 1897, as the day on which report shall be made.

Jo C. Revill, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me by Jo C. Revill, the 1st day of July, 1897. J. M. Lassing, N. P. B. C.

Commission expires Feb. 10, 1898.

Jo C. Revill, Director.
F. Riddell, "
M. T. Garnett "

H. S. STEVENSON.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

DENTIST.

Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.

☞OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

OUR Doors Stand Open! And we make no bones in giving you prices Openly.

We never felt in better humor for business than now. So we will ask for your attention a little while.

—We Will Sell You—

H. and E. Boston Standard fine Gran. Sugar, per lb	5c	Navy Beans 3 qts. for	10c
Coffees from 12½c to 30c per pound		Dried Peas 2 quarts for	5c
White Satin Flour (extra fine)	5.25	Battle Ax Tobacco, per lb	20c
Essex Soap (best for the money) two bars for	5c	Polar Bear Smoking, 4 pkgs	15c
Baking Powder, from 8c per lb. up		Six for Ten per plug	15c
Pure Pepper, ground, per lb	15c	Teas from	15 to 80c
Canned Corn, from 5c to 12c		Good Table Peaches, 3 cans	25c
Pearl Barley, 2 lbs. for	5c	N. O. Molasses, two gallons	65c
Evaporated Apples, per lb	5c	Extra Fine Syrup, two gallons	35c
Fine Evap. Peaches, per lb	7½c	H. L. Oil, per gallon	8c
Prunes, per pound, from 5c to	12c	"Crown" Gasoline, per gal	9c
Good Rice, per pound	5c	Onion Sets, per quart	10c
Sweet Chocolate, per cake	5c	3 packages Garden Seed	10c
Baker's Chocolate, per lb	40c	Pratt's Poultry Food at list.
Enamiline, per box	4c	6 dozen Cloths Pins for	5c
Rising Sun Polish, 6 for	25c	Rolled Oats, per pound	2c
		Langdon's Bread, 6 loaves for	25c

And Numerous other Good Values that require too much space to quote. Yours Earnestly,

IRA AYLOR, Erlanger, Ky.

C. W. ROBINSON,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,

ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,

Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.

GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.

Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.

62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,

E. H. BAKER, Proprietor

Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.

Telephone 580.

CHAS C FRY. JACOB REIB.

FRY & REIB,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of

Marble & Granite Monuments

HEADSTONES. CORNER POSTS, ETC.,

109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K

Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. { Designs Furnished Upon Application.

For Mothers!

THE discomforts and dangers of child-birth can be almost entirely avoided. Wine of Cardui relieves expectant mothers. It gives tone to the genital organs, and puts them in condition to do their work perfectly. That makes pregnancy less painful, shortens labor and hastens recovery after child-birth. It helps a woman bear strong healthy children.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

has also brought happiness to thousands of homes barren for years. A few doses often brings joy to loving hearts that long for a darling baby. No woman should neglect to try it for this trouble. It cures nine cases out of ten. All druggists sell Wine of Cardui. $1.00 per bottle.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. LOUISA HALL of Jefferson, Ga., says: "When I first took Wine of Cardui we had been married three years, but could not have any children. Nine months later I had a fine girl baby."

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.

Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.

East Bound.

Lve. Frankfort.... 6:30 a. m, 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown....7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m

West Bound,

Lve. Georgetown....10:40 a m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

RUGBY

PREPARATORY : SCHOOL

—FOR BOYS.—

Covington, - - Kentucky.

Thorough Preparation for Scientific School, College or Business, Military Training.

Limited Number of Boarders Desired.

Excellent Building.
Home Influence and Comforts.

Twelth Year. NEXT TERM BEGINS Sept'r. 15th, 1897.

For catalogue and special information Address,

K. J. MORRIS, A. M. Prin.

R. A. STEELE,

RISING SUN, IND.,

UNDERTAKING.

My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.

Independent of Undertakers' Union.

My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.

FURNITURE

Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.

GIVE ME A CALL.

NOTICE.

All persons holding claims against F. A. Tanner are hereby notified that they must present them to me at once proven as by law required, those owing same will please come forward and settle at once.

W. A. TANNER, Adm'r.

NOTICE.

The Refreshment Stand and other privileges of the Harvest Home, which will be held Saturday August 21, 1897, will be rented to the highest bidder at the Harvest Home grounds on Saturday, August 7th. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. Renting will take place at 1 p. m.

WM. GOODRIDGE, President.

Administrator's Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Benj. Rice, deceased, must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

B. P. RICE, Adm'r.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn St., Chicago.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JULY 14, 1897. NO. 38.

JOE A. PARKER, the Populist nominee for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, says he will poll 20,000 votes this fall.

SENATOR Harris, of Tennessee, died in Washington, one day last week. His remains will be interred at Memphis. He had been in poor health for some time.

THERE is plenty of room for a wave of prosperity in Chicago. Investigation shows that there are 20,000 houses for rent there, while on one thoroughfare 600 store rooms are vacant.

WHILE Gov. Bradley was recuperating in the Northwest Walter S. Forrester was slaughtering the Republican leaders in Kentucky with his pen, and Gov. Worthington was depopulating the penitentiary.

THE gold-bug Democrats of this county, held no convention last Saturday to nominate delegates to their State convention which meets in Louisville to day to nominate a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

THE Democratic State Central Committee has posponed until next month its meeting to arrange for campaign work. The sentiment of the committee is said to be against the appointment of a special campaign committee.

THE Democrats are good at abusing eachother some times, but for the pure, unadulterated kick the Frankfort Capital takes the bakery. As the proof of the pudding is the chewing of the bag, you are referred to another column.

THE Weed is the name of a new paper started in Louisville to represent the tobacco interests. It is a very neat paper, filled with items in regard to tobacco. It is the only journal in the State devoted to the tobacco interest, and should be well supported.

THE Baptist churches of the United States have met the conditions of Mr. Rockefeller's proposition, that if they would raise $238,000 he would give $250,000 and thus wipe out the immense debt of the Home and Foreign Missionary Societies. The money has been raised and there will be a handsome margin to go on.

THE county mass (?) meetings held by the National Democrats in this State, last Saturday, were a disappointment to the leaders of that party. They were a total failure in the matter of enthusiasm, and while in some counties no conventions were held, in many others there were fewer persons in the meetings than the counties were entitled to delegates in the State convention.

DR JAMES, Kentucky's new United States Marshal, has made a mistake by appointing two colored men as his deputies. Dr. James knows that the position is one which endangers a colored man's life to a much greater degree than it would that of a white man, but it may be he thinks that if a few of them get killed while holding office it will decrease the number of colored applicants for office hereafter.

SEVERAL Indianapolis business men have written Senator Fairbanks that the imposition of additional tax of 20 cents on playing cards will undoubtedly close the National Card Company, of that city, that gives employment to 200 people. Since the recent tax of two cents was imposed the consumption has been reduced from 45,000,000 to 17,000,000 packs per annum. The additional tax of 20 cents now contemplated would cut it to less than 6,000,000 a year, thereby wiping out the business. Senator Fairbanks has signified his intention to fight the increase until it is defeated or the bill is finally passed.

SHOULD Gov. Bradley pardon the negro Dinning, who shot and killed one of a band of regulators that called on him to leave the country or abide the consequence, he would comply with the wishes of a majority of the people of the State. The man who Dinning killed was engaged in an unlawful act, and the means the negro used to protect himself were no greater than he had good reasons to believe were necessary. If Dinning was guilty of acts that made him an undesirable citizen, the law provides a remedy that would meet his case, and to it those who composed the night callers ought to have resorted. Men engaged in unlawful acts should abide the consequence, and in Dinning's case those who surrounded his house and threatened him were the greater offenders.

WALTER S. FORRESTER, is the Assistant Adjutant General, appointed by Gov. Bradley. He is also editor of the Frankfort Capital, published at Frankfort, and the Capital is supposed to reflect Gov. Bradley's political views, and that the people of this part of the State may learn how much the Kentucky Republicans are in love with each other, the RECORDER copies the following choice paragraphs from the Capital of the 4th inst:

†‡†

It is only natural perhaps that the President's man of business, Hanna, should suppose that Kentucky Republicans are all of the saleable sort. Hanna's only experience in national politics, and his only acquaintance with Kentucky politics have been acquired during the eighteen months last past; and during that time the Republicans most in evidence have been, Hunter who offered to sell out on the currency issue to the Populists; Morg Thomas, who deliberately betrayed an organization formed by himself to carry Kentucky instructions for Bradley,—sold it out for a sinecure and a salary which the administration has paid him; George Todd, who with Glue-factory Sapp, accomplished the malodorous feat of selling out the Republican party to the A. P. A's; E. T. Franks who adopted the Hunter and Hanna system of double dealing, and after being given the Second district Congressional nomination as a Bradley man, turned around and went to work to earn the promised price of the required treachery, by brazenly joining the ranks of Hanna's hired deserters.

It is natural that Hanna should think that the administration can afford to outrage public sentiment in Kentucky, by openly paying Morg Thomas the price of his treachery, by appointing Todd's creature, Sapp, the friend and fellow of that unspeakable beast Beaufort, Collector of the Louisville district, by putting that ignorant, short-cut Franks into the Second district Collectorship trust, by making Leslie Combs pension agent over the protest of the soldier element, by turning down Bradley, Wilson, Lewis, Evans and Davison for Deboe, Hunter, Barnett Franks and Denny. For Hanna believes from those who have been his late Kentucky allies, that every Kentuckian has his price, and a sort of remnant-counter damaged by-fire price at that. When you want Kentucky Republicans buy them in the market! That is the way Hanna regards Kentucky. The promise of an office, according to recent experience, will make the kind of Kentuckians that Hanna knows best, act the traitor, betray friends the care of whose interests they have solicited, will make them submit to the pompous arrogance of a lot of carpet baggers, and blindly support any man or measure that they are told to support.

But then, Hanna has not yet made the acquaintance of the better element in Kentucky. He will before long learn that he has violated the eleventh commandment by getting caught, and that is the unpardonable sin in politics.

†‡†

There is no more reason why the decent Republicans should not vote for a sound money Democrat for Appellate Clerk than there was why decent Democrats should not vote for Bradley or McKinley. But there are good reasons why the sound money Democrats should refuse the proposition for fusion under the Republican device while the machinery of that party is in the hands of such creatures as made Hunter a Senatorial possibility. The sound money Democrats are not going to help make a victory for that political machine conducted by Hunter and Happy, Deboe and Franks, and their kind.

†‡†

The statement wired the Times that McKinley said that he owed Sapp a debt and proposed to pay it with the Collectorship, will naturally suggest to the decent Republicans and Democrats that they owe McKinley something for this insult to the great Democratic State that gave him her vote last November, and they will pay it, too. If McKinley has betrayed Kentucky to the infamous A. P. A. gang for their dishonest support at St. Louis then McKinley is a plain everyday scoundrel.

†‡†

Dr. James the new United States Marshal for Kentucky, has appointed A. T. Herd as his chief deputy. And so the charges made against Herd were no bar to his selection for an important position, because Herd did as Hunter did in a similar case, ignored" them. Herd's only recommendation is that he was Hunter's confidential agent. The people of Kentucky are being given an object lesson in what Republican rule in Kentucky means. Sound money Democracy bids fair to become a popular resort with decent Republicans and others who have been supporting the Republican ticket of late years.

†‡†

Is the only business of a Senator the getting of office? Is the only business of a State official, the working of peanut politics? It is the business of politicians to sell out their party principles for private or political pay? If so the Kentucky Republicans have most painstaking representatives in office.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

The devil was the first politcian.

The more I see a cat the better I like hogs.

The world saves most of it's respect for the hardest kickers.

Marriage is the embalming fluid of love. It often makes a lovely corpse.

Women have a theory that a bad man can never like to watch a sunset or smell flowers.

A man always gets the respect of a woman by letting on that he doesn't tell all he knows.

Every married woman gets an idea that she has to have lots of patience with her husband.

The average man thinks most about owing a duty to his family just before the church collection.

Possibly Jonah rocked the boat and got up the other story to explain his getting thrown overboard.

When he hears the excuses some men make to the minister for not coming to church the more the devil blushes.

No matter how good he is to her, a woman will always have a horrible doubt whether her husband will meet her in heaven.

When a woman wants to call her husband down before company she needn't say anything. She only needs to smile in a depreciating way.

Some womens' idea of taking care of a man is to have a lot of fussy sachet bags to put in the bottom of the drawers he keeps his shirts in.—N. Y. Press.

The tobacco market has continued active the entire week. A strong competition between the manufacturers' buyers and the speculators, who have watched the market very closely, has shown itself, and all grades of tobacco have been in demand and full prices realized. The better grades of tobacco that have been offered have advanced some, as the competition seems to be stronger for the better class of goods, especially for all grades from $12 00 upward, while the red tobaccos have also shown some advance. The dark trashes and nondescripts have remained firm, although we can not see any particular advance over last week, but colory trashes and lugs have shown a slight advance. Offerings have been very large, and with the continued hot weather we consider that the last week has been one of the best of the year, and we see nothing to interfere with a continued strong market at present. The reports from the country are a little more favorable, and with favorable weather and an occasional shower the tobacco crop will prove to be some better than was anticipated two or three weeks ago. Receipts are more liberal as a large number of dealers are now prizing and forwarding their tobacco. With the present prices a fair profit is being realized and we expect the sales to be liberal as long as these prices continue.—Western Tobacco Journal.

Pith of the Press.

We love the Lord, of course, but we often wonder what in the Sam Hill he finds to love in us.—Atchison Globe.

Perhaps the most exasperating thing about protection is the disposition to call it a principle.—Detroit Tribune.

Ambassador Hay seems to possess the happy faculty of being able to warm up without getting sticky.—Detroit Tribune.

So far as Mr. Hanna is concerned, he intends to try for a crop of Ohio votes by starting in with a check rower.—Omaha World-Herald.

Abraham Lincoln's emancipation proclamation still holds the record; but an Indiana court granted thirty divorces yesterday.—Detroit News.

Now that all the damage has been inflicted Governor Bushnell is able to announce that he has those Urbana people pacified.—Washington Post.

Those filibusters might at least give the Navy a tip when they're going to sail so the latter could arrange to make it look like an accident.—Detroit News.

The Ohio Democrats are correct in saying that Mark Hanna carried the election by corruption and coercion. If they are not careful he will do it again.—Kansas City Times.

The action of Mark Hanna in cutting down the wages of his mine operatives is declared to have no political significance. Why, of course not! It's one of Mark's signs of returning prosperity.—Brenham (Texas) Banner.

The inability of the Republican party to legislate intelligently upon the tariff was shown in the McKinley Bill, but the indications are that the Dingley Bill will demonstrate it more completely.—Courier Journal.

The announcement that Hon. William D. Bynum is going to the assistance of the Kentucky gold Democrats is made insufficient time to enable Colonel Watterson and his followers to pass around the bar.—N. Y. Journal.

Evidently the Frankfort Capital isn't in a happy state of mind. It didn't like Hunter, it doesn't like Deboe, it is dissatisfied with itself and is disappointed with the Republican control in Kentucky. What on earth does the Capital want? Isn't Billy O'B to the fore?—Commonwealth.

If correctly stated the Postmaster General has taken the correct view of matters. It is said that he has decided that colored post-masters shall not be appointed to offices filled heretofore by white persons. He holds that the matter had a social as well as a political side, and will be governed accordingly.

Paof. A. C. Collins hands us the following items in regard to the recent meeting of the Educational Association at Bowling Green:

Herbert McKim's music was well received by the Association.

Wallace Tanner seemed to enjoy himself among the teachers.

"The Teacher as a Social and Political Factor," was discussed by Professor Nelson, of Lexington, and A. C. Collins, they agreeing that as a "social factor" the teacher should be an example of true manhood, and should seek to overcome all bitterness introduced into the social circle by fanaticism and ignorance. As a "political factor," the teacher should carefully study the different political movements, and discuss them in the local Teachers' Associations before he expound the to others.

FLORENCE, KY., July 14th, 1897.

To the Democratic voters of Florence and vicinity:—I appreciate very highly the very generous call you made me last week through the columns of the RECORDER, and I will answer you in the next issue of that paper.

Yours Very Respectfully,
B. A. DULANEY.

The Bellevue base ball talent came up last Saturday, and gave the team at this place a trouncing. The following is the score:

Bellevue	0	1	3	3	5	2	0	0	0	—14
Bulington	2	1	0	0	1	2	1	1	0	— 8

Batteries—Brady and Maurer: Clutterbuck and Hughes.

The change in the temperature was hailed with delight by humanity which had been sweltering for ten days. Pleasant weather is predicted for the remainder of this month.

The Harvest Home posters, containing a lengthy and complete premium list, will be out in a few days.

At the conclusion of the hot spell a couple of local merchants came out in linen clothes.

Joseph Bullock, of Hebron, was in town yesterday, taking orders for clothing to make.

The Gold-bug Democrats hold a State convention in Louisville today.

The conference committee is pulling hair over the new tariff bill.

The lawyers are preparing for the August term of Circuit Court.

Hubert Conner, of Hebron, made us a pleasant call yesterday.

Atty. Tolin gave his office a thorough cleaning yesterday.

There are calls and rumors of calls.

This is fine weather for pitching hay.

This part of the country needs a good, steady rain of about twenty four hours.

W. S. Underhill was installed N. G. and Leonard Kite, V. G., of Viola Lodge I. O. O. F., last Saturday night.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

FOURTH YEAR.
OF WALTON ACADEMY,
opens
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897
AT WALTON, KY.
Three Courses of Study to choose from:
English, Scientific or Classical,
Tuition per month,...$2.50 and $3.00
Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.
We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for 5 days.
Thorough, Substantial Work
Guaranteed.
Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS. CHAS. F. PRIOR. Rev. S. H. MYERS.
Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
N. S. WATON, President, Ulinger, Ky. | OSCAR GAINES Secretary, Burlington, Ky.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, J. he Stephens.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of Woodford Carpenter, deceased, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

LEWIS RICE, Adm'r.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.
Sallie Powers, &c. Pltfs.
vs
F. L. Gordon, &c. Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 17th day of July, 1897, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 3d day of August, 1897. All persons having claims against F. L. Gordon's estate will present them to me properly proven according to law. J. B. BERKSHIRE, Master Com.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court.
Lawrence Dwyer's Adm'r. Pltf.
vs
Lawrence Dwyer's widow, &c. Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 17th day of July, 1897, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 31 day of August, 1897. All persons having claims against Lawrence Dwyer's estate will present them to me properly proven as by law required.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, Master Com.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
..... DENTIST, .....
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

R. C. RICE,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Burlington, Ky.
YOUR WORK IS SOLICITED.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate. Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
—)o(—
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 3.000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

A. P. WALTON,
DENTIST.
121 Garfield Place.
Cincinnati, - - Ohio.
First-class Dental Work at Reasonable Prices.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE RECORDER

W. I. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BUELINGTON. : : : KY.

Guatemala and Costa Rica have decided to join the Central American federation, and, with this accession, the new federal republic will have a population of 3,035,061 and an area of 185,825 square miles.

Queen Victoria has 33 great-grandchildren living, and 19 of them boys. Empress Frederick, the queen's eldest daughter, has 17 grandchildren. There is no kind of danger of England running short of rulers.

We are told that in the Garden of Olives at Jerusalem there are eight flourishing chestnut trees that are known to be over 1,000 years old. If this is true we know now where some of the latter day jokes come from.

Nansen, the explorer, is at present in St. Petersburg and is said to be organizing a novel business enterprise. He is forming an international company with a capital of 50,000,000 rubles to exploit the riches of the far north.

American insurance companies are leaving Austria, just as they left Prussia, in consequence of the recent discriminating regulations established by the government. A business amounting to $20,000,000 will thus be practically lost.

Grasshoppers are now worth 50 cents a bushel in South Dakota, that being the rate paid by the state authorities for the destruction of the insects. They are so numerous in some localities that they are a more profitable crop than wheat.

Mexican scientists are making a careful study of the disturbances by which the city of Tehuantepec has been shaken to pieces and seem to think that a small volcano is forming under the upper stratum. The earth is still a very warm baby among the planets.

In New Jersey there are 25,000 acres of marshes, which are traversed by all railroads to New York city. It is proposed to dyke and drain the lowlands against tide water. These are the areas which have bred the mosquitoes which have made New Jersey world famous.

They are going to establish an experimental farm in Alaska, under Washington auspices. Food is not only dear, but hard to get at high prices. It is believed that Alaska can raise her own farm products and that with an adequate food supply the mines will yield much larger returns.

A record of fires in theaters, music halls and other places of public entertainment in the last 300 years gives a total of 1,234 conflagrations of that kind, with a loss of 22,500 lives. The importance of a careful inspection of public halls will not be disputed in the light of these figures.

A law passed by the Pennsylvania legislature and signed by the governor taxes all men over 21 years old who are unnaturalized citizens three cents per day for each day of labor. The tax is levied upon the firms and corporations employing them. It will cause a rush for naturalization papers.

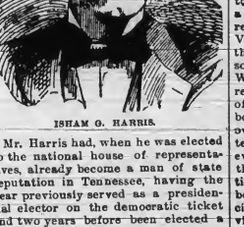
Mrs. Addie W. Buzzell, of Clinton, Me., has been married and divorced five times, although only 34 years of age. In each case she has been the complainant. She says that when she has found a husband not up to her ideas of thrift, industry and congeniality she has set him aside. She is still looking for the right man to manage her farm.

After all the spring and early summer rains, which caused such destructive freshets, especially in the west, the level of Lake Michigan has been raised only five or six inches. Yet even this advance is looked upon as remarkable. The inland seas are of such wide extent that masses of water, which, pouring down the river beds, bring devastation, affect them only as a drop in a bucket.

A phrenologist should accompany all picnic parties that venture upon the water. A fellow narrow between the eyes or with a soft spot on his head should be tied fast to a tree on the shore, for he would be certain "to rock the boat" or do some fool act to show his smartness and endanger the lives of the pleasure seekers. Not a week passes during the picnic season but there comes an account of disaster from just such semilunatics.

A venerable man of 92, who lives in Chicago and who has been in the country for 27 years, has at last decided to become a citizen and has applied for naturalization papers. He says that he was not frightened into this action by fear that this state would imitate Pennsylvania in taxing aliens, but because he came to the conclusion that he stood a better chance of reaching Heaven if he was a naturalized American citizen. There may be something in this.

The Kansas City Journal has gathered some sample Kansas drouth stories showing that there are times when it is so dry in the western part of the state that you have to soak a hog over night before he will hold swill. There are places where water is wet only on one side and there is one place where the owner of a ferry boat hauls water 11 months in the year to keep his ferry running, while one poor farmer used to run the well through the clothes wringer every morning to get water for cooking. Come to the northwest and grow up with the wheat and the cereals.



CAREER ENDED.

Venerable Senator Isham G. Harris, of Tennessee, Expires.

Congressional Career Begun Earlier Than Any Member of Either House. Antedating Morrell and Sherman by Seven Years and Grew Out of Secession.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Senator Isham G. Harris, of Tennessee, died at his home in this city late Thursday afternoon.

Probably no man in public life had been identified with more of the history of this country than had Senator Harris. He had almost completed his 79th year, having been born in February, 1818, and first became a member of congress in 1849. His congressional career thus began earlier than that of any member of either house, antedating Senators Morrill and Sherman by seven years and Hon. Galusha A. Grow, now a member of the house from Pennsylvania by one year.

ISHAM G. HARRIS.

Mr. Harris had, when he was elected to the national house of representatives, already become a man of state reputation in Tennessee, having the year previously served as a presidential elector on the democratic ticket and two years before been elected a member of the legislature of the state.

Mr. Harris represented the Ninth Tennessee district in congress for two terms, ending in 1853, when he declined a re-nomination. He then moved to Memphis, where he has since resided. Here he was engaged in the practice of law until 1857, with the interruption necessary to allow him to become a presidential elector in 1856. He was three times in succession before the war, beginning in 1857, elected governor of his state, and was serving in that capacity when the war broke out. He took a prominent position for the southern confederacy and was known as one of the southern war governors. The vicissitudes of conflict rendered a frequent change of residence necessary and he was often with the army in the field. He attached himself at different times to the staffs of Gens. Albert Sidney Johnston, Joseph E. Johnston, Beauregard and Bragg. Albert Sidney Johnston fell from his horse into Senator Harris' arms when he received his death wound.

After Lee's surrender, Mr. Harris was one of a small party of political refugees who escaped to Mexico, going across country on horseback. Parson Brownlow, who had been the military governor of Tennessee, offered a large reward in a characteristically worded poster for the capture of his predecessor, but the latter remained absent from the country until his return was safe. He remained in Mexico for several months, going thence to England, where he remained until 1867, when he returned to Memphis and resumed his practice of the law.

Mr. Harris was allowed to follow the pursuits of the private citizen until 1877 when he was elected to the United States senate, defeating Hon. L. L. Hawkins, republican. He has remained a member of the senate ever since and would have completed his twentieth consecutive year in that body on the fourth of next March if he had lived to that date. He had been four times elected to the senate, the last time in 1895, and his term would not have expired until 1901.

The remains will lie in state in the marble room of the senate on Saturday morning and during the afternoon funeral services will be held in the senate chamber. Accompanied by committees of the senate and house, the body will be taken to Memphis, leaving here after the senate ceremonies.

On Monday the remains will lie in state for a few hours at Nashville. Interment will be in the Elmwood cemetery at Memphis.

Volcano Kilauea Active.

HONOLULU, July 1, via SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—The volcano of Kilauea attracted notice on the evening of June 24 with terrific explosions, which were felt for 30 miles away, and almost immediately after fire was seen by persons living along the Kau coast. Several lava fountains are in operation and the lava lake continues to rise rapidly. It is now about 500 feet deep and increasing in activity.

But Two Persons Killed by the Cyclone.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 9.—The latest report from Tuesday's cyclone at Lowry, in Pope county, is that but two persons are dead, Sam Morrow and his seven-year-old daughter, although two others of the Morrow children may not recover. The path of the storm was not over twelve miles long and not wide. The aggregate money loss is great.

A Complete Shut Down.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 9.—It is safe to say that the amount of coal dug Thursday on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad would not fill one flat car. Such a complete shut down as exists in this district so soon after the inauguration of the strike is admittedly a surprise to the people living in that section. A number of miners were at work Wednesday, the majority of them in the pits of the Pittburgh & Chicago Gas Coal Co. at Snowden and Gastonville, but Thursday it is doubtful if the diggers at work along the whole line would number fifty.

LABOR LEADERS

To Secure the Co-operation and Practical Aid of Organized Labor for the Struggling Miners.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 10.—The greatest gathering of labor leaders that ever assembled in this country during a national strike was held in this city Friday night to devise means to assist the miners in their contest for increased wages. The conference was called suddenly, but the officials responding represented nearly every branch of organized labor in the United States.

The conference was fixed for 10 o'clock Friday morning, at the Monongahela house, but owing to the detention of President Ratchford, who missed connection and did not reach Pittsburgh until after 6 o'clock Friday evening, it was nearly 9 o'clock before the meeting convened.

The session was secret and it was almost midnight before it was over. The press committee, Messrs. Gompers, Ratchford and Connahan, then gave out the following statement, in which was incorporated, they said, all that was done at the conference. The manifesto follows:

"After an informal discussion reports were made by Messrs. Ratchford, Dolan and Warner in regard to the situation of the movement, and it was demonstrated that the suspension was practically general in the competitive bituminous coal district, extending also to Kentucky and Tennessee, excepting a few points in West Virginia. It was realized that the situation in West Virginia required attention in order that the suspension should become absolutely general and success assured. With this object in view, action was recommended by President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, and it was determined upon to overcome this feature of the contest. It was also determined that every effort be made on the part of those present to secure the co-operation and practical aid of organized labor for the struggling miners. All the circumstances warranted the firm conviction that the miners will ultimately achieve victory and to this end the aid of labor and the sympathetic public is invoked. Conscious of the great interest which the public has in a contest so widespread as that of the miners gives us great satisfaction to know that the miners have not been and are not now opposed to arbitration. We, therefore, urge and advise that a conference be held by representatives of the miners and operators with the view of arriving at a settlement of the present suspension."

Notwithstanding the positive announcement by the committee that the statement furnished the press covered all the proceedings of the conference, it is known that an organized effort to secure a general suspension of mining in West Virginia was decided upon. After a thorough canvass of the situation, it was unanimously agreed that the West Virginia miners held the key to the situation, and without their united support the success of the general movement would be greatly jeopardized.

It is known that concerted action will be taken at once to make the suspension of mining in West Virginia complete, which move, if successful, will kill off the most effective enemy the strikers have to encounter. It was this field that broke the strike in '94, and no effort will be spared to bring it into subjection at this time.

To supplement the conference of Friday evening, a special meeting of the State Labor league has been called for Sunday night in this city at which further means of support will be devised. The operators in the meantime are viewing the conditions calmly and profess to be in no wise alarmed at the ultimate success of their cause.

DILLON MINE NO. 2.

Not a Man Went to Work on the Blowing of the Whistle—Other Mines Will Be Secured.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 10.—It had been announced by the Wheeling & Lake Erie management that its Dillon No. 2 mine at Dillonvale would resume Friday morning with the miners protected by numerous posses of U. S. marshals. At the blowing of the whistle not a man entered the mine. The men had got together the night before and decided that if it was necessary for them to be protected by United States marshals they would not work. The management will now, it is said, endeavor to secure other miners and operate the mines if possible. It is not expected there will be any trouble at Dillonvale until the company attemps either of two things, to move West Virginia coal through to the lakes and to operate the mines with outside labor. The marshals are at Long Run and Dillonvale, but everything was quiet there Friday morning. Just across the river in the Wheeling creek valley and back of Bellaire, on the Baltimore & Ohio road, all is quiet, there being a general observance of the strike order, except at two or three banks where the operators have conceded the 60-cent rate demanded by the men.

Oldest Woman in Ohio Dead.

KENT, O., July 10.—Mrs. Priscilla Spooner, aged 103 years and 7 months, died here Friday morning. She was born in Plymouth, Mass., December 11, 1793, and has outlived three husbands, one of whom died at the age of 90 years. Mrs. Spooner had lived in Kent 25 years and was said to be the oldest woman in Ohio.

To Arbitrate the Miners' Strike.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 10.—Gov. Hastings received a telegram Friday afternoon from Joseph Bishop, secretary of the Ohio state board of arbitration, and L. P. McCormick, labor commissioner of Indiana, asking him to cooperate with the arbitration boards of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois at a meeting to be held at Pittsburgh to endeavor to adjust the miners' strike. A similar telegram was also received from Gov. Mount, of Indiana. Gov. Hastings replied to both declining to act because he has received no request from either the miners or the mine operators of Pennsylvania.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—SENATE—Senator Allison, in charge of the tariff bill, announced shortly before the adjournment Monday night that as no agreement had been reached for a final vote on the tariff bill, he would ask the senate to remain in session Tuesday night, at least until the bill was reported from committee of the whole to the senate. This promises a test of endurance, unless the opposition to the bill give way. Mr. Allison's statement was made after another further effort to have a time fixed for the vote. In some respects the senate made good progress Monday, disposing of two important amendments, that placing a stamp tax being agreed to with little or no opposition, and without the formality of a vote, while the Spooner amendment proposing a tariff investigation, was withdrawn after a protracted struggle.

HOUSE—The house by a party vote without transacting any business took a recess until Wednesday, to be ready for the tariff bill if completed before then by the senate.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—SENATE—The final vote on the tariff bill will be taken in the senate before adjournment Wednesday, a definite agreement assented to by all parties, having been reached at the close of the debate Tuesday. The agreement is as follows: That on the vote on the tariff bill shall proceed under the five-minute rule after one p. m. Wednesday and that the final vote on the bill shall be taken before adjournment Wednesday. Mr. Allison did not ask that the hour for the vote be act, being content with the positive agreement that it should be some time Wednesday. The limitation of speeches after 1 p.m., to five minutes will bring the debate within narrow limits. The announcement by the vice president that the agreement was perfected led to a general exchange of congratulations among senators. During the day the anti-trust question was debated at length, and Mr. Pettus' amendment on the subject was defeated—33 to 36. Mr. Allen (Neb.) again offered the amendment for a ¼-cent bounty on beet sugar. It led to lively and some what personal speeches from the Nebraska senators, after which the Allen amendment was tabled—37 to 9—the populists and silver republicans being the only ones recorded against the action to table.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—SENATE.—By a vote of 38 to 28, the tariff bill was passed in the senate shortly before five o'clock Wednesday. The vote in detail follows: Yeas—Allison, Baker, Burrows, Carter, Clark, Cullom, Davis, Deboe, Elkins, Fairbanks, Forsker, Gallinger, Hale, Hanna, Hawley, Jones (Nev.), Loge, McBride, McHenry, McMillin, Mantic, Mason, Morrill, Nelson, Penrose, Perkins, Platt (Ct.), Platt (N. Y.), Pritchard, Proctor, Quay, Seawell, Shoup Spooner, Warren, Wellington, Wetmore, Wilson—38. Nays—Bacon, Bate, Berry, Caffery, Cameron, Chilton, Clay, Cockrell, Faulkner, Gray, Harris (Kas.), Jones (Ark.), Kenny, Lindsay, Mallory, Martin, Mills, Mitchell, Morgan, Murphy, Pettus, Rawlins, Roach, Turpie, Vest, Walthall, White—28. The senate conferees on the tariff bill are eight in number and are as follows: Allison, Aldrich, Burrows, Platt (Ct.), Jones (Nev.), Jones (Ark.), Vest and White.

HOUSE—The house Wednesday by 134 to 104 adjourned until Thursday. Mr. McMillan (dem., Tenn.) sought to pass the Cuban belligerency resolution under suspension of the rules, but the speaker blandly ignored him and recognized Mr. Dingley to move an adjournment.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—SENATE.—The session of the senate Thursday was uneventful, the deficiency appropriation bill being considered throughout the day. Among its provisions is one accepting the invitation of France to participate in the Paris exposition of 1900. The bill was not completed when they adjourned. During the day, Mr. Berry (Ark.) offered a resolution requesting the president to demand of Spain the release of Gen. Melton, one of the Competitors prisoners. The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign relations.

HOUSE—The house Thursday sent the tariff bill to conference. Chairman Dingley, Payne (N. Y.), Dalzell (Pa.), Hopkins (Ill.) and Grosvenor (O.), republicans, and Bailey (Tex.), McMillan (Tenn.) and Wheeler (Ala.), democrats, were appointed conferees. The proceedings were in no wise sensational. This action was taken by means of a special order brought in from the committee on rules. The minority made no objection to it, but protested because the majority refused in advance to enter into an agreement as to the length of time to be allowed for debate when the bill is reported back by the conferees. The house spent the afternoon under the special order adopted last week in listening to eulogies on the life and public services of Judge Holman. Those who paid tribute to the memory of their departed colleague who began his service in the house as a democrat, were Messrs. Steel (Ind.), Richardson (Tenn.), Zenor (Ind.), Henderson (Ia.), Cummings (N. Y.), De Armond (Mo), Cannon (Ill.), Sayers (Tex.), Moses (Ga.), McMillin (Tenn.), Bromwell (O.), Hunter (Ill.), Robinson (Ind.), Lanham (Tex.), Clarke (Mo.), Cox (Tenn.), Wheeler (Ala.), and Catchings (Miss.). At 5 p. m. as a further mark of respect, the house adjourned.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—SENATE—The senate met Friday under the depressing influence of the death of Senator Harris, of Tennessee, who has been one of the conspicuous figures in the upper house of congress for over twenty years. The desk he occupied so long was not draped, as the senate had as yet no official knowledge of his demise. Rev. Mr. Johnston, the chaplain of the senate, in his invocation referred feelingly to the loss the senate had sustained, and spoke of his "rugged honesty, his unswerving attachment to his political principles, his opposition to all he considered wrong, his devotion to his state and his service to the nation." After the journal had been read Senator Bate (Tenn.) made the announcement of the death of his colleague. In doing so he paid a high tribute to the memory of the distinguished dead. The senate out of respect to the memory of the dead senator, adjourned. A committee to attend the funeral was appointed.

Fikes to Be Freed.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 10.—The Richmond and Harrodsburg turnpikes, the former containing eight and the latter seven miles, will be made free by Fayette county on or before July 21, that county having made arrangements with the state sinking fund to that end.

Sizzling Hot at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, July 10.—The maximum reached Friday morning by the thermometer was 95 degrees at 11 o'clock, after which the mecury gradually receded until 12 o'clock, when another upward spurt was taken, which all but sent it bubbling out of the tube.

James E. Doyle Promoted.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 10.—James E. Doyle, local manager of the Standard Oil Co., has been promoted by his company to the office of assistant general manager for all territory south of the Ohio river, with headquarters here.

Poisoned by a Caladium Leaf.

CINCINNATI, July 10.—Clara Safti, aged six years, was playing with a group of children on East Sherman avenue, Norwood. One of them handed her a caladium leaf saying it was good to eat. Clara proceeded to eat the poisonous plant. In a few moments the tot was in agony. Her cries could be heard a block away. The caladium leaf burns with the same intensity of carbolic acid. For a time it was thought that she would lose her life, but prompt medical attention pulled her through. Her mouth and stomach were terribly burned.

How It Is Done.

"Up against it again!" gloomily remarked the man who pronounces "athletic" in four syllables.

"How's that?" asked the woman who wears white gloves with black stitching.

"Thought I had a sure thing the other day, and was thrown as usual. Was in a bicycle store when a young fellow came in to buy a cyclometer. Said his had given out after he had ridden 500 miles. Was trying for a season's record, and hated to begin over again. Salesman said he could fix it. Took new cyclometer, fixed it on wheel, upended the thing in the store and began to turn. Reeled off 500 miles in no time. Thought I saw my graft. Went to guy I know and bet him I could ride more miles in a week than he could. It was to be decided by our cyclometers. Bought new cyclometer, went up in the attic and began to turn. Struck a hot box at the two hundred and eighty-seventh mile and stuck fast. Never happened to a cyclometer before. Just my luck."—Buffalo Express.

It Cured Her.

A well-known Louisville woman was ill, and her physician pronounced her in a critical condition. Among the sympathetic neighbors was a pretty widow who was very kind in her expressions of sympathy for the husband and children. And it came to pass that she began to sympathize with them to such an extent that she spent most of her time at the house. When the wife was thought to be sinking and the family were beginning to fear the worst, the widow walked up to the husband and said: "I now pity you, Mr. ——, and these dear children. It will be awful if they are to be reared up without a mother to care for them." At this injunction the wife, with a mighty effort, raised up in her bed with the words: "Oh, you needn't be worried; I am not going to die. No, I will not die, and I can get along very well without your assistance in the future." From that time the woman rallied, and is now hale and hearty.—Louisville Dispatch.

Summer Tours Via Big Four Route,

To the Mountains, Lakes and Seashore. Special Low Rates will be in effect to Put-in-Bay, Islands of Lake Erie, Lake Chautauqua, Niagara Falls, Thousand Islands, St. Lawrence River, Adirondacks, Lake George, New England Resorts, New York and Boston. To the Great Lakes, Cleveland, Sandusky, Toledo, Detroit, Benton Harbor, Mt. Clemens, Mackinac and Michigan Resorts. To the Northwest and West via St. Louis and Chicago. For rates, routes, time of trains and full particulars apply to any agent "Big Four," or address E. O. McCormick, Passenger Traffic Manager "Big Four," Cincinnati, O.

Very Natural.

He—They tell me your husband is a great artist.

She—That he is. He painted a picture of some onions for the last exhibition, and they were so natural that the committee put them on the top line, so that the people wouldn't smell them.—Yonkers Statesman.

Shake into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It cures painful, swollen, smarting feet and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous, hot, tired, aching feet. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Trial package FREE. Write to Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

Dodging.

Tolliver—Can you let me have ten dollars for a week, old man?

Duero—What weak old man?—Harlem Life.

"Star Tobacco."

As you chew tobacco for pleasure, use Star. It is not only the best, but the most lasting, and therefore the cheapest.

We can tell a school teacher as far off as we can see her, and if she marries, she has to be married at least 20 years before the trademarks are effaced.—Atchison Globe.

"Queen Victoria always looks so solemn." "You'd look solemn if you had had the prince of Wales for a son all these years."—Chicago Record.

Every evening we make resolutions about getting up earlier, and break them the next morning.—Washington Democrat.

You can always tell false teeth because they are so much nearer perfect than natural ones.—Washington Democrat.

If we ever invent anything it will be a salt cellar that always has salt in it.—Washington Democrat.

Some people would rather be deceived by their children than be told that they disobey them.—Washington Democrat.

Fond Mamma—"Bobby, Bobby, whatever makes you so restless?" Bobby—"Having to keep still so much, I suppose."

Some men seem to be glad that they are so poor that no debts can be collected from them.—Washington Democrat.

Boys carry their grips conspicuously, so people will ask them where they are going.—Washington Democrat.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an A No. 1 Asthma medicine.—W. R. Williams, Antioch, Ill., April 11, 1894.

Any wife can make her husband tremble by saying she "has heard something" about him.—Atchison Globe.

It's usually found to be pretty hard to get people interested in what you used to be.—N. Y. Weekly.

If a man has a little money and doesn't work, he is called a capitalist.—Washington Democrat.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a Constitutional Cure. Price 75c.

The New Navy Rifle.

The strongest shooting gun in the world is the new Lee rifle made by the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Ct., for the U. S. Navy. When fired there is a pressure on the breech of 60,000 pounds to the square inch. To build a gun that would withstand such tremendous strain was a great undertaking, but the Winchesters, with their vast and varied experience and wonderful plant, succeeded in turning out a gun entirely satisfactory in every way to the Navy. Like all Winchester rifles they shoot to perfection, work smoothly and easily and are strong service like arms. The Winchesters send a large illustrated catalogue free upon request.

"Her Regret.

He was worth a good deal in money, but not in anything else.

"I am sorry to have to leave you so much," he said, as he put on his overcoat and started for the club.

"I am sorry you can't leave me more and do it sooner," she returned.

And somehow that bothered him all the evening. In fact, he was somewhat tempted to change his will.—Chicago Post.

Enterprises of Great Pith and Moment

Have, ere now, had their currents "turned awry," as Hamlet says, by an attack of dyspepsia. Napoleon failed to improve his advantage at Austerlitz in consequence, it is said, of indigestion brought on by some indiscretion in eating. In order to avoid dyspepsia, abstain from over indulgence, and precede the meal by a wineglassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, more effective than any dietetic in improving the tone of the stomach. Liver complaint, chills and fever, and rheumatism are annihilated by the Bitters.

She Knew What She Wanted.

Medium—The spirit of your wife wishes to speak with you, Mr. Jones.

Jones—Tell her I lock the door and put the cat out every night.—N. Y. Journal.

New Jersey Grocers Sued.

Trenton, N. J., June 24 (Special). Suit has been filed here by The National Cash Register Company of Dayton, Ohio, against Edwards & Vreeland, grocers of Paterson, N. J., who use a Globe cash register, which the National Company claims infringes its patents. An injunction and damages are asked for.

Mrs. Newed—"Was I nervous, dear, during the ceremony?" Miss Spitegirl—Well, a trifle at first, darling, but not after William had said 'yes.'"—Truth.

How to Keep Well

The Practical Experience of a St. Louis Family.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla in my family for several years and by its use warded off sickness. I have four children and they are all healthy and none of them have ever had any serious sickness. We keep ourselves well by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. F. H. SOLLER, 2350 St. Louis Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One True Blood Purifier. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure sick headache. 25c.

NEBRASKA FARM LANDS. A dry healthy climate, free from malaria, an abundance of pure water, a soil which is unsurpassed for richness, and is easily cultivated, yielding all varieties of crops. That is what Nebraska offers to the home seeker. Lands are cheap now. Send for a pamphlet describing Nebraska, mailed free on application to P. S. Eustis, General Passenger Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago.

EDUCATIONAL.

Chicago Musical College.
CENTRAL MUSIC HALL,
CHICAGO, ILL.
DR. F. ZIEGFELD, PRESIDENT.
MUSIC ORATORY and DRAMATIC ART.
32nd SEASON BEGINS SEPT. 6, 1897.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE.

LAZY LIVER! YOU KNOW WELL ENOUGH HOW YOU FEEL WHEN YOUR LIVER DON'T ACT.

Bile collects in the blood, bowels become constipated, and your whole system is poisoned.

A lazy liver is an invitation for a thousand pains and aches to come and dwell with you. Your life becomes one long measure of irritability, despondency and bad feeling.

Cascarets ACT DIRECTLY, and in a PECULIARLY HAPPY MANNER ON THE LIVER and BOWELS, cleansing, purifying, revitalizing every portion of the liver, driving all the bile from the blood, as is soon shown by INCREASED APPETITE for food, power to digest it, and strength to throw off the waste. MAKE YOUR LIVER LIVELY!

ALL DRUGGISTS, 10c., 25c., 50c.

"THRIFT IS A GOOD REVENUE." GREAT SAVING RESULTS FROM CLEANLINESS AND SAPOLIO

THE ONLY REMEDY.

True Democracy the Cure for Our National Ills.

Glowing Fourth of July Address of John P. Altgeld at Brooklyn, N. Y.—Terse Truths for Americans.

Ex-Gov. John P. Altgeld, of Illinois, was the guest of honor at the Fourth of July celebration of the Democratic league of Kings county, N. Y., on Monday, July 5, and in a lengthy and strong address reviewed the progress of our great nation from the first Independence day up to the present time. He paid particular attention to the financial part of our history, showing the effects of party legislation upon our monetary status and declared that the democratic party was the only means by which the country can obtain relief from its present burdens of trusts, high taxes and maladministration. The following portions of Mr. Altgeld's speech contain his remarks on the money question. In opening he said:

"Members of the Democratic League of Kings County, and Fellow Citizens:

"For more than 100 years the American people have celebrated the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. For years it was a day of unalloyed rejoicing. Gradually, as the country passed through different crises, it became also a day of retrospection; men studied the experience of yesterday in order to meet the problems of to-morrow. To-day a continent is crowning the heroes of 1776. Let us, with uncovered heads, join in that coronation.

"To-day the most wonderful nation on earth is in distress. Its children are suffering, and its foundation stones are slipping away, and we may well ask the reason why? In the affairs of man, as in nature, there is no fixed status. Everywhere there is motion; there is either growth or there is disintegration.

"In the economic and governmental arrangements there has been a steady advancement. The forms and appliances of one age being inadequate to meet the demands of the next, man has from time to time had to deal with new conditions. Progress and prosperity rewarded him when he assisted them, and disaster has claimed him when he failed. All progress and growth has come from below; evolution works from the bottom and never from the top. In society and in government there is constantly forming at the top a crust which tends to repress all there is beneath, and tends to check progress. Established wrongs and intrenched privileges are always imbedded in this crust. Reform is simply an effort to improve a condition or right a wrong, and every reform carried out had to force its way through this crust.

"I am not here to denounce—nothing is so idle or so foolish as mere denunciation. It accomplishes nothing. It is equally foolish to shut our eyes to danger means death. We must deal with conditions as we find them; and, to act wisely, we must know the facts.

The Money Power.

"During the war gold left the country, as it always does in times of need. The government carried on the war with paper money and then sold bonds. Paper money, being all there was in circulation, became the standard of values among the people. Products and labor were measured on this standard; debts were based on it; business adjusted itself to it. A bushel of wheat sold for two dollars, and all other property in proportion. When the government sold bonds, it received not specie but paper money, and at times it took over two dollars of this money to buy one of specie. A thousand-dollar bonds cost on the average $500 in specie. Thus the bondholder got 12 per cent. interest on all specie invested.

"When the war was over an effort was made to reduce the volume of money to specie basis, and thus greatly increase the value of bonds. On this subject Senator Sherman in 1868 used this language in the United States senate: 'The contraction of the currency is a far more distressing operation than the senators suppose. Our own and other nations have gone through that operation before; it is not possible to take that voyage without the sorest distress. To every person, except a capitalist out of debt, or a salaried officer, or an annuitant, it is a period of loss, danger, hesitude of trade, fall of wages, suspension of enterprise, bankruptcy and disaster; it means the fall of all agricultural products without any reduction of taxes. What prudent man would dare to build a house, a railroad, a factory, or a barn, with this certain fact before him?'

"Having pictured the ruin that would follow, he turned around and carried out this policy of contraction by which the bondholders were to get two dollars of specie for every one dollar invested. According to the treasury report the volume of money in circulation was reduced more than one-half, and prices of property fell in proportion. A bushel of wheat sold for one dollar and all other property in proportion. But debts, interest, taxes and all fixed charges remained the same.

"The farming and producing classes could not stand it. They could no longer buy, and when they ceased buying the mills of necessity ceased running and business was paralyzed. The picture which the senator had drawn became an awful reality. The panic of 1873 was born, and caused more ruin and misery than the civil war. The war devastated the south; the panic paralyzed the republic. But we were now on a specie basis. Not content with this, the same forces, led by the bondholding classes of Europe, in 1873, without the knowledge of the American people, got our government to arbitrarily strike down one of the money metals of the world. Most of the European nations gradually followed, until nearly one-half of the world's money was destroyed by the arbitrary action of a few. The striving to do twice the work that it formerly had to do, gold became twice as important, twice as many people needed it, and consequently its purchasing power was gradually doubled. A gold dollar would buy twice as much of the property and of the products of the earth as formerly, while the debts, interest, taxes and all fixed charges remained the same. This time the purchasing power of the farming and producing classes of the civilized world was destroyed.

"In Europe the effect of this legislation began to be felt very soon after the panic of '73. Here there were local causes that stimulated and stayed us for a few years, but gradually the paralysis caused by falling prices spread over the world, and resulted in the complete breakdown of 1893. Like the panic of '73, it has been ruinous, and has produced more misery than war, and pestilence, and famine combined. To-day it takes four times as much of American products to pay a dollar of interest or principal of the national debt as we received, or was necessary when the debt was created, and it takes twice as much, to pay any other debt or pay the taxes as it did after we had resumed specie payments. At the slow of the war our national debt was over $2,500,000,000. Since then the people have paid the interest and about half of the principal. Yet to-day, 30 years after the close of the war, after half has been paid, it will require twice as much of the products of our people to pay what is left of that debt as would have been necessary to pay it all at the beginning.

"Reflect a moment. A whole generation has paid at that debt, and has reduced it by one-half. Yet each has been the governmental policy that to-day it will require twice as much of our products to pay the remainder as would have been necessary to pay it all when the debt was created. Being a prospering and debtor nation, it was a crime to legislate exclusively in favor of the creditor classes of Europe, and thus destroy the purchasing power of our people.

Trusts and Corruption.

"Again, after the civil war it was found that our industrial and commercial institutions were undergoing a change. The spirit of concentration and enlargement, which is shaping the civilization of this century, was everywhere active. Little shops gave way to great factories; little stores to great establishments; little railways to great lines. Everywhere there was consolidation, and legislation was passed by nearly all the states to further the formation of corporations. In this way limitless money could be concentrated in one establishment, as it could not well under a partnership. In one sense, this movement was unfolding; it tended to cheapen production and in many ways increased the convenience of the public, and I believe that it is yet destined to be a blessing to the world. But it brought with it unforeseen evils, for which the world had made no preparation.

"First. The process of crushing out, or consolidating, was carried so far that in time many of the most important industries were controlled by trusts, and all competition was destroyed. A few individuals sitting in a room could arbitrarily fix the price of labor, or raw material, on the one hand, and the price of their products on the other. They could crush on the one hand and extort on the other.

"Second. So-called Christian gentlemen eagerly accepted from agents large sums of money made by unscrupulous or corrupt means, when, if left to themselves, their individual business, would have hesitated to use those means.

"Third. Money means power, and men controlling vast sums became impatient of the restraint of the laws, and began to rule over them in some cases, and to evade them in others.

"Fourth. It was found that the shortest road to great wealth was through governmental aid, and accordingly many great trusts and the moneyed interests made it their business to influence government national, state and municipal, in order to escape their share of public burdens, and to get advantages and privileges that would make fortunes. It rarely happens that a private individual has enough interest in any matter to either corrupt a legislature or to obtain control of all branches of the government. The universal corruption that is to-day destroying our country comes from the concentration of capital, and the baleful aspect is that it is practiced by men who talk patriotism, and who stand high in the estimation of the public. It is idle to talk about purifying the government so long as men of influence and position offer vast sums to corrupt it. Cut off the hand that offers a bribe, and you will end corruption.

"We must devise some way of removing overwhelming temptations on the one hand and of distributing among all men the benefits and advantages flowing from the progress of civilization. As power never limits itself, we must find a method of curbing it.

"Let it be understood, the American people are broad and generous. They envy no man the fruits of superior effort or good fortune. They heartily applaud the achievements of genius, and in this broad land there is room for a vast amount of wealth. Even against the man who has honestly acquired a competence; there is no voice raised against the corporations that confine themselves to legitimate business and legitimate methods. The complaint is against monopoly; against fortunes that have been corruptly made, and are now used to further plunder the public and to destroy free institutions. The protest is against laws which enrich some at the expense of others. The indictment runs, not against capital, but the criminal use of it. It is not wealth, but the abuse of it, that is working our destruction.

"Look at the situation. Lobbyists and corruptionists sit in high places and are counted the great men of the land. Instead of the government controlling the corporations, the corporations run the government. Greed runs the laws, and labor carries the burden. We hear of assessors being bribed, city councils being owned, legislatures being bought, while congress registers a bill of millions for subsidies, and the white house through the portals of banks, and the higher judgships on a certificate from the corporations.

"In no country in the age have the higher courts been on the side of the people or of liberty. They are everywhere the opponents and defenders of that force which for the time being dominates the land.

Need of American Manhood.

"You ask: 'What shall we do?' My friends, no mortal can tell you long in advance. The exigencies must be met as they rise. The great purpose is to restore the basic principles of the fathers and to reverse the present destructive policies, to meet the new needs of the times; to end the corrupt reign of the dollar, and to substitute the voice of the citizen; to have the government control the corporations, instead of having the corporations control the government; to restore a financial system under which the world had prospered, and which will not paralyze America for the benefit of England; to prevent the courts from becoming mere conveniences for concentrated wealth; to do justice to the hand that toils; to end monopolies, whether of money, land, or special privilege. In short, the purpose is to maintain free government among men, and make further progress possible.

"The first thing necessary is to assert our manhood; to have convictions, and dare to maintain them. Double-headed pine terms, and colorless men, are the instruments by which the abuses of the time are made possible.

"In 1776 the fathers said: 'We do not know just what the government may have to do, but whatever is necessary to achieve independence will be done. We do not know whether there will be a battle of Bunker Hill, or of Yorktown, but we will either fill the graves of the conquered, or live the lives of freemen.'

"In 1860 the northern patriots said: 'We do not know whether the government will issue paper money or exact gold or silver, but whatever is necessary will be done. We do not know whether there will be a Bull Run, a Vicksburg, a Gettysburg or an Appomattox, but we will maintain this republic, or sleep in southern graves.'

"To-day, if asked whether the government will take the railroads or establish referendum, say you do not know, but that every step which may become necessary to save free government, and to restore happiness in this land, will be taken; say that if necessary to do so the government will not only take the railroads, but every monopoly, and concentration of property which interferes with either the rights or the welfare of the people.

"For a century representative government was a success; it represented the people. But new conditions have arisen, concentrated capital offers opportunities too great for the average representative to resist—whether in the senate or city council—and we are literally betrayed. Some men in both parties are not to be bought or bribed. Either the power to sell us must be taken away or the temptations must be removed; either have all important matters submitted to the people, or have the government take all railroads and monopolies, and thus force the bribes out of employment.

"Definition of Democracy.

"I say, our country must be rescued by the democrats. But be not deceived. Lobbyists and corruptionists who debauch legislatures, or pollute the stream of justice, are not democrats. So-called leaders who use their position in their party to assist corporations in getting an unfair advantage over the people, are not democrats. Men who are ready to sell their fingers, and sell the birthright of their children for the sake of personal gain, are not democrats. The word 'democrat' is one of the most inspiring in the language. It is as broad as humanity, and no man is worthy of it who has no higher purpose than to get a personal advantage. Offices must be filled, and it is better to have them filled by men of conviction and character than by men who have neither. But unless there is a higher aim and purpose, unless there is a great principle to support, there is nothing worthy of the ambition of an honorable man. We can only succeed through organization, that through party, and it is necessary that minor differences be yielded in order to advance the great principle. But unless a party stands specifically for something that directly affects the welfare of humanity, it will accomplish nothing.

"For 30 years our party has been a neutral party. The manipulators who wished to use it as a convenience, did not want it to stand for anything. There were interests that wanted to control both parties. This was the easiest way of controlling national legislation. Had there been a positive, compact and aggressive minority standing for principle, the cry of distress would not be heard in this land to-day. Had there been such a party, the Standard Oil trust never could have nominated the same man three times in succession for the presidency. Trading politicians made this possible. Let me repeat, that compromisers, traders and neutrals never corrected abuses, never found or save free institutions, and never fought for human rights. They always become instruments for the enemy. Wherever they are in power the party is unworthy of the respect of mankind. Only men of conviction and courage can save this land. Only the men who stand erect ever get recognition from their fellowmen, or have a place over the deliberations of the universe.

Help for the Future.

"You ask: 'Is there hope?' Without entering too far on the field of partisan discussion, we may glance at what are now matters of history. Look back eight months, and gaze upon a spectacle that marked the high-water point of corruption. There were arrayed against the people nearly all the banks, the corporations, the trusts, the railroads, most of the great papers, and every influence that money could control. Manufacturers and small merchants were coerced; debtors were forced, and laborers were driven by the lash of hunger. All of the corruption funds that could be raised on two continents were used to debauch the people; the lobbyists, the trading politicians, and the time servers were there in numbers. They had on their wealth and position to the fact that they had helped to corrupt legislation, and to pollute the stream of justice, were on that account the most conspicuous. Corruptionists were on that side. False promises of every kind were held out; every method of defeating the will of the people at the polls was practiced. On the 5th of March returns it appeared as if the enemy had won. According to these returns, 30,000 more votes, properly distributed, would have changed the result. Eight months have elapsed, and the people have already discovered that they were made the victims of deception. Only eight months have passed, but the harvest is already being reaped.

"In Illinois we have just had a carnival of official debauchery, such as the world has rarely seen. The people have been robbed; the unborn have been defrauded of their rights, and saddled with unjust burdens; public property, privileges and franchises worth millions, have been given to monopolies, numerous acts striking down liberty have been passed, and the people are helpless. Had corruptionists been able to control seven states, and have rebuilt them in ten years, but the destruction of republican institutions blasts the hopes of man and must increase the sorrows of the world. Look on how you will, the conditions are the same. They are the legitimate harvest of that poisonous seed that was sown broadcast last fall. The people see that they were misled, and I do not believe that even a special providence could soon again unite all the forces that worked together in the last campaign. Disintegration is already at work in the ranks of the enemy.

Phalanx of Democracy.

"Now look at the other side. Over 6,000,000 of intelligent, patriotic and substantial citizens fought for the rights of man. They were men who had convictions and dared to act on them. They were men who could not be cajoled; who could not be frightened; they were the men who do most of the country's work, and bear its burdens. They had no boodle, but they had manhood. They refused to be Europeanized, but fought for American institutions.

"Look at these men to-day. They stand in solid phalanx, eager, determined, confident. None have deserted; none have laid down their arms. Their line of battle stretches across a continent; their banners are waving; their drums are beating, and they are moving on the enemy. They see the gilded palaces of injustice; they listen to the cry of labor; they hear the wail of free institutions, and with an appeal to the Omnipotent, they resolve that England shall not rule this land. In every state the people are aroused; they see their condition growing worse; they see the hope of their children disappearing; they see poverty handing over the future; they see the black flag of hunger floating over some of the richest sections of God's earth, and they are crying for justice. My friends, that cry will reach the American people. Even if we should be borne down again and again, the voice of humanity will arise from the dust, and drive the money changers out of the temple, and the traitors out of the land. The Benedict Arnold of the sleeps on English soil. Let the Benedict Arnolds of this age make their graves beside him."

DIABOLICAL.

An Outrage That Called Loudly for Vengeance.

"I understand, colonel," remarked the inquiring tourist from the north, addressing the prominent son of the Dark and Bloody Ground, "that there is said to be a raving maniac running at large in the forest in this vicinity."

"Well, suh," replied Col. Corkright, "a dastahdly scoundrel of a draveling hypobitzuh came along and gave an exhibition in the courthouse night befo' last, and in the course of the evening he hypnotized Maj. Bludsoe, one of the most influential citizens, and while he had him undah his control he made the majuh drink a glass of watuh, telling him that it was 20-year-old Bourbon whisky. The diabolical dose had not an awful effect upon the victim—a good deal like hydrophobia, only a heap wo'se —that the hypnotizuh became frightened at what he had done and fled to the woods, leaving the majuh going from one paroxysm to anothuh.

"It took two doctuhs all the rest of the night and half of the next day to resto the majuh to a clear undahstanding of the infuhnal outrage which had been pulpetrated on him, and when he came to himself at last he drew his revolvah and plunged into the woods, seahching by the ghost of the illustrious Henry Clay that he would neither eat nor sleep till he had avenged the wrong. And I judge, suh, that the repo't you have heard about a maniac in the woods was stahted by some stranguh who had caught a glimpse of the majuh."—N. Y. Journal.

—In France 4,000,000 tons of potatoes are annually used in the manufacture of starch and alcohol.

A FORECAST

Of Business in the Congress During the Present Week.

The General Deficiency Bill Will Be Considered in the Senate.

The Disposition is to Do Little in the Way of General Legislation Outside of Finishing Up the Tariff Bill—The Conferees May Report Thursday.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Beyond the fact that the general deficiency appropriation bill probably will be passed and that the senate will stand ready to take up the tariff bill at any time that a report may be brought in by the conference committee, little can be predicted of the course of events in the senate during the present week. The disposition is to do little in the way of general legislation, and there is a proposition under consideration by the leaders of the two sides of the chamber to adopt the plan now in vogue in the house for sitting only every third day after the deficiency bill shall have been disposed of.

This suggestion has been made in view of the possibility of pressure to take up the matter of the appointment of a currency commission. The general impression about the senate is that the house will pass such a bill on this subject as the president may recommend, but that there is no probability that the senate will take the matter up seriously. The desire is to make this intention clear by infrequent meetings.

There are, however, some matters on the executive calendar demanding attention, and there may be an effort to clear this calendar off during the week. If such should prove to be the case there would be more or less discussion in the executive sessions over the McCord, Warner and Goodnow nominations. The friends of the Hawaiian annexation treaty on the foreign relations committee also hope to be authorized to report a ratification resolution at their meeting next Wednesday, but it is by no means certain that the committee will be able to reach an agreement so soon.

Monday will be devoted to the general deficiency bill, particular attention being given to the provision for the purchase of armor plate at $425 per ton. This portion of the bill will be seriously antagonized and quite fiercely debated. Senator Harris, of Kansas, will endeavor to get up his resolution regarding the re-organization of the Union Pacific railroad during the week, but in this he will be opposed, and is not likely to succeed.

The tariff conferees confidently expect to bring in the tariff bill by Thursday. The length of the debate on the report will depend upon how well the senate conferees may have succeeded in maintaining the integrity of the senate bill. The democrats and other opponents of the bill make no secret of their intention to oppose the adoption of the report if it appears that the amendments which they were instrumental in securing, putting cotton bagging, cotton ties, burlaps, paris green, etc., on the free list have been receded from.

The senate will insist upon final adjournment as soon as the tariff is disposed of.

The house will adjourn from Monday until Thursday. Its course thereafter will depend on the condition of the tariff bill.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The president has granted pardons in the following cases:

George Day, sentenced in North Dakota to three months' imprisonment for illegal timber cutting.

John Redmon, sentenced in Kentucky to 18 months for possessing counterfeit coin.

G. W. Tilley, sentenced in Georgia to three years and fine for pension frauds.

William Mims, sentenced in Alabama to 18 months and fine for illicit distilling.

Louis Flowers, sentenced in Indian territory to two years for cattle stealing.

Dave Hunt, sentenced in Tennessee to five years for post office stealing.

Pardons have been denied to James Pendleton, sentenced in Indian territory to eight years for theft.

Frank Caliahan, sentenced in the District of Columbia to three years for larceny.

Justine M. Dudley, sentenced in Utah to 15 years for incest.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The order of President Cleveland, issued last February, reducing the number of pension agencies in the United States from 18 to 9, will be revoked by President McKinley within a few days, probably early next week. As the original order was not to go into effect until September 1 next, the only result of the revocation will be to continue in force the present arrangement, allowing all 18 of the agencies to remain in operation.

Anglo-Egyptian Expedition to Be Augmented.

LONDON, July 12.—It is announced that the Anglo-Egyptian expedition is to be increased by 10,000 men. The column will capture Omdurman and reoccupy Darfur, Kordofan, Seunar, Bahr-El-Ghazal and other places. A number of the men will advance along the Khartoum side of the Nile.

Bequeaths His Estate to a Dog.

CHICAGO, July 12.—John Spooner, of this city, an old seafaring man, has made a will, bequeathing his estate of $1,700 to his dog Rover. The Guarantee Title and Trust Co. is named as trustee. The income of the property is to be used to support the dog and the principal, at the latter's death, to go to a sister in England.

Saw and Grist Mill Burned.

BERLIN, July 12.—Fire destroyed a large saw and grist mill and their contents connected with the plant of the Berlin Mills Co. early Sunday morning, entailing a loss of $100,000. Five hundred men are thrown out of work.

FOUR KILLED.

A Dynamite Bomb at Lexington Struck by a Hammer—Terrific Explosion Follows and Six Workmen Buried Through the Air.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 10.—A terrific explosion occurred at 11:30 Friday morning, where the street railway crosses the Cincinnati Southern railway on South Broadway, about one mile from the courthouse. Six colored track hands of the street railway were working at the crossing.

One workman with a pick struck a dynamite bomb 14 inches long and two inches in diameter, made of gas pipe. The explosion followed.

The men were buried right and left and torn to pieces in a horrible manner. The noise of the explosion attracted a crowd within a few minutes.

Every physician in the city was summoned to the scene, together with the police force, fire department, ambulance and the officials of the street railway.

Before the men could be loaded into the undertaker's wagon four of them, Wash Calloway, foreman; John Washington, Sam Tinsley and Willis Mason, were dead.

Cato Hutchinson and George Carter were mortally wounded, their legs and arms being broken and crushed, and they can not live.

Several bystanders were slightly injured by the flying debris.

Detective White, of the Cincinnati Southern, secured the remains of the bomb. It was a carefully made engine of destruction. White thinks it was intended to blow up the Cincinnati Southern train. It is much larger than any dynamite cartridge ever seen here and could be used for no peaceful purpose. White thinks it must have been placed in the crossing some time ago, to cause a wreck. There is no clew as to how it came there.

The men killed and injured were industrious and reliable colored citizens some of them having been in the employ of the street railroad for many years. All had families.

Rolla Hart, the young son of State Senator Rolla Hart, of Fleming county, who was riding by on a bicycle at the time of the explosion, was badly injured. He may die.

It develops that the men were examining the bomb to see what it was, when one struck it with a hammer to break it open.

WOODSIDE HOUSE MURDER.

Martin Thorn Makes a Complete Acknowledgment of His Connection With the Crime.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The Herald says that it is able to state on competent authority that Martin Thorn, in addition to the statements attributed to him in the confession given out at police headquarters Thursday night, made a complete acknowledgment of his connection with the crime for which he and Mrs. Nack have been indicted by the grand jury.

The information given to the Herald indicates clearly that Thorn's one concern, after his arrest, was the protection of Mrs. Nack.

"I am perfectly willing to die," Thorn told the detectives, "but I don't want anything to happen to her."

"Guldensuppe went to the Woodside house," said Thorn, "and met Mrs. Nack in the front yard. The rubber seemed to be uneasy. He had a presentiment that everything was not right, for he turned to Mrs. Nack and said:

"Augusta, I think there is some put up job here."

"'Why, William,' Thorn said Mrs. Nack replied, 'there is nothing of the kind. I don't see what should make you think that.'

"'Well, all right,' Guldensuppe replied, as he started into the house."

After the body was ready, my informant continued, still giving Thorn's alleged words, he called Mrs. Nack upstairs and the two packed the two sections of the trunk in the oilcloth.

Mrs. Nack, he said, helped him dispose of these packages, but she had nothing to do with the head, nor did she know what he did with it.

Thorn then denied again positively and emphatically that Mrs. Nack had anything to do with the killing of Guldensuppe.

The Herald further says that John Gotha betrayed Thorn through no motive of public duty, but because he feared that Thorn intended to kill him because of Gotha's knowledge of the murder.

Theodore Durrant's Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—The reprieve granted Theodore Durrant by Gov. Budd expires Friday, but the murderer of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams is in no danger of hanging. It does not matter whether Gov. Budd grants a further reprieve or not, as the granting of an appeal by the United States circuit court to the United States supreme court takes all power out of the state officials' hands until the highest federal court renders a decision in the case.

Searles Guilty of Contempt.

NEW YORK, July 10.—W. D. Searles, vice president of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co., in the supreme court Friday was adjudged guilty of contempt of court. The contempt arose out of Mr. Searles' refusal to answer questions before a commission which sat in a suit brought by the Lake Shore Elevated railroad, of Chicago, against the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co., to set aside the foreclosure of a mortgage on the road held by the trust company.

Lost a Small Fortune.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—Mrs. Swift, a lady from the east, has just arrived on the train and reported the loss of a small fortune. She was on the regular Overland train and when the sleeping car in which she had a berth came to a stop at the Oakland Mole, her purse and all her jewelry were gone. She informed the police that her purse, containing $3,700 in greenbacks, two earrings, in each of which was a diamond weighing two carats, and a diamond brooch valued at $150, was taken from under her pillow during the night.

GEN. DIAZ

Assumes Command of Insurgents in Pinar Del Rio.

Spaniards Destroy a Number of Small Forts; No Men to Man Them.

Eleven Thousand Sick Soldiers Have Been Sent to Spain Since January 1.—Another American Files Claims for Imprisonment and Damages

NEW YORK, July 12.—A dispatch to the Herald from Havana says: Maj. Gen. Pedro Diaz has assumed command of the insurgent forces in Pinar del Rio province. The rebel army, which province is being thoroughly reorganized and put in fighting trim to co-operate with the eastern army, if the latter succeeds in reaching Havana province.

The Spaniards have destroyed a number of small forts because they can not spare men to garrison them. An engagement took place last week near Artemisa, in which the Spaniards lost few. Over 700 sick and wounded men have been sent on to Havana. In Matanzas town there are over 5,000 concentrados, of which over 50 die every day.

The Spanish troops have been ordered not to eat mangos, but disobey the order, because they have nothing else for food. Mango aggravates fever. During the last ten days over 900 soldiers were taken to the hospital there.

The Spanish mail steamer leaving Havana Saturday carried 1,000 sick soldiers, many of whom will die on the way home. Eleven thousand sick soldiers have been sent to Spain since January 1. Another American citizen has filed a claim for false imprisonment and damages with the consul general. Jose Gonzales, for 30 years a resident of Philadelphia, claims $50,000 for being kept in prison for five months and $110,000 for damages to property.

A local paper published chiefly in the interest of the merchants in Havana makes a savage attack upon Dr. Brunner, the acting sanitary inspector appointed by the United States government, because he has reported that the importation of sugar from certain warehouses here might be responsible for an outbreak of yellow fever or smallpox in the United States. In an interview had with him, Dr. Brunner stated that his reason for making the report was that the sugar was shipped from warehouses that had been used as hospitals for fever and smallpox patients. The soldiers in many instances utilized the sugar sacks for beds, and he considered it unsafe to have sugar sacked and shipped in these same sacks.

Another Record-Breaker.

BALTIMORE, July 12.—Elmer C. Davis, of this city, Sunday succeeded in breaking the American 24-hour bicycle record which was held by Henry Smith, also of Baltimore. Davis covered 316 miles in the 24 hours ending at 5 p.m., Sunday afternoon, which is just two miles more than Smith's record breaking performance of May 9 last over the same course. Although breaking the 24-hour record, Davis did not succeed in getting any of the smaller records that have been made by Smith. Davis' riding of the last 100 miles is regarded as a wonderful exhibition of nervous energy. He is 23 years old, and weighs 109 pounds.

"Kid" Baldwin Dead.

CINCINNATI, July 12.—Word has just been received from Longview Insane asylum of the death at that institution of "Kid" Baldwin, the once famous catcher of the Cincinnati Red Stockings. He has a wife in Quincy, Ill., who recently applied for divorce. About three weeks ago he was sent from the hospital here to the asylum.

Charged With Murder.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 12.—William H. Gates, was arrested at his home in the town of Gates Sunday, charged with the murder of his wife, Carrie Gates. The two had not lived together for some time. Early Sunday morning Gates gained access to the room occupied by his wife and shot her.

Whipped and Tarred and Feathered.

OMAHA, Neb., July 12.—A special to the Bee from Beatrice, says: A. M. Winebrenner, who was arrested Saturday for cruelty to his stepdaughter, was taken from jail Sunday morning by a mob, horsewhipped and tarred and feathered.

Green and Wolcott Sign.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—George Green and Joe Wolcott, welterweights, have signed articles for a 20 round contest before the National Athletic club, on August 20, in this city. The men will weigh in at 145 pounds.

Three More Heat Victims.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 12.—There were three deaths and several prostrations from heat Saturday. The dead were: Bridget Keenan, Michael Berlie and Joseph Danchnlovic. At 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon the mercury registered 91 degrees.

Signed the Scale.

GREENVILLE, Pa., July 12.—The Amalgamated association scale was signed Saturday by the receiver operating the P. L. Kimberly mill, at this place, and work will be resumed in all departments on Monday.

Negro Gets a Fortune.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 12.—As a result of faithful services to Mrs. Clara Mariaux, Alexander Williamson, a Negro, is the recipient of her entire estate, and is thus the owner of $45,000 worth of property.

A Tornado in the Lima Oil Fields.

LIMA, O., July 12.—A tornado passed over the oil fields between here and St. Marys Saturday night. Many derricks were blown down, entailing a heavy loss but no lives were lost.

A Drop in the Temperature.

CINCINNATI, July 12.—The temperature has dropped here from 96 on Sunday night to 70 at midnight. It was not above 85 any time Monday.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, July 14, 1897.

Advertising Rates:
One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
W. L. RIDDELL. - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Richwood.

Most of the clover is cut.

Chinch bugs are destroying the corn.

B. L. Rice is spoken of as a candidate for representative.

D. Irvin Tanner, of Gunpowder, was in this neighborhood, Sunday.

A team on Daniel Bedinger's farm ran away, one day last week. One horse broke his leg and had to be killed; the other died from the effects of the heat.

Hathaway.

A. J. Utz is still able to ride around.

Wheat harvest is over in these parts.

Lee Huey is all smiles because it's another girl.

The little son of Walter Adams is very sick with flux.

Mrs. Lena Presser spent last Thursday with P. P. Neal and family.

Capt. Stephens has the finest crop of tobacco growing in this country.

Miss Carrie Woods is entertaining two young ladies from Bromley.

A most glorious rain fell here Monday week. It was a God send to the crops.

Mrs. Emma Marshall and Mrs. F. J. Rue spent last Tuesday with T. J. Stephens and family.

Master Willie Ryle, of Burlington, spent last week with master Riley Presser, of this place.

Florence

Miss Nell Crigler left, Sunday, for Harrodsburg, Ky.

Miss Katie Hall, of Covington, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Carpenter.

Quite a number of young people from Burlington and Bullittsville attended the picnic here on the 4th.

Cecil Finch and Miss Gladys and Mr. Roy Carpenter, of Chicago, are visiting Mr. Finch's parents for the summer.

Miss Minnie Huggins has returned from a pleasant visit of three months with friends and relatives at Covington.

A stranger passing through Florence and supposed to be suffering from the excessive heat wandered into a pasture of W. P. Carpenter and died Friday evening. The coroner arrived Sunday morning and from papers found in a package of old clothes he was supposed to Jim Gaines of Aurora, which supposition was confirmed by the Aurora authorities.

Rabbit Hash.

Richard T. Stephen's little son Lee, fell off a horse last Friday and broke his arm.

Miss Stella Clore spent Saturday evening and Sunday with Miss Addie Stephens.

Jack Wingate's horse was badly cut with a wire fence. It took thirty-five stitches to sew up the place, but it is improving now.

Several from this place have been attending the meetings of the salvation army at Rising Sun, but I believe none have been converted yet.

Mrs. J. J. Stephens and Mrs. Polk Sullivan were called to Lawrenceburg last week on account of the sickness of their little grand-daughter.

Robt. Piatt, son of Jacob Piatt a former tobacco manufacturer of East Bend, but now a resident of Covington, was buried at East Bend church last Tuesday.

Mrs. Jessie Wilson and little son, James A., of Lawrenceburg, Ind., are spending a few days during the hot weather with her father-in-law, James A. Wilson.

Mr. Editor, while others are presenting the claims of their candidates for the Legislature, Rabbit Hash has a few choice men capable of representing this county, and I would suggest T. C. S. Ryle, Cal. Riddell and Richard H. Stephens, all good men and farmers. The people of this precinct are tired of having doctors or lawyers representing them.

Utzinger.

Boys, don't monkey with the band wagon if you don't want to get grease on you.

The new flouring mill at Lawrenceburg has a capacity of 1,700 barrels per day. It is owned by a Boston firm.

Lawrenceburg has two saloon keepers that weigh 900 pounds They are Hug Knorr and Andy Bidner.

It was said that when McKinley was elected the mines would shut down. The only one that was started was the Corbett-Fitzsimmon mill at Carson City.

Nick Oberting was over the other day hunting a biting dog. He wants one that will bite a tramp. Solon Early gave him one the bite of which is as poison as that of a blue gum-nigger.

A few nights ago a Cincinnati policeman killed an innocent man for a burglar, the other day one of the finest covered himself all over with glory by arresting two deaf mutes for making loud, boisterous noise on the streets.

Several years ago S. W. Tolin and T. J. Barnett went up in the eastern part of the State to visit relatives that live in Powell and Estill counties. While there they joined the Lexington Gun Club on a hunting expedition further up in the mountains of Kentucky and West Virginia. The gun club offered a premium of a nice breech-loading shot gun to the first one of the party killing a bear. They stationed Tolin and Barnett on a high knoll all covered with scrub pines, while they went farther into the forest with dogs in search of bruin. Tolin and Barnett got very restless, but along in the evening Tolin saw what he supposed to be a monster grizzly strolling along the mountain. He elevated his army musket loaded with buckshot, took aim at the bear and fired. The bear went tumbling down the mountain side. "We've killed a bear," shouted Barnett. "We, h—ll," said Tolin. "I killed it." They started to look for the dead bear, but to their surprise they found that they had killed a settler's scrub calf, and it had rolled down almost on the owner's cabin. The mountaineer was very indignant and wanted pay for his calf. It was then that Tolin wanted Barnett to assume part of the responsibility of killing the calf, which he did. They paid for it and stayed with the mountaineer for several days, and help eat the bear.

Petersburg.

Boliver Shinkle, of Normansville, came up to see his mother a few days ago.

Snelling and Brooks commenced threshing wheat at Major Stott's Monday the 12th.

Rev. Harris has had the pleasure of a visit by his brother of late. He is also a minister.

James McKnight has been resting awhile, but has gone back to his place as fireman on the Str. Workum.

J. J. Ferris' wheat is not extra this season, but he can show as fine oats as can be found in this part of the country.

Wm. Coyle, of Pitsburg, was greeting his old friends here, last week. He looks like time had dealt kiudly with him.

Str. Pauline took a trip to Hamilton, last Thursday. The Workum didn't go to the city last Friday, on account of the painters finishing some work on her hull.

A very serious cutting affray occurred, last Sunday a week, on the place known as the McKenzie farm. Webb Lambkin got into a difficulty with his father-in-law, Mr. Ross Shinkle, and was making gashes with a large knife, when Mrs. Shinkle attempted to take her husband's part. Lambkin made at her and cut some very ugly gashes across her thigh. Dr. Tilly was called and dressed the wounds which he did not think serious enough to prove fatal.

Bellevue.

Miss Katie Arnold is improving.

Mr. A. Corbin is thought to be some better.

Dougias Rice was with his family, last week.

The hum of the thresher is heard again. Wheat is good.

Dr. Smith and bride were visiting her father, J. M. Moody, Saturday and Sunday.

Orlando Snyder and family, of Petersburg, were the guests of Mr. A. Corbin, last Suuday.

E. L. Grant and wife, of Petersburg, were the guests of their sisters and brothers here, Sunday.

Lum Popham says the sun has been full for the last two weeks and hopes it will soon quarter.

F. A. Utz passed here one day last week, with 50 nice lambs, which he bought of James Rogers.

Misses Maime and Grace Rogers and Clayton Rogers, of Louisville, are at home with their parents spending vacation.

Revs. Davis, of Rising Sun, T. L. Utz and Johnnie McAtee, filled the pulpit in the Baptist church here, last Sunday morning and evening.

Uncle Henry Bradford, colored, buried a son two weeks ago, and last Sunday buried a daughter. Heart and lung trouble were the causes of both deaths.

Miss Julia Smith, of Ashbyfork, was calling on friends here, one day last week, as a farewell visit. She expects to make her future home in Indiana with her brother, Dr. Geo. Smith and wife.

We favor a convention to be held in Burlington the first Monday in October to nominate a candidate for representative. Now the question comes, who to nominate? We say the Hon. J. G. Furnish, and I think we will be about right, as he has been tried by the voters of the county and found always at work for his constituents.

Francesville.

Joseph Graham had a horse to die, last week.

Dr. Sayre and Mike Clore, of Hebron, were in town Wednesday.

There was a baptising in Sand Run creek, last Sunday, by the colored folks.

Irvin Keen, of Cincinnati, was visiting his cousin, Add Batterson, last Sunday and Monday.

What is the matter with Hon. N. S. Walton to fill the vacancy in the Democratic ticket made by the death of Dr. Grubbs?

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Graves were visiting Mrs. Graves' sister, Mrs. Mollie Davis, of Cincinnati, two or three days last week.

Lightning killed a horse on J. L. Riley's farm, Monday week. The wind damaged the corn to a considerable extent and the rain washed the ground badly.

Our friend of Bullittsville has not yet told us of that wedding he spoke about a month or two ago. We hope we will be able to tell him of one before many weeks roll by.

As a certain young lady of this neighborhood, who has been sick for some time, is rapidly recovering, it is safe to say that our friend Cave Clore, is at this time one of the happiest men in the State.

If one of Bullittsville's young ladies could be an eye-witness of Temp Graves as he toils in his corn field near here, from sun up till sun down, it is certain he would never again have to do his own cooking.

A stone fell on Col. Batterson's foot while he was working, one day last week, causing that member to swell up and pain him so that a surgical operation was necessary. This was performed and "most of his foot was removed" so the Colonel says, "much to his relief." He was doing well when last heard from.

The rain last Monday week, stopped the game of ball between Francesville and Taylorsport at the fourth inning—score 7 to 3 in favor of the home team. This is the third game these clubs have played, Francesville won the other two and would undoubtedly have won this one had not the rain interfered.

While passing through town, one evening last week, laden with sacks, harness and a banjo, a horse Jim Finney, colored, was riding, stumbled and fell, but Jim being in a hurry moved on over and alighted on his head in the road, scattering banjo, sacks and harness in every direction. These were picked up by one kind hearted citizen, and he remounted, notwithstanding, both his head and the road were in a bad condition.

Verona.

Crops look well after the recent rains.

Mr. Scott Smith was calling at West Walton, last Sunday.

Edgar Powers had a fine yearling colt struck by lightning.

Hon. E. L. Hale, of Ohio, is organizing a National Grange at Walton.

L. C. Roberts marketed quite a lot of raspberries this season at $2.30 a bu.

Scott Myers' threshing machine started for the river bottoms Monday.

The public school building has been reduced in size to a one story frame of three rooms.

Dan Vest has disappeared in some unknown way. Any information concerning his whereabouts will be gladly received.

Misses Edna Ransom and Lizzie O'Neal were the pleasant guests of Misses Bertha and Eva Roberts, last Saturday and Sunday.

Walton has thirty-two widows which is more widows to the population than any other town in the state. Williamstown it is said has thirty.

The telephone wire between Charles and J. T. Griffiths' was struck by lightning, last Saturday afternoon. The shock was distinctly felt at each of their homes. No damage was done except the wire was broken.

The Christian Endeavor Society of our burg will give a Rally and Basket Dinner at New Bethel Church, Friday, July 30th, 1897. Good music and splendid speakers have been secured and nothing will be spared to make this occasion pleasant to all who may attend. Come old, come young and bring your baskets well filled, and spend a pleasant day with the Y. P. C. E. S.

Erlanger.

Capt. John Daniels and wife were the guests of Mrs. Louis Morelli, Sunday.

This place is being well patronized by summer boarders. Six houses have quite a number of guests.

Rev. Hoover has large attendances at his services on Sundays. He will preach next Suuday at 11 a. m.

Eastern Star Lodge will have their regular meeting Saturday evening. A good attendance is desired as business of importance will be before the lodge.

Lafayette Lodge K. of P. installed the following officers last meeting: C. W. Zumbiel, C. C.; A. J. Wyss, V. C.; Dr. McCulium, Prelate; Jno. S. Zumbiel, M. of W.; Fred Ficke, M. at A. Speeches were made by the newly elected officers and refreshments were served.

Constance.

Mr. Arthur Peno is happy—it is a 12 pouud boy.

Col. Benark and wife spent the 4th and 5th with relatives in Covington.

Mr. Sam Peno had a piece of iron to pierce his eye, which was removed by Dr. Murst.

Louis Teeters cut his arm very badly while skining dead horses at the desicating factory.

Wm. Tanner is back from Massachusetts. He sprained his arm and had to give up his job.

Master Harry Klassner and Miss Macie Wilson were visiting friends at Milan, Ind., last week.

Mr. Wm. Spaiding's oldest son, Davis, was drowned, last Friday evening. He was buried Suuday.

John Goines fell from the tressell works at Joues & Co.'s desicating factory and injured his side.

Rev. Sutcliff, of Tennessee, arrived Friday and began his meeting Sunday night at the Christian church.

Sid Goins, a fisherman, came near drowning, one day last week, by his boat capsizing. He was rescued by J. Moore and Chas. Herbstrepth.

Reports say the man whom Charles Kottmyer struck with a stone is in a dying condition at the city hospital.

H. C. McNeal took down the pole erected at the Hill School House to place a flag on, and no flag was put up.

R. H. Hood, of Nighttown, Ind., was at home on a visit to his parents, last week. He reports James Loder doing well.

Ed Hetzell and Wm. Reeves came near drowning, last Sunday. The boat capsized with them and threw them into the river. F. Prable went to their rescue and brought them to shore.

A crowd came down from Ludlow on the 5th, with a juvenile drum corps, to assist at the flag raising at the Constance school house; there were several prominent speakers among them—Mr. and Mrs. Perceville, of Ludlow, Mr. Yaeger, of Sedamsville. The crowd was highly entertained by the witty remarks of the speakers. Everything passed off quietly. They intended to go on to the Hill and raise a pole, but the rain made them postpone it until some other time.

Union.

P. T. Fall will be in this vicinity for awhile.

Rev. O. M. Huey, of Carrollton, spent Sunday with Dr. Crouch.

Miss Quick, of Kenton county, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stephens.

Mrs. Burl Conner returned Monday from a most enjoyable trip to Nashville.

Mr. J. G. Blanton and wife, and Hal Blanton, of Erlanger, attended church here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Corbin and Mrs. Anderson, of Florence, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Lizzie Huey.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Garrison entertained, Wednesday evening in honor of their neice, Miss Kate Willis.

Mrs. T. B. Mathews and Mrs. Will Taliaferro, of Petersburg, were guests of Mrs. John Garrison, last Thursday.

In the afternoon a gay party was formed in their honor and "Keeomezu Springs visited. The Springs are beautifully improved; an elegant hotel and delightful grounds and the association all that could be desired.

Walton.

Esq. W. L. Norman, one of Boone county's oldest and wealthiest citizens, died at his home at this place July 8, 1897, at 1 p. m. He was born in Virginia, and came to Kentucky about 60 years ago. He served as an agent for the Route, who owned a large amount of land in this section of country. He accumulated a vast fortune and leaves the whole of it to his wife and four sons, who survive him. Although Mr. Norman had never made a profession of faith, he was a great Bible reader, and was well versed in the scripture. His remains were laid to rest in the Baptist cemetery, and the funeral services were conducted by the Rev. L. Johnson, July 10th, at 11 a. m.

The Sunday school social, given by Bro. Myers, the superintendent and wife, was very much enjoyed by all who participated. The cream and cake were pronounced fine.

Hebron.

Farmers are busy harvesting.

The intense heat made work unpleasant, last week.

Miss Elsie Baxter, of Ludlow, is visiting Perry Aylor and family.

There have been two applicants for the school at this place—Profs. William Gaines and G. S. Hann.

Nearly cool enough for fire Tuesday morning.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Elijah Parker's Assignee, Plff.
vs
Elijah Parker, &c., Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-house door in Burlington, Boone county, Ky., to the highest bidder at Public Sale on Monday, the 2d day of August, 1897, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being County Court day, upon a credit of 6, 12 & 18 months, the following described property, to-wit:

A tract of land lying and being in Boone co, Ky., and bounded thus: Beginning at a stone a corner of Richard Parker in a line of G. R. Berkshire; thence with Parkers line, s 78¾ e 32.49 chains to a stone; thence s 30¾ e 25.32 chains to a stone a corner of A. V. Parker; thence with his liue s 53 w 35¼ chs to a stone in the Petersburg and Bellevue road; thence with the road n 64¾ w 14.65 chs, n 46¼ w 2.75 chs. n 83¼ w 5 chs, n 70½ w 2.95 chs, n 52¼ w 2.75 chs to a stone in said road; thence with the road that leads to G. R. Berkshire's farm; n 7¾ e 3.75 chs, n 18¾ e 11 chs to a stone, n 7¾ e 8.42 chs to a stone, n 10¼ e 10.83 chs to a tripple willow; thence n 22 e 5.21 chs to the beginning containing 170 acres, 2 rood and 2 poles.

The above tract was divided into two lots. The first lot is bounded thus: Beginning at a stone in the center of the Petersburg & Bellevue road a corner of A. V. Parker; thence with said road n 64¾ w 14.75 chs, n 46¼ w 2.75 chs, n 83¼ w 1 chain to a stone in said road corner of lot No. 2; thence with the line of lot No. 2 n 8 e 25.31 chs to a stone another corner with the lines of lot No. 2; thence s 88 e 34.25 chs. to a stone, an old corner between the John Terrill and Richard Parker tracts of land; thence s 30 e 18.4 chs to a stone a corner of A. V. Parker; thence with his liue s 53 w 35¼ chs to the beginning containing 101a, 3r, 28p.

Lot No. 2—Beginning at a stone a corner of Richard Parker in a line of G. R. Berkshire; thence with said Parker's line s 78¾ e 32.49 chs to a stone; thence s 30¾ e 12.28 chs to a stone in the old corner of the John Terrill and Richard Parker tracts; thence with the line of lot No. 1, n 88 w 34.25 chs to a stone corner of lot No. 1; thence s 8 w 25 31 chs to a stone a corner of lot No. 1, in the Bellevue & Petersburg road; thence with the road n 83¼ w 4 chs, n 70½ w 2.95 chs, n 52¼ w 2.75 chs to a stone in said road; thence with the road that leads to G. R. Berkshire's farm, n 7¾ e 3.75 chs, n 18¾ e 11 chs to a stone, n 7¾ e 8.42 chs to a stone, n 10¼ e 10.83 chs to a tripple willow; thence n 22 e 5.21 chs to the beginning containing 68a, 2r, 32p.

The above land will be sold free of any and all rights of homestead or dower, and entire possession will be given March 1st, 1898, with privilege of sowing small grain in the fall preceding. I will offer the two lots separately and will then offer the entire tract and will accept the bid or bids that will bring the most money.

For the purchase price the purchase, with approved security or securities must execute bonds, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

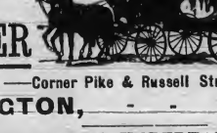
J. B. BERKSHIRE,
Master Commissioner.

What it Will Do.
FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.
Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.
Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,
MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.
For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

S. Baldon's Adm'r Plff.
vs } Equity
Parthena Baldon, &c., Defts.



Notice is hereby given that I will begin my sittings at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., on the 17th day of July, 1897, to hear proof of claims, under the order of reference in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 3d day of August, 1897. All persons having claims against S. Baldon's estate will present them to me proven as by law required.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C.

GO TO
HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,
A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.
GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.
Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.
A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times
Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

E. F. HARMEYER,
535 Walnut St. - - CINCINNATI, OHIO.
—IS THE PLACE TO BUY—
PLOWS, HARROWS, CORN DRILLS, CULTIVATORS, HAY RAKES, &c.,
We also have the 'EUREKA' AND OTHER MOWERS.
☞Don't fail to see us if you want anything in our line.☜

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDER- EMBALMER,
TAKER
—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,—
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

QUEEN & CRESCENT.
During the Tennessee Centennial and International Exposition at Nashville, Tenn., a low rate special tarift has been established for the sale of tickets from Cincinnati and other terminal points on the Queen & Crescent Route.
Tickets are on sale daily until further notice to Chattanooga at $6.75 one way or $7.20 round trip from Cincinnati, the round trip tickets being good seven days to return; other tickets, with longer return limit, at $9.90 and $13.50 for the round trip.
These rates enable the public to visit Nashville and other Southern points at rates never before offered. Vestibuled trains of the finest class are at the disposal of the passenger, affording a most pleasant trip, and enabling one to visit the very interesting scenery and important battle grounds in and about Chicdamauga, Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga National Millitary Park. Tickets to Nashville to visit the Centennial can be repurcha-ed at Chattanooga for $3.40 round trip. Ask your ticket agent for tickets via Cincinnati and the Q. & C. Route South or write to
W. C. RINEARSON, G. P. Agt., Cincinnati, O.

Farm for Sale!
—(o)—
CONTAINING SIXTY ACRES
House of 5 rooms, well and cistern, Good Two Story Barn with Covered Drive-Way and Basement, Large Cistern, never failing Stock water. No better Farming Land in Boone County.
Apple Orchard of Selected Trees.
Location, 1¼ miles south of Florence, on Lexington pike. All buildings within 50 yards of pike, (formerly owned by John Northcutt.)
For terms and all information call on or address
G. N. BUFFINGTON,
Buffington, Ky.
By order of David T. Buffington.

Order of Reference.
Boone Circuit Court, Ky
Simons Baldon's Adm'r. Plaintiff,
vs
Parthena Baldon, &c.. Defts.
This cause is now refered to the Master Commissioner of the Boone Circuit Court with the following directions: 1st. He will advertise in the Boone Co. Recorder the time and place of his sittings and he will hear proof of and receive claims against the estate of the decedent Simons Baldon. 2d. He will audit and settle the accounts of the administrator, John D. Baldon. 3d. He will ascertain what property the decedent owned at the time of his death, and he will report his actions herein at the August term, 1897, of the Boone Circuit Court.
Given under my hand as clerk of said court, this May 12th, 1897.
J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

NOTICE.
Cincinnati, O., April 5, 1897.
To the Tobacco Growers of Boone County:
I am connected with the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., which includes four houses—the Globe, Morris, Bodmann, Cincinnati Miami. Prize your tobacco and ship it to one of the four houses and receive the highest market price for same. If you have no preference ship it to the Cincinnati Miami, and I will give it my personal attention. Hogsheads and presses furnished. Address me at 110, 112 West Front St., Cincinnati, Ohio. oct-7 O. W. ADAMS.

RHEUMATISM LINIMENT.
L. MORELLI,
Box 123, - ERLANGER, KY.
AGENTS WANTED.
☞Price, 50 Cents Per Bottle.

Steam :-: Ferry
—AT—
TAYLORSPORT.
I now have in operation at Taylorsport, a NEW, COMMODIOUS and SWIFT Steam Ferry Boat, equal to the best on the River. New Approaches on each side of the river. Prompt services rendered the public by experienced and accommodating employes.
july-26 S. H. GOODIN.

Order of Reference.
Boone Circuit Court, Ky.
L. Dwyer's Adm'r., &c. Plffs.
vs
L. Dwyer's creditors, &c., Defts.
This cause is now refered to J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this county, who will ascertain and report the amount, kind and value of the estate of the decedent, whether real, personal or mixed and where the same is located. He will ascertain and report what debts, if any were owing by decedent at the time of his death and to that end all persons holding claims against said estate will present same to said Berkshire proven according to law on or before August 1st, 1897, and said Berkshire will give due notice of the time and place of his sittings through the Boone Co., Recorder. He will also settle the accounts of Meilison R. Dwyer, administratrix, and report among other things the cost of administration.
Witness my hand as clerk of said court, this April 30th, 1897.
J. W. DUNCAN, Clk. B. C. C.

Farm for Sale.
Lying on the Beaver pike, Boone county, Ky., ¼ mile from Richwood Station on the C. N. & T. P., railroad. Said farm contains 115 acres in a good state of cultivation, with a good frame dwelling of seven rooms and cellar, cistern and well in the yard, barn and other necessary out buildings, orchard and various kinds of fruit trees; known as the W. H. Smith farm. Those wishing to purchase call on or address.
LEWIS RICE, Richwood, Ky.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

Local News.

The growing crops need a good rain.

A small crop of potatoes is being predicted.

It was awfully hot weather for harvesting.

Blackberries are ripening. They need a good rain.

The mail wagon now leaves Burlington at 7 a. m. and 2 p. m.

The mercury had no difficulty in reaching the 100 mark last week.

A great many horses have been killed by the excessive heat this summer.

There was considerable change in the temperature from Friday to Monday morning.

Quite a delegation went from here to Bellevue Thursday night to witness Price's opera.

"It's hot," has been spoken 153,684,921,489,004,321,684,303,875 times during the last week.

Some commenced cutting oats, last week. There is complaint of the straw being very short.

For Sale—Within the next ten days at stock hog price, five 1-year-old Chester White boars. John M. Popham, Constance, Ky.

The Sheriff has had notices printed which he will post up throughout the county that the taxpayers may know when and where to meet him.

A good crop of clover has been harvested, and the timothy is about ready. There are some good meadows, and the crop will be superior to that of last year.

Summer resorts open. Coney Island; The Lagoon; The Zoo, etc. Championship game base ball the reds vs Washingtons. Ask agents or see small bills for particulars.

The literary department of the Epworth League, had another interesting meeting last Friday evening. The young people are taking considerable interest in it.

The houses of Dr. Smith, J. H. Ryle and Mrs. S. P. Brady were entered by some unkuown person or persons, last Wednesday night. They were heard at each place, but nothiug was taken by them.

We have been informed that the RECORDER omitted some of the names on Judge Bott's call, published last week. A careful comparison with the copy shows every name thereon was printed with the call.

Geo. West, who lost an arm by the explosion of a shotgun cartridge he was capping, while working for Hon. J. A. Gaines, several years ago, fell one day last week while painting a house in Bromley, and broke his remaining arm.

Our Utzinger correspondent sends us a strange fly that has made its appearance in that neighborhood, and is making life a burden to the live stock down there. It is not so large quite as a horse fly, and is covered with a thick, fuzzy like substance.

The balloon that made a successful ascensiou here on the night of the 5th inst., was returned to town the next day, and on Tuesday night it was sent up again, and falling near town was brought in, but when the third ascension was attempted it caught fire in mid-air and was destroyed.

The Recorder from oversight failed, last week, to announce the marriage of Dr. Geo. R. Smith, son of the late Robert Smith, and Miss Etta Moody, daughter of Col. John M. Moody. They are both most worthy young people and have many friends who hope success will attend them through life.

We met our friend F. M. Howlett at Erlanger, one day last week. He is a close observer, and reports not more than 50 per cent. of a crop of tobacco set out in his neighborhood, and gave it as his opinion that which was set will not make over 50 per cent. yield per acre. He spoke more encouraging in regard to the corn.

H. W. Harrison, dentist, of Rising Sun, Ind., will be in Burlington on the first and third Monday in each month, to do work for those who wish anything in his line. He will be here two days each visit. He is a son of the late R. F. Harrison, of Carrollton, and a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Dentistry at Philadephia. He is highly recommended in his profession.

Low rate Put-in-Bay Excursion.—Low rate round trip tickets on sale over the Queen & Crescent Route and connecting lines for excursion of July 19th (leaving Chattanooga the night of the 18th.) $12.25 round trip from Chattanooga, $11.35 from Dayton, $10.75 from Rockwood; $10.55 from Harriman Junction, $8.60 from Somerset, $7.00 from Lexington and Georgetown. Good six days to return Ask agents for particulars.

A serious cutting scrape occurred in the Petersburg neighborhood, a few daye since, in which a woman was the victim of a knife used by a man with terrible effect. Webb Lampkin, who lives near the Lawrenceburg ferry, was in his cups, and engaged in a quarrel with his father-in-law, Ross Shinkle, when Mrs. Shinkle tried to stop the fuss and was out in seven different places, one of the wounds on her hip being eleven inches long. To close the wounds it required 27 stitches. Lampkin skipped out.

Joseph M. Birkie, of Bellevue, reports rather an extraordinary result of the hot weather, last week. He and his boys run a huckster wagon to Covington, collecting the produce about the middle of the week. Last week when the boys came in from the country tour Joe heard the cries of young chickens in the egg box, and an investigation showed that the heat, instead of cooking the eggs, had converted several of them into young chickens. He is not certain whether the fresh eggs were of the quick hatching variety, or whether the sun's heat possessed a hatching property heretofore unknown.

It is our painful duty to again record the death of one of the county's best citizens, Mr. Aylotte Snyder, of the Florence neighborhood. He died of a complication of diseases last Friday about 11 a. m., in his 64th year. He was born in Virginia, and when quite young he came to this county with his widowed mother. Mr. Snyder was a quiet, unassuming man, a good neighbor, honored and loved by everyone who was acquainted with him. His wife was a daughter of the late Gabriel Jones, and deep is her grief over the demise of the noble husband. The funeral services were conducted at Hopeful church last Sunday morning by Elders M. L. Aylor and E. Stephens, after which the burial occurred in the cemetery at that place, in the presence of many sorrowing friends. A good man has gone to his reward.

James Gaines, an Aurora, Indiana, draymau was found dead in a field on the Lexington 'pike just above Florence, last Saturday. He had been drinking and it is supposed he was overcome with heat. He left Aurora last Monday week with his horse and dray, going to Covington by the way of Burlington and Florence. At Covington he disposed of his horse and dray, returning to Florence last Friday with a pony. He took a drink and eat dinner at the Cahill house, and passed on up the pike, and just above Florence he entered a field in which he was seem rambling about without his hat. He was finally prostrated in a fence corner near the road, where his groans attracted the attention of a boy who went to him, but left him, thinking he was only drunk and that he would come around all right again in a few hours. Late Saturday afternoon the boy who saw Gaines on Friday chanced to be passing along the road again and happened to look where he saw the man the day before, and was horrified to discover that he was lying there dead. The alarm was given and coroner Murat was notified and held an inquest Sunday morning, and that afternoon undertaker Allison burried the remains at Florence. When found Gaines had about $1 50 in money on his person, besides some papers that revealed his identity. The body had swollen to immeuse proportions before it was buried. The following is the verdict of the coroner's jury.

"We, the jury, find from the evidence, and return a verdict in the case of an unknown man found on W. P. Carpenter's farm, supposed to be that of James Gaines, from Aurora, Ind., agree that he came to his death by being overcome by heat.

"Signed—T. B. Castleman, foreman; W. S. Hogan, W. H. Tanner, W. S. Williams, W. J. Cody, J. U Carpenter; Dr. A. A. Murat, Coroner."

The following account of the marriage of Robert D. Hayes, son of "Billie Hickey" Hayes, a few yeas since a citizen of Francesville, this county, is copied from the Brownstown (Ind.) Banner:

"Robert D. Hayes, of this place, but employed at Louisville, succeeded admirably in surprising his relatives and friends here, as to his matrimonial intentions. He came home from Louisville Saturday morning, ostensibly to spend the Fourth; but left for Mitchell that night, and on Sunday at 1:30 o'clock p. m. was united in marriage to Miss Belle Peters, of Greenfield. The ceremony was performed at the M. E. parsonage in Mitchell, by Rev. W. M. Zaring; the bride's father and brother being present. The newly wedded couple arrived here on the afternoon train and stopped with the groom's parents, Bob having previously informed them that he would bring his affiance here on a visit, but did not make mention of their marriage until a short time before their departure Monday morning, although his family had suspicioned such was the case.

"The bride is the only daughter of Wm. Peters, a contractor at Greenfield. She is a pretty and refined young lady, who left a most favorable impression with those who met her. The groom is our own clever and genial "Bob" Hayes, who holds a splendid position in the wholesale meat market in Louisville, in which city they expect to reside, but will not go to housekeeping before September.

"We join their many friends in extending congratulations; may success and happiness attend them through life is our earnest wish."

FISCAL COURT.

The Fiscal Court was in session on 6th inst., with Judge Stephens presiding and Justices O. W. Gaines, M. B. Green, E. Roberts and H. Bannister present, and the following business was transacted:

W. L. Riddell allowed $4 for printing blanks necessary for sheep claims.

Judge Stephens and Esq. M. B. Green committee appointed to examine road near James Rogers' made a verbal report which was accepted and the committee discharged.

Sheriff given further time in which to make settlement.

T. E Roberts committee on pauper practice in Walton precinct, made a verbal report which was accepted and the committee discharged.

It appearing that the committee's report in regard to establishing line between Boone and Kenton counties, filed at the April term, 1897, has been lost or mislaid, the committee was directed to prepare and file another report.

T. E. Robert's claim for trial of a misdemeanor case was rejected.

Blyth & Clutterbuck allowed $3.90 for merchandise furnished county.

W. E. Vest directed to employ a Justice of the Peace to assist him in having stones set marking dividing line between Boone and Kenton counties.

J. F. Blyth allowed $500 towards defraying expenses of county infirmary.

C. L. Crisler, jailer, allowed account of $23 70, and $40 on salary as janitor of court house.

Motion for allowance to maintain Jas. Howard, a blind man, outside of the poor-house, was rejected.

An allowance of $25 was made for the maintainance of John Lewis Arnoid outside of the poor-house, to be paid by the sheriff quarterly.

Following allowances made for work rendered in locating the line between Boone and Kenton counties: W. E. Vest, $100 on claim; T. E. Roberts, $3.75; Jeff Stephens, $25; Geo. O'Hara, $10; E. S. McKim, Alfred Stephens, Jack Sandford, T. W. Finch, J. B. Berkshire and John Conner each allowed $1.50 and Ed Laws, $4.50, Hal Snyder, $3, as chain carriers.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,

THE LEADERS IN LOW PRICES.

IN GROCERIES:

Standard Granulated Sugar, 20 pounds, $1.00
Arbuckle Coffee, per pound, - - 13c
Good Canned Corn, per can, - - - 05c

In Dry Goods, Notions, Etc.,

We have the Latest Styles at the Lowest Prices.

IN BINDER TWINE we lead them all.
Pure Sisal, per 100 pounds, $5.75.

We have bargains in all Departments, but have not room to mention Prices. Please favor us with a call at

UNION, - - - - KENTUCKY.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Lee Gaines, of Kensington, was in town Friday.

Atty. Castleman was in Florence Saturday morning.

Mrs. M. L. Riddell is visiting her sister in Walton.

John T. Craven, of Erlanger, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. Virginia Huey and Mrs. M. S. Rice, are quite ill.

Sheriff Roberts and Sidney Gaines were in the city yesterday.

Henley Smith and little son of Cincinnati, are guests of Dr. Smith.

Miss Fannie Finch has returned from her visit to Williamstown.

D. E. Castleman is engaged taking depositions at Walton, this week.

Mrs. Clarissa Ashley, of Florence, was in Burlington, last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ryle, of Erlanger, were visiting in Burlington, last Friday.

M. T. Graves, of Bullittsville, was among the visitors to Burlington, last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams are visiting Mrs. Williams' mother, Mrs. B. S Kirkpatrick.

Miss Fannie Willis, of Bullittsburg, was the guest of Mrs. H. W. Blyth, one day last week.

Miss Sadie Crisler returned home, last Saturday, after a week's visit with her grand-parents.

J. N. Dickerson, Republican county committeeman, has been appointed postmaster at Verona.

Miss Lizzie Parker, of Gasburg, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. P. E. Cason, for the past week

C. G. Smith, of the Hebron neighborhood, was among the first arrivals in town Saturday morning.

Dr. W. W. Smith, of Big Bone, has moved to Louisville, where he will engage in the practice of his profession.

Mrs. Amanda Crisler, aged 80, years has just completed for her son R. S. Crisler, a quilt that contains 2,125 pieces.

Miss Julia Dinsmore and Mrs. Selms, of the Bellevue neighborhood, were among the visitors to town Saturday morning.

Lewis Morelli and wife, of Erlanger, were in town Friday. Mr. Morelli was looking after business for the Erlanger Building and Loan Association.

T. M. Rich. of Big Bone, was in town Saturday. He reported no resorters at the Springs this summer, consequently everything is very quiet there.

Rupert Rogers and two sisters, of Walton, are guests at C. C. Roberts'. Mr. Rogers is quite lame, his horse having fallen down and cripped him several days ago.

John Williams, of the Union neighborhood, spent last Thursday at the Capital. His sojourn was protracted by the intense heat for which he, like the rest of us, has an aversion.

Arthur Rouse and Gordon McKim started to West Liberty, Ohio, last Wednesday morning, on their wheels. It was extremely hot for cycling, but they entertained no fears ou that account.

Some good detective work recovered Orin Phipps' money reported lost last week.

L. N. Crigler, owner of the Boone House, was in town a few days ago, and, looking the property over, concluded to make repairs on the building to an extent that will give it decidedly the appearance of a hotel, and put it in a condition that the landlord can give his guests the accommodations they require. If Mr. Crigler's present plans are carried out the house will be changed and improved so as to make it look like another structu.e.

B. Y. P. U. Chattanooga, Tenn., July 15-18, 1897. A great meeting at a great convention city. A great railway, the Queen and Crescent is the only direct line to it. Solid vestibuied trains from Cincinnati (109 miles shorter than any other line). Through Pullman from Louisville (Southern R'y). Superb tracks and service. Low rates. Send your name to the unersigned for printed matter and information.

C. W. Zell, D. P. A., Fourth and Race Sts., Cincinnati, O. W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

The Salvation Army made its first appearance in Rising Sun last Wednesday. They raised a spacious tent on the river bank near first street, marched in the evening to the intersection of Main and Market streets, making music as they went, and held a service there consisting of brass band and vocal music, prayer and exhortations. They went to the Methodist Church and continued their services with a numerous congregation in attendance. Since then they have followed the same procedure each evening except that after there street service they go to their tent and continue worship there. There band contains ten players and is known as "the Ohio and Kentucky Divisional Brass Band of the Salvation Army.—Rising Sun Local.

Citizens, of Ludlow, particularly carpenters, are enjoying hugely a ridiculous game of fencing which has been going on for over a week between two neighbors on Lind street named August Herbst and Fred Webb. The contest began over a trivial quarrel about their children. Until this quarrel an ordinary picket fence divided the two lots. Herbst first ran up a six foot board fence with a barbed wire top, then Webb went him one better, putting a fence up on stilts, the top of which is twelve feet. Yesterday Herbst began the building of a fence still higher, which is to be ornamented on Webb's side with various hideous characters in black and white and surmounted with a skull and cross-bones.—Commonweith.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.

Quarterly Report of the Erlanger Deposit Bank of Erlanger, Ky., at the close of business June 30th, 1897:

RESOURCES:

Loans and Discounts, less loans to Directors	$59,991 96
Loans to Directors (officers not included)	1,075 00
Loans to Officers	1,500 00
Overdrafts, unsecured	58 53
Due from Nat. Banks	13,017 17
Due from State Banks, &c
Banking House and Lot	3,780 70
Mortgages	21,130 00
Specie	988 21
Currency	2,700 00
	3,638 21
Furniture and Fixtures	1,785 15
Current Expenses
	$105,976 72

LIABILITIES.

Capital Stock paid in	$50,000 00
Surplus Fund	3,200 00
Individual Deposits	51,712 25
Undivided Profits	1,064 44
Due National Banks
	$105,976 72

Gross earnings for six months ending June 30, 1897 $2,986 86
Undivided Profits Dec. 31, '96 1,224 14
$4,211 00

Disposed of as follows:

Current Exp. and Taxes paid	1,196 56
Dividend No. 7, 3½ per cent	1,750 00
Carried to Surplus	200 00
Undivided Profits remaining	1,064 44
	$4,211 00

State of Kentucky, County of Kenton:

S. L. Webb, cashier, of Erlanger Deposit Bank, a bank located and doing business in the town of Erlanger, Ky., in said county, being duly sworn, says that the foregoing report is in all respects a true statement of the condition of the said bank, at the close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and further says that the business of said bank has been transacted at the location named, and not elsewhere; and that the above report is made in compliance with an official notice received from the Secretary of State designating the 30th day of June, 1897, as the day on which such report shall be made. S. L. Webb, Cashier.

Sworn to before me by S. L. Webb, this 2d day of July, 1897.

T. J. Childress, J. P, K. Co.

Directors: J. T. Craven, W. H. Baker, W. A. Price,

QUARTERLY REPORT

Of the Walton Deposit Bank at close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897:

RESOURCES:

Loans and Discounts	$77,271 47
Loans to directors (officers not included)	1,150 00
Loans to officers	868 31
Overdrafts, unsecured	45 27
Due from Nat. banks	4,600 53
Due from State Banks and Bankers	232 90
Banking house and lot	2,000 00
Specie	3,100 84
Currency	1,563 00
Furniture and Fixtures	1,726 17
Current Expenses	441 23
	$92,999 72

LIABILITIES:

Capital stock paid in, in cash	$50,000 00
Surplus Fund	500 00
Undivided Profits	3,160 62
Due Depositors	39,339 10
Due National Banks
Due State Banks & Bankers
	$92,999 72

State of Kentucky, County of Boone,

R. C. Green, cashier of the Walton Deposit Bank, a bank located and doing business in the town of Walton Ky., in said county, being duly sworn, says the foregoing report is in all respects a true statement of the condition of said bank, at the close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and further says that the business of said bank has been transacted at the location named, and not elsewhere; and that the above report is made in compliance with an official notice received from the Secretary of State designating the 30th day of June, 1897, as the day on which such report shall be made. R. C. Green, Cashier.

G. W. Ransler, Director
D. M. Bagby, Director.
O. Percival, Director.

Subscribed and sworn to before me by R. C. Green, this 1st day of July, 1897.
T. F. Conner, Notary Public.

In Shoes! We want your trade in Shoes. We have made a deep cut in Prices to induce you to buy

Children's Fine Shoes $1.00 reduced from $2.00.
Ladies' Slippers, 50 cents, reduced from $1.75.
Baby Shoes, 25c up. Men's Fine Shoes, $1.00.

Fine Tan Shoes in both Men's and Women's which we will sell you at GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

We have bargains in all Departments, but have not room to mention Prices. Please favor us with a call at

UNION, KENTUCKY.

H. W. BLYTH. J. S. CLUTTERBUCK.

BLYTH & CLUTTERBUCK,

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.,
—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS,

Notions, Groceries, Etc.

Just Received A Large Stock of nice SPRING SHOES!

at Lowest : Cash : Prices.

Lime and Cement always on hand.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket is given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.

The J. L. BILL Coffee and Tea Co.

THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR,
12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,
COVINGTON, KY.
WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

SENSATIONAL BARGAINS!

Clothing Sacrificed! See!

A full Suit of Men's Clothing for only, ...$3.50, worth double, and this is only a sample.

We invite inspection all along the line.....

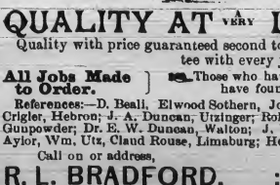
Shoes, Tinware, Groceries, Dress Goods, Etc.

MILLINERY

Ladies, you will be surprised to see the nice things we have to offer you, and prices are waydown.

In fact we have a full line of General Merchandise, and prices are in keeping with the times.

We Guarantee Quality Also.
COME AND SEE,
T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.



Keystone Buggy Company,

CINCINNATI, - - OHIO.

FALLON & ARMSTRONG, PROPRIETORS,
—MANUFACTURERS—

Of Latest Style High Grade Vehicles,

$67 Like Cut.

Keystone Vehicles have merit—merit wins—Keystone Vehicles have Style—up to date—please the eye—strike you as "Just the thing you have been looking for"—Keystone Vehicles are cheap—in the sense that they represent an excellent

QUALITY AT A VERY LOW PRICE.

Quality with price guaranteed second to none. A written guarantee with every job.!

All Jobs Made to Order. Those who have purchased Keystone Vehicles have found them as represented.

References:—D. Beall, Elwood Sothern, John W. Clore, J. D. Cloud, Will Crigler, Hebron; J. A. Duncan, Utzinger; Rolis Sebree, Grant; Noah Surface, Gunpowder; Dr. E. W. Duncan, Walton; J. W. Rouse, Irvin Baker, Spencer Aylor, Wm. Utz, Claud Rouse, Limaburg; Henry Clore, Burlington.

Call on or address,

R. L. BRADFORD, : Hebron, Ky,
Agent for Boone County.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER.

Is in Danger From the Vermin of Hypocrisy.

When the Fox Plays Watch Your Chickens Carefully—Religious Impostors Who Are Always Uncomfortable—Sermon by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D.D.

Text of Dr. Talmage's Sunday was: I. Sam., xv., 14: "And Samuel said, What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?"

The Amalekites thought they had conquered God, and that He would not carry into execution His threats against them. They had murdered the Israelites in battle and out of battle, and left no outrage untried. For 400 years this had been going on, and they say: "God either dare not punish us or He has forgot to do so." Let us see. Samuel, God's prophet, tells Saul to go down and slay all the Amalekites, not leaving one of them alive; also to destroy all the beasts in their possession—ox, sheep, camel and ass. Hark! I hear the tread of 210,000 men, with monstrous Saul at their head, ablaze with armor, his shield dangling at his side, holding in his hand a spear, at the waving of which the great host marched on or halted. I see smoke curling in the sky. Now there is a thick cloud of it, and now I see the whole city rising in a chariot of smoke behind steeds of fire. It is Saul that set the city ablaze. The Amalekites and Israelites meet, the trumpets of battle blow peal on peal, and there is a death hush. Then there is a signal waved, swords cut and hack, javelins ring on shields, arms fall from trunks and heads roll into the dust. Gash after gash, the frenzied yell, the gurgling of throttled throats, the cry of pain, the laugh of revenge, the curse hissed between clenched teeth—an army's death groan. Stacks of dead on all sides, with eyes unshut and mouths yet grinning vengeance. Huzza for the Israelites! Two hundred and ten thousand men wave their plumes and clap their shields, for the Lord God hath given them the victory.

Yet that victorious army of Israel is conquered by sheep and oxen. God, through the prophet Samuel, told Saul to slay all the Amalekites, and to slay all the beasts in their possession; but Saul, thinking that he knows more than God, saves Agag, the Amalekitish king, and five drove of sheep and a herd of oxen that he can not bear to kill. Saul drives the sheep and oxen down toward home. He has no idea that Samuel, the prophet, will find out that he has saved these sheep and oxen for himself. Samuel comes and asks Saul the news from the battle. Saul puts on a solemn face, for there is no one who can assume more solemn than your genuine hypocrite, and he says: "I have fulfilled the command of the Lord." Samuel listens, and he hears the drove of sheep a little way off. Saul had no idea that the prophet's ear would be so acute. Samuel says to Saul: "If you have done as God told you, and slain all the Amalekites and all the beasts in their possession, what meaneth the bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen that I hear? Ah, one would have thought that blushes would have consumed the cheek of Saul. No, not He says the army—not he himself, of course, but the army—had saved the sheep and oxen for sacrifice; and then they thought it would be too bad anybow to kill Agag, the Amelekitish king. Samuel takes the sword and he slashes Agag to pieces; and then he takes the skirt of his coat, in true Oriental style, and rends it in twain, as much as to say, "You, Saul, just like that, shall be torn away from your empire, and torn away from your throne." In other words, let all the nations of the earth hear the story that Saul by disobeying God, won a flock of sheep, but lost a kingdom.

I learn from this subject that God will expose hypocrisy. Here Saul pretends he has fulfilled the divine commission by slaying all the beasts belonging to the Amalekites, and yet at the very moment he is telling the story, and practicing the delusion, the secret comes out, and the sheep bleat and the oxen bellow.

A hypocrite is one who pretends to be what he is not. Saul was only a type of a class. The modern hypocrite looks awfully solemn, whines when he prays, and during his public devotion shows a great deal of the whites of his eyes. He never laughs, or, if he does laugh, he seems sorry for it afterward as though he had committed some great indiscretion. The first time he gets a chance he prays 20 minutes in public, and when he exhorts he seems to imply that all the race are sinners, with one exception, his modesty forbidding the stating who that one is. There are a great many churches who have two or three ecclesiastical Uriah Heeps.

When the fox begins to pray look out for your chickens. The more genuine religion a man has the more comfortable he will be; but you may know a religious impostor by the fact that he prides himself on being uncomfortable. A man of that kind is of immense damage to the Church of Christ. A ship may outride a hundred storms, and yet a handful of worms in the planks may sink it to the bottom. The Church of God is not so much in danger of the cyclones of trouble and persecution that come upon it as the vermin of hypocrisy that infest it. Wolves are of no danger to the fold of God unless they look like sheep. Arnold was of more damage to the army than Cornwallis and his hosts. Oh, we can not deceive God with a church certificate! He sees behind the curtain as well as before the curtain; He sees every thing inside and out. A man may, through policy, hide his real character; but God will after a while tear open the whited sepulcher and expose the putrefaction. Sunday faces can not save him; long prayers can not save him; psalm-singing and church-going can not save him. God will expose him just as thoroughly as [illegible] successful in the deception, but at the most unfortunate moment the sheep will bleat and the oxen will bellow.

One of the cruel bishops of olden time was going to excommunicate one of the martyrs, and he began in the usual form—"In the name of God, amen." "Stop!" says the martyr, don't say "in the name of God!" Yet how many outrages are practiced under the garb of religion and sanctity! When, in synods and conferences, ministers of the Gospel are about to say something unbrotherly and unkind about a member, they almost always begin by being tremendously pious, the venom of their assault corresponding to the heavenly flavor of the prelude. Standing there, you would think they were ready to go right up into glory, and that nothing kept them down but the weight of their boots and overcoat, when suddenly the sheep bleat and the oxen bellow.

Oh, my dear friends, let us cultivate simplicity of Christian character! Jesus Christ said, "Unless you become as this little child, you can not enter the kingdom of God." We may play hypocrite successfully now, but the Lord God will after a while expose our true character. You must know the incident mentioned in the history of Ottacas, who was asked to kneel in presence of Randolphus I.; and when before him he refused to do it, but after awhile he agreed to come in private when there was nobody in the king's tent, and then he would kneel down before him and worship; but the servants of the king had arranged it so that by drawing a cord the tent would suddenly drop. Ottacas after a while came in, and supposing he was in entire privacy, knelt before Randolphus. The servants pulled the cord, the tent dropped, and two armies surrounding looked down on Ottacas kneeling before Randolphus. If we are really kneeling to the world while we profess to be lowly subjects of Jesus Christ, the tent has already dropped, and all the hosts of Heaven are gazing upon our hypocrisy. God's universe is a very pubilc place, and you can not hide hypocrisy in it.

Going out into the world of delusion and sham, pretend to be no more than you really are. If you have the grace of God, profess it; profess no more than you have. But I want the world to know that where there is one hypocrite in the church there are 500 outside of it, for the reason that the field is larger. There are men in all circles who will bow before you, and who are obsequious in your presence and talk flatteringly, but who all the while in your conversation are digging for bait and angling for imperfections. In your presence they imply they are every thing friendly, but after awhile you find they have the fierceness of a mountain, the slyness of a snake, and the spite of a devil. God will expose such. The gun they load will burst in their own hands; the lies they tell will break their own teeth; and at the very moment they think they have been successful in deceiving you and deceiving the world, the sheep will bleat and the oxen will bellow.

I learn further from this subject how natural it is to try to put off our sins on other people. Saul was charged with disobeying God. The man says it was not he who did not save the sheep; the army did it—trying to throw it off on the shoulders of other people. Human nature is the same in all ages. Adam, confronted with his sin, said: "The woman tempted me, and I did eat." And the woman charged it upon the serpent; and if the serpent could have spoken, it would have charged it upon the devil. I suppose that the real state of the case was that Eve was eating the apple and that Adam saw it, and begged and coaxed until he got a piece of it. I suppose that Adam was just as much to blame as Eve was. You can not throw off the responsibility of any sin upon the shoulders of other people.

Here is a young man who says, "I know I am doing wrong, but I have not had any chance. I had a father who despised God and a mother who was a disciple of godless fashion. I am not to blame for my sins—it is my bring up." Ah, no! that young man has been out in the world long enough to see what is right and to see what is wrong, and in the great day of eternity he can not throw his sins upon his father or mother, but will have to stand for himself and answer before God. You have had a conscience, you have had a Bible and the influence of the Holy Spirit. Stand for yourself or fall for yourself.

Here is a business man. He says: "I know I don't do exactly right in trade, but all the dry goods men do it, and all the hardware men do this, and I am not responsible." You can not throw off your sins upon the shoulders of other merchants. God will hold you responsible for what you do—you—responsible to expose one

NIAGARA SOLILOQUIZES.

For years uncounted I surged on my way,
Rimmed round with rocks and wreathed with pearly spray,
My white locks in a halo made of mist,
My voice and vigor no man might resist;
All those who braved me were but passing breath,
My grasp to men, poor moths, meant instant death.

But now strange miracles have come to pass,
Man has put harness on my limbs, alas!
His turbines and his dynamos I turn,
And far away his lights mysterious burn,
His factories hum, his street cars come and go,
Driven by my sinews swiftly to and fro.

Little thought I to round his ways and curves
Along his system of intricate nerves
Of insulated copper, armored steel,
To flash in light or turn his shaft and wheel;
Obedient to his lightest touch of hand,
A willing slave to toil at his command.

My voice transferred now makes the busy hum
Of swift machines where human toilers come,
Hands clasped in mine to benefit the race—
Each rushing at high-pressure modern pace—
To serve the world, give life or light and then
Bring other blessings to the sons of men.

Imagine old Niagara lassoed thus,
To light a lamp or haul a city bus,
To whisper mildly o'er the telephone,
To press a feather, lift up building stone—
A giant made a chore-boy by the folks
Who hold the reins and make me wear their yokes.

But never mind! I still plunge in the deep
With mighty anthem and resistless sweep;
What matter little tasks I daily do
To pull these pigmies and their projects through?
They dare not meet me when my warriors all
Flash countless spears and clash them at my call.

Yet will I serve them with my surplus strength,
Perhaps do tasks unthought of yet, at length;
But here within my stronghold I defy
And challenge mortals with my fierce war-cry:
They dare not brave my heights and deeps profound—
I am the monarch, this my battle-ground.

I. EDGAR JONES.

CONFIDENCES.

BY CLARENCE ROOK.

SYLVIA rose from her seat by the fire as I entered, and gave me her hand; and from a certain look of consciousness in her eyes I saw that she knew that I knew—

"So you're back in town at last?" said Sylvia. "Have you had tea?"

"No," I said, "and I will, thank you."

Sylvia poured me out a cup. "No sugar—and very little milk, isn't it?" she said.

"Yes," I said. "I've had an excellent time—paddling up and down the Riviera in the sunshine. Glad to get back, though."

I sipped my tea in silence. Sylvia lay back in her chair, her face half-hidden by the fan with which she shielded her complexion from the fire.

"Well?" said Sylvia.

"Well?" I said.

"Don't you think," said Sylvia, "that the occasion requires you to say something nice—and—cousinly. I am sure you've heard—"

"Yes," I said, "I've heard. Aunt Emma wrote and told me about it as soon as—well, at least, I suppose it was as soon as— By the way, when was it?"

"When was what?" said Sylvia.

"When did it happen?—when did you—?"

"O, don't be silly, Jim," said Sylvia. And her foot waggled in the old way. I have always noticed that Sylvia's expression lies in her foot.

"I suppose," I said, reflectively, stirring my tea (into which Sylvia had put sugar), "that it did happen. He did propose. Or did you?"

"Jim, you're horrid," said Sylvia.

"Please may I have some bread and butter?" I said. "You can't get bread and butter on the Riviera—at least, you don't."

Sylvia handed it to me. Her eyes flashed a pathetic entreaty.

"I ought to have said I was pleased, oughtn't I? And that I am sure you will be very happy, as you deserve to be."

"Well, aren't you pleased?" asked Sylvia, looking at me curiously with arched eyebrows. "I thought Edgar was such a friend of yours, and I—well, we have always been—"

"You call him Edgar—how curious," I murmured. "Now I have known him for years and never called him anything but Jones; while you have only known him—how long? A year? Less, I should think. And yet you—"

"It's not a question of time, at all," said Sylvia, turning her face away from me again. "Edgar and I know one another—thoroughly. We have no secrets from each other. You may get to know a person quite as well in two months as in two years if only—"

"Quite so. Very proper," I replied, wondering vaguely what was Jones' notion of a secret.

"Well, but why aren't you pleased?" said Sylvia. "I'm sure you're not—and I think it's a little—a little unkind of you. Still," and Sylvia settled herself more comfortably in her chair, "of course it doesn't matter—much."

"Not much," I replied, putting down my teacup; "nevertheless, you can scarcely expect a man to be overjoyed when he loses his best friend—and—his best cousin. Can you?"

"Loses them!" said Sylvia. "What do you mean?"

"I have always noticed," I said, "that I lose more friends by marriage than by death."

"But you don't suppose—" began Sylvia.

"If my friend is a man," I continued, "his wife dislikes me because I know more of her husband than she does—"

"How absurd!" said Sylvia.

"And if my friend is a woman," I continued, "her husband is just a shade jealous because he suspects that I have been making love to her."

"How silly!" said Sylvia, shifting impatiently in her chair.

"The worst of it is," I proceeded, "that they are both right—as a rule. In this particular case—"

"Jim," exclaimed Sylvia, bringing an expressive foot down upon the hearthrug, "if you've only come back to be horrid—"

"I have come back," I said, "for the express purpose of giving Jones away—or whatever it is you do for your best friend when he is married."

"That's nice of you, Jim," said Sylvia, leaning back contentedly. "Then you are pleased?"

"I think Jones is an uncommonly lucky man," I said.

Sylvia wrinkled her brows and looked curiously at me.

"If you think Edgar is marrying me for my money, that is not the case," said Sylvia.

"I shouldn't dream of such a thing," I said.

"Though, of course, it is lucky that I have money," said Sylvia, "or else we couldn't—we should have to wait."

"Of course," I said, "a regular income is a convenient thing to have. And I don't suppose Jones has ever made $300 in any single year at the bar yet."

"But he's clever," said Sylvia, "and he must wait his opportunity."

"Yes," I said.

"You were surprised, were'nt you?" said Sylvia. "Now confess you were surprised—for once."

"Well, I don't know that I was—particularly. You see, I was staying up the river with him in August, and I knew there was something up."

"O, but you couldn't have known then," said Sylvia, with a slight laugh.

"Of course I didn't absolutely know," I said. "And now I come to think of it, I think it was a little mean of Jones—and of you, too, Sylvia—to keep me in the dark so long. I could have done a good deal for you in my quiet way, you know—brought you together and retired discreetly round the corner. A little seasonable frankness would have done wonders. As it was—"

"As it was," said Sylvia, rather stiffly, "Edgar and I were able to manage our own affairs ourselves."

"Still," I said, "if it's any consolation to you, I don't mind assuring you that he's frantically in love with you."

"Thank you," said Sylvia, "it's pleasant to hear it on such excellent authority."

"Of course I should have known there was a woman in the case even if he hadn't told me so."

"What do you mean?" said Sylvia, who seemed to be getting a little bored.

"Well, when a man leaves the river to spend his week-ends in town, it's fairly safe to conclude that there's a woman in it; and when he tells you so it seems to remove the last vestige of doubt. But I must confess he quite put me off the scent. I never dreamt it was you he was after. I fear, Sylvia, you are a sly puss. Why, what on earth's the matter?"

Sylvia had turned white and had risen from her seat.

"What are you talking about?" she asked.

"We are talking about Edgar Jones; but—"

"But who was the woman? Jim, I insist—"

"My dear Sylvia—"

"Mr. Jones," said the parlor maid, holding open the door.

"Hullo! old fellow—back again?"

"Yes," I said; "just in time to congratulate you both and to—give you away. Well—I must be going—two's company, you know, eh? Good-by, Sylvia."

"I shall be dining at the club," said Jones; "shall I see you there?"

"I think not," I said.

Really, I could have done no good by staying.—Black and White.

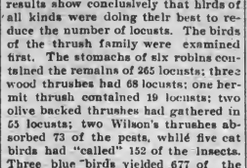
Roasted Round Steak.

Try roasting a round steak in the following way: Get a steak about two inches thick from the best part of the round; prepare it by trimming off all the pieces of fat, lay them on one side, and put the steak into an earthen dish. Put a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper into a cup, turn upon it two gills of olive oil, and fill the cup to the brim with good vinegar. Pour this over the steak, cover the dish, and let it remain two or three hours, turning the steak frequently. Put the bits of fat into a baking pan, and when the steak has soaked for the required length of time drain it and lay it upon the fat in the pan. Moisten a few rolled bread crumbs with a little hot milk, add some butter and season with salt and pepper, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, and some powdered sweet herbs, if they are liked. Mix these ingredients together with the yolk of an egg, and spread the mixture over the top of the meat. Place the pan in a hot oven and roast from 25 to 30 minutes. This steak may be served with a sauce or not.—Boston Budget.

Corned Beef Hash.

One coffee cupful of cooked corned beef chopped fine, two and a half coffee cupfuls of cold boiled potatoes chopped fine, one-fourth cupful of water, and a little over one-fourth cupful of milk mixed together, butter the size of a walnut, one-fourth teaspoonful salt, or to taste, and a sprinkling of white pepper, and a bit of cayenne pepper. Melt the butter in the water and milk, then add the other ingredients, and cool until thoroughly heated through, then put in a baking pan and place in oven till brown on top.—Ladies' World.

Strategy.



The point in training children is to get them off to a neighbor's house first in the evening, in order to keep that neighbor's children at home.—Atchison Globe.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

INSECT-EATING BIRDS.

Some Facts Which Farmers Should Always Bear in Mind.

Probably few farmers have any idea of the assistance which they receive from friends who ask no reward, except now and then a little fruit, or a few seeds of grain. A recent number of the National Stockman gives a mass of testimony as to the noble work done by the birds in the destruction of grasshoppers and other insects. The experiments were made by Prof. Aughey, of the University of Nebrask. Tabulated results show conclusively that birds of all kinds were doing their best to reduce the number of locusts. The birds of the thrush family were examined first. The stomachs of six robins contained the remains of 265 locusts; three wood thrushes had 68 locusts; one hermit thrush contained 19 locusts; two olive backed thrushes had gathered in 53 locusts; two Wilson's thrushes absorbed 73 of the pests, while five cat birds had "called" 152 of the insects. Three blue birds yielded 677 of the "hoppers," and one little ruby crowned kinglet showed up 29 as the result of its industry. But four tufted titmice contained no less than 250 specimens, and nine long-tailed chickadees had secured by hard work 481 of these enemies of agriculture. Four slender-billed nuthatches had the remains of 92 locusts. But the little warblers also insisted in "taking a hand" in the general massacre, for seven golden warblers turned in 77 locusts and 176 other insects. Five black-throated green warblers had secured 116 of the hoppers and 104 other insects. Four black poll warblers gathered 123 locusts and 47 other insects. Eight prairie warblers showed the remains of 116 locusts and a still larger number of other insects. Seven barn swallows called in 139 locusts; eight cave swallows exhibited 326 of the pests; five bank swallows contained 104, and ten purple martins had sacrificed 265 of these insects. Many of these birds were seen to feed the inmates of their nests with young locusts.

A CROW BLACKBIRD.

But the roll call does not stop here, even if our space should; and we would gladly give the complete record—for the roll of honor includes the yellow-headed blackbird, the vireos, shrikes, the boholinks, Baltimore orioles, Brewer's blackbirds, purple grackle and others which ate locusts almost without limit. Not only these birds did their full duty, but even the ravens, the crows, the magpies and the bluejays followed up the good work and consumed vast numbers of the pests. The flycatchers and pewees were not far behind, while 348 "hoppers" were taken from the stomachs of seven night hawks. The humming birds are generally regarded as simply ornamental, but Prof. Aughey states that his cat caught a specimen of the ruby-throated humming bird, whose stomach contained the bodies of four locusts. Ten specimens of the yellow-billed cuckoos yielded 416 locusts and 152 other insects. But the woodpeckers were evidently bent on business, and did not confine themselves to a single article of diet, for 29 woodpeckers contained 853 locusts and 725 insects of various sorts. Even the birds of prey seemed to have joined in the good work, for 18 owls examined displayed the remains of almost 600 locusts and other insects. Not to be outdone by the owls, the two hawks which were taken gave up 378 locusts. In the same line followed the wild turkeys, grouse, prairie hens and quail. Emulating the above good examples, a large variety of shore birds did almost equally good work, considering that their natural food is largely found in the water.

In view of the above, can any farmer have a shadow of doubt as to the inestimable value of the birds as aids in protecting his crops? If a few birds furnished such results for a single day's work, what would be the result were a calculation to be made of the work of all the birds for an entire season? All sorts of birds were examined, from the pelican, with its mammoth form, to the gem-like humming bird, and all proved to be the friends of the farmer in protecting his crops from the ruthless invader. How foolish is he who allows these his allies to be hunted as if they were robbers and enemies, and especially where he allows them to be slaughtered for no good purpose. Would space permit we could refer to hundreds of cases, in many of which the evidence is even stronger than any given above, and all of such unquestioned truthfulness as to leave no doubt as to the facts in the matter. A word to the wise is sufficient.

H. H. WATERS.

Words of a Wise Man.

Good roads throughout this commonwealth are absolutely necessary. I am for the good roads bill and all that it means, and will be until it becomes a law.—Representative Ebenezer Adams, of Pennsylvania.

It is much more economical to stone canned cherries, or fresh ones, before using them in pies than it is to buy artificial teeth.—Western Plowman.

If you grow flowers you must apply water.

WORK FOR CONVICTS.

They Should Be Employed in the Construction of Roads.

The abnormal floods along the Mississippi river have provoked much discussion of ways and means for preventing their future recurrence or for restraining the swollen stream within safe limits. Some urge a stronger and higher system of levees; others the opening of new, or reopening of old, channels, through which the river may be partly or wholly diverted from its present course; and others yet other projects, all, of course, involving the doing of much work and the spending of much money. The further suggestion is made as applicable for the execution of any of these schemes, that the manual labor required on the vast job shall be done by the able-bodied inmates of the prisons of the various interested states. This suggestion is an eminently practical one, and it leads to the further suggestion that just such jobs afford the best possible field for the employment of convict labor.

Country and suburban roads, for example, which in all parts of the union are in need of improvement. The spring season is the best of all times for road-building. It is the very time when farmers and villagers are most busy with other matters and can least well devote attention to the roads. And it is the time when the housed-up prisoners are most in need of wholesome occupation in the open air. There are three elements of the problem which unerringly point to its right solution. If to do work when it can best be done, with the least possible disturbance of other industries and at the lowest cost to the proprietor and to the greatest benefit to the workmen, and, indeed, to all concerned—if that be business wisdom, the inmates of our state prisons should be set at road-making forthwith.

In that way they will get the exercise they need, the public will get the much-needed good roads, and there will be no competition between convict and free labor. How much the convicts need such work is demonstrated in the Kings county penitentiary, where the inmates are reported to be in danger of going mad, some of them actually doing so, through enforced idleness. How much improved roads are needed almost any suburban or rural village will testify.—N. Y. Tribune.

MUZZLE FOR HEIFERS.

A New Kind Which Is Said to Accomplish Great Things.

One of the puzzling things in dairying is the bad habit that calves and heifers acquire of self-sucking and sucking each other. To remedy this, this muzzle is said to be equally effective for foals, and having no spikes cannot hurt the mother when calf or foal attempts to suck. When weaned the flap of leather in front can be removed by unbuckling the straps, and the other part converted into a useful leather headstall. This muzzle does not hinder animals from eating grass, even if it be very short, as the flap, if properly fixed, goes out in front sufficiently to enable them to graze with freedom. After having them on for a day or two they become quite adepts at feeding with them. The two leather straps underneath the headstall, one on each side, and extending to the flap in front, can be shortened or lengthened at will. The two iron clips which are riveted on the front flap of the muzzle are to prevent it rolling up when the leather gets wet.—Farm Journal.

MUZZLE FOR HEIFER.

DEPENDS ON FEEDING.

How to Turn a Promising Calf Into a Profitable Cow.

When calves are intended to be grown for cows it is a great mistake to feed them so heavily as to increase the tendency to fatten. Often this can be seen at birth in the thick, bull-like neck and heavy head. In such case it is best to fatten and sell to the butcher, no matter what stock may be its ancestry. But frequently also the calf which seems to be all right for a good milker is fed so heavily and on such fattening food that its tendency for life to produce fat and beef rather than milk and butter is fully established. To grow a good cow the calf should not be stunted, says American Cultivator. That will impair digestion, which is just as important for the cow as it is for a beef animal. Calves intended to be kept for cows should have much succulent food, with enough of the kind of nutrition required to make large growth. Then it will be well developed and come early into heat. It is always advisable to breed as early as possible. Then when the tendency to milk production has been fully established, good feeding with the best food will turn the product of the feed into the milk pail, where it will be most for the farmer's profit to have it.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

The mulberry is easily grown.

Nasturtiums are pretty and easily grown.

Poisoned bran is recommended for cutworms.

Vick's Magazine recommends mulch for the pens.

Don't let the Kohl rabi become too old before working.

Don't put much money in new varieties until you learn about them from some other source than the glib-tongued agent.

SHE SPANKED FOR THE FAMILY.

The Stranger's Kind Offer Was Indignantly Refused.

People never get encouragement for doing the Good Samaritan act in the interests of the public, as the man decided who offered to assist a distracted woman and ameliorate the sufferings of a lot of people on a suburban car.

The boy who bowls was in evidence, the curled darling of his own mother and the terror of everybody else, and he had kept the car in a state of wild excitement and exhausted the patience of everybody, including his doting parents.

"Oh, if your father were only here!" she had said for the fiftieth time, as she tried vainly to restrain the howling terror.

At that he stopped bowling long enough to beat the air with his small shins, and the woman on the other side of him remarked audibly that a cage was the proper place for savages like him.

"Johnny, dear," asked his mother, "won't you be a good boy?"

Roars and kicks from Master Johnny.

"Oh, I wish your father were here to give you a good trouncing this very minute!" she wailed, as she struggled with him.

Then it was that the philanthropist of the company asserted himself. He had been trying in vain to read his morning paper ever since he started from home.

"Allow me, madam," he said, blandly, "I am a father myself, and I will be happy to chastise your cherub in behalf of his absent parent."

"Oh, no, you won't, not if I know it!" said Johnny's mother, rising in her wrath like a tigress. "There ain't that man living dare lay a finger on that boy—his own father or any other—ply catamount who thinks he knows it all," and she shut off debate by going into the next car and taking the sweet infant with her.—Chicago Times-Herald.

There Was Fight in Him Still.

"What's the matter?" inquired the foreman, as he entered the sanctum for copy and noted the editor's bleeding nose, swollen forehead, puffed, red eye and tattered, dusty coat. "Fall downstairs?" "No—only that," replied the editor, pointing with his finger to a paragraph in the paper before him. "It's in our account of the Crapley-Smith wedding. It ought to read: Miss Smith's dimpled, shining face formed a pleasing contrast with Mr. Crapley's strong, bold physiognomy. But see how it was printed." And the foreman read: "Miss Smith's pimply, skinny face formed a pleasing contrast with Mr. Crapley's stony, bald physiognomy." "Crapley was just in here," continued the editor, throwing one blood-stained handkerchief in the waste basket and feeling in his pockets for a clean one, "and he—but just send that fool of a proof reader in here! There's fight left in me yet!"—Typographical Journal.

No Such Thing.—"Five dollars!" exclaimed an indignant man, who had used the long-distance 'phone for as many minutes; "and yet they say talk is cheap."—Judge.

A woman really has no good luck in marrying unless she marries a man on his deathbed and he leaves her his life insurance.—Atchison Globe.

The boy who bit a green apple remarked, with a wry face: "'Twas ever thus in childhood—sour!"

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, July 10.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 25	@ $ 3 00
Select butchers	3 80	@ 4 15
CALVES—Extra to good light	5 25	@ 5 75
HOGS—Common	3 00	@ 3 30
Mixed packers	3 35	@ 3 40
Light shippers	3 35	@ 3 62½
SHEEP—Choice	3 00	@ 3 35
LAMBS—Spring	5 30	@ 5 40
FLOUR—Winter family	3 00	@ 3 45
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 77
No. 3 red		@ 70
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 27
Oats—No. 2		@ 21
Rye—No. 2		@ 37
HAY—Prime to choice		@ 10 25
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 9 00
Lard—Prime steam		@ 3 89
BUTTER—Choice dairy	6	@ 8
Prime to choice creamery		@ 16½
APPLES—Per bbl	2 25	@ 2 75
POTATOES—New Per bbl	1 75	@ 2 50

NEW YORK.

FLOUR—Winter patent	$ 4 10	@ $ 4 25
GRAIN—Wheat—No 1 north n.	76	@ 78
No. 2 red	77⅞	@ 78
CORN—No 2 mixed		@ 30¼
OATS—Mixed		@ 25¾
PORK—New mess	8 38	@ 8 75
LARD—Western		@ 4 15

CHICAGO.

FLOUR—Winter patents	$ 3 [illegible]	@ $ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No 2 red		@ 69¼
No. 2 Chicago spring		@ 70¼
CORN—No. 2	23⅝	@ 23¾
OATS—No 2		@ 17⅜
PORK—Mess	7 60	@ 7 75
LARD—Steam		@ 4 02

BALTIMORE

FLOUR—Family	3 75	@ 4 15
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	[illegible]	@ 74
Corn—Mixed	50	@ 30½
Oats—No. 2 white	25½	@ 26
LARD—Refined		@ 11 50
PROVISIONS		@ 16 [illegible]
CATTLE—First quality	4 00	@ 4 85
HOGS—Western	4 00	@ 4 10

INDIANAPOLIS

GRAIN—Wheat—No 2		@ 76
Corn—No 2 mixed		@ 24
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@ 18½

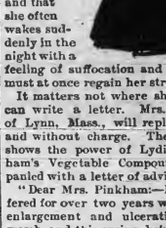
LOUISVILLE.

FLOUR—Winter patent	$ 3 75	@ $ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No 2 red		@ 82
Corn—Mixed	26	@ 26½
Oats—Mixed		@ 20½
PORK—Mess		@ 8 50
LARD—Steam		@ 3 62½

A WOMAN'S LIFE

Is a Husband's Happiness.

A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home.



I sometimes marvel at the patience of some husbands.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging and that everything tires her, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams, and that she often wakes suddenly in the night with a feeling of suffocation and alarm, she must at once regain her strength.

It matters not where she lives, she can write a letter. Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will reply promptly and without charge. The following shows the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, accompanied with a letter of advice:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have suffered for over two years with falling, enlargement and ulceration of the womb, and this spring, being in such a weakened condition, caused me to flow for nearly six months. Some time ago, urged by friends, I wrote to you for advice. After using the treatment which you advised for a short time, that terrible flow stopped. I am now gaining strength and flesh and have better health than I have had for the past ten years. I wish to say to all distressed suffering women, do not suffer longer, when there is one so kind and willing to aid you."—Mrs. F. S. Bennett, Westphalia, Kans.

Mathematics.

There are people who tell us the distance old Mother Earth is from the stars, counting miles upon miles into millions, as the distance from Neptune to Mars. The way they throw figures is awful, on the size of the little sun spot, and how long it would take to walk round it if it wasn't so deucedly hot. They measure the depth of the ocean, and the distance across it as well, get the weight in the air of a meteor, and locate the right spot where they fell. But astronomers and mathematicians all confess that they can't get just right the miles gone over by papa, when he "totes" the cross kid in the night.—N. Y. World.

Queen & Crescent.

During the Tennessee Centennial and International Exposition at Nashville, Tenn., a low rate special tariff has been established for the sale of tickets from Cincinnati and other terminal points on the Queen & Crescent Route.

Tickets are on sale daily until further notice to Chattanooga at 36.75 one way or $7.20 round trip from Cincinnati, the round trip tickets being good seven days to return; other tickets, with longer return limit, at $9.00 and at $13.50 for the round trip.

These rates enable the public to visit Nashville and other Southern points at rates never before offered. Vestibuled trains of the finest class are at the disposal of the passenger, affording a most pleasant trip, and enabling one to visit the very interesting scenery and important battle-grounds in and about Chattanooga, Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga National Military Park. Tickets to Nashville to visit the Centennial can be repurchased at Chattanooga for $3.40 round trip. Ask your ticket agent for tickets via Cincinnati and the Q. & C. Route South or write to W. C. RINEARSON, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, O.

A King's Humor.—"We have a long account to settle with Turkey," said Prince Constantine, grimly. "Yes," said King George, with a smile, "and it's a running account at that."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Dear me," said an old lady, who probably never knew of such a game as baseball, "dear me! How this craze for chess is growing. Here's a club in New York city that is paying $3,000 for a pitcher."

Rattlesnakes, Butterflies, and . . . ?

Washington Irving said, he supposed a certain hill was called "Rattlesnake Hill" because it abounded in—butterflies. The "rule of contrary" governs other names. Some bottles are, supposedly, labeled "Sarsaparilla" because they are full of . . . well, we don't know what they are full of, but we know it's not sarsaparilla; except, perhaps, enough for a flavor. There's only one make of sarsaparilla that can be relied on to be all it claims. It's Ayer's. It has no secret to keep. Its formula is open to all physicians. This formula was examined by the Medical Committee at the World's Fair with the result that while every other make of sarsaparilla was excluded from the Fair, Ayer's Sarsaparilla was admitted and honored by awards. It was admitted because it was the best sarsaparilla. It received the medal as the best. No other sarsaparilla has been so tested or so honored. Good motto for the family as well as the Fair: Admit the best, exclude the rest.

Any doubt about it? Send for the "Curebook." It kills doubts and cures doubters. Address: J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

$75 RIDE A CRESCENT BICYCLE $50
Western Wheel Works
MAKERS
CHICAGO ILLINOIS
CATALOGUE FREE

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

SILOS
HOW TO BUILD Ask WILLIAMS MFG. CO., KALAMAZOO, MICH.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

CANCER CURED AT HOME; send stamp for book. Dr. J. B. HARRIS & CO. Pike Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

Wednesday, July 14, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS.

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Wild turkeys are plentiful in Union county.

The new Courthouse at Brookville has been completed.

Elkton has adopted the curfew law. The retiring hour is 11 p. m.

Matilda Smith, 120, colored, is missing from her home in Louisville.

William Maddox, a blacksmith, was killed by lightning in Nelson county.

Rainy Wells and Sell Fakes are two well-known citizens of Calloway county.

Siloam Church, in Greenup county was struck by lightning and completely wrecked.

A Chicago firm has purchased 1,500,000 gallons of Bourbon whisky from a Louisville firm.

R. G. Wilson, sr., one of the most prominent citizens of Auburn, was found dead in his barn.

A picnic at Wright's Woods near Jeffersonville, broke up in a fight in which eight men were injured.

At Russellsville Sam Lindsay sued Jerome Brewer for two hound pups and was awarded one by the court.

At Warsaw, Squire Hugh Montgomery was seriously hurt by being thrown from his buggy, resulting in broken collar bone.

Near Big Hill, Henry Jiles an old Federal soldier, shot and killed Joe Gatliffe, a few hours after the men had met for the first time.

At Lexington the ball from a cartridge discharged by an electric car, struck Frank O. Young in the face, producing a serious wound.

Dr. Godfrey Hunter has sold all his property at his home at Burksville. It is probable that he intends not to remain a citizen of the State.

Owen Logan, a farmer of Shelby county, died last week after a short illness. His physicians say he had symptoms which accompany Asiatic cholera.

It is a settled fact that Augusta will celebrate her 100th anniversary the 13th of next October. On that day 100 years will have passed since the town became incorporated.

At Newport, Geo. F. Graves pleaded guilty to marrying five women without securing any divorces and got one year per marriage in the pen for uxorious weakness.

Near Lancaster, Albert Ware while driving a binder, was unhorsed and thrown in front of the cutter bar. The machine passed over his body, he was terribly cut but it is said will recover.

Danville was hard hit by the building and loan association assignment in Louisville, fully $50,000 of paid up stock in the Commercial being held there. Rev. John L. Smith held $20,000 worth.

Twins born last week to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wiseman, of Estill county, make four sets of twins born to this couple, three of which are now living. Mr. and Mrs. Wiseman, who have numerous relatives in Madison, now have fourteen children living and three dead. —Richmond Recorder.

For the 18 days in June that Lieut. Gov. Worthington acted as governor he restored citizenship to 47 ex convicts, pardoned 17 men convicted of murder and manslaughter, five of whom were serving life sentences. He also pardoned 17 men convicted of housebreaking, malicious cutting, etc.

The new Mormon Church at the mouth of East Ford, in the edge of Green and Metcalfe counties, will be dedicated some time in July. It is [illegible] recently gathered together in the little time they have been preaching in that section. They are said to be raising money to build a second church in one of the Eastern mountain counties.

Four men attempted to blow up the jail at Franklin, in which Geo. Dinning is incarcerated. Capt. Noel Gaines and Sergt. Gordon came in contact with them and a lively fight ensued. Capt. Gaines was struck over the head with some blunt instrument and a bullet was sent through his hat. Gordon's shirt was powder-burned. Several shots were fired. The men were routed and it is supposed one of them was wounded.

CROP AND STOCK.

Tennessee's wheat crop is unprecedented.

The wheat harvest is about ended. The crop is good one.—Georgetown Times.

In Madison county, W. D. & A. E. Barnes sold 38 cattle, 800 pounds, to Cotton & Co., for 3½ cents.

Chas. Thomas, of Woodford, sold to Simon Weil, of Lexington, 36 fat steers to be delivered July 15, at 4½ cents.

There has been about a full crop of tobacco planted in Hopkins county, but the grasshoppers have eaten it badly.

The report of the Commissioner of Agriculture for June shows that the tobacco crop will be only sixty-three per cent. of last year's average.

Wheat harvest is over in the Pennyrile and the farmers think they have a better crop than was expected, though the yield will likely fall below the average.

Boyle county farmers are busy with the wheat harvest. The quality of the crop, as a rule, is reported as very good, but some growers say that the yield is overestimated.

It is estimated that fully five hundred acres of tobacco will be planted in the Willis section of Texas this season. The industry is well established, and the highest expectations are held for its future.

Oelze & Bro., millers, bought last Saturday about 4,000 bushels of wheat from parties in Tobin's bottom, Breckinridge county, at 62 cents at the thresher which will make about 64 or 65 cents delivered.

A Kansas boy who smoked 1,200 packages of cigarettes saved the pictures and sent to the firm asking what they would give for them. The answer was as follows: "Smoke 1,200 more and we'll send you a coffin.

J. W. Glass, of Garrard county, sold 100 lambs, the choicest lot of the season's delivery, averaging 88½ pounds, to A. C. Miles, of Nicholasville at 5 cents per pound. Mr. Miles also purchased 140 head from John Scott, that averaged 83 lbs., for which he paid 5 cents a pound.

The largest wheat grower in Trigg county is J. J. Gaines, of Montgomery, says the Telephone. He had in 400 acres, and used 825 pounds of twine, ran four binders, and saved it all in fine condition. It is the largest crop ever raised by one man in the county and is estimated at 12,000 bushels.

In Barton County, Kansas, where the farmers are working 15 hours a day in order to save 100,000 acres of wheat, a dozen imported harvesting crews struck for an eight-hour day. They say they will work 16 hours a day, but that they want double wages, or $4 a day. One of their demands is for five meals each day.

Commissioner of Agriculture Moore's crop report, says: Wheat—Quality ranks as one of the best crops grown in the State; yield satisfactory, and, in some instances phenomenal; acreage, 96 per cent; 12 bushels per acre; average last year, 6½. Corn—Material improvement during the month; 87 per cent damaged by chinch bugs in western and southern counties. Oats—Eighty per cent. The tobacco crop is backward and discouraging; bad stand; suffering from worms condition, 68; acreage, 65.

The crop in Central Kentucky, from most reliable information, will not average more than sixty-five per cent., and in some sections of the Bluegrass, less. The low prices of the several years past served to curtail the crop, and the unfavorable weather up to last week cut things shorter. With small acreage, the farmers will get about as much money this year out of the crop as from their large, inferior yield of last season, which is more profitable, as other crops have taken the place of tobacco, with prospects of a good yield and better prices.

Interviews with farmers from different parts of the county bring out the information that the stand of tobacco is very bad. Many of the plants died because of their being set out when too small in the eagerness to get out the small crop in time. There is some complaint of a wire worm working on the roots of the plants and killing them. The very hot weather, too, may have much to do with the plants dying. At best the crop will be a light one. The 1896 tobacco is very nearly all sold, the unsold crops being scattering.—Owingsville Outlook.

All parts of this section had good rains during the past week, and there was a general and steady improvement in condition of crops. Wheat harvest is well advanced, and in some localities has been completed. All reports indicate a very fine crop. Corn is small, but doing well. The crop will be very late in this section. Oats show great improvement since the late rains. Hay also, is much better than was expected. Grass in pastures and meadows is growing nicely. Tobacco is rather poor, but shows some improvement, especially the late setting.—Georgetown News.

Winchester had a good court Monday, says the Democrat. About 150 cattle on the market and most of them sold. There was a good demand and as most of them were sold by the head, some extremely high prices were paid per pound when they were weighed; a lot of 700 pound yearlings were found to have cost 4½ cents when weighed. Considerable talk during the day concerning the price of export cattle this fall. Feeders stood firm for 5 cents, but buyers could not see it in that light; 4½ cents would probably have been offered for first class cattle but none were sold.

FOMR GALALTIN COUNTY.

Independent

Squire Hugh Montgomery, who was seriously hurt Tursday of last week, by being thrown out of his buggy near Sugar Creek, is rapidly improving with every indication of his recovery.

Considerable complaint is being made about residents of the town turning out horses, hogs and cows on the streets at night, and the town marshal intends to impound the stock and make several pay a fine to break up the practice.

Monday afternoon a very heavy rain fell in this immediate locality which was accompanied by a strong wind. The land on the hillsides was washed greatly, and considerable growing tobacco and other crops were damaged by the mud washing over them. The wind blowed down the corn, oats, and other crops to a damaging extent.

FROM CARROLL COUNTY.

[News]

The Barker Tobacco Co. has received between three and four million pounds of tobacco this season. Mr. Barker made over a thousand contracts and states that the tobacco fell short in weight about 15 per cent. He thinks this year's acreage is only about 20 per cent. less than the average, and that it is very probable that as most of it was set late and will not ripen under the hot suns of August, as it did last year, that it will have more body and may possibly weigh out almost, if not quite, an average crop.

Heavy rains fell in nearly all parts of Carroll county Monday, and in some places above the river washed land badly.

Some thief took 12 lambs from the pasture of Mrs. Augusta Ohne near Ghent, recently.

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

Our old friend Harvey Lillard brought to the Courier office on Tuesday morning a bunch of wheat heads that are hard to beat for size and the number of grains to the head. The heads were grown on the farm of John Marksberry and are eight inches long with from 20 to 26 meshes to the head and 4 grains to the mesh, making an average of about 70 grains to the head.

The Primitive Baptist church was dedicated on last Sunday according to program. In spite of the excessively hot weather a very large crowd was present. The dedicatory sermon was preached by Elder Wm. Yeoman, of Ohio. Elder Archie Brown, of Indiana,——Potter, of Ohio, and R. R. Gilbert, were also present and assisted in the services. After the sermons a collection was taken to assist in paying the indebtedness of the church.

This has been the greatest year in a generation for the honey bees and all of our citizens with large apiaries are reaping a rich harvest. Worster Tanner, on Coopertown creek, has about 100 colonies and they are making him more than a 100 pounds of honey each day.

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[News]

Tobacco will be short of last year about 35 per cent.

The grand jury adjourned last Saturday after a weeks session and reported 12 indictments.

Kirby Smith, son of Jno. V. Smith, living near Cleveland, died of over heat last Monday.

Tom and Frank Burford sold to John T. Vest and G. W. O'Banion their crop of tobacco for 11c all round, bringing them the neat sum of $1,000.

The wheat crop throughout the county is all harvested and the farmers generally are very much pleased with the crop. The grain is extra good and the yield will be a good one.

The rain Monday was the hardest that has fallen during the year. For one hour it poured down, the total fall being about three inches. It was pretty general throughout the county.

The practice of stealing or riding away horses on public days is becoming very common. There is not a public day now but what several farmers come up with horses and buggies missing. There will be an effort made to stop these fellows who either, intentionally steal, or mount some fellows' horse and ride it home and turn it loose.

The suit of Brumback vs Williams for $10,000 damage was tried last week and created no little interest. Brumback is the son-in-law of Williams and last fall his wife left him. Williams her father taking her away, after she having written to come and get her. Brumback sued asking damages to the amount above. Judgment was given for the defendant.

[Herald]

Luther Waldrop came from Illinois to Owenton, 241 miles, on his wheel without a puncture. Indeed he has never had a puncture during his four year's wheeling.

Willis Meadows, colored, was struck by lightning and killed while plowing in the field. He had taken the horse from the plow and was preparing to go to the house when a bolt struck a tree near by, killing him and the horse.

A horse belonging to P. L. Jones was overcome by the heat Tuesday and lock-jaw ensued. Col. Allen prescribed in the case and a cure was effected.

This Space Belongs to
IRA AYLOR,
Erlanger, Kentucky,
who is too busy
Selling Goods Cheap
to Write an Ad.

C. W. ROBINSON,
DEALER IN
Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,
ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,
Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.
GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.
Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.
FRY & REIB,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of
Marble & Granite Monuments
HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,
109 Pike Sreet, COVINGTON, K.
Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. Designs Furnished Upon Application.

QUARTERLY REPORT

Of the Bank of Petersburg at the close of business on the 30 day of June, '97:

RESOURCES:

Loans and Discounts		$ 6,529 01
Overdrafts, secured		1,423 47
Due from National Banks		2,322 32
Other Real Estate not in Ky		5,483 52
Mortgages		6,000 00
Other Stocks and Bonds		17,750 00
Specie	$ 147 31
Currency	437 00	584 31
Furniture and Fixtures		1,300 00
Current Expenses,		271 55
		$41,664 18

LIABILITIES:

Capital Stock paid in, in cash	$25.000 00
Undivided Profits	384 52
Due Depositors	11,279 66
Time certificates of deposit (on which 5 per cent. interest is paid	5,000 00
Capital Stock not paid in	$25.000 00
	$41,664 18

State of Ky., County of Boone } ss.

Pres't, of the Bank of Petersburg, a bank located and doing business in the town of Petersburg in said county, being duly sworn, says that the foregoing report is in all respects a true statement of the condition of the said bank, at the close of business June, 30th, 1897, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and further says that the business of said bank has been transacted at the location named, and not elsewhere; and that the above report is made in compliance with an official notice received from the Secretary of State, designating June 30, 1897, as the day on which such report shall be made. Wm. Appleton President.
Ernest L. Grant, Director.
J. M. Lassing, "
Solon Early, "

Subscribed and sworn to before me by Wm. Appleton, the 3d day of July, 1897. Ernest L. Grant, N. P. B. C.
(Commission expires at close of next regular session of Senate.)

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Elijah Parker's Assignee, Plff.
vs.
Elijah Parker, &c., Deft.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 17th day of July, 1897, at the Circuit clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the aboved styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 3d day of August, 1897. All persons having claims against Elijah Parker's estate will present them to me properly proven as by law required.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U.S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A.SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

NOTICE.

All persons holding claims against F. A. Tanner are hereby notified that they must present them to me at once proven as by law required, those owing same will please come forward and settle at once.

W. A. TANNER, Adm'r.

Take the Recorder, $1.50 a year.

QUARTERLY REPORT

Of the Boone County Deposit Bank at the close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897.

RESOURCES:

Loans and Discounts	$46,383 58
Overdrafts unsecured
Due from National Banks	47,610 74
Banking House & lot	1,221 16
Mortgages	23,500 00
Cash	6,193 46
Furniture and Fixtures	2,078 84
	$126,996 78

LIABILITIES:

Capital Stock paid in, in cash	$30,020 00
Surplus Fund	10,000 00
Undivided Profits	1,383 34
Due Depositors	70,334 24
Unpaid Dividends	5,659 20
	$126,996 78

State of Ky., County of Boone } ss.

Jo C. Revill, cashier of Boone Co. Deposit Bank, a Bank located and doing business in the town of Burlington, in said county, being duly sworn, says that the foregoing report is in all respects a true statement of the condition of the said Bank, at the close of business on the 30th day of June, 1897, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and further says that the business of said Bank has been transacted at the location named, and not elsewhere; and that the above report is made in compliance with an official notice received from the Secretary of State designating the 30th day of June, 1897, as the day on which report shall be made.

Jo C. Revill, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me by Jo C. Revill, the 1st day of July, 1897. J. M. Lassing, N. P. B. C.
Commission expires Feb. 10, 1898.
Jo C. Revill, Director.
F. Riddell, "
M. T. Garuett "

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.

Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.

East Bound.

Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m. 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown... 7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m

West Bound.

Lve. Georgetown... 10:40 a m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort..... 11:56 a. m 7:20 p. m

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt. Frankfort, Ky.

H. S. STEVENSON.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
DENTIST.
Prices Consistent with Good Service Only.
OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

RUGBY
PREPARATORY : SCHOOL
FOR BOYS,
Covington, - - Kentucky.
Thorough Preparation for Scientific School, College or Business, Military Training.
Limited Number of Boarders Desired.
Excellent Building.
Home Influence and Comforts.
Twelth Year. NEXT TERM BEGINS Sept'r, 15th, 1897.
For catalogue and special information Address,
K. J. MORRIS, A. M. Prin.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.
Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.

FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE : ME : A : CALL.

NOTICE.

The Refreshment Stand and other privileges of the Harvest Home, which will be held Saturday August 21, 1897, will be rented to the highest bidder at the Harvest Home grounds on Saturday, August 7th. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. Renting will take place at 1 p. m.

WM. GOODRIDGE, President.

Administrator's Notice.

Those indebted to the estate of Benj. Rice, deceased, must come forward and settle at once, and those having claims against said estate must present the same at once proven according to law.

B. P. RICE, Adm'r.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY made. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn St., Chicago.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JULY 21, 1897. NO. 39.

A REGIMENT of Ohio soldiers are encamped at the Ludlow Lagoon.

THE tariff bill is expected to become a law by the last of this week.

BUSINESS is looking up—the demand for spring chickens has improved.

THE shortage of the foreign wheat crop is expected to advance the prices in this country.

IN one day last week mobs put to death three brutes for assailing women. One in each Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama.

THE political outlook in Ohio is worrying Senator Hanna, and he has become so irritable that he uses "cuss words" on the slightest provocation.

SOME of the delegates at the Bolt-ocrat convention, last week, wore McKinley buttons, and still they had the gall to call themselves Democrats.

OF the deputies appointed by Marshal James, two are negroes and one a Democrat. These appointments have occasioned considerable dissatisfaction.

GOV. BRADLEY and John W. Yerkes have been in consultation in Lexington, and the Debocites are wondering what trick they are trying to turn now.

THE manner of selecting a Democratic nominee for the legislature is being discussed throughout the county, but as to what plan is preferable is yet a question.

THE heretofore officeseeking, silk hat, kid glove element of the Democratic party in this State lined up nearly its entire force at Louisville, last Wednesday.

D. B. HILL has not succeeded in learning "where he is at," yet. He is too great a man, in his mind, to affiliate with any of the political parties, and is roosting all by himself.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE went under the Log Cabin last fall, and was so pleased with it that he wanted all the Boltocrats to take refuge there in the State campaign that is now shaping.

THE reported finds of very rich gold mines in Alaska is causing considerable excitement among the miners in the West, and a great many are preparing to go to the new Eldorado.

SOME fellow in the Boltocrat convention at Louisville yelled for Bryan, which was a display of bad taste. When in the presence of the dead a person ought to be respectful enough to keep quiet.

THAT speaker in the Louisville convention, last week, who said, in substance, that he was addressing an army of generals, should have added, "and an army of generals was never known to win a battle."

THE delegates to the Louisville convention, last week, did a vast amount of bragging for members of a political organization that could not carry a State, county, town nor precinct in the United States, last fall.

THE Frankfort Capital divides the Republican party in Kentucky into two classes One class it calls "decent Republicans," but it has not been able to find a name that indicates the cussedness of the other class.

THE convention of have-beens held at Louisville last Wednesday contained no delegates from Boone or Gallatin county, while only twenty-four of the one hundred and fifty delegates to which the Sixth Congressional District was entitled, answered to roll call.

THE convention of leaders without a party met per announcement at Louisville, last Wednesday, and nominated ex-Lieutenant Governor Hindman for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. When the returns come in from the November election it will be seen how appropriate their candidate's name is.

THE Louisville Post announces that the Republicans will soon take the National Democrats into camp. As the Post has been on the inside all the time it ought to know whereof it speaks. The Post also intimates that the Courier-Journal received $150,000 for its fight against the Democratic nominee for the Presidency, last fall. The Post ought to be good authority on that also.

THE members of the Boone county Democratic Executive Committee are hereby notified that a meeting of said committee will be held in my office in Burlington at 2 p. m., on Monday the 2d day of August, and each member is earnestly requested to be in attendance.

D. E. CASTLEMAN, Chairman.

A SARDONIC smile crept over Mr. Cleveland's face when he discovered that Henry Watterson was the chairman of the Committee on Resolutions that gave him such a ringing endorsement in the Louisville convention. But Mr. Cleveland has learned, long since, that Mr. Watterson does not consider himself bound by any of his own expressions.

THE Evening Post, of Louisville says of the sound money (?) Democrats: "Last year we all contributed directly or indirectly to the election of McKinley." Having made the above confession the Post tries to give a worthless excuse for the assistance rendered the Republicans, and then declares that they (the bolters) were delivered bound to the growing and grasping money power. Millions of Democrats knew to whom the bolters were being delivered at the time.

THE Globe Printing Co. has moved its outfit from Verona to Florence, and now prints the Boone County Banner, the first copy of which was issued from the home office last week, and is a very creditable number, both as to typography and press work. Bro. Lentz supposed that last week's issue of the Banner was the first regular paper ever printed entirely in the county. Bro. Lentz is mistaken in that, as the Advertiser was wholy printed in Burlington for many years, while the RECORDER was entirely home print for several years at first.

IN his speech at Louisville, last week, Mr. Carlisle took advantage of the occasion to tell his hearers that they recognized the decree of no king causus, &c., or, in other words, they were not bound by the action of party conventions—that they are party disorganizers. It has not been many years since Mr. Carlisle was the Democratic nominee for Congress in this district, and while the Democrats did not vote against him, but failed to go to the polls in his behalf, he thought them guilty of a breach of party fealty in not rallying to his support as the nominee. He believed in party organization at that time, but then he was recognized as a leader and was the one above all others that was to be benefitted by obedience to the will of king caucus.

HAD the gold-bugs decided to fuse with the Republicans in the race for Clerk of the Court of Appeals there would have been a lively scramble for the nomination by the Louisville convention; but as soon as it was discovered there would be no fusion the visions of success vanished and of the several candidates only one could be found who would accept the empty honor of the nomination and permit himself made a living sacrifice to the golden calf. Had the fusion proposition prevailed the scramble for the nomination the convention had to make would have been equal to that of any other like political assemblage, and those pure-minded, dignified gentlemen composing the body would have been compelled to leave the hall, or take part in the political tricks in which many of them have long been recognized as adepts.

THE Senators do not enjoy being snubbed by Mr. McKinley any more than they did being snubbed by Cleveland, as they have very plainly shown in their private talk to each other since it became known that Mr. McKinley had decided not to furnish the Senate with the correspondence with Great Britain relating to the Seal fisheries, asked for in a Senate resolution unanimously adopted nearly two months ago. Copies of the correspondence have been prepared, but this week it was decided not to send it to the Senate, on the ground that it would be incompatible with the public interests to do so. As an additional reason for not complying with the respectful request of the Senate, officials say it was feared that a publication of the correspondence might result in making the English mad. Probably the uniqueness of this excuse is expected to make up for its lack of plain, everyday common sense. Meanwhile the administration has made public its instructions to Ambassador Hay, which charge the government of Great Britain with trickery.

[Blue Grass Clipper]

Things look blue for this year's Kentucky school fund. It has been discovered that the fund is bound to be not only greatly reduced, but may be nearly wiped out should the courts decide that it must at once pay back all the money it has received and was not entitled to in the past three or four years. Of the big taxes paid by the banks during the long years they have paid seventy-five cents to State in lieu of all other taxes, the law has been so construed that the school fund received nearly half.

